College of Communication

2015-2016 Updates

Majors: Communication Studies, Communication and Media, Intercultural Communication, Journalism, Media and Cinema Studies, Organizational Communication, Public Relations and Advertising, Relational Communication.

Combined Bachelor’s/Master’s Degree Programs: Digital Communication and Media Arts, Health Communication, Journalism, Media and Cinema Studies, Organizational and Multicultural Communication, Public Relations and Advertising, Relational Communication.

Students may pursue any combination of the available undergraduate majors and available combined master’s degree programs.

New Curricular Requirement for Autumn 2015: CMN 104 Public Speaking is now required for all majors! Most community colleges offer an equivalent.

Student Organizations: AdVentors, DePaul Documentary Project, Discussion and Debate Society, Lambda Pi Eta, Public Relations Student Society of America, Society of Professional Journalists, Radio DePaul, the DePaulia, Good Day DePaul.

College of Communication Internship Program: Students can pursue an internship for course credit through the College of Communication internship program, dedicated only to College of Communication majors and minors. 45% of 2012-2013 graduating seniors completed at least one academic internship.

Career Outcomes for Graduating Glass of 2013 (most recent class surveyed)

- 89% of bachelor’s degree recipients were employed and/or in graduate school within six months of degree completion.
- Average salary is $37,689
- Employment by industry/sector: Service (82%), Nonprofit (12%), Manufacturing (4%), Government (3%).
- Public Relations and Advertising and Communication and Media majors saw a 9 percent increase over 2012. Journalism was down compared to 2012, but Journalism majors who landed full-time jobs reported an increase in relatedness to degree (89%).