GENERAL INFORMATION

DePaul University, founded on Judeo-Christian principles, continues to assert the relevance of these principles through higher education to our students. The University expresses these principles especially by passing on the heritage of St. Vincent DePaul: individual perfection manifested through purposeful involvement with other persons, communities and institutions. The School of Education manifests these principles in its purpose, and through its programs.

As an urban institution, the School of Education is committed to improving primary and secondary education in the metropolitan area and, in particular, in the city of Chicago. Framed within a commitment to promote and support diversity, the School of Education prepares all of its students to be "Urban Professional Multicultural Educators" who:

- Promote positive transformation
- Consider multiple perspectives
- Integrate inquiry, theory, and practice
- Exhibit Vincentian personalism
- Function as life long learners.

SCHOOL OF EDUCATION DEPARTMENTS

DEPARTMENT OF LEADERSHIP IN EDUCATION, LANGUAGE, AND HUMAN SERVICES

The Department of Leadership in Education, Language and Human Services is a multidisciplinary academic body that aims to fully prepare urban multicultural professional practitioners and leaders to work in a variety of educational and community settings. Practitioners who complete a course of study offered by our department will contribute to their respective fields, balance theory with practice, consider multiple points of view in decision making, promote positive transformations in the settings in which they are engaged, and continue to function as life long learners. The practitioner’s professional role is shaped by ongoing reflection and positive engagement with the individual, the community, and the larger sociopolitical realities. The preparation we offer practitioners demonstrates our commitment to social justice, critical pedagogy, and positive educational transformation. The disciplines in the Department address these themes from a variety of perspectives that include language and culture, curriculum theory and development, special education and other specialized instruction, human services and counseling, and educational leadership in administration and supervision.

The following graduate programs are offered at Lincoln Park:

- M.A or M.Ed. in Bilingual Bicultural Education
- M.A or M.Ed. in Curriculum Studies
- M.A or M.Ed. in Educational Leadership
- M.A or M.Ed. in Human Services and Counseling
- M.A or M.Ed. Language, Literacy, and Specialized Instruction

A doctoral program, Ed.D. degree, with concentrations in Curriculum Studies and Educational Leadership is offered by the School of Education and administered jointly across departments.

DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATIONAL POLICY STUDIES AND RESEARCH

The Department of Educational Policy Studies and Research (EPSR) studies the complex dynamic interplay between the individual, society, and sociocultural processes that unfold in multiple educational contexts. It offers courses examining educational theories, institutions, practices, policies, and human development across the life span, and issues in educational research. EPSR represents the foundational disciplines of history, philosophy, psychology, sociology and human development as they are related to the study of education. It also considers debates about investigative methodology in education, and the contribution of research to the understanding of educational and social problems. Accordingly, its courses examine questions of disciplined inquiry, theoretical discourse, educational and social development, inequality, economic and political change, and cultural identity in relation to formal and informal education, in schools and related settings. The study of these issues is informed by an ethical disposition that features a critical examination of assumptions regarding norms and standards, and the quest for social justice. The Department provides disciplinary and research course work for students in other programs of the School, while also preparing students from EPSR for positions in, for example, government, service organizations, private foundations and institutes, adult education and training, cultural organizations, as well as for doctoral work in educational policy studies for a university teaching and research career.

The Department is the home of the School of Education’s DePaul Institute for Teacher Development and Research, directed by EPSR faculty. The Institute’s focus is the quality of teacher’s work life, professionalism, the impact of high stakes testing and standards on teaching and learning, the social context of urban schools, and issues of equity and social justice. The Institute focuses on these issues with the goal of contributing to teacher development, research, and policy to improve urban schools. A defining feature of the Institute is its partnership with community-based organizations and organizations of teachers whose perspectives are generally excluded from policy-making decisions about urban schools. Three interrelated core activities define the Institute's work: continuing professional development, research, and policy.

In addition, the following graduate program is offered at Lincoln Park:

- M.A in Social and Cultural Foundations in Education

DEPARTMENT OF TEACHER EDUCATION

The Department of Teacher Education prepares Urban Professional Multicultural Educators through an integrated program of courses and field experiences. Programs offered are designed for the preparation of future educators. The programs of study center around our commitment to excellence in teaching in today's diverse society through the investigation of significant educational issues, inquiry into student learning and effective teaching practices, and the use of technology in teaching and learning. We engage teacher candidates in critical reflection upon their practice throughout the program. We foster engagement in schools through our Professional Development Schools and other school and agency affiliations. Upon completion of the program, teacher candidates measure themselves against the values of our guiding conceptual framework through the completion of professional portfolios. Values that are part of this framework include: commitment to social justice, critical pedagogy, and positive educational transformation within the context of a Vincentian personalism that honors the dignity of each person.

The following programs are offered at the Lincoln Park campus:
- M.A or M.Ed. in Early Childhood Education
- M.A or M.Ed. in Elementary Education (also offered at the Naperville campus)
- M.A or M.Ed. in Secondary Education: Biology, Chemistry, English, Geography, History, Mathematics, Modern Languages, Social Science, Physics and Visual Arts.

ADMISSION REQUIREMENTS

Applicants to master's degree programs must have a bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university. Applicants to the doctoral program must have a master's degree from an accredited college or university. Please consult specific programs for admission requirements.

PROGRAM REQUIREMENTS

Master's programs require a minimum of 52 quarter hours of coursework, depending on degree and concentration. Completion of a thesis and an oral defense before a committee of three faculty members leads to a Master of Arts degree. The Master of Education degree requires two 20-25 page papers related to coursework; one reviews literature in an area of interest and the other is an integrative paper relating theory and practice. Both papers are supervised by a faculty member. Consult the Thesis and Masters Papers Handbook for details. The Teaching and Learning program requires no additional research for a Master of Education degree.

The doctoral program requires a minimum of 68 quarter hours of coursework. Completion of a dissertation and an oral defense before a committee of three faculty members leads to a Doctor of Education degree. Consult the Ed.D. handbook for additional details.

CERTIFICATION

The School of Education offers approved programs for State of Illinois certification in six areas of study. This means students may be eligible for the following certificates upon completion of the respective programs:

Type 03 Elementary (K-9) Teaching
Type 04 Early Childhood Education
Type 09 Secondary (6-12) Teaching
Type 10 Special (K-12): Learning and Behavioral Specialist I
Type 10 Special (K-12): Reading Specialist
Type 73 School Service Personnel Certificate: School Counseling
Type 75 Administrative Certificate: General Administrative Endorsement
Type 75 Administrative Certificate: Superintendent Endorsement
Please note that state certificates include requirements beyond program requirements. For Type 03, 04, and 09 certificates three tests are required: a test of basic skills, a test of subject matter knowledge, and a test of professional teaching knowledge and skills. For Type 10, 73, and 75 certificates a test of content area knowledge is required. The tests are given by the State of Illinois at regularly scheduled times each year. Students are advised to confer with program faculty or the academic advisors for further information.

Certification is not automatic upon completion of a program. The student must apply. Forms and procedural information are available in the School of Education.

Timeliness is important. Ordinarily, only graduate work completed within the past ten years is acceptable for purposes of applying courses for certification requirements. If the degree was granted more than ten years past, the Assistant Dean in consultation with program faculty may grant a recommendation for certification upon the successful completion of appropriate courses and/or comprehensive examinations in the program. In all instances current certification requirements must be met.

All certification and endorsement requirements are subject to change based on Illinois State Board of Education modifications in requirements.

PROBATION AND DISMISSAL

Students who are accepted unconditionally into the program are subject to probation if their GPA falls below 3.0. The student remains on probation until four additional courses are taken at which time a new evaluation is done. If at that time the GPA is raised to 3.0 the probationary status will be removed. If, however, the GPA is not raised to 3.0 the student will be dismissed for poor scholarship and prohibited from registering for additional coursework.

A student who has been dismissed may, after a period of time, petition the Dean of the School of Education for reinstatement. The petition must provide information that would demonstrate a change in the student’s circumstances that would support the reasonable possibility for successful completion of the program. The Dean’s decision, after consultation with the faculty in the student’s program, if favorable, may stipulate conditions of reinstatement.

READMISSION AND PROGRAM COMPLETION

Students who have not taken classes for one year or more must reapply for admission. Depending on the length of time the student has stopped out, repetition of courses or additional courses may be required by the department or program. In all cases, the student is bound by the program requirements in force at the time of readmission.

Timely completion of a program is important. Students are allowed seven years to complete the graduate degree. A petition in writing for a one-year extension may be approved by the department or program.

GRADUATION REQUIREMENTS

Students must meet all requirements listed below for graduation. For master's programs, all work, including M.A. thesis or M.Ed. papers and induction courses must be completed before the student may participate in the commencement exercises. For the doctoral programs, all work, including the dissertation, must be completed before the student may participate in the commencement exercises.

- Completion of all required coursework
- Completion of M.A. thesis, M.Ed. papers, or doctoral dissertation
- Cumulative GPA for coursework of 3.0. (No more than two grades of C can be accepted, and then only if there are corresponding grades of higher value to produce a GPA of 3.0.)
GRADUATION WITH DISTINCTION

Advanced Master's Degree Programs
- Completion of all coursework with a cumulative GPA of 3.75 and no grade below a B-, and
- Completion of M.A. thesis or M.Ed. papers “with distinction.”

Teaching and Learning Program
- Completion of all coursework with a cumulative GPA of 4.0

Please refer to Handbook for Graduate Studies in the Graduate Catalog for additional university requirements and deadlines.

DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATIONAL POLICY STUDIES AND RESEARCH

SOCIAL AND CULTURAL FOUNDATIONS IN EDUCATION PROGRAM

The Social and Cultural Foundations Program is committed to inquiry that examines the relationship of schooling, education, and educational policy to social justice and cultural democracy. The program is an interdisciplinary one, designed to appeal to students seeking alternatives to more specialized or technical programs of study in education. This program is designed to attract teachers, administrators, and individuals with bachelor's degrees who have broad interests in educational policy and who may not be professional educators. This program anticipates that students pursuing this degree will come from a variety of professional backgrounds involving different forms of educational work such as media, foundations, museums, community organizations, labor unions, higher education, K-12 schools, and other forms of educational work. Reasons for pursuing a Master of Arts in Social and Cultural Foundations in Education include personal and professional enhancement, research for private foundations, adult education and training, preparation for doctoral work for university teaching, careers in higher education, and others.

The program provides students the opportunity to study education, not only as schooling, but broadly as a dynamic cultural and political force that unfolds in a wide range of shifting and overlapping sites of learning. Students will consider education as a dynamic process that shapes social identities and social life as well as the learning of values and beliefs, all of which are central to how people make cognitive and emotional investments and act in the world. As such, education is a significant force in creating, maintaining, and challenging assumptions of neutrality and hierarchies of race, ethnicity, gender, class, and sexual difference. From this perspective, education is an indispensable tool for creating conditions for social justice and democratic life. In this context, students investigate the pedagogical and cultural conditions necessary for supporting the flourishing of human agency and the redefinition of human engagement in social life.

The EPSR faculty bring expertise from a variety of disciplines and fields within educational policy studies: the sociology of education, the history of education, the psychology of education and human development, critical pedagogy, cultural studies, feminist studies, urban studies, critical race studies, research methods and more. The faculty also has a diverse range of interests in areas such as globalization, social theory and social construction of knowledge, the role of education in the production of inequalities of race, gender, class, sexuality, and language, socially situated theories of learning and teaching, and the role of education in the construction of culture and social identities.

Given the interdisciplinary approach to the study of education of this degree program, students have the opportunity with the approval of their faculty advisor to take 24 hours of elective courses outside of the Social and Cultural Foundations in Education Program as well as the School of Education. Choices of electives include, but are not limited to, courses in departments and programs such as Communication, Philosophy, Women’s Studies, American Studies,
International Studies, Public Policy and Sociology

DEPARTMENT OF TEACHER EDUCATION

Teaching and Learning Program

The Teaching and Learning program prepares individuals for teaching careers in Early Childhood Education (Birth to grade 3), elementary (grades K-9) or secondary (grades 6-12) schools. The program is designed for college graduates with a Bachelor’s degree in a field other than education who now wish to become teachers. Students may seek secondary certification (6-12) in the following areas: computer science, English, geography, history, social science, mathematics, modern languages (French, German, Japanese, Italian, or Spanish), or science (biology, chemistry, or physics).

Students entering the program must be able and willing to devote themselves to a program requiring a minimum of 100 hours of daytime field experiences in schools. These school-based clinical hours are completed in conjunction with methodology courses that require students to spend a half-day each week in a school. In addition, the student must spend a minimum of 10 weeks in full-time student teaching.

The program includes five distinctive features: 1) Becoming a teacher is viewed as a developmental process continuing at least through the first year of teaching; 2) Multiculturalism is infused throughout the curriculum; 3) Field experiences are an integral part of the curriculum; 4) Students are exposed to a variety of educational theories; 5) The program includes a research component as a basis for further professional development.

Students lacking undergraduate requirements in general education necessary for Illinois State Certification will have to complete those requirements. An academic advisor will guide candidates in planning their completion.

The program is completed in several phases: coursework, student teaching, certification, teaching (along with induction courses), and master’s completion. As a requirement of the degree, students must take the induction courses during the first year of teaching. The induction courses not only provide critical support to beginning teachers but are an important component of beginning teachers’ professional development.

DePaul/Glenview Clinical Model Teacher Preparation Program

The Clinical Model Program is a collaboration between DePaul University and Glenview District 34 that provides a three-year sequence in which candidates earn an elementary teaching certificate and a master's degree in Teaching and Learning. Candidates participate in the Glenview Public School District as an intern for the first year and as a resident teacher for the following two years. Participants enroll in summer courses and evening courses during the school year. Tuition is paid by the Glenview School District, and participants receive a stipend of approximately $10,000 during the internship year, and approximately $20,000 respectively, during resident 1 and resident 2 year. Candidates must be accepted to DePaul's Graduate School of Education prior to applying to this program. Clinical Model information may be obtained by calling Roxanne Owens (773-325-4329). Program begins annually in June. See website or call for deadline dates (generally late February).

Grade Requirements for All Concentrations

- To receive graduate credit for an upper-level undergraduate course a grade of B- or better must be attained.
- A grade of D+, or D is unacceptable for graduate credit in this program, and if earned in a required course must be repeated or substituted as directed by the department or program. Such grades remain on the academic record and are calculated into the cumulative GPA.

Requirements for Student Teaching

All graduate students in teacher preparation programs must provide evidence of the following requirements for academic approval to student teach:

- Completion of all general education requirements
- Completion of all education courses with no more than 2 Cs
- Completion of all content or concentration area coursework
- Completion of Introduction, Social and Cultural Foundations, Theory and Practice and Early Childhood Studies (ECE only) courses
- Cumulative G.P.A. of 3.0 or better
- Meet designated program standards
- Pass the relevant Illinois Content Area (Subject Matter) Test

Once a student has received academic approval for student teaching, the following additional evidence is required:

- Completion of all required field experiences (minimum of 100 hrs of supervised contact with students)
- Three satisfactory evaluations in field experiences
- Three satisfactory faculty recommendations

State Test Requirements

The Illinois State Board of Education requires that a candidate for certification pass three tests:

- Test of Basic Skills
- Test of Content Area Knowledge
- Assessment of Professional Teaching

Passage of the basic skills test is also a requirement for admission into the School of Education. Passage of the content area knowledge test is also a requirement for approval to student teach. The Assessment of Professional Teaching is required for state certification.

Middle School Endorsement Requirements

According to State of Illinois certification guidelines, both Elementary and Secondary education students who wish to teach in a departmentalized middle school setting (grades 5-8) must meet three criteria:

- Complete at least 18 semester hours in a content area that is taught in middle grades. All secondary education majors have at least one content area based on their secondary education requirements. Most elementary education majors will have at least one content area based on their concentration requirements. We strongly recommend that you speak with your advisor about possible endorsement areas at your initial advising appointment.

- Complete at least 3 semester hours in middle school methodology. All students have met this requirement through the DePaul education courses. No additional course work is needed to meet this requirement.
- Complete a course in middle school philosophy and/or psychology. This course, SCG 439, Philosophy & Psychology of Middle Level Education, is an additional course in the program. If SCG 439 is added, it is strongly recommended that it be completed prior to student teaching.

Middle school endorsements are only applicable to Elementary and Secondary Education students. Students who do not choose to earn a middle school endorsement will generally be restricted in the grade levels they can teach. Elementary education majors will normally be eligible to teach in K to 4 only; Secondary education majors will be eligible to teach in grades 9 to 12 only.

All certification and endorsement requirements are subject to change based on Illinois State Board of Education modifications in requirements.

DOCTOR OF EDUCATION PROGRAM

The primary, though perhaps not the only audience for this Ed.D. program consists of educational professionals who wish to improve the quality of their work in their current roles or to prepare themselves for new roles. This Ed.D. program is uniquely designed to link theory with practice and is not based on traditional assumptions about the relationships of theory with practice or on conventional notions about the status of practitioners and theorists. To be a practitioner is to make decisions about what to do and to take action; but professional practitioners — in education as in other areas — make reasonable decisions and act responsibly and ethically in the light of theoretical and professional knowledge.

- Professional educators are leaders as well as managers; they are not limited to making decisions according to rule or “by the book.” They must use discretion and judgment as they seek to find the most defensible course of action in specific, complicated, and perhaps idiosyncratic circumstances. These situations are not merely instances of abstract concepts.
- Although decisions are made in the light of theoretical knowledge, theoretical knowledge cannot be applied to practice in the same way as principles are applied to cases. No single theory is able to encompass the complexities of all aspects of learning or schooling. Professional educators understand the principles and terms that characterize and limit a variety of theories and can select amongst them in order to better understand the situations in which they are involved.
- Decisions also are made in the light of professional knowledge, learned on the job as well as from more formal sources. Professional educators can articulate the informal, often tacit knowledge that they develop from practice so that it engages with and modifies the more formal theories learned from other sources.
- Professional educators not only make decisions, they act upon them responsibly. They examine the value commitments implicit in their actions; they question the appropriateness of the ends that they seek; they connect their educational contexts to broader social contexts; and they assess the effects of their actions on the achievements, dispositions, and propensities of students, colleagues and community members.

Degree Program
- Doctor of Education (Ed.D.)

Concentrations
- Curriculum Studies
- Educational Leadership

Certification
• Type 75-Superintendent Endorsement (available in the Educational Leadership Concentration)

Admission Requirements
Candidates must provide evidence that they:
• Possess a Master’s Degree from an accredited institution
• Have experience in an educational role
• Have demonstrated leadership or leadership potential
• Are willing and able to make the necessary commitment of time to the program
• Are likely to be successful in a challenging doctoral program
• Welcome the opportunity to interact with university faculty, peers, and colleagues in a search for effective answers to troubling problems in education

Admissions Process
The admissions process reflects and enacts the principles and values of the program regarding engagement, reflection, the exercise of agency, working for change, and a commitment to professional development and learning. The admissions process includes the following components.

• Attend an orientation session as part of the application process. This session covers the philosophical framework of the program, values, and expectations. Other activities to help potential applicants make an informed decision about applying include a dialog with current students and program faculty.

• Submit a written piece (approximately 3 pages), in the form of a personal statement, discussing why the applicant is interested in further study and articulating an issue or problem of interest or concern.

• Applicants invited for an interview will be asked to present a 2-3 page reflective response to an article given to the applicant at the time the interview is scheduled. Articles are selected by the Curriculum Studies, Educational Leadership, and Social and Cultural Studies Programs.

• Dialogue with two or three faculty members of the Ed.D. program — a conversation that will provide an opportunity for candidates to become familiar with the program and the faculty, as well as an opportunity for faculty members to get to know prospective candidates. Applicants living outside the Chicago area will engage in an appropriate, reciprocal substitute for this dialogue.

• Submit three letters of recommendation: one personal from someone outside of the immediate workplace, and two additional letters from colleagues, administrators, or supervisors

• Submit all transcripts of undergraduate and graduate work to document the nature of previous educational experiences, course work, and areas of specialization.

• A completed School of Education graduate application.

Students will be selected from the pool of qualified applicants by the Ed.D. Admissions Committee.
