Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.
Major Requirements

Declaration Requirements

To declare a major in Accountancy, a student must meet the following requirements:

- Completion of 28.0 hours at DePaul University
- The following courses must be completed with a minimum grade of C- and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher: ACC 101, ACC 102, BLW 201, ECO 105, ECO 106, MAT 135, MAT 136, and MAT 137

Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

Accountancy (BSB)/Accountancy (MACC)

The Five-Year Accountancy Program allows majors to complete a bachelor's degree and a Master of Accountancy (MACC) degree in five years. The graduate degree provides students with advanced skills in accounting in areas of high demand: internal audit, forensic accounting, and accounting information systems.

Admission Requirements

Current DePaul accountancy majors who meet the following criteria may apply to this program:

- Junior standing or higher (at least 88.0 credits)
- A minimum cumulative DePaul grade point average of 3.200
- A minimum Accountancy (ACC) grade point average of 3.000

Admission to the five year program does not require the GMAT, essays, or letters of recommendation. Students should apply for program admission while enrolled in ACC 305, 372, or 380.

Classes During Senior Year

In the five year program, students will take three graduate classes during the senior year. These three classes will count toward the bachelor's degree as indicated below. Students should note that requirements for graduate classes are more rigorous.
After Senior Year

After completion of ACC 545, 550, and 551 and the awarding of the BSB, students must petition for formal admission into the graduate school of business. The admission criteria are as follows:

- Completion of the Bachelor of Science in Business with a major in Accountancy
- A minimum cumulative DePaul grade point average of 3.200
- A minimum Accountancy (ACC) grade point average of 3.000

Students take nine additional graduate classes to complete the graduate degree, for a total of twelve graduate classes. Information on the MACC degree is found in the graduate catalog.

Accountancy (Minor: Business Students Only)

Students in the Driehaus College of Business who minor in Accountancy will acquire skills in analyzing, interpreting and communicating financial information to complement their major course of study.

- ACC 383 TAX TREATMENT OF CORPORATIONS AND PARTNERSHIPS
- ACC 398 SPECIAL TOPICS (with approval)
- ACC 399 INDEPENDENT STUDY
ACC 250 CAREER MANAGEMENT FOR ACCOUNTANTS may not be used toward minor requirements.

Finance Honors Program students who wish to minor in Accountancy should take ACC 307 FINANCIAL REPORTING I FOR FINANCE HONORS STUDENTS in lieu of ACC 304. ACC 309 FINANCIAL REPORTING II FOR FINANCE HONORS STUDENTS will satisfy an Accountancy Elective requirement for the minor.

Degree Conferral Requirements

All Accountancy (ACC) courses and any courses used toward the Accountancy minor must be completed with a minimum grade of C- and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.

Accountancy (Minor)

Available to students outside the Driehaus College of Business, the Accountancy minor is designed for those students seeking to acquire skills in analyzing, interpreting, and communicating financial information to complement their major course of study.

Declaration Requirements

To declare a minor in Accountancy, a non-Driehaus student must meet the following requirements:

- A minimum cumulative DePaul grade point average of 2.000
- A minimum Accountancy grade point average of 2.000
- No grade of IN, R, or lower than C- in any Accountancy (ACC) course
- Completion of one ACC course at DePaul

Students must meet the prerequisite course equivalency of pre-calculus (MAT 130) prior to taking the first course in the minor.

Course Requirements

A non-Driehaus student minoring in Accountancy is required to complete the following courses totaling at least 24.0 hours:

- Three required courses:
  - ACC 101 INTRODUCTION TO ACCOUNTING I

  - ACC 398 SPECIAL TOPICS (with approval)
  - ACC 399 INDEPENDENT STUDY

ACC 250 Career Management for Accountants may not be used toward minor requirements.

Degree Conferral Requirements

All Accountancy (ACC) courses and any courses used toward the Accountancy minor must be completed with a minimum grade of C- and with a combined GPA of 2.00 or higher.

Accountancy Honors (BSB)

The designation Strobel Scholar is reserved for students of exceptional ability, achievement, and motivation in the School of Accountancy and Management Information Systems' Strobel Honors Program. These students are characterized by outstanding academic records, high aptitudes for scholastic work, and reputations for leadership.

Special honors sections of accountancy courses are provided for Strobel Scholars every quarter as indicated in the quarterly class schedule. The content and structure of these honors sections are designed to appeal to the Strobel Scholar. Strobel Scholars proceed through the Program together, interacting with peers who have similar abilities. Learning and teaching concepts are advanced and student-oriented; small group activities and student presentations are used in honors sections. Students in the Strobel Scholars Program are expected to maintain high academic performance throughout the complete honors curriculum. Academic performance is reviewed at the end of each school year by the Administrator of the Strobel Scholars Program, Deloitte Professor John McEnroe. Outside speakers from the accounting and business communities are frequent visitors and participants.

The program is named after the late chair of the Accountancy Department, Eldred C. Strobel. Professor Strobel's distinguished career as an accounting educator spanned thirty-five years, fourteen of which were served as chair. Known for his support of innovative approaches to accounting education, he was the founder of the honors program, which now bears his name.

Admission to the Strobel Honors Program is by invitation only and is based on outstanding academic achievement in high school. Prior to being considered for the Strobel Honors Program, a student must be admitted to DePaul University and the Driehaus College of Business as a full-time, first-year, degree-seeking student.

Strobel Course Sections

The courses listed above must be taken as honors sections by students in the Strobel program. Strobel students take specially designated sections of all ACC classes, including ACC 101 and ACC 102.

Grade Standard

Strobel Honors students will face dismissal from the honors track if they receive a D or F in an honors accounting class or less than a B- in three honors accounting classes. This standard is designed to ensure that the academic... excellence that the designation engenders is maintained.

Finance Honors

Strobel Honors students who are also accepted into the Finance Honors Program are not required to take ACC 307 or ACC 309.

Open Electives

Open elective credit (6.0 hours) is needed to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Degree Conferral Requirements

All Accountancy (ACC) courses and any courses used toward the Accountancy major must be completed with a minimum grade of C- and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.

Students take nine additional graduate classes to complete the graduate degree, for a total of twelve graduate classes. Information on the MACC degree is found in the graduate catalog.
Acting (BFA)

The Theatre School's Bachelor of Fine Arts (BFA) degree in Acting prepares actors to work on both stage and screen. It develops actors who are imaginative, skillful, expressive and vibrantly alive. It is rooted in the Chicago tradition, emphasizing physicality, truth in action, communication, collaboration and spontaneity. The first year introduces the actor to a broad range of techniques and experiences, defines a way of working and provides a set of skills. The next three years focus on developing and refining this way of working - adding skills and technique - while helping each actor discover and apply those which work best for him or her.

Notes

Courses offered in the student’s primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student’s major and is cross-listed with a course within the student’s major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.

African and Black Diaspora Studies (BA)

The purpose of the African & Black Diaspora Studies Program is to provide DePaul students with a systematic, interdisciplinary, and integrated course of study of Africa & the Black Diaspora. The Program provides students with an opportunity to earn a Bachelor of Arts degree in African & Black Diaspora Studies with a concentration in Africa, Black America, and/or Afro-Caribbean and Latin America. African & Black Diaspora Studies will also train students in comparative analysis of regions (e.g., peoples, religions, philosophies) through an incorporation of the study of history, power, identity, gender, and race. The Program's offerings provide students with opportunities to learn about and develop expertise in the cultures, epistemologies, histories, sciences, and societies of Africans and peoples of African descent. The Program prepares students to pursue professions and careers that require a systematic knowledge of Africa and its Diaspora.

College Core Requirements

Study in the Major Field

The student's course of study in the College consists of three parts: Liberal Studies, the major field, and electives. Together these three parts contribute to the liberal education of the student which is the common purpose of all study in the College. By "liberal education" the College understands not only a deep and thorough knowledge of a particular area of study but a knowledge of the diverse areas of study represented by criticism, history, the arts, the behavioral and social sciences, philosophy, religious studies, the natural science, and mathematics.
The major field program generally is built upon a set of core courses and a specialized “concentration.” The number of courses required for a major varies by department. Most students go beyond the minimum requirements, electing additional courses which both broaden and deepen their understanding of their chosen discipline.

Because no academic major program is built in isolation, students are required to pursue a number of electives of the student’s choice. The inherent flexibility of this curriculum demands that the student consult an academic advisor at each stage in the total program and at least once prior to each registration. Students will be prompted to visit the College Office for their official graduation check early in their senior year.

Declaration of Major, Minor and Concentration

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor in the major field department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

Students must declare or change majors, minors, and concentrations, via Campus Connection. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the Office for Academic Advising Support.

Competence in Modern Language

All students will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language (i.e., a language other than English) equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in the fourth-year high school sequence of any language
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations or achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language, or achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program, or achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College will abide by this Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT, regardless of when they first matriculated at DePaul.

Students who have met the Modern Language Requirement and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the “Modern Language Option” of the Liberal Studies Program (see “Special Programs”).

External Credit and Residency

A student who has been admitted to the College begins residency within the college as of the first day of classes of the term in which the student is registered. Students in residence, whether attending on a full-time or part-time basis, may not take courses away from DePaul University without the written permission of the college. Permission must be obtained in advance of registration to avoid loss of credit or residency in the college; see the LAS website for more information.

Course Requirements

• ABD 100 INTRODUCTION TO AFRICAN AND THE BLACK DIASPORA STUDIES
• ABD 200 AFRICA: PEOPLES, CULTURES, IDEAS AND MOVEMENTS
• ABD 206 AFRO-CARIBBEAN AND AFRO-LATIN AMERICA: PEOPLES, CULTURES, IDEAS AND MOVEMENTS
• ABD 208 AFRICAN AMERICA: PEOPLES, CULTURES, IDEAS AND MOVEMENTS
• 6 Courses in an Area of Concentration
• 2 Major-Field Electives
• ABD 391 CAPSTONE

Core Courses

Students are required to complete four core courses (16-quarter hours). The core courses are designed to accomplish three goals: to introduce students to the goals of the Program; to emphasize the Vincentian tenet that questions of human value undergird scholarly inquiry; and to strengthen an understanding of the interrelationships and dynamics among and between Africa, the Caribbean and Latin America, and the United States.

Courses in an Area of Concentration

For this requirement, students must take six courses (24-quarter hours) at the 300 level which should focus on one region of the Black World: Africa, the Caribbean and Latin America, or the United States and its respective relation to other regions of the world. These six concentration courses are designed to provide students with a body of knowledge about a particular region of study. Students who wish to take a 200 level course in partial fulfillment of this requirement must petition the African and Black Diaspora Studies Program Steering Committee.
These courses build upon the general foundation of knowledge provided by the core courses and serve to augment and extend student knowledge about a particular region of Africa or the Black Diaspora and its relationship to other areas of the Program, and inquiry (culture, gender, history, power, and race) impact a specific region. These courses incorporate an explicit discussion of at least two of the five sites of inquiry into the syllabus.

The framework below outlines the kinds of courses that students will be required to take. To insure that students are exposed to a variety of methodological approaches, students will be required to take three courses in the social and behavioral sciences (anthropology, geography, history, international studies, psychology, political science, and sociology) and humanities (e.g., American studies, history of art and architecture, literature, Latin American & Latino studies, modern languages, music, philosophy, religious studies, and theatre). Each student, in consultation with his or her advisor, which is mandatory, will design a concentration that is attentive to comparative analysis.

Major Electives

Students in the Program will be able to take two courses as major field electives (eight-quarter hours). Such courses are designed to provide students with an opportunity to take courses related to their field of concentration in African and Black Diaspora Studies and at the same time extend their academic preparation through coursework in allied fields. The selection of electives will be done in consultation with the student's academic advisor.

Capstone

This senior seminar (four quarter hours) engages students in a synthesis of what they have learned through coursework. The capstone course will involve reading, writing, discussion, as well as the preparation by students a substantive piece of work (e.g., a senior thesis, a research paper, or a creative work).

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

---

African and Black Diaspora Studies (Minor)

A minor concentration in African and Black Diaspora studies provides students with a general knowledge about Africa and the movement of its people throughout the world.

Course Requirements

- ABD 100 INTRODUCTION TO AFRICAN AND THE BLACK DIASPORA STUDIES
- One course from the following list:
  - ABD 200 AFRICA: PEOPLES, CULTURES, IDEAS AND MOVEMENTS
  - ABD 206 AFRO-CARIBBEAN AND AFRO-LATIN AMERICA: PEOPLES, CULTURES, IDEAS AND MOVEMENTS
  - ABD 208 AFRICAN AMERICA: PEOPLES, CULTURES, IDEAS AND MOVEMENTS
- One 300 level course in an area of concentration
- One course from the following list:
  - ABD 391 CAPSTONE
  - Approved field elective
- Two ABD electives

Students majoring in African and Black Diaspora Studies (BA) are restricted from earning this minor.
Allied Health Technologies (BS)

If you are interested in the technological aspects of biosciences, DePaul's Allied Health Technologies program will provide you with a strong foundation in biology, chemistry and physics with a specific focus on scientific technology.

As an Allied Health Technologies student, you will take courses in

- Biology
- Chemistry
- Mathematics
- Physics

College Core Requirements

Modern Language Requirements

Students who intend to graduate with the Bachelor of Arts (B.A.) Degree will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in the fourth-year high school sequence of any language
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Science and Health will abide by the College of Science and Health Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.

B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program. While Bachelor of Science (B.S.) students are not required to demonstrate competency in a modern language, the "Modern Language Option" is available to them for language study at any level.

Major Declaration Requirements

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. After researching College programs, the student should declare a major field by visiting Campus Connection and using the Declarations and Inter-College Transfer tool. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor or staff advisor in the department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

To change major fields, or to declare a minor or concentration, the student must use the Declarations and Inter-College Transfer tool described above. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major

- CHE 234 ORGANIC CHEMISTRY III and CHE 235 ORGANIC CHEMISTRY LABORATORY III

First-year chemistry courses should be taken simultaneously with BIO 191, BIO 192, and BIO 193.

Physics
Students may take any comparable sequences of Physics courses designed for science majors.

Mathematics

Choose one of the following three course Calculus sequences

- Sequence One
  - MAT 150 CALCULUS I
  - MAT 151 CALCULUS II

- Sequence Two
  - MAT 147 CALCULUS WITH INTEGRATED PRECALCULUS I
  - MAT 148 CALCULUS WITH INTEGRATED PRECALCULUS II

- Sequence Three
  - MAT 160 CALCULUS FOR MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE MAJORS I
  - MAT 161 CALCULUS FOR MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE MAJORS II

- Sequence Four
  - MAT 170 CALCULUS I WITH SCIENTIFIC APPLICATIONS
  - MAT 171 CALCULUS II WITH SCIENTIFIC APPLICATIONS

Students may be advised on the basis of their performance on the Mathematics Diagnostic test to take one or more pre-calculus courses.

Concentration Requirements

Students must also complete the requirements from one of the following two concentrations: Clinical Laboratory Sciences or Nuclear Medicine Technology or Radiation Therapy. Students are limited to only declaring one concentration.

Sequencing

Since programs in the Biological Sciences tend to be structured, it is useful for students to take courses in sequence. Students should begin with the General Biology and Chemistry sequences. These are prerequisite to Cell Biology, Genetics, and Organic Chemistry, which should preferably be taken in the sophomore year. Since calculus is required, students should also begin their study of mathematics as soon as possible, preferably prior to their junior year, so that they can be adequately prepared for the General Physics sequence, best taken in the junior year. Because of this highly structured sequence, students are strongly encouraged to work with their Program Director in order to plan their course schedules and plan alternatives if necessary. Such planning is particularly important for transfer students, as the sequence presented above is highly recommended and most likely to be completed in a timely fashion.

The predominance of chemistry and biology sequences in the freshman and sophomore years generally dictates that, with the exception of the Liberal Studies Core courses, the majority of the Liberal Studies courses may be postponed until the junior and senior years. Students therefore tend to take fewer Liberal Studies courses in the first two years, concentrating instead on major field requirements, which are prerequisites to upper division courses. For the Clinical Lab Sciences concentration, students will complete their post-graduate (fifth year) internship at an associated hospital. For the Nuclear Medicine Technology and Radiation Therapy concentrations, students apply to take the internship during their fourth year. Entry into the fifth year (CLS) and fourth year (NMT and RT) program is on a competitive basis.

Concentration Requirements

Concentrations, tracks and specializations provide focus to the major. In addition to any college core requirements, liberal studies requirements and major requirements, students are required to choose one of the following:

- Clinical Laboratory Sciences
- Nuclear Medicine Technology or Radiation Therapy
Clinical Laboratory Sciences

In the CLS concentration, you will spend four years completing requirements at DePaul, followed by a one-year internship at a hospital associated with DePaul (currently Evanston Hospital). After completing your degree, you will be eligible for national board certification by the Board of Registry of the American Society for Clinical Pathology and/or the National Certification Agency for Medical Lab Personnel. Entry into the one-year internship is on a competitive basis.

Course Requirements

Biological Sciences Core

- BIO 210 MICROBIOLOGY
- BIO 210 MICROBIOLOGY
- or BIO 235 EVOLUTION
- BIO 370 IMMUNOBIOLOGY
- Three additional Biology courses, one of which must include a laboratory

Biology courses that fulfill the Scientific Inquiry Domain requirements, other than the General Biology sequence, do not generate credit toward the major.

Mathematics

One additional course in the following Calculus sequences:

- Sequence One
  - MAT 152 CALCULUS III
- Sequence Two
  - MAT 149 CALCULUS WITH INTEGRATED PRECALCULUS III
- Sequence Three
  - MAT 162 CALCULUS FOR MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE MAJORS III
- Sequence Four
  - MAT 172 CALCULUS III WITH DIFFERENTIAL EQUATIONS

Students may be advised on the basis of their performance on the Mathematics Diagnostic test to take one or more pre-calculus courses.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.
Nuclear Medicine Technology or Radiation Therapy

The Allied Health Technologies program has two concentrations that are offered in conjunction with Northwestern Memorial Hospital (NMH): Nuclear Medicine Technology or Radiation Therapy. These programs require three years of study at DePaul University and one year of internship study and courses at Northwestern Memorial Hospital. Entry into the internship is on a competitive basis. The three years of study at DePaul include 12 credits each of General Biology, General Chemistry and Organic Chemistry, and 8 credits each of Physics and Calculus. These concentrations will also include 72 credits of the required Liberal Studies Courses (The Junior Year Experiential Learning course is taken at Northwestern Memorial Hospital as part of a clinical practicum). One of the Liberal Studies Domain courses should be in speech or communications, and one should be in some field of ethics, preferably bioethics. Students interested in either of these concentrations should contact the Program Director for additional information guidelines.

Biological Sciences Core

- BIO 201 HUMAN ANATOMY
- BIO 215 ECOLOGY

Northwestern Hospital Courses

After the three year program of study at DePaul the student will apply to Northwestern Hospital to take approximately 42 quarter hours of core study and practicum at the Hospital (4 credits count towards the Experiential Learning requirement), along with taking a 4 quarter Capstone course at DePaul. Students should be aware that entrance into the fourth year at NMH is on a competitive basis.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

American Politics (Minor)

A minor concentration in American Politics offers a survey of American political institutions and behavior. It provides an opportunity to explore in depth a specific topic of interest which complements an individual course of study.

Course Requirements

- PSC 120 THE AMERICAN POLITICAL SYSTEM
- Three 200-level courses from the following list:
  - PSC 213 POLITICAL SOCIALIZATION
  - PSC 214 POLITICS AND MULTICULTURALISM
  - PSC 216 AMERICAN POLITICAL CULTURE
  - PSC 217 WOMEN AND POLITICS
  - PSC 218 AFRICAN-AMERICAN POLITICS
  - PSC 219 TOPICS IN POLITICAL CULTURE
  - PSC 220 THE AMERICAN PRESIDENCY
  - PSC 221 CONGRESS AND THE LEGISLATIVE PROCESS
  - PSC 222 POLITICAL PARTIES AND ELECTIONS
  - PSC 223 URBAN POLITICS
  - PSC 224 BUREAUCRACY AND POLITICS
  - PSC 225 STATE POLITICS
  - PSC 229 TOPICS IN AMERICAN POLITICS
  - PSC 260 LAW AND THE POLITICAL SYSTEM
  - PSC 282 POLITICAL ACTION AND SOCIAL JUSTICE
Two 300-level courses from the following list:

- PSC 310 POLITICAL CULTURE AND DEVELOPMENT
- PSC 312 CREATING CHANGE: CONTEMPORARY GAY, LESBIAN, BISEXUAL & TRANSGENDERED POLITICS
- PSC 315 INTERNET, TECHNOLOGY, AND POLITICS
- PSC 319 ADVANCED TOPICS IN POLITICAL CULTURE
- PSC 321 MASS MEDIA AND AMERICAN POLITICS
- PSC 322 URBAN POLICYMAKING
- PSC 323 CHICAGO GOVERNMENT AND POLITICS
- PSC 324 INEQUALITY IN AMERICAN SOCIETY
- PSC 325 LATINO POLITICAL EMPOWERMENT
- PSC 326 IDEOLOGY, ECONOMICS AND POLICY
- PSC 327 PUBLIC OPINION
- PSC 328 ADVANCED TOPICS IN AMERICAN POLITICS
- PSC 329 ADVANCED TOPICS IN PUBLIC POLICY
- PSC 330 AMERICAN POLITICAL THOUGHT
- PSC 362 THE CRIMINAL JUSTICE SYSTEM

Students majoring in Political Science (BA) or minoring in International Politics or Public Law/Political Thought are restricted from earning this minor.

American Sign Language (Minor)

A minor in American Sign Language (ASL) is customizable to fit the goals of each student, with an aim of general proficiency in signing American Sign Language (ASL). Students may choose to focus on a specific area to complement their major field of study.

The minor consists of a total of 5 courses in American Sign Language at the 200/300-level.

American Studies (BA)

American Studies examines the breadth and diversity of the American experience. It is an interdisciplinary field that integrates the study of history, literature, popular culture, media, geography, politics, art, and religion in order to critically analyze American society, culture, institutions, and intellectual traditions. Students and faculty in American Studies question what constitutes American culture, and how cultural expressions reflect and reveal American values, beliefs, prejudices, pleasures, and perceptions.

American Studies courses are methodologically grounded in many different areas of cultural studies including media studies, material culture, visual literacy, critical race theory, and gender/sexuality studies. Students are expected to gain competency in American cultural studies by mastering the theoretical and intellectual frameworks of their concentrations and by learning to interpret and analyze primary documents.

Students in history, communication, anthropology, political science, sociology, English and other interdisciplinary programs find it beneficial to double major or minor in American studies. Students who pursue American Studies are well prepared for graduate work in the humanities as well as professional training in law or business, and most of our graduates go on to pursue post-graduate degrees.

College Core Requirements

Study in the Major Field

The student’s course of study in the College consists of three parts: Liberal Studies, the major field, and electives. Together these three parts contribute to the liberal education of the student which is the common purpose of all study in the College. By “liberal education” the College understands not only a deep and thorough knowledge of a particular area of study but a knowledge of the diverse areas of study represented by criticism, history, the arts, the behavioral and social sciences, philosophy, religious studies, the natural science, and mathematics.

The major field program generally is built upon a set of core courses and a specialized “concentration.” The number of courses required for a major varies by department. The inherent flexibility of this curriculum demands that the student consult an academic advisor at each stage in the total program and at least once prior to each registration.

Students will be prompted to visit the College Office for their official graduation check early in their senior year.

Declaration of Major, Minor and Concentration

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor in the major field department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

Students must declare or change majors, minors, and concentrations, via Campus Connection. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the Office for Academic Advising Support.

Competence in Modern Language

All students will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language (i.e., a language other than English) equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in the fourth-year high school sequence of any language

- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language, or achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program, or achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College will abide by this Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT, regardless of when they first matriculated at DePaul.

Students who have met the Modern Language Requirement and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the “Modern Language Option” of the Liberal Studies Program (see “Special Programs”).

External Credit and Residency

A student who has been admitted to the College begins residency within the college as of the first day of classes of the term in which the student is registered. Students in residence, whether attending on a full-time or part-time basis, may not take courses away from DePaul University without the written permission of the college. Permission must be obtained in advance of registration to avoid loss of credit or residency in the college; see the

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.

Major Requirements

Course Requirements
- AMS 211 AMERICAN EXPERIENCE I: EARLY AMERICA TO 1860
- AMS 213 AMERICAN EXPERIENCE II: FROM 1860 TO 1941
- AMS 215 AMERICAN EXPERIENCE III :FROM 1941 TO PRESENT
- 6 Concentration Courses
- 3 Major Electives
- AMS 301 SENIOR SEMINAR

Prerequisites
At least one course in U.S. History (AMS 200 or one course from the HST 181/HST 182/HST 183 sequence) is a prerequisite to the core courses in the American Studies Program. Submission of AP U.S. History credit or SAT II U.S. History scores of 650 or higher will satisfy this requirement. In some cases, students will be allowed to enroll in U.S. History and AMS 211, 213 or 215 concurrently. Students are encouraged to take more than one course in U.S. History and to take U.S. History in the fall quarter as soon as they decide on an American Studies major.

Core Courses

The three-course sequence AMS 211, 213, and 215 forms the foundation of the program and should be completed in the sophomore or junior year, ideally in order. Seniors should plan to take the capstone seminar course, AMS 301, in the fall of their senior year. If necessary, AMS 215 may be taken at the same time as AMS 301.

Major Electives and Distribution Requirements

In consultation with an advisor, students will select three additional courses from outside of the concentration. For the concentration and the electives, no more than three courses for the major should be from any one department outside of AMS.

Senior Seminar

During the fall quarter of their senior year, students should take AMS 301 capstone, the Senior Seminar. Over the summer, students must prepare their Senior Seminar Packet, composed of a 5-7 page reflection on their intellectual development in the major, a writing sample of their best work, and a list of preliminary topics for their Senior Seminar paper. Students will be sent instructions on how to prepare this packet by the Autumn Quarter instructor for the Senior Seminar.

Concentration Requirements

Students must also complete the requirements from one of the following concentrations: Popular Culture and Media Studies; Social and Literary Movements; Politics, Institutions and Values; Comparative Race and Ethnic Studies; or Material Culture and the Built Environment.

Concentration Requirements

Students choose from among the following five concentrations: Popular Culture and Media Studies; Social and Literary Movements; Politics, Institutions and Values; Comparative Race and Ethnic Studies; and Material Culture and the Built Environment. Students are required to take six courses within the concentration. Throughout the concentration courses, students are required to maintain a "portfolio" which combines reflections on the courses with collections of course materials (syllabi, completed written course work, collections of visuals, e.g., photo essays—whatever is appropriate to the six courses chosen for the concentration). The reflections on each course and then on the concentration overall should include responses to questions such as "What were the course's most valuable lessons in research, analysis, writing and communication? How did this course, taken together with the other courses you have chosen for your concentration, influence/develop your understanding of the area of American culture on which you are focusing?" Students turn in their portfolio on the concentration, along with a proposal for the senior seminar project, in the first weeks of the senior seminar. Specific directions for the portfolio can be obtained from your American Studies advisor, from the American Studies Program office, or from the American Studies Program Directors.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.
American Studies (Minor)

The American Studies minor offers a basic understanding of what constitutes American culture and how cultural expressions reflect and reveal American values, beliefs and perceptions.

Course Requirements

- Two core courses from the following list:
  - AMS 211 AMERICAN EXPERIENCE I: EARLY AMERICA TO 1860
  - AMS 213 AMERICAN EXPERIENCE II: FROM 1860 TO 1941
  - AMS 215 AMERICAN EXPERIENCE III: FROM 1941 TO PRESENT
- One course from the following list:
  - AMS 200 INTRODUCTION TO AMERICAN SOCIAL HISTORY AND CULTURE
  - One US History course
- Three US topic courses (American Studies electives) which may include AMS 301 SENIOR SEMINAR

Ideally, AMS 200 or the U.S. History course should be taken before enrolling in AMS 211.

Students majoring in American Studies (BA) are restricted from earning this minor.

Animation (BA)

The BA in Animation focuses on 3D modeling and animation, hand-drawn animation, motion graphics, and stop-motion animation for game development, cinema, TV and interactive media.

Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs. Students who meet the admission requirements below may choose to apply to a combined degree program. Interested students should consult their faculty advisor regarding the application procedure. This program allows students to combine many CDM bachelor's degrees with a CDM master's degree following the structure outlined...
Admission Criteria

- Minimum of 44 quarter hours earned
- Minimum of 12 quarter hours earned at DePaul
- GPA of 3.3 or higher in courses taken at DePaul
- Endorsement of faculty advisor

In order to apply for the combined degree program, your faculty advisor must send an e-mail recommendation to the CDM Academic Success Center. The recommendation should include your full name, student ID number, and the bachelor's and master's degrees you wish to combine.

Bachelor of Arts in Computing students who are enrolled via the School for New Learning are eligible for this program. Interested students who meet the admission criteria for a combined degree should contact Kenn Skorupa at SNL for more information.

Program Structure

Students in the combined degree program take a maximum of three graduate level courses that count toward both their bachelor's and master's degree requirements. Students may enroll in graduate level coursework in the junior and senior year only. Students in the combined degree program will receive the bachelor's degree after meeting all graduation requirements including the minimum credit hours required for graduation.

To earn the master's degree, the student must earn as many additional graduate credit hours as needed to reach the minimum number of graduate credit hours required in that master's degree.

Only CDM courses can be taken as part of this program. Advanced programs (e.g., JD/MS, MFA, and PhD) are not eligible for the combined degree program.

Maintaining Good Standing

Cumulative GPA and course grades will be reviewed after each Autumn, Winter, and Spring Quarter.

The student and faculty advisor will be notified when the student's cumulative GPA falls below 3.3 or when the students receives less than a C- in graduate level course.

If a student's cumulative GPA falls below 3.3, the student must earn a term GPA of 3.3 or above in the following quarter to stay in good standing. If the student does not achieve a 3.3 term GPA, then the student will be dismissed from the combined program and resume the traditional B.A./B.S./B.F.A.

If dismissed from the combined degree program after graduate courses have been passed, the graduate courses may only apply to the undergraduate degree. Should the student later be admitted to a graduate program, graduate courses applied to the undergraduate degree may not apply to the graduate program and may not be repeated if they are required in the declared graduate curriculum. Other graduate courses may be substituted in this case.

Designing a Course of Study

It is extremely important that the student and faculty advisor work together on a course of study immediately upon admission to the Combined Degree Program.

This course of study should include the graduate courses to be taken and the undergraduate courses that are replaced by the graduate courses. Failure to put together a solid plan can lead to extra coursework and a lengthening of the Combined Degree program.

It is advisable for the student and the faculty advisor to enter the proposed plan of study in the student communication record on the CDM intranet so it is available to the student and CDM faculty and staff.

Registering for Master's Degree Courses

Combined degree students must meet regularly with their faculty advisors. The faculty advisor will initiate the registration process for all graduate level courses taken during the undergraduate career.

Bachelor's Degree to Master's Degree Transition

In order to be fully admitted to the designated master's program, the student must meet all admission requirements for that program. When preparing to complete the undergraduate portion of the combined degree, students must submit the application for degree conferral for the undergraduate degree by the application... deadline. At this time, the students should contact the CDM Academic Success Center about the procedure required to be formally admitted to the declared graduate program.

Animation (BFA)

The BFA in Animation provides students with a solid foundation in the art of animation and its history combined with insight into the latest techniques used in the rapidly-moving fields of high end 3D animation in the film, television, and game development industries.

Concentrations

Cinema Concentration

The technically demanding art of modern 3D character animation is grounded in the core fundamentals of animation mechanics, visual storytelling and acting. Right from the start, students in the Cinema Animation concentration gain hands-on experience bringing digital characters to life. They are given in-depth instruction in the most up-to-date software and technology available, including motion capture and green screen, but the emphasis is always on creativity, experimentation and expression.

Game Art Concentration

Becoming a game development artist requires a solid foundation in animation, visual design principles, color theory, and drawing. Students in the Game Art concentration also receive in-depth instruction in the latest advanced game modeling and animation technology and practices, including motion capture, rigging and digital sculpting. They learn about real-world problem-solving, team dynamics, and pipeline requirements while working alongside programmers and game designers on cross-disciplinary game development projects.

  - Any ANI course
  - DC 201 INTRODUCTION TO SCREENWRITING
  - DC 210 DIGITAL CINEMA PRODUCTION I
  - DC 220 EDITING I

Students majoring in Animation (BA), Animation (BS), Animation (BFA) or Digital Cinema (BS) are restricted from earning this minor.
Anthropology (BA)

Anthropology is the comparative study of humanity, focusing on people in all places and throughout history and prehistory. Courses engage students in the analysis of beliefs, values, and practices from a perspective that understands societies on their own terms. This perspective includes comparing the similarities and differences among different groups and appreciating and valuing different ways of living. Students study other cultures in order to learn more about their own. This curriculum affords students the opportunity to see the interaction between “what we know” and “what we do” that lies at the heart of the study of humanity.

Our curriculum combines the best parts of a critical, creative, liberal arts education with practical, professional preparation. The major courses direct the student toward the subfields of cultural anthropology and archaeology, with a focus on applied research in these sub-fields. As part of the major, students engage in several research projects, including those that expose them to the application of anthropological knowledge for non-academic audiences, and to our archaeological field school. Out-of-class research projects in the City of Chicago are integral components of several courses. They graduate with an extensive knowledge of how anthropology is actually done. We bring students farther into this practical side of the discipline than any other B.A. program in the country.

Academic careers are attractive to some graduates, but more than half of all professional anthropologists work outside of academic institutions. Some of these careers include research for public and private organizations, administration and/or public policy on the local, regional, federal, or international level; research and work in museums; intercultural communication; advertising, marketing, and public relations; human resources, public health, health care, and law. They also contribute to non-governmental and international organizations. Within the context of administration or public policy, anthropologists are engaged in cultural resource management (CRM), monitoring the preservation of cultural resources for national parks, museums, and state or municipal cultural institutions (i.e., parks and historical societies). Anthropology enhances other career paths, such as modern languages, international studies, international relations, cultural studies, and international business. Students will have completed at least four ethnographic research projects and be certified in archaeological research skills by the time they graduate.

The extensive ethnographic research experience qualifies students with B.A. degrees to work in both non-profit (social service agencies) and for-profit (marketing, design, user-based) research settings. The archaeological certification opens avenues for careers in cultural resource management (CRM), and monitoring the preservation of cultural resources for national parks, museums, and state or municipal cultural institutions.

College Core Requirements

Study in the Major Field

The student's course of study in the College consists of three parts: Liberal Studies, the major field, and electives. Together these three parts contribute to the liberal education of the student which is the common purpose of all study in the College. By “liberal education” the College understands not only a deep and thorough knowledge of a particular area of study but a knowledge of the diverse areas of study represented by criticism, history, the arts, the behavioral and social sciences, philosophy, religious studies, the natural science, and mathematics.

The major field program generally is built upon a set of core courses and a specialized “concentration.” The number of courses required for a major varies by department. Most students go beyond the minimum requirements, electing additional courses which both broaden and deepen their understanding of their chosen discipline.

Because no academic major program is built in isolation, students are required to pursue a number of electives.
of the student’s choice. The inherent flexibility of this curriculum demands that the student consult an academic advisor at each stage in the total program and at least once prior to each registration. Students will be prompted to visit the College Office for their official graduation check early in their senior year.

Declaration of Major, Minor and Concentration

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor in the major field department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

Students must declare or change majors, minors, and concentrations, via Campus Connection. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the Office for Academic Advising Support.

Competence in Modern Language

All students will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language (i.e., a language other than English) equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in the fourth-year high school sequence of any language
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations or achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language, or achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program, or achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College will abide by this Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT, regardless of when they first matriculated at DePaul.

Students who have met the Modern Language Requirement and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the “Modern Language Option” of the Liberal Studies Program (see “Special Programs”).

External Credit and Residency

A student who has been admitted to the College begins residency within the college as of the first day of classes of the term in which the student is registered. Students in residence, whether attending on a full-time or part-time basis, may not take courses away from DePaul University without the written permission of the college. Permission must be obtained in advance of registration to avoid loss of credit or residency in the college; see the LAS website for more information.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.

Major Requirements

Course Requirements

- One of the following courses:
  - ANT 102 CULTURAL ANTHROPOLOGY
  - ANT 103 ARCHAEOLOGY
  - ANT 104 INTRODUCTION TO BIOLOGICAL ANTHROPOLOGY
  - ANT 105 ANTHROPOLOGY THROUGH FILM
  - ANT 107 CULTURAL DIMENSION OF BUSINESS
  - ANT 109 FOOD AND CULTURE
  - ANT 120 SCIENCE OF ARCHAEOLOGY
- ANT 201 ETHNOGRAPHIC RESEARCH METHODS
- ANT 202 ARCHAEOLOGICAL FIELD METHODS
- ANT 203 PROFESSIONALISM AND ETHICS IN ANTHROPOLOGY
- ANT 204 LINEAGES OF CULTURE THEORY
- ANT 386 CULTURAL ANALYSIS
- ANT 396 SENIOR CAPSTONE SEMINAR
- One of the following courses:
  - ANT 322 COMMUNITY-BASED APPLIED PRACTICE
  - ANT 328 INTERNATIONAL APPLIED PRACTICE
  - ANT 330 CLIENT-BASED APPLIED PRACTICE
- Five 200/300 level ANT courses (100 level courses do not count as electives unless approved by the chair)

Allied Field Requirement

Anthropological research makes extensive use of language skills because of the opportunity it presents for cultural learning. Students are encouraged to study at least one language to the point of functional fluency, if they wish to become professional anthropologists. The minimum requirement for the major is completion of a language-based study abroad program of ten or more weeks duration. If the student is unable to participate in such a program, they can complete the requirement by studying the language with coursework through the end of the second year (Courses numbered 106). Study abroad programs at other universities may be used as long as half of the credit earned is in language-based courses. Depending on previous course work, students may place out of the requirement entirely by scoring high on the university’s placement exam. Heritage speakers of a language other than English must also take the university’s test. For languages for which no test is available, consult the chair of the Modern Languages department. Even when the minimum of the language requirement is met, all majors are strongly encouraged to participate in a study abroad program that allows them to live in a community where English is not spoken and to seeks instruction in a third or fourth language.

Experiential Learning and Senior Capstone
Majors in anthropology are expected to fulfill their junior year experimential learning (JYEL) and senior capstone (SC) requirements with ANT 322 and ANT 396 respectively. Both of these courses are recognized by the Liberal Studies Council as fulfilling these requirements. Students may take other junior year experimential learning and senior capstone courses, but are still required to take these two courses (or designated alternatives) to fulfill the major with the permission of the department chair. When students take ANT 322 to fulfill the JYEL requirement they must take an additional course in a liberal studies learning domain of their choice.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

Anthropology (BA)/Secondary Education Social Science (MEd)

The TEACH Program combines a Liberal Arts and Social Sciences (LAS) undergraduate Social Science major (Anthropology, Economics, Geography, History, Political Science, or Sociology) or a Science and Health (Psychology) major with a graduate level College of Education (COE) Master's in Education Program. Students graduate with a BA or BS in their disciplinary major and a MEd in Education with State of Illinois Secondary Social Science licensure.

Students may apply to the Program during the spring of their junior year. They must enroll in the Junior Year Experiential Learning course, TCH 320, and meet other application criteria; these include completion of at least 16 quarter credit hours at DePaul and a 3.0 GPA. During their senior year, students are required to complete a Program capstone course, TCH 390, and three 400-level courses that count toward both their undergraduate and graduate degrees:

- TCH 401 TEACHING AS A PROFESSION IN SECONDARY SCHOOL
- TCH 412 THE NATURE OF HISTORY AND THE SOCIAL SCIENCES
- TCH 422 INQUIRY & APPLICATION IN DEVELOPING SECONDARY HISTORY AND SOCIAL SCIENCES PEDAGOGY

Social Science Content Area (grades of C or better required for licensure):
The following Social Science content area requirements are required. These can be taken as part of the major, liberal studies or open elective requirements:

- HST 298 INTRODUCTION TO HISTORICAL SOURCES AND METHODS
- HST 299 CRAFT OF HISTORY
- 3 United States History courses
- 2 Non- United States History courses
- 6 from the anthropology major
- Additional licensure requirements: (one course in each area required)
  - Geography (GEO 101 recommended)
  - Economics (ECO 101 recommended)
  - Political Science (PSC 120 recommended)
  - Psychology (PSY 105 recommended)
  - Sociology (SOC 101 recommended)

The Master's year comprises teacher-preparation coursework that culminates with student teaching during Spring quarter. Upon graduation and the fulfilling of State of Illinois licensure requirements (which may require some additional course work in the student's major and related fields), students are eligible to be licensed to teach Social Sciences at the 6th-12th grade levels.

Anthropology (Minor)

The minor in Anthropology is intended to give you an overview of the discipline. You will study beliefs, values and practices of various cultures and will compare similarities and differences among diverse groups.

Course Requirements

- ANT 102 CULTURAL ANTHROPOLOGY
- ANT 103 ARCHAEOLOGY
- ANT 104 INTRODUCTION TO BIOLOGICAL ANTHROPOLOGY
- Any three additional courses from the anthropology curriculum for which the student has the prerequisites, including at least one 200-level and one 300-level course.

Students majoring in Anthropology (BA) or minoring in Archaeology are restricted from earning this minor.

Applied Behavioral Sciences (BA)

An accelerated, inter-disciplinary, 2-year degree completion program for adult students, the ABS major is offered at the Loop and Naperville campuses, requiring only one on-site class each week. The remaining courses are offered online.

This course-based major is for graduates of community colleges with an Associates degree who seek broad interdisciplinary preparation for a career in human services, social work, nonprofit management and other related fields.

The major combines courses from the Department of Psychology, the College of Communication, and the School for New Learning, which offers the majority of courses, including a unique series of Adult Learning Seminars. The courses in the major provide students with multiple perspectives on human behavior, interaction and communications.
Program Requirements

There are 93 quarter hours required for this degree, as follows:

Understanding Human Behavior (4 courses equaling 16 credit hours)

- RELC 329 PERSUASION
- PSY 347 SOCIAL PSYCHOLOGY
- PSY 363 ALCOHOLISM, DRUG ADDICTION AND RECOVERY
  or DCM 333 ADDICTIONS AND RECOVERY
- DCM 307 ANALYZING HUMAN BEHAVIOR

Life Cycle in Context (2 courses equaling 8 credit hours)

- DCM 323 THE PSYCHOLOGY OF AGING AND THE AGED
- PSY 302 PERSONAL ADJUSTMENT AND MENTAL HEALTH

Community and Social Justice (3 courses equaling 12 credit hours)

- DCM 304 EVOLVING PROFESSIONAL ETHICS
- DCM 325 WORK & SOCIETY
- PSY 354 COMMUNITY PSYCHOLOGY
  or PSY 353 ABNORMAL PSYCHOLOGY

Methods (3 courses equaling 12 credit hours)

- DCM 306 PRODUCTIVE APPLICATIONS OF WORK BASED INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY
- DCM 308 INTRODUCTION TO STATISTICS
- DCM 309 APPLIED RESEARCH

Effective Workplace Dynamics (3 courses equaling 12 credit hours)

- ORGC 316 COMMUNICATION AND GROUP DECISION-MAKING
- ORGC 353 COMMUNICATION AND ORGANIZATIONAL CHANGE or DCM 324 EFFECTIVE GROUP AND PERSONAL DYNAMICS

Leadership Theories and Skills (3 courses equaling 12 credit hours)

- DCM 310 THINKING CRITICALLY
- DCM 311 CONFLICT MANAGEMENT AND NEGOTIATION
- DCM 303 LEADERSHIP MODELS FOR STRONG ORGANIZATIONS

Adult Learning Seminars (10 courses equaling 21 credit hours)

- DCM 313 LEARNING FROM EXPERIENCE AND SELF-ASSESSMENT
- DCM 314 LEARNING AND TRANSFORMATION
- DCM 315 EXPLORING THE FIELD
- DCM 316 WORK IN A GLOBAL ENVIRONMENT
- DCM 317 ETHICS IN THE PROFESSIONS
- DCM 318 SOCIAL JUSTICE IN THE PROFESSIONS
- DCM 319 CREATIVITY AND INNOVATIVE THINKING
- DCM 320 PROFESSIONAL PORTFOLIO DEVELOPMENT
- DCM 321 CAPSTONE PLANNING
- DCM 322 CAPSTONE PROJECT/PORTFOLIO REVIEW

Electives

Additional elective credit may be required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 quarter hours (128 semester hours).
Arabic Language (Minor)

An Arabic Language minor will provide intermediate proficiency in Arabic. Arabic is considered by the United States government as one of the critical languages for Americans to learn.

The minor will consist of a total of 5 courses in Arabic language at the 200/300-level.

Students majoring in Arabic Studies (BA) or minoring in Arabic Studies are restricted from earning this minor.

Arabic Studies (BA)

Through DePaul's Arabic Studies program, students will develop the ability to speak, understand, read and write the Arabic language and will be encouraged to foster an appreciation of Islamic literature and civilization.

Studying Arabic will expand the student's knowledge of the Middle East and of the culture of more than one billion Arabs across the globe. While learning the Arabic language, the student will also learn about the Arab cultural, religious and political forces.

The Arabic language is one of the United Nations' six official languages, and the U.S. Government considers it one of the most critical languages for Americans to learn. Chicago has one of the nation's largest Arab-American populations in the U.S., giving the student opportunities to visit its communities and gain first-hand knowledge about the Arab culture and language.

What can the student do with this degree?

- Consulting
- Education
- Governmental Agency Work
- Immigration Services
- International Business
- Non-Profit Work
- Public Administration
- Public Policy
- Translation Services

Archaeology (Minor)

The Archaeology minor provides students with an intensive grounding in both the methods and narratives of prehistoric and historic archaeology. Students are required to complete six courses (24 credit hours).

Course Requirements

- ANT 103 ARCHAEOLOGY
  or ANT 120 SCIENCE OF ARCHAEOLOGY
- ANT 202 ARCHAEOLOGICAL FIELD METHODS
  or comparable field methods course (ANT 384 ARCHAEOLOGICAL ANALYSIS)
- ANT 206 WORLD PREHISTORY
- To complete the minor students may choose three electives from the following list:
  - ANT 250 MATERIAL CULTURE OF MODERN AMERICA
  - ANT 252 MATERIAL CULTURE AND DOMESTIC LIFE
  - ANT 254 HISTORICAL ARCHAEOLOGY OF CHICAGO
  - ANT 256 MATERIAL CULTURE OF THE OLD WORLD
  - ANT 358 ARCHEOLOGY OF CITIES
  - ANT 372 CURRENT ISSUES IN ARCHAEOLOGY
  - ANT 374 ANTHROPOLOGY AND MUSEUMS
  - ANT 384 ARCHAEOLOGICAL ANALYSIS
  - Any ANT 390 SPECIAL TOPICS IN ANTHROPOLOGY course focusing primarily on archaeology.

ANT 202 is only taught as part of the Archaeological Field School. Non-anthropology courses that apply as electives for the minor include: AMS 370, HST 290, HST 291, HST 294, HST 296 and/or REL 360.

Students majoring in Anthropology (BA) or minoring in Anthropology are restricted from earning this minor.
Art, Media, and Design (BA)

The B.A. in Art, Media, and Design offers a general curriculum which identifies and promotes continuing contact with the enduring values of our artistic heritage and the application of these values to the future. The educational aim of the department is to provide, through individualized instruction, a broad foundation in studio art practice. The curriculum emphasizes fundamental artistic concepts through problem solving and experimentation in studio courses.

Two areas of concentration are offered: 1) A Studio Art concentration designed to develop artistic skills and abilities in painting, drawing, sculpture, printmaking, and digital imaging, and 2) A Media Art concentration designed to develop artistic skills and abilities in photography, digital photography, video, and web art.

College Core Requirements

Study in the Major Field

The student's course of study in the College consists of three parts: Liberal Studies, the major field, and electives. Together these three parts contribute to the liberal education of the student which is the common purpose of all study in the College. By "liberal education" the College understands not only a deep and thorough knowledge of a particular area of study but a knowledge of the diverse areas of study represented by criticism, history, the arts, the behavioral and social sciences, philosophy, religious studies, the natural science, and mathematics.

The major field program generally is built upon a set of core courses and a specialized “concentration.” The number of courses required for a major varies by department. Most students go beyond the minimum requirements, electing additional courses which both broaden and deepen their understanding of their chosen discipline.

Because no academic major program is built in isolation, students are required to pursue a number of electives of the student's choice. The inherent flexibility of this curriculum demands that the student consult an academic advisor at each stage in the total program and at least once prior to each registration.

Students will be prompted to visit the College Office for their official graduation check early in their senior year.

Declaration of Major, Minor and Concentration

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor in the major field department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

Students must declare or change majors, minors, and concentrations, via Campus Connection. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the Office for Academic Advising Support.

Competence in Modern Language

All students will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language (i.e., a language other than English) equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level instruction.
level language study. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in the fourth-year high school sequence of any language
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations or achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language, or achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program, or achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College will abide by this Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT, regardless of when they first matriculated at DePaul.

Students who have met the Modern Language Requirement and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program (see "Special Programs").

External Credit and Residency

A student who has been admitted to the College begins residency within the college as of the first day of classes of the term in which the student is registered. Students in residence, whether attending on a full-time or part-time basis, may not take courses away from DePaul University without the written permission of the college. Permission must be obtained in advance of registration to avoid loss of credit or residency in the college; see the LAS website for more information.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.

Bilingual Education (Minor)

The Bilingual Education (BE) minor provides a learning opportunity to all DePaul students interested in working with second language learners. Students gain a comprehensive and in-depth understanding of second language acquisition, as well as related educational theories and practices.

Students interested in this minor should consult home college advisors and secure permission from the Bilingual-Bicultural Education Program to enroll.

Course Requirements

7 courses are required for the minor:

- BBE 302 BILINGUAL-BICULTURAL PROGRAM DESIGN AND CURRICULUM DEVELOPMENT
- BBE 304 LANGUAGE, LITERACY AND CULTURE
  or BBE 370 SECOND & WORLD LANGUAGE LITERACIES AND CULTURE
- BBE 307 EQUITY ISSUES IN ASSESSMENT
- BBE 316 SOCIOCULTURAL AND HISTORICAL PERSPECTIVES IN BILINGUAL EDUCATION
- BBE 324 METHODS OF TEACHING ESL
- BBE 325 BILITERACY PRACTICES IN BILINGUAL EDUCATION AND ESL
- BBE 366 FIRST AND SECOND LANGUAGE ACQUISITION
  or BBE 360 SECOND, WORLD AND HERITAGE LANGUAGE ACQUISITION K-12

Minor in Bilingual Education with Bilingual Endorsement

This option is only available to undergraduates in the College of Education pursuing ISBE Licensure.

The minor with endorsement requires the above 7 courses PLUS 100 fieldwork hours (including registration in BBE 97) and a passing score on the Target Language Proficiency Test.

- BBE 97 100 FIELD EXPERIENCE HOURS IN ESL / BE DOCUMENTED

ISBE offers the Target Language Proficiency Test in the following languages:
Arabic, Assyrian, Bosnian, Burmese, Bulgarian, Cantonese, English, Filipino, Greek, Gujarati, Hindi, Japanese, Korean, Lao, Lithuanian, Malayalam, Mandarin, Nepali, Polish, Russian, Serbian, Spanish, Telugu, Ukrainian, Urdu, Vietnamese
Biological Science (Minor)

As a Biological Science minor you will gain a strong foundation in biological science theories and practices. You will have the opportunity to choose electives based on your individual study plan.

Course Requirements

- BIO 191 GENERAL BIOLOGY I FOR SCIENCE MAJORS
- BIO 192 GENERAL BIOLOGY II FOR SCIENCE MAJORS
- BIO 193 GENERAL BIOLOGY III FOR SCIENCE MAJORS
- Three additional courses (generally lab-based) designed for the major must be taken. If desired, these courses can be recommended by a departmental advisor on the basis of the student’s interests.

Students cannot earn a minor in the same academic program as their major.

Biological Sciences (BS)

The Department of Biological Sciences provides courses for both biology majors and non-majors. For its majors, the department offers six different concentrations. These concentrations provide a core program consisting of six to seven lecture/labatory courses. Beyond the core program, the concentrations allow the students to have a moderate degree of specialization in any one of several areas. It also provides a number of opportunities for learning outside the classroom, including a program of seminars, internships and opportunities for research with, or under the direction of, a member of the faculty.

College Core Requirements

Modern Language Requirements

Students who intend to graduate with the Bachelor of Arts (B.A.) Degree will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in the fourth-year high school sequence of any language
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
• achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language
• achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
• achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Science and Health will abide by the College of Science and Health Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.

B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program. While Bachelor of Science (B.S.) students are not required to demonstrate competency in a modern language, the "Modern Language Option" is available to them for language study at any level.

Major Declaration Requirements

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. After researching College programs, the student should declare a major field by visiting Campus Connection and using the Declarations and Inter-College Transfer tool. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor or staff advisor in the department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

To change major fields, or to declare a minor or concentration, the student must use the Declarations and Inter-College Transfer tool described above. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the College or an academic advisor in the Office for Academic Advising Support.

Major Requirements

Course Requirements

Biological Sciences Core
• BIO 191 GENERAL BIOLOGY I FOR SCIENCE MAJORS
• BIO 192 GENERAL BIOLOGY II FOR SCIENCE MAJORS
• BIO 193 GENERAL BIOLOGY III FOR SCIENCE MAJORS
• BIO 206 BIOSTATISTICS
• BIO 260 GENETICS

Chemistry

• CHE 130 GENERAL CHEMISTRY I and CHE 131 GENERAL CHEMISTRY I LABORATORY
• CHE 132 GENERAL CHEMISTRY II and CHE 133 GENERAL CHEMISTRY LABORATORY II
• CHE 134 GENERAL CHEMISTRY III and CHE 135 GENERAL CHEMISTRY LABORATORY III
• CHE 230 ORGANIC CHEMISTRY I and CHE 231 ORGANIC CHEMISTRY LABORATORY I
• CHE 232 ORGANIC CHEMISTRY II and CHE 233 ORGANIC CHEMISTRY LABORATORY II
• CHE 234 ORGANIC CHEMISTRY III and CHE 235 ORGANIC CHEMISTRY LABORATORY III

Students are typically expected to take the first year chemistry courses simultaneously with Biology 191, 192, and 193.

Physics

• PHY 150 GENERAL PHYSICS I
• PHY 151 GENERAL PHYSICS II
• PHY 152 GENERAL PHYSICS III

Students may substitute comparable sequences of Physics courses designed for science majors.

Mathematics

Choose one of the following three course Calculus sequences:

• Sequence One
  o MAT 150 CALCULUS I o MAT 151 CALCULUS II
  o MAT 152 CALCULUS III
• Sequence Two
  o MAT 147 CALCULUS WITH INTEGRATED PRECALCULUS I o MAT 148 CALCULUS WITH INTEGRATED PRECALCULUS II
  o MAT 149 CALCULUS WITH INTEGRATED PRECALCULUS III
• Sequence Three
  o MAT 160 CALCULUS FOR MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE MAJORS I o MAT 161 CALCULUS FOR MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE MAJORS II
  o MAT 162 CALCULUS FOR MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE MAJORS III
• Sequence Four
  o MAT 170 CALCULUS I WITH SCIENTIFIC APPLICATIONS
  o MAT 171 CALCULUS II WITH SCIENTIFIC APPLICATIONS
  o MAT 172 CALCULUS III WITH DIFFERENTIAL EQUATIONS

Students may be advised on the basis of their performance on the Mathematics Diagnostic test to take one or more pre-calculus courses.

Concentration Requirements

Students must also complete the requirements from one of the following concentrations: General; Biotechnology; Pre-Health; Neuroscience; Ecology-Evolution; or Cell & Molecular Biology. Students are limited to only declaring one concentration.

Sequencing

Since programs in the Biological Sciences tend to be structured, it is useful for students to take courses in sequence. Students should begin with the General Biology and General Chemistry sequences. These are prerequisite to higher level requirements such as Ecology, Cell Biology, Genetics, and Organic Chemistry, which should preferably be taken in the sophomore year. Since calculus is required for the degree, students should also begin their study of mathematics as soon as possible, preferably prior to their junior year, so that they can be adequately prepared for the General Physics sequence, best taken in the junior year. Because of this highly structured sequence, students are strongly encouraged to work with their Departmental advisor in order to plan their course schedules and plan alternatives if necessary. Such planning is particularly important for transfer students, as the sequence presented above is highly recommended and most likely to be completed in a timely fashion.

The predominance of chemistry and biology course sequences required in the freshman and sophomore years generally dictates that, with the exception of the Liberal Studies Core courses, the majority of the Liberal Studies courses may be postponed until the junior and senior years. Students may therefore be taking fewer Liberal Studies courses in the first two years than many other programs, concentrating instead on major field requirements, which are prerequisites to upper division courses.

Concentration Requirements

Concentrations, tracks and specializations provide focus to the major. In addition to any college core requirements, liberal studies requirements and major requirements, students are required to choose one of the following:

- General
- Biotechnology
- Pre-Health
- Neuroscience
- Ecology-Evolution
- Cell & Molecular Biology

General Concentration

Course Requirements

- Three courses from the following list:
  - BIO 210 MICROBIOLOGY
  - BIO 215 ECOLOGY
  - BIO 235 EVOLUTION
  - BIO 250 CELL BIOLOGY
  - BIO 309 PLANT PHYSIOLOGY
  - BIO 310 VERTEBRATE PHYSIOLOGY
  - BIO 360 MOLECULAR BIOLOGY
- Five additional majors-level Biology courses (two must have a lab component). Biology courses that fulfill the Scientific Inquiry Domain requirements, other than the General Biology sequence, do not generate credit toward the major or minor.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

- BIO 316 PHYCOLOGY
- BIO 317 AQUATIC BIOLOGY
- BIO 318 FIELD STUDIES IN MARINE AND ESTUARINE BIOLOGY
- BIO 320 MICROBIAL ECOLOGY
- BIO 321 MOLECULAR METHODS IN ECOLOGY AND EVOLUTION
- BIO 325 PALEOBIOLOGY
- BIO 330 DEVELOPMENTAL BIOLOGY
- BIO 333 MYCOLOGY
- BIO 335 CONCEPTS IN EVOLUTION
- BIO 345 TOPICS IN PALEOBIOLOGY
- BIO 350 ANIMAL ADAPTATIONS
- BIO 352 ADVANCED COMPARATIVE PHYSIOLOGY
- BIO 386 INTRODUCTION TO ENDOCRINOLOGY
- Students can request permission from the department to have a BIO 390 SPECIAL TOPICS class count for one of the requirements if appropriate.

Two additional majors-level Biology courses. Two of the five total electives must have a lab. Biology courses other than the General Biology sequence that have any Scientific Inquiry domain designation do not generate credit toward the major or minor.

Open Electives
Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Cell & Molecular Biology Concentration

Course Requirements
- BIO 210 MICROBIOLOGY
- BIO 250 CELL BIOLOGY
- BIO 360 MOLECULAR BIOLOGY
- One advanced Topics course
- Two courses from the following list, one of which must be a lab course:
  - BIO 309 PLANT PHYSIOLOGY
  - BIO 315 TOPICS IN ECOLOGY
  - BIO 321 MOLECULAR METHODS IN ECOLOGY AND EVOLUTION
  - BIO 330 DEVELOPMENTAL BIOLOGY
  - BIO 339 CELLULAR NEUROBIOLOGY

  - BIO 385 MAMMALIAN REPRODUCTION (CROSS-LISTED AS BIO 485)
BIO 386 INTRODUCTION TO ENDOCRINOLOGY
CHE 340 BIOCHEMISTRY I and CHE 341 EXPERIMENTAL BIOCHEMISTRY I
Students can request permission from the department to have a BIO 390 SPECIAL TOPICS class count for one of the requirements if appropriate

- Two additional majors-level Biology courses, one of which must be a lab course. Biology courses other than the General Biology sequence that have any Scientific Inquiry domain designation do not generate credit toward the major or minor.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

The Biological Sciences (BS) offers two options:

- Biological Sciences (BS)/Biological Sciences (MS)
- Biological Sciences (BS)/Education Biological Sciences (MED)

Biological Sciences (BS)/ Biological Sciences (MS)

Students apply to this program in spring of their junior year; interested students should meet with the Graduate Program Director of the program. Students accepted into this program take a maximum of twelve graduate credit hours as three courses in their senior year; these graduate courses apply toward both undergraduate and graduate Biological Sciences requirements.

Biological Sciences (BS)/ Secondary Education Biological Sciences (MEd)

This combined degree program of the College of Science and Health and the College of Education was collaboratively developed, and is governed and taught by faculty from these units.

Students may apply to the Program during the spring of their junior year. They must enroll in the Junior Year Experiential Learning course, TCH 320, and meet other application criteria; these include completion of at least 16 quarter credit hours at DePaul and a 3.0 GPA. During their senior year, students are required to complete a Program capstone course, TCH 390, and three 400-level courses that count toward both their undergraduate and graduate degrees:

- TCH 401 TEACHING AS A PROFESSION IN SECONDARY SCHOOL
- TCH 414 THE NATURE OF SCIENCE
- TCH 424 INQUIRY & APPLICATION IN DEVELOPING SECONDARY SCIENCE PEDAGOGY

Biology Content Area (grades C or better required for licensure):
The following biology content area requirements are required. These can be taken as part of the major, liberal studies or open elective requirements:

- BIO 191 GENERAL BIOLOGY I FOR SCIENCE MAJORS
- BIO 192 GENERAL BIOLOGY II FOR SCIENCE MAJORS
- BIO 193 GENERAL BIOLOGY III FOR SCIENCE MAJORS
- BIO 215 ECOLOGY
- BIO 250 CELL BIOLOGY
- BIO 309 PLANT PHYSIOLOGY
The Master's year comprises teacher-preparation coursework that culminates with student teaching during Spring quarter. Upon graduation and the fulfilling of State of Illinois licensure requirements (which may require some additional course work in the student's major and related fields), students are eligible to be licensed to teach Biological Sciences at the 6th-12th grade levels.

Business Administration (BSB)

The Bachelor of Science in Business with a major in Business Administration is designed for those students who desire a broad-based business curriculum with a strong liberal arts foundation. This flexible program is geared to the student who has no strong functional preference (e.g. Accounting, Finance, Marketing) but rather desires an overall conceptual foundation. Students majoring in Business Administration might be preparing for law school, entering into a family business, or some other specialized purpose. The program has sufficient flexibility to meet the needs of each of these career orientations.

• One Professional Writing course to be chosen from:
  o WRD 202 PROFESSIONAL WRITING FOR BUSINESS (2.0 hours)
  o WRD 204 TECHNICAL WRITING
  o WRD 206 INTRODUCTION TO PROFESSIONAL WRITING

Second Majors and Minors

The addition of a second major or minor may affect the Business Core classes required for a student. Meet with an academic advisor to confirm requirements.

Math Requirements

• A student is expected to complete the business math sequence (MAT 135, MAT 136, and MAT 137) in the first year of study
• MAT 135 and MAT 137 are completed through Liberal Studies requirements
• MAT 135 may be replaced by MAT 150 or MAT 160
• MAT 136 may be replaced by MAT 151 or MAT 161
• MAT 135 and MAT 136 may be replaced by the sequence of MAT 147, MAT 148, and MAT 149; if done, an additional Scientific Inquiry course must be added to the degree plan
• MAT 137 may be replaced by MAT 348 or MAT 351; if done, an additional Scientific Inquiry course must be added to the degree plan

Grade Minimums for Business Administration Major

A minimum grade of C- is required for the following: ACC 101, ACC 102, BLW 201, ECO 105, ECO 106, ICS 394 or ICS 395, MAT 135, MAT 136, MAT 137, MGT 300, MGT 301, the course used for Professional Writing, and any MGT course used for Global Business Perspective.

Global Business Perspective

If a course is shared between Global Business Perspective and the Business Administration major, additional hours of Open Elective credit are required.
Liberal Studies Requirements

Honors program requirements can be found in the individual Colleges & Schools section of the University Catalog. Select Academics, followed by Undergraduate, then Honors Program Alternative.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student’s major and is cross-listed with a course within the student’s major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Major Requirements

Declaration Requirements

To declare a major in Business Administration, a student must meet the following requirements:

- Completion of 28.0 hours at DePaul University
- The following courses must be completed with a minimum grade of C- and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher: ACC 101, ACC 102, BLW 201, ECO 105, ECO 106, MAT 135, MAT 136, and MAT 137
- A minimum cumulative DePaul grade point average of 2.000
- A minimum grade point average of 2.000 for Management (MGT) courses and all courses used to meet major requirements
- No grade of IN, R, or lower than C- in any Management (MGT) course or course used toward the Business Administration major
- Completion of MGT 300 and BLW 201 with a minimum grade of C- in each course

Course Requirements

A student majoring in Business Administration is required to complete the following courses totaling at least 30.0 hours:

- Two required courses:
  - BLW 203 BUSINESS ORGANIZATIONS
  - MGT 250 CAREER MANAGEMENT SKILLS (2.0 hours)
- Six electives to be chosen from:
  - Economics Elective
  - Management Elective
  - Marketing Elective
  - Business Elective
  - Business Elective
  - Business Elective

The Economics, Management, and Marketing Electives are to be 300-level courses chosen from each department specified. The three Business Electives are to be 300-level courses chosen from any Driehaus College of Business program or department.

ECO 315, FIN 310, FIN 320, ICS 392, MGT 300, MGT 301, MGT 302, and MGT 310 may not be used toward the major. MGT 376 may not be used when also used for the Communication requirement. ICS 394, ICS 395, or ICS 396 may not be used when also used for the Business Capstone requirement.
BLW 202 may be used within Business Administration as a Management Elective or Business Elective.

Open Electives

Open elective credit (16.0 hours) is needed to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Global Business Perspective

If any course is shared between Global Business Perspective and the Business Administration major, additional hours of Open Elective credit are required.

Degree Conferral Requirements

All Management (MGT) and Business Law (BLW) courses, ICS 394 and/or ICS 395, and any courses used toward the Business Administration major must be completed with a minimum grade of C- and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.

Business Administration (Minor)

Available to students outside of the Driehaus College of Business, those students who minor in Business Administration will acquire a general foundation in business, including the fields of accounting, business law, economics, finance, management, and marketing.

Declaration Requirements

To declare a minor in Business Administration, a non-Driehaus student must meet the following requirements:

- Completion of one of the following courses with a minimum grade of C-:
  - ACC 101 Introduction to Accounting I
  - BLW 201 Legal and Ethical Aspects in the Business Environment
  - ECO 105 Principles of Microeconomics
- No grade lower than C- in any of the courses above

Course Requirements

A non-Driehaus student minoring in Business Administration is required to complete the following courses totaling at least 32.0 hours:

- A course in statistics
- ACC 101 INTRODUCTION TO ACCOUNTING I
- ACC 102 INTRODUCTION TO ACCOUNTING II
- BLW 201 LEGAL & ETHICAL ASPECTS IN THE BUSINESS ENVIRONMENT
- ECO 105 PRINCIPLES OF MICROECONOMICS
- FIN 290 FINANCE FOR NON-BUSINESS MAJORS
- MGT 300 PRINCIPLES OF MANAGEMENT
- MKT 301 PRINCIPLES OF MARKETING

The requirement for a course in statistics may be satisfied through the completion of the LSP 120 and LSP 121 sequence.

Degree Conferral Requirements

All Management (MGT), Business Law (BLW), and Interdisciplinary Commerce Studies (ICS) courses and any other courses used toward the Business Administration minor must be completed with a minimum grade of C- and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.
Catholic Studies (BA)

The Department of Catholic Studies is intellectual in focus and interdisciplinary in nature. Rigorous intellectual study, a deepened critical understanding and an appreciation of the Catholic contribution to human civilization are its main goals. The program explores Roman Catholicism as a religious and cultural reality that expresses and motivates multiple forms of human expression. All members of the university are invited to participate in the scholarly examination of Catholicism and the development of Catholic thought. True to DePaul's tradition, no religious test is applied to either students or faculty participating in the department. In addition to the offerings of DePaul University, upper-level students in the program in Catholic Studies are able to take selected courses at the Catholic Theological Union at Chicago. The cooperative relationship between DePaul and CTU opens to students in the program the resources of the largest Catholic school of theology and ministry in North America. The Catholic Studies major is designed to give students with differing learning objectives and career goals maximum flexibility in the design of their Bachelor of Arts degree. In order to ensure intellectual coherence in their program, all students are expected to meet quarterly with their academic advisor to design a course of study, refine their learning goals, and select classes that meet their educational and professional objectives.

Study in the Major Field

The student's course of study in the College consists of three parts: Liberal Studies, the major field, and electives. Together these three parts contribute to the liberal education of the student which is the common purpose of all study in the College. By "liberal education" the College understands not only a deep and thorough knowledge of a particular area of study but a knowledge of the diverse areas of study represented by criticism, history, the arts, the behavioral and social sciences, philosophy, religious studies, the natural science, and mathematics.

The major field program generally is built upon a set of core courses and a specialized "concentration." The number of courses required for a major varies by department. Most students go beyond the minimum requirements, electing additional courses which both broaden and deepen their understanding of their chosen discipline.

Because no academic major program is built in isolation, students are required to pursue a number of electives of the student's choice. The inherent flexibility of this curriculum demands that the student consult an academic advisor at each stage in the total program and at least once prior to each registration.

Students will be prompted to visit the College Office for their official graduation check early in their senior year.

Declaration of Major, Minor and Concentration

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor in the major field department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

Students must declare or change majors, minors, and concentrations, via Campus Connection. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the Office for Academic Advising Support.

Competence in Modern Language

All students will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language (i.e., a language other than English) equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:
● completing the last course in the fourth-year high school sequence of any language
● completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
● completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
● achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations or achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
● achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language, or achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program, or achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College will abide by this Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT, regardless of when they first matriculated at DePaul.

Students who have met the Modern Language Requirement and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program (see "Special Programs").

External Credit and Residency

A student who has been admitted to the College begins residency within the college as of the first day of classes of the term in which the student is registered. Students in residence, whether attending on a full-time or part-time basis, may not take courses away from DePaul University without the written permission of the college. Permission must be obtained in advance of registration to avoid loss of credit or residency in the college; see the LAS website for more information.

Notes

See Program Director for one additional course reduction.

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course... reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.

Students majoring in Catholic Studies (BA) are restricted from earning this minor.

Chemistry (BA)

As a Chemistry major, you will learn the fundamentals of chemical theory and practice through scientific investigation, laboratory experience and research opportunities.

All Chemistry students will take core courses in chemistry, physics and mathematics.

Chemistry faculty members conduct research projects that are funded through government, foundation and industry grants, providing you with multiple opportunities to gain hands-on research experience. Being in Chicago also allows you to attend many scientific conferences hosted in the city throughout the year.

College Core Requirements

Modern Language Requirements

Students who intend to graduate with the Bachelor of Arts (B.A.) Degree will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in the fourth-year high school sequence of any language
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Science and Health will abide by the College of Science and Health Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.

B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the “Modern Language Option” of the Liberal Studies Program. While Bachelor of Science (B.S.) students are not required to demonstrate competency in a modern language, the “Modern Language Option” is available to them for language study at any level.

Major Declaration Requirements

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. After researching College programs, the student should declare a major field by visiting Campus Connection and using the Declarations and Inter-College Transfer tool. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor or staff advisor in the department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

To change major fields, or to declare a minor or concentration, the student must use the Declarations and Inter-College Transfer tool described above. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the College or an academic advisor in the Office for Academic Advising Support.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.
In addition, the Department of Chemistry recommends that students who are seeking accreditation by the American Chemical Society fulfill the Modern Language Option by completing a three-course language sequence. Please see an advisor for further information.

Major Requirements

Course Requirements

Common Core

All students pursuing a Bachelor of Arts or Bachelor of Science in chemistry must complete a common core of courses in the department. These courses are consistent with the requirements of all degree programs accredited by the American Chemical Society. The courses in the common core consist of:

Introductory Courses

- CHE 130 GENERAL CHEMISTRY I and CHE 131 GENERAL CHEMISTRY LABORATORY I
- CHE 132 GENERAL CHEMISTRY II and CHE 133 GENERAL CHEMISTRY LABORATORY II
- CHE 134 GENERAL CHEMISTRY III and CHE 135 GENERAL CHEMISTRY LABORATORY III

The department offers General Chemistry each summer. In this case, the combination of CHE 136/CHE 137 and CHE 138/CHE 139 may substitute for the three-quarter sequence above.

Foundation Courses

- CHE 202 APPLIED PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS
- CHE 204 ANALYTICAL CHEMISTRY and CHE 205 ANALYTICAL CHEMISTRY LABORATORY
- CHE 230 ORGANIC CHEMISTRY I and CHE 231 ORGANIC CHEMISTRY LABORATORY I
- CHE 232 ORGANIC CHEMISTRY II and CHE 233 ORGANIC CHEMISTRY LABORATORY II
- CHE 394 SEMINAR

Calculus

One year of calculus is required to earn a baccalaureate degree in chemistry. This may be accomplished by completing any of the following three course sequences offered by the Department of Mathematical Sciences:

- Sequence One
  - MAT 147 CALCULUS WITH INTEGRATED PRECALCULUS I
  - MAT 148 CALCULUS WITH INTEGRATED PRECALCULUS II
  - MAT 149 CALCULUS WITH INTEGRATED PRECALCULUS III
- Sequence Two
  - MAT 150 CALCULUS I
  - MAT 151 CALCULUS II
  - MAT 152 CALCULUS III
- Sequence Three
  - MAT 160 CALCULUS FOR MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE MAJORS I
  - MAT 161 CALCULUS FOR MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE MAJORS II
  - MAT 162 CALCULUS FOR MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE MAJORS III
- Sequence Four
  - MAT 170 CALCULUS I WITH SCIENTIFIC APPLICATIONS
  - MAT 171 CALCULUS II WITH SCIENTIFIC APPLICATIONS
  - MAT 172 CALCULUS III WITH DIFFERENTIAL EQUATIONS

Students interested in earning credit for multi-variable calculus should not take the MAT 170/MAT 171/MAT 172 sequence. Business calculus cannot be substituted for any of the sequences above.

Physics

One year of calculus-based physics is required to earn a baccalaureate in chemistry. This may be accomplished by completing the following three course sequence offered by the Department of Physics:

- PHY 170 UNIVERSITY PHYSICS I
- PHY 171 UNIVERSITY PHYSICS II
- PHY 172 UNIVERSITY PHYSICS III

Non-calculus-based physics cannot be used to meet the requirements of the common core unless previously approved by the Director of Undergraduate Studies or the Chair.

Departmental Program Requirements

The following enrollment-related policies are fully enforced by the Department of Chemistry

1. All students enrolling in the first course of a General Chemistry sequence must independently meet a minimum mathematics requirement and successfully complete either the General Chemistry placement examination or a General Chemistry preparation course. See the course descriptions for General Chemistry for up-to-date information.
2. All prerequisite chemistry courses must be completed with a C- or better. Students not meeting this requirement may be removed from course rosters before the start of an academic session. This requirement may be waived only with departmental consent.
3. The department offers lower-level sequences several times each academic year. Due to potentially small class sizes, upper-level courses are typically scheduled every other year. Students should consult with their faculty academic advisor to develop a program they can complete in a timely fashion.

Sequencing and Prerequisites

Students should begin their General Chemistry, Physics, and Calculus sequences in their freshman year, provided they have an adequate mathematics background. The Organic Chemistry sequence and Analytical Chemistry should be taken in the sophomore year. Students not yet prepared for calculus should take the prerequisite courses in the first year and take Calculus and General Physics one year later than suggested above. Advanced courses in Chemistry may be taken as soon as students have met the appropriate prerequisites.

Students in Biochemistry are recommended to consider taking the General Biology sequence (BIO 191, BIO 192, BIO 193) prior to taking the Biochemistry sequence.

Since the Undergraduate Common Core in Chemistry, Mathematics, and Physics is particularly demanding in the first two years, students take the majority of their Liberal Studies courses in their junior and senior years. This is necessary so that students have the necessary prerequisites for advanced courses.

Concentration Requirements

Concentrations, tracks and specializations provide focus to the major. In addition to any college core requirements, liberal studies requirements and major requirements, students are required to choose one of the following:

- Standard
- Pathways Program
Standard Concentration

Course Requirements

- CHE 302 QUANTUM CHEMISTRY
- CHE 303 EXPERIMENTAL PHYSICAL CHEMISTRY I
- CHE 304 THERMOCHEMISTRY
- CHE 305 EXPERIMENTAL PHYSICAL CHEMISTRY II
- CHE 320 INTERMEDIATE INORGANIC CHEMISTRY and CHE 321 INTERMEDIATE INORGANIC CHEMISTRY LABORATORY
- CHE 340 BIOCHEMISTRY I and CHE 341 EXPERIMENTAL BIOCHEMISTRY I

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Pathways Program

The Pathways Program is only for qualified Chemistry (BA) majors who have been accepted into an accelerated 3+4 College of Science and Health pre-professional program in conjunction with Rosalind Franklin University of Medicine and Science (RFUMS). In order to pursue the pre-pharmacy track, a student must secure approval from the College of Science and Health's Pre-health Advising Committee's (PAC) pre-pharmacy advisor.

Students formally accepted into a 3+4 Pathways Program will complete their fourth year of coursework - taken at RFUMS and not shown here - and apply the credit toward their Bachelor of Arts degree in Chemistry at DePaul. Students must apply for degree conferral via Campus Connection by the deadline outlined in the Student Handbook in order to be considered a candidate for earning their Bachelor of Arts degree at the conclusion of their fourth year of study. As part of the agreement with RFUMS, some Liberal Studies Program courses, Chemistry major requirements, and open electives will be fulfilled by RFUMS courses. To avoid possibly earning duplicate credit for some courses, please be sure you meet regularly with your College of Science and Health PAC pre-pharmacy advisor and your Chemistry faculty advisor.

Course Requirements

Pre-pharmacy

- CHE 234 ORGANIC CHEMISTRY III /CHE 235 ORGANIC CHEMISTRY LABORATORY III.
- BIO 191 GENERAL BIOLOGY I FOR SCIENCE MAJORS
- BIO 192 GENERAL BIOLOGY II FOR SCIENCE MAJORS
- BIO 193 GENERAL BIOLOGY III FOR SCIENCE MAJORS
- BIO 201 HUMAN ANATOMY
- BIO 310 VERTEBRATE PHYSIOLOGY

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours. Students are encouraged to choose from the following courses:

- CHE 302 QUANTUM CHEMISTRY
- CHE 303 EXPERIMENTAL PHYSICAL CHEMISTRY I
- CHE 304 THERMOCHEMISTRY
- CHE 305 EXPERIMENTAL PHYSICAL CHEMISTRY II
- CHE 320 INTERMEDIATE INORGANIC CHEMISTRY and CHE 321 INTERMEDIATE INORGANIC CHEMISTRY LABORATORY
Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

Chemistry (BA)/ Secondary Education Chemistry (MEd)

This combined degree program of the College of Science and Health and the College of Education was collaboratively developed, and is governed and taught by faculty from these units.

Students may apply to the Program during the spring of their junior year. They must enroll in the Junior Year Experiential Learning course, TCH 320, and meet other application criteria; these include completion of at least 16 quarter credit hours at DePaul and a 3.0 GPA. During their senior year, students are required to complete a Program capstone course, TCH 390, and three 400-level courses that count toward both their undergraduate and graduate degrees:

- TCH 401 TEACHING AS A PROFESSION IN SECONDARY SCHOOL
- TCH 414 THE NATURE OF SCIENCE
- TCH 424 INQUIRY & APPLICATION IN DEVELOPING SECONDARY SCIENCE PEDAGOGY

In addition, students are responsible for all the course requirements for the BA in Chemistry. Grades of C or better are required for licensure.

The Master's year comprises teacher-preparation coursework that culminates with student teaching during Spring quarter. Upon graduation and the fulfilling of State of Illinois licensure requirements (which may require some additional course work in the student's major and related fields), students are eligible to be licensed to teach Chemistry at the 6th-12th grade levels.

Chemistry (BS)

As a Chemistry major, you will learn the fundamentals of chemical theory and practice through scientific investigation, laboratory experience and research opportunities.

All Chemistry students will take core courses in chemistry, physics and mathematics.

Chemistry faculty members conduct research projects that are funded through government, foundation and industry grants, providing you with multiple opportunities to gain hands-on research experience. Being in Chicago also allows you to attend many scientific conferences hosted in the city throughout the year.

- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Science and Health will abide by the College of Science and Health Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.

B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program. While Bachelor of Science (B.S.) students are not required to demonstrate competency in a modern language, the "Modern Language Option" is available to them for language study at any level.

Major Requirements

Course Requirements

Common Core

All students pursuing a Bachelor of Arts or Bachelor of Science in chemistry must complete a common core of courses in the department. These courses are consistent with the requirements of all degree programs accredited by the American Chemical Society. The courses in the common core consist of:

Introductory Courses

- CHE 130 GENERAL CHEMISTRY I and CHE 131 GENERAL CHEMISTRY LABORATORY I
- CHE 132 GENERAL CHEMISTRY II and CHE 133 GENERAL CHEMISTRY LABORATORY II
- CHE 134 GENERAL CHEMISTRY III and CHE 135 GENERAL CHEMISTRY LABORATORY III

The department offers General Chemistry each summer. In this case, the combination of CHE 136/CHE 137 and CHE 138/CHE 139 may substitute for the three-quarter sequence above.

- CHE 394 SEMINAR

Calculus

One year of calculus is required to earn a baccalaureate degree in chemistry. This may be accomplished by completing any of the following three course sequences offered by the Department of Mathematical Sciences:

- Sequence One
  - MAT 147 CALCULUS WITH INTEGRATED PRECALCULUS I
  - MAT 148 CALCULUS WITH INTEGRATED PRECALCULUS II

- Sequence Four
  - MAT 170 CALCULUS I WITH SCIENTIFIC APPLICATIONS
  - MAT 171 CALCULUS II WITH SCIENTIFIC APPLICATIONS
  - MAT 172 CALCULUS III WITH DIFFERENTIAL EQUATIONS
Students interested in earning credit for multi-variable calculus should not take the MAT 170/MAT 171/MAT 172 sequence. Business calculus cannot be substituted for any of the sequences above.

Physics

One year of calculus-based physics is required to earn a baccalaureate in chemistry. This may be accomplished by completing the following three course sequence offered by the Department of Physics:

- PHY 170 UNIVERSITY PHYSICS I
- PHY 171 UNIVERSITY PHYSICS II
- PHY 172 UNIVERSITY PHYSICS III

Non-calculus-based physics cannot be used to meet the requirements of the common core unless previously approved by the Director of Undergraduate Studies or the Chair.

Concentration Requirements

Students must also complete the requirements from one of the following tracks: Standard; Analytical/Physical Chemistry; Biochemical/Medicinal Chemistry; or Synthetic Chemistry. Students are limited to only declaring one track.

Departmental Program Requirements

The following enrollment-related policies are fully enforced by the Department of Chemistry:

1. All students enrolling in the first course of a General Chemistry sequence must independently meet a minimum mathematics requirement and successfully complete either the General Chemistry placement examination or a General Chemistry preparation course. See the course descriptions for General Chemistry for up-to-date information.
2. All prerequisite chemistry courses must be completed with a C- or better. Students not meeting this requirement may be removed from course rosters before the start of an academic session. This requirement may be waived only with departmental consent.
3. The department offers lower-level sequences several times each academic year. Due to potentially small class sizes, upper-level courses are typically scheduled every other year. Students in Biochemistry are recommended to consider taking the General Biology sequence (BIO 191, BIO 192, BIO 193) prior to taking the Biochemistry sequence.

Since the Undergraduate Common Core in Chemistry, Mathematics, and Physics is particularly demanding in the first two years, students take the majority of their Liberal Studies courses in their junior and senior years. This is necessary so that students have the necessary prerequisites for advanced courses.

Track Requirements

Concentrations, tracks and specializations provide focus to the major. In addition to any college core requirements, liberal studies requirements and major requirements, students are required to choose one of the following:

- Standard Track
- Analytical/Physical Chemistry Track
- Biochemical/Medicinal Chemistry Track
Standard Track

The Standard Track is the most flexible option for undergraduate study. It is suited for those students who intend to continue their studies at the graduate level.

Course Requirements

In addition to the Undergraduate Common Core, students are required to take

- CHE 234 ORGANIC CHEMISTRY III / CHE 235 ORGANIC CHEMISTRY LABORATORY III
- CHE 306 KINETICS AND MOLECULAR DYNAMICS
- CHE 307 EXPERIMENTAL PHYSICAL CHEMISTRY III
- Sixteen quarter hours taken from any chemistry course numbered CHE 250 or above

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Analytical/Physical Chemistry Track

The Analytical/Physical Chemistry Track offers a variety of courses at the upper-level to prepare for advanced study or employment in the areas of analytical chemistry or physical chemistry.

Course Requirements

In addition to the Undergraduate Common Core in Chemistry, Mathematics, and Physics, students must take

- CHE 234 ORGANIC CHEMISTRY III / CHE 235 ORGANIC CHEMISTRY LABORATORY III
- CHE 306 KINETICS AND MOLECULAR DYNAMICS
- CHE 307 EXPERIMENTAL PHYSICAL CHEMISTRY III
- CHE 378 APPLIED SPECTROSCOPY
- Twelve quarter hours taken from the following list:
  - CHE 264 ATMOSPHERIC CHEMISTRY / CHE 265 ATMOSPHERIC CHEMISTRY LABORATORY
  - CHE 268 SOLID WASTE CHEMISTRY / CHE 269 SOLID WASTE CHEMISTRY LABORATORY
  - CHE 310 NUCLEAR CHEMISTRY
  - CHE 318 BIOPHYSICAL CHEMISTRY
  - CHE 470 STATISTICAL THERMODYNAMICS
  - CHE 472 MOLECULAR DYNAMICS
  - CHE 474 ADVANCED QUANTUM CHEMISTRY

  - CHE 480 SPECIAL TOPICS IN ANALYTICAL CHEMISTRY
  - CHE 482 SPECIAL TOPICS IN BIOCHEMISTRY
  - CHE 484 SPECIAL TOPICS IN INORGANIC CHEMISTRY
  - CHE 486 SPECIAL TOPICS IN ORGANIC CHEMISTRY
  - CHE 488 SPECIAL TOPICS IN PHYSICAL CHEMISTRY

Open Electives
Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Biochemical/Medicinal Chemistry Track

The Biochemistry/Medicinal Chemistry Track offers students a solid preparation for work in biotechnology or pharmaceutical fields. The track also provides a good foundation for those interested in professional fields such as medicine, dentistry, pharmacy, or veterinary science. Students who are thinking of pursuing advanced work in medicinal chemistry will benefit from this track as well.

Course Requirements

In addition to the Undergraduate Common Core in Chemistry, Mathematics, and Physics, students must take:

- CHE 234 ORGANIC CHEMISTRY III /CHE 235 ORGANIC CHEMISTRY LABORATORY III
- CHE 342 BIOCHEMISTRY II /CHE 343 EXPERIMENTAL BIOCHEMISTRY II
- CHE 344 BIOCHEMISTRY III /CHE 345 EXPERIMENTAL BIOCHEMISTRY III
- Twelve quarter hours taken from the following list:
  - CHE 306 KINETICS AND MOLECULAR DYNAMICS
  - CHE 307 EXPERIMENTAL PHYSICAL CHEMISTRY III
  - CHE 318 BIOPHYSICAL CHEMISTRY
  - CHE 348 CHEMICAL BIOLOGY
  - CHE 360 MEDICINAL CHEMISTRY
  - CHE 362 DRUGS AND TOXICOLOGY
  - CHE 364 NUTRITION
  - CHE 442 PROTEIN STRUCTURE AND FUNCTION
  - CHE 444 ADVANCED TOPICS IN PROTEIN BIOCHEMISTRY
  - CHE 476 COMPUTATIONAL CHEMISTRY /CHE 477 COMPUTATIONAL CHEMISTRY LABORATORY
  - CHE 480 SPECIAL TOPICS IN ANALYTICAL CHEMISTRY
  - CHE 482 SPECIAL TOPICS IN BIOCHEMISTRY
  - CHE 484 SPECIAL TOPICS IN INORGANIC CHEMISTRY
  - CHE 486 SPECIAL TOPICS IN ORGANIC CHEMISTRY
  - CHE 488 SPECIAL TOPICS IN PHYSICAL CHEMISTRY

The General Biology sequence (BIO 191/BIO 192/BIO 193) may be of interest to students in this track. The sequence is not required but is recommended if time permits.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Synthetic Chemistry Track

The Synthetic Chemistry Track provides students with exposure to synthetic chemistry from both the organic and inorganic perspectives. The courses in this track are suitable for students thinking of graduate school or those considering working in industry.

Course Requirements

In addition to the Undergraduate Common Core in Chemistry, Mathematics, and Physics, students must take...
Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

The Chemistry (BS) offers two options:

- Chemistry (BS)/Chemistry (MS)
- Chemistry (BS)/Secondary Education Chemistry (MEd)

Chemistry (BS)/ Chemistry (MS)

Students planning to integrate a B.S. and M.S. degree program at DePaul University should inquire of the Director of Undergraduate Studies or the department Chair as undergraduate juniors. Students who have applied and are accepted into this program take a maximum of twelve graduate credit hours as three courses in their senior year; these graduate courses apply toward both undergraduate and graduate Chemistry requirements.

Chemistry (BS)/ Secondary Education Chemistry (MEd)

This combined degree program of the College of Science and Health and the College of Education was collaboratively developed, and is governed and taught by faculty from these units.

Students may apply to the Program during the spring of their junior year. They must enroll in the Junior Year Experiential Learning course, TCH 320, and meet other application criteria; these include completion of at least 16 quarter credit hours at DePaul and a 3.0 GPA. During their senior year, students are required to complete a Program capstone course, TCH 390, and three 400-level courses that count toward both their undergraduate and graduate degrees:

- TCH 401 TEACHING AS A PROFESSION IN SECONDARY SCHOOL
- TCH 414 THE NATURE OF SCIENCE
- TCH 424 INQUIRY & APPLICATION IN DEVELOPING SECONDARY SCIENCE PEDAGOGY

To earn the BS in Chemistry, students must meet the corresponding major and concentration requirements. Grades of C or better are required for licensure.

The Master’s year comprises teacher-preparation coursework that culminates with student teaching during Spring quarter. Upon graduation and the fulfilling of State of Illinois licensure requirements (which may require some additional course work in the student's major and related fields), students are eligible to be licensed to teach Chemistry at the 6th-12th grade levels.

Chemistry (Minor)

As a Chemistry minor, you will learn the fundamentals of chemical theory and practice through scientific investigation and laboratory experience.

Course Requirements

- CHE 130 GENERAL CHEMISTRY I /CHE 131 GENERAL CHEMISTRY LABORATORY I
- CHE 132 GENERAL CHEMISTRY II /CHE 133 GENERAL CHEMISTRY LABORATORY II
- CHE 134 GENERAL CHEMISTRY III /CHE 135 GENERAL CHEMISTRY LABORATORY III
- CHE 202 APPLIED PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS
- CHE 204 ANALYTICAL CHEMISTRY /CHE 205 ANALYTICAL CHEMISTRY LABORATORY
- CHE 230 ORGANIC CHEMISTRY I /CHE 231 ORGANIC CHEMISTRY LABORATORY I
- CHE 232 ORGANIC CHEMISTRY II /CHE 233 ORGANIC CHEMISTRY LABORATORY II
- One additional 4 credit-hour course numbered above CHE 250

The department offers General Chemistry each summer. In this case, the combination of CHE 136/CHE 137 and CHE 138/CHE 139 may substitute for the three-quarter sequence above.

Students cannot earn a minor in the same academic program as their major.

Chinese Language (Minor)

DePaul's Chinese Language minor focuses on developing an intermediate proficiency in spoken and written Chinese, one of the world’s major languages that is growing in importance in our global society.

The minor consists of a total of 5 courses in Chinese language at the 200/300-level.

Students majoring in Chinese Studies (BA) or minoring in Chinese Studies are restricted from earning this minor.

Chinese Studies (BA)

DePaul's Chinese Studies program focuses on developing the ability to speak Chinese and understand Chinese culture. Twenty percent of the global population speaks Chinese, making it the most widely used language in the world. Having the ability to communicate in Chinese provides students with many career opportunities around the world.
Chinese Studies courses focus on a variety of topics, including:

- Art
- Business
- Economics
- History
- Language
- Literature
- Philosophy
- Politics
- Religion

Chinese Studies students often earn a second degree in a complementary field of study, such as International Business or International Studies.

As a Chinese Studies major, the student is encouraged to participate in one of DePaul's Study Abroad programs in Beijing, Hong Kong, or Shanghai. By studying and living in China for an extended period of time, the student will experience the Chinese language and culture first-hand.

College Core Requirements

Study in the Major Field

The student's course of study in the College consists of three parts: Liberal Studies, the major field, and electives. Together these three parts contribute to the liberal education of the student which is the common purpose of all study in the College. By "liberal education" the College understands not only a deep and through knowledge of a particular area of study but a knowledge of the diverse areas of study represented by criticism, history, the arts, the behavioral and social sciences, philosophy, religious studies, the natural science, and mathematics.

The major field program generally is built upon a set of core courses and a specialized “concentration.” The number of courses required for a major varies by department. Most students go beyond the minimum requirements, electing additional courses which both broaden and deepen their understanding of their chosen discipline.

Because no academic major program is built in isolation, students are required to pursue a number of electives of the student's choice. The inherent flexibility of this curriculum demands that the student consult an academic advisor at each stage in the total program and at least once prior to each registration. Students will be prompted to visit the College Office for their official graduation check early in their senior year.

Declaration of Major, Minor and Concentration

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor in the major field department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

Students must declare or change majors, minors, and concentrations, via Campus Connection. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the Office for Academic Advising Support.

Competence in Modern Language

All students will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language (i.e., a language other than English) equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in the fourth-year high school sequence of any language
• completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
• completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
• achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations or achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
• achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language, or achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program, or achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College will abide by this Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT, regardless of when they first matriculated at DePaul.

Students who have met the Modern Language Requirement and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program (see "Special Programs").

External Credit and Residency

A student who has been admitted to the College begins residency within the college as of the first day of classes of the term in which the student is registered. Students in residence, whether attending on a full-time or part-time basis, may not take courses away from DePaul University without the written permission of the college. Permission must be obtained in advance of registration to avoid loss of credit or residency in the college; see the LAS website for more information.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.

Cities (Minor)

The interdisciplinary Cities Minor brings together the prominent emphases on the material landscapes and cultural environments of the city evident in Geography courses and History of Art and Architecture courses. While both History of Art and Architecture and Geography have different kinds of theoretical or historical questions, they nevertheless strongly overlap when considering how the specific geographic spaces of cities unfold as particular spatial and cultural constructs. Courses in the minor thus explore the variety of ways in which the spaces of cities relate to their historical/geographical materiality. In this sense, culture is broadly construed to encompass the spatial, aesthetic, linguistic, and other social practices that define the material and phenomenological particularities of cities.

Additional courses may be substituted with the consent of an advisor in the Department of Geography or History of Art and Architecture. No more than three courses can come from the same department as the student’s major.

Classical Studies (Minor)

The Classical Studies minor offers a basic grounding in Latin or Greek, along with a more in-depth exploration of at least two disciplines focusing on the history, culture, art or religion of the ancient Western world.

Course Requirements

• Three quarters of college-level Ancient Greek or Latin (at any level).
• Five additional courses focusing on Ancient Greece or Rome from at least two different disciplines, chosen in consultation with an advisor or faculty member, from the current approved Classical Studies Allied Course List. For any of these five courses students are strongly encouraged to substitute any intermediate level course in Ancient Greek or Latin.

The Commercial French minor program is offered to students who wish to be proficient enough to conduct business in French. Students completing the minor are encouraged to take the business language certification exams given by the French government through their respective chambers of commerce.

Course Requirements

- FCH 320 FRENCH FOR BUSINESS
- Four more courses at the 200/300 level in French. At least one must be at the 300 level.

Students majoring in French (BA) or minoring in French or French Translation are restricted from earning this minor.

Commercial Spanish (Minor) Overview

The Commercial Spanish minor program is for students who wish to be proficient enough to conduct business in Spanish. Students completing the minor are encouraged to take the business language certification exam in Spanish.

Course Requirements

- SPN 320 COMMERCIAL SPANISH II
- Four more courses at the 200/300 level in Spanish. The department recommends that those four courses include SPN 252 COMMERCIAL SPANISH I.

Students majoring in Spanish (BA) or minoring in Spanish are restricted from earning this minor.
Communication and Media (BA)

The College of Communication offers a variety of courses leading to a Bachelor of Arts degree in Communication and Media. The B.A. in Communication and Media offers students the opportunity to pursue coursework in communication and media that draws upon two or more related areas of study. This degree will provide flexibility for transfer students and others who have not determined their precise career trajectory, while affording them the fundamental communication and critical thinking skills needed to enter jobs across the public, private and non-profit sectors, or to continue their education in academic or professional post-graduate programs. This major is designed especially for those students holding allied field interests, as well as those who would like to complete a communication degree, by taking mostly evening courses. In order to complete this degree, students have the option of pursuing coursework from any of the other majors offered in the College of Communication.

College Core Requirements

All majors in the College of Communication consist of a total of thirteen courses. All majors complete a three-course common core and a combination of ten program requirements and electives.

Course Requirements

Three core courses are required of all College of Communication Studies students:

- CMN 101 INTRODUCTION TO HUMAN COMMUNICATION
- CMN 102 INTRODUCTION TO MASS COMMUNICATION
- CMN 103 INTERCULTURAL COMMUNICATION

Students are encouraged to complete all three prior to taking additional coursework in the major.

Modern Language Requirement

Students who intend to graduate with a Bachelor of Arts degree in the College of Communication will be required to demonstrate a measure of competence in a modern language, as defined by the college. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in a second year high school course work in a modern language or Latin
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language (must be completed during high school)
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination. (Note that CLEP scores may be used only to meet the language requirement. Credit is not awarded in modern languages on the basis of CLEP scores).
Students with some modern language training should consult with the Modern Language Department about the course with which they should begin. Students with little or no previous work in the language will be required to complete the entire three-course introductory sequence.

Unrestricted Electives

Students complete the Bachelors degree by taking an additional 56 quarter hours selected from any course offered by DePaul University.

Honors program requirements can be found in the individual Colleges & Schools section of the University Catalog. Select Academics, followed by Undergraduate, then Honors Program Alternative.

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy
Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.

- Two elective courses from INTC, ORGC, or RELC
- Two elective courses dealing with Media from JOUR, MCS or PRAD
- Four courses from INTC, ORGC, RELC, JOUR, MCS, PRAD or from the DC courses listed below
At least 5 major field courses must be at the 300 level

Internship Credit

Students in the major may take CMN 394 (when placement relates to the major) and CMN 395. In order to take CMN 394 and CMN 395, students must have completed the three communication core courses (CMN 101, CMN 102, CMN 103), have fulfilled both the presentation and the media requirements for this major, and have fulfilled internship program eligibility requirements.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

The following Communication graduate programs have been approved as combined degree options:

- Health Communication (MA)
- Journalism (MA)
- Media Cinema Studies (MA)
- Organizational and Multicultural Communication (MA)
- Relational Communication (MA)

Health Communication (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in their major courses, have a 3.0 cumulative GPA, and have successfully completed three 300-level courses in their major are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by April 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, answers to essay questions, writing sample (research paper), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Health Communication coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take the HTHC core courses (HTHC 515, HTHC 516, HTHC 517) during the senior year. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Students can defer their graduate admission for one year. If students do not matriculate after completing their B.A. degrees or within the one year deferral period, the graduate courses taken as undergraduate students will no longer count towards the graduate degree and students must reapply for admission to the graduate program.

Journalism (MA)
Students with junior status who have earned a 3.25 GPA in Communication courses and 3.0 cumulative GPA are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by April 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, Statement of Purpose (750 words) explaining why the student is seeking admission to the program, writing sample or project that demonstrates the applicant's ability in journalism, and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Journalism coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Students can defer their graduate admission for one year. If students do not matriculate after completing their B.A. degrees or within the one year deferral period, the graduate courses taken as undergraduate students will no longer count towards the graduate degree and students must reapply for admission to the graduate program.

Media Cinema Studies (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in Communication courses, have 3.0 cumulative GPA, and have successfully completed CMN 101, CMN 102 and CMN 103 are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by April 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, Statement of Purpose (750 words) explaining why the student is seeking admission to the program, writing sample (research paper that demonstrates the applicant's ability to synthesize and analyze scholarly work), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Media and Cinema Studies coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take two of the MCS core courses (MCS 501, MCS 502, MCS 504) and one MCS elective. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Students can defer their graduate admission for one year. If students do not matriculate after completing their B.A. degrees or within the one year deferral period, the graduate courses taken as undergraduate students will no longer count towards the graduate degree and students must reapply for admission to the graduate program.

Organizational and Multicultural Communication (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in Communication courses, have 3.0 cumulative GPA, and have successfully completed CMN 101, CMN 102 and CMN 103 are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by April 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, answers to essay questions, writing sample (research paper), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Communication coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Students can defer their graduate admission for one year. If students do not matriculate after completing their B.A. degrees or within the one year deferral period, the graduate courses taken as undergraduate students will no longer count towards the graduate degree and students must reapply for admission to the graduate program.

Relational Communication (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in Communication courses, have 3.0 cumulative GPA, and have successfully completed CMN 101, CMN 102 and CMN 103 are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by April 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, Statement of Purpose (750 words) explaining why the student is seeking admission to the program, writing sample (research paper that demonstrates the applicant's ability to synthesize and analyze scholarly work), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.
During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Relational Communication coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives during the senior year. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Students can defer their graduate admission for one year. If students do not matriculate after completing their B.A. degrees or within the one year deferral period, the graduate courses taken as undergraduate students will no longer count towards the graduate degree and students must reapply for admission to the graduate program.

Communication and Media (Minor)

The Communication and Media minor is for students interested in multiple areas of the media who wish to further their skills in effective communication to complement their major course of study.

A minor in Communication and Media consists of a total of 6 courses.

- 3 courses starting with the prefix CMNS, INTC, ORGC or RELC
- 3 courses offerings starting with the prefix JOUR, MCS, or PRAD

Any of these six courses may be replaced with

- CMN 394 ADVANCED COMMUNICATION INTERNSHIP
- CMN 395 COMMUNICATION INTERNSHIP SPECIAL TOPICS

Students majoring in Communication and Media (BA) are restricted from earning this minor.

Communication Studies (BA)

The College of Communication offers a variety of courses leading to a Bachelor of Arts degree in Communication Studies. The program explores effective and participatory communication in interpersonal, small group, public, organizational, intercultural, rhetorical and performative contexts. Through a blend of theory and practice, students are encouraged to think, speak, and write clearly; to develop confidence and ability as ethical communicators; to view communication events from multiple perspectives; to understand the multicultural character of communication in contemporary society; to analyze and evaluate variables operating in verbal transactions; to probe the basic problems of human communication in order to understand self, others, and events; and to recognize the connections between communication studies and other disciplines.

Students whose professional goals are in the public, private, or non-profit sectors, such as government, training and human resources, and social and human services are well served by relational, group, and organizational communication, as well as courses in communication and culture, performance studies, and rhetoric. In addition, the B.A. in Communication Studies prepares students who want to continue their education, to excel in academic or professional graduate programs.

College Core Requirements

All majors in the College of Communication consist of a total of thirteen courses. All majors complete a three-course common core and a combination of ten program requirements and electives.

Course Requirements

Three core courses are required of all College of Communication Studies students:

- CMN 101 INTRODUCTION TO HUMAN COMMUNICATION
- CMN 102 INTRODUCTION TO MASS COMMUNICATION
- CMN 103 INTERCULTURAL COMMUNICATION

Students are encouraged to complete all three prior to taking additional coursework in the major.

Modern Language Requirement

Students who intend to graduate with a Bachelor of Arts degree in the College of Communication will be required to demonstrate a measure of competence in a modern language, as defined by the college. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in a second year high school course work in a modern language or Latin
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language (must be completed during high school)
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination. (Note that CLEP scores may be used only to meet the language requirement. Credit is not awarded in modern languages on the basis of CLEP scores).

Students with some modern language training should consult with the Modern Language Department about the course with which they should begin. Students with little or no previous work in the language will be required to complete the entire three-course introductory sequence.

Unrestricted Electives

Students complete the Bachelors degree by taking an additional 56 quarter hours selected from any course offered by DePaul University.

Liberal Studies Requirements

Honors program requirements can be found in the individual Colleges & Schools section of the University Catalog. Select Academics, followed by Undergraduate, then Honors Program Alternative.

Note

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the J'EL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.

Internship Credit

Students in the major may take CMN 394, Advanced Communication Internship or CMN 395, Communication Internship Special Topics (when placement relates to the major) for credit. In order to take CMN 394, students must have completed the three communication core courses (CMN 101, CMN 102, CMN 103), two courses in the chosen major and have fulfilled internship program eligibility requirements.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.
Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

The following Communication graduate programs have been approved as combined degree options:

- Health Communication (MA)
- Journalism (MA)
- Media Cinema Studies (MA)
- Organizational and Multicultural Communication (MA)
- Relational Communication (MA)

Health Communication (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in their major courses, have a 3.0 cumulative GPA, and have successfully completed three 300-level courses in their major are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by April 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, answers to essay questions, writing sample (research paper), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Health Communication coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take the HTHC core courses (HTHC 515, HTHC 516, HTHC 517) during the senior year. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Students can defer their graduate admission for one year. If students do not matriculate after completing their B.A. degrees or within the one year deferral period, the graduate courses taken as undergraduate students will no longer count towards the graduate degree and students must reapply for admission to the graduate program.

Journalism (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.25 GPA in Communication courses and a 3.0 cumulative GPA are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by April 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, Statement of Purpose (750 words) explaining why the student is seeking admission to the program, writing sample or project that demonstrates the applicant's ability in journalism, and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Journalism coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Students can defer their graduate admission for one year. If students do not matriculate after completing their B.A. degrees or within the one year deferral period, the graduate courses taken as undergraduate students will no longer count towards the graduate degree and students must reapply for admission to the graduate program.

Media Cinema Studies (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in Communication courses, have 3.0 cumulative GPA, and have successfully completed CMN 101, CMN 102 and CMN 103 are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by April 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, Statement of Purpose (750 words) explaining why the student is seeking admission to the program, writing sample (research paper that demonstrates the applicant's ability to synthesize and analyze scholarly work), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.
During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Media and Cinema Studies coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take two of the MCS core courses (MCS 501, MCS 502, MCS 504) and one MCS elective. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Students can defer their graduate admission for one year. If students do not matriculate after completing their B.A. degrees or within the one year deferral period, the graduate courses taken as undergraduate students will no longer count towards the graduate degree and students must reapply for admission to the graduate program.

Organizational and Multicultural Communication (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in Communication courses, have 3.0 cumulative GPA, have successfully completed CMN 101, CMN 102 and CMN 103 and three 300-level Communication courses are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by April 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, answers to essay questions, writing sample (research paper), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Communication coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Students can defer their graduate admission for one year. If students do not matriculate after completing their B.A. degrees or within the one year deferral period, the graduate courses taken as undergraduate students will no longer count towards the graduate degree and students must reapply for admission to the graduate program.

Relational Communication (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in Communication courses, have 3.0 cumulative GPA, and have successfully completed CMN 101, CMN 102 and CMN 103 are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by April 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, Statement of Purpose (750 words) explaining why the student is seeking admission to the program, writing sample (research paper that demonstrates the applicant's ability to synthesize and analyze scholarly work), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Relational Communication coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives during the senior year. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Students can defer their graduate admission for one year. If students do not matriculate after completing their B.A. degrees or within the one year deferral period, the graduate courses taken as undergraduate students will no longer count towards the graduate degree and students must reapply for admission to the graduate program.

Community Service Studies (Minor)

The Community Service Studies (CSS) Minor is a multidisciplinary program that provides a framework for understanding and engaging in critical social issues at the level of community. While the notion of community is increasingly complex, the program explores the nuances of community as defined through the lens of groups with common affiliation, identity, or grievance that may be geographically or non-geographically based. The curriculum relies heavily on community-based service learning courses and is designed to provide students with a foundation of analytical, reflective, interpersonal, and leadership skills. Through supporting university partnerships with Chicago-area community-based organizations, students gain a local perspective on social justice issues, including those built on race, class, and gender inequalities and other forms of social, economic and political exclusion.

The practice of service is often shaped by particular economic and cultural circumstances related to power, privilege, and identity. A central component of CSS is the importance of viewing communities through an asset lens and thus working to support existing community strengths rather than responding to needs. Students minoring in CSS therefore develop strong critical self-reflection skills that guide them as future leaders in making ethical and socially responsible decisions.

Course Requirements

Study Abroad Courses

Several Study Abroad experiences may be used to fulfill one or more course requirements for the Minor. Approval of these trips for the Minor must be obtained in consultation with the Director.

Comparative Literature (Minor)

The Comparative Literature minor enables students to study the history, theory, and criticism of literature across national, linguistic, and disciplinary boundaries. It is designed for students who combine the drive and the ability to master foreign languages with a strong commitment to theoretical and interdisciplinary approaches to literature. Students must do a substantial portion of their work in at least one foreign language. Although students will take many of their courses in the departments of their elected literary fields, the program in comparative literature is distinguished from national literature departments by its comparative scope and by the requirement of seminars that focus on fundamental theoretical questions regarding the nature of literature and literary inquiry. The requirements for the minor are designed to allow each student to follow a course of study that combines intellectual rigor with the pursuit of personal interests.

Course Requirements

- CPL 355 CONTEMPORARY CRITICISM
- Choose one of the following two five-course options:
  - Option One
    - Five Comparative Literature offerings
  - Option Two
    - Four Comparative Literature offerings
    - One 300 level literature offering from Modern Languages in a language other than English

Composition (BM)

The Bachelor of Music degree in composition is comprised of a comprehensive range of courses including analysis, orchestration, counterpoint, compositional procedures, and contemporary musical styles. Throughout their studies, students work with a faculty of distinguished composers and participate in master classes with well-known guest composers. Student compositions may be performed at quarterly Composers Forums, and seniors may have a composition read through and recorded by the DePaul Chamber Orchestra.

Additional Courses

- MUS 265 MUSICAL TRADITIONS OF AMERICA AND THE WORLD
- MUS 303 BASIC CONDUCTING PRACTICUM
- MUS 304 BASIC CONDUCTING

Applied Music

Students may enroll in a maximum of 4 credits of applied study per quarter, with a maximum of 48 credits total. The requirements for applied study vary by degree program:

- BM in performance, 48 credits
- BM in jazz studies, 30 credits
- BM in composition, 24 credits
- BM in music education, 24 credits
- BM in performing arts management, 24 credits
- BA in music, 16 credits
- BS in sound recording technology, 12 credits

Except performance majors, students may enroll in additional applied credits, which will count towards music electives.

Modern Language Option

If a music student wishes to study a modern language for a three-course sequence (12 credits), one quarter of language study (4 credits) may be used to replace a course requirement in Arts and Literature, Philosophical Inquiry, or Religious Dimensions. The remaining two quarters of language (8 credits) will be applied towards free electives.

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.

Major Requirements

Petition to Major

Students are admitted to a specialization on the basis of a petition to major process, which occurs during the spring of the freshmen or sophomore year. The petition to major process differs for each specialization, and students should contact the department chairs or area coordinators for more information. Students are not permitted to enroll in classes in the specialization until they have passed their petition to major.

Course Requirements

Students are required to complete the following courses for a specialization in Composition:

- COM 315 COMPOSITION
- Choose two of the following three courses:
  - COM 301 16TH CENTURY COUNTERPOINT
  - COM 302 18TH CENTURY COUNTERPOINT
  - COM 303 20TH CENTURY COUNTERPOINT
- COM 300 ORCHESTRATION I
- COM 320 ORCHESTRATION II
- COM 305 ANALYTICAL STUDIES
- COM 326 ELECTRO-AcouSTIC MUSIC I
- Final Composition Project
- Large Ensemble (6 credits)
- Any Ensemble (5 credits)
- Music Electives (5 credits)
- Free Electives (10 credits)

Computational Physics (Minor)

The Computational Physics minor provides a hands-on curriculum in computational and experimental physics with an emphasis on applications in modern, applied physics.

Course Requirements
Computer Game Development (BS)

The BS in Computer Game Development prepares students to work in the multi-disciplinary field of computer gaming and interactive media. Students specialize in either game design or game programming, but all students work in cross-disciplinary teams to design and develop games.

Concentrations

Game Design Concentration

A game designer conceives and crafts the rules, structure and experience of a game. The game design concentration equips students to become the next generation of creative leaders in the growing field of games. Throughout the program students will explore and push the boundaries of games as expressive and artistic media. They will develop skills for each phase of the game design and development cycle including ideation, iteration through the creation of multiple playable game builds (including prototypes), and reflection on the effectiveness of their designs using playtesting and written evaluations. Students will also develop skills and confidence in reading, writing, and modifying computer programs and scripts. Students will collaborate in interdisciplinary teams with programmers, artists, producers, writers, and audio designers. This concentration has an emphasis on building a portfolio of games and advancing the medium of games through experimentation and innovation.

Gameplay Programming Concentration

Students in this concentration engage in the rigorous study of computer science basics, and then apply this knowledge to the demanding specialization of game programming. Gameplay programmers bring their technical understanding of game internals to the problem of delivering engaging game experiences to players. Areas of study include level design, game scripting, computer graphics development, game physics, and artificial intelligence programming.

Systems Programming Concentration

The systems programming concentration emphasizes the internals of a game – the game engine and other systems that make a modern games possible. In addition to computer science fundamentals, students in this concentration cover additional topics in computer hardware and operating systems essential to developing game engines.

Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs. Students who meet the admission requirements below may choose to apply to a combined degree program. Interested students should consult their faculty advisor regarding the application procedure. This program allows students to combine many CDM bachelor's degrees with a CDM master's degree following the structure outlined below.

Admission Criteria

- Minimum of 44 quarter hours earned
- Minimum of 12 quarter hours earned at DePaul
- GPA of 3.3 or higher in courses taken at DePaul
- Endorsement of faculty advisor

In order to apply for the combined degree program, your faculty advisor must send an e-mail recommendation to the CDM Academic Success Center. The recommendation should include your full name, student ID number, and the bachelor's and master's degrees you wish to combine.

Bachelor of Arts in Computing students who are enrolled via the School for New Learning are eligible for this program. Interested students who meet the admission criteria for a combined degree should contact Kenn Skorupa at SNL for more information

Students in the combined degree program take a maximum of three graduate level courses that count toward both their bachelor's and master's degree requirements. Students may enroll in graduate level coursework in the junior and senior year only. Students in the combined degree program will receive the bachelor's degree after meeting all graduation requirements including the minimum credit hours required for graduation.
To earn the master's degree, the student must earn as many additional graduate credit hours as needed to reach the minimum number of graduate credit hours required in that master's degree.

Only CDM courses can be taken as part of this program. Advanced programs (e.g., JD/MS, MFA, and PhD) are not eligible for the combined degree program.

Maintaining Good Standing

Cumulative GPA and course grades will be reviewed after each Autumn, Winter, and Spring Quarter.

The student and faculty advisor will be notified when the student's cumulative GPA falls below 3.3 or when the students receives less than a C- in graduate level course.

If a student's cumulative GPA falls below 3.3, the student must earn a term GPA of 3.3 or above in the following quarter to stay in good standing. If the student does not achieve a 3.3 term GPA, then the student will be dismissed from the combined program and resume the traditional B.A./B.S./B.F.A.

If dismissed from the combined degree program after graduate courses have been passed, the graduate courses may only apply to the undergraduate degree. Should the student later be admitted to a graduate program, graduate courses applied to the undergraduate degree may not apply to the graduate program and may not be repeated if they are required in the declared graduate curriculum. Other graduate courses may be substituted in this case.

Designing a Course of Study

It is extremely important that the student and faculty advisor work together on a course of study immediately upon admission to the Combined Degree Program.

This course of study should include the graduate courses to be taken and the undergraduate courses that are replaced by the graduate courses. Failure to put together a solid plan can lead to extra coursework and a lengthening of the Combined Degree program.

It is advisable for the student and the faculty advisor to enter the proposed plan of study in the student communication record on the CDM intranet so it is available to the student and CDM faculty and staff.

Registering for Master's Degree Courses

Combined degree students must meet regularly with their faculty advisors. The faculty advisor will initiate the registration process for all graduate level courses taken during the undergraduate career.

Bachelor's Degree to Master's Degree Transition

In order to be fully admitted to the designated master's program, the student must meet all admission requirements for that program. When preparing to complete the undergraduate portion of the combined degree, students must submit the application for degree conferral for the undergraduate degree by the application deadline. At this time, the students should contact the CDM Academic Success Center about the procedure required to be formally admitted to the declared graduate program.

Computer Science (BS)

The BS in Computer Science provides essential training in the foundations of computing, data storage and information processing. With this foundation, graduates of the program can easily adapt to and create new information technologies, new computing paradigms, and new ideas for applying computer systems.

Software Engineering Concentration

This concentration provides students with skills, knowledge, and experiences in state-of-the-art software engineering methodologies, techniques, and applications.

Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs. Students who meet the admission requirements below may choose to apply to a combined degree program. Interested students should consult their faculty advisor regarding the application procedure. This program allows students to combine many CDM bachelor's degrees with a CDM master's degree following the structure outlined below.

Admission Criteria

- Minimum of 44 quarter hours earned
- Minimum of 12 quarter hours earned at DePaul
- GPA of 3.3 or higher in courses taken at DePaul
- Endorsement of faculty advisor

In order to apply for the combined degree program, your faculty advisor must send an e-mail recommendation to the CDM Academic Success Center. The recommendation should include your full name, student ID number, and the bachelor's and master's degrees you wish to combine.

Bachelor of Arts in Computing students who are enrolled via the School for New Learning are eligible for this program. Interested students who meet the admission criteria for a combined degree should contact Kenn Skorupa at SNL for more information.

Program Structure

Students in the combined degree program take a maximum of three graduate level courses that count toward both their bachelor's and master's degree requirements. Students may enroll in graduate level coursework in the junior and senior year only. Students in the combined degree program will receive the bachelor's degree after meeting all graduation requirements including the minimum credit hours required for graduation.

To earn the master's degree, the student must earn as many additional graduate credit hours as needed to reach the minimum number of graduate credit hours required in that master's degree.

Only CDM courses can be taken as part of this program. Advanced programs (e.g., JD/MS, MFA, and PhD) are not eligible for the combined degree program.

Maintaining Good Standing
Cumulative GPA and course grades will be reviewed after each Autumn, Winter, and Spring Quarter.

The student and faculty advisor will be notified when the student's cumulative GPA falls below 3.3 or when the students receives less than a C- in graduate level course.

If a student's cumulative GPA falls below 3.3, the student must earn a term GPA of 3.3 or above in the following quarter to stay in good standing. If the student does not achieve a 3.3 term GPA, then the student will be dismissed from the combined program and resume the traditional B.A./B.S./B.F.A.

If dismissed from the combined degree program after graduate courses have been passed, the graduate courses may only apply to the undergraduate degree. Should the student later be admitted to a graduate program, graduate courses applied to the undergraduate degree many not apply to the graduate program and may not be repeated if they are required in the declared graduate curriculum. Other graduate courses may be substituted in this case.

Designing a Course of Study

It is extremely important that the student and faculty advisor work together on a course of study immediately upon admission to the Combined Degree Program.

This course of study should include the graduate courses to be taken and the undergraduate courses that are replaced by the graduate courses. Failure to put together a solid plan can lead to extra coursework and a lengthening of the Combined Degree program.

It is advisable for the student and the faculty advisor to enter the proposed plan of study in the student communication record on the CDM intranet so it is available to the student and CDM faculty and staff.

Registering for Master's Degree Courses

Combined degree students must meet regularly with their faculty advisors. The faculty advisor will initiate the registration process for all graduate level courses taken during the undergraduate career.

Bachelor's Degree to Master's Degree Transition

In order to be fully admitted to the designated master's program, the student must meet all admission requirements for that program. When preparing to complete the undergraduate portion of the combined degree, students must submit the application for degree conferral for the undergraduate degree by the application deadline. At this time, the students should contact the CDM Academic Success Center about the procedure required to be formally admitted to the declared graduate program.

Computer Science (Minor)

DePaul's Computer Science minor provides an overview of the field with a focus on programming, data storage and information processing.

Course Requirements

- MAT 140 DISCRETE MATHEMATICS I
- CSC 241 INTRODUCTION TO COMPUTER SCIENCE I
- CSC 242 INTRODUCTION TO COMPUTER SCIENCE II
- CSC 300 DATA STRUCTURES IN JAVA I
- CSC 301 DATA STRUCTURES IN JAVA II
- CSC 373 COMPUTER SYSTEMS I
- CSC 374 COMPUTER SYSTEMS II

Students majoring in Computer Science (BS), Computer Game Development (BS) - Gameplay Programming or Systems Programming Concentration, Information Technology (BS), or Math and Computer Science (BS) or minoring in Information Technology are restricted from earning this minor.
Computing (BA)

The Bachelor of Arts in Computing (BAC) is a degree offered jointly by the School for New Learning (SNL) and the College of Computing and Digital Media (CDM) at DePaul University. This degree has been designed to prepare adults for computer related careers and graduate programs in Computer Science or Digital Media. Instituted in 1996, the BAC program has remained on the cutting edge of preparing students to work and study in a variety of technology fields. The program is open to students aged 24 or older.

For those who have a great deal of knowledge and background in computing, the BAC program offers the opportunity to fulfill requirements through documentation of that experience and through ongoing projects completed in the workplace. For those who have little experience with computing, all requirements can be completed as course work. In either case, the BAC offers the flexibility and individualized learning approach of SNL while focusing on the latest technology, theory and content provided by CDM.

BAC students also work with the CDM Professional Advisors to define and plan their focus area requirements within the program. Students may elect to design an individualized computing related focus area that reflects their unique backgrounds and career interests or they may select from 10 Specialized Focus Area tracks offered by CDM. These tracks relate to dynamic and diverse aspects of computer technology and its applications. Students may need to demonstrate or complete certain pre-requisite requirements for some of the Focus Area tracks depending on the student's entry level of competence in that area.

The degree is earned by completing 50 competence requirements. Competence requirements can be met by SNL and CDM courses, equivalent transfer courses with a grade of C- or better or equivalent documented experience. CDM courses are offered at DePaul's Loop campus in day time, evening and weekend sessions and online. SNL courses are available online and at the Loop, Naperville, Oak Forest, O'Hare campuses in evening and weekend sessions.

Competence Framework

The SNL curriculum is organized around the knowledge, skills and abilities that describe an educated adult in contemporary society. These are defined by a framework of 50 competence statements grouped in 3 areas: Lifelong Learning, Individual Focus, and Liberal Learning. Students demonstrate these degree requirements through SNL courses, independent learning projects, and transfer coursework.

Students in SNL’s competence-based joint degree programs, the BA in Computing, BA in Early Childhood Education and BA in General Business follow a format similar to the descriptions below with some variations. See their Program Requirements for more information.

Lifelong Learning Area

The Lifelong Learning Area has 12 competences that develop skills in reading, writing, goal setting, decision-making, teamwork, and research.

Liberal Learning Area

The Liberal Learning Area encompasses fields of study generally referred to as the Liberal Arts. Students satisfy 26 competences in this area.

This area is divided into 3 categories: Arts and Ideas (AI), Human Community (HC), and Scientific World (SW). Each category is divided into 3 subcategories. Students complete 8 competences in each category and 2 additional Advanced Elective competences. Students must satisfy at least 1 competence from each subcategory, and 3 more from any subcategory. The 4th and 5th competences are required.
Arts and Ideas Category

This category includes the arts, philosophy, theology, literature, and other fields that focus on expression of values and aesthetics. The 3 subcategories are: Interpreting the Arts, Creative Expression, and Reflection and Meaning.

Human Community Category

This category includes human relations, history, political science, and other fields closely aligned with the development and maintenance of human society. The 3 subcategories are: Communities and Society, Institutions and Organizations, and Individual Development.

The Scientific World Category

This category includes fields related to scientific inquiry, technology, and relevant skills. The 3 subcategories in this area are: Experiencing Science, Patterns and Processes, and Science, Technology and Society.

Individual Focus Area

The Individual Focus Area may reflect a field of study, preparation for graduate study, a career goal or avocation. These 12 competences are defined by the student with the advice and approval of a faculty mentor and a professional advisor who has expertise in the area of interest.

The BA in Computing, BA in Early Childhood Education and BA in General Business each have a series of prescribed competence statements in their Focus Areas that correspond to particular course requirements.

Program Requirements

Lifelong Learning

The Lifelong Learning Area consists of 12 competencies that can be met by SNL courses, equivalent transfer courses or proficiency exams as listed below.

- LL 103 INDEPENDENT LEARNING SEMINAR (L-1)
- LL 250 FOUNDATIONS OF ADULT LEARNING: DEVELOPING PERSONAL, PROFESSIONAL AND EDUCATIONAL GOALS (L-2, F-1)
- L-3: Civic Engagement competence in SNL course, transfer, or experience
- LL 260 WRITING TO COMPETENCE (L-4)
- LL 270 CRITICAL THINKING (L-5)
- LL 205 QUANTITATIVE REASONING (L-6)
- L-7: Collaborative Learning competence in SNL course, transfer, or experience
- LL 300 RESEARCH SEMINAR (L-8 & L-9)
- LL 302 EXTERNSHIP (L-10 & L-11)
- LL 390 SUMMIT SEMINAR (L-12)

Liberal Learning

The Liberal Learning Area consists of 26 competencies in 4 categories. Competences can be satisfied by SNL and CDM courses, equivalent transfer courses, and documented college-level learning from experience as listed below.

Arts & Ideas Category:

- 6 SNL competencies

Human Community Category:

- 6 SNL competencies
Scientific World Category:

- 2 CDM courses:
  - IT 223 DATA ANALYSIS
  - IT 263 APPLIED NETWORKS AND SECURITY
- 4 SNL competencies

Elective Category:

- 6 Open Electives
- 2 SNL Advanced Electives

The BAC Focus Area

The BAC Focus Area consists of 12 competencies satisfied through CDM courses, approved transfer courses or experiential learning and SNL projects. Students can design their own Customized Focus Area track or choose one of the Specialized Focus Area tracks.

Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Program

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

To earn the master's degree, the student must earn at least 52 graduate credit hours (13 graduate courses). Twelve hours of graduate credits taken during the undergraduate career may also apply to the graduate degree. Only CDM courses may be taken as part of this program.

In order to apply for the combined degree program, your faculty advisor must send an e-mail recommendation to the Assistant Director of SNL Joint Degree Programs. The recommendation should include your full name, DePaul student ID number, and the bachelor's and master's degrees you wish to combine.

Admissions Criteria

- Minimum of 6 courses (24 credit hours) completed at DePaul.
- GPA of 3.3 or higher in courses taken at DePaul.
- Endorsement of faculty advisor.

The following Computing Digital Media graduate programs have been approved as combined degree options:

- Animation (MA)
- Applied Technology (MS, Joint CDM / SNL Degree)
- Business Information Technology (MS)
- Cinema Production (MS)
- Computational Finance (MS)
- Computer Game Development (MS)
- Computer Science (MS)
- Computer, Information and Network Security (MS)
- E-Commerce Technology (MS)
- Human Computer Interaction (MS)
- Information Systems (MS)
- Information Technology Project Management (MS)
- Network Engineering and Management (MS)
- Predictive Analytics (MS)
- Software Engineering (MS)
Costume Design (BFA)

The Theatre School’s Bachelor of Fine Arts (BFA) degree in Costume Design is designed to give students the opportunity to explore and expand their artistic and visual expression and provides them the opportunity to practice their craft. The four-year curriculum in many ways simulates a costume designer’s professional experience and process. Designers learn to visualize the world of plays through the garments and clothing the actors wear while collaborating with directors, dramaturgs, other designers and technicians, and our professional costume shop staff who build the costumes they design.

- Choose 1 course from the above learning domains as an elective

* Students must earn a C- or better in this course.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.

Costume Design and Costume Technology (BFA)

The Theatre School’s Bachelor of Fine Arts (BFA) degree in Costume Design and Costume Technology is designed to give students the opportunity to train as costume designers as well as theatrical draper/cutters, crafts persons, and costume shop managers, while providing them opportunities to practice their art and craft. The four-year curriculum, in many ways, simulates a costume designer’s, and costume technician’s professional experiences and processes. As designers, students learn to visualize the world of plays through the costumes and accessories actors wear, while the technology courses will teach students to turn those designs into reality. Students learn a variety of design and technical skills including: life drawing, photoshop, media for designers, sewing, pattern making, cutting, fitting, millinery, mask making, etc. They also take a progression of business management coursework. Students collaborate with directors, dramaturgs, other designers and technicians, and our professional costume shop staff in work on productions in addition to their class work. Only students who have completed their freshman year as either a Costume Design or Costume Technician major are eligible to apply for this degree.

Digital Cinema (BA)

The BA in Digital Cinema is an innovative motion picture production program dedicated to utilizing the latest digital technology while incorporating classic cinema narrative theory and aesthetics. Students receive hands-on experience with the latest production equipment in the first year and get an insider's view of the industry from experienced faculty.

Concentrations

Cinema Production Concentration

This concentration features a hands-on program in live-action production. With its greater number of electives students may also develop an interdisciplinary program of study in cinema history and theory.

Writing for Film and Television Concentration

This concentration features a program of study in advanced screenwriting in addition to core courses in cinema production, dramatic literature and cinema history/theory.

Television Concentration

This concentration features a hands-on experience with cutting edge digital equipment in studio and field production for video and television. Students apply theoretical concepts while planning and designing programs, capturing, editing (linear and non-linear) and post-production.

Sound Concentration

This concentration features hands-on experience with cutting edge equipment and technologies in production and post-production sound for cinema in addition to other core courses in cinema production and post-production.

Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

Students who meet the admission requirements below may choose to apply to a combined degree program. Interested students should consult their faculty advisor regarding the application procedure. This program allows students to combine many CDM bachelor's degrees with a CDM master's degree following the structure outlined below.

Admission Criteria

- Minimum of 44 quarter hours earned
- Minimum of 12 quarter hours earned at DePaul
- GPA of 3.3 or higher in courses taken at DePaul
- Endorsement of faculty advisor

In order to apply for the combined degree program, your faculty advisor must send an e-mail recommendation to the CDM Academic Success Center. The recommendation should include your full name, student ID number, and the bachelor's and master's degrees you wish to combine.
Bachelor of Arts in Computing students who are enrolled via the School for New Learning are eligible for this program. Interested students who meet the admission criteria for a combined degree should contact Kenn Skorupa at SNL for more information.

Program Structure

Students in the combined degree program take a maximum of three graduate level courses that count toward both their bachelor's and master's degree requirements. Students may enroll in graduate level coursework in the junior and senior year only. Students in the combined degree program will receive the bachelor's degree after meeting all graduation requirements including the minimum credit hours required for graduation.

To earn the master's degree, the student must earn as many additional graduate credit hours as needed to reach the minimum number of graduate credit hours required in that master's degree.

Only CDM courses can be taken as part of this program. Advanced programs (e.g., JD/MS, MFA, and PhD) are not eligible for the combined degree program.

Maintaining Good Standing

Cumulative GPA and course grades will be reviewed after each Autumn, Winter, and Spring Quarter.

The student and faculty advisor will be notified when the student's cumulative GPA falls below 3.3 or when the students receives less than a C- in graduate level course.

If a student's cumulative GPA falls below 3.3, the student must earn a term GPA of 3.3 or above in the following quarter to stay in good standing. If the student does not achieve a 3.3 term GPA, then the student will be dismissed from the combined program and resume the traditional B.A./B.S./B.F.A.

If dismissed from the combined degree program after graduate courses have been passed, the graduate courses may only apply to the undergraduate degree. Should the student later be admitted to a graduate program, graduate courses applied to the undergraduate degree many not apply to the graduate program and may not be repeated if they are required in the declared graduate curriculum. Other graduate courses may be substituted in this case.

Designing a Course of Study

It is extremely important that the student and faculty advisor work together on a course of study immediately upon admission to the Combined Degree Program.

This course of study should include the graduate courses to be taken and the undergraduate courses that are replaced by the graduate courses. Failure to put together a solid plan can lead to extra coursework and a lengthening of the Combined Degree program.

It is advisable for the student and the faculty advisor to enter the proposed plan of study in the student communication record on the CDM intranet so it is available to the student and CDM faculty and staff.

Registering for Master's Degree Courses

Combined degree students must meet regularly with their faculty advisors. The faculty advisor will initiate the registration process for all graduate level courses taken during the undergraduate career.

Bachelor's Degree to Master's Degree Transition

In order to be fully admitted to the designated master's program, the student must meet all admission requirements for that program. When preparing to complete the undergraduate portion of the combined degree, students must submit the application for degree conferral for the undergraduate degree by the application deadline. At this time, the students should contact the CDM Academic Success Center about the procedure required to be formally admitted to the declared graduate program.
Digital Cinema (BS)

The BS in Digital Cinema at DePaul CDM is an innovative program that seeks to define and to develop the evolving relationship between cinema production technologies and creative artistic expression. The intensive technical emphasis of the Bachelor of Science degree prepares students for work in live-action special effects, 3-D animation, and game development.

Students must take one of the following ethics courses: DC 228/GAM 228/IT 228 (PI), PHL 248/MGT 248 (PI) or REL 228/MGT 228 (RD)

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.

Dramaturgy/ Criticism (BFA)

The Theatre School’s Bachelor of Fine Arts (BFA) degree in Dramaturgy/Criticism focuses on helping students explore their critical thinking and writing skills for a variety of applications within theatre and other art forms. The four-year curriculum provides students with primary tools – script analysis, dramatic theory and new play development – and opportunity for practical application of those tools in our production process.

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.
Early Childhood Education (BS)

The Bachelor of Science program in Early Childhood Education prepares students to teach children birth through 3rd grade in a variety of urban and suburban education settings, including public and private elementary schools and child care centers.

Students learn educational theories and effective teaching practices, participate in field experiences, which require observation and participation in teaching activities at multiple schools, and student teaching. Early Childhood students complete 6 weeks in a preschool classroom and 6 weeks in a primary classroom. Students should meet early and regularly with their advisor to design and monitor their program of study.

The program combines theoretical principles of education and field work with the student's choice of major. Students follow a general pattern of study for middle school and high school levels. In all cases, appropriate field experience plays an integral role.

Students entering the program must be able and willing to devote themselves to a program requiring a minimum of 295 hours of daytime field experiences in schools and child care centers (145 hours in early childhood and 150 hours in bilingual/ESL education). These field-based clinical hours are completed in conjunction with curriculum and strategy courses that require students to participate in teaching activities with children ranging in age from birth through age eight. In addition, the student must successfully complete two six-week periods of full-time student teaching, as part of their culminating early childhood education experience.

The program incorporates a required concentration in bilingual education and English as a Second Language (ESL). Upon completion of the program, students are eligible to apply for endorsements in bilingual education or ESL to be added to their teaching license. Bilingual endorsements require a test of proficiency in the non-English language.

The required curriculum prepares students in special education and students are eligible for an Approval in ECE Special Education on their teaching license. This qualifies the individual to teach young children with special needs in a preschool setting (ages 3-6). Additional courses are available to prepare individuals to teach special education for the full range of the license.

Please make sure you consult the Liberal Studies Requirements, Major Requirements, and College Core Requirements for full degree requirements.

Licensure

College Core Requirements

Dispositions

The academic programs within the College of Education have set forth these dispositions as educational and professional expectations for all students. Students should be aware that failing to abide by DePaul University or College of Education policies including, under certain circumstances, these dispositions, could result in adverse consequences for the student, including removal from his or her program, the College of Education, or the University.

The following dispositions apply to Early Childhood Education, Elementary Education, Physical Education,
Secondary Education, and World Language Education majors only:

- Reflects on progress and identifies strengths and weaknesses, including evaluating strategies for success, finding alternatives for inappropriate strategies, and modifying future practices
- Is receptive to faculty feedback and acts meaningfully and professionally upon suggestions
- Values critical thinking, including engaging theoretical and philosophical frameworks and shows evidence of critical thinking through discussion and writing (e.g., journals, response to prompts)
- Understands the importance of and is committed to communicating clearly orally and in writing both in traditional and in new and emerging digital formats
- Values and is committed to continually developing strong content area knowledge and/or knowledge of the professional field, including pedagogical content knowledge
- Takes initiative, uses imagination and creativity, and seeks out information using a variety of human and material resources and technology to inform his or her teaching
- Is aware of the role of classroom environment and uses management procedures that reflect respect and care for learners and concern for their emotional and physical well being
- Takes the time and effort needed to understand how students learn, including discovering their interests and experiences and determining how to shape teaching acts (using technology as appropriate) that engage learners meaningfully and actively
- Values and is committed to using assessment to evaluate and ensure the continuous intellectual, social, emotional, and physical development of the learner
- Respects and considers cultural contexts in order to determine how to be responsive to learners and to proactively promote all students' learning
- Values and is responsive to diverse learners' academic, emotional, and social needs through teaching acts (including careful instructional planning, implementation, and differentiation) and through everyday interactions with students
- Is committed to collaboration with colleagues, families, and communities in order to promote all students' learning and development
- Recognizes and fulfills professional responsibilities and habits of conduct (e.g., dress, language, preparedness, attendance, punctuality, etc.)
- Demonstrates collegiality, honesty, good judgment, courtesy, respect, and diplomacy
- Balances self-confidence and assertiveness with respect for others’ perspectives
- Respects the requirements, expectations, and procedures of both the College of Education and of our field partners and appreciates the issues of trust, fairness, and professionalism involved

The following dispositions apply to Special Education majors only:

- Is receptive to faculty feedback and acts meaningfully and professionally upon suggestions
- Reflects on his or her own progress, identifies strengths and weaknesses, and evaluates strategies for success and professional growth
- Takes initiative
- Is open to new ideas and engagement in learning
- Respects diversity and cultural contexts to determine how to be responsive to learners and to proactively promote all students' learning
- Expresses positive attitudes toward individuals with disabilities and a willingness to advocate on their behalf
- Is committed to collaboration with colleagues, families, and communities in order to promote all students' learning and development
- Demonstrates professional ethical and legal behavior as defined by the respective codes of ethics and laws
- Demonstrates consistent professional behavior across all academic settings
- Maintains appropriate interpersonal and professional boundaries
- Accepts personal responsibility for one’s behavior
- Expresses feelings and opinions effectively and appropriately
- Upholds confidentiality

Skill Building Courses

Before taking any math or English courses, students must take the DePaul placement tests to determine if skill level is at the college level. If placement indicates skill level in these courses, the courses become part of degree requirements. Consult with your advisor regarding placement test results and any required classes.

Advanced Standing

Students are conditionally admitted to the College of Education. There are additional requirements to reach Advanced Standing in your program in the College of Education. Requirements must be met to progress in the major and take courses in the Advanced Standing category.

Advanced Standing requirements are:

- Maintain a DePaul undergraduate 2.5 GPA
- Pass the Illinois Test of Academic Proficiency (TAP)
- Submit a petition for advanced standing form
Students should attempt to complete the Advanced Standing requirements soon after beginning the program. There is no time limit to meet these criteria; however, students will only be able to take pre-education courses until requirements have been met. Students can also take liberal studies or content area courses before or after meeting Advanced Standing requirements.

Modern Language Competence Requirement

Students pursuing a Bachelor of Arts degree in the College of Education will be required to demonstrate a measure of competence in a modern language, as defined by the college. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing two years of a language sequence in high school
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

Please note: The Modern Language Competence Requirement is not required for students in the Early Childhood Education: SNL Joint Program (BAECE) program.

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Education will abide by the COE Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.

B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program. While B.S. students are not required to demonstrate competency in a modern language, the "Modern Language Option" is available to them for language study at any level.

Licensure Tests

All individuals licensed by the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) are required to complete licensure tests specific to their teaching license.

Field Experiences

Each student seeking licensure from the College of Education/Professional Education Unit must complete supervised field experiences in appropriate settings in conjunction with education courses. The field experiences must include a variety of grade levels, multicultural experiences, and a minimum of 10 hours in special education settings. All field experiences must be completed prior to final approval for student teaching. Field experience hours should be entered by the student into the FEDS system when completing courses with field experience requirements.

Endorsements

An endorsement is a subject area that you can qualify to teach full time, in addition to your main licensure area. Endorsements are issued at three levels: primary, middle school, and high school.

The Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) issues endorsements in various subject areas. To view the full list and requirements, visit the ISBE website.

Qualifying for an endorsement at the middle school level requires 18 semester hours (27 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area and complete SCU 339. Some areas (like math) have specifically required courses or require additional hours. Courses must have a grade of C or better to qualify for endorsements and must be earned credit listed on a college transcript as earned credit.

Consult with your advisor regarding endorsements. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following middle school areas: Arabic, art, bilingual education, biological science, Chinese, ESL, French, general science, German, Italian, Japanese, language arts, math, physical science, social science, and Spanish.

In general, endorsement requirements for the primary level are identical to the middle school requirements.
Qualifying for most endorsements at the high school level requires 24 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area* and passing the relevant content area test. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following high school areas: art, Arabic, Chinese, English, French, German, Italian, Japanese, math, Russian, science, social science, and Spanish.

* Exceptions to the basic requirements for high school level endorsements include the subject areas of foreign language, science, and social science.

 For science and social science, 32 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in the broad area of either science or social science, and 12 semester hours in the specific endorsement designation area, plus the content area test are required. To qualify for additional science and social science designations, individuals applying after February 1, 2012 need both the content test and 12 semester hours in the additional designation area.

Special Education majors do not qualify for middle school endorsements.

Student Teaching Requirements

Student Teaching is the culminating clinical experience in the student's program. All students in teacher preparation programs must meet the following requirements before applying for student teaching:

Academic Requirements:

- Completion of all Liberal Studies, Pre-Education, Advanced Standing and concentration/content area courses
- Overall cumulative G.P.A. of 2.50 or better
- Cumulative GPA. of 2.75 or better in all education courses
- Meet all other program requirements (e.g., modern language and residency requirements)
- Meet designated program standards
- Pass the required Illinois licensure content area test

Clinical Requirements:

- Completion of all required field experiences
- Three satisfactory evaluations in field experiences
- Three satisfactory faculty recommendations
- Attendance at mandatory meeting for student teaching
- Application for student teaching, resume, transcripts, and writing sample (check deadlines)
- Review and approval by Student Teaching Committee of the College of Education

Student Teaching Timeline and Deadlines:

- Attend a Mandatory Meeting approximately 1 year prior to expected quarter of student teaching.
- Submit application for student teaching after attending Mandatory Meeting, approximately 1 year prior to student teaching.
- Academic requirements are due one quarter before expected quarter of student teaching.
- Clinical requirements are completed as course requirements. Field experience hours are entered by the student as coursework is completed.

Online Faculty Evaluations are entered by the instructor of relevant courses. All data must be entered in the Field Experience Documentation System (FEDS) due one month prior to student teaching.

Individual child care agencies and public and private school districts may have additional requirements (application, training, background check, etc.).

Degree Conferral and Graduation

The awarding of a degree is not automatic. You must submit an application to be considered for the degree. DePaul awards and posts degrees at the end of each regular academic term (autumn, winter, spring, summer I and summer II).

It is your responsibility to initiate the degree conferral application process by submitting an online application. Submitting an application means you intend to finish your degree requirements by the end of the term for which you have applied.

Undergraduate students must be approved for student teaching and complete student teaching and capstone to be cleared for the degree. Student must submit graduation application for the quarter that matches the quarter you are student teaching.
After you submit the application, you cannot register for any term after the one selected in the application.

Application deadlines are as follows:
Fall Quarter - October 1st
Winter Quarter - January 15th
Spring Quarter - February 1st
Summer Quarter - July 15th

To apply for degree conferral, log on to Campus Connection. Select STUDENT CENTER, then MY ACADEMICS. On screen instructions will take you through the application process.

Provided that all requirements and financial obligations are met, degrees are posted 30 days after the official end of the term. Official dates are listed on the Academic Calendar.

DePaul holds one commencement ceremony each year in June. If you intend to participate, you must first apply for degree conferral for the current academic year and then submit a cap and gown order. Honors are not announced at the ceremony for undergraduates completing their final courses in spring quarter because a final GPA is not available at the time of the ceremony.

Additional information about degree conferral and graduation can be found on the College of Education website at: http://education.depaul.edu/.

Licensure

Requirements for licensure include completion of full bachelor's degree program, all licensure tests (including OPI for world language majors), and awarding of bachelor’s degree. A bachelor's degree is required to qualify for licensure and must be awarded before applying for the license.

Individuals must submit an application directly to the Illinois State Board of Education after completion of requirements and after DePaul has submitted notification to ISBE. Application requirements include application form, application fee, official transcripts, and registration fee.

All individuals must meet ISBE requirements in place at the time of application for the license. Requirements are subject to change per the discretion of ISBE.

Individuals seeking additional endorsements after applying for the licensure must contact ISBE directly for an evaluation request.

Liberal Studies Requirements

Honors program requirements can be found in the individual Colleges & Schools section of the University Catalog. Select Academics, followed by Undergraduate, then Honors Program Alternative.

First Year Program

Chicago Quarter

- LSP 110 DISCOVER CHICAGO
  or LSP 111 EXPLORE CHICAGO

Focal Point

- LSP 112 FOCAL POINT SEMINAR

  (Note: This must be taken along with student teaching.)

Learning Domains

Arts and Literature (AL)

- 2 Courses Required

Philosophical Inquiry (PI)

- 2 Courses Required:
  - LSE 380 PHILOSOPHICAL ISSUES IN EDUCATION
  - 1 Additional Course
    (Note: PHL 100 recommended)

Scientific Inquiry (SI)

- 3 Courses Required:
  - 1 BIO
  - 1 CHE/ENV/GEO/PHY
  - 1 Additional Course

Understanding the Past (UP)

- 2 Courses Required
  (Note: One must be in US History.)

* Students must earn a C- or better in this course.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student’s major and is cross-listed with a course within the student’s major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.

Major Requirements

Course Requirements

Open Electives: 4 quarter hours required
Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours. The following cannot be used to fulfill an open elective: WRD 98, MAT 94, and MAT 95.

Student Teaching: 12 quarter hours required, grade of B- or better required
Registration in student teaching requires completion of all requirements and procedures indicated in the college core section. EDU 095 indicates to the Illinois State Board of Education that all field experience hours are complete. All students also take ECE 387, Capstone Seminar with student teaching (listed in the Liberal Studies section) during the Autumn, Winter or Spring quarters. Early Childhood students complete 6 weeks in a preschool classroom and 6 weeks in a primary classroom

- ECE 385 EARLY CHILDHOOD STUDENT TEACHING (12 credit hours)
- EDU 095 CLINICAL EXPERIENCE WITH CHILDREN AND YOUTH (non-credit, non-tuition, PA grade required)

Licensure Tests
All individuals licensed by the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) are required to complete licensure tests specific to their teaching license. Early Childhood majors must complete the following tests:

- Test of Academic Proficiency (TAP) (test #400) - assesses knowledge of reading comprehension, language arts, writing, and math. Test is required to qualify for Advanced Standing. *Check with your advisor about qualifying for a waiver with acceptable ACT or SAT tests.
- Early Childhood Content Area Test (test #107) – assesses knowledge of the content of what is taught at the early childhood level including language and literacy development, learning across the curriculum, diversity, collaboration, and professionalism in the early childhood program. Test is required before Student Teaching (deadlines apply).
- Assessment of Professional Teaching (APT) (test #101, grades 0-3) – assesses knowledge of teaching planning, delivery, assessment, professionalism, and technology. Test is required to be licensed; recommended that it be taken before Student Teaching.

Early Childhood Education (Minor)
The Early Childhood Education minor provides a learning opportunity to all DePaul Students for those interested in the care and education of young children. Students interested in this minor should consult home college advisors and secure permission from the Early Childhood Program to enroll.

Course Requirements
- Seven courses from the following list selected in consultation with an academic advisor and Early Childhood Program faculty:
  - ECE 286 ART, MUSIC, AND MOVEMENT FOR THE YOUNG CHILD
  - ECE 290 CHILD GROWTH AND DEVELOPMENT
  - ECE 302 CHILD AND FAMILY IN THE URBAN ENVIRONMENT
  - ECE 303 HISTORY AND PHILOSOPHY OF EARLY CHILDHOOD EDUCATION
  - ECE 307 SPEECH AND LANGUAGE DEVELOPMENT OF THE YOUNG CHILD
  - ECE 309 YOUNG EXCEPTIONAL CHILD
  - ECE 310 PREPRIMARY PROGRAMS: CURRICULUM AND STRATEGIES
  - ECE 375 EARLY CHILDHOOD ASSESSMENT
Early Childhood Education: SNL Joint Program (BA)

The Bachelor of Arts in Early Childhood Education (BAECE) is a degree offered jointly by the School for New Learning (SNL) and the College of Education (COE) at DePaul University. The program has been designed to prepare adults to work in early childhood education by obtaining licensure credentials to teach children through 3rd grade. The program is open to students age 24 or older. Students in the BAECE program take courses in both SNL and COE.

In the program, students have the opportunity to fulfill requirements through course work and experience relating to liberal arts objectives and early childhood education experience gained in the workplace. In COE, students take courses that address theories and practices of teaching young children and the skills necessary to obtain the Illinois licensure to teach children from birth to grade 3. The program offers the flexibility and individualized learning approach of SNL while focusing on the latest theory and content provided by COE.

BAECE students work with COE faculty advisors to complete all requirements for certification and student teaching experiences in preparation for careers in early childhood education. Students are placed in practicum learning environments to enhance their understanding of children's development in language, literacy, mathematics, science, and social and physical development in early childhood.

The degree is earned by completing 50 competence requirements and teaching certification requirements. Competence requirements can be met by DePaul courses or equivalent transfer courses or equivalent documented experience. All Education course grades must be C or better and course grades for SNL competences must be C- or better. COE courses are offered at DePaul's Loop and Lincoln Park campuses with some titles available online. SNL courses are available online and at the Loop, Naperville, Oak Forest, and O'Hare campuses.

To apply for degree conferral, log on to Campus Connection. Select STUDENT CENTER, then MY ACADEMICS. On screen instructions will take you through the application process.

Provided that all requirements and financial obligations are met, degrees are posted 30 days after the official end of the term. Official dates are listed on the Academic Calendar.

DePaul holds one commencement ceremony each year in June. If you intend to participate, you must first apply for degree conferral for the current academic year and then submit a cap and gown order. Honors are not announced at the ceremony for undergraduates completing their final courses in spring quarter because a final GPA is not available at the time of the ceremony.

Additional information about degree conferral and graduation can be found on the College of Education website at: http://education.depaul.edu/.

Licensure

Requirements for licensure include completion of full bachelor’s degree program, all licensure tests (including OPI for world language majors), and awarding of bachelor’s degree. A bachelor’s degree is required to qualify for licensure and must be awarded before applying for the license.

Individuals must submit an application directly to the Illinois State Board of Education after completion of requirements and after DePaul has submitted notification to ISBE. Application requirements include application form, application fee, official transcripts, and registration fee.

All individuals must meet ISBE requirements in place at the time of application for the license. Requirements are subject to change per the discretion of ISBE.

Individuals seeking additional endorsements after applying for the licensure must contact ISBE directly for an evaluation request.

Economics (BA)

Economics is both a social science discipline and a framework for analyzing production, consumption, and distribution decisions. The goal of the undergraduate curriculum is to offer students the theoretical background necessary to understand business and policy issues, as well as the quantitative and analytical skills necessary to evaluate these issues independently. The Economics Department offers courses that explore topics such as unemployment, inflation, production and distribution, economic growth, environmental issues, poverty, urban and regional development, international trade, labor issues, economic history, and international economic relations.

Courses emphasize the need for accurate knowledge of business institutions and economic phenomena, for theories capable of explaining these phenomena, for estimating relationships among economic variables, and for testing explanations. Graduates with a major in economics are solidly prepared for employment in the private, public, and non-profit sectors, or for advanced studies in business, law, and economics.

DePaul offers Economics as both a major and minor field of study through both the College of Liberal Arts and Social Sciences and the Driehaus College of Business. An Honors Track option is available to economic majors in both colleges. In addition, the Department of Economics offers the Accelerated Bachelor-Master of Science in Business and Economic Policy Analysis.

College Core Requirements

Study in the Major Field

The student’s course of study in the College consists of three parts: Liberal Studies, the major field, and electives. Together these three parts contribute to the liberal education of the student which is the common purpose of all study in the College. By “liberal education” the College understands not only a deep and thorough knowledge of a particular area of study but a knowledge of the diverse areas of study represented by criticism, history, the arts, the behavioral and social sciences, philosophy, religious studies, the natural science, and mathematics.

The major field program generally is built upon a set of core courses and a specialized “concentration.” The number of courses required for a major varies by department. Most students go beyond the minimum requirements, electing additional courses which both broaden and deepen their understanding of their chosen discipline.

Because no academic major program is built in isolation, students are required to pursue a number of electives of the student’s choice. The inherent flexibility of this curriculum demands that the student consult an academic advisor at each stage in the total program and at least once prior to each registration. Students will be prompted to visit the College Office for their official graduation check early in their senior year.

Declaration of Major, Minor and Concentration

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor in the major field department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

Students must declare or change majors, minors, and concentrations, via Campus Connection. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the Office for Academic Advising Support.

Competence in Modern Language
All students will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language (i.e., a language other than English) equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in the fourth-year high school sequence of any language
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations or achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language, or achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program, or achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College will abide by this Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT, regardless of when they first matriculated at DePaul.

Students who have met the Modern Language Requirement and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the “Modern Language Option” of the Liberal Studies Program (see “Special Programs”).

External Credit and Residency

A student who has been admitted to the College begins residency within the college as of the first day of classes of the term in which the student is registered. Students in residence, whether attending on a full-time or part-time basis, may not take courses away from DePaul University without the written permission of the college. Permission must be obtained in advance of registration to avoid loss of credit or residency in the college; see the LAS website for more information.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

- MAT 135 BUSINESS CALCULUS I
- MAT 136 BUSINESS CALCULUS II
- MAT 137 BUSINESS STATISTICS (or an equivalent statistics course approved by an Economics advisor).

MAT 150 and MAT 151 may be substituted for MAT 135 & MAT 136.

Curricular Specializations

The six Economics electives should be selected from the following. The department offers three recommendations for students who would like to focus their studies on one area of expertise. These areas are optional; no curricular specialization is required for the major.

International Focus

- ECO 316 EUROPEAN ECONOMIC HISTORY
- ECO 330 THE ECONOMICS OF SOCIALISM

- ECO 380 MATHEMATICAL ECONOMICS
- Further coursework in econometrics can be taken from the Graduate School via ECO 399 INDEPENDENT STUDY with departmental permission

ECO 395 The Capstone Seminar in Economics may not be used as an Economics Elective.
Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Students are encouraged to use their open electives to minor or double major in a complementary field of study. A student’s specific interest in economics will dictate the best choice of a minor or double major.

Combined Bachelor’s/ Master’s Degree

The combined Bachelor’s/Master’s degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

The Economics (B.A.) offers two options:

- Economics (B.A.)/Business and Economic Policy Analysis (M.S.)
- Economics (B.A.)/Secondary Education Social Sciences (M.Ed.)

Economics (BA)/ Business and Economic Policy Analysis (MS)

The M.S. in Business and Economic Policy Analysis (MS-BEPA) gives students a distinguished and marketable set of skills in economic theory as it applies to business and economic policy analysis. Students learn how to conduct statistical and econometric research grounded in sound economic models using data from multiple sources on different issues. In addition, students will be able to explain their results and policy recommendations not only to economists, but also to politicians, and the general public.

MS-BEPA graduates can find employment in the private sector working for corporations in governmental relations departments, in federal and state governmental agencies, in trade associations or lobbying firms, or in the not-for-profit sector.

Undergraduate students will apply to the program during their junior year and will take the following three graduate level courses during their senior year:

- ECO 505 ADVANCED MICROECONOMICS
- ECO 515 MICROECONOMICS OF MARKET ORGANIZATION
- ECO 558 INTERNATIONAL MACROECONOMICS

These three courses will count towards completion of the B.A. with a major in Economics and will also count towards completion of the M.S.-BEPA. The undergraduate degree will be awarded at the completion of all undergraduate work while the M.S.-BEPA will be awarded upon completion of the remaining graduate level work.

Economics (BA)/ Secondary Education Social Science (M.Ed.)

The TEACH Program combines a Liberal Arts and Social Sciences (LAS) undergraduate Economics major with a graduate level College of Education (COE) Master’s in Education Program. Students graduate with a B.A. in their disciplinary major and a MEd in Education with State of Illinois Secondary Social Science licensure.

Students may apply to the Program during the spring of their junior year. They must enroll in the Junior Year Experiential Learning course, TCH 320, and meet other application criteria; these include completion of at least 16 quarter credit hours at DePaul and a 3.0 grade point average. During their senior year, students are required to complete a Program capstone course, TCH 390, and three 400-level courses that count toward both their undergraduate and graduate degrees:

- TCH 401 TEACHING AS A PROFESSION IN SECONDARY SCHOOL
- TCH 412 THE NATURE OF HISTORY AND THE SOCIAL SCIENCES
- TCH 422 INQUIRY & APPLICATION IN DEVELOPING SECONDARY HISTORY AND SOCIAL SCIENCES PEDAGOGY

Social Science Content Area (grades of C or better required for licensure):
The following Social Science content area requirements are required. These can be taken as part of the major, liberal studies or open elective requirements:
Economics (BSB)

Economics is both a social science discipline and a framework for analyzing production, consumption, and distribution decisions. The goal of the undergraduate curriculum is to offer students the theoretical background necessary to understand business and policy issues, as well as the quantitative and analytical skills necessary to evaluate these issues independently. Graduates with a major in economics are solidly prepared for employment in the private, public, and non-profit sectors, or for advanced studies in business, law, and economics. The economics major in the College of Business combines the study of economics with the related business fields of accountancy, finance, marketing and management.

DePaul offers Economics as both a major and minor field of study through both the Driehaus College of Business and the College of Liberal Arts and Social Sciences. An Honors Track option is available to economic majors in both colleges. In addition, the Department of Economics offers the Accelerated Bachelor-Master of Science in Economics and Policy Analysis.

- One Professional Writing course to be chosen from:
  - WRD 202 PROFESSIONAL WRITING FOR BUSINESS (2.0 hours)
  - WRD 204 TECHNICAL WRITING
  - WRD 206 INTRODUCTION TO PROFESSIONAL WRITING

Second Majors and Minors

The addition of a second major or minor may affect the Business Core classes required for a student. Meet with an academic advisor to confirm requirements.

Math Requirements

- A student is expected to complete the business math sequence (MAT 135, MAT 136, and MAT 137) in the first year of study
- MAT 135 and MAT 137 are completed through Liberal Studies requirements
- MAT 135 may be replaced by MAT 150 or MAT 160
- MAT 136 may be replaced by MAT 151 or MAT 161
- MAT 135 and MAT 136 may be replaced by the sequence of MAT 147, MAT 148, and MAT 149; if done, an additional Scientific Inquiry course must be added to the degree plan
MAT 137 may be replaced by MAT 348 or MAT 351; if done, an additional Scientific Inquiry course must be added to the degree plan.

Grade Minimums for Economics Major

A minimum grade of C- is required for the following: ACC 101, ACC 102, BLW 201, ECO 105, ECO 106, ECO 315, MAT 135, MAT 136, MAT 137, the course used for Professional Writing, and any ECO course used for Global Business Perspective.

Global Business Perspective

If an ECO course is shared between Global Business Perspective and the Economics major, additional hours of Open Elective credit are required.

Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

Economics (BSB)/ Business and Economic Policy Analysis (MS)

The MS in Business and Economic Policy Analysis gives students a distinguished and marketable set of skills in economic theory as it applies to business and policy analysis. Students learn how to conduct statistical and econometric research grounded in sound economic models using data from multiple sources on different issues. In addition, students will be able to explain their results and policy recommendations not only to economists, but also to politicians and the general public.

M.S.-BEPA graduates can find employment in the private sector working for corporations in governmental relations departments, in federal and state governmental agencies, in trade associations or lobbying firms, or in... the not-for-profit sector.

Undergraduate students will apply to the program during their junior year and will take the following three graduate level courses during their senior year:

- ECO 505 ADVANCED MICROECONOMICS
- ECO 515 MICROECONOMICS OF MARKET ORGANIZATION
- ECO 558 INTERNATIONAL MACROECONOMICS

These three courses will count towards completion of the BSB with a major in Economics and will also count towards completion of the MS-BEPA. The undergraduate degree will be awarded at the completion of all undergraduate work while the MS-BEPA will be awarded upon completion of the remaining graduate level work.

Economics (Minor: Business Students Only)

Students in the Driehaus College of Business who wish to gain a deeper understanding of economic theory and practice to complement their majors can do so with a minor in Economics. Students may choose the economics electives that best fit their individual courses of study.

Declaration Requirements

To declare a minor in Economics, a Driehaus student must meet the following requirements:

- A minimum cumulative DePaul grade point average of 2.000
- A minimum Economics grade point average of 2.000
- No grade of IN, R, or lower than C- in any Economics (ECO) course

Course Requirements

In addition to ECO 105, ECO 106 and ECO 315, a Driehaus student minoring in Economics is required to complete the following courses totaling at least 12.0 hours:

Three elective courses to be chosen from:

- ECO 305 INTERMEDIATE MICROECONOMICS
- ECO 306 INTERMEDIATE MACROECONOMICS
- ECO 310 URBAN ECONOMICS

All Economics (ECO) courses and any other courses used toward the Economics minor must be completed with a minimum grade of C- and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.

Economics (Minor: Liberal Arts and Social Sciences)

Undergraduate students in any college can minor in Economics in order to learn the foundations of microeconomic and macroeconomic theory, along with the theoretical, quantitative and analytical skills necessary to understand business and policy issues.

Course Requirements

- ECO 105 PRINCIPLES OF MICROECONOMICS
- ECO 106 PRINCIPLES OF MACROECONOMICS
- Four additional 300 level Economics courses
- ECO 395 The Capstone Seminar in Economics may not be used as an elective

Students majoring in Economics (BA) or Economics Honors (BA) are restricted from earning this minor.

Economics (Minor)

Available to students outside the Driehaus College of Business, the minor in Economics allows a student to learn the foundations of microeconomic and macroeconomic theory, along with the theoretical, quantitative and analytical skills necessary to understand business and policy issues.

Declaration Requirements

To declare a minor in Economics, a non-Driehaus student must meet the following requirements:

- A minimum cumulative DePaul grade point average of 2.000
- A minimum Economics grade point average of 2.000
- No grade of IN, R, or lower than C- in any Economics (ECO) course
- Completion of a pre-calculus course as a prerequisite to the first course in Economics

Course Requirements

A non-Driehaus student minoring in Economics is required to complete the following courses totaling at least 24.0 hours:

- Two required courses:
Four elective courses to be chosen from:
- ECO 305 INTERMEDIATE MICROECONOMICS
- ECO 306 INTERMEDIATE MACROECONOMICS
- ECO 310 URBAN ECONOMICS
- ECO 311 BUSINESS AND ECONOMIC FORECASTING
- ECO 312 THE CHICAGO ECONOMY
- ECO 313 ECONOMICS OF REGULATION & ANTI TRUST LAWS
- ECO 314 ECONOMICS OF THE PUBLIC SECTOR
- ECO 315 INTRODUCTION TO MONEY AND BANKING
- ECO 316 EUROPEAN ECONOMIC HISTORY
- ECO 317 AMERICAN ECONOMIC HISTORY
- ECO 318 LABOR ECONOMICS AND ORGANIZATION
- ECO 319 ECONOMICS AND GENDER
- ECO 320 ECONOMICS OF RELIGION
- ECO 321 LAW & ECONOMICS
- ECO 322 ECONOMICS AND FINANCIAL POLICY
- ECO 325 THE ECONOMICS OF POVERTY
- ECO 326 HEALTH ECONOMICS
- ECO 330 THE ECONOMICS OF SOCIALISM
- ECO 333 TOPICS IN GLOBAL ECONOMIES
- ECO 334 UNDERSTANDING CHINA'S ECONOMY
- ECO 335 ENERGY AND ENVIRONMENTAL ECONOMICS
- ECO 336 EXPLORING ECONOMICS & STATISTICS THROUGH SPORTS
- ECO 340 DEVELOPMENT OF ECONOMIC THOUGHT
- ECO 341 BEHAVIORAL ECONOMICS
- ECO 360 ECONOMICS OF LOW-INCOME COUNTRIES
- ECO 361 INTERNATIONAL TRADE
- ECO 362 INTERNATIONAL MONETARY ECONOMICS
- ECO 375 INTRODUCTION TO ECONOMETRICS
- ECO 379 GAME THEORY
- ECO 380 MATHEMATICL ECONOMICS
- ECO 398 SPECIAL TOPICS (multiple topics may be used)
- ECO 399 INDEPENDENT STUDY

ECO 101 cannot be counted toward a major or minor in economics.

ECO 395 Capstone Seminar in Economics may not be used as an Economics Elective.

Degree Conferral Requirements

All Economics (ECO) courses and any other courses used toward the Economics minor must be completed with a minimum grade of C- and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.

Economics Honors (BA)

The Honors Track in Economics is available to students completing the Bachelor of Arts in Economics in the College of Liberal Arts and Social Sciences. It provides the opportunity to pursue a more challenging path of meeting degree requirements. In addition to maintaining a higher GPA, this path requires the demonstration of more quantitative and writing skills than the basic requirements for the Economics major. The student successfully completing this track would graduate with departmental honors.

College Core Requirements

Study in the Major Field

The student’s course of study in the College consists of three parts: Liberal Studies, the major field, and electives. Together these three parts contribute to the liberal education of the student which is the common purpose of all study in the College. By “liberal education” the College understands not only a deep and thorough knowledge of a particular area of study but a knowledge of the diverse areas of study represented by criticism, history, the arts, the behavioral and social sciences, philosophy, religious studies, the natural science, and mathematics.

The major field program generally is built upon a set of core courses and a specialized “concentration.” The number of courses required for a major varies by department. Most students go beyond the minimum requirements, electing additional courses which both broaden and deepen their understanding of their chosen discipline.

Because no academic major program is built in isolation, students are required to pursue a number of electives of the student’s choice. The inherent flexibility of this curriculum demands that the student consult an academic advisor at each stage in the total program and at least once prior to each registration.

Students will be prompted to visit the College Office for their official graduation check early in their senior year.

Declaration of Major, Minor and Concentration

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor in the major field department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

Students must declare or change majors, minors, and concentrations, via Campus Connection. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the the Office for Academic Advising Support.

Competence in Modern Language

All students will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language (i.e., a language other than English) equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in the fourth-year high school sequence of any language
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations or achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language, or achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program, or achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College will abide by this Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT, regardless of when they first matriculated at DePaul.

Students who have met the Modern Language Requirement and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the “Modern Language Option” of the Liberal Studies Program (see "Special Programs").

External Credit and Residency

A student who has been admitted to the College begins residency within the college as of the first day of classes of the term in which the student is registered. Students in residence, whether attending on a full-time or part-time basis, may not take courses away from DePaul University without the written permission of the college. Permission must be obtained in advance of registration to avoid loss of credit or residency in the college; see the LAS website for more information.

Invitation

Economics majors will be invited each term to participate in the Honors Track if they meet the following criteria:

- Have declared Economics as their major (or second major).
- Have completed ECO 305 INTERMEDIATE MICROECONOMICS and ECO 306 INTERMEDIATE MACROECONOMICS with a minimum grade of B- in each course.
- Have a minimum GPA of 3.300 in all economics courses taken at DePaul.

Course Requirements

- ECO 105 PRINCIPLES OF MICROECONOMICS
- ECO 106 PRINCIPLES OF MACROECONOMICS
- ECO 305 INTERMEDIATE MICROECONOMICS (Minimum grade of B-)
- ECO 306 INTERMEDIATE MACROECONOMICS (Minimum grade of B-)
- ECO 375 INTRODUCTION TO ECONOMETRICS (Minimum grade of B-)
- One advanced economics elective (an ECO course that carries a prerequisite of ECO 305 Intermediate Microeconomic Theory, ECO 306 Intermediate Macroeconomic Theory, or ECO 375 Econometrics). This requirement must be satisfied with a course taken at DePaul. Current courses meeting this requirement are:
  - ECO 311 BUSINESS AND ECONOMIC FORECASTING
  - ECO 313 ECONOMICS OF REGULATION & ANTI TRUST LAWS
  - ECO 314 ECONOMICS OF THE PUBLIC SECTOR
  - ECO 340 DEVELOPMENT OF ECONOMIC THOUGHT
  - ECO 341 BEHAVIORAL ECONOMICS
  - ECO 359 DEVELOPMENT ECONOMICS
  - Any other ECO course that carries a prerequisite of ECO 305, ECO 306 or ECO 375
- Four additional Economics courses
- MAT 135 BUSINESS CALCULUS I
- MAT 136 BUSINESS CALCULUS II
- MAT 137 BUSINESS STATISTICS (or an equivalent statistics course approved by an Economics advisor).
MAT 150 and MAT 151 may be substituted for MAT 135 & MAT 136.

Degree Requirements

- Honors Track students must maintain a minimum GPA of 3.300 (B+ average) in all economics courses taken at DePaul.
- Honors Track students must submit a paper written for any economics class that meets the following criteria: (a) the student earned a B+ or better on the paper; (b) the paper contained a literature review based on at least 5 sources; and (c) the paper was at least 10 pages OR used econometrics. This requirement must be satisfied using a paper from a course taken at DePaul. Students should contact the Director of the Undergraduate Economics Program for submission guidelines.

Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

The Economics (B.A.) offers two options:

- Economics (B.A.)/Business and Economic Policy Analysis (M.S.)
- Economics (B.A.)/Secondary Education Social Sciences (M.Ed.)

Economics (BA)/ Business and Economic Policy Analysis (MS)

The M.S. in Business and Economic Policy Analysis (MS-BEPA) gives students a distinguished and marketable set of skills in economic theory as it applies to business and economic policy analysis. Students learn how to conduct statistical and econometric research grounded in sound economic models using data from multiple sources on different issues. In addition, students will be able to explain their results and policy recommendations not only to economists, but also to politicians, and the general public.

MS-BEPA graduates can find employment in the private sector working for corporations in governmental relations departments, in federal and state governmental agencies, in trade associations or lobbying firms, or in the not-for-profit sector.

Undergraduate students will apply to the program during their junior year and will take the following three graduate level courses during their senior year:

- ECO 505 ADVANCED MICROECONOMICS
- ECO 515 MICROECONOMICS OF MARKET ORGANIZATION
- ECO 558 INTERNATIONAL MACROECONOMICS

These three courses will count towards completion of the B.A. with a major in Economics and will also count towards completion of the MS-BEPA. The undergraduate degree will be awarded at the completion of all undergraduate work while the MS-BEPA will be awarded upon completion of the remaining graduate level work.

Economics (BA)/ Secondary Education Social Science (M.Ed.)

The TEACH Program combines a Liberal Arts and Social Sciences (LAS) undergraduate Economics major with a graduate level College of Education (COE) Master's in Education Program. Students graduate with a B.A. in their disciplinary major and a M.Ed. in Education with State of Illinois Secondary Social Science licensure.

Students may apply to the Program during the spring of their junior year. They must enroll in the Junior Year Experiential Learning course, TCH 320, and meet other application criteria; these include completion of at least 16 quarter credit hours at DePaul and a 3.0 grade point average. During their senior year, students are required to complete a Program capstone course, TCH 390, and three 400-level courses that count toward both their undergraduate and graduate degrees:

- TCH 401 TEACHING AS A PROFESSION IN SECONDARY SCHOOL
- TCH 412 THE NATURE OF HISTORY AND THE SOCIAL SCIENCES
- TCH 422 INQUIRY & APPLICATION IN DEVELOPING SECONDARY HISTORY AND SOCIAL SCIENCES PEDAGOGY

Social Science Content Area (grades of C or better required for licensure):
The following Social Science content area requirements are required. These can be taken as part of the major, liberal studies or open elective requirements:

- HST 298 INTRODUCTION TO HISTORICAL SOURCES AND METHODS
- HST 299 CRAFT OF HISTORY
- 3 United States History courses
- 2 Non-United States History courses
- 6 from the economics major
- Additional licensure requirements: (one course in each area required
  - Geography (GEO 101 recommended)
  - Political Science (PSC 120 recommended)
  - Psychology (PSY 105 recommended)
  - Sociology (SOC 101 recommended)
  - Anthropology (ANT 102 recommended)

The Master’s year comprises teacher-preparation coursework that culminates with student teaching during Spring quarter. Upon graduation and the fulfilling of State of Illinois licensure requirements (which may require some additional course work in the student’s major and related fields), students are eligible to be licensed to teach Social Sciences at the 6th-12th grade levels.

Economics Honors (BSB)

The Honors Track in Economics is available to students completing the Bachelor of Science in Business with a major in Economics. It provides the opportunity to pursue a more challenging path of meeting degree requirements. In addition to maintaining a higher GPA, this path requires the demonstration of more quantitative and writing skills than the basic requirements for the Economics major. The student successfully completing this track would graduate with departmental honors.

Business Core Requirements

All undergraduate students in the Driehaus College of Business complete foundational courses in the areas of accountancy, mathematics, economics, business law, finance, management, management information systems, and marketing.

Course Requirements

For a student to complete the Bachelor of Science in Business, the following Business Core courses totaling at least 66.0 hours are required:

- ACC 101 INTRODUCTION TO ACCOUNTING I
- ACC 102 INTRODUCTION TO ACCOUNTING II
- BLW 201 LEGAL & ETHICAL ASPECTS IN THE BUSINESS ENVIRONMENT
- ECO 105 PRINCIPLES OF MICROECONOMICS
- ECO 106 PRINCIPLES OF MACROECONOMICS
- ECO 315 INTRODUCTION TO MONEY AND BANKING
- FIN 310 INTRODUCTION TO FINANCE
- MAT 136 BUSINESS CALCULUS II
- MGT 300 PRINCIPLES OF MANAGEMENT
- MGT 301 PRINCIPLES OF OPERATIONS MANAGEMENT
- MIS 140 MANAGEMENT INFORMATION SYSTEMS
- MKT 301 PRINCIPLES OF MARKETING
- MKT 310 CONSUMER BEHAVIOR
- One Business Capstone course to be chosen from:
  - ICS 394 ENTREPRENEURSHIP STRATEGY
  - ICS 395 MANAGEMENT STRATEGY
- One Communication course to be chosen from:
  - MKT 376 EFFECTIVE BUSINESS COMMUNICATION
  - ORGC 201 BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL COMMUNICATION
- One Global Business Perspective course to be chosen from:
  - ECO 316 EUROPEAN ECONOMIC HISTORY
  - ECO 333 TOPICS IN GLOBAL ECONOMIES
  - ECO 334 UNDERSTANDING CHINA’S ECONOMY
  - ECO 360 ECONOMICS OF LOW-INCOME COUNTRIES
  - ECO 361 INTERNATIONAL TRADE

  - MKT 340 MARKETING ACROSS CULTURES: A CULTURAL PERSPECTIVE ON MULTICULTURAL MARKETS
  - MKT 358 MARKETING IN A GLOBAL ENVIRONMENT
  - MKT 360 INTERNATIONAL MARKETING
  - A course taken as part of a term-long study abroad program
- One Professional Writing course to be chosen from:
  - WRD 202 PROFESSIONAL WRITING FOR BUSINESS (2.0 hours)
  - WRD 204 TECHNICAL WRITING
  - WRD 206 INTRODUCTION TO PROFESSIONAL WRITING

Second Majors and Minors

The addition of a second major or minor may affect the Business Core classes required for a student. Meet with an academic advisor to confirm requirements.

Math Requirements

- A student is expected to complete the business math sequence (MAT 135, MAT 136, and MAT 137) in the first year of study
- MAT 135 and MAT 137 are completed through Liberal Studies requirements
- MAT 135 may be replaced by MAT 150 or MAT 160
- MAT 136 may be replaced by MAT 151 or MAT 161
- MAT 135 and MAT 136 may be replaced by the sequence of MAT 147, MAT 148, and MAT 149; if done, an additional Scientific Inquiry course must be added to the degree plan
- MAT 137 may be replaced by MAT 348 or MAT 351; if done, an additional Scientific Inquiry course must be added to the degree plan.

Grade Minimums for Economics Major

A minimum grade of C- is required for the following: ACC 101, ACC 102, BLW 201, ECO 105, ECO 106, ECO 315, MAT 135, MAT 136, MAT 137, the course used for Professional Writing, and any ECO course used for Global Business Perspective.

Global Business Perspective

If an ECO course is shared between Global Business Perspective and the Economics major, additional hours of Open Elective credit are required.

Notes
Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student’s major and is cross-listed with a course within the student’s major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Major Requirements

Invitation
Economics majors will be invited each term to participate in the Honors Track if they meet the following criteria:
- Have declared Economics as their major (or second major)
- Have completed ECO 305 INTERMEDIATE MICROECONOMICS and ECO 306 INTERMEDIATE MACROECONOMICS with a minimum grade of B- in each course
- Have a minimum GPA of 3.300 in all Economics (ECO) courses taken at DePaul

Course Requirements
In addition to ECO 105, ECO 106 and ECO 315, a student majoring in the Honors Track in Economics is required to complete the following courses totaling at least 30.0 hours:
- One required course:
  - FIN 202 QUANTITATIVE REASONING (2.0 hours)
- Three required courses with B- minimum grade in each:
  - ECO 305 INTERMEDIATE MICROECONOMICS
  - ECO 306 INTERMEDIATE MACROECONOMICS
  - ECO 375 INTRODUCTION TO ECONOMETRICS
- One Advanced Economics Elective completed at DePaul with a B- minimum grade to be chosen from:
  - ECO 311 BUSINESS AND ECONOMIC FORECASTING
  - ECO 313 ECONOMICS OF REGULATION & ANTI TRUST LAWS
  - ECO 314 ECONOMICS OF THE PUBLIC SECTOR
• Any other ECO course that carries a prerequisite of ECO 305, ECO 306 or ECO 375

• Three electives to be chosen from:
  - ECO 310 URBAN ECONOMICS
  - ECO 311 BUSINESS AND ECONOMIC FORECASTING
  - ECO 312 THE CHICAGO ECONOMY
  - ECO 313 ECONOMICS OF REGULATION & ANTI TRUST LAWS
  - ECO 314 ECONOMICS OF THE PUBLIC SECTOR

  - ECO 362 INTERNATIONAL MONETARY ECONOMICS
  - ECO 379 GAME THEORY
  - ECO 380 MATHEMATICAL ECONOMICS
  - ECO 398 SPECIAL TOPICS (multiple topics may be used)
  - ECO 399 INDEPENDENT STUDY

FIN 202 may be replaced by a fifth Economics elective.

Open Electives

Open elective credit (16.0 hours) is needed to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Global Business Perspective

If an ECO course is shared between Global Business Perspective and the Economics major, additional hours of Open Elective credit are required.

Additional Requirements

Honors Track students must maintain a minimum GPA of 3.300 (B+ average) in all Economics (ECO) courses taken at DePaul.

Honors Track students must submit a paper written for any economics class that meets the following criteria: (a) the student earned a B+ or better on the paper; (b) the paper contained a literature review based on at least 5 sources; and (c) the paper was at least 10 pages OR used econometrics. This requirement must be satisfied using a paper from a course taken at DePaul. Students should contact the Director of the Undergraduate Economics Program for submission guidelines. The director position is currently held by Associate Professor Laura Owen, lowen@depaul.edu.

Degree Conferral Requirements

All Economics (ECO) courses and any other courses used toward the Economics major must be completed with a minimum grade of C- and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.

Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

Economics (BSB)/ Business and Economic Policy Analysis (MS)

The MS in Business and Economic Policy Analysis gives students a distinguished and marketable set of skills in economic theory as it applies to business and policy analysis. Students learn how to conduct statistical and econometric research grounded in sound economic models using data from multiple sources on different issues. In addition, students will be able to explain their results and policy recommendations not only to economists, but also to politicians and the general public.

M.S.-BEPA graduates can find employment in the private sector working for corporations in governmental relations departments, in federal and state governmental agencies, in trade associations or lobbying firms, or in the not-for-profit sector.

Undergraduate students will apply to the program during their junior year and will take the following three graduate level courses during their senior year:

- ECO 505 ADVANCED MICROECONOMICS
- ECO 515 MICROECONOMICS OF MARKET ORGANIZATION
- ECO 558 INTERNATIONAL MACROECONOMICS

These three courses will count towards completion of the BSB with a major in Economics and will also count towards completion of the MS-BEPA. The undergraduate degree will be awarded at the completion of all undergraduate work while the MS-BEPA will be awarded upon completion of the remaining graduate level work.
Electronics (Minor)

The minor in Electronics provides a grounding in physics and a fundamental technical understanding of linear circuits and digital electronics to enable you to troubleshoot and create basic electronic circuits.

Course Requirements

- PHY 110 BASIC ELECTRONICS: PRINCIPLES & TECHNIQUES
- PHY 231 LINEAR ELECTRIC CIRCUITS
- PHY 232 INTRODUCTION TO DIGITAL ELECTRONICS
- Three additional physics courses

Students cannot earn a minor in the same academic program as their major.

Elementary Education (BS)

The Bachelor of Science program in Elementary Education prepares students to teach Kindergarten through 9th grade in a variety of urban and suburban education settings, including public and private elementary and middle schools.

Students learn educational theories and effective teaching practices, participate in field experiences, which require observation and participation in teaching activities at multiple schools, and student teaching. Students should meet early and regularly with their advisor to design and monitor their program of study.

The program combines theoretical principles of education and field work with the student's choice of major. Students follow a general pattern of study for middle school and high school levels. In all cases, appropriate field experience plays an integral role.

Students entering the program must be able and willing to devote themselves to a program requiring a minimum of 155-170 hours of daytime field experiences in schools. These school-based clinical hours are completed in conjunction with methodology courses that require students to spend a half-day each week in a school. In addition, the student must spend a minimum of 11 weeks in full-time student teaching.

Along with general elementary education courses, EE majors are required to complete a series of courses in a specific concentration in liberal arts. Possible concentration areas include: Anthropology, Arabic, Art, Bilingual Education, Biology, Catholic Studies, Chemistry, Chinese, Communications, Economics, English, Environmental Science, ESL, French, Geography, General Science, German, History, Italian, Japanese, Language Arts, Math, Philosophy, Physical Science, Physics, Political Science, Psychology, Religious Studies, Social Studies, Sociology, and Spanish.

Please make sure you consult the Liberal Studies Requirements, Major Requirements, and College Core Requirements for full degree requirements.

Licensure

Illinois Professional Educator License with endorsement in Elementary Education (self-contained) (kindergarten-grade 9), an Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) approved program.

College Core Requirements

Dispositions

The academic programs within the College of Education have set forth these dispositions as educational and professional expectations for all students. Students should be aware that failing to abide by DePaul University or College of Education policies including, under certain circumstances, these dispositions, could result in adverse consequences for the student, including removal from his or her program, the College of Education, or the University.

The following dispositions apply to Early Childhood Education, Elementary Education, Physical Education, Secondary Education, and World Language Education majors only:

- Reflects on progress and identifies strengths and weaknesses, including evaluating strategies for success, finding alternatives for inappropriate strategies, and modifying future practices
- Is receptive to faculty feedback and acts meaningfully and professionally upon suggestions
- Values critical thinking, including engaging theoretical and philosophical frameworks and shows evidence of critical thinking through discussion and writing (e.g., journals, response to prompts)
- Understands the importance of and is committed to communicating clearly orally and in writing both in traditional and in new and emerging digital formats
- Values and is committed to continually developing strong content area knowledge and/or knowledge of the professional field, including pedagogical content knowledge
- Takes initiative, uses imagination and creativity, and seeks out information using a variety of human and material resources and technology to inform his or her teaching
- Is aware of the role of classroom environment and uses management procedures that reflect respect and care for learners and concern for their emotional and physical well being
- Takes the time and effort needed to understand how students learn, including discovering their interests and experiences and determining how to shape teaching acts (using technology as appropriate) that engage learners meaningfully and actively
- Values and is committed to using assessment to evaluate and ensure the continuous intellectual, social, emotional, and physical development of the learner
- Respects and considers cultural contexts in order to determine how to be responsive to learners and to proactively promote all students' learning
- Values and is responsive to diverse learners' academic, emotional, and social needs through teaching acts (including careful instructional planning, implementation, and differentiation) and through everyday interactions with students
- Is committed to collaboration with colleagues, families, and communities in order to promote all students' learning and development
- Recognizes and fulfills professional responsibilities and habits of conduct (e.g., dress, language, preparedness, attendance, punctuality, etc.)
- Demonstrates collegiality, honesty, good judgment, courtesy, respect, and diplomacy
- Balances self-confidence and assertiveness with respect for others' perspectives
- Respects the requirements, expectations, and procedures of both the College of Education and of our field partners and appreciates the issues of trust, fairness, and professionalism involved

The following dispositions apply to Special Education majors only:

- Is receptive to faculty feedback and acts meaningfully and professionally upon suggestions
- Reflects on his or her own progress, identifies strengths and weaknesses, and evaluates strategies for success and professional growth
- Takes initiative
- Is open to new ideas and engagement in learning
- Respects diversity and cultural contexts to determine how to be responsive to learners and to proactively promote all students' learning
- Expresses positive attitudes toward individuals with disabilities and a willingness to advocate on their behalf
- Is committed to collaboration with colleagues, families, and communities in order to promote all students' learning and development
- Demonstrates professional ethical and legal behavior as defined by the respective codes of ethics and laws
- Demonstrates consistent professional behavior across all academic settings
- Maintains appropriate interpersonal and professional boundaries
- Accepts personal responsibility for one's behavior
- Expresses feelings and opinions effectively and appropriately
- Upholds confidentiality

Skill Building Courses

Before taking any math or English courses, students must take the DePaul placement tests to determine if skill
Advanced Standing

Students are conditionally admitted to the College of Education. There are additional requirements to reach Advanced Standing in your program in the College of Education. Requirements must be met to progress in the major and take courses in the Advanced Standing category.

Advanced Standing requirements are:

- Maintain a DePaul undergraduate 2.5 GPA
- Pass the Illinois Test of Academic Proficiency (TAP)
- Submit a petition for advanced standing form

Students should attempt to complete the Advanced Standing requirements soon after beginning the program. There is no time limit to meet these criteria; however, students will only be able to take pre-education courses until requirements have been met. Students can also take liberal studies or content area courses before or after meeting Advanced Standing requirements.

Modern Language Competence Requirement

Students pursuing a Bachelor of Arts degree in the College of Education will be required to demonstrate a measure of competence in a modern language, as defined by the college. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing two years of a language sequence in high school
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

Please note: The Modern Language Competence Requirement is not required for students in the Early Childhood Education: SNL Joint Program (BAECE) program.

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Education will abide by the COE Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.

B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program. While B.S. students are not required to demonstrate competency in a modern language, the "Modern Language Option" is available to them for language study at any level.

Licensure Tests

All individuals licensed by the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) are required to complete licensure tests specific to their teaching license.

Field Experiences

Each student seeking licensure from the College of Education/Professional Education Unit must complete supervised field experiences in appropriate settings in conjunction with education courses. The field experiences must include a variety of grade levels, multicultural experiences, and a minimum of 10 hours in special education settings. All field experiences must be completed prior to final approval for student teaching. Field experience hours should be entered by the student into the FEDS system when completing courses with field experience requirements.

Endorsements

An endorsement is a subject area that you can qualify to teach full time, in addition to your main licensure area. Endorsements are issued at three levels: primary, middle school, and high school.
The Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) issues endorsements in various subject areas. To view the full list and requirements, visit the ISBE website.

Qualifying for an endorsement at the middle school level requires 18 semester hours (27 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area and complete SCU 339. Some areas (like math) have specifically required courses or require additional hours. Courses must have a grade of C or better to qualify for endorsements and must be earned credit listed on a college transcript as earned credit.

Consult with your advisor regarding endorsements. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following middle school areas: Arabic, art, bilingual education, biological science, Chinese, ESL, French, general science, German, Italian, Japanese, language arts, math, physical science, social science, and Spanish.

In general, endorsement requirements for the primary level are identical to the middle school requirements except that they do not require SCU 339. There are a limited number of areas available at the primary level.

Qualifying for most endorsements at the high school level requires 24 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area* and passing the relevant content area test. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following high school areas: art, Arabic, Chinese, English, French, German, Italian, Japanese, math, Russian, science, social science, and Spanish.

* Exceptions to the basic requirements for high school level endorsements include the subject areas of foreign language, science, and social science.

 For science and social science, 32 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in the broad area of either science or social science, and 12 semester hours in the specific endorsement designation area, plus the content area test are required. To qualify for additional science and social science designations, individuals applying after February 1, 2012 need both the content test and 12 semester hours in the additional designation area.

Special Education majors do not qualify for middle school endorsements.

Student Teaching Requirements

Student Teaching is the culminating clinical experience in the student's program. All students in teacher preparation programs must meet the following requirements before applying for student teaching:

Academic Requirements:

- Completion of all Liberal Studies, Pre-Education, Advanced Standing and concentration/content area courses
- Overall cumulative G.P.A. of 2.50 or better
- Cumulative GPA. of 2.75 or better in all education courses
- Meet all other program requirements (e.g., modern language and residency requirements)
- Meet designated program standards
- Pass the required Illinois licensure content area test

Clinical Requirements:

- Completion of all required field experiences
- Three satisfactory evaluations in field experiences
- Three satisfactory faculty recommendations
- Attendance at mandatory meeting for student teaching
- Application for student teaching, resume, transcripts, and writing sample (check deadlines)
- Review and approval by Student Teaching Committee of the College of Education

Student Teaching Timeline and Deadlines:

- Attend a Mandatory Meeting approximately 1 year prior to expected quarter of student teaching.
- Submit application for student teaching after attending Mandatory Meeting, approximately 1 year prior to student teaching.
- Academic requirements are due one quarter before expected quarter of student teaching.
- Clinical requirements are completed as course requirements. Field experience hours are entered by the student as coursework is completed.

Online Faculty Evaluations are entered by the instructor of relevant courses. All data must be entered in the Field Experience Documentation System (FEDS) due one month prior to student teaching.

Individual child care agencies and public and private school districts may have additional requirements (application, training, background check, etc.).
Degree Conferral and Graduation

The awarding of a degree is not automatic. You must submit an application to be considered for the degree. DePaul awards and posts degrees at the end of each regular academic term (autumn, winter, spring, summer I and summer II).

It is your responsibility to initiate the degree conferral application process by submitting an online application. Submitting an application means you intend to finish your degree requirements by the end of the term for which you have applied.

Undergraduate students must be approved for student teaching and complete student teaching and capstone to be cleared for the degree. Student must submit graduation application for the quarter that matches the quarter you are student teaching.

After you submit the application, you cannot register for any term after the one selected in the application.

Application deadlines are as follows:
- Fall Quarter - October 1st
- Winter Quarter - January 15th
- Spring Quarter - February 1st
- Summer Quarter - July 15th

To apply for degree conferral, log on to Campus Connection. Select STUDENT CENTER, then MY ACADEMICS. On screen instructions will take you through the application process.

Provided that all requirements and financial obligations are met, degrees are posted 30 days after the official end of the term. Official dates are listed on the Academic Calendar.

DePaul holds one commencement ceremony each year in June. If you intend to participate, you must first apply for degree conferral for the current academic year and then submit a cap and gown order. Honors are not announced at the ceremony for undergraduates completing their final courses in spring quarter because a final GPA is not available at the time of the ceremony.

Additional information about degree conferral and graduation can be found on the College of Education website at: http://education.depaul.edu/.

Licensure

Requirements for licensure include completion of full bachelor's degree program, all licensure tests (including OPI for world language majors), and awarding of bachelor's degree. A bachelor's degree is required to qualify for licensure and must be awarded before applying for the license.

Individuals must submit an application directly to the Illinois State Board of Education after completion of requirements and after DePaul has submitted notification to ISBE. Application requirements include application form, application fee, official transcripts, and registration fee.

All individuals must meet ISBE requirements in place at the time of application for the license. Requirements are subject to change per the discretion of ISBE.

Individuals seeking additional endorsements after applying for the licensure must contact ISBE directly for an evaluation request.

Liberal Studies Requirements

Honors program requirements can be found in the individual Colleges & Schools section of the University Catalog. Select Academics, followed by Undergraduate, then Honors Program Alternative.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.

Major Requirements

Course Requirements

Pre-Education Core: 16 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

- SCU 207 SOCIAL AND HISTORICAL ISSUES IN EDUCATION
- EE 281 INTRODUCTION TO EDUCATIONAL PRACTICE
- EE 347 CHILDREN'S LITERATURE
- PE 206 PERSONAL AND COMMUNITY HEALTH
  or PE 273 HEALTH AND NUTRITION

Mathematics for Elementary Teachers: 8 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

- MAT 110 FOUNDATIONS OF MATHEMATICS FOR ELEMENTARY SCHOOL TEACHERS I
- MAT 111 FOUNDATIONS OF MATHEMATICS FOR ELEMENTARY SCHOOL TEACHERS II

Concentration Courses: 28 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

A concentration is a single area of study in liberal arts (cannot include coursework in Education).

- 100, 200, 300 level Concentration Course 1
- 100, 200, 300 level Concentration Course 1
- 100, 200, 300 level Concentration Course 1
- 200-300 level Concentration Course 1
- 200-300 level Concentration Course 2
- 200-300 level Concentration Course 3
- 200-300 level Concentration Course 4

Possible concentrations areas include: Anthropology, Arabic, Art, Bilingual Education, Biology, Catholic Studies,
* Students pursuing a Math concentration are required to take:

- MAT 150 CALCULUS I
- MAT 151 CALCULUS II
- MAT 152 CALCULUS III
- MAT 215 INTRODUCTION TO MATHEMATICAL REASONING
- Choose 3 of the following:
  - MAT 301 HISTORY OF MATHEMATICS
  - MAT 303 THEORY OF NUMBERS
  - MAT 320 GEOMETRY I
  - MAT 348 APPLIED STATISTICAL METHODS
  - CSC 211 PROGRAMMING IN JAVA I
  - CSC 261 PROGRAMMING IN C++ I

Students in the math concentration will also take MAT 110 and MAT 111 as part of the elementary major.

Advanced Standing Education Courses: 44 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

- SCU 336 ADOLESCENT AND ADULT GROWTH AND DEVELOPMENT
  or SCU 337 HUMAN GROWTH AND DEVELOPMENT
- SCU 338 THE PROCESS AND EVALUATION OF LEARNING
  or SCU 339 PHILOSOPHY AND PSYCHOLOGY OF YOUTH AND MIDDLE LEVEL EDUCATION
- EE 317 PHYSICAL EDUCATION AND CLASSROOM MANAGEMENT IN THE ELEMENTARY SCHOOL
- EE 324 READING/LANGUAGE ARTS IN THE EARLY YEARS
- EE 326 READING/LANGUAGE ARTS IN INTERMEDIATE AND MIDDLE GRADES

- EE 355 METHODS: CONTEMPORARY TEACHING OF SOCIAL STUDIES
- EE 356 ASSESSMENT IN THE ELEMENTARY CLASSROOMS
- LSI 346 STRATEGIES FOR MAINSTREAMING AND INCLUSION

Open Electives: 4 quarter hours required

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours. The following cannot be used to fulfill an open elective: WRD 98, MAT 94, and MAT 95.

Student Teaching: 12 quarter hours required, grade of B- or better required

Registration in student teaching requires completion of all requirements and procedures indicated in the college core section. EDU 95 indicates to the Illinois State Board of Education that all field experience hours are complete. All students also take EE 384, Capstone Experience with student teaching (listed in the Liberal Studies section).

- EE 385 ELEMENTARY STUDENT TEACHING (12 hours)
- EDU 95 CLINICAL EXPERIENCE WITH CHILDREN AND YOUTH (non-credit, non-tuition, PA grade required)

Licensure Tests

All individuals licensed by the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) are required to complete licensure tests specific to their teaching license. Elementary majors must complete the following tests:

- Test of Academic Proficiency (TAP) (test #400) - assesses knowledge of reading comprehension, language arts, writing, and math. Test is required to qualify for Advanced Standing. *Check with your advisor about qualifying for a waiver with acceptable ACT or SAT test scores.
- Elementary Content Area Test (test #110) – assesses knowledge of the content of what is taught at the elementary level including language arts and literacy, mathematics, science, social science, the arts, health, and physical education. Test is required before Student Teaching (deadlines apply).
- Assessment of Professional Teaching (APT) (test #102, grades K-9) – assesses knowledge of teaching planning, delivery, assessment, professionalism, and technology. Test is required to be licensed, recommended to be taken before Student Teaching.
English (BA)

The English major exposes students to a broad range of literatures in English, strengthens their grasp of historical and critical principles, and hones their skill in using the written word. English majors study the major authors, works, genres, and literary movements in the British and American traditions, approaching these texts both analytically and historically. Students in the Creative Writing concentration also take a number of workshops, practicing writing in a variety of literary genres. Both concentrations teach students to read perceptively and to write effectively, to deepen their understanding of the power of language, to think creatively and critically, and to develop an awareness of multiple points of view.

College Core Requirements

Study in the Major Field

The student’s course of study in the College consists of three parts: Liberal Studies, the major field, and electives. Together these three parts contribute to the liberal education of the student which is the common purpose of all study in the College. By "liberal education" the College understands not only a deep and thorough knowledge of a particular area of study but a knowledge of the diverse areas of study represented by criticism, history, the arts, the behavioral and social sciences, philosophy, religious studies, the natural science, and mathematics.

The major field program generally is built upon a set of core courses and a specialized "concentration." The number of courses required for a major varies by department. Most students go beyond the minimum requirements, electing additional courses which both broaden and deepen their understanding of their chosen discipline.

Because no academic major program is built in isolation, students are required to pursue a number of electives of the student’s choice. The inherent flexibility of this curriculum demands that the student consult an academic advisor at each stage in the total program and at least once prior to each registration.

Students will be prompted to visit the College Office for their official graduation check early in their senior year.

Declaration of Major, Minor and Concentration

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor in the major field department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

Students must declare or change majors, minors, and concentrations, via Campus Connection. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the Office for Academic Advising Support.

Competence in Modern Language

All students will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language (i.e., a language other than English) equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in the fourth-year high school sequence of any language
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations or achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language, or achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program, or achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College will abide by this Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT, regardless of when they first matriculated at DePaul.

Students who have met the Modern Language Requirement and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program (see "Special Programs").

External Credit and Residency

A student who has been admitted to the College begins residency within the college as of the first day of classes of the term in which the student is registered. Students in residence, whether attending on a full-time or part-time basis, may not take courses away from DePaul University without the written permission of the college. Permission must be obtained in advance of registration to avoid loss of credit or residency in the college; see the LAS website for more information.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.
Major Requirements

Course Requirements

All English majors must complete the following core courses early in their studies:

- ENG 220 READING POETRY
- ENG 221 READING PROSE

These courses are prerequisites for many of the 300-level courses in the major.

Concentration Requirements

English majors should declare a concentration in Literary Studies or Creative Writing by the time they complete the English core courses. All further course requirements are listed within the two concentrations.

Concentration Requirements

Concentrations, tracks and specializations provide focus to the major. In addition to any college core requirements, liberal studies requirements and major requirements, students are required to choose one of the following:

- Creative Writing
- Literary Studies

Creative Writing Concentration

The Creative Writing concentration trains students in writing imaginatively for professional publication. Students strengthen their creative skills in a variety of genres through a series of writing workshops, which they take alongside courses in literary history and analysis. They acquire a solid grounding in literary forms; they learn to think critically and creatively about how writers represent the material of everyday life; they gain insight into writing and audience through the intense study of style, voice, and genre; and they develop an understanding of the standards by which literary works are judged.

Course Requirements

Completion of ENG 220 and ENG 221 required.

Creative Writing
• ENG 201 CREATIVE WRITING
• ENG 291 INTERMEDIATE FICTION WRITING or ENG 292 INTERMEDIATE POETRY WRITING
• Three additional writing workshops chosen from:
  o ENG 307 ADVANCED FICTION WRITING
  o ENG 308 ADVANCED POETRY WRITING
  o ENG 309 TOPICS IN WRITING

Literary Analysis

• One literary genre course chosen from:
  o ENG 364 AMERICAN GENRE STUDIES
  o ENG 365 MODERN AMERICAN FICTION
  o ENG 366 MODERN POETRY
  o ENG 375 STUDIES IN SHORT FICTION
  o 300-level topics courses focused on a single genre
• One major author course chosen from:
  o ENG 311 CHAUCER
  o ENG 327 MILTON
  o ENG 328 SHAKESPEARE
  o ENG 382 MAJOR AUTHORS
• One literary history course chosen from:
  o ENG 310 ENGLISH LITERATURE TO 1500
  o ENG 319 TOPICS IN MEDIEVAL LITERATURE
  o ENG 320 ENGLISH RENAISSANCE LITERATURE
  o ENG 329 TOPICS IN RENAISSANCE LITERATURE
  o ENG 330 RESTORATION AND 18TH CENTURY LITERATURE
  o ENG 339 TOPICS IN RESTORATION AND 18TH CENTURY ENGLISH LITERATURE
  o ENG 340 NINETEENTH CENTURY BRITISH LITERATURE
  o ENG 349 TOPICS IN NINETEENTH CENTURY BRITISH LITERATURE
  o ENG 350 MODERN BRITISH LITERATURE
  o ENG 359 TOPICS IN MODERN BRITISH LITERATURE
  o ENG 360 AMERICAN LITERATURE TO 1830
  o ENG 361 AMERICAN LITERATURE 1830 TO 1865
  o ENG 362 AMERICAN LITERATURE FROM 1865 TO 1920
  o ENG 363 AMERICAN LITERATURE SINCE 1920
  o ENG 369 TOPICS IN AMERICAN LITERATURE

Major Electives

Four English electives, at least three of which must be at the 300 level.

Diverse Traditions Requirement

English majors must take at least one course in English designated as “Diverse Traditions.” Diverse Traditions courses focus on historically under-represented groups. Qualifying concentration requirements or major electives are designated as “Diverse Traditions” or “DT” courses in the quarterly schedule.

Research Intensive Requirement

English majors who declared their majors after January 1, 2012, must take at least one course in English designated as “Research Intensive.” These courses integrate research instruction and assignments with the subject matter of the course. Qualifying concentration requirements or major electives are designated as “Research Intensive” or “RI” in the quarterly schedule.
Literary Studies Concentration

The Literary Studies concentration broadens and deepens students’ knowledge of literature and language through a range of courses focused on historical periods, literary movements, the structure of language, and critical approaches to literature. Students learn to read works of literature in their historical and cultural contexts; they develop their powers of textual analysis and their critical vocabulary; they examine and question the values expressed in literature; they practice research methods; and they work towards a written style that is clear, precise, and persuasive.

Course Requirements

Completion of ENG 220 and ENG 221 required.

Studies in British Literature

- ENG 328 SHAKESPEARE
- Four courses chosen from:
  - ENG 310 ENGLISH LITERATURE TO 1500
  - ENG 320 ENGLISH RENAISSANCE LITERATURE
  - ENG 330 RESTORATION AND 18TH CENTURY LITERATURE
  - ENG 340 NINETEENTH CENTURY BRITISH LITERATURE
  - ENG 350 MODERN BRITISH LITERATURE

Studies in American Literature

Two courses chosen from:

- ENG 360 AMERICAN LITERATURE TO 1830
  - or ENG 361 AMERICAN LITERATURE 1830 TO 1865
- ENG 362 AMERICAN LITERATURE FROM 1865 TO 1920
  - or ENG 363 AMERICAN LITERATURE SINCE 1920

Major Electives

- Five English electives, three of which must be at the 300 level.

Diverse Traditions Requirement

English majors must take at least one course in English designated as "Diverse Traditions." Diverse Traditions courses focus on historically under-represented groups. Qualifying concentration requirements or major electives are designated as "Diverse Traditions" or "DT" courses in the quarterly schedule.

Research Intensive Requirement

English majors who declared their majors after January 1, 2012, must take at least one course in English designated as "Research Intensive." These courses integrate research instruction and assignments with the subject matter of the course. Qualifying concentration requirements or major electives are designated as "Research Intensive" or "RI" in the quarterly schedule.

Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.
The English (B.A.) offers three options:

- English (B.A.)/English (M.A.)
- English (B.A.)/Writing and Publishing (M.A.)
- English (B.A.)/Secondary Education English (M.Ed.)

English (BA)/English (MA)

Students apply to this program in the last quarter of their junior-year status; interested students should meet with the Director of the program. Applicants must have a minimum grade point average of 3.50 in English and 3.30 overall, and should have completed at least English 220, English 221, and two additional 300-level English courses. Students in this program take twelve graduate credit hours in their senior year; these graduate courses apply toward both undergraduate and graduate English requirements.

English (BA)/Writing and Publishing (MA)

Students apply to this program in the last quarter of their junior-year status; interested students should meet with the Director of the program. Applicants must have a minimum grade point average of 3.50 in English and 3.30 overall and must have completed at least ENG 220, ENG 221, and two creative writing workshops beyond ENG 201 at the time of beginning the program.

English (BA)/Secondary Education English (MEd)

The TEACH Program combines a Liberal Arts and Social Sciences (LAS) undergraduate English major with a graduate level College of Education (COE) Master's in Education Program. Students graduate with a B.A. in English and an M.Ed. in Education with State of Illinois Secondary English Language Arts licensure. This combined degree program of the College of Liberal Arts, the College of Science and Health, and Social Sciences and the College of Education was collaboratively developed, and is governed and taught by faculty from these units.

Students may apply to the Program during the spring of their junior year. They must complete the Junior Year Experiential Learning course, TCH 320, and meet other application criteria prior to applying; these include completion of at least 16 quarter credit hours at DePaul and a 3.0 GPA. During their senior year, students are required to complete a Program capstone course, TCH 390, and three 400-level courses that count toward both their undergraduate and graduate degrees:

- TCH 401 Teaching as a Profession in Secondary School
- TCH 411 The Nature of English
- TCH 421 Inquiry & Application in Developing Secondary English Pedagogy

English Content Area (grades of C or better required for licensure):

The following English content area requirements are required and should be taken as either part of the major or open elective requirements:

- Introduction to Literature course: ENG 120 or 200-level LSP English course
- Reading Poetry course: ENG 220 or ENG 366
- Shakespeare course: ENG 228 or ENG 328
- Literary Research and Writing/Reading Prose course: ENG 221
- Linguistics/Grammar/History of the English Language course: ENG 211, ENG 370, WRD 203, ENG 300, WRD 300, WRD 323, or WRD 340
- Three British Literature courses chosen from: ENG 245, any ENG course in the 310s-350s sequence, ENG 382 (when focused on British authors), ENG 383 (when focused on British authors), ENG 387 (when focused on British literature), ENG 388 (when focused on British literature), ENG 389 (when focused on British literature)
- Two 300-level Literature elective courses (With permission, an upper-level writing course may be substituted)
- Fulfillment of the Diverse Traditions Requirement
- Five of these courses must be at the 300-level

The Master's year comprises teacher-preparation coursework that culminates with student teaching during Spring quarter. Upon graduation and the fulfillment of State of Illinois Licensure requirements (which may require some additional course work in the student's major and related fields), students are eligible to be licensed to teach English at the 6th-12th grade levels.
A full description of the Program can be found on the College of Education website in the graduate course catalog. Students interested in the Program should consult Dr. Robert Meyer, TEACH Program Advisor for English.

English as a Second Language (Minor)

The English as a Second Language (ESL) minor provides a learning opportunity to all DePaul students for those interested in working with second language learners. Students gain a comprehensive and in-depth understanding of second-language acquisition, as well as related educational theories and practices.

Students interested in this minor should consult home college advisors and secure permission from the Bilingual-Bicultural Education Program to enroll.

Course Requirements

7 courses are required for the minor:

- BBE 310 SPECIAL TOPICS IN LANGUAGE EDUCATION
- BBE 304 LANGUAGE, LITERACY AND CULTURE
  or  BBE 370 SECOND & WORLD LANGUAGE LITERACIES AND CULTURES
- BBE 307 EQUITY ISSUES IN ASSESSMENT
- BBE 324 METHODS OF TEACHING ESL
- BBE 325 BILITERACY PRACTICES IN BILINGUAL EDUCATION AND ESL
- BBE 326 THEORETICAL FOUNDATIONS OF ESL AND WLE
- BBE 366 FIRST AND SECOND LANGUAGE ACQUISITION
  or  BBE 360 SECOND, WORLD AND HERITAGE LANGUAGE ACQUISITION K-12

Minor in ESL with ESL Endorsement

This option is only available to undergraduates in the College of Education pursuing ISBE Licensure.

The minor with endorsement requires the above 7 courses PLUS 100 fieldwork hours (including registration in BBE 97)

- BBE 97 100 FIELD EXPERIENCE HOURS IN ESL / BE DOCUMENTED

Minor in ESL with ESL and Bilingual Endorsement

This option is only available to undergraduates in the College of Education pursuing ISBE Licensure.

The minor with both endorsements requires the above 7 courses PLUS BBE 316, 100 fieldwork hours (including registration in BBE 97), and a passing score on the Target Language Proficiency Test.

- BBE 316 SOCIOCULTURAL AND HISTORICAL PERSPECTIVES IN BILINGUAL EDUCATION
- BBE 97 100 FIELD EXPERIENCE HOURS IN ESL / BE DOCUMENTED

ISBE offers the Target Language Proficiency Test in the following languages:
Arabic, Assyrian, Bosnian, Burmese, Bulgarian, Cantonese, English, Filipino, Greek, Gujarati, Hindi, Japanese, Korean, Lao, Lithuanian, Malayalam, Mandarin, Nepali, Polish, Russian, Serbian, Spanish, Telugu, Ukrainian, Urdu, Vietnamese
Environmental Science (BS)

The B.S. degree in Environmental Science is a broad, science-based curriculum designed to prepare students for a variety of environmentally-related technical careers, as well as for graduate programs in environmental and allied fields. The program requires 192 credit hours and draws upon the faculty and resources of several departments. Majors take core courses in Biology, Chemistry, Environmental Science, Mathematics, and Physics, advanced study in Environmental Science and five University-wide electives.

College Core Requirements

Modern Language Requirements

Students who intend to graduate with the Bachelor of Arts (B.A.) Degree will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in the fourth-year high school sequence of any language
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Science and Health will abide by the College of Science and Health Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.

B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program. While Bachelor of Science (B.S.) students are not required to demonstrate competency in a modern language, the "Modern Language Option" is available to them for language study at any level.

Major Declaration Requirements

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. After researching College programs, the student should declare a major field by visiting Campus Connection and using the Declarations and Inter-College Transfer tool. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor or staff advisor in the department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

To change major fields, or to declare a minor or concentration, the student must use the Declarations and Inter-College Transfer tool described above. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the College or an academic advisor in the Office for Academic Advising Support.

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. (Courses in the range 150-199 are exceptions to this rule.) If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student’s major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

The Environmental Science and Studies Capstone, ENV 350, is part of the Liberal Studies Program (see Liberal Studies Requirements). ENV 350 is designed to allow students to reflect on their entire college career as they prepare for graduation. It creates an opportunity for students to integrate their major and liberal studies coursework and to better understand how each informs and enhances the other. Students in the University Honors Program and students with a double major may be required to take a different Capstone. If this is the case, they may choose to substitute ENV 350 as one of their required 300-level ENV courses or as an open elective.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.
Combined Bachelor's/Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

Environmental Science/ Studies (BA/BS)/ Master of Sustainable Management (MSSM)

The combined degree provides environmental science/studies students with advanced knowledge of business systems and practices, focusing on environmental sustainability, to create leaders for business, government and civic organizations. For more information on the full Master of Sustainable Management curriculum, go to MSSM degree requirements found within the graduate programs section of the University Catalog.

Admission Requirements

Current DePaul Environmental Science or Studies majors who meet the following criteria may apply to this program:

- Junior standing or higher (at least 88.0 credits)
- A minimum cumulative DePaul grade point average of 3.300

Admission to the combined program does not require the GMAT, essays, or letters of recommendation.

Classes During Senior Year

If accepted into the combined program, students will take three graduate classes during the senior year. These three graduate classes at 12 quarter hours will count toward the bachelor's degree - as indicated below - and toward the master's degree. Students are limited to applying a maximum of 12 quarter hours toward both the bachelor's and master's degrees. Students should note that expectations for graduate classes are typically more rigorous than for undergraduate classes. Students can choose from the following list of core MSSM courses; other options available upon consultation with the MSSM advisor.

- FIN 559 SUSTAINABLE VALUE CREATION
- MGT 515 SUSTAINABLE MANAGEMENT
- CMNS 535 ENVIRONMENTAL RHETORIC AND POLITICS (equivalent to INTC 326 ENVIRONMENTAL POLITICS AND RHETORIC). Students may not take both; students interested in this combined program should take CMNS 535 ENVIRONMENTAL RHETORIC AND POLITICS instead of INTC 326 ENVIRONMENTAL POLITICS AND RHETORIC
- Other courses in consultation with the Program Advisor

Final Quarter of Senior Year

During the final quarter of the bachelor's degree, students must petition for formal admission into the Kellstadt Graduate School of Business. The admission criteria are as follows:

- Completion of the Bachelor of Arts in Environmental Studies or Bachelor of Science in Environmental Science
- A minimum cumulative DePaul grade point average of 3.300
- A minimum grade point average for graduate courses of 3.000
- Student must apply for undergraduate degree conferral of their Environmental Science or Studies program in anticipation of completing their fourth year of study.

After Senior Year

After completion of the undergraduate degree including the three graduate courses, students take nine additional graduate classes to complete the graduate degree, for a total of twelve graduate classes. Information on the MSSM degree can be found in the graduate program degree requirements section of the University Catalog.

For an application to the combined program (at the end of your junior year) or to learn more about it, please contact the chair of the Environmental Science and Studies department.

Environmental Science (BS)/ Secondary Education Environmental Science (MEd)

This combined degree program of the College of Science and Health and the College of Education was
Students may apply to the Program during the spring of their junior year. They must enroll in the Junior Year Experiential Learning course, TCH 320, and meet other application criteria; these include completion of at least 16 quarter credit hours at DePaul and a 3.0 GPA. During their senior year, students are required to complete a Program capstone course, TCH 390, and three 400-level courses that count toward both their undergraduate and graduate degrees:

- TCH 401 TEACHING AS A PROFESSION IN SECONDARY SCHOOL
- TCH 414 THE NATURE OF SCIENCE
- TCH 424 INQUIRY & APPLICATION IN DEVELOPING SECONDARY SCIENCE PEDAGOGY

Environmental Science Content Area (grades of C or better required for licensure):
The following environmental content area requirements are required. These can be taken as part of the major, liberal studies or open elective requirements:

- BIO 191 GENERAL BIOLOGY I FOR SCIENCE MAJORS
- BIO 192 GENERAL BIOLOGY II FOR SCIENCE MAJORS
- BIO 193 GENERAL BIOLOGY III FOR SCIENCE MAJORS
- CHE 130 GENERAL CHEMISTRY I and CHE 131 GENERAL CHEMISTRY I LABORATORY
- CHE 132 GENERAL CHEMISTRY II and CHE 133 GENERAL CHEMISTRY LABORATORY II
- CHE 134 GENERAL CHEMISTRY III and CHE 135 GENERAL CHEMISTRY LABORATORY III
- PHY 150 GENERAL PHYSICS I
- PHY 151 GENERAL PHYSICS II
- PHY 152 GENERAL PHYSICS III
- BIO 215 ECOLOGY

  - ENV 322 ECOSYSTEM ECOLOGY
  - ENV 340 URBAN ECOLOGY
  - ENV 345 URBAN AGRICULTURE
  - ENV 355 INTRODUCTION TO ENVIRONMENTAL HEALTH

The Master’s year comprises teacher-preparation coursework that culminates with student teaching during Spring quarter. Upon graduation and the fulfilling of State of Illinois licensure requirements (which may require some additional course work in the student’s major and related fields), students are eligible to be licensed to teach Environmental Science at the 6th-12th grade levels.

A full description of the Program can be found on the College of Education website in the graduate course catalog. Students interested in the Program should consult with the designated TEACH Program advisor in their home department.

Environmental Sciences (Minor)

The Environmental Science minor offers students the strongest background in the science behind environmental issues. Students will understand and explore the natural world and our interactions within the natural and built environment.
Course Requirements

- ENV 102 INTRO TO ENVIRONMENTAL SCIENCE WITH LAB (may be replaced with an upper-level course; check with an ENV advisor or the department chair)
- ENV 216 EARTH SYSTEM SCIENCE
- ENV 217 HUMAN IMPACTS ON THE ENVIRONMENT
- ENV 250 APPLIED ECOLOGY
- Two additional ENV courses from the following list. At least one must be a 300-level course.
  - ENV 200 CITIES AND THE ENVIRONMENT
  - ENV 204 ENERGY AND THE ENVIRONMENT
  - ENV 230 GLOBAL CLIMATE CHANGE
- Any 300 level ENV course
  - ENV 300 PLANT IDENTIFICATION
  - ENV 310 ENVIRONMENTAL SOIL SCIENCE
  - ENV 315 PLANT ECOLOGY
  - ENV 316 CHEMISTRY OF EARTH SYSTEMS
  - ENV 320 CONSERVATION BIOLOGY
  - ENV 322 ECOSYSTEM ECOLOGY
  - ENV 340 URBAN ECOLOGY
  - ENV 344 ENVIRONMENTAL JUSTICE AND ADVOCACY
  - ENV 355 INTRODUCTION TO ENVIRONMENTAL HEALTH
  - ENV 390 SPECIAL TOPICS IN ENVIRONMENTAL SCIENCE

Students cannot earn a minor in the same academic program as their major.

Environmental Studies (BA)

The B.A. degree in Environmental Studies provides students with a holistic education on environmental topics that includes the natural and social sciences as well as the humanities. The degree allows students to connect with present and emerging environmental problems in a uniquely interdisciplinary manner, and will prepare them for positions in environmental management and in environmentally themed non-profit organizations, to bring an environmental perspective to any career, as well as preparing them for further studies. The degree is focused on the comprehensive study of human interaction with the natural environment.

The B.A. degree offers students a choice of two concentrations: A standard concentration and a sustainability concentration. Within the sustainability concentration, students can further choose an urban sustainability focus. Students selecting the sustainability concentration will recognize the concept of “sustainability” as a dynamic condition characterized by the interdependency among physical, biological, economic, and social systems.

Students choosing the urban sustainability focus will be able to identify the concepts and methods of environmental economics, environmental politics, ethics, design, and human geography relevant to the sustainability of environmental resources and social institutions in urban settings; as well as recognize and understand the functions of sustainable institutions created for water, land, air, and urban management at multiple spatial and temporal scales.

Modern Language Requirements

Students who intend to graduate with the Bachelor of Arts (B.A.) Degree will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in the fourth-year high school sequence of any language
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Science and Health will abide by the College of Science and Health Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.

B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program. While Bachelor of Science (B.S.) students are not required to demonstrate competency in a modern language, the "Modern Language Option" is available to them for language study at any level.

Major Declaration Requirements

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. After researching College programs, the student should declare a major field by visiting Campus Connection and using the Declarations and Inter-College Transfer tool. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor or staff advisor in the department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.

Students must also complete the requirements from one of the following concentrations: Standard or Sustainability. Students are limited to only declaring one concentration.

The Environmental Science and Studies Capstone, ENV 350, is part of the Liberal Studies Program (see Liberal Studies Requirements). ENV 350 is designed to allow students to reflect on their entire college career as they prepare for graduation. It creates an opportunity for students to integrate their major and liberal studies coursework and to better understand how each informs and enhances the other. Students in the University Honor Program and students with a double major may be required to take a different Capstone. If this is the case, they may choose to substitute ENV 350 as one of their required 300-level ENV courses or as an open elective.

College Requirements

The Modern Language Requirement must be met for the B.A. degree.

  - ENV 170 ENVIRONMENTAL ETHICS
  - ENV 180 ISSUES IN ENVIRONMENTAL DESIGN
  - ENV 181 LANDSCAPE AND MEANING
  - REL 222 CONTEMPORARY MORAL ISSUES (Only "Change in an Era of Sustainability" or "Religion & Sustainability")
  - REL 311 SUSTAINABILITY AND RELIGIOUS WORLDVIEWS

* Students with an interest in Urban Sustainability are encouraged to select the courses with asterisks.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.
Environmental Science/ Studies (BA/ BS)/ Master of Sustainable Management (MSSM)

The combined degree provides environmental science/studies students with advanced knowledge of business systems and practices, focusing on environmental sustainability, to create leaders for business, government and civic organizations. For more information on the full Master of Sustainable Management curriculum, go to MSSM degree requirements found within the graduate programs section of the University Catalog.

Admission Requirements

Current DePaul Environmental Science or Studies majors who meet the following criteria may apply to this program:

- Junior standing or higher (at least 88.0 credits)
- A minimum cumulative DePaul grade point average of 3.300

Admission to the combined program does not require the GMAT, essays, or letters of recommendation.

Classes During Senior Year

If accepted into the combined program, students will take three graduate classes during the senior year. These three graduate classes at 12 quarter hours will count toward the bachelor's degree - as indicated below - and toward the master's degree. Students are limited to applying a maximum of 12 quarter hours toward both the bachelor's and master's degrees. Students should note that expectations for graduate classes are typically more rigorous than for undergraduate classes. Students can choose from the following list of core MSSM courses; other options available upon consultation with the MSSM advisor.

- FIN 559 SUSTAINABLE VALUE CREATION
- MGT 515 SUSTAINABLE MANAGEMENT
- CMNS 535 ENVIRONMENTAL RHETORIC AND POLITICS (equivalent to INTC 326 ENVIRONMENTAL POLITICS AND RHETORIC. Students may not take both; students interested in this combined program should take CMNS 535 ENVIRONMENTAL RHETORIC AND POLITICS instead of INTC 326 ENVIRONMENTAL POLITICS AND RHETORIC)
- Other courses in consultation with the Program Advisor

Final Quarter of Senior Year

During the final quarter of the bachelor's degree, students must petition for formal admission into the Kellstadt Graduate School of Business. The admission criteria are as follows:

- Completion of the Bachelor of Arts in Environmental Studies or Bachelor of Science in Environmental Science
- A minimum cumulative DePaul grade point average of 3.300
- A minimum grade point average for graduate courses of 3.000
- Student must apply for undergraduate degree conferral of their Environmental Science or Studies program in anticipation of completing their fourth year of study.

After Senior Year

After completion of the undergraduate degree including the three graduate courses, students take nine additional graduate classes to complete the graduate degree, for a total of twelve graduate classes. Information on the MSSM degree can be found in the graduate program degree requirements section of the University Catalog.

For an application to the combined program (at the end of your junior year) or to learn more about it, please contact the chair of the Environmental Science and Studies department.
Environmental Studies (Minor)

The Environmental Studies minor offers students a broad, interdisciplinary overview of topics linking environmental science to human behavior and society.

Course Requirements

- ENV 102 INTRO TO ENVIRONMENTAL SCIENCE WITH LAB
- ENV 150 FOUNDATIONS OF ENVIRONMENTAL STUDIES
- One from the following list:
  - ENV 160 IDEAS OF NATURE
  - ENV 170 ENVIRONMENTAL ETHICS

Students cannot earn a minor in the same academic program as their major.

Exercise Science (BS)

The Exercise Science (EXS) degree program includes a knowledge base in the scientific principles that underlie human movement and requires the development of basic skills in exercise assessment, prescription and programming in healthy and special populations, performance enhancement, prevention and treatment of sports injuries, nutritional principles applied to exercise and sport, patient/client interpersonal relations and professional ethics and behavior.

Students receiving this degree are qualified to pursue careers in areas such as cardiopulmonary rehabilitation, strength and conditioning, corporate fitness, sports medicine, community health and wellness, and personal training or can pursue graduate work in numerous fields related to the health, fitness, and exercise sciences.

The American College of Sport Medicine (ACSM), as the professional organization that establishes guidelines and competencies for the field of Exercise Science, serves as the guiding professional organization for program academic quality.

Students should meet early and regularly with their advisor to design and monitor their program of study.

Please make sure you consult the Liberal Studies Requirements, Major Requirements, Concentration Requirements, and College Core Requirements for full degree requirements.

College Core Requirements

Dispositions

The academic programs within the College of Education have set forth these dispositions as educational and professional expectations for all students. Students should be aware that failing to abide by DePaul University or College of Education policies including, under certain circumstances, these dispositions, could result in adverse consequences for the student, including removal from his or her program, the College of Education, or the University.

The following dispositions apply to Early Childhood Education, Elementary Education, Physical Education, Secondary Education, and World Language Education majors only:

- Reflects on progress and identifies strengths and weaknesses, including evaluating strategies for success, finding alternatives for inappropriate strategies, and modifying future practices
- Is receptive to faculty feedback and acts meaningfully and professionally upon suggestions
- Values critical thinking, including engaging theoretical and philosophical frameworks and shows evidence of critical thinking through discussion and writing (e.g., journals, response to prompts)
- Understands the importance of and is committed to communicating clearly orally and in writing both in traditional and in new and emerging digital formats
- Values and is committed to continually developing strong content area knowledge and/or knowledge of the professional field, including pedagogical content knowledge
- Takes initiative, uses imagination and creativity, and seeks out information using a variety of human and material resources and technology to inform his or her teaching
- Is aware of the role of classroom environment and uses management procedures that reflect respect and care for learners and concern for their emotional and physical well being
- Takes the time and effort needed to understand how students learn, including discovering their interests and experiences and determining how to shape teaching acts (using technology as appropriate) that engage learners meaningfully and actively
- Values and is committed to using assessment to evaluate and ensure the continuous intellectual, social, emotional, and physical development of the learner
- Respects and considers cultural contexts in order to determine how to be responsive to learners and to proactively promote all students' learning
- Values and is responsive to diverse learners' academic, emotional, and social needs through teaching acts (including careful instructional planning, implementation, and differentiation) and through everyday interactions with students
- Is committed to collaboration with colleagues, families, and communities in order to promote all students' learning and development
- Recognizes and fulfills professional responsibilities and habits of conduct (e.g., dress, language, preparedness, attendance, punctuality, etc.)
- Demonstrates collegiality, honesty, good judgment, courtesy, respect, and diplomacy
- Balances self-confidence and assertiveness with respect for others' perspectives
- Respects the requirements, expectations, and procedures of both the College of Education and of our field partners and appreciates the issues of trust, fairness, and professionalism involved

The following dispositions apply to Special Education majors only:

- Is receptive to faculty feedback and acts meaningfully and professionally upon suggestions
- Reflects on his or her own progress, identifies strengths and weaknesses, and evaluates strategies for success and professional growth
- Takes initiative
- Is open to new ideas and engagement in learning
- Respects diversity and cultural contexts to determine how to be responsive to learners and to proactively promote all students' learning
- Expresses positive attitudes toward individuals with disabilities and a willingness to advocate on their behalf
- Is committed to collaboration with colleagues, families, and communities in order to promote all students' learning and development
- Demonstrates professional ethical and legal behavior as defined by the respective codes of ethics and laws
- Demonstrates consistent professional behavior across all academic settings
- Maintains appropriate interpersonal and professional boundaries
- Accepts personal responsibility for one's behavior
- Expresses feelings and opinions effectively and appropriately
- Upholds confidentiality

Skill Building Courses

Before taking any math or English courses, students must take the DePaul placement tests to determine if skill level is at the college level. If placement indicates skill level in these courses, the courses become part of degree requirements. Consult with your advisor regarding placement test results and any required classes.

Advanced Standing

Students are conditionally admitted to the College of Education. There are additional requirements to reach Advanced Standing in your program in the College of Education. Requirements must be met to progress in the major and take courses in the Advanced Standing category.

Advanced Standing requirements are:

- Maintain a DePaul undergraduate 2.5 GPA
- Pass the Illinois Test of Academic Proficiency (TAP)
- Submit a petition for advanced standing form

Students should attempt to complete the Advanced Standing requirements soon after beginning the program. There is no time limit to meet these criteria; however, students will only be able to take pre-education courses until requirements have been met. Students can also take liberal studies or content area courses before or after meeting Advanced Standing requirements.

Modern Language Competence Requirement

Students pursuing a Bachelor of Arts degree in the College of Education will be required to demonstrate a measure of competence in a modern language, as defined by the college. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing two years of a language sequence in high school
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Education will abide by the COE Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.

B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program. While B.S. students are not required to demonstrate competency in a modern language, the "Modern Language Option" is available to them for language study at any level.

Licensure Tests

All individuals licensed by the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) are required to complete licensure tests specific to their teaching license.

Field Experiences

Each student seeking licensure from the College of Education/Professional Education Unit must complete supervised field experiences in appropriate settings in conjunction with education courses. The field experiences must include a variety of grade levels, multicultural experiences, and a minimum of 10 hours in special education settings. All field experiences must be completed prior to final approval for student teaching. Field experience hours should be entered by the student into the FEDS system when completing courses with field experience requirements.

Endorsements

An endorsement is a subject area that you can qualify to teach full time, in addition to your main licensure area. Endorsements are issued at three levels: primary, middle school, and high school.

The Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) issues endorsements in various subject areas. To view the full list and requirements, visit the ISBE website.

Qualifying for an endorsement at the middle school level requires 18 semester hours (27 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area and complete SCU 339. Some areas (like math) have specifically required courses or require additional hours. Courses must have a grade of C or better to qualify for endorsements and must be earned credit listed on a college transcript as earned credit.

Consult with your advisor regarding endorsements. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following middle school areas: Arabic, art, bilingual education, biological science, Chinese, ESL, French, general science, German, Italian, Japanese, language arts, math, physical science, social science, and Spanish.

In general, endorsement requirements for the primary level are identical to the middle school requirements except that they do not require SCU 339. There are a limited number of areas available at the primary level.

Qualifying for most endorsements at the high school level requires 24 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area* and passing the relevant content area test. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following high school areas: art, Arabic, Chinese, English, French, German, Italian, Japanese, math, Russian, science, social science, and Spanish.

* Exceptions to the basic requirements for high school level endorsements include the subject areas of foreign language, science, and social science.

For science and social science, 32 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in the broad area of either science or social science, and 12 semester hours in the specific endorsement designation area, plus the content area test are required. To qualify for additional science and social science designations, individuals applying after February 1, 2012 need both the content test and 12 semester hours in the additional designation area.

Special Education majors do not qualify for middle school endorsements.

Student Teaching Requirements

Student Teaching is the culminating clinical experience in the student's program. All students in teacher preparation programs must meet the following requirements before applying for student teaching:

Academic Requirements:

- Completion of all Liberal Studies, Pre-Education, Advanced Standing and concentration/content area courses
- Overall cumulative G.P.A. of 2.50 or better
- Cumulative G.P.A. of 2.75 or better in all education courses
- Meet all other program requirements (e.g., modern language and residency requirements)
- Meet designated program standards
- Pass the required Illinois licensure content area test

Clinical Requirements:

- Completion of all required field experiences
- Three satisfactory evaluations in field experiences
- Three satisfactory faculty recommendations
- Attendance at mandatory meeting for student teaching
- Application for student teaching, resume, transcripts, and writing sample (check deadlines)
- Review and approval by Student Teaching Committee of the College of Education

Student Teaching Timeline and Deadlines:

- Attend a Mandatory Meeting approximately 1 year prior to expected quarter of student teaching.
- Submit application for student teaching after attending Mandatory Meeting, approximately 1 year prior to student teaching.
• Academic requirements are due one quarter before expected quarter of student teaching.
• Clinical requirements are completed as course requirements. Field experience hours are entered by the student as coursework is completed.

Online Faculty Evaluations are entered by the instructor of relevant courses. All data must be entered in the Field Experience Documentation System (FEDS) due one month prior to student teaching.

Individual child care agencies and public and private school districts may have additional requirements (application, training, background check, etc.).

Degree Conferral and Graduation

The awarding of a degree is not automatic. You must submit an application to be considered for the degree. DePaul awards and posts degrees at the end of each regular academic term (autumn, winter, spring, summer I and summer II).

It is your responsibility to initiate the degree conferral application process by submitting an online application. Submitting an application means you intend to finish your degree requirements by the end of the term for which you have applied.

Undergraduate students must be approved for student teaching and complete student teaching and capstone to be cleared for the degree. Student must submit graduation application for the quarter that matches the quarter you are student teaching.

After you submit the application, you cannot register for any term after the one selected in the application.

Application deadlines are as follows:
Fall Quarter - October 1st
Winter Quarter - January 15th
Spring Quarter - February 1st
Summer Quarter - July 15th

To apply for degree conferral, log on to Campus Connection. Select STUDENT CENTER, then MY ACADEMICS. On screen instructions will take you through the application process.

Provided that all requirements and financial obligations are met, degrees are posted 30 days after the official end of the term. Official dates are listed on the Academic Calendar.

DePaul holds one commencement ceremony each year in June. If you intend to participate, you must first apply for degree conferral for the current academic year and then submit a cap and gown order. Honors are not announced at the ceremony for undergraduates completing their final courses in spring quarter because a final GPA is not available at the time of the ceremony.

Additional information about degree conferral and graduation can be found on the College of Education website at: http://education.depaul.edu/.

Licensure

Requirements for licensure include completion of full bachelor's degree program, all licensure tests (including OPI for world language majors), and awarding of bachelor's degree. A bachelor's degree is required to qualify for licensure and must be awarded before applying for the license.

Individuals must submit an application directly to the Illinois State Board of Education after completion of requirements and after DePaul has submitted notification to ISBE. Application requirements include application form, application fee, official transcripts, and registration fee.

All individuals must meet ISBE requirements in place at the time of application for the license. Requirements are subject to change per the discretion of ISBE.

Individuals seeking additional endorsements after applying for the licensure must contact ISBE directly for an evaluation request.
Liberal Studies Requirements

Honors program requirements can be found in the individual Colleges & Schools section of the University Catalog. Select Academics, followed by Undergraduate, then Honors Program Alternative.

Notes
Courses offered in the student's major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy
Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.

Internship Requirement

Consult with Physical Education faculty members for procedures for the internship. The internship experience is done at the very end of the program and requires all coursework for the major and liberal studies to be completed.

Internship: 10 quarter hours required, grade of B- or better required

Registration in student teaching requires completion of all requirements and procedures above. All students also take PE 387, Capstone Seminar with the internship (listed in the Liberal Studies section).

- PE 380 INTERNSHIP IN EXERCISE SCIENCE (10 quarter hours)

Finance (BSB)

DePaul's Finance program will provide you with a solid foundation in financial management and an understanding of public and private financial processes, financial markets, analysis and investments.

As a Finance major, you will take courses in:

- Corporate finance
- Financial statements analysis
- Investment theory and practice
- Money and banking
- Quantitative reasoning
- Risk management
You will also take multiple elective courses. Depending on your career goals, you may take a series of courses that focus on one of the following areas:

- Banking and financial services
- Corporate financial management
- Investment analysis/management
- Risk management

DePaul's Driehaus College of Business is located in downtown Chicago, in the heart of the city's financial district, providing you with countless opportunities to intern and work professionally with leading companies in the business industry. You are encouraged to complete an internship with a Chicago-area business during the summer preceding either your junior or senior year.

Second Majors and Minors

The addition of a second major or minor may affect the Business Core classes required for a student. Meet with an academic advisor to confirm requirements.

Math Requirements

- A student is expected to complete the business math sequence (MAT 135, MAT 136, and MAT 137) in the first year of study
- MAT 135 and MAT 137 are completed through Liberal Studies requirements
- MAT 135 may be replaced by MAT 150 or MAT 160
- MAT 136 may be replaced by MAT 151 or MAT 161
- MAT 135 and MAT 136 may be replaced by the sequence of MAT 147, MAT 148, and MAT 149; if done, an additional Scientific Inquiry course must be added to the degree plan
- MAT 137 may be replaced by MAT 348 or MAT 351; if done, an additional Scientific Inquiry course must be added to the degree plan

Grade Minimums for Finance Major

A minimum grade of B- is required for FIN 310. A minimum grade of C- is required for the following: ACC 101, ACC 102, BLW 201, ECO 105, ECO 106, FIN 320, MAT 135, MAT 136, MAT 137, the course used for Professional Writing, and any FIN course used for Global Business Perspective.

Global Business Perspective

If a FIN course is shared between Global Business Perspective and the Finance major, additional hours of Open Elective credit are required.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student’s major and is cross-listed with a course within the student’s major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.
Major Requirements

Declaration Requirements

To declare a major in Finance, a student must meet the following requirements:

- Completion of 28.0 hours at DePaul University
- The following courses must be completed with a minimum grade of C- and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher: ACC 101, ACC 102, BLW 201, ECO 105, ECO 106, MAT 135, MAT 136, and MAT 137
- A minimum cumulative DePaul grade point average of 2.700
- A minimum Finance (FIN) grade point average of 2.700
- No grade of IN, R, or lower than C- in any Finance (FIN) course or course used toward the Finance major
- Completion of FIN 310 with a minimum grade of B-

Course Requirements

In addition to FIN 310 and FIN 320, a student majoring in Finance is required to complete the following courses totaling at least 30.0 hours:

- Six required courses:
  - FIN 202 QUANTITATIVE REASONING (2.0 hours)
  - FIN 311 CORPORATE FINANCE
  - FIN 330 INVESTMENTS: THEORY & PRACTICE
  - FIN 333 FINANCIAL STATEMENTS ANALYSIS
  - FIN 362 RISK MANAGEMENT

The Department of Finance enforces all course prerequisites; exceptions will not be made.

FIN 380 is a capstone course. It is recommended that students take this course after the completion of all required finance courses.

Students are encouraged to seek an internship with a Chicago-area business during the summer preceding either their junior or senior year.

Open Electives

Open elective credit (16.0 hours) is needed to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Global Business Perspective

If a FIN course is shared between Global Business Perspective and the Finance major, additional hours of Open Elective credit are required.

Junior Year Experiential Learning

Sharing of FIN 393 between Experiential Learning and the Finance Elective may be possible; consult with academic advisor.

Degree Conferral Requirements
All Finance (FIN) courses and any courses used toward the Finance major must be completed with a minimum grade of C- and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.

Finance (Minor: Business Students Only)

Students in the Driehaus College of Business who wish to round out their courses of study with a deeper understanding of financial management, investment banking, financial markets and investment strategy, may choose to minor in Finance.

Declaration Requirements

To declare a minor in Finance, a Driehaus student must meet the following requirements:

- A minimum cumulative DePaul grade point average of 2.700
- A minimum Finance grade point average of 2.700
- No grade of IN, R, or lower than C- in any FIN course or course used toward the Finance minor
- Completion of FIN 310 with a minimum grade of B-

Course Requirements

In addition to FIN 310 and FIN 320, a Driehaus student minoring in Finance is required to complete the following courses totaling at least 18.0 hours:

- Three required courses:
  - FIN 202 QUANTITATIVE REASONING (2.0 hours)
  - FIN 311 CORPORATE FINANCE
  - FIN 330 INVESTMENTS: THEORY & PRACTICE
- Two elective courses to be chosen from:
  - FIN 313 INVESTMENT BANKING

Degree Conferral Requirements

All Finance (FIN) courses and any other courses used toward the Finance minor must be completed with a minimum grade of C- and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.
Finance (Minor)

Available to students outside the Driehaus College of Business, a minor in Finance provides a student with a basic foundation in financial management, along with an understanding of financial markets, analysis, and investments.

Declaration Requirements

To declare a minor in Finance, a non-Driehaus student must meet the following requirements:

- A minimum cumulative DePaul grade point average of 2.700
- A minimum Finance grade point average of 2.700
- No grade of IN, R, or lower than C- in any Finance (FIN) course or course used toward the Finance minor
- Completion of FIN 310 with a minimum grade of B-

Course Requirements

A non-Driehaus student minoring in Finance is required to complete the following courses totaling at least 26.0 hours:

- Five required courses:
  - FIN 202 QUANTITATIVE REASONING (2.0 hours)
  - FIN 310 INTRODUCTION TO FINANCE
  - FIN 311 CORPORATE FINANCE
  - FIN 320 MONEY AND BANKING
  - FIN 330 INVESTMENTS: THEORY & PRACTICE
- Two elective courses to be chosen from:

  - FIN 395 INVESTMENT SEMINAR
  - FIN 398 SPECIAL TOPICS (multiple topics may be used)
  - FIN 399 INDEPENDENT STUDY
  - RE 350 REAL ESTATE ANALYSIS

The Department of Finance enforces all course prerequisites; exceptions will not be made.

FIN 380 is a capstone course. It is recommended that students take this course after the completion of all required finance courses.

Degree Conferral Requirements

All Finance (FIN) courses and any other courses used toward the Finance minor must be completed with a minimum grade of C- and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.
Finance Honors (BSB)

The honors program in finance is reserved for students of high promise and exceptional ability. Students admitted to this program are characterized by outstanding academic performance, exceptional leadership capability, high aptitude for superior academic work and exceptional ability for making meaningful contributions during a professional career.

Honors students in finance proceed through the program together in a cohort system with peers who have similar exceptional abilities. Courses reserved for honors students are advanced in nature, student-oriented, and small. Students in the program are afforded the opportunity to interact with leaders from finance and business communities in small settings.

Second Majors and Minors

The addition of a second major or minor may affect the Business Core classes required for a student. Meet with an academic advisor to confirm requirements.

Math Requirements

- A student is expected to complete the business math sequence (MAT 135, MAT 136, and MAT 137) in the first year of study
- MAT 135 and MAT 137 are completed through Liberal Studies requirements
- MAT 135 may be replaced by MAT 150 or MAT 160
- MAT 136 may be replaced by MAT 151 or MAT 161
- MAT 135 and MAT 136 may be replaced by the sequence of MAT 147, MAT 148, and MAT 149; if done, an additional Scientific Inquiry course must be added to the degree plan
- MAT 137 may be replaced by MAT 348 or MAT 351; if done, an additional Scientific Inquiry course must be added to the degree plan

Grade Minimums for Finance Honors Major

A minimum grade of B+ is required for FIN 310. A minimum grade of C- is required for the following: ACC 101, ACC 102, BLW 201, ECO 105, ECO 106, FIN 320, MAT 135, MAT 136, MAT 137, the course used for Professional Writing, and any FIN course used for Global Business Perspective.

Notes

Courses offered in the student’s primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student’s major and is cross-listed with a course within the student’s major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.
Major Requirements

Admission Requirements

Admission to the honors program in finance is dependent on a student's academic performance through the winter quarter of the junior year. The honors program requires that students have:

- An overall GPA of 3.300 or better
- Earned a B+ or better in FIN 310
- Officially declared finance as a major

Students with an overall GPA of 3.300 and a minimum grade of B+ in FIN 310 may apply for admission into the program. The admissions committee will consider the student's GPA, grade in FIN 310 as well as other evidence of superior academic performance for admission into the program.

Declaration Requirements

To declare a major in Finance Honors, a student must meet the following requirements:

- Acceptance into the Finance Honors program
- Completion of 28.0 hours at DePaul University
- The following courses must be completed with a minimum grade of C- and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher: ACC 101, ACC 102, BLW 201, ECO 105, ECO 106, MAT 135, MAT 136, and MAT 137
- A minimum cumulative DePaul grade point average of 3.300
- A minimum Finance (FIN) grade point average of 2.700
- No grade of IN, R, or lower than C- in any Finance (FIN) course or course used toward the Finance major
- Completion of FIN 310 with a minimum grade of B+

Course Requirements

In addition to FIN 310 and FIN 320, a student majoring in Finance Honors is required to complete the following courses totaling at least 36.0 hours:

- One required course (not taken as Honors section)
  - FIN 202 QUANTITATIVE REASONING (2.0 hours)
- Nine required courses (must be taken as Honors sections)
  - FIN 311 CORPORATE FINANCE
  - FIN 330 INVESTMENTS: THEORY & PRACTICE
  - FIN 333 FINANCIAL STATEMENTS ANALYSIS
  - FIN 362 RISK MANAGEMENT
  - FIN 366 FINANCIAL MODELING
  - FIN 380 CASES IN FINANCIAL DECISION MAKING
  - FIN 396 HONORS SEMINAR (2.0 hours)
  - ACC 307 FINANCIAL REPORTING I FOR FINANCE HONORS STUDENTS
  - ACC 309 FINANCIAL REPORTING II FOR FINANCE HONORS STUDENTS

Accounting majors who have taken the financial accounting courses, ACC 304 and ACC 305, are exempt from taking the financial accounting courses taught within the finance cohort, ACC 307-H and ACC 309-H.

This structure differs from the non-honors curriculum since it allows you to take only two open electives in your curriculum, and it requires you to take an extra two credit hour class, Finance 396.

Expectations

A cumulative GPA of 3.000 is required to remain in the program. A student will be dropped from the program if a grade of D or F is earned in any DePaul course after admission to the program.

Once admitted, students will begin the curriculum in the spring quarter of the current academic year, and will complete the curriculum in the winter quarter of the following year. The program consists of a set of courses taught in lock step during the junior and senior years. The honors student cohort will be exposed to rigorous and challenging courses in corporate finance, risk management, financial statement analysis, and financial accounting. Analytical writing and teamwork skills will be emphasized throughout the program.
Open Electives

Open elective credit (10.0 hours) is needed to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Degree Conferral Requirements

All Finance (FIN) courses and any courses used toward the Finance major must be completed with a minimum grade of C- and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.

Candidates for the honors program may take FIN 310 and FIN 320 during their junior year. FIN 311 and FIN 330 are included in the honors curriculum and should not be taken before entering the honors program. Students are urged to complete FIN 310 during the autumn term of their junior year, and to complete FIN 320 and FIN 202 during the winter quarter of their junior year. Students who take FIN 310 during the winter quarter may be accepted into the honors program contingent upon earning a minimum grade of B+ in FIN 310. Students who are accepted on a contingent basis, but who fail to meet the FIN 310 B+ standard, will not be permitted to participate in the honors program. Honors students who have not completed FIN 320 and FIN 202 before the spring quarter may be granted permission to take FIN 320 during the spring quarter and FIN 202 during the summer. Both courses must be completed before the following autumn quarter. Students who do not complete both courses before the autumn quarter will not be permitted to continue in the honors program.

The cohort instruction begins in the spring and ends the following winter. The finance courses and accounting courses will be taught in the afternoon once per week, or on Friday mornings, in three hour sessions. The seminar course is a two credit hour course that will meet over the spring, autumn, and winter terms every other Wednesday afternoon. All honors students will take all classes at the scheduled times. There are no exceptions.

The classes reserved exclusively for honors students are the following:
Spring Quarter (Junior Year)

- ACC 307 FINANCIAL REPORTING I FOR FINANCE HONORS STUDENTS
- FIN 311 CORPORATE FINANCE
- FIN 330 INVESTMENTS: THEORY & PRACTICE
- FIN 396 HONORS SEMINAR

Autumn Quarter (Senior Year)

- ACC 309 FINANCIAL REPORTING II FOR FINANCE HONORS STUDENTS
- FIN 333 FINANCIAL STATEMENTS ANALYSIS
- FIN 362 RISK MANAGEMENT
- FIN 366 FINANCIAL MODELING
- FIN 396 HONORS SEMINAR (continued)

Winter Quarter (Senior Year)

- FIN 380 CASES IN FINANCIAL DECISION MAKING
- FIN 396 HONORS SEMINAR (continued)

During the program, honors students are required to stay enrolled in the two hour Honors Seminar, FIN 396.

French (BA)

In DePaul's French program, students will study French language, literature and culture. Because French is a major world language with more than 200 million speakers in more than 50 countries, having the ability to communicate in French will provide students with many career opportunities around the world.

Courses in the French major will cover a variety of topics, including:

- Business
- Cinema
- Civilization
- Communication
- Grammar
- Historical literary periods
- Phonology and phonetics
- Translation

For students interested in pursuing careers in education, the French department partners with the College of Education to award teaching degrees at the middle school and high school levels.

As French majors, students are encouraged to participate in one of DePaul's study abroad programs in order to grow linguistically and expand their cultural understanding of French-speaking societies. DePaul sponsors two study abroad programs in Paris; one at Alliance Française and another at the Institute for the International Education of Students.

Chicago is a culturally diverse city, providing many opportunities to attend French lectures and festivals, dine out at French restaurants and see the work of French artists.

Liberal Studies Requirements 84 hours
Major Requirements 48 hours
College Core Requirements

Study in the Major Field

The student's course of study in the College consists of three parts: Liberal Studies, the major field, and electives. Together these three parts contribute to the liberal education of the student which is the common purpose of all study in the College. By "liberal education" the College understands not only a deep and thorough knowledge of a particular area of study but a knowledge of the diverse areas of study represented by criticism, history, the arts, the behavioral and social sciences, philosophy, religious studies, the natural science, and mathematics.

The major field program generally is built upon a set of core courses and a specialized "concentration." The number of courses required for a major varies by department. Most students go beyond the minimum requirements, electing additional courses which both broaden and deepen their understanding of their chosen discipline.

Because no academic major program is built in isolation, students are required to pursue a number of electives of the student's choice. The inherent flexibility of this curriculum demands that the student consult an academic advisor at each stage in the total program and at least once prior to each registration. Students will be prompted to visit the College Office for their official graduation check early in their senior year.

Declaration of Major, Minor and Concentration

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor in the major field department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

Students must declare or change majors, minors, and concentrations, via Campus Connection. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the the Office for Academic Advising Support.

Competence in Modern Language

All students will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language (i.e., a language other than English) equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in the fourth-year high school sequence of any language
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations or achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language, or achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program, or achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College will abide by this Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT, regardless of when they first matriculated at DePaul.

Students who have met the Modern Language Requirement and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program (see "Special Programs").

External Credit and Residency

A student who has been admitted to the College begins residency within the college as of the first day of classes of the term in which the student is registered. Students in residence, whether attending on a full-time or part-time basis, may not take courses away from DePaul University without the written permission of the college.
Permission must be obtained in advance of registration to avoid loss of credit or residency in the college; see the LAS website for more information.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.

Major Requirements

Course Requirements

• FCH 201 ADVANCED COMMUNICATION I
• FCH 202 ADVANCED COMMUNICATION II
• FCH 203 ADVANCED COMMUNICATION III or FCH 204 ADVANCED COMMUNICATION IV
• FCH 341 INTRODUCTION TO FRENCH LITERATURE I
• FCH 342 INTRODUCTION TO FRENCH LITERATURE II
• FCH 350 FRENCH PHONOLOGY AND PHONETICS
• Six additional 300-level FCH courses
Students who begin their study of French at DePaul with FCH 202 or higher may substitute a 300-level French elective course for any of the required 200-level courses.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Study Abroad Requirements

Year-long program

Students on the year-long program at IES will be taking a total of 10 courses, 5 of which may be applied to their French Major or Minor. The remaining courses might fulfill various learning domains or other major/minor requirements. They can also simply be counted as general electives. Note that the 5 French courses taken on a year-long program that may be applied to the French major or Minor will generate more than 5 courses worth of credit (30 vs. 20); the remaining 10 credits should be used towards the fulfillment of domain requirements, if possible, or applied to general electives, as appropriate.

Semester-long program

Students on the semester-long program at IES will be taking a total of 5 courses, 3 of which may be applied to their French Major or Minor. The remaining courses might fulfill various learning domains or other major/minor requirements. They can also simply be counted as general electives. Note that the 3 French courses taken on a semester-long basis that may be applied to the French Major or Minor will generate more than 3 courses worth of credit (18 vs. 12); the remaining 6 credits should be used towards the fulfillment of domain requirements, if possible, or applied to general electives, as appropriate.

French (Minor)

A minor in French is customizable to fit the goals of each student, with an aim of general proficiency in writing, reading and speaking French. The student may choose to focus on a specific area to complement the course of study.

The minor consists of a total of 5 courses in French language at the 200/300-level.

Students majoring in French (BA) or minoring in Commercial French or French Translation are restricted from earning this minor.

French Translation (Minor)

Course Requirements

- 12 credits of advanced (200-level) coursework in French language, selected to develop appropriate levels of proficiency in the language and to provide an introduction to translation
- 12 credits of advanced (300-level) coursework in translation classes
Depending on their level of prior expertise with French, students may need to complete courses at the Basic and Intermediate levels before enrolling in 200 or 300-level language courses.

Students majoring in French (BA) or minoring in French or Commercial French are restricted from earning this minor.

Game Design (Minor)

The minor in Game Design exposes students to the three areas of game development — animation design, writing and production.

Course Requirements

- ANI 101 ANIMATION FOR NON-MAJORS
- or ANI 201 ANIMATION I
- ANI 230 3D DESIGN & MODELING
- GAM 224 GAME DESIGN FOR NON-MAJORS
- or GAM 226 FUNDAMENTALS OF GAME DESIGN
- GAM 244 GAME DEVELOPMENT I
- GAM 245 GAME DEVELOPMENT II
- 1 course from the following list:
  - ANI 231 3D ANIMATION
  - GAM 341 INTRODUCTION TO LEVEL DESIGN

Students majoring in Computer Game Development (BS) or minoring in Game Design are restricted from earning this minor.
General Business (BA)

The Bachelor of Arts in General Business (BAGB) is a degree offered jointly by the School for New Learning (SNL) and Driehaus College of Business (BUS) at DePaul University. The program is designed to help adults further their careers in business and to prepare them for graduate work in a business related area. The program is open to students age 24 and older. Students in the BAGB program take courses in both SNL and BUS.

The program offers the flexibility and individualized learning approach of SNL while providing the business theory and content provided by BUS. In SNL, students fulfill liberal learning requirements through coursework and, in some cases, documentation of knowledge gained through life experiences.

In BUS, students take courses in the business disciplines of marketing, finance, accounting, management, economics, business law and inter-disciplinary business studies. Students also develop skills in writing, calculus, information technology, planning and research and are able to earn a minor in a business topic area. The focus of the degree is general business and it is accredited by the Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business (AACSB).

The degree is earned by completing 50 competence requirements. Competence requirements can be met by SNL and BUS courses, equivalent transfer courses with a grade of C- or better or approved content exams. SNL competence requirements can also be met through documented college-level learning experience. Business courses are offered at DePaul's Loop campus. SNL courses are available online and at the Loop, Naperville, Oak Forest, O'Hare campuses.

Competence Framework

The SNL curriculum is organized around the knowledge, skills and abilities that describe an educated adult in contemporary society. These are defined by a framework of 50 competence statements grouped in 3 areas: Lifelong Learning, Individual Focus, and Liberal Learning. Students demonstrate these degree requirements through SNL courses, independent learning projects, and transfer coursework.

Students in SNL's competence-based joint degree programs, the BA in Computing, BA in Early Childhood Education and BA in General Business follow a format similar to the descriptions below with some variations. See their Program Requirements for more information.

Lifelong Learning Area

The Lifelong Learning Area has 12 competences that develop skills in reading, writing, goal setting, decision-making, teamwork, and research.

Liberal Learning Area

The Liberal Learning Area encompasses fields of study generally referred to as the Liberal Arts. Students satisfy 26 competences in this area.

This area is divided into 3 categories: Arts and Ideas (AI), Human Community (HC), and Scientific World (SW). Each category is divided into 3 subcategories.

Students complete 8 competences in each category and 2 additional Advanced Elective competences. Students must satisfy at least 1 competence from each subcategory, and 3 more from any subcategory. The 4th and 5th competences are required.

Arts and Ideas Category

This category includes the arts, philosophy, theology, literature, and other fields that focus on expression of values and aesthetics. The 3 subcategories are: Interpreting the Arts, Creative Expression, and Reflection and Meaning.

Human Community Category

This category includes human relations, history, political science, and other fields closely aligned with the development and maintenance of human society. The 3 subcategories are: Communities and Society, Institutions and Organizations, and Individual Development.

The Scientific World Category

This category includes fields related to scientific inquiry, technology, and relevant skills. The 3 subcategories in this area are: Experiencing Science, Patterns and Processes, and Science, Technology and Society.

Individual Focus Area

The Individual Focus Area may reflect a field of study, preparation for graduate study, a career goal or avocation. These 12 competences are defined by the student with the advice and approval of a faculty mentor and a professional advisor who has expertise in the area of interest.

The BA in Computing, BA in Early Childhood Education and BA in General Business each have a series of prescribed competence statements in their Focus Areas that correspond to particular course requirements.

Program Requirements

Lifelong Learning Area

The Lifelong Learning Area consists of 12 competencies satisfied by SNL courses, approved transfer courses or proficiency exams.

- LL 103 INDEPENDENT LEARNING SEMINAR (L-1)
- LL 250 FOUNDATIONS OF ADULT LEARNING: DEVELOPING PERSONAL, PROFESSIONAL AND EDUCATIONAL GOALS (L-2, F-1)
- L-3: Civic Engagement competence in SNL course, transfer, or experience.
- LL 260 WRITING TO COMPETENCE (L-4)
- LL 270 CRITICAL THINKING (L-5)
- LL 205 QUANTITATIVE REASONING (L-6)
- L-7: Collaborative Learning competence in SNL course, transfer, or experience.
- LL 300 RESEARCH SEMINAR (L-8, L-9)
- LL 302 EXTERNSHIP (L-10, L-11)
- LL 390 SUMMIT SEMINAR (L-12)

Liberal Learning Area

The Liberal Learning Area consists of 26 competencies in 4 categories.

Competencies are satisfied by DePaul courses, approved transfer courses and documented learning experience. Most SNL courses fill two competence requirements. Required courses and competencies are listed below:

Arts & Ideas Category:

- Communications course from DePaul or SNL
- Professional Business Writing course from DePaul
- Business Ethics Course from DePaul or SNL
- 3 SNL Arts and Ideas competencies

Human Community Category:

- BLW 201 LEGAL & ETHICAL ASPECTS IN THE BUSINESS ENVIRONMENT
Geography (BA)

Geographers examine the spatial relationships between people, places, environments and economies using innovative conceptual and technological approaches. Exciting technological changes, from computer mapping software like Google Earth, to satellite image processing, and global positioning systems (GPS), make geography a fascinating discipline to study. DePaul's geographers share a commitment to 'hands on' teaching and research that makes a world of difference for the people, places, environments and processes that we study. Geographers apply methods such as observation, visualization, analysis, and modeling to explain the spatial organization of human and physical environments. Geographical perspectives foster skills that have broad applications in public policy, research and the private sector. The Department of Geography teaches students to reason spatially by applying geographic techniques and information technologies, including new technologies such as Geographic Information Systems (GIS). This helps students produce sophisticated understandings of the world, its people, environments, economic structures and cultures.

Geospatial analysis and Geographic Information Systems (GIS) is a rapidly-growing multi-billion dollar industry. Geotechnology was named by the U.S. Bureau of Labor as a "hot" area for job growth in both 2005 and 2010 and it is estimated that over the next ten years, demand for geospatial analysts will exceed supply. Geography holds a comparative advantage as a discipline that straddles fields in the social and natural science disciplines and, as a result, Geography has courses in every DePaul learning domain. This breadth of courses makes Geography the ideal double major at DePaul and the range of classes offered means that geography is an exceptional foundation for a variety of careers that explore questions of spatial organization and require regional knowledge. The study of geography builds a unique spatial perspective that sits at the intersection of "natural" and "social" science, and it addresses both "human" and "physical" domains of knowledge, examining the interactions between them through space.
College Core Requirements

Study in the Major Field

The student's course of study in the College consists of three parts: Liberal Studies, the major field, and electives. Together these three parts contribute to the liberal education of the student which is the common purpose of all study in the College. By "liberal education" the College understands not only a deep and thorough knowledge of a particular area of study but a knowledge of the diverse areas of study represented by criticism, history, the arts, the behavioral and social sciences, philosophy, religious studies, the natural science, and mathematics.

The major field program generally is built upon a set of core courses and a specialized "concentration." The number of courses required for a major varies by department. Most students go beyond the minimum requirements, electing additional courses which both broaden and deepen their understanding of their chosen discipline.

Because no academic major program is built in isolation, students are required to pursue a number of electives of the student's choice. The inherent flexibility of this curriculum demands that the student consult an academic advisor at each stage in the total program and at least once prior to each registration.

Students will be prompted to visit the College Office for their official graduation check early in their senior year.

Declaration of Major, Minor and Concentration

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor in the major field department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

Students must declare or change majors, minors, and concentrations, via Campus Connection. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the the Office for Academic Advising Support.

Competence in Modern Language

All students will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language (i.e., a language other than English) equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in the fourth-year high school sequence of any language
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations or achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language, or achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program, or achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College will abide by this Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT, regardless of when they first matriculated at DePaul.

Students who have met the Modern Language Requirement and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program (see "Special Programs").

External Credit and Residency
A student who has been admitted to the College begins residency within the college as of the first day of classes of the term in which the student is registered. Students in residence, whether attending on a full-time or part-time basis, may not take courses away from DePaul University without the written permission of the college. Permission must be obtained in advance of registration to avoid loss of credit or residency in the college; see the LAS website for more information.

Notes

Courses offered in the student’s primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student’s major and is cross-listed with a course within the student’s major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.

- GEO 310 GREEN INFRASTRUCTURE
- GEO 331 CHICAGO: SPATIAL ANATOMY OF A METROPOLIS
- GEO 339 TOPICS IN ARCHITECTURE AND URBANISM
- Any course listed in the Standard Concentration under Regional Analyses

Supporting Fields

- ECO 105 PRINCIPLES OF MICROECONOMICS
- ECO 106 PRINCIPLES OF MACROECONOMICS
- Three urban-related courses selected from course offerings in Anthropology, Environmental Sciences, Geography, History, History of Art and Architecture, Political Science, Public Policy Studies, Real Estate, Sociology, or any other discipline or program selected in consultation with the student's advisor.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.
Combined Bachelor’s/ Master’s Degree

The combined Bachelor’s/Master’s degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

Geography (BA)/ Secondary Education Social Science (MEd)

The TEACH Program combines a Liberal Arts and Social Sciences (LAS) undergraduate Social Science major (Anthropology, Economics, Geography, History, Political Science, or Sociology) or a Science and Health (Psychology) major with a graduate level College of Education (COE) Master’s in Education Program. Students graduate with a BA or BS in their disciplinary major and a MEd in Education with State of Illinois Secondary Social Science licensure.

Students may apply to the Program during the spring of their junior year. They must enroll in the Junior Year Experiential Learning course, TCH 320, and meet other application criteria; these include completion of at least 16 quarter credit hours at DePaul and a 3.0 GPA. During their senior year, students are required to complete a Program capstone course, TCH 390, and three 400-level courses that count toward both their undergraduate and graduate degrees:

- TCH 401 TEACHING AS A PROFESSION IN SECONDARY SCHOOL
- TCH 412 THE NATURE OF HISTORY AND THE SOCIAL SCIENCES
- TCH 422 INQUIRY & APPLICATION IN DEVELOPING SECONDARY HISTORY AND SOCIAL SCIENCES
- PEDAGOGY

Social Science Content Area (grades of C or better required for licensure):
The following Social Science content area requirements are required. These can be taken as part of the major, liberal studies or open elective requirements:

- HST 298 INTRODUCTION TO HISTORICAL SOURCES AND METHODS
- HST 299 CRAFT OF HISTORY
- 3 United States History courses
- 2 Non- United States History courses
- 6 from the geography major
- Additional licensure requirements: (one course in each area required)
  - Economics (ECO 101 recommended)
  - Political Science (PSC 120 recommended)
  - Psychology (PSY 105 recommended)
  - Sociology (SOC 101 recommended)
  - Anthropology (ANT 102 recommended)

The Master’s year comprises teacher-preparation coursework that culminates with student teaching during Spring quarter. Upon graduation and the fulfilling of State of Illinois licensure requirements (which may require some additional course work in the student’s major and related fields), students are eligible to be licensed to teach Social Sciences at the 6th-12th grade levels.

Geography (Minor)

In the Geography minor program, you will learn how to apply methods such as observation, visualization, analysis and modeling to explain the spatial relationships between people and their physical environments.

Course Requirements

- GEO 101 PHYSICAL GEOGRAPHY
• GEO 170 EARTH’S CULTURAL LANDSCAPE or GEO 172 CULTURAL GEOGRAPHY
• Four additional Geography courses from the 200 or 300 level. Courses should be selected with the approval of the student’s Geography faculty advisor.

Students majoring in Geography (BA) or minoring in Geography Nature-Society Studies or Urban Geography and Planning are restricted from earning this minor.

Geography Nature-Society Studies (Minor)

The minor in Geography Nature-Societies Studies offers an overview of how earth’s physical landscape is impacted by humans and natural phenomena, including urban encroachment, climate change and geopolitical decisions.

Course Requirements

• GEO 101 PHYSICAL GEOGRAPHY
• GEO 210 ENVIRONMENTAL CONSERVATION
• And an additional four courses selected from the following list:
  o GEO 200 SUSTAINABLE URBANISM
  o GEO 201 GEOPOLITICS
  o GEO 205 JUSTICE, INEQUALITY AND THE URBAN ENVIRONMENT
  o GEO 220 THE DYNAMIC OCEAN
  o GEO 225 WEATHER AND CLIMATE
  o GEO 230 TRANSPORTATION GEOGRAPHY
  o GEO 260 GLOBALIZATION AND RESOURCES
  o GEO 266 THE WORLD ECONOMY
  o GEO 269 POLITICAL ECOLOGY
  o GEO 299 THE NATURE OF GEOGRAPHY o GEO 310 GREEN INFRASTRUCTURE
  o GEO 351 GEOGRAPHY, FOOD AND JUSTICE

Courses should be selected with the consent of the student’s Geography faculty advisor.

Students majoring in Geography (BA) or minoring in Geography or Urban Geography and Planning are restricted from earning this minor.

German (BA)

In DePaul’s German program, students will study German language, literature and culture. With more than 100 million speakers worldwide, German is also the most widely spoken first language in the European Union. Having the ability to communicate in German will provide students with career opportunities around the world.

As German majors, students will take courses in:

• Cinema
• Culture
• History
• Language
• Literature
• Poetry
• Translation
Students are encouraged to participate in DePaul’s Study Abroad program in Bonn, Germany, in order to grow linguistically and expand their cultural understanding of German-speaking societies.

Chicago is a culturally diverse city, providing many opportunities to attend German lectures and festivals, dine out at German restaurants and watch German films.

College Core Requirements

Study in the Major Field

The student’s course of study in the College consists of three parts: Liberal Studies, the major field, and electives. Together these three parts contribute to the liberal education of the student which is the common purpose of all study in the College. By “liberal education” the College understands not only a deep and thorough knowledge of a particular area of study but a knowledge of the diverse areas of study represented by criticism, history, the arts, the behavioral and social sciences, philosophy, religious studies, the natural science, and mathematics.

The major field program generally is built upon a set of core courses and a specialized “concentration.” The number of courses required for a major varies by department. Most students go beyond the minimum requirements, electing additional courses which both broaden and deepen their understanding of their chosen discipline.

Because no academic major program is built in isolation, students are required to pursue a number of electives of the student’s choice. The inherent flexibility of this curriculum demands that the student consult an academic advisor at each stage in the total program and at least once prior to each registration.

Students will be prompted to visit the College Office for their official graduation check early in their senior year.

Declaration of Major, Minor and Concentration

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor in the major field department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

Students must declare or change majors, minors, and concentrations, via Campus Connection. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the the Office for Academic Advising Support.

Competence in Modern Language

All students will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language (i.e., a language other than English) equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in the fourth-year high school sequence of any language
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations or achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language, or achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program, or achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College will abide by this Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT, regardless of when they first matriculated at DePaul.
Students who have met the Modern Language Requirement and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program (see "Special Programs").

External Credit and Residency

A student who has been admitted to the College begins residency within the college as of the first day of classes of the term in which the student is registered. Students in residence, whether attending on a full-time or part-time basis, may not take courses away from DePaul University without the written permission of the college. Permission must be obtained in advance of registration to avoid loss of credit or residency in the college; see the LAS website for more information.

The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.

Major Requirements

Course Requirements

- GER 201 ADVANCED COMMUNICATION I
- GER 202 ADVANCED COMMUNICATION II
Students who begin their study of German at DePaul with GER 202 or higher may substitute a 300-level German elective course for any of the required 200-level courses.

German (Minor)

The German minor at DePaul University provides students with a basic linguistic and cultural background, develops their creative and critical thinking skills and helps to prepare them for a career in a multicultural, global world.

The minor consists of a total of 5 courses in German language at the 200/300-level.

Students majoring in German (BA) or minoring in German Studies are restricted from earning this minor.

German Studies (Minor)

The German Studies minor offers a basic proficiency in the German language along with a more in-depth exploration of the cultural landscape and history of German-speaking nations.

Course Requirements

- Three quarters of college-level German language (at any level).
- HST 222 MODERN GERMANY, 1870-PRESENT
- Four additional courses focusing on the German-speaking world, chosen in consultation with an advisor or faculty member, from the current approved German Studies Allied Course List.

German Studies Allied Course List

- GER 314 BERLIN AND THE GOLDEN TWENTIES
Global Asian Studies (Minor)

Global Asian Studies is an interdisciplinary program that explores culture, literature, politics, economic development and international relations of Asia, the Asian diaspora in the world and Asian Americans.

Students obtain a variety of critical thinking, research, writing and presentation skills through in-depth analyses of Asian cultures historically and in the context of current trends in the global economy.

Global Asian Studies contributes to developing a fuller and more accurate understanding of global culture, national and ethnic identity formation and examines the particular ways Asian and Pacific Islanders have contributed to society, politics and economy in their home countries, via expatriate networks globally and as Asian Americans in the United States.

Global Asian Studies program is currently a stand-alone minor program within the college of Liberal Arts and Social Sciences at DePaul University.

Unique Aspects

The minor program employs interdisciplinary analysis and approaches from the humanities and social sciences. The program faculty draw upon Asian and Asian American communities to combine university scholarship, classroom teaching and experiential learning in local communities and internationally. A Global Asian Studies minor offers students analytic and critical thinking skills and encourages a lifelong pursuit of deep cultural competency about Asia at home and abroad.

Students take two required courses and four elective courses offered under the rubric of Global Asian Studies to complete the minor. Many of our courses can also be taken to fulfill domain credits. Our faculty also offer Sophomore Seminar in Multiculturalism courses on Asian American Art, Asian American Experiences in the U.S. and on Immigrant Entrepreneurs, all of which focus on Asian American communities. We also offer several Study Abroad opportunities.

Faculty Highlights

This interdisciplinary minor program draws from over twenty faculty members from across the University to contribute to the program. Areas of expertise include: American studies, pan-Asian American studies, art and art history, Chinese studies, creative writing, cultural studies, entrepreneurship, film studies, history, inter- and pan-ethnic studies, Japanese studies, Latin American and Latino studies, literature, law, media studies, political economy, religious studies, sociology, and women and gender studies.

Program Highlights

In addition to offering courses, which students can take towards the minor and for domain credit, the Global Asian Studies program provides students with quality co-curricular activities. We bring in speakers and performers of national renown to provide the latest theoretical, scholarly, or popular culture developments in the field of Global Asian Studies. These co-curricular activities provide a contemporary link between in-class learning and out-of-the-classroom experiences and are open to the public.

Career Possibilities

Global Asian Studies can lead to a number of career paths in law, academia, international business and finance and the non-profit sector. Global Asian Studies related careers include: advertising, international business, marketing, and public relations managers; arts (visual, performing, literary, music) and media; child, family and school social workers; curators; elementary, middle, and high school teachers; government executives and legislators; historians; human resource managers; postsecondary teachers; philanthropy.

Courses Offered Each Year

Not all the courses approved for Global Asian Studies are offered each year. We seek to offer the two core courses, AAS 200 and AAS 205, at least once per year. Study Abroad trips are offered regularly. Our approved elective course offerings vary from quarter to quarter. Please refer to the Program Degree Requirements for a complete list of approved elective courses. Refer to Campus Connect and the Global Asian Studies website for the latest offerings.

Course Requirements

- AAS 200 ASIAN AMERICAN HISTORY
- AAS 205 INTRODUCTION TO GLOBAL ASIAN STUDIES
- Four 200 or 300 level elective courses chosen from the following list:
  - AAS 202 ASIAN AMERICAN LITERATURE

Study Abroad

Several programs with trips to Asia are offered, including short-term programs to Hawai‘i, the Philippines, India, Japan, Vietnam, and China.

Graphic Art (Minor)

Graphic Art study bridges our two current departmental concentrations (Studio Art and Media Art) as a primarily two-dimensional art, which focuses on the following areas: photography, drawing, printmaking, text, digital imaging, web art, the graphic novel, and the artist book and poster.
Course Requirements

- Choose one of the following:
  - ART 101 DIGITAL TOOLS FOR VISUAL THINKERS
  - ART 105 TWO-DIMENSIONAL FOUNDATIONS
  - ART 106 BEGINNING DRAWING

- Choose any two courses from the following list:
  - ART 200 ART & ARTISTS IN CONTEMPORARY CULTURE
    - or ART 118 THINKING PHOTOGRAPHY
  - ART 224 BEGINNING DIGITAL PHOTOGRAPHY
    - or ART 225 BEGINNING PHOTOGRAPHY
  - ART 229 BEGINNING PRINTMAKING
    - or ART 206 INTERMEDIATE DRAWING

- Choose any three courses from the following list.
  - ART 264 TEXT IN THE VISUAL ARTS
  - ART 321 INTERMEDIATE DIGITAL PHOTOGRAPHY
    - or ART 323 INTERMEDIATE PHOTOGRAPHY
  - ART 324 INTERMEDIATE PRINTMAKING I
  - ART 332 TOPICS IN PHOTOGRAPHIC PRACTICE
  - ART 334 PORTFOLIO
  - ART 348 GRAPHIC ART IN THE PUBLIC REALM
  - ART 358 GRAPHIC ART
  - ART 359 PRINT MEDIA
  - ART 385 WEB ART & DESIGN I

Students majoring in Art, Media, and Design (B.A.) or minoring in Studio Art or Photography are restricted from earning this minor.

Graphic Design (BFA)

The BFA in Graphic Design provides students with the conceptual, formal and technological skills to plan and execute the design of visual communication within many mediums, including print, web, multimedia, exhibition, film and illustration.

Students majoring in Graphic Design (BFA) are restricted from earning this minor.
Health (Minor)

The Health minor is designed for education students interested in adding teaching skills in Health to their major course of study, which can lead to a middle school teaching endorsement for teacher candidates.

Course Requirements

- PE 206 PERSONAL AND COMMUNITY HEALTH
- PE 273 HEALTH AND NUTRITION
- PE 302 FIRST AID: RESPONDING TO EMERGENCIES
- PE 304 THE SCHOOL HEALTH PROGRAM
- Five additional courses to meet state requirements (see advisor)

Health Sciences (BS)

Over the next ten to twenty years and beyond, our nation will require increasing numbers and varieties of health care professionals to meet the needs of a growing and aging population: doctors and nurses, nurse practitioners, physician assistants, nurse anesthetists, physical and occupational therapists, pathologist assistants, clinical psychologists, radiation technologists, pharmacists, podiatrists, and more. Likewise, the creation of policies and structures for health care delivery and education, and the day-to-day management of health care delivery, will require a host of public health officials, health educators, crisis management experts, case managers, and hospital administrators. None of these professionals work in isolation; teams of clinicians and technicians join forces with respect to each one’s appropriate role, and their work takes place in the context of public and health policy, business, and research, and within a variety of health care delivery settings. It has never been more important for all health care professionals to understand the range of expertise involved in this enterprise, and to be able to work together to solve problems.

The Health Sciences major offers concentrations in BioScience and Public Health Studies that will enable future health care professionals to begin this cross-disciplinary conversation even earlier. In addition to General tracks, each concentration offers tracks that help students focus their interests and prepare for future careers. BioScience students can choose from tracks in Medicine, Pre-nursing, or Laboratory Investigations; while in Public Health Studies students can choose tracks in Health Education, Community Health, or Health Policy and Administration. This degree a) provides students interested in pursuing a career in one of many health-related professions with a common core of knowledge; b) provides a general track in each concentration but also articulates additional tracks that meet requirements for entry into graduate programs; c) provides enough flexibility to enable students to move among those tracks as their interests evolve, and d) brings students headed for multiple health-related professions into on-going conversation with each other. The curriculum is built on the principle that, in order to be effective, health care professionals need to understand both the factors that impact the health of individuals and the factors that impact the health of populations.

College Core Requirements

Modern Language Requirements

Students who intend to graduate with the Bachelor of Arts (B.A.) Degree will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in the fourth-year high school sequence of any language
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Science and Health will abide by the College of Science and Health Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.

B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program. While Bachelor of Science (B.S.) students are not required to demonstrate competency in a modern language, the "Modern Language Option" is available to them for language study at any level.

Major Declaration Requirements

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. After researching College programs, the student should declare a major field by visiting Campus Connection and using the Declarations and Inter-College Transfer tool. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor or staff advisor in the department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

To change major fields, or to declare a minor or concentration, the student must use the Declarations and Inter-College Transfer tool described above. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the College or an academic advisor in the Office for Academic Advising Support.

Notes
Students must complete one approved health ethics course: REL 229 (RD) or PHL 229 (PI) within their liberal studies program or a track elective in the major, HLTH 229.
Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy (for Public Health Studies only)

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam.

Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required.

Bioscience Concentration - Pathways Program

The Pathways Program is only for qualified Health Sciences - BioScience majors who have been accepted into an accelerated 3+4 College of Science and Health pre-professional program in conjunction with Rosalind Franklin University of Medicine and Science (RFUMS). In order to pursue one of the below pre-professional tracks, a student must secure approval from the College of Science and Health's Pre-health Advising Committee's (PAC) pre-podiatry or pre-pharmacy advisor.

Students formally accepted into a 3+4 Pathways Program will complete their fourth year of coursework - taken at RFUMS and not shown here - and apply the credit toward their Bachelor of Science degree in Health Sciences at DePaul. Students must apply for degree conferral via Campus Connection by the deadline outlined in the Student Handbook in order to be considered a candidate for earning their Bachelor of Science degree at the conclusion of their fourth year of study. As part of the agreement with RFUMS, some Liberal Studies Program courses, Health Sciences major requirements, and open electives will be fulfilled by RFUMS courses. To avoid possibly earning duplicate credit for some courses, please be sure you meet regularly with your College of Science and Health PAC pre-podiatry or pre-pharmacy advisor and the Health Sciences academic advisor.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.
Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Program

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

Health Sciences (BS)/ Health Communication (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned at least a 3.5 GPA in their Health Sciences courses, have earned at least a 3.0 cumulative GPA, and have successfully completed three 300 level courses in the Public Health Studies or BioScience major curriculum in Health Sciences may apply for the combined BS Health Sciences/MA Health Communication program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by June 1 (priority deadline): B.S./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, answers to essay questions, writing sample (research paper), and two letters of recommendation from professors in Health Sciences and/or College of Communication.

Students in Health Sciences will take all of the required courses for the undergraduate major. During their senior year, students in this program take a maximum of twelve graduate credit hours as three Health Communication courses; these graduate courses apply toward both undergraduate Health Sciences and graduate Health Communication requirements. Students are strongly encouraged to take the following three HTHC core courses during their senior year: HTHC 515, HTHC 516, HTHC 517. In the Public Health Studies concentration, HTHC 515 can replace CMNS 315. In BioScience, HTHC 515 will count as an elective in the major. The other two graduate courses will count as either major electives or open electives for either concentration.

Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the minimum grade requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Students can defer their graduate admission for one year after they earn their B.S. If students do not matriculate after completing their B.S. degrees or within the one year deferral period, the graduate courses taken as undergraduate students will no longer count towards the graduate degree and students must reapply for admission to the graduate program.

Students must apply for undergraduate degree conferral in anticipation of completing their B.S. in Health Sciences at the conclusion of their fourth year of study.

History (BA)

As the American Historical Association has noted, "We all interpret and narrate the past, which is to say that we all participate in making history. It is among our most fundamental tools for understanding ourselves and the world around us." The History Department at DePaul University embraces this idea, and is committed to engaging with students, the university, and the wider community in an ongoing effort to understand the past and its varied meanings, the critical and scholarly debates through which we gain such understanding, and the relationship of the past to the problems of the present.

The history program at DePaul combines a breadth of chronological and geographical coverage with the opportunity to develop a concentration in a student's fields of interest. Instruction emphasizes the humanistic as well as the social scientific dimension of the field. One-hundred and two-hundred-level courses (lower division) provide surveys of Asian, African, European, Latin American, North American and World and Comparative History. A main focus of these lower division courses is teaching students how to evaluate primary sources. Three-hundred-level courses (upper division) concentrate on historical debates within specific fields. All courses stress development of research, writing and oral communications skills.
The history major gives students a broad base of knowledge and skills applicable to a variety of careers. Many of our graduates go on to work in the fields of education and law. Others pursue jobs in government and politics, museums, historical societies, and libraries; and business and commercial ventures. A wide range of employers find that history majors have honed critical analytical and communications skills, making them ideal candidates for positions of requiring responsibility and independent work habits.

College Core Requirements

Study in the Major Field

The student’s course of study in the College consists of three parts: Liberal Studies, the major field, and electives. Together these three parts contribute to the liberal education of the student which is the common purpose of all study in the College. By “liberal education” the College understands not only a deep and through knowledge of a particular area of study but a knowledge of the diverse areas of study represented by criticism, history, the arts, the behavioral and social sciences, philosophy, religious studies, the natural science, and mathematics.

The major field program generally is built upon a set of core courses and a specialized “concentration.” The number of courses required for a major varies by department. Most students go beyond the minimum requirements, electing additional courses which both broaden and deepen their understanding of their chosen discipline.

Because no academic major program is built in isolation, students are required to pursue a number of electives of the student's choice. The inherent flexibility of this curriculum demands that the student consult an academic advisor at each stage in the total program and at least once prior to each registration. Students will be prompted to visit the College Office for their official graduation check early in their senior year.

Declaration of Major, Minor and Concentration

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor in the major field department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

Students must declare or change majors, minors, and concentrations, via Campus Connection. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the Office for Academic Advising Support.

Competence in Modern Language

All students will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language (i.e., a language other than English) equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in the fourth-year high school sequence of any language
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations or achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language, or achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program, or achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College will abide by this Modern Language
Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT, regardless of when they first matriculated at DePaul.

Students who have met the Modern Language Requirement and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program (see "Special Programs").

External Credit and Residency

A student who has been admitted to the College begins residency within the college as of the first day of classes of the term in which the student is registered. Students in residence, whether attending on a full-time or part-time basis, may not take courses away from DePaul University without the written permission of the college. Permission must be obtained in advance of registration to avoid loss of credit or residency in the college; see the LAS website for more information.

Arts and Literature (AL)

- 3 Courses Required

Philosophical Inquiry (PI)

- 2 Courses Required

Scientific Inquiry (SI)

- 3 Courses Required
  (Note: One course must be a lab)

Self, Society and the Modern World (SSMW)

- 3 Courses Required

Religious Dimensions (RD)

- 2 Courses Required

Understanding the Past (UP)

- Not Required

* Students must earn a C- or better in this course.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.
Major Requirements

Course Requirements

Core

- HST 298 INTRODUCTION TO HISTORICAL SOURCES AND METHODS*
- HST 299 CRAFT OF HISTORY
- HST 390 CAPSTONE IN HISTORICAL RESEARCH AND WRITING

*Important Note: Students must complete WRD 103 and WRD 104 or HON 101 prior to enrolling in HST 298. For all concentrations, HON 102 may be counted toward lower division requirements.

Concentration Requirements

Students must also complete the requirements from one of the following concentrations: standard, pre-law, public history, or secondary-education.

Concentration Requirements

Concentrations, tracks and specializations provide focus to the major. In addition to any college core requirements, liberal studies requirements and major requirements, students are required to choose one of the following:

- Standard
- Pre-Law
- Public History
- Secondary Education History

Standard Concentration

Course Requirements

Lower Division Courses

In addition to the Common Core, students take 5 courses at the 100 or 200 level. The 100-level indicates that the course examines global history or large regions of the world. The 200-level indicates that the course has a narrower national or thematic focus. Note: HON 102 HISTORY IN GLOBAL CONTEXTS may be counted toward this lower division requirement.

Upper Division Courses

Students take 6 courses at the 300 level. Students must complete a preparatory 300-level "gateway" course before entering into a linked section of HST 390 CAPSTONE IN HISTORICAL RESEARCH AND WRITING with the faculty's permission. The gateway course will count as one of the 6 upper division courses.
One Additional Course

Students will take one additional HST course in either the lower or upper division.

Open Electives

Open elective credit is also required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Pre-Law Concentration

Course Requirements

Lower Division Courses

In addition to the Common Core, students take 5 courses at the 100 or 200 level.

Upper Division Courses

- HST 388 THE COURT AND THE U.S. BILL OF RIGHTS
- HST 395 ISSUES IN NON-U.S. LEGAL HISTORY
- Two 300-level HST courses of choice, one of which must be a gateway linked to a HST 390.
- Two courses from the following list:
  - HST 301 U.S. LABOR HISTORY
  - HST 308 EUROPE FROM CONFLICT TO CONSENSUS
  - HST 328 ENGLISH CONSTITUTIONAL HISTORY
  - HST 331 THE NATION AND NATIONALISM IN EUROPE
  - HST 332 FRENCH REVOLUTION AND NAPOLEON
  - HST 335 EUROPE IN AN AGE OF ENLIGHTMENT
  - HST 371 THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION
  - HST 379 RECONSTRUCTION AND THE RISE OF JIM CROW
  - HST 385 UNITED STATES CONSTITUTIONAL HISTORY TO 1865
  - HST 386 UNITED STATES CONSTITUTIONAL HISTORY SINCE 1865
  - Any 300-level HST Topics course with a relevant topic

Additional Course

Students will take one additional HST course in either the lower or upper division.

Open Electives

Open elective credit is also required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Public History Concentration

Course Requirements

Lower Division Courses

In addition to the Common Core, students take 5 courses at the 100 or 200 level.
Upper Division Courses

Six courses from the 300-level. One must be a gateway course linked to HST 390. One course must be HST 392 PUBLIC HISTORY INTERNSHIP.

Additional Public History Requirement

- Three courses from the following list. (These courses count towards lower and upper level requirements):
  - HST 269 INTRODUCTION TO PUBLIC HISTORY
  - HST 382 CHICAGO HISTORY MUSEUM ADVANCED SEMINAR
  - HST 389 TOPICS IN PUBLIC HISTORY
  - HST 391 LOCAL AND COMMUNITY HISTORY
  - HST 396 ORAL HISTORY PROJECT

One Additional Course

Students will take one additional HST course in either the lower or upper divisions.

Open Electives

Open elective credit is also required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Secondary Education History Concentration

Course Requirements

Lower Division Courses

In addition to the Common Core, students take five 100- or 200-level courses, including:

- Two courses in the World History Sequence:
  - HST 111 THE WORLD TO C.1500
  - HST 112 THE WORLD, C.1500-1914
  - HST 113 THE WORLD, 1900-PRESENT
- The three-course American History Sequence:
  - HST 181 UNITED STATES TO 1800
  - HST 182 UNITED STATES, 1800-1900
  - HST 183 UNITED STATES, 1900-PRESENT

Upper Division Courses

Six courses from the 300 level, one of which must be a gateway course linked to HST 390.

Additional Secondary Education History Requirement

Students must take two additional US History and two additional non-US history courses split between lower and upper division courses.

One Additional Course

Students will take one additional HST course in either the lower or upper divisions.

Open Electives

Open elective credit is also required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.
Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

History (BA)/Secondary Education History (MEd)

The TEACH Program combines a Liberal Arts and Social Sciences (LAS) undergraduate Social Science major (Anthropology, Economics, Geography, History, Political Science, or Sociology) or a Science and Health (Psychology) major with a graduate level College of Education (COE) Master's in Education Program. Students graduate with a BA or BS in their disciplinary major and a MEd in Education with State of Illinois Secondary Social Science licensure.

This combined degree program of the College of Liberal Arts and Social Sciences and the College of Education was collaboratively developed, and is governed and taught by faculty from these units.

Students may apply to the Program during the spring of their junior year. They must enroll in the Junior Year Experiential Learning course, TCH 320, and meet other application criteria; these include completion of at least 16 quarter credit hours at DePaul and a 3.0 GPA. During their senior year, students are required to complete a Program capstone course, TCH 390, and three 400-level courses that count toward both their undergraduate and graduate degrees:

- TCH 401 TEACHING AS A PROFESSION IN SECONDARY SCHOOL
- TCH 412 THE NATURE OF HISTORY AND THE SOCIAL SCIENCES
- TCH 422 INQUIRY & APPLICATION IN DEVELOPING SECONDARY HISTORY AND SOCIAL SCIENCES PEDAGOGY

Content Area Requirements for Secondary History Education (grades of C or better required for certification):

The following courses should be completed as part of the history major:

- HST 298 INTRODUCTION TO HISTORICAL SOURCES AND METHODS (serves as prerequisite for HST 299)
- HST 299 CRAFT OF HISTORY (serves as prerequisite for upper division History courses)
- 4 US History courses
- 4 Non-US History courses

*A minimum of four History courses must be at the upper division level (300-level) with at least one of those courses in non-US History.

Additional licensure requirements which can be taken as liberal studies or open elective requirements (minimum of one course in each discipline required):

- Geography (GEO 101 recommended)
- Economics (ECO 106 recommended)
- Political Science (PSC 120 recommended)
- Sociology (SOC 101 recommended)
- Psychology (PSY 105 recommended)
- Anthropology (ANT 102 recommended)

History (Minor)

DePaul's History minor is designed to help students develop a critical understanding of the past, as well as its impact on the present and the future. Students may pick a specific focus area of interest to complement their major.

Course Requirements
History of Art and Architecture (BA)

The Department of the History of Art and Architecture familiarizes DePaul students with works of art that define civilizations around the world from their emergence to the present day. The study of art is integral to the development of human knowledge and thus consistent with the academic goals of DePaul University as well as a liberal arts education. We extend the Vincentian mission in our particular focus on comparative culture and art in its urban setting. In an increasingly interconnected world, art history encourages a critical engagement with the visual and its role in individual and social formation.

The study of art and architectural history prepares students for a wide variety of careers and post-graduate pursuits. Thus, all of our classes foster critical thinking by developing visual literacy, close reading, persuasive writing, research skills and oral communication. Taking advantage of the rich cultural resources of Chicago through classroom lectures, discussions and site visits to exhibits, museums, and architectural monuments, students come to understand how art is produced and how it operates in its social and historical moment. In more advanced classes, students become well-versed in the nature of the field and its current and traditional theoretical issues. In these classes, too, consideration is given to the professional world, including museums, galleries, cultural institutions, and the global art market.

All of these goals are consistent with our professional aspirations, not only as faculty, but as scholars who distinguish ourselves by the breadth of our geographical and chronological interests and through our record of publishing and professional achievements. Although our approaches vary widely, we are united in our shared interest in the creative, social, and political forces that both determine and emanate from all works of art.

College Core Requirements

Study in the Major Field

The student's course of study in the College consists of three parts: Liberal Studies, the major field, and electives. Together these three parts contribute to the liberal education of the student which is the common purpose of all study in the College. By “liberal education” the College understands not only a deep and thorough knowledge of a particular area of study but a knowledge of the diverse areas of study represented by criticism, history, the arts, the behavioral and social sciences, philosophy, religious studies, the natural science, and mathematics.

The major field program generally is built upon a set of core courses and a specialized “concentration.” The number of courses required for a major varies by department. Most students go beyond the minimum requirements, electing additional courses which both broaden and deepen their understanding of their chosen discipline.

Because no academic major program is built in isolation, students are required to pursue a number of electives.
of the student's choice. The inherent flexibility of this curriculum demands that the student consult an academic advisor at each stage in the total program and at least once prior to each registration. Students will be prompted to visit the College Office for their official graduation check early in their senior year.

Declaration of Major, Minor and Concentration

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor in the major field department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

Students must declare or change majors, minors, and concentrations, via Campus Connection. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the the Office for Academic Advising Support.

Competence in Modern Language

All students will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language (i.e., a language other than English) equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in the fourth-year high school sequence of any language
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations or achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language, or achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program, or achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College will abide by this Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT, regardless of when they first matriculated at DePaul.

Students who have met the Modern Language Requirement and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program (see "Special Programs").

External Credit and Residency

A student who has been admitted to the College begins residency within the college as of the first day of classes of the term in which the student is registered. Students in residence, whether attending on a full-time or part-time basis, may not take courses away from DePaul University without the written permission of the college. Permission must be obtained in advance of registration to avoid loss of credit or residency in the college; see the LAS website for more information.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.

History of Art and Architecture (Minor)

The minor program helps students develop visual literacy by critically thinking about how art and architecture affect individuals and societies. Students may focus on a particular area of art history or architecture.

Course Requirements

- One course from the following list:
  - HAA 101 AFRICAN ART
  - HAA 115 ASIAN ART
  - HAA 145 ARTS OF THE AMERICAS
- Five additional 200- or 300-level history of art and architecture courses
  - HAA 130 EUROPEAN ART may also count towards this requirement

Students wishing to group their minor courses around a specialty should confer with the history of art and architecture professor in that specialty.

Students majoring in History of Art and Architecture (BA) are restricted from earning this minor.

Hospitality Accounting and Management Information Systems (Minor)

The applied field of hospitality is worldwide in both scale and scope. While many business skills are routinely utilized in the field, the practice of accounting in U.S. hotels and restaurants is different than what is common for other industries. DePaul students are trained in the classic accounting principles that are in compliance with GAAP; however, hospitality firms follow a unique set of GAAP standards that have been customized for the hospitality industry. Students wishing to prepare for comptroller and related accounting leadership positions will need this specialized knowledge in order to be successful. Further, the role of management information systems developed for the hospitality industry is complex, integrative and specialized for these large-scale yet unique operations. The comptroller of a hotel or restaurant is often charged with the selection, implementation and oversight of such systems. Knowledge of system functionality, integration issues, and how financial data flows from one system to the next is required for the typical hospitality comptroller. Thus, this 12-hour minor has been built with the assistance of the School of Accountancy and Management Information Systems to provide students with the required knowledge.
Declaration Requirements

To declare a minor in Hospitality Accounting and Management Information Systems, a student must meet the following requirements:

- A minimum cumulative DePaul grade point average of 2.500
- No grades of IN, R, or lower than C- in any Hospitality Leadership (HSP) course
- Completion of ACC 101, ACC 102, and MIS 140 with a minimum grade of C- in each

Course Requirements

A student minoring in Hospitality Accounting and Management Information Systems is required to complete the following courses totaling at least 12.0 hours:

- HSP 386 HOSPITALITY ACCOUNTING I: REVENUES & EXPENSES
- HSP 387 HOSPITALITY ACCOUNTING II: CAPITAL MANAGEMENT & RISK
- HSP 388 HOSPITALITY ACCOUNTING III: BUDGETS & LEASES (1.0 hour)
- HSP 389 HOSPITALITY ACCOUNTING IV: INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY SYSTEMS (3.0 hours)

Degree Conferral Requirements

All Hospitality Leadership (HSP) courses and any other courses used toward the minor must be completed with a minimum grade of C- and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.

Hospitality Leadership (BSB)

The heart and soul of any academic program is the curriculum and the faculty who deliver it. We have developed our unique curriculum with the strong involvement of local Chicago hospitality industry leaders and the members of our national advisory board. We have also asked senior faculty at four of the nation’s top ranked hospitality programs to review it and advise us how to strengthen it. By incorporating this input, we created a powerful curriculum that distinguishes us from other hospitality programs. Our curriculum blends two primary concepts: hospitality industry knowledge and key business skills. Additionally, woven throughout the courses are five central themes: leadership, ethics, human resources, globalization and sustainability. By including these themes in many of our courses, we strive to deeply instill within students a sense of personal and corporate social responsibility embedded within an awareness of the larger world around them.

We have three primary curricular goals:

1. Embed a true sense of hospitality within our students; that is, to create a bedrock belief that hospitality is about serving others
2. Create industry leaders prepared to deliver hospitality to anyone who needs it, whenever or wherever
3. Embrace the Vincentian mission: to share hospitality with the underprivileged and disenfranchised members of our communities

The Hospitality Leadership major is comprised of three components: the Liberal Studies Program (the broad, general education of members of our society), the College of Business core (foundational business skills), and the specific requirements of the School of Hospitality Leadership.

  o HSP 206 HOSPITALITY RATIO & DATA ANALYSIS
• Two required courses to be taken in Business Core for 4.0 hours each:
  o HSP 207 HOSPITALITY LAW & ETHICS
  o ICS 396 HOSPITALITY STRATEGY
• Two required courses to be taken Pass/Fail and for 1.0 hour each:
  o HSP 301 SERVICE LEADERSHIP SPEAKER SERIES I
  o HSP 302 SERVICE LEADERSHIP SPEAKER SERIES II
• Two required courses to be taken in Liberal Studies Requirements for Junior Year Experiential Learning and for 2.0 hours each:
  o HSP 303 HOSPITALITY INTERNSHIP I
  o HSP 304 HOSPITALITY INTERNSHIP II
• One Hospitality Leadership Concentration for 12.0 hours
• One Hospitality Leadership Specialization for 12.0 hours
• Two required Hospitality Leadership milestones:
  o ServSafe Alcohol Certification or TIPS
  o ServSafe Manager Certification

Business Capstone

Hospitality Leadership majors must take ICS 396 for the Business Capstone; use of ICS 396 is limited to Hospitality Leadership majors.

Business Law

Hospitality Leadership majors must take HSP 207 for the Business Law requirement; use of HSP 207 is limited to Hospitality Leadership majors. A student majoring in Hospitality Leadership and a second business major must complete both HSP 207 and BLW 201.

Junior Year Experiential Learning

Hospitality Leadership majors must complete HSP 303 and HSP 304. The completed sequence satisfies the requirement for Experiential Learning in the Liberal Studies Program.

Hospitality Leadership Milestones

The Hospitality Leadership Milestones are independent activities that a student majoring in Hospitality Leadership must complete prior to graduation. Minors offered by the School of Hospitality Leadership do not require milestone completion unless otherwise noted.

1. ServSafe Alcohol Certification or TIPS: These two certifications are equivalent industry standards in the proper handling of alcohol and spirits. Students are to complete one of the two certifications and submit proof of completion to the School of Hospitality Leadership anytime prior to graduation. The exams may be found at http://www.servsafe.com/alcohol and http://gettips.com. Only one of these two alcohol-handling certifications is required.
2. ServSafe Manager Certification: This certification is a standard in the Food & Beverage industry and students can use it to strengthen their individual credentials. Every U.S. foodservice outlet must have at least one manager who holds this certification. The focus is upon risk and sanitation concerns in foodservice operations. Students are to complete the standardized exam found at http://www.servsafe.com and submit proof of completion to the School of Hospitality Leadership anytime prior to graduation.

Open Electives

Open elective credit (6.0 hours) is needed to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Degree Conferral Requirements

All Hospitality Leadership (HSP) courses and any other courses used toward the major must be completed with a minimum grade of C- (or PA where specified) and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.
Concentration Requirements

Concentrations, tracks and specializations provide focus to the major. In addition to any college core requirements, liberal studies requirements and major requirements, students are required to choose one of the following:

- Event Management
- Food & Beverage Management
- Lodging Management
- Non-Profit Hospitality Leadership
- Private Club Management

Event Management

This dynamic and fast growing field includes the management of meetings, events, and tradeshows for organizations and facilities. Career paths include corporate planning, association planning, special event companies, and intermediaries or third party planning companies. Most common types of meetings and events planned by these professionals include: product launches, business meetings, conventions, tradeshows, customer events, and special events. A student majoring in Hospitality Leadership with this concentration must complete the following requirements totaling at least 12.0 hours:

Degree Conferral Requirements

All Hospitality Leadership (HSP) courses and any other courses used toward the Hospitality Leadership major must be completed with a minimum grade of C- (or PA where specified) and with a combined GPA of 2.00 or higher.
Food & Beverage Management

Students can prepare for leadership careers in restaurants, contract food companies (industrial and commercial settings), catering, and bar/beverage organizations by completing this concentration. The focus of the coursework is upon the development of strong managerial skills in the leadership of foodservice operations rather than culinary expertise. Students are strongly encouraged to complete at least one internship in the 'back of the house' (kitchen) in order to gain an understanding of culinary operations. A student majoring in Hospitality Leadership with this concentration must complete the following requirements totaling at least 12.0 hours:

- One required course:
  - HSP 330 FOODSERVICE MANAGEMENT

- Two elective courses to be chosen from:
  - HSP 320 CLUB MANAGEMENT
  - HSP 331 FOODSERVICE PURCHASING

All Hospitality Leadership (HSP) courses and any other courses used toward the Hospitality Leadership major must be completed with a minimum grade of C- (or PA where specified) and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.

Private Club Management

This field of study is about the management of membership clubs. The many different types of clubs that need managers include city clubs, country clubs, golf clubs, athletic clubs, yacht clubs, faculty clubs, town clubs, and military clubs. As membership-based organizations, the customers and staff are often in regular contact, sometimes on a weekly or monthly basis. Learning how to create engaging programs to satisfy member interest is a key challenge in this industry. A student majoring in Hospitality Leadership with this concentration must complete the following requirements totaling at least 12.0 hours:

Three required courses:

- HSP 320 CLUB MANAGEMENT
- HSP 321 FOOD PRODUCTION MANAGEMENT (2.0 hours)

Leadership major must be completed with a minimum grade of C- (or PA where specified) and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.

Specialization Requirements

Concentrations, tracks and specializations provide focus to the major. In addition to any college core requirements, liberal studies requirements and major requirements, students are required to choose one of the following:

- Entrepreneurship
- Hospitality Accounting and MIS
- Hospitality Real Estate
- Leadership
- Revenue Management
- Sales Leadership
- Virtual Marketing

Entrepreneurship

Opening a small business, such as a restaurant or a meeting planning service, is the goal of many students. Aspiring entrepreneurs should select this specialization to help them plan in advance for the start of their new enterprise. As the range of small business opportunities is vast, students have great flexibility in choosing a set of three courses that best fits his or her needs. Choices include offerings from both the Management and Marketing departments where students will be able to use their individual concepts as the focus of much of the coursework. A student majoring in Hospitality Leadership with this specialization must complete the following requirements totaling at least 12.0 hours:

- Two courses chosen from:
  - MGT 360 LEADERSHIP
  - MGT 370 BUSINESS PLAN DEVELOPMENT
  - MGT 373 CREATIVITY & ENTREPRENEURSHIP

- One more course chosen from the list above or:
  - MGT 345 SERVICE SECTOR MANAGEMENT
  - MGT 393 INTERNSHIP AND MANAGEMENT CONSULTING PROGRAM
  - HSP 399 INDEPENDENT STUDY (with approval)
  - MKT 352 NEW PRODUCT DEVELOPMENT
  - MKT 377 FUNDAMENTALS OF SALES & NETWORKING

Degree Conferral Requirements

All Hospitality Leadership (HSP), Management (MGT), Marketing (MKT), and any other courses used toward the Hospitality Leadership major must be completed with a minimum grade of C- (or PA where specified) and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.
Hospitality Accounting and Management Information Systems

The applied field of hospitality is worldwide in both scale and scope. While many business skills are routinely utilized in the field, the practice of accounting in U.S. hotels and restaurants is different than what is common for other industries. DePaul students are trained in the classic accounting principles that are in compliance with GAAP; however, hospitality firms follow a unique set of GAAP standards that have been customized for the hospitality industry. Students wishing to prepare for comptroller and related accounting leadership positions will need this specialized knowledge in order to be successful. Further, the role of management information systems developed for the hospitality industry is complex, integrative and specialized for these large-scale yet unique operations. The comptroller of a hotel or restaurant is often charged with the selection, implementation and oversight of such systems. Knowledge of system functionality, integration issues, and how financial data flows from one system to the next is required for the typical hospitality comptroller. A student majoring in Hospitality Leadership with this specialization must complete the following requirements totaling at least 12.0 hours:

Four required courses:

- HSP 386 HOSPITALITY ACCOUNTING I: REVENUES & EXPENSES
- HSP 387 HOSPITALITY ACCOUNTING II: CAPITAL MANAGEMENT & RISK
- HSP 388 HOSPITALITY ACCOUNTING III: BUDGETS & LEASES (1.0 hour)
- HSP 389 HOSPITALITY ACCOUNTING IV: INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY SYSTEMS (3.0 hours)

Degree Conferral Requirements

All Hospitality Leadership (HSP) courses and any other courses used toward the Hospitality Leadership major must be completed with a minimum grade of C- (or PA where specified) and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.

Hospitality Real Estate

The millions of hotels and restaurants around the world operate in buildings that sit on pieces of land. With franchising a common business practice in these industries, who owns the building or the land is often someone different from who operates the business. Thus, the buying and selling of the real estate (building and land) is a key factor in the hospitality business. Experts are needed who understand the relationship between real estate transactions and the operations of hotels and restaurants. To gain this needed knowledge, A student majoring in Hospitality Leadership with this specialization must complete the following requirements totaling at least 12.0 hours:

- One required course:
  - RE 350 REAL ESTATE ANALYSIS
- Two courses to be chosen from:
  - RE 300 REAL ESTATE LAW
  - RE 320 URBAN PLANNING AND PUBLIC POLICY
  - RE 352 REAL ESTATE FINANCE
  - RE 353 REAL ESTATE INVESTMENT
  - RE 354 REAL ESTATE VALUATION
  - RE 398 SPECIAL TOPICS (multiple topics may be used)

Degree Conferral Requirements

All Hospitality Leadership (HSP), Real Estate (RE), and any other courses used toward the Hospitality Leadership major must be completed with a minimum grade of C- (or PA where specified) and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.
Leadership

This specialization is designed for the student who wishes to build a career in the daily operations of the business. A student pursuing this specialization must choose one of the two options below, totaling at least 12.0 hours. The coursework focus in option one is upon human development, including advanced concepts in leadership. The focus in option two is upon understanding more about hospitality operations, enabling a student to delve deeply into how aspects of hospitality business function.

Course Requirements

Option One

- One required course:
  - HSP 382 MANAGING WITH HOSPITALITY UNIONS
- Two elective courses to be chosen from:
  - MGT 320 TRAINING AND CAREER DEVELOPMENT
  - MGT 322 THE MANAGEMENT & MEASUREMENT OF QUALITY
  - MGT 360 LEADERSHIP
  - MGT 361 ORGANIZATIONAL DEVELOPMENT
  - MGT 373 CREATIVITY & ENTREPRENEURSHIP
  - Other course work as approved by the Director

Option Two

- Three 300-level HSP courses as approved by the Director (courses may not also be used to satisfy other HSP requirements).

Degree Conferral Requirements

All Hospitality Leadership (HSP), Management (MGT), and any other courses used toward the Hospitality Leadership major must be completed with a minimum grade of C- (or PA where specified) and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.

Revenue Management

Similar to the tactics airlines use to offers seats and flight ticket prices, hotels seek to maximize revenue through the careful process of offering rooms at various price points through different distribution channels. This focus on managing the revenue stream has become a central role in the operation of the hotel. Managers are needed who understand the concepts of pricing, human behavior, forecasting demand, and the distribution channels through which hotel reservations are made available. A student majoring in Hospitality Leadership with this specialization must complete the following requirements totaling at least 12.0 hours:

- Two required courses:
  - HSP 360 HOSPITALITY PRICING
  - HSP 361 YIELD MANAGEMENT
- One elective course to be chosen from:
  - HSP 362 GLOBAL DISTRIBUTION SYSTEMS
  - HSP 371 CUSTOMER RELATIONSHIP MANAGEMENT

Degree Conferral Requirements

All Hospitality Leadership (HSP) courses and any other courses used toward the Hospitality Leadership major must be completed with a minimum grade of C- (or PA where specified) and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.
Sales Leadership

Selling to groups of people, whether for business or pleasure, is an integral part of the hospitality business. Corporations send legions of managers to meetings and conventions, and to call upon customers for sales and service purposes. Travel agencies design package tours that are open to the general public. Families celebrate weddings, anniversaries, and other special events. All of these activities involve the negotiation and coordination of groups of people who often want food to eat, places to meet, and rooms in which to sleep. To prepare for a career in the art of selling to these groups, a student majoring in Hospitality Leadership with this specialization must complete the following requirements totaling at least 12.0 hours:

- MKT 377 FUNDAMENTALS OF SALES & NETWORKING
- MKT 379 LEADERSHIP IN SALES ORGANIZATIONS
- MKT 383 ADVANCED VALUATIONS FOR BUSINESS

Degree Conferral Requirements

All Hospitality Leadership (HSP), Marketing (MKT), and any other courses used toward the Hospitality Leadership major must be completed with a minimum grade of C- (or PA where specified) and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.

Virtual Marketing

The Internet and social media tools such as Twitter, Facebook, YouTube, etc., have created marketing opportunities for businesses. Hospitality firms need help in harnessing this power of digital marketing. In addition, the preponderance of customer loyal programs, such as frequent diner points at restaurants and frequent stay points at hotels, has added to the complexity of strategic marketing plans. A student majoring in Hospitality Leadership with this specialization must complete the following requirements totaling at least 12.0 hours:

- HSP 371 CUSTOMER RELATIONSHIP MANAGEMENT
- MKT 395 INTERACTIVE/INTERNET MARKETING
- MKT 398 SPECIAL TOPICS : Social Media

Degree Conferral Requirements

All Hospitality Leadership (HSP), Marketing (MKT), and any other courses used toward the Hospitality Leadership major must be completed with a minimum grade of C- (or PA where specified) and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.

Individualized Focus Area (BA)

This degree is for adults who want to accelerate their progress through applied experience and individual attention, with a focus of study based on personal or professional goals.

Students meet degree requirements by documenting learning from experience as well through transfer and SNL courses.

Working with a faculty mentor and an expert in their focus area, students assess their prior learning and develop an individualized plan to meet their goals. Some students focus on topics of personal interest, such as memoir writing. Most students focus on developing knowledge and skills directly related to their current or future careers. Being able to tailor their learning to specific work-related goals provides students with unique opportunities to integrate lifelong, liberal and work-related learning.

The degree is earned after satisfying 50 requirements, written as statements describing competence. Certain competencies are met by specific courses or projects; others can be satisfied by relevant transfer courses or learning from experience.

SNL courses are offered in downtown Chicago, Naperville, Oak Forest and near O'Hare, as well as Online.

Competence Framework

The SNL curriculum is organized around the knowledge, skills and abilities that describe an educated adult in contemporary society. These are defined by a framework of 50 competence statements grouped in 3 areas: Lifelong Learning, Individual Focus, and Liberal Learning. Students demonstrate these degree requirements through SNL courses, independent learning projects, and transfer coursework.

Students in SNL’s competence-based joint degree programs, the BA in Computing, BA in Early Childhood Education and BA in General Business follow a format similar to the descriptions below with some variations. See their Program Requirements for more information.

Lifelong Learning Area

The Lifelong Learning Area has 12 competences that develop skills in reading, writing, goal setting, decision-making, teamwork, and research.

Liberal Learning Area

The Liberal Learning Area encompasses fields of study generally referred to as the Liberal Arts. Students satisfy 26 competences in this area.

This area is divided into 3 categories: Arts and Ideas (AI), Human Community (HC), and Scientific World (SW). Each category is divided into 3 subcategories.

Students complete 8 competences in each category and 2 additional Advanced Elective competences. Students must satisfy at least 1 competence from each subcategory, and 3 more from any subcategory. The 4th and 5th competences are required.

Arts and Ideas Category

This category includes the arts, philosophy, theology, literature, and other fields that focus on expression of values and aesthetics. The 3 subcategories are: Interpreting the Arts, Creative Expression, and Reflection and Meaning.

Human Community Category

This category includes human relations, history, political science, and other fields closely aligned with the development and maintenance of human society. The 3 subcategories are: Communities and Society, Institutions and Organizations, and Individual Development.

The Scientific World Category

This category includes fields related to scientific inquiry, technology, and relevant skills. The 3 subcategories in this area are: Experiencing Science, Patterns and Processes, and Science, Technology and Society.

Individual Focus Area

The Individual Focus Area may reflect a field of study, preparation for graduate study, a career goal or avocation. These 12 competences are defined by the student with the advice and approval of a faculty mentor and a professional advisor who has expertise in the area of interest.

The BA in Computing, BA in Early Childhood Education and BA in General Business each have a series of prescribed competence statements in their Focus Areas that correspond to particular course requirements.

Combined Bachelor's/Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs. Students who meet the admission requirements below may choose to apply to a combined degree program. Interested students should consult their faculty advisor regarding the application procedure. This program allows students to combine many CDM bachelor's degrees with a CDM master's degree following the structure outlined below.

Admission Criteria

- Minimum of 44 quarter hours earned
- Minimum of 12 quarter hours earned at DePaul
- GPA of 3.3 or higher in courses taken at DePaul
- Endorsement of faculty advisor

In order to apply for the combined degree program, your faculty advisor must send an e-mail recommendation to the CDM Academic Success Center. The recommendation should include your full name, student ID number, and the bachelor's and master's degrees you wish to combine.

Bachelor of Arts in Computing students who are enrolled via the School for New Learning are eligible for this program. Interested students who meet the admission criteria for a combined degree should contact Kenn Skorupa at SNL for more information.

Program Structure

Students in the combined degree program take a maximum of three graduate level courses that count toward both their bachelor's and master's degree requirements. Students may enroll in graduate level coursework in the junior and senior year only. Students in the combined degree program will receive the bachelor's degree after meeting all graduation requirements including the minimum credit hours required for graduation.

To earn the master's degree, the student must earn as many additional graduate credit hours as needed to reach the minimum number of graduate credit hours required in that master's degree.

Only CDM courses can be taken as part of this program. Advanced programs (e.g., JD/MS, MFA, and PhD) are not eligible for the combined degree program.

Maintaining Good Standing

Cumulative GPA and course grades will be reviewed after each Autumn, Winter, and Spring Quarter.

The student and faculty advisor will be notified when the student's cumulative GPA falls below 3.3 or when the student receives less than a C- in graduate level course.

If a student's cumulative GPA falls below 3.3, the student must earn a term GPA of 3.3 or above in the following quarter to stay in good standing. If the student does not achieve a 3.3 term GPA, then the student will be dismissed from the combined program and resume the traditional B.A./B.S./B.F.A.

If dismissed from the combined degree program after graduate courses have been passed, the graduate courses may only apply to the undergraduate degree. Should the student later be admitted to a graduate program, graduate courses applied to the undergraduate degree may not apply to the graduate program and may not be repeated if they are required in the declared graduate curriculum. Other graduate courses may be substituted in this case.
Designing a Course of Study

It is extremely important that the student and faculty advisor work together on a course of study immediately upon admission to the Combined Degree Program.

This course of study should include the graduate courses to be taken and the undergraduate courses that are replaced by the graduate courses. Failure to put together a solid plan can lead to extra coursework and a lengthening of the Combined Degree program.

It is advisable for the student and the faculty advisor to enter the proposed plan of study in the student communication record on the CDM intranet so it is available to the student and CDM faculty and staff.

Registering for Master's Degree Courses

Combined degree students must meet regularly with their faculty advisors. The faculty advisor will initiate the registration process for all graduate level courses taken during the undergraduate career.

Bachelor's Degree to Master's Degree Transition

In order to be fully admitted to the designated master's program, the student must meet all admission requirements for that program. When preparing to complete the undergraduate portion of the combined degree, students must submit the application for degree conferral for the undergraduate degree by the application deadline. At this time, the students should contact the CDM Academic Success Center about the procedure required to be formally admitted to the declared graduate program.

Information Systems (BS)

The BS in Information Systems focuses on the organizational and business application of computers and related technologies. It prepares students for careers in IT project management, systems analysis & design, database administration, helpdesk, enterprise systems administration, and user training.

Information Systems (Minor)

DePaul's Information Systems minor will help you acquire the technological skills needed to address the operational, tactical and strategic challenges facing business, governmental and non-profit organizations.

Course Requirements

- IT 240 INTRODUCTION TO DATABASES
- IS 201 INTRODUCTION TO INFORMATION SYSTEMS
- IS 215 ANALYSIS AND DESIGN TECHNIQUES
- IS 372 SOFTWARE PROJECT MANAGEMENT
- IS 373 INTRODUCTION TO ENTERPRISE SYSTEMS
- IT 263 APPLIED NETWORKS AND SECURITY

Students majoring in Information Systems (BS) are restricted from earning this minor.

Information Technology (BS)

The BS in Information Technology focuses on preparing graduates who are concerned with issues related to advocating for users and meeting their needs within an organizational and societal context through the selection, creation, application, integration and administration of computing technologies. This degree prepares you to become skilled in problem solving and programming, networks and communications systems, databases, Internet and Web technologies, security and project management, and have a strong grasp of business concepts and technical communications.
The BS in Information Technology can be completed online by transfer students if they meet the following requirements:

- Have a minimum of 45 quarter/30 semester hours of transfer credit
- Have a minimum cumulative 2.0 GPA
- Be in good standing at the last school they attended

Note - The lab science requirement and the pre-calculus prerequisite for the Data Analysis (IT 223) requirement are not available online at DePaul and will need to be completed on campus or transferred in from another institution.

Students majoring in Computer Science (BS), Information Systems (BS), Information Technology (BS), or Math and Computer Science (BS) or minoring in Computer Science are restricted from earning this minor.

Interactive and Social Media (BS)

The BS in Interactive and Social Media prepares students for the expanding fields of social media and interaction design. The base program integrates technical and creative disciplines such as human-computer interaction, information technology and graphic design. Concepts and skills involve web development languages, interactive scripting, human-centered design and social computing.

Concentrations

Design Concentration

The design concentration emphasizes coursework in information and interaction design as well as strategies for design of social media. It further prepares students to integrate components for social media and create finished visual designs for website, apps, and causal games.

Development Concentration

The development concentration emphasizes coursework in information technology and interaction scripting. It further prepares students to develop the web sites, mobile apps and interactive displays that they have designed.

Concentration Requirements

Students must also complete the requirements from one of the following concentrations: Design or Development.

Degree Requirements

Students in this degree must meet the following requirements:

- Complete a minimum of 192 credit hours (generally 48 courses)
- Earn a grade of C- or higher in WRD 103, WRD 104, and all Major and Minor courses
Earn a grade of D or higher in all other Liberal Studies and Open Elective courses
Maintain a cumulative GPA of 2.0 or higher

Concentration Requirements
Concentrations, tracks and specializations provide focus to the major. In addition to any college core requirements, liberal studies requirements and major requirements, students are required to choose one of the following:
- Design Concentration
- Development Concentration

Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

Students who meet the admission requirements below may choose to apply to a combined degree program. Interested students should consult their faculty advisor regarding the application procedure. This program allows students to combine many CDM bachelor's degrees with a CDM master's degree following the structure outlined below.

Admission Criteria

- Minimum of 44 quarter hours earned
- Minimum of 12 quarter hours earned at DePaul
- GPA of 3.3 or higher in courses taken at DePaul
- Endorsement of faculty advisor

In order to apply for the combined degree program, your faculty advisor must send an e-mail recommendation to the CDM Academic Success Center. The recommendation should include your full name, student ID number, and the bachelor's and master's degrees you wish to combine.
Bachelor of Arts in Computing students who are enrolled via the School for New Learning are eligible for this program. Interested students who meet the admission criteria for a combined degree should contact Kenn Skorupa at SNL for more information.

Program Structure

Students in the combined degree program take a maximum of three graduate level courses that count toward both their bachelor's and master's degree requirements. Students may enroll in graduate level coursework in the junior and senior year only. Students in the combined degree program will receive the bachelor's degree after meeting all graduation requirements including the minimum credit hours required for graduation.

To earn the master's degree, the student must earn as many additional graduate credit hours as needed to reach the minimum number of graduate credit hours required in that master's degree.

Only CDM courses can be taken as part of this program. Advanced programs (e.g., JD/MS, MFA, and PhD) are not eligible for the combined degree program.

Maintaining Good Standing

Cumulative GPA and course grades will be reviewed after each Autumn, Winter, and Spring Quarter.

The student and faculty advisor will be notified when the student's cumulative GPA falls below 3.3 or when the students receives less than a C- in graduate level course.

If a student's cumulative GPA falls below 3.3, the student must earn a term GPA of 3.3 or above in the following quarter to stay in good standing. If the student does not achieve a 3.3 term GPA, then the student will be dismissed from the combined program and resume the traditional B.A./B.S./B.F.A.

If dismissed from the combined degree program after graduate courses have been passed, the graduate curses may only apply to the undergraduate degree. Should the student later be admitted to a graduate program, graduate courses applied to the undergraduate degree may not apply to the graduate program and may not be repeated if they are required in the declared graduate curriculum. Other graduate courses may be substituted in this case.

Designing a Course of Study

It is extremely important that the student and faculty advisor work together on a course of study immediately upon admission to the Combined Degree Program.

This course of study should include the graduate courses to be taken and the undergraduate courses that are replaced by the graduate courses. Failure to put together a solid plan can lead to extra coursework and a lengthening of the Combined Degree program.

It is advisable for the student and the faculty advisor to enter the proposed plan of study in the student communication record on the CDM intranet so it is available to the student and CDM faculty and staff.

Registering for Master's Degree Courses

Combined degree students must meet regularly with their faculty advisors. The faculty advisor will initiate the registration process for all graduate level courses taken during the undergraduate career.

Bachelor's Degree to Master's Degree Transition

In order to be fully admitted to the designated master's program, the student must meet all admission requirements for that program. When preparing to complete the undergraduate portion of the combined degree, students must submit the application for degree conferral for the undergraduate degree by the application deadline. At this time, the students should contact the CDM Academic Success Center about the procedure required to be formally admitted to the declared graduate program.
Interactive and Social Media (Minor)

The Interactive and Social Media minor gives students a foundational skill set in the expanding field of interaction design and its applications to multimedia and web development.

Course Requirements

- ISM 101 FOUNDATIONS OF INTERACTIVE & SOCIAL MEDIA
- ISM 210 INTRODUCTION TO HUMAN-COMPUTER INTERACTION
- ISM 220 INTERACTIVE DESIGN & PROTOTYPING
- IT 130 INTRODUCTORY COMPUTING FOR THE WEB
- or GD 110 WEB DESIGN
- ISM 270 USER-CENTERED WEB DESIGN
- or ISM 320 ADVANCED PRINCIPLES OF INTERACTIVITY
- Elective from the list of required and elective courses for the Interactive and Social Media major.

Students majoring in Interactive and Social Media (BS) are restricted from earning this minor.

Intercultural Communication (BA)

The B.A. in Intercultural Communication offers students an interdisciplinary degree program that is inclusive of rhetorical studies, performance studies, language and social interaction, sociolinguistics, ethnography, gender studies, public address, critical/cultural communication, and global/transnational studies. Students in this program engage theories and methods for understanding human communication across a variety of intercultural contexts, ranging from urban communication, popular culture, and consumerism to a broad intersection of identities (race, ethnicity, gender, sexuality, class, nation, age, religion, ability).

The curriculum is both deep and broad, enabling students to gain practical expertise in their area of interest while gaining a working knowledge of related areas. The curriculum focuses on ethical practice and the convergence of traditional and new media, preparing students for professional practice in an evolving marketplace. Students learn to express themselves well in oral and written communications, to think critically about communication events all around them, to develop skills valuable in the workplace, and to communicate effectively and appropriately in a diverse world.

College Core Requirements

All majors in the College of Communication consist of a total of thirteen courses. All majors complete a three-course common core and a combination of ten program requirements and electives.

Course Requirements

Three core courses are required of all College of Communication Studies students:
Modern Language Requirement

Students who intend to graduate with a Bachelor of Arts degree in the College of Communication will be required to demonstrate a measure of competence in a modern language, as defined by the college. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in a second year high school course work in a modern language or Latin
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language (must be completed during high school)
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination. (Note that CLEP scores may be used only to meet the language requirement. Credit is not awarded in modern languages on the basis of CLEP scores).

Students with some modern language training should consult with the Modern Language Department about the course with which they should begin. Students with little or no previous work in the language will be required to complete the entire three-course introductory sequence.

Unrestricted Electives

Students complete the Bachelors degree by taking an additional 56 quarter hours selected from any course offered by DePaul University.

Liberal Studies Requirements

Honors program requirements can be found in the individual Colleges & Schools section of the University Catalog. Select Academics, followed by Undergraduate, then Honors Program Alternative.

Note

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.

Internship Credit

Students in the major may take CMN 394 Advanced Communication Internship or CMN 395 Communication Internship (when placement relates to the major) for credit. In order to take CMN 394 or CMN 395, students must have completed the three communication core courses (CMN 101, CMN 102, and CMN 103) and have fulfilled internship program eligibility requirements.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.
Intercultural Communication (Minor)

In the Intercultural Communication minor program, you will study the theories and methods necessary to analyze communication among and between diverse communities and ethnic groups within the United States.

Course Requirements

To complete the minor in Intercultural Communication, students must take:

- CMN 103 INTERCULTURAL COMMUNICATION
- INTC 220 PUBLIC SPEAKING or INTC 230 PERFORMANCE OF LITERATURE
- Four additional courses chosen from
  - INTC 205 COMMUNICATION, CULTURE AND COMMUNITY
  - INTC 308 TOPICS IN INTERCULTURAL COMMUNICATION

  - INTC 337 ASIAN-AMERICAN MEDIA REPRESENTATIONS
  - INTC 338 ASIAN CULTURE AND COMMUNICATION
  - INTC 361 GENDER AND COMMUNICATION
  - CMN 394 ADVANCED COMMUNICATION INTERNSHIP

Students majoring in Intercultural Communication (BA) are restricted from earning this minor.

International Business (Minor: Business Students Only)

Students in the Driehaus College of Business who demonstrate a proficiency in a modern language may minor in International Business. Students will learn about factors affecting international trade, monetary economics, and political economy with a special focus on a particular economic hot spot.

The International Business minor is available to Driehaus College of Business students only. A student must be able to demonstrate that he or she has modern language proficiency through the intermediate level of college coursework to complete the minor.

Declaration Requirements

To declare a minor in International Business, a Driehaus student must meet the following requirements:

- Completion of 28.0 hours at DePaul University
- The following courses must be completed with a minimum grade of C- and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher: ACC 101, ACC 102, BLW 201 (or HSP 207 for Hospitality Leadership majors), ECO 105, ECO 106, MAT 135, MAT 136, and MAT 137
- A minimum cumulative DePaul grade point average of 2.000
- No grade of IN, R, or lower than C- in any course used toward the International Business minor

Course Requirements

The minor consists of six to nine courses totaling 24.0-36.0 hours:
• One economics course to be chosen from:
  - ECO 333 TOPICS IN GLOBAL ECONOMIES
  - ECO 361 INTERNATIONAL TRADE
  - ECO 362 INTERNATIONAL MONETARY ECONOMICS
  - PSC 344 WORLD POLITICAL ECONOMY

• Two international business courses to be chosen from:
  - ECO 316 EUROPEAN ECONOMIC HISTORY
  - ECO 330 THE ECONOMICS OF SOCIALISM
  - ECO 333 TOPICS IN GLOBAL ECONOMIES
  - ECO 334 UNDERSTANDING CHINA’S ECONOMY
  - ECO 360 ECONOMICS OF LOW-INCOME COUNTRIES
  - ECO 361 INTERNATIONAL TRADE
  - ECO 362 INTERNATIONAL MONETARY ECONOMICS
  - ECO 398 SPECIAL TOPICS : Comparative Economic Systems (this topic only)
  - FIN 340 INTERNATIONAL FINANCE
  - ICS 350 INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS SEMINAR
  - MGT 354 GLOBAL HUMAN RESOURCE MANAGEMENT
  - MGT 357 INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS
  - MKT 340 MARKETING ACROSS CULTURES: A CULTURAL PERSPECTIVE ON MULTICULTURAL MARKETS
  - MKT 358 MARKETING IN A GLOBAL ENVIRONMENT (available only to Marketing Honors majors)
  - MKT 360 INTERNATIONAL MARKETING

• Three to six modern language and/or area studies courses (related to the language being studied)

Modern Language and Area Studies

The exact mix of language and area studies courses is determined by the student’s starting level in the modern language.

1. For a student with limited language background who does not place out of any college level language course, two years of college level language instruction (six courses through the intermediate level) are required.
2. For a student who places out of one or more of the college language courses, he/she will start the language sequence at the appropriate placement and continue it through the intermediate level of instruction. If the student needs fewer than three language courses to complete the intermediate sequence, the student will take either advanced language or area studies courses to complete the minimum three course language/area studies requirement.

Examples of language/area studies mix:

1. A Driehaus student wishing to pursue the IB minor tests out of SPN 101 and SPN 102. The student begins language instruction in SPN 103 (which completes the introductory sequence), and then continues with the intermediate sequence of SPN 104/105/106. The student completes the minor with the 3 international economics/business requirements plus the 4 language courses, for a total of seven courses.
2. A Driehaus student wishing to pursue the IB minor tests out of SPN 101/102/103/104. The student begins language instruction in SPN 105 and completes the intermediate sequence with SPN 106. Because the student has taken only two courses to complete the intermediate sequence, he/she will take an additional advanced language or area studies course to complete the minimum 3 course language/area studies requirement. Along with the 3 international economics/business requirements, this student can complete the minor with a total of six courses.

Economics/International Business Courses

The three courses taken for the Economics/International Business requirements must be chosen from at least two different departments. The one course taken for the economics requirement may not be used again for the two course international business requirement; course sharing is not allowed.

Degree Requirements

All courses used toward the International Business minor must be completed with a minimum grade of C- and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.
International Politics (Minor)

The minor in international politics is designed to provide the non-major with an opportunity to develop a specialty in the domestic and international politics of regions outside the United States.

Course Requirements

- PSC 140 INTRODUCTION TO INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS
- PSC 150 INTRODUCTION TO COMPARATIVE POLITICS
- Two of the following 200-level courses:

Students majoring in Political Science (BA) or minoring in American Politics or Public Law/Political Thought are restricted from earning this minor.

International Studies (BA)

Our undergraduate program is designed to equip students with the interdisciplinary approach, critical thinking skills and international perspectives necessary to address real world challenges. Students can expect to be challenged by a rigorous interdisciplinary curriculum founded in critical social theory and international political economy. Undergraduate students are required to take seven core classes that, taken together, explore and problematize notions of culture, migration, conflict, governance, popular movements, and identities and boundaries. In the process, students acquire critical reading, writing, research, and problem-solving skills tailored to contemporary local, regional, and international challenges.

The B.A. program is unique within the Midwest and far beyond for its interdisciplinary approach to international studies and commitment to placing the themes of power and inequality at the heart of academic inquiry. Unlike conventional programs that focus on international security and economy, our program addresses the economic in conjunction with the political and social. Moreover, undergraduates are encouraged to develop second-language proficiency through two years of intensive language study, and we encourage study abroad in a country where the second language is spoken. Students learn to think in more international and interdisciplinary contexts, to value social and cultural complexity, and to question conventional wisdom. As a result, our students often engage in activism and social justice work in Chicago, nationally, and internationally.

Internships

Students in the INT Department pursue internship opportunities to gain job experience, investigate career possibilities, earn academic credit, and round out their concentrations. We work with the University Internship Program to help students find or create an internship that suits their particular interests. Our students have worked at local and international non-profit organizations, consulates, government offices, international businesses, and cultural institutions, including RefugeOne, the Council for American-Islamic Relations, the Puerto Rican Cultural Institute, and the European Community Commission’s Office in Brussels, which offers a unique research internship.

Study Abroad Programs

All International Studies majors are encouraged, but not required, to participate in study abroad programs. Study abroad challenges students to develop cultural competency, expand their education through diverse intellectual perspectives, and engage with local and global challenges. DePaul University sponsors study abroad opportunities with a range of course offerings, including intensive language-learning classes, cultural and historical studies, public service, and business. Some INT students pursue study abroad programs outside of DePaul that match their particular interests.

Employers of Graduates

The combination of language training with rigorous preparation in interdisciplinary social sciences and political economy opens doors to careers in nonprofits and community organizations, international non-governmental organizations, international diplomatic entities, international law, international commerce and cross cultural communications.

Graduate School

Students who complete the major in International Studies are prepared with the writing and critical thinking skills necessary to go on to graduate school and many choose to pursue advanced degrees in the political, economic, anthropological, sociological, geographical, historical, linguistic, or literary fields. We have placed students in prestigious graduate programs with membership in the Association of Professional Schools of International Affairs, including those at Johns Hopkins University, Tufts University, University of Maryland, Georgetown University, University of California at San Diego, and University of Colorado at Boulder. Additionally, our students have entered University of California at Berkeley, University of Chicago, Emory University, University of Illinois, Indiana University, University of Michigan, Northwestern University, University of Wisconsin at Madison, and Yale University in languages or the social sciences.

College Core Requirements

Study in the Major Field

The student’s course of study in the College consists of three parts: Liberal Studies, the major field, and electives. Together these three parts contribute to the liberal education of the student which is the common purpose of all study in the College. By "liberal education" the College understands not only a deep and thorough knowledge of a particular area of study but a knowledge of the diverse areas of study represented by criticism, history, the arts, the behavioral and social sciences, philosophy, religious studies, the natural science, and mathematics.
The major field program generally is built upon a set of core courses and a specialized “concentration.” The number of courses required for a major varies by department. Most students go beyond the minimum requirements, electing additional courses which both broaden and deepen their understanding of their chosen discipline.

Because no academic major program is built in isolation, students are required to pursue a number of electives of the student's choice. The inherent flexibility of this curriculum demands that the student consult an academic advisor at each stage in the total program and at least once prior to each registration. Students will be prompted to visit the College Office for their official graduation check early in their senior year.

Declaration of Major, Minor and Concentration

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor in the major field department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

Students must declare or change majors, minors, and concentrations, via Campus Connection. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the the Office for Academic Advising Support.

Competence in Modern Language

All students will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language (i.e., a language other than English) equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in the fourth-year high school sequence of any language
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations or achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language, or achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program, or achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College will abide by this Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT, regardless of when they first matriculated at DePaul.

Students who have met the Modern Language Requirement and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program (see "Special Programs").

External Credit and Residency

A student who has been admitted to the College begins residency within the college as of the first day of classes of the term in which the student is registered. Students in residence, whether attending on a full-time or part-time basis, may not take courses away from DePaul University without the written permission of the college. Permission must be obtained in advance of registration to avoid loss of credit or residency in the college; see the LAS website for more information.

Notes

See an advisor to utilize the modern language option.

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.

Major Requirements

Course Requirements

- INT 201 THE EVOLUTION OF THE MODERN NATION STATE
- INT 202 INTERNATIONAL CONFLICT AND COOPERATION
- INT 203 INTERNATIONAL MOVEMENTS IN THE 20TH AND 21ST CENTURIES
- INT 204 CULTURAL ANALYSIS
- INT 205 INTERNATIONAL POLITICAL ECONOMY
- INT 206 IDENTITIES AND BOUNDARIES
- INT 301 SENIOR SEMINAR (Counts for the LSP senior capstone)
- ECO 105 PRINCIPLES OF MICROECONOMICS (Pre-requisite for INT 205; Counts for Self, Society, and the Modern World)
- ECO 106 PRINCIPLES OF MACROECONOMICS (Pre-requisite for INT 205)
- GEO 201 GEOPOLITICS
  or HON 201 STATES, MARKETS, AND SOCIETIES (Counts for Self, Society, and the Modern World)
- Five courses in an individualized concentration
- Second Language Proficiency (coursework through 106)

Individualized Concentration (5 courses)

In consultation with a faculty mentor, all international studies students devise a five-course concentration. This concentration should provide students with a depth of knowledge on a particular theme, approach, region, and/or question of some international importance. Hence, a student might explore environmental movements (theme), Green Marxism (approach), Latin America (region), and/or theories of democratic transition (question). Concentrations must be approved by a faculty mentor in order to fulfill the major requirement.

- Study Abroad: Up to two of the non-language courses you take during Study Abroad may be counted toward the concentration. These classes must be topical and fit with your concentration (for example no phonetics or grammar courses). Your faculty advisor will decide if any additional Study Abroad classes will be able to count towards the concentration.

- Double Majors/Minors: Three classes can be taken from the double major or minor classes and applied to the concentration. The classes must have an International and Political/Social/Economic focus and relate to your concentration.

- Foreign Language Courses: Topical language courses, such as courses focused on literature, civilization or genre can be applied to the concentration. Advanced language classes focused on phonetics or style cannot be applied.

Language Requirement

Proficiency in a language other than English is required and can be demonstrated through passing grades in college coursework through the intermediate (second-year) level, up to and including 106. Students who enter the program with second language skills developed outside of formal college coursework may petition the director to demonstrate proficiency by examination in order to satisfy the language requirement. The assessment and proficiency tests can be taken on Campus Connection.

Open Electives

Open elective credit is also required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours. International Studies majors have 60 open elective credit hours. Courses taken to meet the second language proficiency requirement count as electives.

International Studies (Minor)

For students who do not wish to or are unable to pursue a major in International Studies, the minor offers the opportunity to gain a basic grounding in a rigorous, interdisciplinary approach to international affairs. Students who pursue this minor will benefit from an introduction to theories of nationalism, international relations, social movements, cultural studies, international political economy, and critical geography.

The minor can complement traditional disciplines, as well as other interdisciplinary programs, by providing students with the theoretical tools necessary to critically analyze pressing global issues. Additionally, students will build their writing, reading, and research skills through the coursework required for the minor.

Course Requirements

- INT 201 THE EVOLUTION OF THE MODERN NATION STATE
- INT 202 INTERNATIONAL CONFLICT AND COOPERATION
- INT 203 INTERNATIONAL MOVEMENTS IN THE 20TH AND 21ST CENTURIES
- INT 204 CULTURAL ANALYSIS
- INT 205 INTERNATIONAL POLITICAL ECONOMY
- INT 206 IDENTITIES AND BOUNDARIES

Note that ECO 105 and ECO 106 are prerequisites for INT 205.

Students majoring in International Studies (B.A.) are restricted from earning this minor.
Irish Studies (Minor)

The Irish Studies minor is an interdisciplinary academic program focused on Ireland and its place in the world. The purpose of the minor is to give students access to another culture in order to enable them to better understand the role of culture in human society.

The study of Ireland is particularly apposite for a number of reasons:

1. Ireland has a rich history, culture and literature that in itself is worthy of study.
2. The Irish experience epitomizes a variety of processes which are of relevance to an understanding of today’s world. Among them are:
   1. an experience of colonialism and development
   2. the phenomenon of emigration and diaspora
   3. a changing interaction with adjacent countries
   4. finding a place in Europe and a globalized world
   5. searching for cultural identity
   6. coping with intercommunal, political conflict and violence, and reconfiguring the role of women in society
3. How Ireland has dealt with issues such as the environment and the configuration of gender roles can provide a point of comparison for and reflection on American experience.
4. The study of Ireland provides insights on how American influence impinges on other cultures.
5. Irish immigration into the United States has proved to be a formative influence on the development of American society. The study of Ireland can contribute to the shifting search for personal and social identity within America itself.

Course Requirements

- One course from Section A History
- One course from Section B Literature
- One course from Section C Nature and Culture
- Three courses, chosen from sections A through F, with no more than one course from Section F Ancillary Studies

Irish Studies Courses

A. History

- HST 266 IRELAND, 1450 - 1800, CONQUEST, COLONIZATION & REBELLION
- HST 268 IRELAND, 1800-PRESENT

B. Literature

- ENG 346 NINETEENTH CENTURY IRISH LITERATURE
- ENG 354 THE IRISH REVIVAL
- ENG 355 MODERN IRISH LITERATURE
- ENG 456 CONTEMPORARY IRISH LITERATURE
- ENG 357 TOPICS IN IRISH STUDIES : (e.g. Irish women’s literature) *
- ENG 339 TOPICS IN RESTORATION AND 18TH CENTURY ENGLISH LITERATURE : (e.g. Jonathan Swift) *
- ENG 382 MAJOR AUTHORS : (e.g. James Joyce) *

C. Nature and Culture

- REL 260 RELIGION AND POLITICAL CONFLICT : Ireland *
- GEO 204 RELIGIOUS GEOGRAPHY
- GEO 370 ADVANCED TOPICS IN CULTURAL GEOGRAPHY : Celtic Geographies *
- WGS 249 GENDER AND POLITICS IN IRELAND

D. Experiential Learning

E. Independent Study

- IRE 379 INDEPENDENT STUDY (a course, approved by the director of the program, can be taken with a member of the Irish-Studies faculty).
F. Ancillary Studies

- HST 323 THE CULTURES OF EARLY CHRISTIANITY
- CPL 319 TOPICS IN COMPARATIVE LITERATURE: Aspects of Empire *
- ENG 389 TOPICS IN COMPARATIVE LITERATURE: Aspects of Empire *
- GEO 201 GEOPOLITICS
- GEO 316 THE EUROPEAN UNION

Courses marked * are topical courses which may sometimes be on an Irish topic and sometimes not. Only when an Irish topic is offered — as given in the examples in parentheses in the list of courses above — will it count for the Irish Studies minor. When you register for such a course it will not automatically show up on the list of Irish Studies courses you have taken. You will need to contact the Director of Irish Studies at the beginning of the quarter, providing your name, DePaul ID number and SSN, and ask that the course be credited towards your Irish Studies minor. In due course the course will be credited towards the minor. This only applies to courses marked *. The process should work automatically for other courses.

Study Abroad: Dublin

The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences offers a study abroad program in Dublin, Ireland, twice each year. It provides an excellent opportunity for students to get to know Ireland at first hand. It is not a compulsory part of the minor in Irish Studies. However, students taking part in the Study Abroad Program in Dublin who wish to take the minor in Irish Studies may gain credit toward it for two of the Courses they take in Dublin — HST 398 STUDY TOUR Ireland in the 19th and 20th Centuries and HST 398 STUDY TOUR Irish Literary Tradition — which are cross listed with HST 268 IRELAND, 1800-PRESENT and ENG 355 MODERN IRISH LITERATURE.

Islamic World Studies (BA)

Islamic World Studies is an interdisciplinary program. Islamic World Studies courses focus on the academic study of the Islamic World. In this program Islamic civilization is viewed as a meta-culture, which grew and was sustained by an Arab core plus the accretion of knowledge from the diverse cultures that embraced it. Islamic World Studies will ground students in a study of Islam as a worldview/civilization by first engaging in an exploration of the primary texts, history, and cultural traditions and then examinations of specific communities.

A major in Islamic World Studies prepares students for graduate study and for careers in foreign policy, public policy, diplomatic corps, social services, consultation, and education.

Individually Constructed Concentration

Course Requirements

Must be approved by Program Director and consist of 5 courses/20 credits.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Islamic World Studies (Minor)

A minor in Islamic World Studies strengthens preparation for many areas of graduate study, as well as for a range of career opportunities in both traditional fields and in occupational areas. Students who would like to know more about the Islamic World Studies Program are invited to speak with the director and the other faculty members.

Course Requirements

- IWS 191 ISLAMIC WORLD STUDIES
- IWS 192 WESTERN APPROACHES TO ISLAMIC STUDIES
- IWS 266 ISLAM IN THE UNITED STATES
- Any three relevant electives, including:
  - IWS 217 ISLAM IN GLOBAL CONTEXTS

  - ARB 101 BASIC ARABIC I
  - ARB 102 BASIC ARABIC II
  - ARB 103 BASIC ARABIC III
  - Any other advisor approved course

Students majoring in Islamic World Studies (BA) are restricted from earning this minor.
Italian (BA)

In DePaul’s Italian program, students will study Italian language, literature and culture. Italian influence extends throughout the world in art, music, literature, fashion and cuisine. Having knowledge of Italian culture and the ability to speak Italian will provide students with international job opportunities.

As an Italian major, students will take courses focusing on a variety of topics, including:

- Business
- Culture
- Food
- Geography
- Language
- Linguistics
- Literature
- Translation

The Italian program offers a concentration in Italian education for students who are interested in teaching. Many Italian majors choose to earn a degree in another area of study, such as art, music, international studies or political science.

DePaul offers a study abroad program at Italiaidea in Rome, allowing students to grow linguistically and experience Italian culture first-hand. During the study abroad term, students will live in an apartment or with an Italian host family.

Chicago is home to vibrant Italian and Italian-American communities, providing students with opportunities to visit the Little Italy neighborhood, dine at Italian restaurants and attend Italian cultural events.

Study in the Major Field

The student’s course of study in the College consists of three parts: Liberal Studies, the major field, and electives. Together these three parts contribute to the liberal education of the student which is the common purpose of all study in the College. By “liberal education” the College understands not only a deep and thorough knowledge of a particular area of study but a knowledge of the diverse areas of study represented by criticism, history, the arts, the behavioral and social sciences, philosophy, religious studies, the natural science, and mathematics.

The major field program generally is built upon a set of core courses and a specialized “concentration.” The number of courses required for a major varies by department. Most students go beyond the minimum requirements, electing additional courses which both broaden and deepen their understanding of their chosen discipline.

Because no academic major program is built in isolation, students are required to pursue a number of electives of the student’s choice. The inherent flexibility of this curriculum demands that the student consult an academic advisor at each stage in the total program and at least once prior to each registration. Students will be prompted to visit the College Office for their official graduation check early in their senior year.

Declaration of Major, Minor and Concentration

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor in the major field department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.
Students must declare or change majors, minors, and concentrations, via Campus Connection. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the Office for Academic Advising Support.

Competence in Modern Language

All students will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language (i.e., a language other than English) equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in the fourth-year high school sequence of any language
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations or achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language, or achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program, or achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College will abide by this Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT, regardless of when they first matriculated at DePaul.

Students who have met the Modern Language Requirement and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the “Modern Language Option” of the Liberal Studies Program (see "Special Programs").

External Credit and Residency

A student who has been admitted to the College begins residency within the college as of the first day of classes of the term in which the student is registered. Students in residence, whether attending on a full-time or part-time basis, may not take courses away from DePaul University without the written permission of the college. Permission must be obtained in advance of registration to avoid loss of credit or residency in the college; see the LAS website for more information.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.
Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.

Major Requirements

Course Requirements

- ITA 201 ADVANCED COMMUNICATION I
- ITA 202 ADVANCED COMMUNICATION II
- ITA 203 ADVANCED COMMUNICATION III
- Eight 300-level ITA courses

Students who begin their study of Italian at DePaul with ITA 202 or higher may substitute a 300-level Italian elective course for any of the required 200-level courses.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Italian (Minor)

The Italian minor gives students the opportunity to develop their language skills using some of the very latest materials and learning strategies.

The minor consists of a total of 5 courses in Italian language at the 200/300-level.

Students majoring in Italian (BA) are restricted from earning this minor.

Japanese (Minor)

The Japanese language minor prepares students to speak and read with a basic proficiency in one of the world’s most important languages for business.

The minor consists of a total of 5 courses in Japanese language at the 200/300-level.
Students majoring in Japanese Studies (BA) or minoring in Japanese Studies are restricted from earning this minor.

Japanese Studies (BA)

The Japanese Studies program focuses on Japanese language, literature and culture. Because Japanese is a major world language with more than 130 million speakers, having the ability to understand and communicate in Japanese will provide students with international career opportunities.

The Japanese Studies curriculum allows students to take courses from many academic departments, including:

- Art history
- Geography
- History
- International studies
- Political science
- Religious studies

Japanese Studies students are encouraged to participate in one of DePaul's Study Abroad programs in Kyoto, Nagoya or Osaka, in order to grow linguistically and expand their understanding of the Japanese culture.

College Core Requirements

Study in the Major Field

The student's course of study in the College consists of three parts: Liberal Studies, the major field, and electives. Together these three parts contribute to the liberal education of the student which is the common purpose of all study in the College. By "liberal education" the College understands not only a deep and thorough knowledge of a particular area of study but a knowledge of the diverse areas of study represented by criticism, history, the arts, the behavioral and social sciences, philosophy, religious studies, the natural science, and mathematics.

The major field program generally is built upon a set of core courses and a specialized “concentration.” The number of courses required for a major varies by department. Most students go beyond the minimum requirements, electing additional courses which both broaden and deepen their understanding of their chosen discipline.

Because no academic major program is built in isolation, students are required to pursue a number of electives of the student's choice. The inherent flexibility of this curriculum demands that the student consult an academic advisor at each stage in the total program and at least once prior to each registration. Students will be prompted to visit the College Office for their official graduation check early in their senior year.

Declaration of Major, Minor and Concentration

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor in the major field department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.
Students must declare or change majors, minors, and concentrations, via Campus Connection. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the Office for Academic Advising Support.

Competence in Modern Language

All students will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language (i.e., a language other than English) equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in the fourth-year high school sequence of any language
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations or achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language, or achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program, or achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College will abide by this Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT, regardless of when they first matriculated at DePaul.

Students who have met the Modern Language Requirement and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program (see "Special Programs").

External Credit and Residency

A student who has been admitted to the College begins residency within the college as of the first day of classes of the term in which the student is registered. Students in residence, whether attending on a full-time or part-time basis, may not take courses away from DePaul University without the written permission of the college. Permission must be obtained in advance of registration to avoid loss of credit or residency in the college; see the LAS website for more information.

Journalism (BA)

The College of Communication offers a variety of courses leading to a Bachelor of Arts degree in Journalism. The College of Communication Journalism faculty have years of professional experience and are dedicated to encouraging the intellectual development of students, while preparing them with the content mastery they’ll need in serving citizens with information that makes democracy and personal empowerment possible. Students will gain specialized instruction in news gathering and presentation for print, broadcast, and online media. Production facilities include Mac and PC labs, a converged studio-control room, high end editing suites, and smart classrooms. The Journalism program relies heavily on DePaul's long partnership with Chicago's professional community.

College Core Requirements

All majors in the College of Communication consist of a total of thirteen courses. All majors complete a three-course common core and a combination of ten program requirements and electives.

Course Requirements

Three core courses are required of all College of Communication Studies students:

- CMN 101 INTRODUCTION TO HUMAN COMMUNICATION
- CMN 102 INTRODUCTION TO MASS COMMUNICATION
- CMN 103 INTERCULTURAL COMMUNICATION

Students are encouraged to complete all three prior to taking additional coursework in the major.

Modern Language Requirement

Students who intend to graduate with a Bachelor of Arts degree in the College of Communication will be required to demonstrate a measure of competence in a modern language, as defined by the college. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in a second year high school course work in a modern language or Latin
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language (must be completed during high school)
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination. (Note that CLEP scores may be used only to meet the language requirement. Credit is not awarded in modern languages on the basis of CLEP scores).

Students with some modern language training should consult with the Modern Language Department about the course with which they should begin. Students with little or no previous work in the language will be required to complete the entire three-course introductory sequence.

Unrestricted Electives
Students complete the Bachelors degree by taking an additional 56 quarter hours selected from any course offered by DePaul University.

Students in the major may take CMN 394, Advanced Communication Internship or CMN 395, Communication Internship Special Topics (when placement relates to the major) for credit. In order to take CMN 394, students must have completed the three communication core courses (CMN 101, CMN 102, CMN 103), two courses in the chosen major and have fulfilled internship program eligibility requirements.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

---

Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

The following Communication graduate programs have been approved as combined degree options:

- Health Communication (MA)
- Journalism (MA)
- Media Cinema Studies (MA)
- Organizational and Multicultural Communication (MA)
- Relational Communication (MA)

Health Communication (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in their major courses, have a 3.0 cumulative GPA, and have successfully completed three 300-level courses in their major are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by April 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, answers to essay questions, writing sample (research paper), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Health Communication coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take the HTHC core courses (HTHC 515, HTHC 516, HTHC 517) during the senior year. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Students can defer their graduate admission for one year. If students do not matriculate after completing their B.A. degrees or within the one year deferral period, the graduate courses taken as undergraduate students will no longer count towards the graduate degree and students must reapply for admission to the graduate program.

Journalism (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.25 GPA in Communication courses and 3.0 cumulative GPA are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by April 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, Statement of Purpose (750 words) explaining why the student is seeking admission to the program, writing sample or project that demonstrates the applicant's ability in journalism, and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Journalism coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Students can defer their graduate admission for one year. If students do not matriculate after completing their B.A. degrees or within the one year deferral period, the graduate courses taken as undergraduate students will no longer count towards the graduate degree and students must reapply for admission to the graduate program.

Media Cinema Studies (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in Communication courses, have 3.0 cumulative GPA, and have successfully completed CMN 101, CMN 102 and CMN 103 are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by April 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, Statement of Purpose (750 words) explaining why the student is seeking admission to the program, writing sample (research paper that demonstrates the applicant's ability to synthesize and analyze scholarly work), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Media and Cinema Studies coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take two of the MCS core courses (MCS 501, MCS 502, MCS 504) and one MCS elective. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Students can defer their graduate admission for one year. If students do not matriculate after completing their B.A. degrees or within the one year deferral period, the graduate courses taken as undergraduate students will no longer count towards the graduate degree and students must reapply for admission to the graduate program.

Organizational and Multicultural Communication (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in Communication courses, have 3.0 cumulative GPA, have successfully completed CMN 101, CMN 102 and CMN 103 and three 300-level Communication courses are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by April 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, answers to essay questions, writing sample (research paper), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Communication coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Students can defer their graduate admission for one year. If students do not matriculate after completing their B.A. degrees or within the one year deferral period, the graduate courses taken as undergraduate students will no longer count towards the graduate degree and students must reapply for admission to the graduate program.
Relational Communication (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in Communication courses, have 3.0 cumulative GPA, and have successfully completed CMN 101, CMN 102 and CMN 103 are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by April 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, Statement of Purpose (750 words) explaining why the student is seeking admission to the program, writing sample (research paper that demonstrates the applicant's ability to synthesize and analyze scholarly work), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Relational Communication coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives during the senior year. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Students can defer their graduate admission for one year. If students do not matriculate after completing their B.A. degrees or within the one year deferral period, the graduate courses taken as undergraduate students will no longer count towards the graduate degree and students must reapply for admission to the graduate program.

Journalism (Minor)

The Journalism minor provides an overview of reporting skills and methods. The flexible, hands-on curriculum offers courses that focus on a variety of topics, allowing you to take the courses that are most appealing to you.

Course Requirements

A minor in Journalism consists of

- JOUR 275 INTRODUCTION TO JOURNALISM
- JOUR 278 NEWS REPORTING
- Four courses in the Journalism (BA) curriculum. This includes either CMN 394, Advanced Communication Internship or CMN 395, Communication Internship Special Topics, if those internships are journalism-related.

Students majoring in Journalism (BA) are restricted from earning this minor.

Latin American and Latino Studies (BA)

The Latin American and Latino Studies program explores the cultural contributions of Latin Americans to the global community and highlights perspectives and traditions that have developed in the region. It analyzes the multicultural character of the peoples of Latin America by calling attention to the complex interplay among Indigenous, European, Semitic, Arab, Asian, and African societies in the region. It explores the profound linkage that has emerged between Latin America and the United States, particularly through the construction of Latino communities in the U.S.

This interdisciplinary program explores the broad dynamics shaping Latin American and Latino experiences and draws courses and insights from the fields of film and media studies, art and art history, geography, political science, religious studies, sociology, history, anthropology, modern languages, international studies, and philosophy. Students interested in a wide range of work requiring multicultural skills, such as education, law, social work, community organizing, and business, will benefit from course work in this program. The Latin American and Latino Studies program also serves to deepen Latino students' awareness of their cultural heritage.

College Core Requirements

Study in the Major Field

The student's course of study in the College consists of three parts: Liberal Studies, the major field, and electives. Together these three parts contribute to the liberal education of the student which is the common purpose of all study in the College. By "liberal education" the College understands not only a deep and through knowledge of a particular area of study but a knowledge of the diverse areas of study represented by criticism, history, the arts, the behavioral and social sciences, philosophy, religious studies, the natural science, and mathematics.

The major field program generally is built upon a set of core courses and a specialized "concentration." The number of courses required for a major varies by department. Most students go beyond the minimum requirements, electing additional courses which both broaden and deepen their understanding of their chosen discipline.

Because no academic major program is built in isolation, students are required to pursue a number of electives of the student's choice. The inherent flexibility of this curriculum demands that the student consult an academic advisor at each stage in the total program and at least once prior to each registration.

Students will be prompted to visit the College Office for their official graduation check early in their senior year.

Declaration of Major, Minor and Concentration

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor in the major field department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

Students must declare or change majors, minors, and concentrations, via Campus Connection. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the Office for Academic Advising Support.

Competence in Modern Language

All students will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language (i.e., a language other than English) equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in the fourth-year high school sequence of any language
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations or achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language, or achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program, or achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College will abide by this Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT, regardless of when they first matriculated at DePaul.
Students who have met the Modern Language Requirement and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program (see "Special Programs").

External Credit and Residency

A student who has been admitted to the College begins residency within the college as of the first day of classes of the term in which the student is registered. Students in residence, whether attending on a full-time or part-time basis, may not take courses away from DePaul University without the written permission of the college. Permission must be obtained in advance of registration to avoid loss of credit or residency in the college; see the LAS website for more information.

Liberal Studies Requirements

Honors program requirements can be found in the individual Colleges & Schools section of the University Catalog. Select Academics, followed by Undergraduate, then Honors Program Alternative.

- 1 Course Required
  (Note: Course must focus on a geographic region outside Latin America)

* Students must earn a C- or better in this course.

Notes

See an advisor to utilize the modern language option.

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.
Major Requirements

Course Requirements

Core Requirements (5 courses / 20 credit hours):

- LST 200 FOUNDING MYTHS AND CULTURAL CONQUEST IN LATIN AMERICA
- LST 201 STRUGGLE AND RESISTANCE IN LATIN AMERICA
- LST 202 CONSTRUCTING LATINO COMMUNITIES
- LST 203 MEDIA AND CULTURAL STUDIES ACROSS THE AMERICAS
- LST 390 SENIOR SEMINAR

Spanish Requirement (2 courses / 8 credit hours):

- Two 200/300-level Spanish courses

Concentration Requirements

Students must also complete the requirements from one of the following concentrations: Historical Processes and Interpretations of the Americas; Contemporary Transformations in the Americas; Cultural Studies of the Americas or Latina/o Studies.

Concentration Requirements

Concentrations, tracks and specializations provide focus to the major. In addition to any college core requirements, liberal studies requirements and major requirements, students are required to choose one of the following:

- Contemporary Transformations in the Americas
- Cultural Studies of the Americas
- Historical Processes and Interpretations of the Americas
- Latina/o Studies

Contemporary Transformations in the Americas Concentration

This concentration focuses on the political, economic, and socio-cultural transformations that have profoundly shaped the Americas in the twentieth and twenty-first centuries. Courses in this concentration address issues such as authoritarian and democratic regimes of governance, state-interventionist and neoliberal economies, national and transnational forms of belonging, as well as the new modes of institutional exclusion and socio-cultural formation. In choosing this concentration, students will grapple with key figures, events, and movements in the Americas.

Course Requirements

- Choose six courses from the following list*:
  - LST 321 GLOBALIZATION IN THE AMERICAS
Cultural Studies of the Americas Concentration

This concentration includes the study of cultural productions - e.g. art, film, television, literature - and the major theoretical and ideological trends of cultural studies in the Americas. This concentration takes a hemispheric or Inter-American approach to the study of cultural productions, taking into account the impact of social, economic, and political exchanges on the circulation of culture across the hemisphere. Courses in this concentration explore issues relating to the representation of transnational migration, race, ethnicity, sexuality, gender, class, and indigeneity.

Course Requirements

- Choose six courses from the following list*:
  - LST 243 SURVEY OF LATIN AMERICAN ART
  - LST 247 ART OF THE ANCIENT AMERICAS
  - LST 248 ART IN THE SPANISH AMERICAN EMPIRE
  - LST 249 MODERN LATIN AMERICAN ART
  - LST 300 SPECIAL TOPICS IN LATIN AMERICAN STUDIES: ARABS IN THE AMERICAS
  - LST 300 SPECIAL TOPICS IN LATIN AMERICAN STUDIES: LATINO/A TRANSNATIONAL IMAGINATION
  - LST 300 SPECIAL TOPICS IN LATIN AMERICAN STUDIES: NATIVE ART OF THE AMERICAS
  - LST 300 SPECIAL TOPICS IN LATIN AMERICAN STUDIES: GLOBALIZATION & FILM IN THE AMERICAS
  - LST 300 SPECIAL TOPICS IN LATIN AMERICAN STUDIES: LOOKING FOR GOD IN LATIN AMERICA
  - LST 300 SPECIAL TOPICS IN LATIN AMERICAN STUDIES: MEXICAN ART & ARCHITECTURE
  - LST 300 SPECIAL TOPICS IN LATIN AMERICAN STUDIES: MEXICAN CINEMA
  - LST 300 SPECIAL TOPICS IN LATIN AMERICAN STUDIES: PRINCIPLES OF LATIN AMERICAN ART

*Courses from other departments may count towards this concentration; consult your LALSP advisor for more information.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Latina/o Studies Concentration

The Latina/o Studies concentration allows students to choose from an array of intellectually challenging, multidisciplinary courses that introduce cutting-edge scholarship on the Latina/o populations of the United States. Our courses familiarize students with the nation's fast-growing, diverse, transnational Latina/o populations, including their histories, ongoing connections to Latin America, cultures, and social conditions.
Courses offer students the opportunity to focus on individual Latina/o communities in the country and to engage in comparative analysis of the various Latina/o communities. Students can select courses that concentrate on current socioeconomic and political issues facing Latinos in the U.S., as well as others that capture Latina/o expression in literature, music, and the arts. Some courses in this concentration involve students in collaborative projects with Chicago based Latina/o community organizations, civic programs, and other service learning opportunities.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.
Latin American and Latino Studies (Minor)

The Latin American and Latino Studies minor will help you explore the cultural contributions of the Latin American community to the global community and the traditions that developed in the region.

Course Requirements

Core Requirements (2 courses / 8 credit hours):

- One course from the following list:
  - LST 200 FOUNDING MYTHS AND CULTURAL CONQUEST IN LATIN AMERICA
  - LST 201 STRUGGLE AND RESISTANCE IN LATIN AMERICA
  - LST 203 MEDIA AND CULTURAL STUDIES ACROSS THE AMERICAS
  - LST 202 CONSTRUCTING LATINO COMMUNITIES

Areas of Concentration (4 courses / 16 credit hours):

- Four elective courses, to be chosen in consultation with a program advisor. Minors are encouraged to take LST 390 SENIOR SEMINAR. Minors are suggested to focus in one of the four Areas of Concentration:
  - Historical Processes and Interpretations of the Americas
  - Contemporary Transformations in the Americas
  - Cultural Studies of the Americas
  - Latina/o Studies

Study Abroad Experience

Students are strongly encouraged to participate in DePaul's quarter abroad program in Merida, Mexico or one of the university's other short-term study abroad programs in Latin America.

Internship Experience

Students are strongly encouraged to include an internship as part of their academic experience. Internships may be arranged with either a Latino community organization, a U.S.-based organization that focuses on Latin America, or, as part of a study abroad experience, with a public service organization in a Latin American country.

Students majoring in Latin American and Latino Studies (BA) are restricted from earning this minor.

Latino Media and Communication (Minor)

The minor in Latino Media and Communication is comprised of six courses. The minor allows students within the college and from other colleges, who have a strong interest in focusing their interest in Latino Studies, to develop them within the communication field. Students opting to pursue a minor in Latino Media and Communication may not pursue a concentration in the same subject area.

Minor Goals

The program educates students to think critically about all aspects of media and communication, with a particular focus on Latino media and Latino communities. Coursework will provide students with the applied skills necessary to create communication strategies which effectively reach the Latino segment of the population, based on an understanding of Latino cultures in the US and grounded in an understanding of its cultural, economic and sociological aspects.

Learning Goals

Students who complete the minor will:
- Develop an understanding of the heterogeneous and rapidly changing Latino communities locally, nationally, and globally.
- Ground their knowledge of intercultural studies within a more extensive and concrete knowledge of a particular (even though diverse), rapidly growing, and increasingly important population within the US—Latino communities.
- Increase their cross-cultural competence (understanding and ability to dialogue across difference, develop cultural sensitivity and awareness) with Latino communities.
- Develop insights into the needs and motivations of Latino populations in the workplace, in community situations, and other sites of engagement, and develop communications tools and strategies to address those needs and motivations.
- Enhance their capacity to communicate with and learn from Latino populations in the workplace, in community situations, and other sites of engagement.
- Recognize the impact of the movement of Latinos across the globe and to develop the skills to critically consume and produce media, public relations, and advertisement representations that communicate to and about Latino communities.
- Both engage and demonstrate their interest in Latino Studies within and across diverse areas of knowledge production in the Communication field.

Course Requirements

- LST 202 CONSTRUCTING LATINO COMMUNITIES
  or INTC 335 LATINO COMMUNICATION, CULTURE, & COMMUNITY
- Five additional courses from:
  - LST 202 CONSTRUCTING LATINO COMMUNITIES
  - PSY 220 LATINA/O PSYCHOLOGY
  - INTC 335 LATINO COMMUNICATION, CULTURE, & COMMUNITY
  - INTC 308 TOPICS IN INTERCULTURAL COMMUNICATION
  - JOUR 377 SPECIAL TOPICS IN JOURNALISM
  - LST 300 SPECIAL TOPICS IN LATIN AMERICAN STUDIES
  - MCS 350 TOPICS IN GLOBAL CINEMA
  - MCS 353 TOPICS IN MEDIA STUDIES
  - MCS 375 LATINO/A TELEVISION AND MEDIA
  - MCS 376 LATIN AMERICAN CINEMA
  - PRAD 361 ACCOUNT PLANNING AND CONSUMER INSIGHTS FOR LATINO MARKETS
  - PRAD 362 LATINO INTEGRATED MARKETING COMMUNICATION
  - PRAD 392 SPECIAL TOPICS IN ADVERTISING
  - PRAD 391 SPECIAL TOPICS IN PUBLIC RELATIONS
  - MKT 340 MARKETING ACROSS CULTURES: A CULTURAL PERSPECTIVE ON MULTICULTURAL MARKETS
  - CMN 394 ADVANCED COMMUNICATION INTERNSHIP (for credit in this concentration, the internships must focus on Latino media and communication)
  - CMN 395 COMMUNICATION INTERNSHIP SPECIAL TOPICS (for credit in this concentration, the internships must focus on Latino media and communication)
  - SPN 393 LATIN AMERICAN MEDIA AND DIGITAL CULTURE LITERACY
  - SPN 198 STUDY ABROAD
  - SPN 298 STUDY ABROAD
  - SPN 398 STUDY ABROAD
  - CSS 201 PERSPECTIVES ON COMMUNITY SERVICE
  - CSS 390 SPECIAL TOPICS IN COMMUNITY SERVICE STUDIES (cross-listed with LST 300 Special Topics: Transnational Communities: Puerto Rico/ABD Fall Quarter)

Leadership Studies (BA)

An accelerated, inter-disciplinary, 2-year degree completion program for adult students, the Leadership Studies major is offered at the Loop and Naperville campuses, requiring only one on-site class a week. The remaining courses are offered online. A weekend format is also offered at Moraine Valley Community College.

This course-based major is for graduates of community colleges with an Associates degree who seek broad interdisciplinary study that includes project management, leadership models, communication, organizational change, ethics, human interaction, conflict management and negotiation, among others.

The major combines courses from the Department of Psychology, the College of Communication, and the School for New Learning, which offers the majority of courses, including a unique series of Adult Learning Seminars. SNL students in the Individualized Focus Area degree program may take many of these courses for competence.

Electives

Additional elective credit may be required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 quarter hours.
Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, Transgender, Queer Studies (Minor)

The LGBTQ Studies program analyzes sex and sexuality within many different fields of inquiry. A minor in LGBTQ Studies will enable DePaul students to devote significant study to the experiences of people who do not conform to culturally dominant identities of sexuality and gender: lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, queer. Such an endeavor is profoundly interdisciplinary by nature and draws on university resources and faculty expertise in a wide array of disciplines. Students in this minor will have the opportunity to analyze the experiences of LGBTQ people on their own terms, as well as through critical perspectives on sexuality and gender as complex social, cultural, biological, and historical phenomena.

Course Requirements

- LGQ 150 INTRODUCTION TO LESBIAN, GAY, BISEXUAL, TRANSGENDER, QUEER STUDIES
- Five courses from those listed below

The following is a sample of regularly-offered approved electives. This list is not exhaustive; new courses are continually created and approved. Every quarter before registration begins, the Program Director distributes a list of courses being offered the following quarter. Students should contact the Program Director to request the current list. Students may also petition the Director for approval of a course not listed. Many LGBTQ Studies courses are crosslisted and fulfill requirements in other departments and programs, including the Liberal Studies Program. LGBTQ Studies minors are encouraged to take at least one course in a variety of disciplines—film, history, literature, media, performance, philosophy, politics, religion, science, and theory.

Lighting Design (BFA)

The Theatre School’s Bachelor of Fine Arts (BFA) degree in Lighting Design is designed to give students the opportunity to explore and expand their artistic and visual expression and provides them the opportunity to practice their craft. The four-year curriculum in many ways simulates a lighting designer’s professional experience and process. Designers learn to visualize, create and implement their designs by collaborating with directors, dramaturgs, other designers and technicians, and our professional production staff.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Literature (Minor)

Literature minors study the major authors, works, genres, and literary movements, approaching them both analytically and historically.

Course Requirements

• Six courses in literature, at least three of which must be at the 300-level. ENG 220 READING POETRY and ENG 221 READING PROSE are strongly recommended but not required; these courses are prerequisites to many 300-level English courses.

Students majoring in English or minoring in Creative Writing are restricted from earning this minor.
Management (BSB)

The Bachelor of Science in Business with a major in Management emphasizes tackling relevant issues for today's manager: managing in the global economy, ethical and socially responsible decision-making, managing for total quality, employee empowerment, leadership, team performance and compensation, new venture creation, and conflict resolution.

Management majors are typically hired for positions as business analysts, account executives, assistant managers, operations managers, HR managers, employment interviewers, and consultants. The entrepreneurship curriculum offers programs designed for those students interested in someday starting their own businesses.

- General Management
- Entrepreneurship
- Human Resources
- Leadership and Change Management
- Operations Management
- Sports Management

General Management

The General Management concentration is for the student who wants a broad sampling of the various management disciplines. If a student chooses to pursue this concentration, three courses totaling at least 12.0 hours must be taken.

Course Requirements

Three elective courses to be chosen from:

- MGT 315 MANAGEMENT SCIENCE
- MGT 320 TRAINING AND CAREER DEVELOPMENT
- MGT 323 SUPPLY CHAIN MANAGEMENT
- MGT 325 SUSTAINABLE MANAGEMENT
- MGT 330 RECRUITMENT AND SELECTION

MIS 350 Business Systems Analysis is to be taken only by MIS minors; MIS 360 Systems Analysis and Design is to be taken only by MIS majors.

Degree Conferral Requirements

All MIS courses and any courses used toward the Management Information Systems minor must be completed with a minimum grade of C- and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.
Management Information Systems (BSB)

The program in Management Information Systems is intended for undergraduate business students who plan to start their career as information systems professionals in either information technology producing industries or with the heavy users of such technologies. If they decide to take a minor in MIS, graduates will be able to function as liaisons representing their department or business function in information systems projects. This program is guided by several curriculum principles:

- Designed to educate management-oriented, technically proficient information systems professionals.
- Focused on requirements engineering and other stages of system life cycle requiring heavy involvement of systems analysts rather than on technical implementation stages.
- Complements a thorough understanding of business operations covered in the core undergraduate business curriculum. This combination of competencies is particularly important for systems analysts and makes this program distinct from programs in computer science.
- Designed according to current technological trends and is flexible to accommodate its adjustment as stipulated by rapidly changing and evolving information technologies.
- Includes sufficient training in technology skills in high demand to make graduates easily employable and immediately productive.

In this program, students will acquire:

- A broad understanding of information technologies and their utilization in private and governmental organizations
- An in-depth understanding of information systems life cycle and the nature of related phases and tasks from initial study through post-implementation support
- A thorough understanding of system requirements elicitation, analysis, documentation, validation, and management
- Ability to work with users and builders of information systems
- An understanding of information systems project management
- Ability to develop prototypes using visual programming technology
- Ability to identify organizational data and to design and manipulate databases
- Ability to integrate technical knowledge and understanding of business operations
- Experience working on team projects

Marketing (BSB)

The ultimate goal of an organization is to satisfy the needs and wants of its customers profitably. The Marketing Department offers a variety of courses designed to develop and sharpen student skills to analyze and solve marketing problems. Successful marketing requires the ability to know how and when to do research, how to analyze markets and behavior, and how to develop products and services that satisfy or even anticipate customers’ needs. The purpose of the undergraduate program in Marketing is to prepare students for successful marketing careers by teaching them the knowledge and skills to identify marketing problems and develop solutions that meet customer needs.

Major Requirements

Major Declaration Requirements

To declare a major in Marketing, a student must meet the following requirements:

- Completion of 28.0 hours at DePaul University
- The following courses must be completed with a minimum grade of C- and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher: ACC 101, ACC 102, BLW 201, ECO 105, ECO 106, MAT 135, MAT 136, and MAT 137
- A minimum cumulative DePaul grade point average of 2.500
- A minimum Marketing grade point average of 2.000
- No grades of IN, R, or lower than C- in any Marketing (MKT) course or course used toward the Marketing major
- Completion of MKT 301 and MKT 310 with minimum grades of C-

Course Requirements

In addition to MKT 301 and MKT 310, a student majoring in Marketing is required to complete the following courses totaling 30.0 hours plus 4.0 hours to be shared with the Business Core (34.0 hours total):

- Three required courses to be taken for 10.0 hours:
  - MKT 202 QUANTITATIVE METHODS IN MARKETING (or equivalent; 2.0 hours)
  - MKT 305 INTRODUCTION TO MARKETING RESEARCH
  - MKT 359 ADVANCED MARKETING MANAGEMENT
- One required career readiness milestone course to be taken Pass/Fail for 0.0 hours:
  - MKT 250 NAVIGATING MARKETING CAREERS
- One required course to be taken in Business Core:
  - MKT 376 EFFECTIVE BUSINESS COMMUNICATION
- One Marketing Concentration of five courses to be taken for 20.0 hours

MKT 202 should be taken as early as possible.

Communication Requirement

MKT 376 must be completed by students majoring in Marketing and serves as the Communication requirement in the Business Core.

Concentration Requirements

Students must complete the requirements from one of the following two concentrations: Standard or Sales Leadership.

Multiple Marketing Concentrations

While a student may complete more than one Marketing concentration, at least 50% of the courses used for the completion of a second concentration must be unique to the completion of that concentration.

Open Electives

Open elective credit (16.0 hours) is also required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Degree Conferral Requirements

All Marketing (MKT) courses and any other courses used toward the Marketing major must be completed with a minimum grade of C- and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.
Concentration Requirements

Concentrations, tracks and specializations provide focus to the major. In addition to any college core requirements, liberal studies requirements and major requirements, students are required to choose one of the following:

- Standard
- Sales Leadership

Standard Concentration

The Standard Marketing concentration provides students with the flexibility to tailor their programs to fit a wide array of career interests. Graduates with a marketing major have many career opportunities in the various areas of marketing such as advertising, market research, sales management, or marketing management. The department offers electives that focus in each area. Majors may wish to group their elective courses with a concentration or specific career orientation in mind, although this is not required. A student majoring in Marketing with this concentration must complete the following requirements totaling at least 20.0 hours:

Course Requirements

- One required course:
  - MKT 315 STRATEGIC TOOLS FOR MARKETERS

- Four elective courses to be chosen from:
  - MKT 320 PRINCIPLES OF ADVERTISING
  - MKT 340 MARKETING ACROSS CULTURES: A CULTURAL PERSPECTIVE ON MULTICULTURAL MARKETS

  - MKT 390 SERVICE MARKETING
  - MKT 393 MARKETING INTERNSHIP
  - MKT 395 INTERACTIVE/INTERNET MARKETING
  - MKT 398 SPECIAL TOPICS (multiple topics may be used)
  - MKT 399 INDEPENDENT STUDY
  - ICS 350 INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS SEMINAR (may be used once)

Communication Requirement

Driehaus students majoring in Marketing must complete MKT 376 for the Communication requirement in the Business Core.

Multiple Marketing Concentrations

While a student may complete more than one Marketing concentration, at least 50% of the courses used for the completion of a second concentration must be unique to the completion of that concentration.

Global Business Perspective

If a MKT course or ICS 350 is shared between Global Business Perspective and the Marketing major, additional hours of Open Elective credit are required.
Junior Year Experiential Learning

Sharing of MKT 393 between Experiential Learning and the Marketing major may be possible; consult with academic advisor.

Degree Conferral Requirements

All Marketing (MKT) courses and any other courses used toward the Marketing major must be completed with a minimum grade of C- and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.

Sales Leadership Concentration

The demand for trained and knowledgeable sales people has never been greater. Sales careers offer independence, ample financial reward, personal growth and opportunities for rapid advancement within the organization. The Sales Leadership Program produces business graduates who can sell by joining traditional classroom education with real-world learning experience. Classes are led by faculty with extensive sales experience and by sales executives from leading corporations. Students experience rigorous classroom learning designed to deliver the knowledge and practical skills they will need to succeed during the first years of their careers including: oral and written communication, selling technique and networking, use of technology in customer strategy and identification, and development of organization leadership in a sales environment. Successful students will enjoy opportunities to visit companies, take paid internships, and interview with leading companies for entry-level positions. A student majoring in Marketing with this concentration must complete the following requirements totaling at least 20.0 hours:

Course Requirements

- Two required courses:
  - MKT 377 FUNDAMENTALS OF SALES & NETWORKING
  - MKT 383 ADVANCED VALUATIONS FOR BUSINESS

- Three electives to be chosen from:
  - MKT 378 SALES STRATEGY & TECHNOLOGY
  - MKT 379 LEADERSHIP IN SALES ORGANIZATIONS
  - MKT 380 SCIENCE OF RETAILING
  - MKT 381 BUILDING FINANCIAL RELATIONSHIPS
  - MKT 382 PRINCIPLES OF CATEGORY MANAGEMENT
  - MKT 385 SELLING PROFESSIONAL & COLLEGIATE SPORTS
  - MKT 398 SPECIAL TOPICS: Sales for Social Impact

Category Management Focus

For a specific focus in Category Management, Sales Leadership students should take:

- MKT 380 SCIENCE OF RETAILING
- MKT 382 PRINCIPLES OF CATEGORY MANAGEMENT
- MKT 398 SPECIAL TOPICS: Cases in Category Management

Communication Requirement

Driehaus students majoring in Marketing must complete MKT 376 for the Communication requirement in the Business Core.

Multiple Marketing Concentrations

While a student may complete more than one Marketing concentration, at least 50% of the courses used for the completion of a second concentration must be unique to the completion of that concentration.

Degree Conferral Requirements
All Marketing (MKT) courses and any other courses used toward the Marketing major must be completed with a minimum grade of C- and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.

Career Orientations

Advertising and Promotion

Skills that lead to successful careers in Advertising and Promotion include: analysis of market research data; media planning; the creation of persuasive messages; strategic coordination of elements of the marketing communication mix; sales promotion strategies; public relations analysis and tactical management. You may consider the Standard concentration in Marketing to pursue this career path. Marketing elective courses for students interested in a career in advertising and promotion include the following:

- MKT 320 PRINCIPLES OF ADVERTISING
- MKT 395 INTERACTIVE/INTERNET MARKETING
- MKT 398 SPECIAL TOPICS: Social Media

Category Management

Category Management is the practice of managing a group of related products as one category to maximize profitability. Successful companies expect their suppliers to act as partners that will help them grow their businesses, sharing industry expertise and consumer insight. We have partnered with the Category Management Association to develop a unique curriculum that will prepare students for careers in this rapidly growing field and lead to industry certification. You may consider the Sales Leadership concentration in Marketing to pursue this career path. A student interested in category management should take the courses listed below:

- MKT 376 EFFECTIVE BUSINESS COMMUNICATION
- MKT 377 FUNDAMENTALS OF SALES & NETWORKING
- MKT 380 SCIENCE OF RETAILING
- MKT 382 PRINCIPLES OF CATEGORY MANAGEMENT
- MKT 383 ADVANCED VALUATIONS FOR BUSINESS
- MKT 398 SPECIAL TOPICS: Cases in Category Management

International Marketing

The international area of marketing offers students the opportunity to examine the economy and business management of many countries in their political, historical, and socio-cultural context. Students who concentrate on international marketing would develop career opportunities in international sales, international product management, or international marketing management. You may consider the Standard concentration in Marketing to pursue this career path. DePaul Marketing students may combine their majors with either a minor in a commercial language through the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, or with selected course work in International Studies. Students interested in international marketing benefit by enrolling in the following Marketing courses:

- MKT 320 PRINCIPLES OF ADVERTISING
- MKT 340 MARKETING ACROSS CULTURES: A CULTURAL PERSPECTIVE ON MULTICULTURAL MARKETS
- MKT 352 NEW PRODUCT DEVELOPMENT
- MKT 360 INTERNATIONAL MARKETING
- MKT 390 SERVICE MARKETING

Market Research

Market research encompasses problem formulation, data gathering, data analysis, and communication of findings. An understanding of statistics, psychology and sociology as related to marketing is desirable. You may consider the Standard concentration in Marketing to pursue this career path. A student interested in market research will benefit from the following courses:

- MKT 305 INTRODUCTION TO MARKETING RESEARCH
- MKT 315 STRATEGIC TOOLS FOR MARKETERS
- MKT 320 PRINCIPLES OF ADVERTISING
- MKT 352 NEW PRODUCT DEVELOPMENT
Marketing Management

Many chief executives of top U.S. companies have a background in marketing. Strong marketing provides a key competitive advantage in a dynamic global economy. The marketing management emphasis is appropriate for students with a general interest in planning, development, and introduction of products and services. You may consider the Standard concentration or the IME program in Marketing to pursue this career path. A student interested in marketing management should take the following courses:

- MKT 315 STRATEGIC TOOLS FOR MARKETERS
- MKT 320 PRINCIPLES OF ADVERTISING
- MKT 352 NEW PRODUCT DEVELOPMENT
- MKT 360 INTERNATIONAL MARKETING

Sales Leadership

The demand for trained and knowledgeable sales people has never been greater. Sales careers offer independence, ample financial reward, personal growth and opportunities for rapid advancement within the organization. In today's economy, there are far more sales positions available, compensation levels are 20-40% higher than other entry level positions and sales positions are more stable in difficult economic times. You may consider the Sales Leadership concentration in Marketing to pursue this career path. A student interested in sales leadership could benefit from taking the following:

- MKT 376 EFFECTIVE BUSINESS COMMUNICATION
- MKT 377 FUNDAMENTALS OF SALES & NETWORKING
- MKT 378 SALES STRATEGY & TECHNOLOGY
- MKT 379 LEADERSHIP IN SALES ORGANIZATIONS
- MKT 380 SCIENCE OF RETAILING
- MKT 381 BUILDING FINANCIAL RELATIONSHIPS
- MKT 383 ADVANCED VALUATIONS FOR BUSINESS
- MKT 385 SELLING PROFESSIONAL & COLLEGIATE SPORTS
- MKT 398 SPECIAL TOPICS: Sales for Social Impact

Marketing (Minor)

Students from outside the Driehaus College of Business may minor in Marketing to learn the foundations of marketing research, product development, advertising and sales.

Declaration Requirements

To declare a minor in Marketing, a non-Driehaus student must meet the following requirements:

- A minimum cumulative DePaul grade point average of 2.500
- A minimum Marketing grade point average of 2.000
- No grades of IN, R, or lower than C- in any Marketing (MKT) course
- Completion of the following courses with a minimum grade of C- in each:
  - ICS 200 or approved substitute
  - A course in college algebra
  - A course in statistics

The requirement for courses in college algebra and statistics may be satisfied through the completion of the LSP 120 and LSP 121 sequence.

Course Requirements

A non-Driehaus student minoring in Marketing is required to complete the following courses based on concentration and totaling at least 26.0 hours:

- Six required courses:
  - ICS 200 INTRODUCTION TO BUSINESS (or approved substitute)
  - MKT 202 QUANTITATIVE METHODS IN MARKETING (or equivalent; 2.0 hours)
  - MKT 301 PRINCIPLES OF MARKETING

  - MKT 310 CONSUMER BEHAVIOR
  - MKT 315 STRATEGIC TOOLS FOR MARKETERS
- One elective course to be chosen from:
Degree Conferral Requirements

All Marketing (MKT) courses and any courses used toward the Marketing minor must be completed with a minimum grade of C- and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.

Marketing Honors (BSB)

IME, the honors sequence in Marketing, gives a select group of undergraduate students a hands-on opportunity to develop skills in marketing management while interacting with a Chicago area business. The real world focus of IME is an outgrowth of DePaul's strong links to the Chicago business community.

Instead of a series of classes that address a single marketing function, the IME curriculum features courses that address marketing issues in the way that managers are likely to encounter them. The stage is set for life-long learning in the marketing profession.

IME students are selected on a competitive basis. The evaluation is based on an interview, writing sample and performance in previous marketing and other coursework. Classes are limited in size and offered only once per year.

Second Majors and Minors

The addition of a second major or minor may affect the Business Core classes required for a student. Meet with an academic advisor to confirm requirements.

Math Requirements

- A student is expected to complete the business math sequence (MAT 135, MAT 136, and MAT 137) in the first year of study
- MAT 135 and MAT 137 are completed through Liberal Studies requirements
- MAT 135 may be replaced by MAT 150 or MAT 160
- MAT 136 may be replaced by MAT 151 or MAT 161
- MAT 135 and MAT 136 may be replaced by the sequence of MAT 147, MAT 148, and MAT 149; if done, an additional Scientific Inquiry course must be added to the degree plan
- MAT 137 may be replaced by MAT 348 or MAT 351; if done, an additional Scientific Inquiry course must be added to the degree plan

Communication Requirement
Students majoring in Marketing must complete MKT 376 for the Communication requirement.

Grade Minimums for Marketing Major

A minimum grade of C- is required for the following: ACC 101, ACC 102, BLW 201, ECO 105, ECO 106, MAT 135, MAT 136, MAT 137, MKT 301, MKT 310, MKT 376, the course used for Professional Writing, and any MKT course used for Global Business Perspective.

Global Business Perspective

If a MKT course or ICS 350 is shared between Global Business Perspective and the Marketing major, additional hours of Open Elective credit are required.

- MKT 390 SERVICE MARKETING
- MKT 395 INTERACTIVE/INTERNET MARKETING
- MKT 398 SPECIAL TOPICS (multiple topics may be used)
- MKT 399 INDEPENDENT STUDY
- ICS 350 INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS SEMINAR (may be used once)

MKT 202 should be taken as early as possible.

Communication Requirement

MKT 376 must be completed by students majoring in Marketing and serves as the Communication requirement in the Business Core.

Multiple Marketing Concentrations

While a student may complete more than one Marketing concentration, at least 50% of the courses used for the completion of a second concentration must be unique to the completion of that concentration.

Open Electives

Open elective credit (16.0 hours) is also required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Global Business Perspective

If a MKT course or ICS 350 is shared between Global Business Perspective and the Marketing major, additional hours of Open Elective credit are required.

Junior Year Experiential Learning

Sharing of MKT 393 between Experiential Learning and the Marketing major may be possible; consult with academic advisor.

Degree Conferral Requirements

All Marketing (MKT) courses and any other courses used toward the Marketing major must be completed with a minimum grade of C- and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.

Marketing: Sales Leadership (Minor: Business Students Only)

Driehaus College of Business students who minor in Sales Leadership will strengthen their skills in sales and category management, including interpreting strategic consumer insight to help retailers maximize profitability and create an enjoyable shopping experience.
Declaration Requirements

Mathematics and Computer Science (BS)

The B.S. in Math and Computer Science is a joint degree between the College of Computing and Digital Media and the Department of Mathematics. It provides challenging opportunities to exceptional students with an interest in the highly theoretical nexus of math and computer science. Mathematics is a key element to the theory and practice of computer science and technology:

- Number theory forms the basis for encryption algorithms for messages sent over the Internet.
- Facts from projective geometry and multivariable calculus underlie the computer algorithms that control computer animation.
- Properties of abstract groups are instrumental in correcting transmission errors that occur when information is sent from one computer to another. Graph theory and combinatorics are used to create algorithms for Internet search engines and analyze Internet routing protocols.

This program is intended to appeal to academically talented students. It is designed to prepare them for graduate study in various areas of computer science such as theoretical computer science, graphics, data analysis, artificial intelligence, and computational methods and in areas in applied mathematics such as numerical analysis or discrete mathematics. The program is also designed to prepare students to compete for the more theoretical complex jobs found in computer software development.

Students in the program will explore a broad range of fields including:

- Theory of computation
- Computational mathematics
- Artificial intelligence
- Data analysis
- Graphics
- Computer vision

It is highly recommended that students concentrate on one or two areas for their advanced classes to achieve depth, but they are not required to do so. Faculty advisors are available to assist students in their selection.

College Core Requirements

Modern Language Requirements

Students who intend to graduate with the Bachelor of Arts (B.A.) Degree will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in the fourth-year high school sequence of any language
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Science and Health will abide by the College of Science and Health Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.

B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program. While Bachelor of Science (B.S.) students are not required to demonstrate competency in a modern language, the "Modern Language Option" is available to them for language study at any level.

Major Declaration Requirements

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. After researching College programs, the student should declare a major field by visiting Campus Connection and using the Declarations and Inter-College Transfer tool. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor or staff advisor in the department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

To change major fields, or to declare a minor or concentration, the student must use the Declarations and Inter-College Transfer tool described above. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the College or an academic advisor in the Office for Academic Advising Support.

Notes
Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Degree Requirements

Students in this degree must meet the following requirements:

- Complete a minimum of 192 credit hours (generally 48 courses)
- Earn a grade of C- or higher in WRD 103, WRD 104, and all Major and Minor courses
- Earn a grade of D or higher in all other Liberal Studies and Open Elective courses
- Maintain a cumulative GPA of 2.0 or higher
Mathematical Sciences (BA)

The Department of Mathematical Sciences offers courses in pure and applied mathematics to help students reach a wide variety of intellectual, academic, and career goals.

Many students come to the department to obtain the mathematical background needed to be successful in programs in the natural sciences, computer science, social sciences, and business. Such students may choose to supplement their major in their home department by obtaining a minor in mathematics.

Other students come to the department seeking a program leading to an undergraduate or graduate degree in one of the mathematical sciences. Undergraduate students majoring in mathematical sciences may choose one of eight areas of concentration:

- Pure Mathematics
- Statistics
- Actuarial Science
- Financial Mathematics
- Quantitative Analysis and Operations Research
- Applied and Computational Mathematics
- In consultation with a mathematics faculty advisor, undergraduate students may also create an individualized program of courses leading to a degree in mathematical sciences.

A thesis option is available to mathematics majors who wish to pursue an extended independent project related to a theoretical or applied focus of the program. Students would work under the guidance of a faculty mentor. At least 4 credits must be completed over one or two quarters prior to the thesis submission. Interested students are strongly encouraged to enroll in MAT 390 during their junior year.

College Core Requirements

Modern Language Requirements

Students who intend to graduate with the Bachelor of Arts (B.A.) Degree will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in the fourth-year high school sequence of any language
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Science and Health will abide by the College of Science and Health Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.
B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program. While Bachelor of Science (B.S.) students are not required to demonstrate competency in a modern language, the "Modern Language Option" is available to them for language study at any level.

Major Declaration Requirements

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. After researching College programs, the student should declare a major field by visiting Campus Connection and using the Declarations and Inter-College Transfer tool. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor or staff advisor in the department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

To change major fields, or to declare a minor or concentration, the student must use the Declarations and Inter-College Transfer tool described above. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the College or an academic advisor in the Office for Academic Advising Support.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

- Sequence Four
Concentration Requirements

Students must also complete the requirements from one of the following concentrations: Pure Mathematics; Statistics; Actuarial Science; Financial Mathematics; Quantitative Analysis and Operations Research; Applied and Computational Mathematics; or Individualized.

If the student chooses to declare more than one Mathematical Sciences concentration, then the student must complete the requirements for each concentration, and take at least three additional 300-level courses overall. For example, a student earning two concentrations would have taken at least nine 300-level courses, and a student earning three concentrations would have taken at least twelve 300-level courses.

Actuarial Science Concentration

Applied and Computational Mathematics Concentration

The concentration in Applied and Computational Mathematics is intended for any student who enjoys mathematics, problem solving, and applications to solving practical problems in business, government, and science. The concentration is especially intended for students seeking a career as quantitative analysts, computational scientists, and applied mathematicians, and for those thinking of continuing the study of applied or discrete mathematics at the graduate level.

Course Requirements

- CSC 242 INTRODUCTION TO COMPUTER SCIENCE II or another approved computer science course.
- Three courses chosen from the following list:
  - MAT 302 COMBINATORICS
  - MAT 304 DIFFERENTIAL EQUATIONS
  - MAT 384 MATHEMATICAL MODELING
  - MAT 385 NUMERICAL ANALYSIS I
- Two additional courses chosen from among the above and the following list:
  - MAT 335 REAL ANALYSIS I
  - MAT 351 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS I
  - MAT 352 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS II
  - MAT 370 ADVANCED LINEAR ALGEBRA
  - MAT 381 FOURIER ANALYSIS AND SPECIAL FUNCTIONS
  - MAT 386 NUMERICAL ANALYSIS II
- One additional course chosen from among the above and the following list:
  - MAT 303 THEORY OF NUMBERS
  - MAT 310 ABSTRACT ALGEBRA I
  - MAT 311 ABSTRACT ALGEBRA II
  - MAT 330 METHODS OF COMPUTATION AND THEORETICAL PHYSICS I
  - MAT 331 METHODS OF COMPUTATION AND THEORETICAL PHYSICS II
  - MAT 336 REAL ANALYSIS II
Students interested in graduate study in applied mathematics are encouraged to take MAT 335-336, 370, 385-386.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Financial Mathematics Concentration

Course Requirements

This concentration is a Mathematics Major that is attached to a Finance Minor. It includes courses that are relevant to contemporary financial mathematical modeling, along with courses in Finance and their prerequisites. The Finance Minor is designed to complement the mathematics coursework. In addition to completing a Finance Minor, the following mathematics courses are required:

- MAT 304 DIFFERENTIAL EQUATIONS
  or MAT 385 NUMERICAL ANALYSIS I
- MAT 351 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS I
- MAT 352 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS II
- MAT 353 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS III
- MAT 355 STOCHASTIC PROCESSES
- MAT 368 MATHEMATICAL FINANCE

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Finance Minor Requirements

- ACC 101 INTRODUCTION TO ACCOUNTING I
- ACC 102 INTRODUCTION TO ACCOUNTING II
- ECO 105 PRINCIPLES OF MICROECONOMICS
- ECO 106 PRINCIPLES OF MACROECONOMICS
- FIN 202 QUANTITATIVE REASONING
- FIN 310 INTRODUCTION TO FINANCE
- FIN 311 CORPORATE FINANCE
- FIN 320 MONEY AND BANKING
- FIN 330 INVESTMENTS: THEORY & PRACTICE
- Two electives chosen from the following list:
  - FIN 313 INVESTMENT BANKING
  - FIN 323 COMMERCIAL BANKING
  - FIN 333 FINANCIAL STATEMENTS ANALYSIS
  - FIN 335 PORTFOLIO MANAGEMENT
  - FIN 340 INTERNATIONAL FINANCE
  - FIN 362 RISK MANAGEMENT
  - FIN 363 DERIVATIVES: PRICING & APPLICATIONS
  - FIN 380 CASES IN FINANCIAL DECISION MAKING
  - FIN 393 FINANCE INTERNSHIP
  - FIN 395 INVESTMENT SEMINAR
  - FIN 398 SPECIAL TOPICS
  - FIN 399 INDEPENDENT STUDY
Additional Recommended Courses

- MAT 341 STATISTICAL METHODS USING SAS
- MAT 370 ADVANCED LINEAR ALGEBRA
- MAT 358 APPLIED TIME SERIES AND FORECASTING
- MAT 356 APPLIED REGRESSION ANALYSIS

Individualized Concentration

Course Requirements

Students may consult with a mathematics faculty advisor and the department chair to create an individualized program of study leading to a degree in mathematics. Such a program will normally consist of the Common Core in Mathematics plus six mathematics courses chosen from those included in the other concentrations and approved by the department chair.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Pure Mathematics Concentration

Course Requirements

- Three courses to be chosen from the following list:
  - MAT 310 ABSTRACT ALGEBRA I
  - MAT 311 ABSTRACT ALGEBRA II
  - MAT 335 REAL ANALYSIS I
  - MAT 336 REAL ANALYSIS II
- Three additional mathematics courses from the following list
  - MAT 301 HISTORY OF MATHEMATICS
  - MAT 302 COMBINATORICS
  - MAT 303 THEORY OF NUMBERS
  - MAT 304 DIFFERENTIAL EQUATIONS
  - MAT 311 ABSTRACT ALGEBRA II
  - MAT 312 ABSTRACT ALGEBRA III
  - MAT 320 GEOMETRY I
  - MAT 321 GEOMETRY II

  - MAT 352 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS II
  - MAT 353 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS III
  - MAT 370 ADVANCED LINEAR ALGEBRA
  - MAT 372 LOGIC AND SET THEORY
  - MAT 384 MATHEMATICAL MODELING
  - MAT 385 NUMERICAL ANALYSIS I
Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Recommended Course Selections

For students interested in graduate study in mathematics:

- MAT 310 ABSTRACT ALGEBRA I
- MAT 311 ABSTRACT ALGEBRA II
- MAT 312 ABSTRACT ALGEBRA III
- MAT 335 REAL ANALYSIS I
- MAT 336 REAL ANALYSIS II
- MAT 337 COMPLEX ANALYSIS

For students interested in graduate study in economics, finance, or statistics:

- MAT 335 REAL ANALYSIS II
- MAT 336 REAL ANALYSIS II
- MAT 351 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS I
- MAT 352 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS II
- MAT 353 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS III

Quantitative Analysis and Operations Research Concentration

Course Requirements

- MAT 351 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS I
- MAT 352 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS II
- MAT 353 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS III
- Three courses from the following list
  - MAT 356 APPLIED REGRESSION ANALYSIS
  - MAT 358 APPLIED TIME SERIES AND FORECASTING
  - MAT 387 OPERATIONS RESEARCH I: LINEAR PROGRAMMING
  - MAT 388 OPERATIONS RESEARCH II: OPTIMIZATION THEORY

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Additional Recommended Courses

- ACC 101 INTRODUCTION TO ACCOUNTING I
- ACC 102 INTRODUCTION TO ACCOUNTING II
- ECO 105 PRINCIPLES OF MICROECONOMICS
- ECO 106 PRINCIPLES OF MACROECONOMICS
- FIN 310 INTRODUCTION TO FINANCE
- FIN 330 INVESTMENTS: THEORY & PRACTICE

Statistics Concentration

Course Requirements

- MAT 351 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS I
- MAT 352 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS II
- MAT 353 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS III
- MAT 341 STATISTICAL METHODS USING SAS
- MAT 356 APPLIED REGRESSION ANALYSIS
- MAT 326 SAMPLE SURVEY METHODS or MAT 328 DESIGN OF EXPERIMENTS

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Additional Recommended Courses

- MAT 354 MULTIVARIATE STATISTICS
- MAT 355 STOCHASTIC PROCESSES
- MAT 357 NONPARAMETRIC STATISTICS
- MAT 358 APPLIED TIME SERIES AND FORECASTING
- MAT 335 REAL ANALYSIS I
- MAT 336 REAL ANALYSIS II
- MAT 370 ADVANCED LINEAR ALGEBRA
- MAT 385 NUMERICAL ANALYSIS I
- MAT 386 NUMERICAL ANALYSIS II

Students interested in graduate study in mathematical statistics are encouraged to take the following:

- MAT 335 REAL ANALYSIS I
- MAT 336 REAL ANALYSIS II

Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

The combined Bachelor's/Master's Degree program offers two options:

- Mathematical Sciences (BA)/ Pure Mathematics (MS)
- Mathematical Sciences (BA)/Secondary Education Mathematical Sciences (MEd)

Mathematical Sciences (BA)/ Pure Mathematics (MS)

Students apply to this program in spring of their junior year; interested students should meet with the Graduate Program Director. Students accepted into this program take a maximum of twelve graduate credit hours as three courses in their senior year; these graduate courses apply toward both undergraduate and graduate Mathematical Sciences requirements. Students must apply for undergraduate degree conferral in anticipation of completing their fourth year of study.

Mathematical Sciences (BA)/ Secondary Education Mathematical Sciences (MEd)
This combined degree program of the College of Science and Health and the College of Education was collaboratively developed, and is governed and taught by faculty from these units.

Students may apply to the Program during the spring of their junior year. They must enroll in the Junior Year Experiential Learning course, TCH 320, and meet other application criteria; these include completion of at least 16 quarter credit hours at DePaul and a 3.0 GPA. During their senior year, students are required to complete a Program capstone course, TCH 390, and three 400-level courses that count toward both their undergraduate and graduate degrees:

- TCH 401 TEACHING AS A PROFESSION IN SECONDARY SCHOOL
- TCH 413 THE NATURE OF MATHEMATICS
- TCH 423 INQUIRY & APPLICATION IN DEVELOPING SECONDARY MATHEMATICS PEDAGOGY

Math Content Area (grades of C or better required for licensure):
The following Math content area requirements are required. These can be taken as part of the major, liberal studies or open elective requirements:

- One of the following three-course Calculus sequences:
  - MAT 150, MAT 151, MAT 152
  - MAT 147, MAT 148, MAT 149
  - MAT 160, MAT 161, MAT 162
  - MAT 170, MAT 171 and (MAT 149, MAT 152, MAT 162)
- MAT 215 INTRODUCTION TO MATHEMATICAL REASONING
  or MAT 140 DISCRETE MATHEMATICS I AND MAT 141 DISCRETE MATHEMATICS II
- MAT 260 MULTIVARIABLE CALCULUS I
- MAT 261 MULTIVARIABLE CALCULUS II
- MAT 262 LINEAR ALGEBRA
- Choose one of the following:
  - CSC 212 PROGRAMMING IN JAVA II
  - CSC 262 PROGRAMMING IN C++ II
  - CSC 242 INTRODUCTION TO COMPUTER SCIENCE II
- MAT 310 ABSTRACT ALGEBRA I
- MAT 303 THEORY OF NUMBERS
  or MAT 311 ABSTRACT ALGEBRA II
- MAT 320 GEOMETRY I
- MAT 321 GEOMETRY II
  or MAT 335 REAL ANALYSIS I
- MAT 351 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS I
  or MAT 348 APPLIED STATISTICAL METHODS
- MAT 301 HISTORY OF MATHEMATICS

The Master’s year comprises teacher-preparation coursework that culminates with student teaching during Spring quarter. Upon graduation and the fulfilling of State of Illinois licensure requirements (which may require some additional coursework in the student’s major and related fields), students are eligible to be certified to teach Mathematics at the 6th-12th grade levels.

Mathematical Sciences (BS)

The Department of Mathematical Sciences offers courses in pure and applied mathematics to help students reach a wide variety of intellectual, academic, and career goals.

Many students come to the department to obtain the mathematical background needed to be successful in programs in the natural sciences, computer science, social sciences, and business. Such students may choose to supplement their major in their home department by obtaining a minor in mathematics.

Other students come to the department seeking a program leading to an undergraduate or graduate degree in one of the mathematical sciences. Undergraduate students majoring in mathematical sciences may choose one of seven areas of concentration:

- Pure Mathematics
- Statistics
- Actuarial Science
- Financial Mathematics
- Quantitative Analysis and Operations Research
- Applied and Computational Mathematics
- In consultation with a mathematics faculty advisor, undergraduate students may also create an individualized program of courses leading to a degree in mathematical sciences.

A thesis option is available to mathematics majors who wish to pursue an extended independent project related to a theoretical or applied focus of the program. Students would work under the guidance of a faculty mentor. At least 4 credits must be completed over one or two quarters prior to the thesis submission. Interested students are strongly encouraged to enroll in MAT 390 during their junior year.

- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Science and Health will abide by the College of Science and Health Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.

B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the “Modern Language Option” of the Liberal Studies Program. While B.S. students are not required to demonstrate competency in a modern language, the “Modern Language Option” is available to them for language study at any level.

Major Declaration Requirements

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. After researching College programs, the student should declare a major field by visiting Campus Connection and using the Declarations and Inter-College Transfer tool. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor or staff advisor in the department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.
To change major fields, or to declare a minor or concentration, the student must use the Declarations and Inter-College Transfer tool described above. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the College or an academic advisor in the Office for Academic Advising Support.

- One additional course chosen from among the above and the following list:
  - MAT 303 THEORY OF NUMBERS
  - MAT 310 ABSTRACT ALGEBRA I
  - MAT 311 ABSTRACT ALGEBRA II
  - MAT 330 METHODS OF COMPUTATION AND THEORETICAL PHYSICS I
  - MAT 331 METHODS OF COMPUTATION AND THEORETICAL PHYSICS II
  - MAT 336 REAL ANALYSIS II
  - MAT 337 COMPLEX ANALYSIS
  - MAT 340 TOPOLOGY
  - MAT 353 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS III
  - MAT 355 STOCHASTIC PROCESSES
  - MAT 387 OPERATIONS RESEARCH I: LINEAR PROGRAMMING
  - MAT 388 OPERATIONS RESEARCH II: OPTIMIZATION THEORY
Students interested in graduate study in applied mathematics are encouraged to take MAT 335-MAT 336, MAT 370, MAT 385-MAT 386.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Financial Mathematics Concentration

Concentration Requirements

This concentration is a Mathematics Major that is attached to a Finance Minor. It includes courses that are relevant to contemporary financial mathematical modeling, along with courses in Finance and their prerequisites. The Finance Minor is designed to complement the mathematics coursework.

- MAT 351 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS I
- MAT 352 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS II
- MAT 353 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS III
- MAT 355 STOCHASTIC PROCESSES
- MAT 368 MATHEMATICAL FINANCE
- MAT 304 DIFFERENTIAL EQUATIONS
  or MAT 385 NUMERICAL ANALYSIS I

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Finance Minor Requirements

- ACC 101 INTRODUCTION TO ACCOUNTING I
- ACC 102 INTRODUCTION TO ACCOUNTING II
- ECO 105 PRINCIPLES OF MICROECONOMICS
- ECO 106 PRINCIPLES OF MACROECONOMICS
- FIN 202 QUANTITATIVE REASONING
- FIN 310 INTRODUCTION TO FINANCE
- FIN 311 CORPORATE FINANCE
- FIN 320 MONEY AND BANKING
- FIN 330 INVESTMENTS: THEORY & PRACTICE
  - Two electives chosen from the following list:
    - FIN 313 INVESTMENT BANKING
    - FIN 323 COMMERCIAL BANKING
    - FIN 333 FINANCIAL STATEMENTS ANALYSIS
    - FIN 335 PORTFOLIO MANAGEMENT
    - FIN 340 INTERNATIONAL FINANCE
    - FIN 362 RISK MANAGEMENT
    - FIN 363 DERIVATIVES: PRICING & APPLICATIONS
    - FIN 380 CASES IN FINANCIAL DECISION MAKING
    - FIN 393 FINANCE INTERNSHIP
    - FIN 395 INVESTMENT SEMINAR
    - FIN 398 SPECIAL TOPICS
    - FIN 399 INDEPENDENT STUDY

Additional Recommended Courses

- MAT 341 STATISTICAL METHODS USING SAS
- MAT 356 APPLIED REGRESSION ANALYSIS
- MAT 358 APPLIED TIME SERIES AND FORECASTING
- MAT 370 ADVANCED LINEAR ALGEBRA
Individualized Concentration

Course Requirements

Students may consult with a mathematics faculty advisor and the department chair to create an individualized program of study leading to a degree in mathematics. Such a program will normally consist of the Common Core in Mathematics plus six mathematics courses chosen from those included in the other concentrations and approved by the department chair.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Pure Mathematics Concentration

Concentration Requirements

- Three courses to be chosen from the following list:
  - MAT 310 ABSTRACT ALGEBRA I
  - MAT 311 ABSTRACT ALGEBRA II
  - MAT 335 REAL ANALYSIS I
  - MAT 336 REAL ANALYSIS II
- Three additional mathematics courses from the following list:
  - MAT 301 HISTORY OF MATHEMATICS
  - MAT 302 COMBINATORICS
  - MAT 303 THEORY OF NUMBERS
  - MAT 304 DIFFERENTIAL EQUATIONS
  - MAT 311 ABSTRACT ALGEBRA II
  - MAT 312 ABSTRACT ALGEBRA III
  - MAT 320 GEOMETRY I
  - MAT 321 GEOMETRY II
  - MAT 336 REAL ANALYSIS II
  - MAT 337 COMPLEX ANALYSIS
  - MAT 340 TOPOLOGY
  - MAT 348 APPLIED STATISTICAL METHODS
  - MAT 351 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS I
  - MAT 352 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS II
  - MAT 353 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS III
  - MAT 370 ADVANCED LINEAR ALGEBRA
  - MAT 372 LOGIC AND SET THEORY
  - MAT 384 MATHEMATICAL MODELING
  - MAT 385 NUMERICAL ANALYSIS I
  - MAT 386 NUMERICAL ANALYSIS II

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Recommended Mathematics Courses:

- For students interested in graduate study in mathematics:
Quantitative Analysis and Operations Research Concentration

Course Requirements

- MAT 351 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS I
- MAT 352 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS II
- MAT 353 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS III
- Three courses from the following list:
  - MAT 356 APPLIED REGRESSION ANALYSIS
  - MAT 358 APPLIED TIME SERIES AND FORECASTING
  - MAT 387 OPERATIONS RESEARCH I: LINEAR PROGRAMMING
  - MAT 388 OPERATIONS RESEARCH II: OPTIMIZATION THEORY

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Additional Recommended Courses

- ACC 101 INTRODUCTION TO ACCOUNTING I
- ACC 102 INTRODUCTION TO ACCOUNTING II
- ECO 105 PRINCIPLES OF MICROECONOMICS
- ECO 106 PRINCIPLES OF MACROECONOMICS
- FIN 310 INTRODUCTION TO FINANCE

- FIN 335 PORTFOLIO MANAGEMENT

Statistics Concentration

Concentration Requirements

- MAT 341 STATISTICAL METHODS USING SAS
- MAT 351 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS I
- MAT 352 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS II
- MAT 353 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS III
- MAT 356 APPLIED REGRESSION ANALYSIS
Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Additional Recommended Courses

- MAT 335 REAL ANALYSIS I
- MAT 336 REAL ANALYSIS II
- MAT 354 MULTIVARIATE STATISTICS
- MAT 355 STOCHASTIC PROCESSES
- MAT 357 NONPARAMETRIC STATISTICS
- MAT 358 APPLIED TIME SERIES AND FORECASTING
- MAT 370 ADVANCED LINEAR ALGEBRA
- MAT 385 NUMERICAL ANALYSIS I
- MAT 386 NUMERICAL ANALYSIS II

Students interested in graduate study in mathematical statistics are encouraged to take the following:

- MAT 335 REAL ANALYSIS I
- MAT 336 REAL ANALYSIS II

Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

The Mathematical Sciences  (BS) offers four options:

- Mathematical Sciences  (BS)/ Applied Mathematics  (MS)
- Mathematical Sciences  (BS)/ Applied Statistics  (MS)
- Mathematical Sciences  (BS)/ Pure Mathematics  (MS)
- Mathematical Sciences  (BS)/Secondary Education Mathematical Sciences  (MEd)

Mathematical Sciences (BS)/ Applied Mathematics (MS)

Students apply to this program in spring of their junior year; interested students should meet with the Graduate Program Director of the program. Students accepted into this program take a maximum of twelve graduate credit hours as three courses in their senior year; these graduate courses apply toward both undergraduate and graduate Mathematical Sciences requirements. Students must apply for undergraduate degree conferral in anticipation of completing their fourth year of study.

Mathematical Sciences (BS)/ Applied Statistics (MS)

Students apply to this program in spring of their junior year; interested students should meet with the Graduate Program Director of the program. Students in this program take a maximum of twelve graduate credit hours as three courses in their senior year; these graduate courses apply toward both undergraduate and graduate Mathematical Sciences requirements.

Mathematical Sciences (BS)/ Pure Mathematics (MS)

Students apply to this program in spring of their junior year; interested students should meet with the Graduate Program Director of the program. Students in this program take a maximum of twelve graduate credit hours as three courses in their senior year; these graduate courses apply toward both undergraduate and graduate Mathematical Sciences requirements.

Mathematical Sciences (BS)/ Secondary Education Mathematical Sciences (MEd)

This combined degree program of the College of Science and Health and the College of Education was collaboratively developed, and is governed and taught by faculty from these units.

Students may apply to the Program during the spring of their junior year. They must enroll in the Junior Year Experiential Learning course, TCH 320, and meet other application criteria; these include completion of at least 16 quarter credit hours at DePaul and a 3.0 GPA. During their senior year, students are required to complete a Program capstone course, TCH 390, and three 400-level courses that count toward both their undergraduate and graduate degrees:

- TCH 401 TEACHING AS A PROFESSION IN SECONDARY SCHOOL
- TCH 413 THE NATURE OF MATHEMATICS
- TCH 423 INQUIRY & APPLICATION IN DEVELOPING SECONDARY MATHEMATICS PEDAGOGY

Math Content Area (grades of C or better required for licensure):
The following Math content area requirements are required. These can be taken as part of the major, liberal studies or open elective requirements:

- One of the following three-course Calculus sequences:
  - MAT 150, MAT 151, MAT 152
  - MAT 147, MAT 148, MAT 149
  - MAT 160, MAT 161, MAT 162
  - MAT 170, MAT 171 and (MAT 149, MAT 152, MAT 162)
- MAT 215 INTRODUCTION TO MATHEMATICAL REASONING
  or MAT 140 DISCRETE MATHEMATICS I and MAT 141 DISCRETE MATHEMATICS II
- MAT 260 MULTIVARIABLE CALCULUS I
- MAT 261 MULTIVARIABLE CALCULUS II
- MAT 262 LINEAR ALGEBRA
- Choose one of the following:
  - CSC 212 PROGRAMMING IN JAVA II
  - CSC 262 PROGRAMMING IN C++ II
  - CSC 242 INTRODUCTION TO COMPUTER SCIENCE II
- MAT 310 ABSTRACT ALGEBRA I
- MAT 303 THEORY OF NUMBERS
  or MAT 311 ABSTRACT ALGEBRA II
- MAT 320 GEOMETRY I
- MAT 321 GEOMETRY II
  or MAT 335 REAL ANALYSIS I
- MAT 351 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS I
  or MAT 348 APPLIED STATISTICAL METHODS
- MAT 301 HISTORY OF MATHEMATICS

The Master’s year comprises teacher-preparation coursework that culminates with student teaching during Spring quarter. Upon graduation and the fulfilling of State of Illinois licensure requirements (which may require some additional course work in the student’s major and related fields), students are eligible to be certified licensed to teach Mathematics at the 6th-12th grade levels.

A full description of the Program can be found on the College of Education website in the graduate course catalog. Students interested in the Program should consult with the designated TEACH Program advisor in their home department.

Mathematics (Minor)

A minor in Mathematics can be developed to complement a major program in any major, with a focus on pure and applied mathematical theory.

Course Requirements

- Choose one of the following three course Calculus sequences:
  - Sequence One
- MAT 150 CALCULUS I
- MAT 151 CALCULUS II
- MAT 152 CALCULUS III

○ Sequence Two
  - MAT 147 CALCULUS WITH INTEGRATED PRECALCULUS I
  - MAT 148 CALCULUS WITH INTEGRATED PRECALCULUS II
  - MAT 149 CALCULUS WITH INTEGRATED PRECALCULUS III

○ Sequence Three
  - MAT 160 CALCULUS FOR MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE MAJORS I
  - MAT 161 CALCULUS FOR MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE MAJORS II
  - MAT 162 CALCULUS FOR MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE MAJORS III

○ Sequence Four
  - MAT 170 CALCULUS I WITH SCIENTIFIC APPLICATIONS
  - MAT 171 CALCULUS II WITH SCIENTIFIC APPLICATIONS
  - MAT 172 CALCULUS III WITH DIFFERENTIAL EQUATIONS

- Choose one of the following options:
  ○ MAT 215 INTRODUCTION TO MATHEMATICAL REASONING
  ○ Discrete Mathematics Sequence
    - MAT 140 DISCRETE MATHEMATICS I and
    - MAT 141 DISCRETE MATHEMATICS II

- Two additional mathematics courses chosen from the 200 or 300-level courses which are admissible for credit as part of the common core or as part of one of the concentrations in mathematics.

Business students who have an exceptionally strong background in calculus, including calculus of trig functions, may be permitted by the chair to substitute MAT 135 BUSINESS CALCULUS I and MAT 136 BUSINESS CALCULUS II for MAT 150 CALCULUS I.

Students cannot earn a minor in the same academic program as their major.

---

Mathematics and Computer Science (BS)

The BS in Mathematics and Computer Science is designed to prepare students to compete for the more intellectually demanding jobs in software development or for graduate study in various areas of computer science and applied mathematics such as theoretical computer science, graphics, data analysis, artificial intelligence, and computational methods.

Notes

Students must take one of the following ethics courses: CSC 208 (PI), PHL 248/MGT 248 (PI) or REL 228/MGT 228 (RD)
Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

- 3 MAT Major Electives
- 1 CDM or MAT Major Elective

Major Electives

Students must take 7 Major Field electives chosen from the grouped list below. Of these, 3 must be CDM courses and 3 must be MAT courses, and 1 could be either a CDM or MAT course.

Students must earn a grade of C- or higher in all major elective courses.

It is recommended that students concentrate on one or two areas for their advanced classes to achieve depth, but they are not required to do so. Students are strongly encouraged to discuss course selection with an advisor. Students may wish to arrange with a professor to take an independent study or a research experience (MAT 399 or CSC 399 or IT 300) in order to explore a subject more deeply than is possible in a scheduled course.
Theory of Computation

The courses in the theory area explore the mathematical and logical foundations of computer science.

- MAT 302 COMBINATORICS
- MAT 303 THEORY OF NUMBERS
- MAT 351 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS I
- MAT 310 ABSTRACT ALGEBRA I
- MAT 311 ABSTRACT ALGEBRA II
- MAT 312 ABSTRACT ALGEBRA III

- MAT 386 NUMERICAL ANALYSIS II
- MAT 330 METHODS OF COMPUTATION AND THEORETICAL PHYSICS I
- MAT 331 METHODS OF COMPUTATION AND THEORETICAL PHYSICS II
- MAT 384 MATHEMATICAL MODELING

Artificial Intelligence

For students with an interest in the computational relations between syntax and semantics.

- CSC 380 FOUNDATIONS OF ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE
- CSC 357 EXPERT SYSTEMS
- CSC 358 SYMBOLIC PROGRAMMING

Data Analysis

For students who are interested in statistical and computational analysis of data. Many of the courses in this area require the student to take MAT 351-353.

- CSC 328 DATA ANALYSIS FOR EXPERIMENTERS
- CSC 334 ADVANCED DATA ANALYSIS or MAT 354 MULTIVARIATE STATISTICS
- CSC 367 INTRODUCTION TO DATA MINING

- MAT 370 ADVANCED LINEAR ALGEBRA
- MAT 356 APPLIED REGRESSION ANALYSIS
- MAT 358 APPLIED TIME SERIES AND FORECASTING
- MAT 359 SIMULATION MODELS AND MONTE CARLO METHOD

Graphics

The graphics courses are intended for students who want to study the technical and mathematical foundations of computer graphics and animation.

- MAT 337 COMPLEX ANALYSIS
Computer Vision

Computer vision studies the mathematical and algorithmic underpinnings of image analysis and image processing.

- MAT 261 MULTIVARIABLE CALCULUS II

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Degree Requirements

Students in this degree must meet the following requirements:

- Complete a minimum of 192 credit hours (generally 48 courses)
- Earn a grade of C- or higher in WRD 103, WRD 104, and all Major and Minor courses
- Earn a grade of D or higher in all other Liberal Studies and Open Elective courses
- Maintain a cumulative GPA of 2.0 or higher

Sample Schedule

The representation of the following Course Requirements on a year-by-year basis is just a suggestion. Students are free to take these courses in any order they choose, provided they have mastered the course-specific prerequisites.

First Year

- CSC 241 INTRODUCTION TO COMPUTER SCIENCE I
- CSC 242 INTRODUCTION TO COMPUTER SCIENCE II
- CSC 300 DATA STRUCTURES IN JAVA I
- 6 Liberal Studies

In addition, students must complete one of the following three-course sequences:

- Calculus Sequence (option 1)
  - MAT 147 CALCULUS WITH INTEGRATED PRECALCULUS I
  - MAT 148 CALCULUS WITH INTEGRATED PRECALCULUS II
  - MAT 149 CALCULUS WITH INTEGRATED PRECALCULUS III
- Calculus Sequence (option 2)
  - MAT 150 CALCULUS I
  - MAT 151 CALCULUS II
  - MAT 152 CALCULUS III
- Calculus for Mathematics and Science Majors Sequence (option 3)
  - MAT 160 CALCULUS FOR MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE MAJORS I
Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

Students who meet the admission requirements below may choose to apply to a combined degree program. Interested students should consult their faculty advisor regarding the application procedure. This program allows students to combine many CDM bachelor's degrees with a CDM master's degree following the structure outlined below.

Admission Criteria

- Minimum of 44 quarter hours earned
- Minimum of 12 quarter hours earned at DePaul
- GPA of 3.3 or higher in courses taken at DePaul
- Endorsement of faculty advisor

In order to apply for the combined degree program, your faculty advisor must send an e-mail recommendation to the CDM Academic Success Center. The recommendation should include your full name, student ID number, and the bachelor's and master's degrees you wish to combine.
Bachelor of Arts in Computing students who are enrolled via the School for New Learning are eligible for this program. Interested students who meet the admission criteria for a combined degree should contact Kenn Skorupa at SNL for more information.

Program Structure

Students in the combined degree program take a maximum of three graduate level courses that count toward both their bachelor's and master's degree requirements. Students may enroll in graduate level coursework in the junior and senior year only. Students in the combined degree program will receive the bachelor's degree after meeting all graduation requirements including the minimum credit hours required for graduation.

To earn the master's degree, the student must earn as many additional graduate credit hours as needed to reach the minimum number of graduate credit hours required in that master's degree.

Only CDM courses can be taken as part of this program. Advanced programs (e.g., JD/MS, MFA, and PhD) are not eligible for the combined degree program.

Maintaining Good Standing

Cumulative GPA and course grades will be reviewed after each Autumn, Winter, and Spring Quarter.

The student and faculty advisor will be notified when the student's cumulative GPA falls below 3.3 or when the students receives less than a C- in graduate level course.

If a student's cumulative GPA falls below 3.3, the student must earn a term GPA of 3.3 or above in the following quarter to stay in good standing. If the student does not achieve a 3.3 term GPA, then the student will be dismissed from the combined program and resume the traditional B.A./B.S./B.F.A.

If dismissed from the combined degree program after graduate courses have been passed, the graduate courses may only apply to the undergraduate degree. Should the student later be admitted to a graduate program, graduate courses applied to the undergraduate degree may not apply to the graduate program and may not be repeated if they are required in the declared graduate curriculum. Other graduate courses may be substituted in this case.

Designing a Course of Study

It is extremely important that the student and faculty advisor work together on a course of study immediately upon admission to the Combined Degree Program.

This course of study should include the graduate courses to be taken and the undergraduate courses that are replaced by the graduate courses. Failure to put together a solid plan can lead to extra coursework and a lengthening of the Combined Degree program.

It is advisable for the student and the faculty advisor to enter the proposed plan of study in the student communication record on the CDM intranet so it is available to the student and CDM faculty and staff.

Registering for Master's Degree Courses

Combined degree students must meet regularly with their faculty advisors. The faculty advisor will initiate the registration process for all graduate level courses taken during the undergraduate career.

Bachelor's Degree to Master's Degree Transition

In order to be fully admitted to the designated master's program, the student must meet all admission requirements for that program. When preparing to complete the undergraduate portion of the combined degree, students must submit the application for degree conferral for the undergraduate degree by the application deadline. At this time, the students should contact the CDM Academic Success Center about the procedure required to be formally admitted to the declared graduate program.
Media and Cinema Studies (BA)

The College of Communication, located at the Loop Campus, offers a variety of courses leading to a Bachelor of Arts degree in Media and Cinema Studies. The BA in Media and Cinema Studies strategically combines faculty expertise, cutting-edge facilities, and a variety of course offerings within Communication, the School of Cinema and Interactive Media (CIM) (e.g., Digital Cinema), and other University units to provide students with the critical frameworks, creative opportunities, and technological expertise to become socially responsible leaders in the growing and converging areas of media studies. The major combines a rich course selection in four areas of study: film, radio, TV, and new media. Coursework combines theory and critical analysis with production courses taught at both the Lincoln Park (e.g., radio) and Loop campuses (e.g., television/video and cinema studies).

College Core Requirements

All majors in the College of Communication consist of a total of thirteen courses. All majors complete a three-course common core and a combination of ten program requirements and electives.

Course Requirements

Three core courses are required of all College of Communication Studies students:

- CMN 101 INTRODUCTION TO HUMAN COMMUNICATION
- CMN 102 INTRODUCTION TO MASS COMMUNICATION
- CMN 103 INTERCULTURAL COMMUNICATION

Students are encouraged to complete all three prior to taking additional coursework in the major.

Modern Language Requirement

Students who intend to graduate with a Bachelor of Arts degree in the College of Communication will be required to demonstrate a measure of competence in a modern language, as defined by the college. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in a second year high school course work in a modern language or Latin
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language (must be completed during high school)
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination. (Note that CLEP scores may be used only to meet the language requirement. Credit is not awarded in modern languages on the basis of CLEP scores).

Students with some modern language training should consult with the Modern Language Department about the course with which they should begin. Students with little or no previous work in the language will be required to complete the entire three-course introductory sequence.

Unrestricted Electives
Students complete the Bachelors degree by taking an additional 56 quarter hours selected from any course offered by DePaul University.

Liberal Studies Requirements

Honors program requirements can be found in the individual Colleges & Schools section of the University Catalog. Select Academics, followed by Undergraduate, then Honors Program Alternative.

Internships

Students in the major may take CMN 394 or CMN 395 (when placement relates to the major) for credit. In order to take CMN 394, students must have completed the three communication core courses (CMN 101, CMN 102, CMN 103) two courses in the chosen major and have fulfilled internship program eligibility requirements.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.
Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

The following Communication graduate programs have been approved as combined degree options:

- Health Communication (MA)
- Journalism (MA)
- Media Cinema Studies (MA)
- Organizational and Multicultural Communication (MA)
- Relational Communication (MA)

Health Communication (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in their major courses, have a 3.0 cumulative GPA, and have successfully completed three 300-level courses in their major are eligible to apply to the program.

Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by April 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, answers to essay questions, writing sample (research paper), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Health Communication coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take the HTHC core courses (HTHC 515, HTHC 516, HTHC 517) during the senior year. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Students can defer their graduate admission for one year. If students do not matriculate after completing their B.A. degrees or within the one year deferral period, the graduate courses taken as undergraduate students will no longer count towards the graduate degree and students must reapply for admission to the graduate program.

Journalism (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.25 GPA in Communication courses and 3.0 cumulative GPA are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by April 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, Statement of Purpose (750 words) explaining why the student is seeking admission to the program, writing sample or project that demonstrates the applicant's ability in journalism, and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Journalism coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Students can defer their graduate admission for one year. If students do not matriculate after completing their B.A. degrees or within the one year deferral period, the graduate courses taken as undergraduate students will no longer count towards the graduate degree and students must reapply for admission to the graduate program.

Media Cinema Studies (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in Communication courses, have 3.0 cumulative GPA, and have successfully completed CMN 101, CMN 102 and CMN 103 are eligible to apply to the program.

Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by April 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, Statement of Purpose (750 words) explaining why the student is seeking admission to the program, writing sample (research paper that demonstrates the applicant's ability to synthesize and analyze scholarly work), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Media and Cinema Studies coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take two of the MCS core courses (MCS 501, MCS 502, MCS 504) and one MCS elective. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Students can defer their graduate admission for one year. If students do not matriculate after completing their
B.A. degrees or within the one year deferral period, the graduate courses taken as undergraduate students will no longer count towards the graduate degree and students must reapply for admission to the graduate program.

Organizational and Multicultural Communication (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in Communication courses, have 3.0 cumulative GPA, have successfully completed CMN 101, CMN 102 and CMN 103 and three 300-level Communication courses are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by April 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, answers to essay questions, writing sample (research paper), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Communication coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Students can defer their graduate admission for one year. If students do not matriculate after completing their
B.A. degrees or within the one year deferral period, the graduate courses taken as undergraduate students will no longer count towards the graduate degree and students must reapply for admission to the graduate program.

Relational Communication (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in Communication courses, have 3.0 cumulative GPA, and have successfully completed CMN 101, CMN 102 and CMN 103 are eligible to apply to the program.
Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by April 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A.
Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, Statement of Purpose (750 words) explaining why the student is seeking admission to the program, writing sample (research paper that demonstrates the applicant's ability to synthesize and analyze scholarly work), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Relational Communication coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives during the senior year. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Students can defer their graduate admission for one year. If students do not matriculate after completing their
B.A. degrees or within the one year deferral period, the graduate courses taken as undergraduate students will no longer count towards the graduate degree and students must reapply for admission to the graduate program.

Media and Cinema Studies (Minor)

The Media and Cinema Studies minor combines courses from film, television, radio and new media. You will gain a historical and critical understanding of the media industry with the option to focus on one type of media.

Course Requirements

- MCS 271 MEDIA AND CULTURAL STUDIES
Modern Languages (Minor)

For languages offered at DePaul without an existing minor, students may declare a custom minor. The custom minor is not applicable to languages where a minor program already exists.

Course Requirements

Language Option

- 24 credits of study in one language beyond the first-year level
Studies Option

- 16 credits of study in one language beyond the first-year level
- 8 credits of related courses from other departments such as Communication, Geography, History, History of Art and Architecture, International Studies, Philosophy, Political Science, Religious Studies, etc.

Music (BA)

The Bachelor of Arts in Music degree is intended for students who wish to combine the study of music with liberal arts and sciences. In addition to music courses, the program is comprised of a broad range of liberal studies courses, along with a year of modern language. Students also take advanced courses in music, developing research skills, which culminate in a final project or paper. The Bachelor of Arts in Music degree prepares students for a variety of careers related to music.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.
Petition to Major

Students are admitted to a specialization on the basis of a petition to major process, which occurs during the spring of the freshmen or sophomore year. The petition to major process differs for each specialization, and students should contact the department chairs or area coordinators for more information. Students are not permitted to enroll in classes in the specialization until they have passed their petition to major.

Course Requirements

- Music Theory (1 course chosen from MUS or COM 300-level or above; 4 credits)
- Any 300 level (or above) Musicianship course beyond the musicianship sequence (Music History, Musicology, Ethnomusicology; 4 credits)
- Experiential Learning Requirement (4 credits)
- Senior Year Capstone in Music (4 credits)
- Large ensemble (6 credits in the 1st and 2nd years)
- Any Ensemble (3 credits in the 3rd or 4th year)
- Music Electives (9 credits)
- Non-Music Electives (12 credits)
- Free Electives (4 credits)

Music Education (BM)

The Bachelor of Music in music education degree prepares students to teach K-12 instrumental and vocal music. The program is comprised of a broad range of courses emphasizing both the theory and practice of music education, taught by a faculty of distinguished music educators. Throughout the junior year, students have the opportunity to refine their skills and knowledge through a partnership with a Chicago Public School. During the senior year, students work with master teachers throughout the Chicagoland area while student teaching. Upon graduation, students are eligible for Illinois music teacher certification.

Petition to Major

Students are admitted to a specialization on the basis of a petition to major process, which occurs during the spring of the freshman or sophomore year. The petition to major process differs for each specialization, and students should contact the department chairs or area coordinators for more information. Students are not permitted to enroll in classes in the major until they have passed their petition to major.

Course Requirements

- Applied lessons
  - 24 additional credits of applied lessons (beyond the initial 24 credits) are required

Network Technologies (BS)

The BS in Network Technologies focuses on the theory and practice of designing, deploying and managing both wired and wireless networks technologies, including broadband Internet access technologies, interconnection technologies, network convergence, and network security.

Concentrations

Standard Concentration
This concentration is geared toward students who are considering careers in network design, system management, service deployment, and product/vendor evaluation. The course work focuses on network technologies, protocol studies, device configuration, and network design.

Network Security Concentration

This concentration is geared toward students who are considering careers in network security, security administration, and security infrastructure design. The course work focuses on network security technologies, best practices in security design, and security management.

Concentration Requirements

Students must also complete the requirements from one of the following concentrations: Standard or Network Security.

Degree Requirements

Students in this degree must meet the following requirements:

- Complete a minimum of 192 credit hours (generally 48 courses)
- Earn a grade of C- or higher in WRD 103, WRD 104, and all Major and Minor courses
- Earn a grade of D or higher in all other Liberal Studies and Open Elective courses
- Maintain a cumulative GPA of 2.0 or higher

Concentration Requirements

Concentrations, tracks and specializations provide focus to the major. In addition to any college core requirements, liberal studies requirements and major requirements, students are required to choose one of the following:

- Network Security Concentration
- Standard Concentration

Standard Concentration

Course Requirements

- IT 223 DATA ANALYSIS
- TDC 364 VOICE COMMUNICATIONS TECHNOLOGIES
- 3 major electives chosen from any 300 level TDC or CNS courses.

Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs. Students who meet the admission requirements below may choose to apply to a combined degree program. Interested students should consult their faculty advisor regarding the application procedure. This program allows students to combine many CDM bachelor's degrees with a CDM master's degree following the structure outlined below.

Admission Criteria

- Minimum of 44 quarter hours earned
- Minimum of 12 quarter hours earned at DePaul
- GPA of 3.3 or higher in courses taken at DePaul
- Endorsement of faculty advisor

In order to apply for the combined degree program, your faculty advisor must send an e-mail recommendation to the CDM Academic Success Center. The recommendation should include your full name, student ID number, and the bachelor's and master's degrees you wish to combine.

Bachelor of Arts in Computing students who are enrolled via the School for New Learning are eligible for this program. Interested students who meet the admission criteria for a combined degree should contact Kenn Skorupa at SNL for more information.

Program Structure

Students in the combined degree program take a maximum of three graduate level courses that count toward both their bachelor's and master's degree requirements. Students may enroll in graduate level coursework in the junior and senior year only. Students in the combined degree program will receive the bachelor's degree after meeting all graduation requirements including the minimum credit hours required for graduation.

To earn the master's degree, the student must earn as many additional graduate credit hours as needed to reach the minimum number of graduate credit hours required in that master's degree.

Only CDM courses can be taken as part of this program. Advanced programs (e.g., JD/MS, MFA, and PhD) are not eligible for the combined degree program.

Maintaining Good Standing

Cumulative GPA and course grades will be reviewed after each Autumn, Winter, and Spring Quarter.

The student and faculty advisor will be notified when the student's cumulative GPA falls below 3.3 or when the student receives less than a C- in graduate level course.

If a student's cumulative GPA falls below 3.3, the student must earn a term GPA of 3.3 or above in the following quarter to stay in good standing. If the student does not achieve a 3.3 term GPA, then the student will be dismissed from the combined program and resume the traditional B.A./B.S./B.F.A.

If dismissed from the combined degree program after graduate courses have been passed, the graduate courses may only apply to the undergraduate degree. Should the student later be admitted to a graduate program, graduate courses applied to the undergraduate degree many not apply to the graduate program and may not be repeated if they are required in the declared graduate curriculum. Other graduate courses may be substituted in this case.

Designing a Course of Study

It is extremely important that the student and faculty advisor work together on a course of study immediately upon admission to the Combined Degree Program.

This course of study should include the graduate courses to be taken and the undergraduate courses that are replaced by the graduate courses. Failure to put together a solid plan can lead to extra coursework and a lengthening of the Combined Degree program.
It is advisable for the student and the faculty advisor to enter the proposed plan of study in the student communication record on the CDM intranet so it is available to the student and CDM faculty and staff.

Registering for Master’s Degree Courses

Combined degree students must meet regularly with their faculty advisors. The faculty advisor will initiate the registration process for all graduate level courses taken during the undergraduate career.

Bachelor’s Degree to Master’s Degree Transition

In order to be fully admitted to the designated master's program, the student must meet all admission requirements for that program. When preparing to complete the undergraduate portion of the combined degree, students must submit the application for degree conferral for the undergraduate degree by the application deadline. At this time, the students should contact the CDM Academic Success Center about the procedure required to be formally admitted to the declared graduate program.

Network Technologies (Minor)

The Network Technology minor gives students a foundation in the theory and practice of designing, deploying and managing both wired and wireless network technologies.

Course Requirements

- CSC 211 PROGRAMMING IN JAVA I
  - or CSC 261 PROGRAMMING IN C++ I
- CSC 212 PROGRAMMING IN JAVA II
  - or CSC 262 PROGRAMMING IN C++ II
- IS 201 INTRODUCTION TO INFORMATION SYSTEMS
- IT 263 APPLIED NETWORKS AND SECURITY
- TDC 362 PRINCIPLES OF DATA COMMUNICATIONS
- TDC 363 INTRODUCTION TO LOCAL AREA NETWORKS
- TDC 365 NETWORK INTERCONNECTION TECHNOLOGIES

Students majoring in Network Technology (BS) are restricted from earning this minor.

Non-Profit Hospitality Leadership (Minor: Business Students Only)

Food and overnight accommodations are often part of a social service network offered by a community. Examples include soup kitchens, shelters for battered women and children, support centers for the homeless, disaster relief efforts, etc. The purpose of this minor is to help students in the Driehaus College of Business who are planning a career in the non-profit sector to acquire the necessary knowledge to operate hospitality venues in a safe, clean and financially viable manner.

Declaration Requirements

To declare a minor in Non-Profit Hospitality Leadership, a Driehaus student must meet the following requirements:
A minimum cumulative DePaul grade point average of 2.500
A minimum Hospitality Leadership grade point average of 2.000
No grades of IN, R, or lower than C- in any Hospitality Leadership (HSP) course
Completion of HSP 100 or HSP 201 with a minimum grade of C-

Course Requirements

A Driehaus student minoring in Non-Profit Hospitality Leadership is required to complete the following courses totaling at least 20.0 hours:

- HSP 201 INTERNATIONAL HOSPITALITY SERVICE & EXPERIENCE MANAGEMENT (2.0 hours)
- HSP 203 HOSPITALITY LEADERSHIP FORUM I (2.0 hours)
- HSP 207 HOSPITALITY LAW & ETHICS
- HSP 331 FOODSERVICE PURCHASING
- HSP 339 NON-PROFIT FOODSERVICE MANAGEMENT
- HSP 349 NON-PROFIT ACCOMMODATION, SAFETY & SECURITY

Degree Conferral Requirements

All Hospitality Leadership (HSP) courses and any other courses used toward the minor must be completed with a minimum grade of C- (or PA where specified) and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.

---

Non-Profit Hospitality Leadership (Minor)

Available to students outside of the Driehaus College of Business, the minor in Non-Profit Hospitality Leadership is to help non-profit service providers acquire the necessary knowledge to operate hospitality venues in a safe, clean and financially viable manner. Food and overnight accommodations are often part of a social service network offered by a community, and examples include soup kitchens, shelters for battered women and children, support centers for the homeless, disaster relief efforts, etc.

Declaration Requirements

To declare a minor in Non-Profit Hospitality Leadership, a non-Driehaus student must meet the following requirements:

- A minimum cumulative DePaul grade point average of 2.500
- A minimum Hospitality Leadership grade point average of 2.000
- No grades of IN, R, or lower than C- in any Hospitality Leadership (HSP) course
- Completion of HSP 100 or HSP 201 with a minimum grade of C-

Course Requirements

A non-Driehaus student minoring in Non-Profit Hospitality Leadership is required to complete the following courses totaling at least 20.0 hours

- HSP 201 INTERNATIONAL HOSPITALITY SERVICE & EXPERIENCE MANAGEMENT (2.0 hours)
- HSP 203 HOSPITALITY LEADERSHIP FORUM I (2.0 hours)
- HSP 207 HOSPITALITY LAW & ETHICS
- HSP 331 FOODSERVICE PURCHASING
- HSP 339 NON-PROFIT FOODSERVICE MANAGEMENT
- HSP 349 NON-PROFIT ACCOMMODATION, SAFETY & SECURITY

Degree Conferral Requirements

All Hospitality Leadership (HSP) courses and any other courses used toward the minor must be completed with a minimum grade of C- (or PA where specified) and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.
Organizational Communication (BA)

The B.A. in Organizational Communication explores effective and participatory communication across organizational contexts. Through a blend of theory and practice, students are encouraged to think, speak, and write clearly; to develop confidence and ability as ethical communicators; to view communication events from multiple perspectives; to understand the multicultural character of communication in contemporary workplaces and society; to analyze and evaluate variables operating in verbal transactions; to probe individual and group behaviors in order to understand self, others, and events; and to recognize the connections between organizational communication and other disciplines.

The curriculum is both deep and broad, enabling students to gain practical expertise in their area of interest while gaining a working knowledge of related areas. The curriculum focuses on ethical practice and the convergence of traditional and new media, preparing students for professional practice in an evolving marketplace. Students learn to express themselves well in oral and written communications, to think critically about communication events all around them, to develop skills valuable in the workplace, and to communicate effectively in a diverse world.

| College Core Requirements                  | 12 hours |
| Liberal Studies Requirements              | 84 hours |
| Major Requirements                        | 40 hours |
| Open Electives                            | 56 hours |
| Total                                      | 192 hours |

College Core Requirements

All majors in the College of Communication consist of a total of thirteen courses. All majors complete a three-course common core and a combination of ten program requirements and electives.

Course Requirements

Three core courses are required of all College of Communication Studies students:

- CMN 101 INTRODUCTION TO HUMAN COMMUNICATION
- CMN 102 INTRODUCTION TO MASS COMMUNICATION
- CMN 103 INTERCULTURAL COMMUNICATION

Students are encouraged to complete all three prior to taking additional coursework in the major.

Modern Language Requirement

Students who intend to graduate with a Bachelor of Arts degree in the College of Communication will be required to demonstrate a measure of competence in a modern language, as defined by the college. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in a second year high school course work in a modern language or Latin
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language (must be completed during high school)
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination. (Note that CLEP scores may be used only to meet the language requirement. Credit is not awarded in modern languages on the basis of CLEP scores).

Students with some modern language training should consult with the Modern Language Department about the course with which they should begin. Students with little or no previous work in the language will be required to complete the entire three-course introductory sequence.

Unrestricted Electives

Students complete the Bachelors degree by taking an additional 56 quarter hours selected from any course offered by DePaul University.

Note

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student’s major and is cross-listed with a course within the student’s major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.

Major Requirements

Course Requirements

All Organizational Communication majors are required to take the following courses in addition to the core courses:
ORGC 251 ORGANIZATIONAL COMMUNICATION
ORGC 201 BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL COMMUNICATION or INTC 220 PUBLIC SPEAKING
Six courses from the list of offerings below.
- CMN 394 ADVANCED COMMUNICATION INTERNSHIP

Peace, Justice and Conflict Studies (Minor)

The Peace, Justice and Conflict Studies minor is designed to help students engage in critical examination of the origins and root causes of violence, social injustice and conflict; and to foster dialogue about the efficacy of nonviolent approaches to social change and peace-building. Students may develop a specific concentration of study within the minor curriculum.

Course Requirements

Distribution

Of the 28 credit hours for the minor, 8 credit hours need to be at the 300-level (including PAX courses).

- PAX 200 PERSPECTIVES ON PEACE, JUSTICE, AND CONFLICT STUDIES
The Peace, Justice and Conflict Studies Program offers students a B.A. major curriculum that helps them reflect on the origins and causes of conflict, violence, and social injustice as well as the wide spectrum of conflict intervention, from armed conflict, through governmental and organizational peacebuilding, to local and interpersonal conflict resolution. The Program also introduces students to strategies for resolving interpersonal, communal and international conflicts peacefully, as well as tactics that promote the common good in a way that addresses the structural origins of violence. The Peace, Justice and Conflict Studies Program addresses the need for a critical examination of the origins and root causes of violence and conflict. The Program includes frank debate about the efficacy of nonviolent in comparison with violent approaches to social change. The inclusion of conflict theory and intervention as part of this program is a distinctive aspect of this program; the arena of conflict resolution offers many potential career options. The Program emphasizes hands-on, experiential components in the introductory course, the final seminar/internship and the workshops which emphasize skill training.

Students and faculty in Peace, Justice and Conflict Studies question what constitutes a just society and world, what peace and peacebuilding can accomplish in a world full of conflict, and how attitudes toward social justice, violence, and peace reflect and reveal American and other cultures' values, beliefs, prejudices, assumptions, and perceptions.

Students are expected to gain competency in dealing with situations of conflict and injustice by mastering the theoretical and intellectual frameworks related to peacebuilding, human rights advocacy, and justice development, by learning to interpret and analyze real life situations in their complexity, by understanding how to build strategies for negotiation, consensus-building, advocacy, partnership development, and other intervention tools, and by understanding various research methodologies and the use of media and creative outlets.

Students majoring in many social science, humanities, and other interdisciplinary programs will find it beneficial to double major or minor in Peace, Justice and Conflict Studies. Students can also pursue a cross-college double major, such as with Journalism or Intercultural Communication in the College of Communication. Students who pursue the major are well prepared for graduate work in the humanities or social sciences, and specifically in peace, justice, or conflict studies, as well as for professional training in law, public service, or business.

College Core Requirements

Study in the Major Field

The student's course of study in the College consists of three parts: Liberal Studies, the major field, and electives. Together these three parts contribute to the liberal education of the student which is the common purpose of all study in the College. By "liberal education" the College understands not only a deep and thorough knowledge of a particular area of study but a knowledge of the diverse areas of study represented by criticism, history, the arts, the behavioral and social sciences, philosophy, religious studies, the natural science, and mathematics.

The major field program generally is built upon a set of core courses and a specialized "concentration." The number of courses required for a major varies by department. Most students go beyond the minimum requirements, electing additional courses which both broaden and deepen their understanding of their chosen discipline.

Because no academic major program is built in isolation, students are required to pursue a number of electives of the student's choice. The inherent flexibility of this curriculum demands that the student consult an academic advisor at each stage in the total program and at least once prior to each registration.

Students will be prompted to visit the College Office for their official graduation check early in their senior year.

Declaration of Major, Minor and Concentration

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor in the major field department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

Students must declare or change majors, minors, and concentrations, via Campus Connection. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the Office for Academic Advising Support.

Competence in Modern Language

All students will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language (i.e., a language other than English) equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in the fourth-year high school sequence of any language
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations or achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language, or achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program, or achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination
For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College will abide by this Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT, regardless of when they first matriculated at DePaul.

Students who have met the Modern Language Requirement and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program (see "Special Programs").

External Credit and Residency

A student who has been admitted to the College begins residency within the college as of the first day of classes of the term in which the student is registered. Students in residence, whether attending on a full-time or part-time basis, may not take courses away from DePaul University without the written permission of the college. Permission must be obtained in advance of registration to avoid loss of credit or residency in the college; see the LAS website for more information.

* Students must earn a C- or better in this course.

Notes

PAX majors will take one additional approved LSP course from any Domain.

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.
Major Requirements

Course Requirements

To attain a Bachelor of Arts in Peace, Justice and Conflict Studies, students will be required to complete successfully the following 192 credit hour program, with a minimum of 52 required credit hours in the Peace, Justice and Conflict Studies program:

- PAX 250 TOPICS ON PEACE, JUSTICE AND CONFLICT STUDIES (2 @ 2 cr.hr.)
- PAX 210 FROM INTERNATIONAL CONFLICT TO RESOLUTION AND PEACE
- PAX 212 SOCIAL JUSTICE AND SOCIAL CHANGE
- PAX 214 CONFLICT: INTERVENTION, NEGOTIATION AND ADVOCACY
- PAX 218 HUMAN RIGHTS: PROMISE AND PROBLEMATICS
- PAX 300 SENIOR SEMINAR
- PAX 350 CAPSTONE IN PEACE, JUSTICE AND CONFLICT STUDIES
- PAX 390 INTERNSHIP
  or PAX 392 INTERNSHIP IN PEACE, JUSTICE AND CONFLICT STUDIES
- One of the following:
  - PAX 380 TOPICS IN NONVIOLENCE
  - PAX 381 TOPICS IN PEACE BUILDING
  - PAX 382 TOPICS IN SOCIAL JUSTICE AND SOCIAL CHANGE
  - PAX 383 TOPICS IN CONFLICT INTERVENTION
  - PAX 384 TOPICS IN ACTIVISM AND ADVOCACY
  - PAX 385 TOPICS IN HUMAN RIGHTS
- Four electives approved by the Program (listed below)

The four-course sequence PAX 210-212-214-218 forms the foundation of the program and should be completed in the first or second year of study. They do not need to be done in sequence. An internship, PAX 392, should be completed prior to taking PAX 300 and 350. If possible, students should take the internship prior to senior year. Seniors should plan to take the senior seminar, PAX 300, and the capstone, PAX 350. Two PAX workshops (2 credit hours each) can be completed at any time, ideally prior to senior year.

Senior Seminar

Students will do a senior seminar PAX 300 either in their junior or senior year. Each seminar will deal with one area of theory within Peace, Justice and Conflict Studies, for example, human rights theory, theories of peace-building; theories of social & comparative justice.

Students are also required to do the capstone course in Peace, Justice and Conflict Studies, PAX 350, so that they can bring together theory and practices learned throughout the course of the major. PAX 300 and 350 are offered as a sequence in winter and spring quarter. Students doing study abroad during winter or spring quarter of their senior year must do the sequence in their junior year.

Distribution Requirements

Students will select the four electives from the list approved by the Program. The four electives must meet the following distribution requirements:

- One elective of the four needs to be at the 300-level.
- Within their four electives, students must either take at least 1 course from two different departments or interdisciplinary programs or count no more than 3 courses from any one department or interdisciplinary program.
- Two additional PAX 250 workshops may count as one elective (for 4 credit hours), as can any PAX course that is not part of the PAX Core.

For students doing the single major in Peace, Justice and Conflict Studies, it is recommended that they use an elective slot to take an appropriate methodology course in consultation with their major plan advisor.

Program Approved Electives

Courses cross-listed with any listed below are accepted as PAX electives. Check with the PJC Director for topics courses approved as PAX electives each quarter or to approve a course not on this list.

Performance Studies (Minor)

The Performance Studies minor provides an overview of the historical importance of performance for social, cultural and personal expression. Students will gain a critical understanding of performance across a range of disciplines.

Course Requirements

The Performance Studies Minor requires students to complete a total of 24 credit hours (six courses).

• INTC 230 PERFORMANCE OF LITERATURE
• Five courses from the following:
  o INTC 206 COMMUNICATING MULTICULTURAL IDENTITIES
  o CMNS 305 PERFORMANCE STUDIES
Performing Arts Management (BM)

A Bachelor of Music in Performing Arts Management (PAM) prepares students for careers in the multidimensional industries of not-for-profit arts administration and commercial music business. In collaboration with the College of Commerce and The Theatre School, this program provides students a broad understanding of the performing arts industry, insight into the theories and principles associated with arts management, and a proficiency in the practical application of necessary business skills.

Additional Courses

- MUS 265 MUSICAL TRADITIONS OF AMERICA AND THE WORLD
- MUS 303 BASIC CONDUCTING PRACTICUM
- MUS 304 BASIC CONDUCTING

Applied Music

Students may enroll in a maximum of 4 credits of applied study per quarter, with a maximum of 48 credits total. The requirements for applied study vary by degree program:

- BM in performance, 48 credits
- BM in jazz studies, 30 credits
- BM in composition, 24 credits
- BM in music education, 24 credits
- BM in performing arts management, 24 credits
- BA in music, 16 credits
- BS in sound recording technology, 12 credits

Except performance majors, students may enroll in additional applied credits, which will count towards music electives.

Modern Language Option

If a music student wishes to study a modern language for a three-course sequence (12 credits), one quarter of language study (4 credits) may be used to replace a course requirement in Arts and Literature, Philosophical Inquiry, or Religious Dimensions. The remaining two quarters of language (8 credits) will be applied towards free electives.

Honors program requirements can be found in the individual Colleges & Schools section of the University Catalog. Select Academics, followed by Undergraduate, then Honors Program Alternative.

The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.

Petition to Major

Students are admitted to a specialization on the basis of a petition to major process, which occurs during the spring of the freshmen or sophomore year. The petition to major process differs for each specialization, and students should contact the department chairs or area coordinators for more information. Students are not permitted to enroll in specialization classes until they have passed their petition to major.

Course Requirements
Liberal Studies Learning Domain Specifications

Performing arts management majors enroll in the following courses within the learning domains:

- MAT 135 BUSINESS CALCULUS I
- ECO 105 PRINCIPLES OF MICROECONOMICS

Philosophy (BA)

The Department of Philosophy serves the needs of the student who seeks an understanding of philosophical issues for personal enrichment, the student who desires a more fundamental appreciation of philosophy in support of law, medicine, business, and various academic disciplines, and the student who wishes to continue the study of philosophy at the graduate level.

Through its courses and programs, the department acquaints students with various philosophical systems and with basic problems posed by diverse thinkers. Courses have been designed to highlight both the humanistic and technical features of philosophy.

The department also recognizes the important need for skills and training. Its courses in logic and analysis have been designed to help students become more perceptive in their experiences and more critical in their thinking.

Further, the department is aware that, in our age of rapid change, society often tends to neglect the meaning and worth of the person. Courses are therefore offered that investigate and emphasize the dignity of the person. By helping students understand the nature and grounds of ethical judgments, these courses aim to promote an appreciation and ordering of human values.

The department has designed all of its course offerings with the aim of both ensuring that our Liberal Studies courses remain responsive to the needs of the student who does not plan to specialize in philosophy and offering the student who chooses to major or minor in philosophy a rich and diverse curriculum.

The department is particularly proud of its "Philosophy Circle," an undergraduate philosophy club which provides a forum for the exchange of ideas between faculty and students.

College Core Requirements

Study in the Major Field

The student’s course of study in the College consists of three parts: Liberal Studies, the major field, and electives. Together these three parts contribute to the liberal education of the student which is the common purpose of all study in the College. By “liberal education” the College understands not only a deep and thorough knowledge of a particular area of study but a knowledge of the diverse areas of study represented by criticism, history, the arts, the behavioral and social sciences, philosophy, religious studies, the natural science, and mathematics.

The major field program generally is built upon a set of core courses and a specialized “concentration.” The number of courses required for a major varies by department. Most students go beyond the minimum requirements, electing additional courses which both broaden and deepen their understanding of their chosen discipline.

Because no academic major program is built in isolation, students are required to pursue a number of electives of the student’s choice. The inherent flexibility of this curriculum demands that the student consult an academic advisor at each stage in the total program and at least once prior to each registration. Students will be prompted to visit the College Office for their official graduation check early in their senior year.

Declaration of Major, Minor and Concentration

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor in the major field department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

Students must declare or change majors, minors, and concentrations, via Campus Connection. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the Office for Academic Advising Support.

Competence in Modern Language

All students will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language (i.e., a language other than English) equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in the fourth-year high school sequence of any language
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations or achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language, or achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program, or achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College will abide by this Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT, regardless of when they first matriculated at DePaul.

Students who have met the Modern Language Requirement and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program (see "Special Programs").

External Credit and Residency

A student who has been admitted to the College begins residency within the college as of the first day of classes of the term in which the student is registered. Students in residence, whether attending on a full-time or part-time basis, may not take courses away from DePaul University without the written permission of the college. Permission must be obtained in advance of registration to avoid loss of credit or residency in the college; see the

Notes
Courses offered in the student’s primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student’s major and is cross-listed with a course within the student’s major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy
Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.

Electives (2)

- Two courses from any of the Philosophy Department's 200 or 300 level course offerings.

Capstone Seminar (1)

- PHL 391 SENIOR CAPSTONE SEMINAR

Extra Curricular Activities

The regular program of courses is supplemented by philosophical symposia, departmental colloquia, and mini-courses featuring prominent philosophers. Each student is expected to consult with his or her departmental advisor on course selection. With departmental permission, a senior may take one course selected from the graduate offerings in philosophy. He or she may take this course on a pass/fail basis. Certain courses in other departments are acceptable equivalents for philosophy credit. Seniors who have a superior record in philosophy may petition to do a Senior Thesis. (Please note that PHL 100 or HON 105 is the prerequisite for all 300-level philosophy courses; it is also the prerequisite for all 200 level cognitive skills courses as well as the 200 level history sequence.)

Philosophy (Minor)

The minor program is designed to complement the majors of other departments. It is designed also for those who, while not wishing to specialize in philosophy, nonetheless seek to pursue enduring questions, appraise contemporary values, and critically discuss topics of general human concern. (If you wish to use this program as an academic minor, check with your Department for permission and with the Department of Philosophy for sample programs.)

- PHL 293 ANCIENT PHILOSOPHY
- PHL 294 MEDIEVAL PHILOSOPHY
or PHL 295 EARLY MODERN PHILOSOPHY
  - PHL 296 KANT & 19TH CENTURY PHILOSOPHY
  - PHL 297 20TH CENTURY PHILOSOPHY

Value Studies/ Cognitive Skills
  - One PHL 200 Level Course

Philosophy Electives
  - Two PHL 300 Level Courses

With permission a student may take PHL 391 SENIOR CAPSTONE SEMINAR for Philosophy Majors as part of his or her minor.

Transfer credit may be recognized. (*Please note that PHL 100 and HON 105 is the prerequisite for all 300-level philosophy courses; it is also the prerequisite for all 200 level cognitive skills courses as well as the 200 level history sequence.)

Students majoring in Philosophy (BA) are restricted from earning this minor.

Photography (Minor)

The minor in photography is a concentrated program of study that lets the student design her/his approach to the photographic arts. It takes the processes of optical and mechanical reproduction as its starting points and emphasizes the role(s) of photography historically through culture. A total of six courses are required for a photography minor.

Course Requirements

- Choose any two Photography courses from the following list:
  - ART 101 DIGITAL TOOLS FOR VISUAL THINKERS
  - ART 105 TWO-DIMENSIONAL FOUNDATIONS
  - ART 114 FOUR DIMENSIONAL FOUNDATIONS
  - ART 200 ART & ARTISTS IN CONTEMPORARY CULTURE
  - ART 118 THINKING PHOTOGRAPHY

- Choose any four Photography courses from the following list:
  - ART 224 BEGINNING DIGITAL PHOTOGRAPHY
  - ART 225 BEGINNING PHOTOGRAPHY
  - ART 226 VIDEO ART
  - ART 289 EXPERIMENTAL VIDEO ART
  - ART 321 INTERMEDIATE DIGITAL PHOTOGRAPHY
  - ART 323 INTERMEDIATE PHOTOGRAPHY
  - ART 325 ADVANCED PHOTOGRAPHY PROJECTS
  - ART 328 DOCUMENTARY PHOTOGRAPHY
  - ART 329 ADVANCED DIGITAL PHOTOGRAPHY
  - ART 332 TOPICS IN PHOTOGRAPHIC PRACTICE
  - ART 395 SPECIAL TOPICS IN STUDIO PRACTICE
  - HAA 265 HISTORY OF PHOTOGRAPHY

Students majoring in Art, Media, and Design (B.A.) or minoring in Studio Art or Graphic Art are restricted from earning this minor.
Physical Education (BSPE)

The Physical Education (P.E.) program will prepare you to pursue a career in teaching Physical Education.

Students entering the program must be able and willing to devote themselves to a program requiring a minimum of 110 hours of daytime field experiences in schools. These school-based clinical hours are completed in conjunction with methodology courses that require students to spend a half-day each week in a school. In addition, the student must spend a minimum of 10 weeks in full-time student teaching.

The program includes five distinctive features: 1) Becoming a teacher is viewed as a developmental process continuing at least through the first year of teaching; 2) Multiculturalism is infused throughout the curriculum; 3) Field experiences are an integral part of the curriculum; 4) Students are exposed to a variety of educational theories; 5) The program includes a research component as a basis for further professional development.

The program in K-12 education prepares students to teach children in a variety of urban and suburban educational settings, including public and private elementary and high schools. Students follow a general pattern of study for middle school and high school levels. In all cases, appropriate field experience plays an integral role. The program combines theoretical principles of education and field work with the student's choice of major. Graduates earn the Bachelor of Science degree and are qualified for K-12 school licensure.

Students should meet early and regularly with their advisor to design and monitor their program of study.

Please make sure you consult the Liberal Studies Requirements, Major Requirements, Concentration Requirements, and College Core Requirements for full degree requirements.

Licensure

Illinois Professional Educator License with endorsement in Physical Education (kindergarten-grade 12), an Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) approved program.

College Core Requirements

Dispositions

The academic programs within the College of Education have set forth these dispositions as educational and professional expectations for all students. Students should be aware that failing to abide by DePaul University or College of Education policies including, under certain circumstances, these dispositions, could result in adverse consequences for the student, including removal from his or her program, the College of Education, or the University.

The following dispositions apply to Early Childhood Education, Elementary Education, Physical Education, Secondary Education, and World Language Education majors only:

- Reflects on progress and identifies strengths and weaknesses, including evaluating strategies for success, finding alternatives for inappropriate strategies, and modifying future practices
- Is receptive to faculty feedback and acts meaningfully and professionally upon suggestions
- Values critical thinking, including engaging theoretical and philosophical frameworks and shows evidence of critical thinking through discussion and writing (e.g., journals, response to prompts)
- Understands the importance of and is committed to communicating clearly orally and in writing both in traditional and in new and emerging digital formats
- Values and is committed to continually developing strong content area knowledge and/or knowledge of the professional field, including pedagogical content knowledge
- Takes initiative, uses imagination and creativity, and seeks out information using a variety of human and
● Takes the time and effort needed to understand how students learn, including discovering their interests and experiences and determining how to shape teaching acts (using technology as appropriate) that engage learners meaningfully and actively
● Values and is committed to using assessment to evaluate and ensure the continuous intellectual, social, emotional, and physical development of the learner
● Respects and considers cultural contexts in order to determine how to be responsive to learners and to proactively promote all students' learning
● Values and is responsive to diverse learners' academic, emotional, and social needs through teaching acts (including careful instructional planning, implementation, and differentiation) and through everyday interactions with students
● Is committed to collaboration with colleagues, families, and communities in order to promote all students' learning and development
● Recognizes and fulfills professional responsibilities and habits of conduct (e.g., dress, language, preparedness, attendance, punctuality, etc.)
● Demonstrates collegiality, honesty, good judgment, courtesy, respect, and diplomacy
● Balances self-confidence and assertiveness with respect for others’ perspectives
● Respects the requirements, expectations, and procedures of both the College of Education and of our field partners and appreciates the issues of trust, fairness, and professionalism involved

The following dispositions apply to Special Education majors only:

● Is receptive to faculty feedback and acts meaningfully and professionally upon suggestions
● Reflects on his or her own progress, identifies strengths and weaknesses, and evaluates strategies for success and professional growth
● Takes initiative
● Is open to new ideas and engagement in learning
● Respects diversity and cultural contexts to determine how to be responsive to learners and to proactively promote all students' learning
● Expresses positive attitudes toward individuals with disabilities and a willingness to advocate on their behalf
● Is committed to collaboration with colleagues, families, and communities in order to promote all students' learning and development
● Demonstrates professional ethical and legal behavior as defined by the respective codes of ethics and laws
● Demonstrates consistent professional behavior across all academic settings
● Maintains appropriate interpersonal and professional boundaries
● Accepts personal responsibility for one's behavior
● Expresses feelings and opinions effectively and appropriately
● Upholds confidentiality

Skill Building Courses

Before taking any math or English courses, students must take the DePaul placement tests to determine if skill level is at the college level. If placement indicates skill level in these courses, the courses become part of degree requirements. Consult with your advisor regarding placement test results and any required classes.

Advanced Standing

Students are conditionally admitted to the College of Education. There are additional requirements to reach Advanced Standing in your program in the College of Education. Requirements must be met to progress in the major and take courses in the Advanced Standing category.

Advanced Standing requirements are:

● Maintain a DePaul undergraduate 2.5 GPA
● Pass the Illinois Test of Academic Proficiency (TAP)
● Submit a petition for advanced standing form

Students should attempt to complete the Advanced Standing requirements soon after beginning the program. There is no time limit to meet these criteria; however, students will only be able to take pre-education courses until requirements have been met. Students can also take liberal studies or content area courses before or after meeting Advanced Standing requirements.

Modern Language Competence Requirement

Students pursuing a Bachelor of Arts degree in the College of Education will be required to demonstrate a measure of competence in a modern language, as defined by the college. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:
- completing two years of a language sequence in high school
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advanced Placement (AP) test for any language
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

Please note: The Modern Language Competence Requirement is not required for students in the Early Childhood Education: SNL Joint Program (BAECE) program.

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Education will abide by the COE Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.

B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program. While B.S. students are not required to demonstrate competency in a modern language, the "Modern Language Option" is available to them for language study at any level.

Licensure Tests

All individuals licensed by the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) are required to complete licensure tests specific to their teaching license.

Field Experiences

Each student seeking licensure from the College of Education/Professional Education Unit must complete supervised field experiences in appropriate settings in conjunction with education courses. The field experiences must include a variety of grade levels, multicultural experiences, and a minimum of 10 hours in special education settings. All field experiences must be completed prior to final approval for student teaching. Field experience hours should be entered by the student into the FEDS system when completing courses with field experience requirements.

Endorsements

An endorsement is a subject area that you can qualify to teach full time, in addition to your main licensure area. Endorsements are issued at three levels: primary, middle school, and high school.

The Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) issues endorsements in various subject areas. To view the full list and requirements, visit the ISBE website.

Qualifying for an endorsement at the middle school level requires 18 semester hours (27 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area and complete SCU 339. Some areas (like math) have specifically required courses or require additional hours. Courses must have a grade of C or better to qualify for endorsements and must be earned credit listed on a college transcript as earned credit.

Consult with your advisor regarding endorsements. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following middle school areas: Arabic, art, bilingual education, biological science, Chinese, ESL, French, general science, German, Italian, Japanese, language arts, math, physical science, social science, and Spanish.

In general, endorsement requirements for the primary level are identical to the middle school requirements except that they do not require SCU 339. There are a limited number of areas available at the primary level.

Qualifying for most endorsements at the high school level requires 24 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area* and passing the relevant content area test. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following high school areas: art, Arabic, Chinese, English, French, German, Italian, Japanese, math, Russian, science, social science, and Spanish.

* Exceptions to the basic requirements for high school level endorsements include the subject areas of foreign language, science, and social science.

 For science and social science, 32 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in the broad area of either science or social science, and 12 semester hours in the specific endorsement designation area, plus the content area test are required. To qualify for additional science and social science designations, individuals applying after February 1, 2012 need both the content test and 12 semester hours in the additional designation area.

Special Education majors do not qualify for middle school endorsements.

Student Teaching Requirements

Student Teaching is the culminating clinical experience in the student’s program. All students in teacher preparation programs must meet the following requirements before applying for student teaching:

Academic Requirements:
- Completion of all Liberal Studies, Pre-Education, Advanced Standing and concentration/content area courses
- Overall cumulative G.P.A. of 2.50 or better
- Cumulative GPA. of 2.75 or better in all education courses
- Meet all other program requirements (e.g., modern language and residency requirements)
- Meet designated program standards
- Pass the required Illinois licensure content area test

Clinical Requirements:
- Completion of all required field experiences
- Three satisfactory evaluations in field experiences
- Three satisfactory faculty recommendations
- Attendance at mandatory meeting for student teaching
- Application for student teaching, resume, transcripts, and writing sample (check deadlines)
- Review and approval by Student Teaching Committee of the College of Education

Student Teaching Timeline and Deadlines:
- Attend a Mandatory Meeting approximately 1 year prior to expected quarter of student teaching.
- Submit application for student teaching after attending Mandatory Meeting, approximately 1 year prior to student teaching.
- Academic requirements are due one quarter before expected quarter of student teaching.
- Clinical requirements are completed as course requirements. Field experience hours are entered by the student as coursework is completed.

Online Faculty Evaluations are entered by the instructor of relevant courses. All data must be entered in the Field Experience Documentation System (FEDS) due one month prior to student teaching.

Individual child care agencies and public and private school districts may have additional requirements (application, training, background check, etc.).

Degree Conferral and Graduation

The awarding of a degree is not automatic. You must submit an application to be considered for the degree. DePaul awards and posts degrees at the end of each regular academic term (autumn, winter, spring, summer I and summer II).

It is your responsibility to initiate the degree conferral application process by submitting an online application. Submitting an application means you intend to finish your degree requirements by the end of the term for which you have applied.

Undergraduate students must be approved for student teaching and complete student teaching and capstone to be cleared for the degree. Student must submit graduation application for the quarter that matches the quarter you are student teaching.

After you submit the application, you cannot register for any term after the one selected in the application.

Application deadlines are as follows:
- Fall Quarter - October 1st
- Winter Quarter - January 15th
- Spring Quarter - February 1st
- Summer Quarter - July 15th

To apply for degree conferral, log on to Campus Connection. Select STUDENT CENTER, then MY ACADEMICS. On screen instructions will take you through the application process.
Provided that all requirements and financial obligations are met, degrees are posted 30 days after the official end of the term. Official dates are listed on the Academic Calendar.

DePaul holds one commencement ceremony each year in June. If you intend to participate, you must first apply for degree conferral for the current academic year and then submit a cap and gown order. Honors are not announced at the ceremony for undergraduates completing their final courses in spring quarter because a final GPA is not available at the time of the ceremony.

Additional information about degree conferral and graduation can be found on the College of Education website at: http://education.depaul.edu/.

Licensure

Requirements for licensure include completion of full bachelor’s degree program, all licensure tests (including OPI for world language majors), and awarding of bachelor’s degree. A bachelor’s degree is required to qualify for licensure and must be awarded before applying for the license.

Individuals must submit an application directly to the Illinois State Board of Education after completion of requirements and after DePaul has submitted notification to ISBE. Application requirements include application form, application fee, official transcripts, and registration fee.

All individuals must meet ISBE requirements in place at the time of application for the license. Requirements are subject to change per the discretion of ISBE.

Individuals seeking additional endorsements after applying for the licensure must contact ISBE directly for an evaluation request.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.

Licensure Tests

All individuals licensed by the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) are required to complete licensure tests specific to their teaching license. Physical Education majors must complete the following tests:

- Test of Academic Proficiency (TAP) (test #400) - assesses knowledge of reading comprehension, language arts, writing, and math. Test is required to qualify for Advanced Standing. *Check with your advisor about qualifying for a waiver with acceptable ACT or SAT test scores.
- Physical Education Content Area Test (test #144) – assesses knowledge of health-related physical fitness, movement and skill acquisition, the role of physical education in promoting development, and the physical education program in schools. Test is required before Student Teaching (deadlines apply).
- Assessment of Professional Teaching (APT) (test #104, grade K-12) – assesses knowledge of teaching planning, delivery, assessment, professionalism, and technology. Test is required to be licensed; recommended to be taken before Student Teaching.

Field Experiences

Each student seeking licensure from the College of Education / Professional Education Unit must complete supervised field experiences in appropriate settings in conjunction with education courses. The field experiences must include a variety of grade levels, multicultural experiences, and a minimum of 10 hours in special education settings. All field experiences must be completed prior to final approval for student teaching. Field experience hours should be entered by the student into the FEDS system when completing courses with field experience requirements. For details on requirements, expectations, documentation, & courses in your program that require hours, visit the College of Education website.

Physical Education (Minor)

The Physical Education minor is designed for students interested in adding teaching skills in physical education to their major course of study.

Activity
Physics (BS)

The Department of Physics offers courses and concentrations designed to teach students about the fundamental processes that govern our universe. Students interested in majoring in physics can choose from several concentrations.

The Standard Physics concentration provides a curriculum that highlights the core areas of theoretical and experimental physics. The Computational Physics concentration provides a curriculum that emphasizes the use of computer simulations as a tool to visualize and understand natural phenomena.

In both concentrations student participation in faculty research is an important component of the program that prepares students for independent work in graduate school or industry. Each concentration also prepares students for graduate study, either in physics or in applied sciences such as optics, photonics, scientific computing, engineering, or computer science.

For students interested in engineering, the Physics Department offers a concentration in Engineering Physics. In this concentration, students take courses in physics at DePaul and engineering courses at another university, leading to degrees in both Physics and Engineering. Through a joint program with the Illinois Institute of Technology, students can complete a five-year dual-degree program while remaining full-time DePaul students.

Additionally, students who are interested in engineering but who are not interested in the dual degree program will have the scientific basis to complete an engineering program at another institution after the first two years of the physics major curriculum at DePaul.

For students who wish to apply a physics degree to a career outside of physics, the Department of Physics offers a concentration called Interdisciplinary Physics. This concentration combines a major in physics with a minor in a second field of the student's choosing.

Student participation in faculty research is an important component of the Physics program at all levels. Participation in research can be pursued either through independent study during the academic year or full-time during the summer quarter. Such experience is excellent preparation for independent work in graduate school or industry.

College Core Requirements

Modern Language Requirements

Students who intend to graduate with the Bachelor of Arts (B.A.) Degree will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in the fourth-year high school sequence of any language
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Science and Health will abide by the College of Science and Health Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.

B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program. While Bachelor of Science (B.S.) students are not required to demonstrate competency in a modern language, the "Modern Language Option" is available to them for language study at any level.

Major Declaration Requirements

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. After researching College programs, the student should declare a major field by visiting Campus Connection and using the Declarations and Inter-College Transfer tool. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor or staff advisor in the department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

To change major fields, or to declare a minor or concentration, the student must use the Declarations and Inter-College Transfer tool described above. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the College or an academic advisor in the Office for Academic Advising Support.

If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.
In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student’s major and is cross-listed with a course within the student’s major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Mathematics
- Choose one of the following three-course Calculus sequences:
  - Sequence One
    - MAT 150 CALCULUS I
    - MAT 151 CALCULUS II
    - MAT 152 CALCULUS III
  - Sequence Two
    - MAT 147 CALCULUS WITH INTEGRATED PRECALCULUS I
    - MAT 148 CALCULUS WITH INTEGRATED PRECALCULUS II
    - MAT 149 CALCULUS WITH INTEGRATED PRECALCULUS III
  - Sequence Three

    - MAT 171 CALCULUS II WITH SCIENTIFIC APPLICATIONS
    - MAT 172 CALCULUS III WITH DIFFERENTIAL EQUATIONS
    - MAT 260 MULTIVARIABLE CALCULUS I

Sequencing of Coursework

Students interested in majoring in physics, applied computational physics, or pre-engineering should enroll in PHY 170 UNIVERSITY PHYSICS I and MAT 160 CALCULUS FOR MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE MAJORS I in the Autumn quarter of their first year, provided they are adequately prepared in mathematics.

The sequences of PHY 170, PHY 171, and PHY 172 and MAT 160, MAT 161, and MAT 162 are prerequisites to PHY 270, PHY 300 and PHY 301, and PHY 370, which should be taken in the sophomore year together with MAT 260 and MAT 261.

It is recommended that students interested in the standard concentration or pre-engineering also take the chemistry sequence (CHE 130 GENERAL CHEMISTRY I and CHE 131 GENERAL CHEMISTRY I LABORATORY, CHE 132 GENERAL CHEMISTRY II and CHE 133 GENERAL CHEMISTRY LABORATORY II, CHE 134 GENERAL CHEMISTRY III and CHE 135 GENERAL CHEMISTRY LABORATORY III) their first year. Because of the predominance of physics, mathematics, and chemistry sequences in the freshman and sophomore years, it is crucial that Physics and Pre-Engineering majors be advised by faculty in the Physics Department as they enter DePaul.

Concentration Requirements
Students must also complete the requirements from one of the following concentrations: Standard, Computational, Engineering, or Interdisciplinary Physics. Students are limited to only declaring one concentration.

Concentration Requirements

Concentrations, tracks and specializations provide focus to the major. In addition to any college core requirements, liberal studies requirements and major requirements, students are required to choose one of the following:

- Standard
- Computational Physics
- Engineering Physics
- Interdisciplinary Physics

Standard Concentration

Course Requirements

- Four courses chosen from the following list:
  - PHY 310 MECHANICS I
  - PHY 311 MECHANICS II
  - PHY 320 ELECTRICITY AND MAGNETISM I
  - PHY 321 ELECTRICITY AND MAGNETISM II
  - PHY 360 QUANTUM MECHANICS I
  - PHY 361 QUANTUM MECHANICS II
  - PHY 370 ELECTRONICS
  - PHY 380 EXPERIMENTAL PHYSICS I
  - or PHY 390 APPLIED COMPUTATIONAL PHYSICS LABORATORY
- Four additional Physics courses, at least two at the 300 level, as approved by a departmental advisor
- MAT 261 MULTIVARIABLE CALCULUS II
- A one year-long sequence of courses in the sciences, mathematics, or computer science, chosen from the following sequences:
  - Biology Sequence
    - BIO 191 GENERAL BIOLOGY I FOR SCIENCE MAJORS
    - BIO 192 GENERAL BIOLOGY II FOR SCIENCE MAJORS
    - BIO 193 GENERAL BIOLOGY III FOR SCIENCE MAJORS
  - Chemistry Sequence
    - CHE 130 GENERAL CHEMISTRY I /CHE 131 GENERAL CHEMISTRY I LABORATORY
    - CHE 132 GENERAL CHEMISTRY II /CHE 133 GENERAL CHEMISTRY LABORATORY II
    - CHE 134 GENERAL CHEMISTRY III/CHE 135 GENERAL CHEMISTRY LABORATORY III
  - Environmental Science Sequence
    - BIO 215 ECOLOGY
    - ENV 216 EARTH SYSTEM SCIENCE
    - ENV 217 HUMAN IMPACTS ON THE ENVIRONMENT
  - Mathematics Sequence
    - Three 300-level sequenced courses as approved by departmental advisor
Computer Science Sequence

- Three 300-level CDM courses as approved by departmental advisor

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Computational Physics Concentration

Course Requirements

- PHY 310 MECHANICS I
- PHY 320 ELECTRICITY AND MAGNETISM I
- PHY 360 QUANTUM MECHANICS I
- PHY 342 COMPUTATIONAL PHYSICS
- PHY 390 APPLIED COMPUTATIONAL PHYSICS LABORATORY
- Three additional physics courses, at least one at the 300 level, as approved by a departmental advisor
- MAT 261 MULTIVARIABLE CALCULUS II
- One of the following two course sequences:
  - Programming in C/C++ I–II Sequence
    - CSC 261 PROGRAMMING IN C++ I
    - CSC 262 PROGRAMMING IN C++ II
  - Programming in Java I–II Sequence
    - CSC 211 PROGRAMMING IN JAVA I
    - CSC 212 PROGRAMMING IN JAVA II
- Three 300-level CDM courses as approved by departmental advisor

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Engineering Physics Concentration

DePaul University offers a joint program with the Illinois Institute of Technology (IIT) in physics and engineering. This program allows students to enroll in courses at IIT while remaining full-time DePaul students. Students will receive a degree in Physics from DePaul University and a degree in Mechanical, Aerospace, Electrical, or Computer Engineering from IIT upon completion of the five-year program.

Students can also choose a four-year joint program that leads to a degree only from DePaul or can choose to complete their engineering requirements at another university. Students interested in Engineering Physics or the joint program should promptly consult with a Physics Department advisor for information about scheduling, requirements, and admission to the joint program.

Course Requirements

- PHY 370 ELECTRONICS
  or PHY 340 THERMAL PHYSICS
- One of the following two course sequences (Electrical Engineering Students should take PHY 320 and PHY 321):
  - Electromagnetism Sequence
    - PHY 320 ELECTRICITY AND MAGNETISM I
    - PHY 321 ELECTRICITY AND MAGNETISM II
Interdisciplinary Physics Concentration

Intended for students that wish to apply their scientific training in a career outside of physics, this concentration allows students to combine a core physics curriculum with a minor from another field. Possible minors include Journalism or Technical Writing for students interested in a career in science writing, Economics for students interested in business, or Biological Sciences for students interested in biophysics.

Course Requirements

Physics

- Six courses, at least three at the 300 level, as approved by a departmental advisor.
- Six courses which constitute a minor in a different discipline, as approved by a departmental advisor.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.
Physics (BS)/Secondary Education Physics (MEd)

This combined degree program of the College of Science and Health and the College of Education was collaboratively developed, and is governed and taught by faculty from these units.

Students may apply to the Program during the spring of their junior year. They must enroll in the Junior Year Experiential Learning course, TCH 320 and meet other application criteria; these include completion of at least 16 quarter credit hours at DePaul and a 3.0 GPA. During their senior year, students are required to complete a Program capstone course, TCH 390, and three 400-level courses that count toward both their undergraduate and graduate degrees:

- TCH 401 TEACHING AS A PROFESSION IN SECONDARY SCHOOL
- TCH 414 THE NATURE OF SCIENCE
- TCH 424 INQUIRY & APPLICATION IN DEVELOPING SECONDARY SCIENCE PEDAGOGY

Physics Content Area (grades of C or better required for licensure):
The following physics content area requirements are required. These can be taken as part of the major, liberal studies or open elective requirements:

- PHY 170 UNIVERSITY PHYSICS I
- PHY 171 UNIVERSITY PHYSICS II
- PHY 172 UNIVERSITY PHYSICS III
- PHY 270 UNIVERSITY PHYSICS IV
- PHY 300 METHODS OF COMPUTATIONAL AND THEORETICAL PHYSICS I
- PHY 301 METHODS OF COMPUTATIONAL AND THEORETICAL PHYSICS II
- PHY 310 MECHANICS I
- Physics Elective (chosen in consultation with Physics faculty content advisor)
- MAT 160 CALCULUS FOR MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE MAJORS I
- MAT 161 CALCULUS FOR MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE MAJORS II
- MAT 162 CALCULUS FOR MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE MAJORS III
- MAT 260 MULTIVARIABLE CALCULUS I
- MAT 261 MULTIVARIABLE CALCULUS II
- CHE 130 CHE 130 GENERAL CHEMISTRY I / CHE 131 GENERAL CHEMISTRY I LABORATORY
- CHE 132 CHE 132 GENERAL CHEMISTRY II / CHE 133 GENERAL CHEMISTRY LABORATORY II
- CHE 134 GENERAL CHEMISTRY III / CHE 135 GENERAL CHEMISTRY LABORATORY III

The Master's year comprises teacher-preparation coursework that culminates with student teaching during Spring quarter. Upon graduation and the fulfilling of State of Illinois Certification Licensure requirements (which may require some additional course work in the student's major and related fields), students are eligible to be licensed to teach Physics at the 6th-12th grade levels.

A full description of the Program can be found on the College of Education website in the graduate course catalog. Students interested in the Program should consult with the designated TEACH Program advisor in their home department.

Physics (Minor)

The Physics minor curriculum focuses on scientific investigation, laboratory experience and research opportunities to give you hands-on experience in the field of physics.

Course Requirements

- Complete one of the following two course sequences:
  - Sequence One
    - PHY 150 GENERAL PHYSICS I
    - PHY 151 GENERAL PHYSICS II
    - PHY 152 GENERAL PHYSICS III
  - Sequence Two
    - PHY 170 UNIVERSITY PHYSICS I
    - PHY 171 UNIVERSITY PHYSICS II
    - PHY 172 UNIVERSITY PHYSICS III
• Three additional physics courses

Students cannot earn a minor in the same academic program as their major.

Playwriting (BFA)

The Theatre School's Bachelor of Fine Arts (BFA) degree in Playwriting focuses on helping students explore and identify their voice and unique process of working as a writer in a variety of circumstances. The four-year curriculum provides students with the primary tools of dramatic writing and the space and opportunity to use them through a variety of classroom and workshop production experiences.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Political Science (BA)

Political Science is the study of the organization and behavior of people, groups, and institutions which make up our government and the larger political system. The program is designed to introduce students to questions, perspectives, and arguments about the political forces that shape their lives. As such, the program has value for Liberal Studies students as well as for those who may choose the discipline as a major field of study. Students find the substance and the methods of the discipline useful in the legal, business, civic, communications, governmental, and academic professions, as well as any endeavors that draw them into public service.

College Core Requirements

Study in the Major Field

The student’s course of study in the College consists of three parts: Liberal Studies, the major field, and electives. Together these three parts contribute to the liberal education of the student which is the common purpose of all study in the College. By "liberal education" the College understands not only a deep and through knowledge of a particular area of study but a knowledge of the diverse areas of study represented by criticism, history, the arts, the behavioral and social sciences, philosophy, religious studies, the natural science, and mathematics.

The major field program generally is built upon a set of core courses and a specialized "concentration." The number of courses required for a major varies by department. Most students go beyond the minimum requirements, electing additional courses which both broaden and deepen their understanding of their chosen discipline.

Because no academic major program is built in isolation, students are required to pursue a number of electives of the student’s choice. The inherent flexibility of this curriculum demands that the student consult an academic advisor at each stage in the total program and at least once prior to each registration.

Students will be prompted to visit the College Office for their official graduation check early in their senior year.

Declaration of Major, Minor and Concentration

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor in the major field department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

Students must declare or change majors, minors, and concentrations, via Campus Connection. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the Office for Academic Advising Support.

Competence in Modern Language

All students will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language (i.e., a language other than English) equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in the fourth-year high school sequence of any language
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations or achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language, or achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program, or achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College will abide by this Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT, regardless of when they first matriculated at DePaul.

Students who have met the Modern Language Requirement and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program (see "Special Programs").

External Credit and Residency

A student who has been admitted to the College begins residency within the college as of the first day of classes of the term in which the student is registered. Students in residence, whether attending on a full-time or part-time basis, may not take courses away from DePaul University without the written permission of the college. Permission must be obtained in advance of registration to avoid loss of credit or residency in the college; see the LAS website for more information.

- Four courses from at least two of the following areas:
  - Methodology (PSC 300 through 309)
  - Political Culture (PSC 310 through 319)
  - American Politics (PSC 320 through 329)
  - Political Thought (PSC 330 through 339)
  - International Relations (PSC 340 through 349)
  - Comparative Politics (PSC 350 through 359)
  - Public Law (PSC 360 through 369)
  - Civic Engagement (PSC 380 through 389)

PSC electives: 12 quarter hours

- Three additional PSC courses at the 200 or 300 level

Open Electives

Open elective credits are required in order to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours. These courses are to be selected in consultation with the student’s faculty adviser and may include courses in fields such as economics, history, English, sociology, etc. Students may choose to use their open electives as part of a minor or to complete a double major.

Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

Political Science (BA)/ Secondary Education Social Science (MEd)

The TEACH Program combines a Liberal Arts and Social Sciences (LAS) undergraduate Social Science major (Anthropology, Economics, Geography, History, Political Science, or Sociology) or a Science and Health (Psychology) major with a graduate level College of Education (COE) Master's in Education Program. Students graduate with a BA or BS in their disciplinary major and a MEd in Education with State of Illinois Secondary Social Science licensure.

Students may apply to the Program during the spring of their junior year. They must enroll in the Junior Year Experiential Learning course, TCH 320, and meet other application criteria; these include completion of at least 16 quarter credit hours at DePaul and a 3.0 GPA. During their senior year, students are required to complete a Program capstone course, TCH 390, and three 400-level courses that count toward both their undergraduate and graduate degrees:

- TCH 401 TEACHING AS A PROFESSION IN SECONDARY SCHOOL
- TCH 412 THE NATURE OF HISTORY AND THE SOCIAL SCIENCES
- TCH 422 INQUIRY & APPLICATION IN DEVELOPING SECONDARY HISTORY AND SOCIAL SCIENCES PEDAGOGY

Social Science Content Area (grades of C or better required for licensure):
The following Social Science content area requirements are required. These can be taken as part of the major, liberal studies or open elective requirements:

- HST 298 INTRODUCTION TO HISTORICAL SOURCES AND METHODS
- HST 299 CRAFT OF HISTORY
- 3 United States History courses
- 2 Non- United States History courses
- 6 from the political science major
- Additional licensure requirements: (one course in each area required)
  - Geography (GEO 101 recommended)
  - Economics (ECO 101 recommended)
  - Psychology (PSY 105 recommended)
  - Sociology (SOC 101 recommended)
  - Anthropology (ANT 102 recommended)

The Master’s year comprises teacher-preparation coursework that culminates with student teaching during Spring quarter. Upon graduation and the fulfilling of State of Illinois licensure requirements (which may require some additional course work in the student’s major and related fields), students are eligible to be licensed to teach Social Sciences at the 6th-12th grade levels.

A full description of the Program can be found on the College of Education website in the graduate course catalog. Students interested in the Program should consult with the designated TEACH Program advisor in their home department.

Professional Writing (Minor)

The Minor in Professional Writing, offered by the Department of Writing, Rhetoric, & Discourse (WRD), is available to any student in the university. Core courses in the program are designed to prepare students as effective writers for any occupation in which writing is a key competency. By sharing its electives with those of the WRD major, the Professional Writing Minor allows students a wide range of choices: you may take courses in which your own writing—in various genres and contexts—is the focus, or you may study theories of language, rhetoric (how to make effective choices as writers), and discourse (the way writing structures human activity) to develop an understanding of the role of the individual writer within communities of writers. The breadth of choices within the Professional Writing minor makes it an excellent complement to any major and a fine choice for students pursuing graduate school in any discipline, including law. The program assumes that the capacity to write well extends beyond correctness and form to the analysis of contexts in which written messages circulate. The program comprises two required core courses and sixteen hours of electives, which may be chosen from among the department’s undergraduate offerings numbered 203 and above.

Course Requirements

- WRD 206 INTRODUCTION TO PROFESSIONAL WRITING
- WRD 301 WRITING IN WORKPLACE CONTEXTS
- Four WRD courses numbered 203 or above

Students majoring in Writing, Rhetoric and Discourse (B.A.) are restricted from earning this minor.

Psychology (BA)

The goal of the Department of Psychology is to provide students with an understanding of the methods and content of scientific and applied psychology.

The primary means of attaining our mission is classroom instruction. We offer courses across a wide range of disciplines within psychology; some of our courses also include laboratories that focus on experimental and statistical work. Some of these courses are beginning to be offered as fully online and as hybrid courses (partially online and partially in the classroom). Further learning opportunities are made available through field work, the Honors Program, Experiential Learning, Independent Study, and Internships. Our Internship Program consists of supervised work placements for which students earn academic credit; potential sites include human service organizations as well as community and industrial settings.

Bachelor of Arts Psychology majors must select one of the six B.A. concentrations: Standard, Human Development, Human Services, Industrial/Organizational, Community, or Comprehensive Evening Program. Students are limited to only declaring one concentration.

There is an option to complete the BA in Psychology online, with no face-to-face classes on DePaul Campuses (see "Special Programs" for prerequisites). Students who qualify and wish to pursue the BA in Psychology online may complete either the Standard or Human Development concentrations.

After completing any of the concentrations, a psychology major should be able to read and understand behavioral science data, design and conduct rudimentary psychological research studies, and apply research findings to everyday situations. These skills are applicable to a wide variety of occupations and professions. Psychology as a major provides excellent opportunities for students planning to go to graduate or professional school. Psychology as a minor provides a flexible complement to other majors.

College Core Requirements

Modern Language Requirements

Students who intend to graduate with the Bachelor of Arts (B.A.) Degree will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in the fourth-year high school sequence of any language
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Science and Health will abide by the College of Science and Health Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.

B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program. While Bachelor of Science (B.S.) students are not required to demonstrate competency in a modern language, the "Modern Language Option" is available to them for language study at any level.

Major Declaration Requirements

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. After researching College programs, the student should declare a major field by visiting Campus Connection and using the Declarations and Inter-College Transfer tool. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor or staff advisor in the department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

To change major fields, or to declare a minor or concentration, the student must use the Declarations and Inter-College Transfer tool described above. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the College or an academic advisor in the Office for Academic Advising Support.

Liberal Studies Requirements

Honors program requirements can be found in the individual Colleges & Schools section of the University Catalog. Select Academics, followed by Undergraduate, then Honors Program Alternative.

First Year Program

Chicago Quarter

- LSP 110 DISCOVER CHICAGO

- Required *

Learning Domains

Arts and Literature (AL)

- 3 Courses Required

Philosophical Inquiry (PI)

- 2 Courses Required

Scientific Inquiry (SI)

- 3 Courses Required
  (Note: One course must be a lab)

Self, Society and the Modern World (SSMW)

- 1 Course Required

Religious Dimensions (RD)

- 2 Courses Required

Understanding the Past (UP)

- 2 Courses Required

* Students must earn a C- or better in this course.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.
In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student’s major and is cross-listed with a course within the student’s major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.

Major Requirements

The program consists of the common core plus eight additional courses in a concentration area. Bachelor of Arts students are required to take fourteen general electives which may be psychology and/or other department courses. Students may choose to complete a minor or double-major. Bachelor of Arts students must fulfill the Modern Language requirement.

Common Core

- PSY 105 INTRODUCTORY PSYCHOLOGY I
- PSY 106 INTRODUCTORY PSYCHOLOGY II
- PSY 240 STATISTICS I
- PSY 241 RESEARCH METHODS I
- PSY 242 RESEARCH METHODS II

Capstone

- PSY 361 HISTORY AND SYSTEMS OF PSYCHOLOGY is the required senior capstone

Students who are double majors with PSY as their primary major may take only one capstone in either major. University Honors students are not required to complete the capstone in PSY, however it is recommended.

Upon faculty approval psychology majors may register for the following psychology course PSY 390 INDEPENDENT RESEARCH IN PSYCHOLOGY, PSY 396 HONORS IN PSYCHOLOGY, PSY 397 EXPERIENTIAL LEARNING/PSYCHOLOGY RESEARCH, PSY 398 TUTORING AND MENTORING IN PSYCHOLOGY, and PSY 399 INDEPENDENT STUDY.

PSY 105 and PSY 106 are not sequential, i.e., one is not a prerequisite for the other. They may be taken in either order.

For the research sequence, PSY 240 STATISTICS I must be taken first; PSY 241 and PSY 242 may be taken in either order. A special note: PSY 340 STATISTICS II, an elective course, may be taken immediately after the completion of PSY 240 STATISTICS I.

Concentration Requirements

Students must complete the requirements from one of the following concentrations: Standard; Human Development; Human Services; Industrial/Organizational; Community; or Comprehensive Evening Program. Students are limited to only declaring one concentration.
Concentration Requirements

Concentrations, tracks and specializations provide focus to the major. In addition to any college core requirements, liberal studies requirements and major requirements, students are required to choose one of the following:

- Community
- Comprehensive Evening Program
- Human Development
- Human Services
- Industrial/Organizational Psychology
- Standard

Community Concentration

Course Requirements

- PSY 354 COMMUNITY PSYCHOLOGY (take prior to PSY 356)
- PSY 356 PRINCIPLES OF FIELD RESEARCH AND ACTION (spring/junior year)
- PSY 359 FIELD WORK IN COMMUNITY RESEARCH AND ACTION (taken twice: autumn/senior year and winter/senior year)
- One diversity course from the following list:
  - PSY 325 PSYCHOLOGY OF WOMEN
  - PSY 326 PSYCHOLOGY OF MEN
  - PSY 345 CULTURAL ISSUES IN PSYCHOLOGY
  - PSY 346 PSYCHOLOGY OF THE AFRICAN-AMERICAN CHILD
- PSY 347 SOCIAL PSYCHOLOGY
  or PSY 380 INDUSTRIAL AND ORGANIZATIONAL PSYCHOLOGY
- PSY 333 CHILD PSYCHOLOGY
  or PSY 334 ADOLESCENT PSYCHOLOGY
- PSY 351 THEORIES OF PERSONALITY
  or PSY 353 ABNORMAL PSYCHOLOGY

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Comprehensive Evening Program

Course Requirements

- Two courses from the following list:
  - PSY 355 GROUPS AND ORGANIZATIONS
  - PSY 380 INDUSTRIAL AND ORGANIZATIONAL PSYCHOLOGY
  - PSY 381 PERSONNEL PSYCHOLOGY
  - PSY 382 ORGANIZATIONAL BEHAVIOR
  - PSY 385 TRAINING AND DEVELOPMENT IN ORGANIZATIONS
- Two courses from the following list:
- PSY 302 PERSONAL ADJUSTMENT AND MENTAL HEALTH
- PSY 351 THEORIES OF PERSONALITY
- PSY 353 ABNORMAL PSYCHOLOGY
- Two courses from the following list:
  - PSY 303 HUMAN DEVELOPMENT
  - PSY 347 SOCIAL PSYCHOLOGY
  - PSY 360 THEORIES OF LEARNING AND COGNITION
- Two electives from the remaining above courses

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

---

Human Development Concentration

Course Requirements

- PSY 333 CHILD PSYCHOLOGY
- PSY 334 ADOLESCENT PSYCHOLOGY
- PSY 347 SOCIAL PSYCHOLOGY
- Five additional Psychology courses. Psychology courses must be numbered PSY 317 and above to count toward major field.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

---

Human Services Concentration

Course Requirements

- PSY 333 CHILD PSYCHOLOGY
- PSY 347 SOCIAL PSYCHOLOGY
- PSY 353 ABNORMAL PSYCHOLOGY
- PSY 357 APPLIED PSYCHOLOGY I (winter quarter/junior year)
- PSY 358 APPLIED PSYCHOLOGY II (spring quarter/junior year)
- PSY 395 FIELD WORK/INTERNSHIP, taken three times in the student’s senior year

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.
Industrial/ Organizational Psychology Concentration

Course Requirements

- PSY 380 INDUSTRIAL AND ORGANIZATIONAL PSYCHOLOGY
- Two courses from the following list:
  - PSY 355 GROUPS AND ORGANIZATIONS
  - PSY 381 PERSONNEL PSYCHOLOGY
  - PSY 382 ORGANIZATIONAL BEHAVIOR
  - PSY 385 TRAINING AND DEVELOPMENT IN ORGANIZATIONS
  - PSY 388 TOPICAL SEMINAR IN INDUSTRIAL - ORGANIZATIONAL PSYCHOLOGY
- PSY 343 INTRODUCTION TO PSYCHOLOGICAL MEASUREMENT
  or PSY 340 STATISTICS II
- Four additional Psychology courses. Psychology courses must be numbered PSY 317 PSYCHOLOGY OF INTERPERSONAL RELATIONSHIP and above to count toward major field.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Standard Concentration

Course Requirements

- One course from the following list:
  - PSY 340 STATISTICS II
  - PSY 342 RESEARCH METHODS III
  - PSY 343 INTRODUCTION TO PSYCHOLOGICAL MEASUREMENT
  - PSY 347 SOCIAL PSYCHOLOGY
  - PSY 351 THEORIES OF PERSONALITY
  - or PSY 360 THEORIES OF LEARNING AND COGNITION
  - PSY 377 PHYSIOLOGICAL PSYCHOLOGY
- Four additional Psychology courses. Psychology courses must be numbered PSY 317 and above to count toward major field.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

The Psychology (BA) offers two options:

- Psychology (BA) Industrial and Organizational concentration only/ Psychology (MS) Industrial and Organizational Psychology (BA)/Secondary Education Social Science (MEd)

Psychology (BA) Industrial and Organizational concentration/ Psychology (MS) Industrial and Organizational

This program was designed and approved by DePaul University in the late 1980's as a way to give qualified DePaul undergraduates the opportunity to earn both a B.A. and an M.S. degree in the field of Industrial and Organizational Psychology. Students who are not pursuing an undergraduate degree at DePaul are not eligible to apply for this program. The program leads to a terminal M.S. degree, and should not be seen as an intermediate step towards a doctoral degree. Students who are interested in pursuing a Ph.D. should speak to their advisor regarding the best way to prepare for such a program.

The Combined Program requires completion of 39 classes (156 credit hours) by the end of the junior year. Note that this is three classes above the typical 36 that a student would earn by taking four classes per quarter. The undergraduate component of this program is:

- All Liberal Studies or Honors Program requirements
- Five Psychology core courses:
  - PSY 105 INTRODUCTORY PSYCHOLOGY I
  - PSY 106 INTRODUCTORY PSYCHOLOGY II
  - PSY 240 STATISTICS I
  - PSY 241 RESEARCH METHODS I
  - PSY 242 RESEARCH METHODS II
- PSY 380 INDUSTRIAL AND ORGANIZATIONAL PSYCHOLOGY
- PSY 340 STATISTICS II
  - or PSY 343 INTRODUCTION TO PSYCHOLOGICAL MEASUREMENT
- Three additional Psychology electives. Some strongly recommended classes are:
  - PSY 347 SOCIAL PSYCHOLOGY
  - PSY 351 THEORIES OF PERSONALITY
  - PSY 360 THEORIES OF LEARNING AND COGNITION
  - PSY 340 STATISTICS II
  - or PSY 343 INTRODUCTION TO PSYCHOLOGICAL MEASUREMENT (whichever was not taken above)

- General electives to reach a total of 156 credits

Students should work with the I/O Program Director beginning as early as possible, ideally no later than the sophomore year. Applications for the graduate portion of the program are due by June 1 of the junior year. At that time, the student should have completed the undergraduate component with a grade point average of no less than 3.20, although a stronger GPA would be preferred. Application forms can be obtained from the I/O Program Director, and it must be submitted to the I/O Program Director together with the student's unofficial DePaul transcript, statement of goals, and General Graduate Record Examination (GRE) scores. Applications will be evaluated by the I/O Admissions Committee and the student will be informed of the decision, usually by mid-June of the same year.

Students accepted into the graduate portion of the program take three courses per quarter during Year 4 and another three courses per quarter during Year 5. The Year 5 requirement of nine classes cannot be reduced by taking additional classes during Year 4, and given the demands of graduate-level coursework, students are strongly discouraged from attempting to take more than three classes at a time. The nine Year 4 classes carry 36 credit hours, which add to the 156 already earned to produce 192 credit hours, which meets the minimum requirement for degree conferral of the B.A. degree. The M.S. requires at least another 36 credits of graduate coursework earned following conferral of the B.A. The 18 graduate classes taken in Years 4 and 5 are:

- PSY 410 ADVANCED STATISTICS I
- PSY 411 ADVANCED STATISTICS II
- PSY 420 ADVANCED RESEARCH METHODOLOGY
- PSY 450 PSYCHOLOGICAL MEASUREMENT
- PSY 404 LEARNING AND COGNITIVE PROCESSES
- PSY 430 ADVANCED SOCIAL PSYCHOLOGY
- PSY 448 CONCEPTS, METHODS, AND ETHICS FOR INDUSTRIAL/ORGANIZATIONAL PSYCHOLOGY
- PSY 442 PERSONNEL PSYCHOLOGY
  - or PSY 444 PERFORMANCE APPRAISAL
- PSY 440 PSYCHOLOGY OF WORK AND MOTIVATION
  - or PSY 441 PSYCHOLOGY OF LEADERSHIP
- PSY 445 ADVANCED TRAINING AND DEVELOPMENT IN ORGANIZATIONS
  - or PSY 446/PSY 447 ORGANIZATIONAL CONSULTATION
- One additional I/O class from the above group (PSY 440-447)
- Six graduate electives to reach the two-year total of 18 courses and the Year 5 total of 9 courses.

The M.S. degree also requires the student to complete a Master’s Thesis. This is a project that allows the student to focus on a particular area of interest within the I/O field. There are three options available for the M.S. thesis:

1. An empirical research project, involving the collection and analysis of data and the writing of the thesis paper in APA style.
2. A library research paper, where the student reviews work already done on a topic and writes a paper describing and summarizing that work and making recommendations for theory, research, or practice.
3. An applied thesis, based on work the student is doing at an internship site.

In addition to these three options, students must also enroll in 4 credit hours of PSY 597 MASTER'S THESIS RESEARCH.

Whichever option is chosen, the student will create a thesis committee consisting of a chair, who must be a DePaul I/O faculty member, and a reader, who must be a faculty member of DePaul's Psychology Department and who must hold a Ph.D. That committee must approve the thesis proposal, and the proposal may also need to be approved by the Institutional Review Board before work may begin.

Students in the Combined Program are not required to have a minor area of graduate study. However, the minors listed for the MA/PhD program are also available to Combined Program students, should they choose to select one.

Students in this program may apply a maximum of twelve graduate credit hours as three courses in their senior year toward both the undergraduate and graduate Psychology requirements. The required application for degree conferral for the MS is separate from the required application for degree conferral for the BA. Students must apply for undergraduate degree conferral in anticipation of completing their fourth year of study.

Psychology (BA)/ Secondary Education Social Science (MEd)

The TEACH Program combines a Science and Health major (Psychology) or Liberal Arts and Social Sciences (LAS) undergraduate Social Science major (Anthropology, Economics, Geography, History, Political Science, or Sociology) with a graduate level College of Education (COE) Master's in Education Program. Students graduate with a BA or BS in their disciplinary major and a MEd in Education with State of Illinois Secondary Social Science licensure.

Students may apply to the Program during the spring of their junior year. They must enroll in the Junior Year Experiential Learning course, TCH 320, and meet other application criteria; these include completion of at least 16 quarter credit hours at DePaul and a 3.0 GPA. During their senior year, students are required to complete a Program capstone course, TCH 390, and three 400-level courses that count toward both their undergraduate and graduate degrees:

- TCH 401 TEACHING AS A PROFESSION IN SECONDARY SCHOOL
- TCH 412 THE NATURE OF HISTORY AND THE SOCIAL SCIENCES
- TCH 422 INQUIRY & APPLICATION IN DEVELOPING SECONDARY HISTORY AND SOCIAL SCIENCES PEDAGOGY

Social Science Content Area (grades of C or better required for licensure):
The following Social Science content area requirements are required. These can be taken as part of the major, liberal studies or open elective requirements:

- HST 298 INTRODUCTION TO HISTORICAL SOURCES AND METHODS
- HST 299 CRAFT OF HISTORY
- 3 United States History courses
- 2 Non-United States History courses
- 6 from the psychology major
- Additional licensure requirements: (one course in each area required)
  - Geography (GEO 101 recommended)
  - Economics (ECO 101 recommended)
  - Political Science (PSC 120 recommended)
  - Sociology (SOC 101 recommended)
  - Anthropology (ANT 102 recommended)

The Master's year comprises teacher-preparation coursework that culminates with student teaching during Spring quarter. Upon graduation and the fulfilling of State of Illinois licensure requirements (which may require some additional course work in the student's major and related fields), students are eligible to be licensed to teach Social Sciences at the 6th-12th grade levels.

A full description of the Program can be found on the College of Education website in the graduate course catalog. Students interested in the Program should consult with the designated TEACH Program advisor in their home department.

College Core Requirements

Modern Language Requirements

Students who intend to graduate with the Bachelor of Arts (B.A.) Degree will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in the fourth-year high school sequence of any language
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Science and Health will abide by the College of Science and Health Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.
B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program. While Bachelor of Science (B.S.) students are not required to demonstrate competency in a modern language, the "Modern Language Option" is available to them for language study at any level.

Major Declaration Requirements

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. After researching College programs, the student should declare a major field by visiting Campus Connection and using the Declarations and Inter-College Transfer tool. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor or staff advisor in the department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

To change major fields, or to declare a minor or concentration, the student must use the Declarations and Inter-College Transfer tool described above. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the College or an academic advisor in the Office for Academic Advising Support.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the J'YEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.

Major Requirements

Course Requirements

Common Core
Capstone

- PSY 361 HISTORY AND SYSTEMS OF PSYCHOLOGY

Students who are double majors with Psychology as the primary major may take only one capstone in either major. University Honors students are not required to complete the Psychology capstone, however it is recommended.

PSY 105 and PSY 106 are not sequential, i.e., one is not a prerequisite for the other. They may be taken in either order. For the research sequence, PSY 240 STATISTICS I must be taken first; PSY 241 RESEARCH METHODS I and PSY 242 RESEARCH METHODS II may be taken in either order. A special note: PSY 340 STATISTICS II, an elective course, may be taken immediately after the completion of PSY 240 STATISTICS I.

Concentration Requirements

Students must complete the requirements for one of the following two concentrations: General or Cognitive Neuroscience. Students are limited to only declaring one concentration.

General Concentration

Course Requirements

Psychology

- PSY 340 STATISTICS II (this course may be taken immediately after the completion of PSY 240 STATISTICS I)
- PSY 342 RESEARCH METHODS III
- PSY 343 INTRODUCTION TO PSYCHOLOGICAL MEASUREMENT
- PSY 360 THEORIES OF LEARNING AND COGNITION
- PSY 377 PHYSIOLOGICAL PSYCHOLOGY
- Three additional major-level psychology courses numbered 317 and above
- Twenty quarter hours in major-level biology and/or mathematics are required. This requirement is to be developed in consultation with the departmental advisor.
- Nine general (open) electives

Note: An exceptional student who has completed the required courses in Experimental Psychology may, upon consent of his advisor and the chairman, be admitted in the senior year to certain 400-level courses described in the Graduate Catalog for Psychology.
Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

The student is urged to devote some general elective hours to courses in disciplines other than his/her major. Note: MAT 130 PRECALCULUS is a prerequisite for major level BIO and MAT courses.

In addition, all psychology majors are encouraged to engage in individual research projects with the supervision of faculty. Upon faculty approval psychology majors may register for the following psychology courses: PSY 390 INDEPENDENT RESEARCH IN PSYCHOLOGY, PSY 396 HONORS IN PSYCHOLOGY, PSY 397 EXPERIENTIAL LEARNING/PSYCHOLOGY RESEARCH, PSY 398 TUTORING AND MENTORING IN PSYCHOLOGY, and PSY 399 INDEPENDENT STUDY.

Cognitive Neuroscience Concentration

Course Requirements

Psychology

- PSY 340 STATISTICS II (this course may be taken immediately after the completion of PSY 240 STATISTICS I)
- PSY 342 RESEARCH METHODS III
- PSY 343 INTRODUCTION TO PSYCHOLOGICAL MEASUREMENT
- PSY 360 THEORIES OF LEARNING AND COGNITION
- PSY 377 PHYSIOLOGICAL PSYCHOLOGY
- Three additional psychology electives from the following list: should be chosen from the following:
  - PSY 348 SOCIAL COGNITION AND MENTAL CONTROL
  - PSY 353 ABNORMAL PSYCHOLOGY
  - PSY 363 ALCOHOLISM, DRUG ADDICTION AND RECOVERY
  - PSY 364 HEALTH PSYCHOLOGY AND STRESS MANAGEMENT
  - PSY 373 HAPPINESS, JUDGMENT AND DECISION MAKING
- Eight general (open) electives
- BIO 191 GENERAL BIOLOGY I FOR SCIENCE MAJORS
- BIO 192 GENERAL BIOLOGY II FOR SCIENCE MAJORS
- BIO 193 GENERAL BIOLOGY III FOR SCIENCE MAJORS (required for higher level BIO).
- Three additional major level BIO courses chosen in consultation with faculty advisor.

* PSY 377 is a prerequisite to some BIO courses so it is recommended that this course be taken after the completion of the PSY core. MAT 130 is a prerequisite for BIO 191.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.
Psychology (BS)/Secondary Education Social Science (MEd)

The TEACH Program combines a Science and Health major (Psychology) or Liberal Arts and Social Sciences (LAS) undergraduate Social Science major (Anthropology, Economics, Geography, History, Political Science, or Sociology) with a graduate level College of Education (COE) Master’s in Education Program. Students graduate with a BA or BS in their disciplinary major and a MEd in Education with State of Illinois Secondary Social Science licensure.

Students may apply to the Program during the spring of their junior year. They must enroll in the Junior Year Experiential Learning course, TCH 320, and meet other application criteria; these include completion of at least 16 quarter credit hours at DePaul and a 3.0 GPA. During their senior year, students are required to complete a Program capstone course, TCH 390, and three 400-level courses that count toward both their undergraduate and graduate degrees:

- TCH 401 TEACHING AS A PROFESSION IN SECONDARY SCHOOL
- TCH 412 THE NATURE OF HISTORY AND THE SOCIAL SCIENCES
- TCH 422 INQUIRY & APPLICATION IN DEVELOPING SECONDARY HISTORY AND SOCIAL SCIENCES PEDAGOGY

Social Science Content Area (grades of C or better required for licensure):
The following Social Science content area requirements are required. These can be taken as part of the major, liberal studies or open elective requirements:

- HST 298 INTRODUCTION TO HISTORICAL SOURCES AND METHODS
- HST 299 CRAFT OF HISTORY
- 3 United States History courses
- 2 Non-United States History courses
- 6 from the psychology major
- Additional licensure requirements: (one course in each area required)
  - Geography (GEO 101 recommended)
  - Economics (ECO 101 recommended)
  - Political Science (PSC 120 recommended)
  - Sociology (SOC 101 recommended)
  - Anthropology (ANT 102 recommended)

The Master’s year comprises teacher-preparation coursework that culminates with student teaching during Spring quarter. Upon graduation and the fulfilling of State of Illinois licensure requirements (which may require some additional coursework in the student’s major and related fields), students are eligible to be licensed to teach Social Sciences at the 6th-12th grade levels.

A full description of the Program can be found on the College of Education website in the graduate course catalog. Students interested in the Program should consult with the designated TEACH Program advisor in their home department.

Psychology (Minor)

For students who are majoring in another department, the Psychology Department offers three minors, each requiring six courses overall in Psychology.

The Experimental Psychology minor will give you a foundation in psychology and the process of applying experimental methods to study behavior.

The Industrial Organizational Psychology minor allows you to explore the behaviors that contribute to a successful or problematic work environment. This minor complements a major course of study tied closely with businesses.

The Applied Psychology minor allows you to study the application of psychological theories to other areas of research including health care, education and sports. This minor can be tailored to complement your major course of study.

Course Requirements
For students who are majoring in another department, the Psychology Department offers three minors, each requiring six courses overall in Psychology.

Experimental

- PSY 105 INTRODUCTORY PSYCHOLOGY I
- PSY 106 INTRODUCTORY PSYCHOLOGY II
- At least two Experimental/Biological foundations courses from the following list:
  - PSY 360 THEORIES OF LEARNING AND COGNITION
  - PSY 373 HAPPINESS, JUDGMENT AND DECISION MAKING
  - PSY 377 PHYSIOLOGICAL PSYCHOLOGY
- Two PSY electives. It is recommended that all classes be major level (317 and above).

Industrial Organizational

- PSY 105 INTRODUCTORY PSYCHOLOGY I
- PSY 106 INTRODUCTORY PSYCHOLOGY II
- PSY 380 INDUSTRIAL AND ORGANIZATIONAL PSYCHOLOGY
- One course from the following list:
  - PSY 355 GROUPS AND ORGANIZATIONS
  - PSY 381 PERSONNEL PSYCHOLOGY
  - PSY 382 ORGANIZATIONAL BEHAVIOR
  - PSY 385 TRAINING AND DEVELOPMENT IN ORGANIZATIONS
  - PSY 388 TOPICAL SEMINAR IN INDUSTRIAL - ORGANIZATIONAL PSYCHOLOGY
- Two PSY electives. It is recommended that all classes be major level (317 and above).

Applied Psychology

- PSY 105 INTRODUCTORY PSYCHOLOGY I
- PSY 106 INTRODUCTORY PSYCHOLOGY II
- At least two courses from the following list:
  - PSY 317 PSYCHOLOGY OF INTERPERSONAL RELATIONSHIP
  - PSY 345 CULTURAL ISSUES IN PSYCHOLOGY
  - PSY 347 SOCIAL PSYCHOLOGY
  - PSY 348 SOCIAL COGNITION AND MENTAL CONTROL
  - PSY 353 ABNORMAL PSYCHOLOGY
  - PSY 363 ALCOHOLISM, DRUG ADDICTION AND RECOVERY
  - PSY 364 HEALTH PSYCHOLOGY AND STRESS MANAGEMENT
  - PSY 366 BEHAVIOR PROBLEMS OF CHILDREN
- Two PSY electives. It is recommended that all classes be major level (317 and above).

Students cannot earn a minor in the same academic program as their major.

Public Policy (BA)

Public Policy Studies is a discipline that explores the role and impact of decision-making by governments. The discipline includes knowledge of both process and substance of a particular policy area. Thus, a student in public policy must have both generalist and specialist skills to apply to a particular public problem. In terms of political process, the study of public policy examines questions of how public policy is formulated, implemented, and evaluated over time. It also explores notions of agenda-setting and framing of issues that lead to a problem gaining the attention of the government. Public policy specialists and analysts are hired by all levels of government. During the past several years in addition to the government sector, the nonprofit and private sectors have sought public policy analysts for employment. Therefore, the curriculum prepares students for being public policy specialists in both the private and nonprofit sectors in addition to the public sector. The curriculum also is tailored to prepare students who would like to continue their education in graduate programs or law schools. The faculty members of the department work closely with students to place them in internships, and when possible, employment positions.

The Public Policy Studies Department (PPS) offers an undergraduate degree (B.A.) that allows majors the option to pursue concentrated work in the areas of Environmental or Urban Studies. Students take a common core of courses dealing with public policy theories, processes, methods of public policy analysis, and important environmental and urban policy issues. In addition, a data analysis course is required that the student selects from a list of approved courses. Microeconomics or statistics is strongly encouraged.

Beyond the core curriculum, students choose either the Environmental Studies or Urban Studies track, selecting from a group of courses within these specializations. A capstone course reconvenes the students at the end of their curriculum to study a public policy problem in-depth under the direction of a public policy professor. The capstone changes approximately every three years, to reflect a current issue on the public policy agenda.

A required orientation occurs before classes begin in the Autumn quarter where students are assigned an advisor for individual attention to the student’s career path.

DePaul University
Winter/Spring/Summer 2013-2014
College Core Requirements

Study in the Major Field

The student's course of study in the College consists of three parts: Liberal Studies, the major field, and electives. Together these three parts contribute to the liberal education of the student which is the common purpose of all study in the College. By "liberal education" the College understands not only a deep and thorough knowledge of a particular area of study but a knowledge of the diverse areas of study represented by criticism, history, the arts, the behavioral and social sciences, philosophy, religious studies, the natural science, and mathematics.

The major field program generally is built upon a set of core courses and a specialized "concentration." The number of courses required for a major varies by department. Most students go beyond the minimum requirements, electing additional courses which both broaden and deepen their understanding of their chosen discipline.

Because no academic major program is built in isolation, students are required to pursue a number of electives of the student's choice. The inherent flexibility of this curriculum demands that the student consult an academic advisor at each stage in the total program and at least once prior to each registration.

Students will be prompted to visit the College Office for their official graduation check early in their senior year.

Declaration of Major, Minor and Concentration

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor in the major field department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

Students must declare or change majors, minors, and concentrations, via Campus Connection. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the Office for Academic Advising Support.

Competence in Modern Language

All students will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language (i.e., a language other than English) equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in the fourth-year high school sequence of any language
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations or achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language, or achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program, or achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College will abide by this Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT, regardless of when they first matriculated at DePaul.

Students who have met the Modern Language Requirement and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program (see "Special Programs").

External Credit and Residency

A student who has been admitted to the College begins residency within the college as of the first day of classes of the term in which the student is registered. Students in residence, whether attending on a full-time or part-time basis, may not take courses away from DePaul University without the written permission of the college.
Permission must be obtained in advance of registration to avoid loss of credit or residency in the college; see the LAS website for more information.

Public Policy Studies (Minor)

The Public Policy minor is designed to help you learn the foundations of basic policy theory and research methods, as well as how to develop and analyze public policies and understand how they integrate with your major course of study.

Course Requirements

- PPS 201 PUBLIC POLICY AND URBAN ISSUES
  - or PPS 202 PUBLIC POLICY AND ENVIRONMENTAL ISSUES
- PPS 206 QUANTITATIVE PUBLIC POLICY ANALYSIS
- Four additional courses from the list of courses approved for PPS which must be at the 300-level and cannot include the capstone course.

Students must meet with the PPS Department chairperson to complete a curriculum guide for completion of the minor.

Students majoring in Public Policy Studies (BA) are restricted from earning this minor.
Public Relations and Advertising (BA)

The College of Communication offers a variety of courses leading to a Bachelor of Arts degree in Public Relations and Advertising. The program examines theories and practices in the related fields of public relations and advertising, and considers advertising and public relations processes, products and effects from cultural, ethical, organizational, historical, creative and methodological perspectives. Students in Public Relations and Advertising studies learn to think critically and analytically, to develop ideas clearly, and to speak and write effectively. Within the broad context of human communication and the liberal arts, students explore the relationship of public relations and advertising activities to other aspects of human endeavor. Graduates are prepared for entry level positions within the public and private sectors, or for continuing their education in academic or professional graduate programs.

College Core Requirements

All majors in the College of Communication consist of a total of thirteen courses. All majors complete a three-course common core and a combination of ten program requirements and electives.

Course Requirements

Three core courses are required of all College of Communication Studies students:

- CMN 101 INTRODUCTION TO HUMAN COMMUNICATION
- CMN 102 INTRODUCTION TO MASS COMMUNICATION
- CMN 103 INTERCULTURAL COMMUNICATION

Students are encouraged to complete all three prior to taking additional coursework in the major.

Modern Language Requirement

Students who intend to graduate with a Bachelor of Arts degree in the College of Communication will be required to demonstrate a measure of competence in a modern language, as defined by the college. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in a second year high school course work in a modern language or Latin
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language (must be completed during high school)
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination. (Note that CLEP scores may be used only to meet the language requirement. Credit is not awarded in modern languages on the basis of CLEP scores).
Students with some modern language training should consult with the Modern Language Department about the course with which they should begin. Students with little or no previous work in the language will be required to complete the entire three-course introductory sequence.

Unrestricted Electives

Students complete the Bachelors degree by taking an additional 56 quarter hours selected from any course offered by DePaul University.

Religious Dimensions (RD)
- 2 Courses Required

Understanding the Past (UP)
- 2 Courses Required

* Students must earn a C- or better in this course.

Note
Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy
Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.

Major Requirements

PRAD Capstone

Beginning in Winter 2013, there will be a new Capstone course for PRAD majors: PRAD 396. During the transition period from Winter 2013 up through and including Fall 2014, all PRAD majors will have the option to take PRAD 396 or CMN 396 to fulfill their Liberal Studies Capstone requirement. Beginning Winter 2014, all PRAD majors will be required to take PRAD 396 to fulfill graduation requirements.

PRAD 396 is open only to PRAD majors with senior standing (132 credit hours). Double majors who are completing the PRAD major may select either PRAD 396 or CMN 396, but not both.

Internship Credit

Students in the major may take CMN 394 or CMN 395 (when placement relates to the major) for credit. In order to take CMN 394 or CMN 395, students must have completed the three communication core courses (CMN 101, CMN 102, and CMN 103) and have fulfilled internship program eligibility requirements.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.
Combined Bachelor's/Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

The following Communication graduate programs have been approved as combined degree options:

- Health Communication (MA)
- Journalism (MA)
- Media Cinema Studies (MA)
- Organizational and Multicultural Communication (MA)
- Relational Communication (MA)

Health Communication (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in their major courses, have a 3.0 cumulative GPA, and have successfully completed three 300-level courses in their major are eligible to apply to the program.

Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by April 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, answers to essay questions, writing sample (research paper), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Health Communication coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take the HTHC core courses (HTHC 515, HTHC 516, HTHC 517) during the senior year. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Students can defer their graduate admission for one year. If students do not matriculate after completing their B.A. degrees or within the one year deferral period, the graduate courses taken as undergraduate students will no longer count towards the graduate degree and students must reapply for admission to the graduate program.

Journalism (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.25 GPA in Communication courses and 3.0 cumulative GPA are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by April 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, Statement of Purpose (750 words) explaining why the student is seeking admission to the program, writing sample or project that demonstrates the applicant's ability in journalism, and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Journalism coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Students can defer their graduate admission for one year. If students do not matriculate after completing their B.A. degrees or within the one year deferral period, the graduate courses taken as undergraduate students will no longer count towards the graduate degree and students must reapply for admission to the graduate program.

Media Cinema Studies (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in Communication courses, have 3.0 cumulative GPA, and have successfully completed CMN 101, CMN 102 and CMN 103 are eligible to apply to the program.

Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by April 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, Statement of Purpose (750 words) explaining why the student is seeking admission to the program, writing sample (research paper that demonstrates the applicant's ability to synthesize and analyze scholarly work), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Media and Cinema Studies coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take two of the MCS core courses (MCS 501, MCS 502, MCS 504) and one MCS elective. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Students can defer their graduate admission for one year. If students do not matriculate after completing their B.A. degrees or within the one year deferral period, the graduate courses taken as undergraduate students will no longer count towards the graduate degree and students must reapply for admission to the graduate program.

Organizational and Multicultural Communication (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in Communication courses, have 3.0 cumulative GPA, have successfully completed CMN 101, CMN 102 and CMN 103 and three 300-level Communication courses are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by April 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, answers to essay questions, writing sample (research paper), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Communication coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Students can defer their graduate admission for one year. If students do not matriculate after completing their B.A. degrees or within the one year deferral period, the graduate courses taken as undergraduate students will no longer count towards the graduate degree and students must reapply for admission to the graduate program.

Relational Communication (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in Communication courses, have 3.0 cumulative GPA, and have successfully completed CMN 101, CMN 102 and CMN 103 are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by April 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, Statement of Purpose (750 words) explaining why the student is seeking admission to the program, writing sample (research paper that demonstrates the applicant's ability to synthesize and analyze scholarly work), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Relational Communication coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives during the senior year. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Students can defer their graduate admission for one year. If students do not matriculate after completing their B.A. degrees or within the one year deferral period, the graduate courses taken as undergraduate students will no longer count towards the graduate degree and students must reapply for admission to the graduate program.

Real Estate (BSB)

The undergraduate division of the Department of Real Estate provides a curriculum which enables all students in the Driehaus College of Business to work and excel in the real estate community at the local and national levels, and to adapt to future changes in the industry. It provides a strong foundation for students with career goals in real estate as the demand for qualified professionals in all areas of the industry continues to escalate with changing economic factors that drive the real estate market. Competence in real estate today, and the future, requires an understanding of a wide variety of professional disciplines and their interactions. As a result, the program reaches across academic boundaries of departments and colleges to provide a truly interdisciplinary degree housed within the college. The DePaul real estate major requires finance and real estate law courses, and provides choices in economics, architecture history, public service management, geography, sociology, history and anthropology.

Students who complete the program will:

- Develop a comprehensive body of knowledge that will strengthen financial and analytical skills, including risk analysis, portfolio construction and management, cash flow analysis, and investment strategy
- Understand the organizational structure of financial institutions and the impact of capital markets on real estate
- Understand the basic laws and regulations governing land use and real estate decisions
- Be able to clearly articulate a site development strategy to all parties and agencies
- Understand the historical development of real estate and its impact on present and future development patterns

- Understand how architectural and urban history provide insights into real estate analysis and valuation

Employment opportunities exist everywhere across the spectrum: ownership, brokerage, appraisal, design, insurance, inspection, leasing, management, and construction are a few. Property sectors include office, industrial, multi-family, retail, and hospitality and entertainment. Expanding the definition of real estate to consider the financial services side of real estate yields an additional list of career opportunities (mortgage lenders, mortgage brokers, underwriters, services, researchers, and others). The Real Estate Center assists students in finding employment in many of these diverse areas and industries in the associated supporting professions.

Degree Conferral Requirements

All Real Estate (RE) courses and any courses used toward the Real Estate minor must be completed with a minimum grade of C- and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.

---

Relational Communication (BA)

The B.A. in Relational Communication provides students with a research-based understanding of communication in close relationships. The program, through a blend of theory and practice, helps students identify, analyze and meet the challenges of communicating effectively among individuals in both personal and professional relationships. Students will acquire the knowledge and skills necessary to initiate, develop, maintain, and competently dissolve relationships in an ethical manner.

The curriculum is both deep and broad, enabling students to gain practical expertise in their area of interest while gaining a working knowledge of related areas. Students learn to express themselves well in oral and written communications, to think critically about communication events all around them, to develop skills valuable in the workplace, and to communicate effectively in a diverse world.

If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.

Major Requirements

Course Requirements

Relational Communication majors must complete the three core courses required of all College of Communication students. In addition, they must take one required course and choose seven classes from among the Relational Communication course offerings. Relational Communication majors must also take any two electives within the College of Communication. All Relational Communication majors must complete a total of 13 classes, or 52 credit hours.

- RELC 211 INTERPERSONAL COMMUNICATION
- An additional seven courses from the list of offerings below.
  - CMN 394 ADVANCED COMMUNICATION INTERNSHIP
  - CMN 395 COMMUNICATION INTERNSHIP SPECIAL TOPICS
  - CMNS 291 RESEARCH METHODS
  - CMNS 315 HEALTH COMMUNICATION
  - INTC 330 TOPICS IN PERFORMANCE
  - INTC 361 GENDER AND COMMUNICATION
  - ORGC 201 BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL COMMUNICATION
  - ORGC 212 SMALL GROUP COMMUNICATION
  - ORGC 354 EMPLOYMENT INTERVIEWING
  - ORGC 355 CONFLICT MANAGEMENT
  - RELC 290 COMMUNICATION WORKSHOP (VARIABLE TOPICS)
  - RELC 311 TOPICS IN RELATIONAL COMMUNICATION
  - RELC 312 EVOLUTION AND COMMUNICATION
Internship Credit

Students in the major may take CMN 394 or CMN 395 (when placement relates to the major) for credit. In order to take CMN 394, or CMN 395, students must have completed the three communication core courses (CMN 101, CMN 102, CMN 103), one required course (RELC 211) and have fulfilled internship program eligibility requirements.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

College Core Requirements

All majors in the College of Communication consist of a total of thirteen courses. All majors complete a three-course common core and a combination of ten program requirements and electives.

Course Requirements

Three core courses are required of all College of Communication Studies students:

- CMN 101 INTRODUCTION TO HUMAN COMMUNICATION
- CMN 102 INTRODUCTION TO MASS COMMUNICATION
- CMN 103 INTERCULTURAL COMMUNICATION

Students are encouraged to complete all three prior to taking additional coursework in the major.

Modern Language Requirement

Students who intend to graduate with a Bachelor of Arts degree in the College of Communication will be required to demonstrate a measure of competence in a modern language, as defined by the college. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in a second year high school course work in a modern language or Latin
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language (must be completed during high school)
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination. (Note that CLEP scores may be used only to meet the language requirement. Credit is not awarded in modern languages on the basis of CLEP scores).

Students with some modern language training should consult with the Modern Language Department about the course with which they should begin. Students with little or no previous work in the language will be required to complete the entire three-course introductory sequence.
Unrestricted Electives

Students complete the Bachelors degree by taking an additional 56 quarter hours selected from any course offered by DePaul University.

Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

The following Communication graduate programs have been approved as combined degree options:

- Health Communication (MA)
- Journalism (MA)
- Media Cinema Studies (MA)
- Organizational and Multicultural Communication (MA)
- Relational Communication (MA)

Health Communication (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in their major courses, have a 3.0 cumulative GPA, and have successfully completed three 300-level courses in their major are eligible to apply to the program.

Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by April 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, answers to essay questions, writing sample (research paper), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Health Communication coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take the HTHC core courses (HTHC 515, HTHC 516, HTHC 517) during the senior year. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Students can defer their graduate admission for one year. If students do not matriculate after completing their B.A. degrees or within the one year deferral period, the graduate courses taken as undergraduate students will no longer count towards the graduate degree and students must reapply for admission to the graduate program.

Journalism (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.25 GPA in Communication courses and 3.0 cumulative GPA are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by April 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, Statement of Purpose (750 words) explaining why the student is seeking admission to the program, writing sample or project that demonstrates the applicant's ability in journalism, and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Journalism coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Students can defer their graduate admission for one year. If students do not matriculate after completing their B.A. degrees or within the one year deferral period, the graduate courses taken as undergraduate students will no longer count towards the graduate degree and students must reapply for admission to the graduate program.

Media Cinema Studies (MA)
Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in Communication courses, have 3.0 cumulative GPA, and have successfully completed CMN 101, CMN 102 and CMN 103 are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by April 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, Statement of Purpose (750 words) explaining why the student is seeking admission to the program, writing sample (research paper that demonstrates the applicant’s ability to synthesize and analyze scholarly work), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Media and Cinema Studies coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take two of the MCS core courses (MCS 501, MCS 502, MCS 504) and one MCS elective. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Students can defer their graduate admission for one year. If students do not matriculate after completing their B.A. degrees or within the one year deferral period, the graduate courses taken as undergraduate students will no longer count towards the graduate degree and students must reapply for admission to the graduate program.

Organizational and Multicultural Communication (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in Communication courses, have 3.0 cumulative GPA, have successfully completed CMN 101, CMN 102 and CMN 103 and three 300-level Communication courses are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by April 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, answers to essay questions, writing sample (research paper), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Communication coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Students can defer their graduate admission for one year. If students do not matriculate after completing their B.A. degrees or within the one year deferral period, the graduate courses taken as undergraduate students will no longer count towards the graduate degree and students must reapply for admission to the graduate program.

Relational Communication (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in Communication courses, have 3.0 cumulative GPA, and have successfully completed CMN 101, CMN 102 and CMN 103 are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by April 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, Statement of Purpose (750 words) explaining why the student is seeking admission to the program, writing sample (research paper that demonstrates the applicant’s ability to synthesize and analyze scholarly work), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Relational Communication coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives during the senior year. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Students can defer their graduate admission for one year. If students do not matriculate after completing their B.A. degrees or within the one year deferral period, the graduate courses taken as undergraduate students will no longer count towards the graduate degree and students must reapply for admission to the graduate program.

Religion: Specialized (Minor)

The Specialized minor in Religion is for students who wish to create a minor focused on a specific aspect of religious studies to complement his or her personal, major or career interests. These may include politics, culture, social systems and specific religious practices.

A student, in consultation with a departmental advisor, proposes a focused concentration of six Religious Studies courses that complement the student’s personal, major or career interests.

Students majoring in Religious Studies (BA) or minorin in Religious Studies, Women, Religion and Spirituality or Cultural Studies in Religion are restricted from earning this minor.
Religious Studies (BA)

The Department of Religious Studies offers students the opportunity to engage in the academic study of religion. Because our era is characterized by a resurgence of religion in the public sphere, we see that religion has become central to contemporary culture, politics, identity, and conflict in every part of the globe. At the same time, our world is marked by an emerging pluralism, as globalization, migration, and technology bring diverse religious communities in closer proximity, and create new religious communities as well. Drawing on a host of academic disciplines, religious studies challenges students to encounter the traditions of the world in all their rich diversity, and also prepares them to facilitate the important conversations of our day. Further, students may find that the study of religions can help them respond not only to political, social and environmental challenges, but also to existential questions faced by all peoples.

A truly interdisciplinary field, the study of religion at DePaul develops broad cultural literacy and intellectual skills in the critical analysis of history, anthropology, literature, philosophy, sociology, theology, the visual arts, psychology, and gender studies. In this way, a religious studies major or minor is positioned to pursue a wide variety of careers, as well as to become a bridge between the specialist's perspectives on religion and the wider world that is often in need of these perspectives. In addition to academic careers, religious studies majors have worked in the fields of law, social work, regional and international business, governmental and non-governmental service, secondary school teaching, and service in religious communities.

Religious Studies at DePaul expresses the university's distinct identity, which respects engaged pluralistic inquiry in all religious issues and traditions. The department is committed to DePaul's Catholic, Vincentian and urban heritage, mission, and identity, and to its goal of establishing the university as a model of diversity. The department's course offerings reflect the diversity of the city of Chicago and of the students who attend DePaul. In the Department of Religious Studies, students can not only study multiple religious traditions, but also explore a range of topics and questions related to these traditions in various parts of the world. Because of the interdisciplinary character of our department, and of the field in general, students can approach these traditions and questions from multiple methodological and disciplinary perspectives. The study of religion includes not only the traditional areas of sacred texts, myths, rituals, and doctrines, but also the ways in which political, social and economic forces shape these phenomena for religious communities.

College Core Requirements

Study in the Major Field

The student's course of study in the College consists of three parts: Liberal Studies, the major field, and electives. Together these three parts contribute to the liberal education of the student which is the common purpose of all study in the College. By "liberal education" the College understands not only a deep and thorough knowledge of a particular area of study but a knowledge of the diverse areas of study represented by criticism, history, the arts, the behavioral and social sciences, philosophy, religious studies, the natural science, and mathematics.

The major field program generally is built upon a set of core courses and a specialized "concentration." The number of courses required for a major varies by department. Most students go beyond the minimum requirements, electing additional courses which both broaden and deepen their understanding of their chosen discipline.

Because no academic major program is built in isolation, students are required to pursue a number of electives of the student's choice. The inherent flexibility of this curriculum demands that the student consult an academic advisor at each stage in the total program and at least once prior to each registration. Students will be prompted to visit the College Office for their official graduation check early in their senior year.
Declaration of Major, Minor and Concentration

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor in the major field department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

Students must declare or change majors, minors, and concentrations, via Campus Connection. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the the Office for Academic Advising Support.

Competence in Modern Language

All students will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language (i.e., a language other than English) equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in the fourth-year high school sequence of any language
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations or achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language, or achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program, or achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College will abide by this Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT, regardless of when they first matriculated at DePaul.

Students who have met the Modern Language Requirement and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program (see "Special Programs").

External Credit and Residency

A student who has been admitted to the College begins residency within the college as of the first day of classes of the term in which the student is registered. Students in residence, whether attending on a full-time or part-time basis, may not take courses away from DePaul University without the written permission of the college. Permission must be obtained in advance of registration to avoid loss of credit or residency in the college; see the LAS website for more information.

Scene Design (BFA)

The Theatre School's Bachelor of Fine Art (BFA) degree in Scenic Design is designed to give students the opportunity to explore and expand their artistic and visual expression and provides them the opportunity to practice their craft. The four-year curriculum in many ways simulates a scenic designer's professional experience and process. Designers learn to visualize and create the physical world of plays by collaborating with directors, dramaturgs, other designers and technicians and our professional scene shop staff who build the sets they design.

- Choose 1 course from the above learning domains as an elective

* Students must earn a C- or better in this course.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.

Secondary Education Biology (BS)

The Bachelor of Science program in Secondary Education Biology prepares students to teach 6th through 12th grade in a variety of urban and suburban education settings, including public and private middle schools and high schools.

Students learn educational theories and effective teaching practices, participate in field experiences, which require observation and participation in teaching activities at multiple schools, and student teaching. Students should meet early and regularly with their advisor to design and monitor their program of study.

The program combines theoretical principles of education and field work with the student's choice of major. Students follow a general pattern of study for middle school and high school levels. In all cases, appropriate field experience plays an integral role.

Students entering the program must be able and willing to devote themselves to a program requiring a minimum of 100 hours of daytime field experiences in schools. These school-based clinical hours are completed in conjunction with methodology courses that require students to spend a half-day each week in a school. In addition, the student must spend a minimum of 11 weeks in full-time student teaching.

Please make sure you consult the Liberal Studies Requirements, Major Requirements, and College Core Requirements for full degree requirements.

Licensure

Illinois Professional Educator License with endorsement in Secondary Education Science-Biology (grades 6-12), an Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) approved program.

- Demonstrates professional ethical and legal behavior as defined by the respective codes of ethics and laws
- Demonstrates consistent professional behavior across all academic settings
- Maintains appropriate interpersonal and professional boundaries
- Accepts personal responsibility for one's behavior
- Expresses feelings and opinions effectively and appropriately
- Upholds confidentiality

Skill Building Courses

Before taking any math or English courses, students must take the DePaul placement tests to determine if skill level is at the college level. If placement indicates skill level in these courses, the courses become part of degree requirements. Consult with your advisor regarding placement test results and any required classes.

Advanced Standing

Students are conditionally admitted to the College of Education. There are additional requirements to reach Advanced Standing in your program in the College of Education. Requirements must be met to progress in the major and take courses in the Advanced Standing category.

Advanced Standing requirements are:

- Maintain a DePaul undergraduate 2.5 GPA
- Pass the Illinois Test of Academic Proficiency (TAP)
- Submit a petition for advanced standing form

Students should attempt to complete the Advanced Standing requirements soon after beginning the program. There is no time limit to meet these criteria; however, students will only be able to take pre-education courses
Modern Language Competence Requirement

Students pursuing a Bachelor of Arts degree in the College of Education will be required to demonstrate a measure of competence in a modern language, as defined by the college. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing two years of a language sequence in high school
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

Please note: The Modern Language Competence Requirement is not required for students in the Early Childhood Education: SNL Joint Program (BAECE) program.

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Education will abide by the COE Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.

B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program. While B.S. students are not required to demonstrate competency in a modern language, the "Modern Language Option" is available to them for language study at any level.

Licensure Tests

All individuals licensed by the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) are required to complete licensure tests specific to their teaching license.

Field Experiences

Each student seeking licensure from the College of Education/Professional Education Unit must complete supervised field experiences in appropriate settings in conjunction with education courses. The field experiences must include a variety of grade levels, multicultural experiences, and a minimum of 10 hours in special education settings. All field experiences must be completed prior to final approval for student teaching. Field experience hours should be entered by the student into the FEDS system when completing courses with field experience requirements.

Endorsements

An endorsement is a subject area that you can qualify to teach full time, in addition to your main licensure area. Endorsements are issued at three levels: primary, middle school, and high school.

The Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) issues endorsements in various subject areas. To view the full list and requirements, visit the ISBE website.

Qualifying for an endorsement at the middle school level requires 18 semester hours (27 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area and complete SCU 339. Some areas (like math) have specifically required courses or require additional hours. Courses must have a grade of C or better to qualify for endorsements and must be earned credit listed on a college transcript as earned credit.

Consult with your advisor regarding endorsements. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following middle school areas: Arabic, art, bilingual education, biological science, Chinese, ESL, French, general science, German, Italian, Japanese, language arts, math, physical science, social science, and Spanish.

In general, endorsement requirements for the primary level are identical to the middle school requirements except that they do not require SCU 339. There are a limited number of areas available at the primary level.

Qualifying for most endorsements at the high school level requires 24 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area* and passing the relevant content area test. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following high school areas: art, Arabic, Chinese, English, French, German, Italian, Japanese, math, Russian, science, social science, and Spanish.

* Exceptions to the basic requirements for high school level endorsements include the subject areas of foreign language, science, and social science.

 For science and social science, 32 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in the broad area of either science or social science, and 12 semester hours in the specific endorsement designation area, plus the content area test are required. To qualify for additional science and social science designations, individuals applying after February 1, 2012 need both the content test and 12 semester hours in the additional designation area.

Special Education majors do not qualify for middle school endorsements.

Student Teaching Requirements

Student Teaching is the culminating clinical experience in the student's program. All students in teacher preparation programs must meet the following requirements before applying for student teaching:

Academic Requirements:

- Completion of all Liberal Studies, Pre-Education, Advanced Standing and concentration/content area courses
- Overall cumulative G.P.A. of 2.50 or better
- Cumulative G.P.A. of 2.75 or better in all education courses
- Meet all other program requirements (e.g., modern language and residency requirements)
- Meet designated program standards
- Pass the required Illinois licensure content area test

Clinical Requirements:

- Completion of all required field experiences
- Three satisfactory evaluations in field experiences
- Three satisfactory faculty recommendations
- Attendance at mandatory meeting for student teaching
- Application for student teaching, resume, transcripts, and writing sample (check deadlines)
- Review and approval by Student Teaching Committee of the College of Education

Student Teaching Timeline and Deadlines:

- Attend a Mandatory Meeting approximately 1 year prior to expected quarter of student teaching.
- Submit application for student teaching after attending Mandatory Meeting, approximately 1 year prior to student teaching.
- Academic requirements are due one quarter before expected quarter of student teaching.
- Clinical requirements are completed as course requirements. Field experience hours are entered by the student as coursework is completed.

Online Faculty Evaluations are entered by the instructor of relevant courses. All data must be entered in the Field Experience Documentation System (FEDS) due one month prior to student teaching.

Individual child care agencies and public and private school districts may have additional requirements (application, training, background check, etc.).

Degree Conferral and Graduation

The awarding of a degree is not automatic. You must submit an application to be considered for the degree. DePaul awards and posts degrees at the end of each regular academic term (autumn, winter, spring, summer I and summer II).

It is your responsibility to initiate the degree conferral application process by submitting an online application. Submitting an application means you intend to finish your degree requirements by the end of the term for which you have applied.

Undergraduate students must be approved for student teaching and complete student teaching and capstone to be cleared for the degree. Student must submit graduation application for the quarter that matches the quarter you are student teaching.

After you submit the application, you cannot register for any term after the one selected in the application.
Application deadlines are as follows:
Fall Quarter - October 1st
Winter Quarter - January 15th
Spring Quarter - February 1st
Summer Quarter - July 15th

To apply for degree conferral, log on to Campus Connection. Select STUDENT CENTER, then MY ACADEMICS. On screen instructions will take you through the application process.

Provided that all requirements and financial obligations are met, degrees are posted 30 days after the official end of the term. Official dates are listed on the Academic Calendar.

DePaul holds one commencement ceremony each year in June. If you intend to participate, you must first apply for degree conferral for the current academic year and then submit a cap and gown order. Honors are not announced at the ceremony for undergraduates completing their final courses in spring quarter because a final GPA is not available at the time of the ceremony.

Additional information about degree conferral and graduation can be found on the College of Education website at: http://education.depaul.edu/.

Licensure

Requirements for licensure include completion of full bachelor's degree program, all licensure tests (including OPI for world language majors), and awarding of bachelor's degree. A bachelor's degree is required to qualify for licensure and must be awarded before applying for the license.

Individuals must submit an application directly to the Illinois State Board of Education after completion of requirements and after DePaul has submitted notification to ISBE. Application requirements include application form, application fee, official transcripts, and registration fee.

All individuals must meet ISBE requirements in place at the time of application for the license. Requirements are subject to change per the discretion of ISBE.

Individuals seeking additional endorsements after applying for the licensure must contact ISBE directly for an evaluation request.

Liberal Studies Requirements

Honors program requirements can be found in the individual Colleges & Schools section of the University Catalog. Select Academics, followed by Undergraduate, then Honors Program Alternative.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.
Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.

Major Requirements

Course Requirements

Content Area Courses

Biology Core: 28 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

- BIO 191 GENERAL BIOLOGY I FOR SCIENCE MAJORS
- BIO 192 GENERAL BIOLOGY II FOR SCIENCE MAJORS
- BIO 193 GENERAL BIOLOGY III FOR SCIENCE MAJORS
- BIO 215 ECOLOGY
- BIO 250 CELL BIOLOGY
- BIO 260 GENETICS
- BIO 309 PLANT PHYSIOLOGY
  or BIO 310 VERTEBRATE PHYSIOLOGY

Biology Electives: 12 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

Biology electives cannot include courses designated as scientific inquiry. A minimum of 2 lab courses are required.

- BIO elective course
- BIO elective course with lab
- BIO elective course with lab

Mathematics Core: 8 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

- Choose one of the following:
  - MAT 130 PRECALCULUS
  - MAT 147 CALCULUS WITH INTEGRATED PRECALCULUS I
  - MAT 150 CALCULUS I
  - MAT 160 CALCULUS FOR MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE MAJORS I
  - MAT 170 CALCULUS I WITH SCIENTIFIC APPLICATIONS
- Choose one of the following:
  - MAT 131 TRIGONOMETRY
  - MAT 148 CALCULUS WITH INTEGRATED PRECALCULUS II
  - MAT 151 CALCULUS II
  - MAT 161 CALCULUS FOR MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE MAJORS II
  - MAT 171 CALCULUS II WITH SCIENTIFIC APPLICATIONS

  or PHY 152 GENERAL PHYSICS III

Pre-Education Introductory Courses: 20 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

- SCU 207 SOCIAL AND HISTORICAL ISSUES IN EDUCATION
- SEC 364 METHODS: CURRICULUM AND INSTRUCTION IN SECONDARY SCHOOLS (4 credit hours)
- SEC 314 THE NATURE OF SCIENCE
- SEC 324 INQUIRY & APPLICATION IN DEVELOPING SECONDARY SCIENCE PEDAGOGY
- SCU 336 ADOLESCENT AND ADULT GROWTH AND DEVELOPMENT
  or SCU 337 HUMAN GROWTH AND DEVELOPMENT

Advanced Standing Education Courses: 28 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

- LSI 346 STRATEGIES FOR MAINSTREAMING AND INCLUSION
- SEC 325 LITERACY IN THE CONTENT AREAS
- SEC 374 TEACHING THE SCIENCES IN THE HIGH SCHOOL 1
- SEC 385 TEACHING THE SCIENCES IN THE HIGH SCHOOL 2
- SCU 351 DOING CRITICAL PRACTITIONER RESEARCH IN EDUCATION (Spans over two quarters, has a mandatory field experience component and taken in conjunction with SEC 374 and SEC 385)
- SEC 395 ASSESSMENT ISSUES IN SECONDARY EDUCATION
- BBE 301 TEACHING ADOLESCENT ENGLISH LANGUAGE LEARNERS AND DIALECT SPEAKERS ACROSS THE CURRICULUM

Student Teaching: 10 quarter hours required, grade of B- or better required

Registration in student teaching requires completion of all requirements and procedures in the college core section. EDU 095 indicates to the Illinois State Board of Education that all field experience hours are complete. All students also take SEC 387, Capstone Seminar with student teaching (listed in the Liberal Studies section).

- SEC 390 SECONDARY STUDENT TEACHING (10 credit hours)
- EDU 095 CLINICAL EXPERIENCE WITH CHILDREN AND YOUTH (non-credit, non-tuition, PA grade required)

Licensure Tests

All individuals licensed by the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) are required to complete licensure tests specific to their teaching license. Secondary Education Biology majors must complete the following tests:

- Test of Academic Proficiency (TAP) (test #400) - assesses knowledge of reading comprehension, language arts, writing, and math. Test is required to qualify for Advanced Standing. *Check with your advisor about qualifying for a waiver with acceptable ACT or SAT test scores.
- Science: Biology Content Area Test (test #105) – assesses knowledge of both biological science and physical science. Test is required before Student Teaching (deadlines apply)
- Assessment of Professional Teaching (APT) (test #103, grade 6-12) – assesses knowledge of teaching planning, delivery, assessment, professionalism, and technology. Test is required to be licensed; recommended to be taken before Student Teaching.
Secondary Education Chemistry (BS)

The Bachelor of Science program in Secondary Education Chemistry prepares students to teach 6th through 12th grade in a variety of urban and suburban education settings, including public and private middle schools and high schools.

Students learn educational theories and effective teaching practices, participate in field experiences, which require observation and participation in teaching activities at multiple schools, and student teaching. Students should meet early and regularly with their advisor to design and monitor their program of study.

The program combines theoretical principles of education and field work with the student's choice of major. Students follow a general pattern of study for middle school and high school levels. In all cases, appropriate field experience plays an integral role.

Students entering the program must be able and willing to devote themselves to a program requiring a minimum of 100 hours of daytime field experiences in schools. These school-based clinical hours are completed in conjunction with methodology courses that require students to spend a half-day each week in a school. In addition, the student must spend a minimum of 11 weeks in full-time student teaching.

Please make sure you consult the Liberal Studies Requirements, Major Requirements, and College Core Requirements for full degree requirements.

College Core Requirements

Dispositions

The academic programs within the College of Education have set forth these dispositions as educational and professional expectations for all students. Students should be aware that failing to abide by DePaul University or College of Education policies including, under certain circumstances, these dispositions, could result in adverse consequences for the student, including removal from his or her program, the College of Education, or the University.

The following dispositions apply to Early Childhood Education, Elementary Education, Physical Education, Secondary Education, and World Language Education majors only:

- Reflects on progress and identifies strengths and weaknesses, including evaluating strategies for success, finding alternatives for inappropriate strategies, and modifying future practices
- Is receptive to faculty feedback and acts meaningfully and professionally upon suggestions
- Values critical thinking, including engaging theoretical and philosophical frameworks and shows evidence of critical thinking through discussion and writing (e.g., journals, response to prompts)
- Understands the importance of and is committed to communicating clearly orally and in writing both in traditional and in new and emerging digital formats
- Values and is committed to continually developing strong content area knowledge and/or knowledge of the professional field, including pedagogical content knowledge
- Takes initiative, uses imagination and creativity, and seeks out information using a variety of human and material resources and technology to inform his or her teaching
- Is aware of the role of classroom environment and uses management procedures that reflect respect and care for learners and concern for their emotional and physical well being
• Takes the time and effort needed to understand how students learn, including discovering their interests and experiences and determining how to shape teaching acts (using technology as appropriate) that engage learners meaningfully and actively
• Values and is committed to using assessment to evaluate and ensure the continuous intellectual, social, emotional, and physical development of the learner
• Respects and considers cultural contexts in order to determine how to be responsive to learners and to proactively promote all students' learning
• Values and is responsive to diverse learners' academic, emotional, and social needs through teaching acts (including careful instructional planning, implementation, and differentiation) and through everyday interactions with students
• Is committed to collaboration with colleagues, families, and communities in order to promote all students' learning and development
• Recognizes and fulfills professional responsibilities and habits of conduct (e.g., dress, language, preparedness, attendance, punctuality, etc.)
• Demonstrates collegiality, honesty, good judgment, courtesy, respect, and diplomacy
• Balances self-confidence and assertiveness with respect for others' perspectives
• Respects the requirements, expectations, and procedures of both the College of Education and of our field partners and appreciates the issues of trust, fairness, and professionalism involved

The following dispositions apply to Special Education majors only:

• Is receptive to faculty feedback and acts meaningfully and professionally upon suggestions
• Reflects on his or her own progress, identifies strengths and weaknesses, and evaluates strategies for success and professional growth
• Takes initiative
• Is open to new ideas and engagement in learning
• Respects diversity and cultural contexts to determine how to be responsive to learners and to proactively promote all students' learning
• Expresses positive attitudes toward individuals with disabilities and a willingness to advocate on their behalf
• Is committed to collaboration with colleagues, families, and communities in order to promote all students' learning and development
• Demonstrates professional ethical and legal behavior as defined by the respective codes of ethics and laws
• Demonstrates consistent professional behavior across all academic settings
• Maintains appropriate interpersonal and professional boundaries
• Accepts personal responsibility for one's behavior
• Expresses feelings and opinions effectively and appropriately
• Upholds confidentiality

Skill Building Courses

Before taking any math or English courses, students must take the DePaul placement tests to determine if skill level is at the college level. If placement indicates skill level in these courses, the courses become part of degree requirements. Consult with your advisor regarding placement test results and any required classes.

Advanced Standing

Students are conditionally admitted to the College of Education. There are additional requirements to reach Advanced Standing in your program in the College of Education. Requirements must be met to progress in the major and take courses in the Advanced Standing category.

Advanced Standing requirements are:

- Maintain a DePaul undergraduate 2.5 GPA
- Pass the Illinois Test of Academic Proficiency (TAP)
- Submit a petition for advanced standing form

Students should attempt to complete the Advanced Standing requirements soon after beginning the program. There is no time limit to meet these criteria; however, students will only be able to take pre-education courses until requirements have been met. Students can also take liberal studies or content area courses before or after meeting Advanced Standing requirements.

Modern Language Competence Requirement

Students pursuing a Bachelor of Arts degree in the College of Education will be required to demonstrate a measure of competence in a modern language, as defined by the college. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing two years of a language sequence in high school
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
• completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
• achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
• achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
• achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language
• achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
• achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

Please note: The Modern Language Competence Requirement is not required for students in the Early Childhood Education: SNL Joint Program (BAECE) program.

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Education will abide by the COE Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.

B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program. While B.S. students are not required to demonstrate competency in a modern language, the "Modern Language Option" is available to them for language study at any level.

Licensure Tests

All individuals licensed by the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) are required to complete licensure tests specific to their teaching license.

Field Experiences

Each student seeking licensure from the College of Education/Professional Education Unit must complete supervised field experiences in appropriate settings in conjunction with education courses. The field experiences must include a variety of grade levels, multicultural experiences, and a minimum of 10 hours in special education settings. All field experiences must be completed prior to final approval for student teaching. Field experience hours should be entered by the student into the FEDS system when completing courses with field experience requirements.

Endorsements

An endorsement is a subject area that you can qualify to teach full time, in addition to your main licensure area. Endorsements are issued at three levels: primary, middle school, and high school.

The Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) issues endorsements in various subject areas. To view the full list and requirements, visit the ISBE website.

Qualifying for an endorsement at the middle school level requires 18 semester hours (27 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area and complete SCU 339. Some areas (like math) have specifically required courses or require additional hours. Courses must have a grade of C or better to qualify for endorsements and must be earned credit listed on a college transcript as earned credit.

Consult with your advisor regarding endorsements. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following middle school areas: Arabic, art, bilingual education, biological science, Chinese, ESL, French, general science, German, Italian, Japanese, language arts, math, physical science, social science, and Spanish.

In general, endorsement requirements for the primary level are identical to the middle school requirements except that they do not require SCU 339. There are a limited number of areas available at the primary level.

Qualifying for most endorsements at the high school level requires 24 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area* and passing the relevant content area test. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following high school areas: art, Arabic, Chinese, English, French, German, Italian, Japanese, math, Russian, science, social science, and Spanish.

* Exceptions to the basic requirements for high school level endorsements include the subject areas of foreign language, science, and social science.

For science and social science, 32 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in the broad area of either science or social science, and 12 semester hours in the specific endorsement designation area, plus the content area test are required. To qualify for additional science and social science designations, individuals applying after February 1, 2012 need both the content test and 12 semester hours in the additional designation area.
Special Education majors do not qualify for middle school endorsements.

- Science: Chemistry Content Area Test (test #106) – assesses knowledge of both geological and chemical science. Test is required before Student Teaching (deadlines apply)
- Assessment of Professional Teaching (APT) (test #103, grade 6-12) – assesses knowledge of teaching planning, delivery, assessment, professionalism, and technology. Test is required to be licensed; recommended to be taken before Student Teaching.

Secondary Education English (BA)

The Bachelor of Arts program in Secondary Education English prepares students to teach 6th through 12th grade in a variety of urban and suburban education settings, including public and private middle schools and high schools.

Students learn educational theories and effective teaching practices, participate in field experiences, which require observation and participation in teaching activities at multiple schools, and student teaching. Students should meet early and regularly with their advisor to design and monitor their program of study.

The program combines theoretical principles of education and field work with the student's choice of major. Students follow a general pattern of study for middle school and high school levels. In all cases, appropriate field experience plays an integral role.

Students entering the program must be able and willing to devote themselves to a program requiring a minimum of 100 hours of daytime field experiences in schools. These school-based clinical hours are completed in conjunction with methodology courses that require students to spend a half-day each week in a school. In addition, the student must spend a minimum of 11 weeks in full-time student teaching.

Please make sure you consult the Liberal Studies Requirements, Major Requirements, and College Core Requirements for full degree requirements.

Licensure

Illinois Professional Educator License with endorsement in Secondary Education English Language Arts (grades 6-12), an Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) approved program.

College Core Requirements

Dispositions

The academic programs within the College of Education have set forth these dispositions as educational and professional expectations for all students. Students should be aware that failing to abide by DePaul University or College of Education policies including, under certain circumstances, these dispositions, could result in adverse consequences for the student, including removal from his or her program, the College of Education, or the University.

The following dispositions apply to Early Childhood Education, Elementary Education, Physical Education, Secondary Education, and World Language Education majors only:

- Reflects on progress and identifies strengths and weaknesses, including evaluating strategies for success, finding alternatives for inappropriate strategies, and modifying future practices
- Is receptive to faculty feedback and acts meaningfully and professionally upon suggestions
- Values critical thinking, including engaging theoretical and philosophical frameworks and shows evidence of critical thinking through discussion and writing (e.g., journals, response to prompts)
- Understands the importance of and is committed to communicating clearly orally and in writing both in traditional and in new and emerging digital formats
- Values and is committed to continually developing strong content area knowledge and/or knowledge of the professional field, including pedagogical content knowledge
- Takes initiative, uses imagination and creativity, and seeks out information using a variety of human and material resources and technology to inform his or her teaching
- Is aware of the role of classroom environment and uses management procedures that reflect respect and care for learners and concern for their emotional and physical well-being
- Takes the time and effort needed to understand how students learn, including discovering their interests and experiences and determining how to shape teaching acts (using technology as appropriate) that engage learners meaningfully and actively
- Values and is committed to using assessment to evaluate and ensure the continuous intellectual, social, emotional, and physical development of the learner
- Respects and considers cultural contexts in order to determine how to be responsive to learners and to proactively promote all students' learning
- Values and is responsive to diverse learners' academic, emotional, and social needs through teaching acts (including careful instructional planning, implementation, and differentiation) and through everyday interactions with students
- Is committed to collaboration with colleagues, families, and communities in order to promote all students' learning and development
- Recognizes and fulfills professional responsibilities and habits of conduct (e.g., dress, language, preparedness, attendance, punctuality, etc.)
- Demonstrates collegiality, honesty, good judgment, courtesy, respect, and diplomacy
- Balances self-confidence and assertiveness with respect for others' perspectives
- Respects the requirements, expectations, and procedures of both the College of Education and of our field partners and appreciates the issues of trust, fairness, and professionalism involved

The following dispositions apply to Special Education majors only:

- Is receptive to faculty feedback and acts meaningfully and professionally upon suggestions
- Reflects on his or her own progress, identifies strengths and weaknesses, and evaluates strategies for success and professional growth
- Takes initiative
- Is open to new ideas and engagement in learning
- Respects diversity and cultural contexts to determine how to be responsive to learners and to proactively promote all students' learning
- Expresses positive attitudes toward individuals with disabilities and a willingness to advocate on their behalf
- Is committed to collaboration with colleagues, families, and communities in order to promote all students' learning and development
- Demonstrates professional ethical and legal behavior as defined by the respective codes of ethics and laws
- Demonstrates consistent professional behavior across all academic settings
- Maintains appropriate interpersonal and professional boundaries
- Accepts personal responsibility for one's behavior
- Expresses feelings and opinions effectively and appropriately
- Upholds confidentiality
Skill Building Courses

Before taking any math or English courses, students must take the DePaul placement tests to determine if skill level is at the college level. If placement indicates skill level in these courses, the courses become part of degree requirements. Consult with your advisor regarding placement test results and any required classes.

Advanced Standing

Students are conditionally admitted to the College of Education. There are additional requirements to reach Advanced Standing in your program in the College of Education. Requirements must be met to progress in the major and take courses in the Advanced Standing category.

Advanced Standing requirements are:

- Maintain a DePaul undergraduate 2.5 GPA
- Pass the Illinois Test of Academic Proficiency (TAP)
- Submit a petition for advanced standing form

Students should attempt to complete the Advanced Standing requirements soon after beginning the program. There is no time limit to meet these criteria; however, students will only be able to take pre-education courses until requirements have been met. Students can also take liberal studies or content area courses before or after meeting Advanced Standing requirements.

Modern Language Competence Requirement

Students pursuing a Bachelor of Arts degree in the College of Education will be required to demonstrate a measure of competence in a modern language, as defined by the college. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing two years of a language sequence in high school
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

Please note: The Modern Language Competence Requirement is not required for students in the Early Childhood Education: SNL Joint Program (BAECE) program.

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Education will abide by the COE Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.

B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program. While B.S. students are not required to demonstrate competency in a modern language, the "Modern Language Option" is available to them for language study at any level.

Licensure Tests

All individuals licensed by the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) are required to complete licensure tests specific to their teaching license.

Field Experiences

Each student seeking licensure from the College of Education/Professional Education Unit must complete supervised field experiences in appropriate settings in conjunction with education courses. The field experiences must include a variety of grade levels, multicultural experiences, and a minimum of 10 hours in special education settings. All field experiences must be completed prior to final approval for student teaching. Field experience hours should be entered by the student into the FEDS system when completing courses with field experience requirements.
Endorsements

An endorsement is a subject area that you can qualify to teach full time, in addition to your main licensure area. Endorsements are issued at three levels: primary, middle school, and high school.

The Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) issues endorsements in various subject areas. To view the full list and requirements, visit the ISBE website.

Qualifying for an endorsement at the middle school level requires 18 semester hours (27 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area and complete SCU 339. Some areas (like math) have specifically required courses or require additional hours. Courses must have a grade of C or better to qualify for endorsements and must be earned credit listed on a college transcript as earned credit.

Consult with your advisor regarding endorsements. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following middle school areas: Arabic, art, bilingual education, biological science, Chinese, ESL, French, general science, German, Italian, Japanese, language arts, math, physical science, social science, and Spanish.

In general, endorsement requirements for the primary level are identical to the middle school requirements except that they do not require SCU 339. There are a limited number of areas available at the primary level.

Qualifying for most endorsements at the high school level requires 24 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area* and passing the relevant content area test. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following high school areas: art, Arabic, Chinese, English, French, German, Italian, Japanese, math, Russian, science, social science, and Spanish.

* Exceptions to the basic requirements for high school level endorsements include the subject areas of foreign language, science, and social science.

For science and social science, 32 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in the broad area of either science or social science, and 12 semester hours in the specific endorsement designation area, plus the content area test are required. To qualify for additional science and social science designations, individuals applying after February 1, 2012 need both the content test and 12 semester hours in the additional designation area.

Special Education majors do not qualify for middle school endorsements.

Student Teaching Requirements

Student Teaching is the culminating clinical experience in the student’s program. All students in teacher preparation programs must meet the following requirements before applying for student teaching:

Academic Requirements:
- Completion of all Liberal Studies, Pre-Education, Advanced Standing and concentration/content area courses
- Overall cumulative G.P.A. of 2.50 or better
- Cumulative GPA of 2.75 or better in all education courses
- Meet all other program requirements (e.g., modern language and residency requirements)
- Meet designated program standards
- Pass the required Illinois licensure content area test

Clinical Requirements:
- Completion of all required field experiences
- Three satisfactory evaluations in field experiences
- Three satisfactory faculty recommendations
- Attendance at mandatory meeting for student teaching
- Application for student teaching, resume, transcripts, and writing sample (check deadlines)
- Review and approval by Student Teaching Committee of the College of Education

Student Teaching Timeline and Deadlines:
- Attend a Mandatory Meeting approximately 1 year prior to expected quarter of student teaching.
- Submit application for student teaching after attending Mandatory Meeting, approximately 1 year prior to student teaching.
- Academic requirements are due one quarter before expected quarter of student teaching.
- Clinical requirements are completed as coursework requirements. Field experience hours are entered by the student as coursework is completed.

Online Faculty Evaluations are entered by the instructor of relevant courses. All data must be entered in the Field Experience Documentation System (FEDS) due one month prior to student teaching.

Individual child care agencies and public and private school districts may have additional requirements (application, training, background check, etc.).

Degree Conferral and Graduation

The awarding of a degree is not automatic. You must submit an application to be considered for the degree. DePaul awards and posts degrees at the end of each regular academic term (autumn, winter, spring, summer I and summer II).

It is your responsibility to initiate the degree conferral application process by submitting an online application. Submitting an application means you intend to finish your degree requirements by the end of the term for which you have applied.

Undergraduate students must be approved for student teaching and complete student teaching and capstone to be cleared for the degree. Student must submit graduation application for the quarter that matches the quarter you are student teaching.

After you submit the application, you cannot register for any term after the one selected in the application.

Application deadlines are as follows:
Fall Quarter - October 1st
Winter Quarter - January 15th
Spring Quarter - February 1st
Summer Quarter - July 15th

To apply for degree conferral, log on to Campus Connection. Select STUDENT CENTER, then MY ACADEMICS. On screen instructions will take you through the application process.

Provided that all requirements and financial obligations are met, degrees are posted 30 days after the official end of the term. Official dates are listed on the Academic Calendar.

DePaul holds one commencement ceremony each year in June. If you intend to participate, you must first apply for degree conferral for the current academic year and then submit a cap and gown order. Honors are not announced at the ceremony for undergraduates completing their final courses in spring quarter because a final GPA is not available at the time of the ceremony.

Additional information about degree conferral and graduation can be found on the College of Education website at: http://education.depaul.edu/.

Licensure

Requirements for licensure include completion of full bachelor's degree program, all licensure tests (including OPI for world language majors), and awarding of bachelor's degree. A bachelor's degree is required to qualify for licensure and must be awarded before applying for the license.

Individuals must submit an application directly to the Illinois State Board of Education after completion of requirements and after DePaul has submitted notification to ISBE. Application requirements include application form, application fee, official transcripts, and registration fee.

All individuals must meet ISBE requirements in place at the time of application for the license. Requirements are subject to change per the discretion of ISBE.

Individuals seeking additional endorsements after applying for the licensure must contact ISBE directly for an evaluation request.
Liberal Studies Requirements

Honors program requirements can be found in the individual Colleges & Schools section of the University Catalog. Select Academics, followed by Undergraduate, then Honors Program Alternative.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.

Licensure Tests

All individuals licensed by the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) are required to complete licensure tests specific to their teaching license. Secondary Education English majors must complete the following tests:

- Test of Academic Proficiency (TAP) (test #400) - assesses knowledge of reading comprehension, language arts, writing, and math. Test is required to qualify for Advanced Standing. Check with your advisor about qualifying for a waiver with acceptable ACT or SAT test scores.
- English Language Arts Content Area Test (test #111) – assesses reading, writing and research, speaking and listening, and literature. Test is required before Student Teaching (deadlines apply).
- Assessment of Professional Teaching (APT) (test #103, grade 6-12) – assesses knowledge of teaching planning, delivery, assessment, professionalism, and technology. Test is required to be licensed; recommended to be taken before Student Teaching.

Secondary Education Environmental Science (BS)

The Bachelor of Science program in Secondary Education Environmental Science prepares students to teach 6th through 12th grade in a variety of urban and suburban education settings, including public and private middle schools and high schools.

Students learn educational theories and effective teaching practices, participate in field experiences, which require observation and participation in teaching activities at multiple schools, and student teaching. Dispositions

The academic programs within the College of Education have set forth these dispositions as educational and professional expectations for all students. Students should be aware that failing to abide by DePaul University or College of Education policies including, under certain circumstances, these dispositions, could result in adverse consequences for the student, including removal from his or her program, the College of Education, or the University.

The following dispositions apply to Early Childhood Education, Elementary Education, Physical Education, Secondary Education, and World Language Education majors only:

- Reflects on progress and identifies strengths and weaknesses, including evaluating strategies for success, finding alternatives for inappropriate strategies, and modifying future practices
- Is receptive to faculty feedback and acts meaningfully and professionally upon suggestions
- Values critical thinking, including engaging theoretical and philosophical frameworks and shows evidence of critical thinking through discussion and writing (e.g., journals, response to prompts)
- Understands the importance of and is committed to communicating clearly orally and in writing both in traditional and in new and emerging digital formats
- Values and is committed to continually developing strong content area knowledge and/or knowledge of the professional field, including pedagogical content knowledge
- Takes initiative, uses imagination and creativity, and seeks out information using a variety of human and material resources and technology to inform his or her teaching
- Is aware of the role of classroom environment and uses management procedures that reflect respect and care for learners and concern for their emotional and physical well being
- Takes the time and effort needed to understand how students learn, including discovering their interests and experiences and determining how to shape teaching acts (using technology as appropriate) that engage learners meaningfully and actively
- Values and is committed to using assessment to evaluate and ensure the continuous intellectual, social, emotional, and physical development of the learner
- Respects and considers cultural contexts in order to determine how to be responsive to learners and to proactively promote all students' learning
- Values and is responsive to diverse learners' academic, emotional, and social needs through teaching acts (including careful instructional planning, implementation, and differentiation) and through everyday interactions with students
- Is committed to collaboration with colleagues, families, and communities in order to promote all students' learning and development
- Recognizes and fulfills professional responsibilities and habits of conduct (e.g., dress, language, preparedness, attendance, punctuality, etc.)
- Demonstrates collegiality, honesty, good judgment, courtesy, respect, and diplomacy
- Balances self-confidence and assertiveness with respect for others' perspectives

The following dispositions apply to Special Education majors only:

- Is receptive to faculty feedback and acts meaningfully and professionally upon suggestions
- Reflects on his or her own progress, identifies strengths and weaknesses, and evaluates strategies for success and professional growth
- Takes initiative
- Is open to new ideas and engagement in learning
- Respects diversity and cultural contexts to determine how to be responsive to learners and to proactively promote all students' learning
- Expresses positive attitudes toward individuals with disabilities and a willingness to advocate on their behalf
- Is committed to collaboration with colleagues, families, and communities in order to promote all students' learning and development
- Demonstrates professional ethical and legal behavior as defined by the respective codes of ethics and laws
- Demonstrates consistent professional behavior across all academic settings
- Maintains appropriate interpersonal and professional boundaries
- Accepts personal responsibility for one's behavior
- Expresses feelings and opinions effectively and appropriately
- Upholds confidentiality

Skill Building Courses

Before taking any math or English courses, students must take the DePaul placement tests to determine if skill level is at the college level. If placement indicates skill level in these courses, the courses become part of degree requirements. Consult with your advisor regarding placement test results and any required classes.

Advanced Standing

Students are conditionally admitted to the College of Education. There are additional requirements to reach Advanced Standing in your program in the College of Education. Requirements must be met to progress in the major and take courses in the Advanced Standing category.

Advanced Standing requirements are:

- Maintain a DePaul undergraduate 2.5 GPA
- Pass the Illinois Test of Academic Proficiency (TAP)
- Submit a petition for advanced standing form

Students should attempt to complete the Advanced Standing requirements soon after beginning the program. There is no time limit to meet these criteria; however, students will only be able to take pre-education courses until requirements have been met. Students can also take liberal studies or content area courses before or after meeting Advanced Standing requirements.

Modern Language Competence Requirement

Students pursuing a Bachelor of Arts degree in the College of Education will be required to demonstrate a measure of competence in a modern language, as defined by the college. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing two years of a language sequence in high school
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

Please note: The Modern Language Competence Requirement is not required for students in the Early Childhood Education: SNL Joint Program (BAECE) program.

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Education will abide by the COE Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.

B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program. While B.S. students are not required to demonstrate competency in a modern language, the "Modern Language Option" is available to them for language study at any level.

Licensure Tests

All individuals licensed by the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) are required to complete licensure tests specific to their teaching license.

Field Experiences

Each student seeking licensure from the College of Education/Professional Education Unit must complete supervised field experiences in appropriate settings in conjunction with education courses. The field experiences must include a variety of grade levels, multicultural experiences, and a minimum of 10 hours in special education settings. All field experiences must be completed prior to final approval for student teaching. Field experience hours should be entered by the student into the FEDS system when completing courses with field experience requirements.

Endorsements

An endorsement is a subject area that you can qualify to teach full time, in addition to your main licensure area. Endorsements are issued at three levels: primary, middle school, and high school.
The Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) issues endorsements in various subject areas. To view the full list and requirements, visit the ISBE website.

Qualifying for an endorsement at the middle school level requires 18 semester hours (27 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area and complete SCU 339. Some areas (like math) have specifically required courses or require additional hours. Courses must have a grade of C or better to qualify for endorsements and must be earned credit listed on a college transcript as earned credit.

Consult with your advisor regarding endorsements. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following middle school areas: Arabic, art, bilingual education, biological science, Chinese, ESL, French, general science, German, Italian, Japanese, language arts, math, physical science, social science, and Spanish.

In general, endorsement requirements for the primary level are identical to the middle school requirements except that they do not require SCU 339. There are a limited number of areas available at the primary level.

Qualifying for most endorsements at the high school level requires 24 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area* and passing the relevant content area test. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following high school areas: art, Arabic, Chinese, English, French, German, Italian, Japanese, math, Russian, science, social science, and Spanish.

* Exceptions to the basic requirements for high school level endorsements include the subject areas of foreign language, science, and social science.

For science and social science, 32 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in the broad area of either science or social science, and 12 semester hours in the specific endorsement designation area, plus the content area test are required. To qualify for additional science and social science designations, individuals applying after February 1, 2012 need both the content test and 12 semester hours in the additional designation area.

Special Education majors do not qualify for middle school endorsements.

- Meet designated program standards
- Pass the required Illinois licensure content area test

Clinical Requirements:

- Completion of all required field experiences
- Three satisfactory evaluations in field experiences
- Three satisfactory faculty recommendations
- Attendance at mandatory meeting for student teaching
- Application for student teaching, resume, transcripts, and writing sample (check deadlines)
- Review and approval by Student Teaching Committee of the College of Education

Student Teaching Timeline and Deadlines:

- Attend a Mandatory Meeting approximately 1 year prior to expected quarter of student teaching.
- Submit application for student teaching after attending Mandatory Meeting, approximately 1 year prior to student teaching.
- Academic requirements are due one quarter before expected quarter of student teaching.
- Clinical requirements are completed as course requirements. Field experience hours are entered by the student as coursework is completed.

Online Faculty Evaluations are entered by the instructor of relevant courses. All data must be entered in the Field Experience Documentation System (FEDS) due one month prior to student teaching.

Individual child care agencies and public and private school districts may have additional requirements (application, training, background check, etc.).
Degree Conferral and Graduation

The awarding of a degree is not automatic. You must submit an application to be considered for the degree. DePaul awards and posts degrees at the end of each regular academic term (autumn, winter, spring, summer I and summer II).

It is your responsibility to initiate the degree conferral application process by submitting an online application. Submitting an application means you intend to finish your degree requirements by the end of the term for which you have applied.

Undergraduate students must be approved for student teaching and complete student teaching and capstone to be cleared for the degree. Student must submit graduation application for the quarter that matches the quarter you are student teaching.

After you submit the application, you cannot register for any term after the one selected in the application.

Application deadlines are as follows:
- Fall Quarter - October 1st
- Winter Quarter - January 15th
- Spring Quarter - February 1st
- Summer Quarter - July 15th

To apply for degree conferral, log on to Campus Connection. Select STUDENT CENTER, then MY ACADEMICS. On screen instructions will take you through the application process.

Provided that all requirements and financial obligations are met, degrees are posted 30 days after the official end of the term. Official dates are listed on the Academic Calendar.

DePaul holds one commencement ceremony each year in June. If you intend to participate, you must first apply for degree conferral for the current academic year and then submit a cap and gown order. Honors are not announced at the ceremony for undergraduates completing their final courses in spring quarter because a final GPA is not available at the time of the ceremony.

Additional information about degree conferral and graduation can be found on the College of Education website at: http://education.depaul.edu/.

Licensure

Requirements for licensure include completion of full bachelor's degree program, all licensure tests (including OPI for world language majors), and awarding of bachelor's degree. A bachelor's degree is required to qualify for licensure and must be awarded before applying for the license.

Individuals must submit an application directly to the Illinois State Board of Education after completion of requirements and after DePaul has submitted notification to ISBE. Application requirements include application form, application fee, official transcripts, and registration fee.

All individuals must meet ISBE requirements in place at the time of application for the license. Requirements are subject to change per the discretion of ISBE.

Individuals seeking additional endorsements after applying for the licensure must contact ISBE directly for an evaluation request.

Liberal Studies Requirements

Honors program requirements can be found in the individual Colleges & Schools section of the University Catalog. Select Academics, followed by Undergraduate, then Honors Program Alternative.

Notes

Courses offered in the student’s primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student’s major and is cross-listed with a course within the student’s major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.

Student Teaching: 10 quarter hours required, grade of B- or better required

Registration in student teaching requires completion of all requirements and procedures indicated in the college core section. EDU 095 indicates to the Illinois State Board of Education that all field experience hours are complete. All students also take SEC 387, Capstone Seminar with student teaching (listed in the Liberal Studies section).

- SEC 390 SECONDARY STUDENT TEACHING (10 credit hours)
- EDU 095 CLINICAL EXPERIENCE WITH CHILDREN AND YOUTH (non-credit, non-tuition, PA grade required)

Licensure Tests

All individuals licensed by the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) are required to complete licensure tests specific to their teaching license. Secondary Education Environmental Science majors must complete the following tests:

- Test of Academic Proficiency (TAP) (test #400) - assesses knowledge of reading comprehension, language arts, writing, and math. Test is required to qualify for Advanced Standing. *Check with your advisor about qualifying for a waiver with acceptable ACT or SAT test scores.
- Science: Environmental Science Content Area Test (test #112) – assesses knowledge of life science, physical science, and the living environment. Test is required before Student Teaching (deadlines apply).
- Assessment of Professional Teaching (APT) (test #103, grade 6-12) – assesses knowledge of teaching planning, delivery, assessment, professionalism, and technology. Test is required to be licensed; recommended to be taken before Student Teaching.
Secondary Education History (BA)

The Bachelor of Arts program in Secondary Education History prepares students to teach 6th through 12th grade in a variety of urban and suburban education settings, including public and private middle schools and high schools.

Students learn educational theories and effective teaching practices, participate in field experiences, which require observation and participation in teaching activities at multiple schools, and student teaching. Students should meet early and regularly with their advisor to design and monitor their program of study.

The program combines theoretical principles of education and field work with the student's choice of major. Students follow a general pattern of study for middle school and high school levels. In all cases, appropriate field experience plays an integral role.

Students entering the program must be able and willing to devote themselves to a program requiring a minimum of 100 hours of daytime field experiences in schools. These school-based clinical hours are completed in conjunction with methodology courses that require students to spend a half-day each week in a school. In addition, the student must spend a minimum of 11 weeks in full-time student teaching.

Please make sure you consult the Liberal Studies Requirements, Major Requirements, and College Core Requirements for full degree requirements.

College Core Requirements

Dispositions

The academic programs within the College of Education have set forth these dispositions as educational and professional expectations for all students. Students should be aware that failing to abide by DePaul University or College of Education policies including, under certain circumstances, these dispositions, could result in adverse consequences for the student, including removal from his or her program, the College of Education, or the University.

The following dispositions apply to Early Childhood Education, Elementary Education, Physical Education, Secondary Education, and World Language Education majors only:

- Reflects on progress and identifies strengths and weaknesses, including evaluating strategies for success, finding alternatives for inappropriate strategies, and modifying future practices
- Is receptive to faculty feedback and acts meaningfully and professionally upon suggestions
- Values critical thinking, including engaging theoretical and philosophical frameworks and shows evidence of critical thinking through discussion and writing (e.g., journals, response to prompts)
- Understands the importance of and is committed to communicating clearly orally and in writing both in traditional and in new and emerging digital formats
- Values and is committed to continually developing strong content area knowledge and/or knowledge of the professional field, including pedagogical content knowledge
- Takes initiative, uses imagination and creativity, and seeks out information using a variety of human and material resources and technology to inform his or her teaching
- Is aware of the role of classroom environment and uses management procedures that reflect respect and care for learners and concern for their emotional and physical well being
• Takes the time and effort needed to understand how students learn, including discovering their interests and experiences and determining how to shape teaching acts (using technology as appropriate) that engage learners meaningfully and actively
• Values and is committed to using assessment to evaluate and ensure the continuous intellectual, social, emotional, and physical development of the learner
• Respects and considers cultural contexts in order to determine how to be responsive to learners and to proactively promote all students' learning
• Values and is responsive to diverse learners' academic, emotional, and social needs through teaching acts (including careful instructional planning, implementation, and differentiation) and through everyday interactions with students
• Is committed to collaboration with colleagues, families, and communities in order to promote all students' learning and development
• Recognizes and fulfills professional responsibilities and habits of conduct (e.g., dress, language, preparedness, attendance, punctuality, etc.)
• Demonstrates collegiality, honesty, good judgment, courtesy, respect, and diplomacy
• Balances self-confidence and assertiveness with respect for others' perspectives
• Respects the requirements, expectations, and procedures of both the College of Education and of our field partners and appreciates the issues of trust, fairness, and professionalism involved

The following dispositions apply to Special Education majors only:

• Is receptive to faculty feedback and acts meaningfully and professionally upon suggestions
• Reflects on his or her own progress, identifies strengths and weaknesses, and evaluates strategies for success and professional growth
• Takes initiative
• Is open to new ideas and engagement in learning
• Respects diversity and cultural contexts to determine how to be responsive to learners and to proactively promote all students' learning
• Expresses positive attitudes toward individuals with disabilities and a willingness to advocate on their behalf
• Is committed to collaboration with colleagues, families, and communities in order to promote all students' learning and development
• Demonstrates professional ethical and legal behavior as defined by the respective codes of ethics and laws
• Demonstrates consistent professional behavior across all academic settings
• Maintains appropriate interpersonal and professional boundaries
• Accepts personal responsibility for one's behavior
• Expresses feelings and opinions effectively and appropriately
• Upholds confidentiality

Skill Building Courses

Before taking any math or English courses, students must take the DePaul placement tests to determine if skill level is at the college level. If placement indicates skill level in these courses, the courses become part of degree requirements. Consult with your advisor regarding placement test results and any required classes.

Advanced Standing

Students are conditionally admitted to the College of Education. There are additional requirements to reach Advanced Standing in your program in the College of Education. Requirements must be met to progress in the major and take courses in the Advanced Standing category.

Advanced Standing requirements are:

- Maintain a DePaul undergraduate 2.5 GPA
- Pass the Illinois Test of Academic Proficiency (TAP)
- Submit a petition for advanced standing form

Students should attempt to complete the Advanced Standing requirements soon after beginning the program. There is no time limit to meet these criteria; however, students will only be able to take pre-education courses until requirements have been met. Students can also take liberal studies or content area courses before or after meeting Advanced Standing requirements.

Modern Language Competence Requirement

Students pursuing a Bachelor of Arts degree in the College of Education will be required to demonstrate a measure of competence in a modern language, as defined by the college. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing two years of a language sequence in high school
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

Please note: The Modern Language Competence Requirement is not required for students in the Early Childhood Education: SNL Joint Program (BAECE) program.

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Education will abide by the COE Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.

B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program. While B.S. students are not required to demonstrate competency in a modern language, the "Modern Language Option" is available to them for language study at any level.

Licensure Tests

All individuals licensed by the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) are required to complete licensure tests specific to their teaching license.

Field Experiences

Each student seeking licensure from the College of Education/Professional Education Unit must complete supervised field experiences in appropriate settings in conjunction with education courses. The field experiences must include a variety of grade levels, multicultural experiences, and a minimum of 10 hours in special education settings. All field experiences must be completed prior to final approval for student teaching. Field experience hours should be entered by the student into the FEDS system when completing courses with field experience requirements.

Endorsements

An endorsement is a subject area that you can qualify to teach full time, in addition to your main licensure area. Endorsements are issued at three levels: primary, middle school, and high school.

The Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) issues endorsements in various subject areas. To view the full list and requirements, visit the ISBE website.

Qualifying for an endorsement at the middle school level requires 18 semester hours (27 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area and complete SCU 339. Some areas (like math) have specifically required courses or require additional hours. Courses must have a grade of C or better to qualify for endorsements and must be earned credit listed on a college transcript as earned credit.

Consult with your advisor regarding endorsements. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following middle school areas: Arabic, art, bilingual education, biological science, Chinese, ESL, French, general science, German, Italian, Japanese, language arts, math, physical science, social science, and Spanish.

In general, endorsement requirements for the primary level are identical to the middle school requirements except that they do not require SCU 339. There are a limited number of areas available at the primary level.

Qualifying for most endorsements at the high school level requires 24 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area* and passing the relevant content area test. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following high school areas: art, Arabic, Chinese, English, French, German, Italian, Japanese, math, Russian, science, social science, and Spanish.

* Exceptions to the basic requirements for high school level endorsements include the subject areas of foreign language, science, and social science.

For science and social science, 32 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in the broad area of either science or social science, and 12 semester hours in the specific endorsement designation area, plus the content area test are required. To qualify for additional science and social science designations, individuals applying after February 1, 2012 need both the content test and 12 semester hours in the additional designation area.
Special Education majors do not qualify for middle school endorsements.

Student Teaching Requirements

Student Teaching is the culminating clinical experience in the student's program. All students in teacher preparation programs must meet the following requirements before applying for student teaching:

Academic Requirements:
- Completion of all Liberal Studies, Pre-Education, Advanced Standing and concentration/content area courses
- Overall cumulative G.P.A. of 2.50 or better
- Cumulative GPA. of 2.75 or better in all education courses
- Meet all other program requirements (e.g., modern language and residency requirements)
- Meet designated program standards
- Pass the required Illinois licensure content area test

Clinical Requirements:
- Completion of all required field experiences
- Three satisfactory evaluations in field experiences
- Three satisfactory faculty recommendations
- Attendance at mandatory meeting for student teaching
- Application for student teaching, resume, transcripts, and writing sample (check deadlines)
- Review and approval by Student Teaching Committee of the College of Education

Student Teaching Timeline and Deadlines:
- Attend a Mandatory Meeting approximately 1 year prior to expected quarter of student teaching.
- Submit application for student teaching after attending Mandatory Meeting, approximately 1 year prior to student teaching.
- Academic requirements are due one quarter before expected quarter of student teaching.
- Clinical requirements are completed as course requirements. Field experience hours are entered by the student as coursework is completed.

Online Faculty Evaluations are entered by the instructor of relevant courses. All data must be entered in the Field Experience Documentation System (FEDS) due one month prior to student teaching.

Individual child care agencies and public and private school districts may have additional requirements (application, training, background check, etc.).

Degree Conferral and Graduation

The awarding of a degree is not automatic. You must submit an application to be considered for the degree. DePaul awards and posts degrees at the end of each regular academic term (autumn, winter, spring, summer I and summer II).

It is your responsibility to initiate the degree conferral application process by submitting an online application. Submitting an application means you intend to finish your degree requirements by the end of the term for which you have applied.

Undergraduate students must be approved for student teaching and complete student teaching and capstone to be cleared for the degree. Student must submit graduation application for the quarter that matches the quarter you are student teaching.

After you submit the application, you cannot register for any term after the one selected in the application.

Application deadlines are as follows:
- Fall Quarter - October 1st
- Winter Quarter - January 15th
- Spring Quarter - February 1st
- Summer Quarter - July 15th

To apply for degree conferral, log on to Campus Connection. Select STUDENT CENTER, then MY ACADEMICS. On screen instructions will take you through the application process.

Provided that all requirements and financial obligations are met, degrees are posted 30 days after the official end of the term. Official dates are listed on the Academic Calendar.
DePaul holds one commencement ceremony each year in June. If you intend to participate, you must first apply for degree conferral for the current academic year and then submit a cap and gown order. Honors are not announced at the ceremony for undergraduates completing their final courses in spring quarter because a final GPA is not available at the time of the ceremony.

Additional information about degree conferral and graduation can be found on the College of Education website at: http://education.depaul.edu/.

Licensure

Requirements for licensure include completion of full bachelor's degree program, all licensure tests (including OPI for world language majors), and awarding of bachelor's degree. A bachelor's degree is required to qualify for licensure and must be awarded before applying for the license.

Individuals must submit an application directly to the Illinois State Board of Education after completion of requirements and after DePaul has submitted notification to ISBE. Application requirements include application form, application fee, official transcripts, and registration fee.

All individuals must meet ISBE requirements in place at the time of application for the license. Requirements are subject to change per the discretion of ISBE.

Individuals seeking additional endorsements after applying for the licensure must contact ISBE directly for an evaluation request.

Dispositions

The academic programs within the College of Education have set forth these dispositions as educational and professional expectations for all students. Students should be aware that failing to abide by DePaul University or College of Education policies including, under certain circumstances, these dispositions, could result in adverse consequences for the student, including removal from his or her program, the College of Education, or the University.

The following dispositions apply to Early Childhood Education, Elementary Education, Physical Education, Secondary Education, and World Language Education majors only:

- Reflects on progress and identifies strengths and weaknesses, including evaluating strategies for success, finding alternatives for inappropriate strategies, and modifying future practices
- Is receptive to faculty feedback and acts meaningfully and professionally upon suggestions
- Values critical thinking, including engaging theoretical and philosophical frameworks and shows evidence of critical thinking through discussion and writing (e.g., journals, response to prompts)
- Understands the importance of and is committed to communicating clearly orally and in writing both in traditional and in new and emerging digital formats
- Values and is committed to continually developing strong content area knowledge and/or knowledge of the professional field, including pedagogical content knowledge
- Takes initiative, uses imagination and creativity, and seeks out information using a variety of human and material resources and technology to inform his or her teaching
- Is aware of the role of classroom environment and uses management procedures that reflect respect and care for learners and concern for their emotional and physical well being
- Takes the time and effort needed to understand how students learn, including discovering their interests and experiences and determining how to shape teaching acts (using technology as appropriate) that engage learners meaningfully and actively
- Values and is committed to using assessment to evaluate and ensure the continuous intellectual, social, emotional, and physical development of the learner
- Respects and considers cultural contexts in order to determine how to be responsive to learners and to proactively promote all students' learning
- Values and is responsive to diverse learners' academic, emotional, and social needs through teaching acts (including careful instructional planning, implementation, and differentiation) and through everyday interactions with students
- Is committed to collaboration with colleagues, families, and communities in order to promote all students' learning and development
- Recognizes and fulfills professional responsibilities and habits of conduct (e.g., dress, language, preparedness, attendance, punctuality, etc.)
- Demonstrates collegiality, honesty, good judgment, courtesy, respect, and diplomacy
- Balances self-confidence and assertiveness with respect for others' perspectives
- Respects the requirements, expectations, and procedures of both the College of Education and of our field partners and appreciates the issues of trust, fairness, and professionalism involved

The following dispositions apply to Special Education majors only:

- Is receptive to faculty feedback and acts meaningfully and professionally upon suggestions
- Reflects on his or her own progress, identifies strengths and weaknesses, and evaluates strategies for success and professional growth
- Takes initiative
- Is open to new ideas and engagement in learning
- Respects diversity and cultural contexts to determine how to be responsive to learners and to proactively promote all students' learning
- Expresses positive attitudes toward individuals with disabilities and a willingness to advocate on their behalf
- Is committed to collaboration with colleagues, families, and communities in order to promote all students' learning and development
- Demonstrates professional ethical and legal behavior as defined by the respective codes of ethics and laws
- Demonstrates consistent professional behavior across all academic settings
- Maintains appropriate interpersonal and professional boundaries
- Accepts personal responsibility for one's behavior
Express feelings and opinions effectively and appropriately
Upholds confidentiality

Skill Building Courses

Before taking any math or English courses, students must take the DePaul placement tests to determine if skill level is at the college level. If placement indicates skill level in these courses, the courses become part of degree requirements. Consult with your advisor regarding placement test results and any required classes.

Advanced Standing

Students are conditionally admitted to the College of Education. There are additional requirements to reach Advanced Standing in your program in the College of Education. Requirements must be met to progress in the major and take courses in the Advanced Standing category.

Advanced Standing requirements are:

- Maintain a DePaul undergraduate 2.5 GPA
- Pass the Illinois Test of Academic Proficiency (TAP)
- Submit a petition for advanced standing form

Students should attempt to complete the Advanced Standing requirements soon after beginning the program. There is no time limit to meet these criteria; however, students will only be able to take pre-education courses until requirements have been met. Students can also take liberal studies or content area courses before or after meeting Advanced Standing requirements.

Modern Language Competence Requirement

Students pursuing a Bachelor of Arts degree in the College of Education will be required to demonstrate a measure of competence in a modern language, as defined by the college. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing two years of a language sequence in high school
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

Please note: The Modern Language Competence Requirement is not required for students in the Early Childhood Education: SNL Joint Program (BAECE) program.

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Education will abide by the COE Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.

B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program. While B.S. students are not required to demonstrate competency in a modern language, the "Modern Language Option" is available to them for language study at any level.

Licensure Tests

All individuals licensed by the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) are required to complete licensure tests specific to their teaching license.

Field Experiences

Each student seeking licensure from the College of Education/Professional Education Unit must complete supervised field experiences in appropriate settings in conjunction with education courses. The field experiences must include a variety of grade levels, multicultural experiences, and a minimum of 10 hours in special education settings. All field experiences must be completed prior to final approval for student teaching. Field experience hours should be entered by the student into the FEDS system when completing courses with field experience.
Endorsements

An endorsement is a subject area that you can qualify to teach full time, in addition to your main licensure area. Endorsements are issued at three levels: primary, middle school, and high school.

The Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) issues endorsements in various subject areas. To view the full list and requirements, visit the ISBE website.

Qualifying for an endorsement at the middle school level requires 18 semester hours (27 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area and complete SCU 339. Some areas (like math) have specifically required courses or require additional hours. Courses must have a grade of C or better to qualify for endorsements and must be earned credit listed on a college transcript as earned credit.

Consult with your advisor regarding endorsements. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following middle school areas: Arabic, art, bilingual education, biological science, Chinese, ESL, French, general science, German, Italian, Japanese, language arts, math, physical science, social science, and Spanish.

In general, endorsement requirements for the primary level are identical to the middle school requirements except that they do not require SCU 339. There are a limited number of areas available at the primary level.

Qualifying for most endorsements at the high school level requires 24 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area* and passing the relevant content area test. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following high school areas: art, Arabic, Chinese, English, French, German, Italian, Japanese, math, Russian, science, social science, and Spanish.

* Exceptions to the basic requirements for high school level endorsements include the subject areas of foreign language, science, and social science.

 For science and social science, 32 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in the broad area of either science or social science, and 12 semester hours in the specific endorsement designation area, plus the content area test are required. To qualify for additional science and social science designations, individuals applying after February 1, 2012 need both the content test and 12 semester hours in the additional designation area.

Special Education majors do not qualify for middle school endorsements.

Student Teaching Requirements

Student Teaching is the culminating clinical experience in the student's program. All students in teacher preparation programs must meet the following requirements before applying for student teaching:

Academic Requirements:

- Completion of all Liberal Studies, Pre-Education, Advanced Standing and concentration/content area courses
- Overall cumulative G.P.A. of 2.50 or better
- Cumulative GPA. of 2.75 or better in all education courses
- Meet all other program requirements (e.g., modern language and residency requirements)
- Meet designated program standards
- Pass the required Illinois licensure content area test

Clinical Requirements:

- Completion of all required field experiences
- Three satisfactory evaluations in field experiences
- Three satisfactory faculty recommendations
- Attendance at mandatory meeting for student teaching
- Application for student teaching, resume, transcripts, and writing sample (check deadlines)
- Review and approval by Student Teaching Committee of the College of Education

Student Teaching Timeline and Deadlines:

- Attend a Mandatory Meeting approximately 1 year prior to expected quarter of student teaching.
- Submit application for student teaching after attending Mandatory Meeting, approximately 1 year prior to student teaching.
- Academic requirements are due one quarter before expected quarter of student teaching.
- Clinical requirements are completed as course requirements. Field experience hours are entered by the student as coursework is completed.
Online Faculty Evaluations are entered by the instructor of relevant courses. All data must be entered in the Field Experience Documentation System (FEDS) due one month prior to student teaching.

Individual child care agencies and public and private school districts may have additional requirements (application, training, background check, etc.).

Degree Conferral and Graduation

The awarding of a degree is not automatic. You must submit an application to be considered for the degree. DePaul awards and posts degrees at the end of each regular academic term (autumn, winter, spring, summer I and summer II).

It is your responsibility to initiate the degree conferral application process by submitting an online application. Submitting an application means you intend to finish your degree requirements by the end of the term for which you have applied.

Undergraduate students must be approved for student teaching and complete student teaching and capstone to be cleared for the degree. Student must submit graduation application for the quarter that matches the quarter you are student teaching.

After you submit the application, you cannot register for any term after the one selected in the application.

Application deadlines are as follows:
- Fall Quarter - October 1st
- Winter Quarter - January 15th
- Spring Quarter - February 1st
- Summer Quarter - July 15th

To apply for degree conferral, log on to Campus Connection. Select STUDENT CENTER, then MY ACADEMICS. On screen instructions will take you through the application process.

Provided that all requirements and financial obligations are met, degrees are posted 30 days after the official end of the term. Official dates are listed on the Academic Calendar.

DePaul holds one commencement ceremony each year in June. If you intend to participate, you must first apply for degree conferral for the current academic year and then submit a cap and gown order. Honors are not announced at the ceremony for undergraduates completing their final courses in spring quarter because a final GPA is not available at the time of the ceremony.

Additional information about degree conferral and graduation can be found on the College of Education website at: http://education.depaul.edu/.

Licensure

Requirements for licensure include completion of full bachelor's degree program, all licensure tests (including OPI for world language majors), and awarding of bachelor's degree. A bachelor's degree is required to qualify for licensure and must be awarded before applying for the license.

Individuals must submit an application directly to the Illinois State Board of Education after completion of requirements and after DePaul has submitted notification to ISBE. Application requirements include application form, application fee, official transcripts, and registration fee.

All individuals must meet ISBE requirements in place at the time of application for the license. Requirements are subject to change per the discretion of ISBE.

Individuals seeking additional endorsements after applying for the licensure must contact ISBE directly for an evaluation request.
Liberal Studies Requirements

Honors program requirements can be found in the individual Colleges & Schools section of the University Catalog. Select Academics, followed by Undergraduate, then Honors Program Alternative.

Notes

Courses offered in the student’s primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student’s major and is cross-listed with a course within the student’s major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

• SEC 395 ASSESSMENT ISSUES IN SECONDARY EDUCATION
• BBE 501 TEACHING ADOLESCENT ENGLISH LANGUAGE LEARNERS AND DIALECT SPEAKERS ACROSS THE CURRICULUM

Bachelor of Science Requirements

To qualify for the Bachelor of Science degree, complete 4 quarter hours in natural or computer science beyond the requirements for the Bachelor of Arts degree. Please consult your advisor for approval of appropriate natural and computer science courses.

Open Electives: 4 quarter hours are required

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours. The following cannot be used to fulfill an open elective: WRD 98, MAT 94, and MAT 95.

Student Teaching: 10 quarter hours required, grade of B- or better required

Registration in student teaching requires completion of all requirements and procedures indicated in the college core section. EDU 095 indicates to the Illinois State Board of Education that all field experience hours are complete. All students also take SEC 387, Capstone Seminar with student teaching (listed in the Liberal Studies section).

• SEC 390 SECONDARY STUDENT TEACHING (10 credit hours)
• EDU 095 CLINICAL EXPERIENCE WITH CHILDREN AND YOUTH (non-credit, non-tuition, PA grade required)
Licensure Tests

All individuals licensed by the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) are required to complete licensure tests specific to their teaching license. Secondary Education Mathematics majors must complete the following tests:

- Test of Academic Proficiency (TAP) (test #400) - assesses knowledge of reading comprehension, language arts, writing, and math. Test is required to qualify for Advanced Standing. *Check with your advisor about qualifying for a waiver with acceptable ACT or SAT test scores.
- Mathematics Content Area Test (test #115) – assesses knowledge of both the processes and applications of mathematics. Test is required before Student Teaching (deadlines apply).
- Assessment of Professional Teaching (APT) (test #103, grade 6-12) – assesses knowledge of teaching planning, delivery, assessment, professionalism, and technology. Test is required to be licensed; recommended to be taken before Student Teaching.

Secondary Education Mathematics (BS)

The Bachelor of Science program in Secondary Education Mathematics prepares students to teach 6th through 12th grade in a variety of urban and suburban education settings, including public and private middle schools and high schools.

Students learn educational theories and effective teaching practices, participate in field experiences, which require observation and participation in teaching activities at multiple schools, and student teaching. Students should meet early and regularly with their advisor to design and monitor their program of study.

The program combines theoretical principles of education and field work with the student's choice of major. Students follow a general pattern of study for middle school and high school levels. In all cases, appropriate field experience plays an integral role.

Students entering the program must be able and willing to devote themselves to a program requiring a minimum of 100 hours of daytime field experiences in schools. These school-based clinical hours are completed in conjunction with methodology courses that require students to spend a half-day each week in a school. In addition, the student must spend a minimum of 11 weeks in full-time student teaching.

Please make sure you consult the Liberal Studies Requirements, Major Requirements, and College Core Requirements for full degree requirements.

College Core Requirements

Dispositions

The academic programs within the College of Education have set forth these dispositions as educational and professional expectations for all students. Students should be aware that failing to abide by DePaul University or College of Education policies including, under certain circumstances, these dispositions, could result in adverse consequences for the student, including removal from his or her program, the College of Education, or the University.

The following dispositions apply to Early Childhood Education, Elementary Education, Physical Education, Secondary Education, and World Language Education majors only:

- Reflects on progress and identifies strengths and weaknesses, including evaluating strategies for success, finding alternatives for inappropriate strategies, and modifying future practices
- Is receptive to faculty feedback and acts meaningfully and professionally upon suggestions
- Values critical thinking, including engaging theoretical and philosophical frameworks and shows evidence of critical thinking through discussion and writing (e.g., journals, response to prompts)
- Understands the importance of and is committed to communicating clearly orally and in writing both in traditional and in new and emerging digital formats
- Values and is committed to continually developing strong content area knowledge and/or knowledge of the professional field, including pedagogical content knowledge
- Takes initiative, uses imagination and creativity, and seeks out information using a variety of human and material resources and technology to inform his or her teaching
- Is aware of the role of classroom environment and uses management procedures that reflect respect and care for learners and concern for their emotional and physical well being
- Takes the time and effort needed to understand how students learn, including discovering their interests and experiences and determining how to shape teaching acts (using technology as appropriate) that engage learners meaningfully and actively
- Values and is committed to using assessment to evaluate and ensure the continuous intellectual, social, emotional, and physical development of the learner
- Respects and considers cultural contexts in order to determine how to be responsive to learners and to proactively promote all students' learning
- Values and is responsive to diverse learners' academic, emotional, and social needs through teaching acts (including careful instructional planning, implementation, and differentiation) and through everyday interactions with students
- Is committed to collaboration with colleagues, families, and communities in order to promote all students' learning and development
- Recognizes and fulfills professional responsibilities and habits of conduct (e.g., dress, language, preparedness, attendance, punctuality, etc.)
- Demonstrates collegiality, honesty, good judgment, courtesy, respect, and diplomacy
- Balances self-confidence and assertiveness with respect for others' perspectives
- Respects the requirements, expectations, and procedures of both the College of Education and of our field partners and appreciates the issues of trust, fairness, and professionalism involved

The following dispositions apply to Special Education majors only:

- Is receptive to faculty feedback and acts meaningfully and professionally upon suggestions
- Reflects on his or her own progress, identifies strengths and weaknesses, and evaluates strategies for success and professional growth
- Takes initiative
- Is open to new ideas and engagement in learning
- Respects diversity and cultural contexts to determine how to be responsive to learners and to proactively promote all students' learning
- Expresses positive attitudes toward individuals with disabilities and a willingness to advocate on their behalf
- Is committed to collaboration with colleagues, families, and communities in order to promote all students' learning and development
- Demonstrates professional ethical and legal behavior as defined by the respective codes of ethics and laws
- Demonstrates consistent professional behavior across all academic settings
- Maintains appropriate interpersonal and professional boundaries
- Accepts personal responsibility for one's behavior
- Expresses feelings and opinions effectively and appropriately
- Upholds confidentiality

Skill Building Courses

Before taking any math or English courses, students must take the DePaul placement tests to determine if skill level is at the college level. If placement indicates skill level in these courses, the courses become part of degree requirements. Consult with your advisor regarding placement test results and any required classes.

Advanced Standing

Students are conditionally admitted to the College of Education. There are additional requirements to reach Advanced Standing in your program in the College of Education. Requirements must be met to progress in the major and take courses in the Advanced Standing category.

Advanced Standing requirements are:

- Maintain a DePaul undergraduate 2.5 GPA
- Pass the Illinois Test of Academic Proficiency (TAP)
- Submit a petition for advanced standing form

Students should attempt to complete the Advanced Standing requirements soon after beginning the program. There is no time limit to meet these criteria; however, students will only be able to take pre-education courses until requirements have been met. Students can also take liberal studies or content area courses before or after meeting Advanced Standing requirements.

Modern Language Competence Requirement

Students pursuing a Bachelor of Arts degree in the College of Education will be required to demonstrate a measure of competence in a modern language, as defined by the college. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing two years of a language sequence in high school
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

Please note: The Modern Language Competence Requirement is not required for students in the Early Childhood Education: SNL Joint Program (BAECE) program.

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Education will abide by the COE Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.

B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program. While B.S. students are not required to demonstrate competency in a modern language, the "Modern Language Option" is available to them for language study at any level.

Licensure Tests

All individuals licensed by the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) are required to complete licensure tests specific to their teaching license.

Field Experiences

Each student seeking licensure from the College of Education/Professional Education Unit must complete supervised field experiences in appropriate settings in conjunction with education courses. The field experiences must include a variety of grade levels, multicultural experiences, and a minimum of 10 hours in special education settings. All field experiences must be completed prior to final approval for student teaching. Field experience hours should be entered by the student into the FEDS system when completing courses with field experience requirements.

Endorsements

An endorsement is a subject area that you can qualify to teach full time, in addition to your main licensure area. Endorsements are issued at three levels: primary, middle school, and high school.
The Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) issues endorsements in various subject areas. To view the full list and requirements, visit the ISBE website.

Qualifying for an endorsement at the middle school level requires 18 semester hours (27 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area and complete SCU 339. Some areas (like math) have specifically required courses or require additional hours. Courses must have a grade of C or better to qualify for endorsements and must be earned credit listed on a college transcript as earned credit.

Consult with your advisor regarding endorsements. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following middle school areas: Arabic, art, bilingual education, biological science, Chinese, ESL, French, general science, German, Italian, Japanese, language arts, math, physical science, social science, and Spanish.

In general, endorsement requirements for the primary level are identical to the middle school requirements except that they do not require SCU 339. There are a limited number of areas available at the primary level.

Qualifying for most endorsements at the high school level requires 24 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area* and passing the relevant content area test. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following high school areas: art, Arabic, Chinese, English, French, German, Italian, Japanese, math, Russian, science, social science, and Spanish.

* Exceptions to the basic requirements for high school level endorsements include the subject areas of foreign language, science, and social science.

For science and social science, 32 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in the broad area of either science or social science, and 12 semester hours in the specific endorsement designation area, plus the content area test are required. To qualify for additional science and social science designations, individuals applying after February 1, 2012 need both the content test and 12 semester hours in the additional designation area.

Special Education majors do not qualify for middle school endorsements.

Student Teaching Requirements

Student Teaching is the culminating clinical experience in the student's program. All students in teacher preparation programs must meet the following requirements before applying for student teaching:

Academic Requirements:

- Completion of all Liberal Studies, Pre-Education, Advanced Standing and concentration/content area courses
- Overall cumulative G.P.A. of 2.50 or better
- Cumulative GPA. of 2.75 or better in all education courses
- Meet all other program requirements (e.g., modern language and residency requirements)
- Meet designated program standards
- Pass the required Illinois licensure content area test

Clinical Requirements:

- Completion of all required field experiences
- Three satisfactory evaluations in field experiences
- Three satisfactory faculty recommendations
- Attendance at mandatory meeting for student teaching
- Application for student teaching, resume, transcripts, and writing sample (check deadlines)
- Review and approval by Student Teaching Committee of the College of Education

Student Teaching Timeline and Deadlines:

- Attend a Mandatory Meeting approximately 1 year prior to expected quarter of student teaching.
- Submit application for student teaching after attending Mandatory Meeting, approximately 1 year prior to student teaching.
- Academic requirements are due one quarter before expected quarter of student teaching.
- Clinical requirements are completed as course requirements. Field experience hours are entered by the student as coursework is completed.

Online Faculty Evaluations are entered by the instructor of relevant courses. All data must be entered in the Field Experience Documentation System (FEDS) due one month prior to student teaching.

Individual child care agencies and public and private school districts may have additional requirements (application, training, background check, etc.).
Degree Conferral and Graduation

The awarding of a degree is not automatic. You must submit an application to be considered for the degree. DePaul awards and posts degrees at the end of each regular academic term (autumn, winter, spring, summer I and summer II).

It is your responsibility to initiate the degree conferral application process by submitting an online application. Submitting an application means you intend to finish your degree requirements by the end of the term for which you have applied.

Undergraduate students must be approved for student teaching and complete student teaching and capstone to be cleared for the degree. Student must submit graduation application for the quarter that matches the quarter you are student teaching.

After you submit the application, you cannot register for any term after the one selected in the application.

Application deadlines are as follows:
- Fall Quarter - October 1st
- Winter Quarter - January 15th
- Spring Quarter - February 1st
- Summer Quarter - July 15th

To apply for degree conferral, log on to Campus Connection. Select STUDENT CENTER, then MY ACADEMICS. On screen instructions will take you through the application process.

Provided that all requirements and financial obligations are met, degrees are posted 30 days after the official end of the term. Official dates are listed on the Academic Calendar.

DePaul holds one commencement ceremony each year in June. If you intend to participate, you must first apply for degree conferral for the current academic year and then submit a cap and gown order. Honors are not announced at the ceremony for undergraduates completing their final courses in spring quarter because a final GPA is not available at the time of the ceremony.

Additional information about degree conferral and graduation can be found on the College of Education website at: http://education.depaul.edu/.

Licensure

Requirements for licensure include completion of full bachelor's degree program, all licensure tests (including OPI for world language majors), and awarding of bachelor's degree. A bachelor's degree is required to qualify for licensure and must be awarded before applying for the license.

Individuals must submit an application directly to the Illinois State Board of Education after completion of requirements and after DePaul has submitted notification to ISBE. Application requirements include application form, application fee, official transcripts, and registration fee.

All individuals must meet ISBE requirements in place at the time of application for the license. Requirements are subject to change per the discretion of ISBE.

Individuals seeking additional endorsements after applying for the licensure must contact ISBE directly for an evaluation request.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Major Requirements

Course Requirements

Content Area Courses

Math Core: 28 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

Math courses must be taken in sequence (i.e. 150 is followed by 151, 160 is followed by 161, etc.). Consult your advisor for a full list of sequences and prerequisites.

- MAT 150 CALCULUS I
  or MAT 160 CALCULUS FOR MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE MAJORS I
- MAT 151 CALCULUS II
  or MAT 161 CALCULUS FOR MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE MAJORS II
- MAT 152 CALCULUS III
  or MAT 162 CALCULUS FOR MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE MAJORS III
- One of the following options
  - MAT 215 INTRODUCTION TO MATHEMATICAL REASONING
  - Discrete Mathematics Sequence
    - MAT 140 DISCRETE MATHEMATICS I
    - MAT 141 DISCRETE MATHEMATICS II
- MAT 260 MULTIVARIABLE CALCULUS I
- MAT 261 MULTIVARIABLE CALCULUS II
- MAT 262 LINEAR ALGEBRA

Computer Science Language: 4 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

- IT 130 INTRODUCTORY COMPUTING FOR THE WEB
  or any CSC 200 level course

Algebra and Geometry Core: 16 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

- MAT 310 ABSTRACT ALGEBRA I
- MAT 311 ABSTRACT ALGEBRA II
  or MAT 303 THEORY OF NUMBERS
- MAT 320 GEOMETRY I
- MAT 321 GEOMETRY II
  or MAT 335 REAL ANALYSIS I
Probability and Statistics Core: 4 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

- MAT 348 APPLIED STATISTICAL METHODS
  or MAT 351 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS I

History of Math Core: 4 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

- MAT 301 HISTORY OF MATHEMATICS

Pre-Education Introductory Courses: 20 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

- SCU 207 SOCIAL AND HISTORICAL ISSUES IN EDUCATION
- SEC 364 METHODS: CURRICULUM AND INSTRUCTION IN SECONDARY SCHOOLS (4 credit hours)
- SEC 313 THE NATURE OF MATHEMATICS
- SEC 323 INQUIRY & APPLICATION IN DEVELOPING SECONDARY MATHEMATICS PEDAGOGY
- SCU 336 ADOLESCENT AND ADULT GROWTH AND DEVELOPMENT
  or SCU 337 HUMAN GROWTH AND DEVELOPMENT

Advanced Standing Education Courses: 28 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

- LSI 346 STRATEGIES FOR MAINSTREAMING AND INCLUSION
- SEC 325 LITERACY IN THE CONTENT AREAS
- SEC 373 TEACHING MATHEMATICS IN THE HIGH SCHOOL I
- SEC 383 TEACHING MATHEMATICS IN THE HIGH SCHOOL II
- SCU 351 DOING CRITICAL PRACTITIONER RESEARCH IN EDUCATION  Spans over two quarters, has a mandatory field experience component and taken in conjunction with SEC 373 and SEC 383
- SEC 395 ASSESSMENT ISSUES IN SECONDARY EDUCATION
- BBE 301 TEACHING ADOLESCENT ENGLISH LANGUAGE LEARNERS AND DIALECT SPEAKERS ACROSS THE CURRICULUM

Bachelor of Science Requirements: 4 quarter hours are required

- 4 additional quarter hours in natural or computer science. Please consult your advisor for approval of appropriate natural and computer science courses.

Open Electives: 4 quarter hours are required

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours. The following cannot be used to fulfill an open elective: WRD 98, MAT 94, and MAT 95.

Student Teaching: 10 quarter hours required, grade of B- or better required

Registration in student teaching requires completion of all requirements and procedures listed in the college core section. EDU 095 indicates to the Illinois State Board of Education that all field experience hours are complete. All students also take SEC 387, Capstone Seminar with student teaching (listed in the Liberal Studies section).

- SEC 390 SECONDARY STUDENT TEACHING (10 credit hours)
- EDU 095 CLINICAL EXPERIENCE WITH CHILDREN AND YOUTH (non-credit, non-tuition, PA grade required)

Certification Tests

All individuals certified by the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) are required to complete certification tests specific to their teaching certificate. Secondary Education Mathematics majors must complete the following tests:

- Basic Skills (test #096) or TAP (test #300, or #400) - assesses knowledge of reading comprehension, language arts, and math. Test is required to qualify for Advanced Standing.
- Mathematics Content Area Test (test #115) – assesses knowledge of both the processes and applications of mathematics. Test is required before Student Teaching (deadlines apply).
- Assessment of Professional Teaching (APT) (test #103, grade 6-12) – assesses knowledge of teaching planning, delivery, assessment, professionalism, and technology. Test is required to be certified; recommended that it be taken before Student Teaching.
Secondary Education Physics (BS)

The Bachelor of Science program in Secondary Education Physics prepares students to teach 6th through 12th grade in a variety of urban and suburban education settings, including public and private middle schools and high schools.

Students learn educational theories and effective teaching practices, participate in field experiences, which require observation and participation in teaching activities at multiple schools, and student teaching. Students should meet early and regularly with their advisor to design and monitor their program of study.

The program combines theoretical principles of education and field work with the student's choice of major. Students follow a general pattern of study for middle school and high school levels. In all cases, appropriate field experience plays an integral role.

Students entering the program must be able and willing to devote themselves to a program requiring a minimum of 100 hours of daytime field experiences in schools. These school-based clinical hours are completed in conjunction with methodology courses that require students to spend a half-day each week in a school. In addition, the student must spend a minimum of 11 weeks in full-time student teaching.

Please make sure you consult the Liberal Studies Requirements, Major Requirements, and College Core Requirements for full degree requirements.

Licensure

Illinois Professional Educator License with endorsement in Secondary Education Science-Physics (grades 6-12), an Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) approved program.

College Core Requirements

Dispositions

The academic programs within the College of Education have set forth these dispositions as educational and professional expectations for all students. Students should be aware that failing to abide by DePaul University or College of Education policies including, under certain circumstances, these dispositions, could result in adverse consequences for the student, including removal from his or her program, the College of Education, or the University.

The following dispositions apply to Early Childhood Education, Elementary Education, Physical Education, Secondary Education, and World Language Education majors only:

- Reflects on progress and identifies strengths and weaknesses, including evaluating strategies for success, finding alternatives for inappropriate strategies, and modifying future practices
- Is receptive to faculty feedback and acts meaningfully and professionally upon suggestions
- Values critical thinking, including engaging theoretical and philosophical frameworks and shows evidence of critical thinking through discussion and writing (e.g., journals, response to prompts)
- Understands the importance of and is committed to communicating clearly orally and in writing both in traditional and in new and emerging digital formats
Values and is committed to continually developing strong content area knowledge and/or knowledge of the professional field, including pedagogical content knowledge.

Takes initiative, uses imagination and creativity, and seeks out information using a variety of human and material resources and technology to inform his or her teaching.

Is aware of the role of classroom environment and uses management procedures that reflect respect and care for learners and concern for their emotional and physical well being.

Takes the time and effort needed to understand how students learn, including discovering their interests and experiences and determining how to shape teaching acts (using technology as appropriate) that engage learners meaningfully and actively.

Values and is committed to using assessment to evaluate and ensure the continuous intellectual, social, emotional, and physical development of the learner.

Respects and considers cultural contexts in order to determine how to be responsive to learners and to proactively promote all students' learning.

Values and is responsive to diverse learners' academic, emotional, and social needs through teaching acts (including careful instructional planning, implementation, and differentiation) and through everyday interactions with students.

Is committed to collaboration with colleagues, families, and communities in order to promote all students' learning and development.

Recognizes and fulfills professional responsibilities and habits of conduct (e.g., dress, language, preparedness, attendance, punctuality, etc.)

Demonstrates collegiality, honesty, good judgment, courtesy, respect, and diplomacy.

Balances self-confidence and assertiveness with respect for others’ perspectives.

Respects the requirements, expectations, and procedures of both the College of Education and of our field partners and appreciates the issues of trust, fairness, and professionalism involved.

The following dispositions apply to Special Education majors only:

- Is receptive to faculty feedback and acts meaningfully and professionally upon suggestions.
- Reflects on his or her own progress, identifies strengths and weaknesses, and evaluates strategies for success and professional growth.
- Takes initiative.
- Is open to new ideas and engagement in learning.
- Respects diversity and cultural contexts to determine how to be responsive to learners and to proactively promote all students' learning.
- Expresses positive attitudes toward individuals with disabilities and a willingness to advocate on their behalf.
- Is committed to collaboration with colleagues, families, and communities in order to promote all students' learning and development.
- Demonstrates professional ethical and legal behavior as defined by the respective codes of ethics and laws.
- Demonstrates consistent professional behavior across all academic settings.
- Maintains appropriate interpersonal and professional boundaries.
- Accepts personal responsibility for one's behavior.
- Expresses feelings and opinions effectively and appropriately.
- Upholds confidentiality.

Skill Building Courses

Before taking any math or English courses, students must take the DePaul placement tests to determine if skill level is at the college level. If placement indicates skill level in these courses, the courses become part of degree requirements. Consult with your advisor regarding placement test results and any required classes.

Advanced Standing

Students are conditionally admitted to the College of Education. There are additional requirements to reach Advanced Standing in your program in the College of Education. Requirements must be met to progress in the major and take courses in the Advanced Standing category.

Advanced Standing requirements are:

- Maintain a DePaul undergraduate 2.5 GPA.
- Pass the Illinois Test of Academic Proficiency (TAP).
- Submit a petition for advanced standing form.

Students should attempt to complete the Advanced Standing requirements soon after beginning the program. There is no time limit to meet these criteria; however, students will only be able to take pre-education courses until requirements have been met. Students can also take liberal studies or content area courses before or after meeting Advanced Standing requirements.

Modern Language Competence Requirement

Students pursuing a Bachelor of Arts degree in the College of Education will be required to demonstrate a measure of competence in a modern language, as defined by the college. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing two years of a language sequence in high school
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level
  International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

Please note: The Modern Language Competence Requirement is not required for students in the Early Childhood Education: SNL Joint Program (BAECE) program.

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Education will abide by the COE
Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.

B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program. While B.S. students are not required to demonstrate competency in a modern language, the "Modern Language Option" is available to them for language study at any level.

Licensure Tests

All individuals licensed by the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) are required to complete licensure tests specific to their teaching license.

Field Experiences

Each student seeking licensure from the College of Education/Professional Education Unit must complete supervised field experiences in appropriate settings in conjunction with education courses. The field experiences must include a variety of grade levels, multicultural experiences, and a minimum of 10 hours in special education settings. All field experiences must be completed prior to final approval for student teaching. Field experience hours should be entered by the student into the FEDS system when completing courses with field experience requirements.

Endorsements

An endorsement is a subject area that you can qualify to teach full time, in addition to your main licensure area.
Endorsements are issued at three levels: primary, middle school, and high school.

The Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) issues endorsements in various subject areas. To view the full list and requirements, visit the ISBE website.

Qualifying for an endorsement at the middle school level requires 18 semester hours (27 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area and complete SCU 339. Some areas (like math) have specifically required courses or require additional hours. Courses must have a grade of C or better to qualify for endorsements and must be earned credit listed on a college transcript as earned credit.

Consult with your advisor regarding endorsements. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following middle school areas: Arabic, art, bilingual education, biological science, Chinese, ESL, French, genereal science, German, Italian, Japanese, language arts, math, physical science, social science, and Spanish.

In general, endorsement requirements for the primary level are identical to the middle school requirements except that they do not require SCU 339. There are a limited number of areas available at the primary level.

Qualifying for most endorsements at the high school level requires 24 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in a
.teachable subject area* and passing the relevant content area test. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following high school areas: art, Arabic, Chinese, English, French, German, Italian,
 Japanese, math, Russian, science, social science, and Spanish.

* Exceptions to the basic requirements for high school level endorsements include the subject areas of foreign language, science, and social science.
For science and social science, 32 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in the broad area of either science or social science, and 12 semester hours in the specific endorsement designation area, plus the content area test are required. To qualify for additional science and social science designations, individuals applying after February 1, 2012 need both the content test and 12 semester hours in the additional designation area.

Special Education majors do not qualify for middle school endorsements.

Student Teaching Requirements

Student Teaching is the culminating clinical experience in the student’s program. All students in teacher preparation programs must meet the following requirements before applying for student teaching:

Academic Requirements:

- Completion of all Liberal Studies, Pre-Education, Advanced Standing and concentration/content area courses
- Overall cumulative G.P.A. of 2.50 or better
- Cumulative GPA. of 2.75 or better in all education courses
- Meet all other program requirements (e.g., modern language and residency requirements)
- Meet designated program standards
- Pass the required Illinois licensure content area test

Clinical Requirements:

- Completion of all required field experiences
- Three satisfactory evaluations in field experiences
- Three satisfactory faculty recommendations
- Attendance at mandatory meeting for student teaching
- Application for student teaching, resume, transcripts, and writing sample (check deadlines)
- Review and approval by Student Teaching Committee of the College of Education

Student Teaching Timeline and Deadlines:

- Attend a Mandatory Meeting approximately 1 year prior to expected quarter of student teaching.
- Submit application for student teaching after attending Mandatory Meeting, approximately 1 year prior to student teaching.
- Academic requirements are due one quarter before expected quarter of student teaching.
- Clinical requirements are completed as course requirements. Field experience hours are entered by the student as coursework is completed.

Online Faculty Evaluations are entered by the instructor of relevant courses. All data must be entered in the Field Experience Documentation System (FEDS) due one month prior to student teaching.

Individual child care agencies and public and private school districts may have additional requirements (application, training, background check, etc.).

Degree Conferral and Graduation

The awarding of a degree is not automatic. You must submit an application to be considered for the degree. DePaul awards and posts degrees at the end of each regular academic term (autumn, winter, spring, summer I and summer II).

It is your responsibility to initiate the degree conferral application process by submitting an online application. Submitting an application means you intend to finish your degree requirements by the end of the term for which you have applied.

Undergraduate students must be approved for student teaching and complete student teaching and capstone to be cleared for the degree. Student must submit graduation application for the quarter that matches the quarter you are student teaching.

After you submit the application, you cannot register for any term after the one selected in the application.

Application deadlines are as follows:
- Fall Quarter - October 1st
- Winter Quarter - January 15th
- Spring Quarter - February 1st
- Summer Quarter - July 15th

To apply for degree conferral, log on to Campus Connection. Select STUDENT CENTER, then MY ACADEMICS.
On screen instructions will take you through the application process.

Provided that all requirements and financial obligations are met, degrees are posted 30 days after the official end of the term. Official dates are listed on the Academic Calendar.

DePaul holds one commencement ceremony each year in June. If you intend to participate, you must first apply for degree conferral for the current academic year and then submit a cap and gown order. Honors are not announced at the ceremony for undergraduates completing their final courses in spring quarter because a final GPA is not available at the time of the ceremony.

Additional information about degree conferral and graduation can be found on the College of Education website at: http://education.depaul.edu/.

Licensure

Requirements for licensure include completion of full bachelor's degree program, all licensure tests (including OPI for world language majors), and awarding of bachelor's degree. A bachelor's degree is required to qualify for licensure and must be awarded before applying for the license.

Individuals must submit an application directly to the Illinois State Board of Education after completion of requirements and after DePaul has submitted notification to ISBE. Application requirements include application form, application fee, official transcripts, and registration fee.

All individuals must meet ISBE requirements in place at the time of application for the license. Requirements are subject to change per the discretion of ISBE.

Individuals seeking additional endorsements after applying for the licensure must contact ISBE directly for an evaluation request.

Liberal Studies Requirements

Honors program requirements can be found in the individual Colleges & Schools section of the University Catalog. Select Academics, followed by Undergraduate, then Honors Program Alternative.

First Year Program

Chicago Quarter

- LSP 110 DISCOVER CHICAGO
- or LSP 111 EXPLORE CHICAGO

* Students must earn a C- or better in this course.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student’s major and is cross-listed with a course within the student’s major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.
Major Requirements

Course Requirements

Content Area Courses

Physics Core: 28 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

- PHY 170 UNIVERSITY PHYSICS I
- PHY 171 UNIVERSITY PHYSICS II
- PHY 172 UNIVERSITY PHYSICS III
- PHY 270 UNIVERSITY PHYSICS IV
- PHY 300 METHODS OF COMPUTATIONAL AND THEORETICAL PHYSICS I
- PHY 301 METHODS OF COMPUTATIONAL AND THEORETICAL PHYSICS II
- PHY 310 MECHANICS I

Physics Electives: 16 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

Physics Electives should be chosen in consultation with the Physics faculty content advisor.

- PHY elective course 1
- PHY elective course 2
- PHY elective course 3
- PHY elective course 4

Math Core: 20 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

- MAT 160 CALCULUS FOR MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE MAJORS I
- MAT 161 CALCULUS FOR MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE MAJORS II
- MAT 162 CALCULUS FOR MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE MAJORS III
- MAT 260 MULTIVARIABLE CALCULUS I
- MAT 261 MULTIVARIABLE CALCULUS II

Chemistry Core: 12 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

- CHE 130 GENERAL CHEMISTRY I and CHE 131 GENERAL CHEMISTRY I LABORATORY
- CHE 132 GENERAL CHEMISTRY II and CHE 133 GENERAL CHEMISTRY LABORATORY II
- CHE 134 GENERAL CHEMISTRY III and CHE 135 GENERAL CHEMISTRY LABORATORY III

Pre-Education Introductory Courses: 20 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

- SCU 207 SOCIAL AND HISTORICAL ISSUES IN EDUCATION
- SEC 364 METHODS: CURRICULUM AND INSTRUCTION IN SECONDARY SCHOOLS (4 credit hours)
- SEC 314 THE NATURE OF SCIENCE
- SEC 324 INQUIRY & APPLICATION IN DEVELOPING SECONDARY SCIENCE PEDAGOGY
- SCU 336 ADOLESCENT AND ADULT GROWTH AND DEVELOPMENT
  or SCU 337 HUMAN GROWTH AND DEVELOPMENT

Advanced Standing Education Courses: 28 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

- LSI 346 STRATEGIES FOR MAINSTREAMING AND INCLUSION
- SEC 325 LITERACY IN THE CONTENT AREAS
- SEC 374 TEACHING THE SCIENCES IN THE HIGH SCHOOL 1
- SEC 385 TEACHING THE SCIENCES IN THE HIGH SCHOOL 2
- SCU 351 DOING CRITICAL PRACTITIONER RESEARCH IN EDUCATION (Spans over two quarters, has a mandatory field experience component and taken in conjunction with SEC 374 and SEC 385)
- SEC 395 ASSESSMENT ISSUES IN SECONDARY EDUCATION
- BBE 301 TEACHING ADOLESCENT ENGLISH LANGUAGE LEARNERS AND DIALECT SPEAKERS ACROSS THE CURRICULUM
Student Teaching: 10 quarter hours required, grade of B- or better required

Registration in student teaching requires completion of all requirements and procedures indicated in the college core section. EDU 095 indicates to the Illinois State Board of Education that all field experience hours are complete. All students also take SEC 387, Capstone Seminar with student teaching (listed in the Liberal Studies section).

- SEC 390 SECONDARY STUDENT TEACHING (10 credit hours)
- EDU 095 CLINICAL EXPERIENCE WITH CHILDREN AND YOUTH (non-credit, non-tuition, PA grade required)

Licensure Tests

All individuals licensed by the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) are required to complete licensure tests specific to their teaching license. Secondary Education Physics majors must complete the following tests:

- Test of Academic Proficiency (TAP) (test #400) - assesses knowledge of reading comprehension, language arts, writing, and math. Test is required to qualify for Advanced Standing. *Check with your advisor about qualifying for a waiver with acceptable ACT or SAT test scores.
- Science: Physics Content Area Test (test #116) – assesses knowledge of both life and physical science, including Earth systems, technology, and the universe. Test is required before Student Teaching (deadlines apply).
- Assessment of Professional Teaching (APT) (test #103, grade 6-12) – assesses knowledge of teaching planning, delivery, assessment, professionalism, and technology. Test is required to be licensed; recommended to be taken before Student Teaching.

Secondary Education Social Science (BA)

The Bachelor of Arts program in Secondary Education Social Science prepares students to teach 6th through 12th grade in a variety of urban and suburban education settings, including public and private middle schools and high schools.

Students learn educational theories and effective teaching practices, participate in field experiences, which require observation and participation in teaching activities at multiple schools, and student teaching. Students should meet early and regularly with their advisor to design and monitor their program of study.

College Core Requirements

Dispositions

The academic programs within the College of Education have set forth these dispositions as educational and professional expectations for all students. Students should be aware that failing to abide by DePaul University or College of Education policies including, under certain circumstances, these dispositions, could result in adverse consequences for the student, including removal from his or her program, the College of Education, or the University.

The following dispositions apply to Early Childhood Education, Elementary Education, Physical Education, Secondary Education, and World Language Education majors only:

- Reflects on progress and identifies strengths and weaknesses, including evaluating strategies for success, finding alternatives for inappropriate strategies, and modifying future practices
- Is receptive to faculty feedback and acts meaningfully and professionally upon suggestions
- Values critical thinking, including engaging theoretical and philosophical frameworks and shows evidence of critical thinking through discussion and writing (e.g., journals, response to prompts)
- Understands the importance of and is committed to communicating clearly orally and in writing both in traditional and in new and emerging digital formats
- Values and is committed to continually developing strong content area knowledge and/or knowledge of the professional field, including pedagogical content knowledge
- Takes initiative, uses imagination and creativity, and seeks out information using a variety of human and material resources and technology to inform his or her teaching
- Is aware of the role of classroom environment and uses management procedures that reflect respect and care for learners and concern for their emotional and physical well being
- Takes the time and effort needed to understand how students learn, including discovering their interests and experiences and determining how to shape teaching acts (using technology as appropriate) that engage learners meaningfully and actively
- Values and is committed to using assessment to evaluate and ensure the continuous intellectual, social, emotional, and physical development of the learner
- Respects and considers cultural contexts in order to determine how to be responsive to learners and to proactively promote all students' learning
- Values and is responsive to diverse learners' academic, emotional, and social needs through teaching acts (including careful instructional planning, implementation, and differentiation) and through everyday interactions with students
- Is committed to collaboration with colleagues, families, and communities in order to promote all students' learning and development
- Recognizes and fulfills professional responsibilities and habits of conduct (e.g., dress, language, preparedness, attendance, punctuality, etc.)
- Demonstrates collegiality, honesty, good judgment, courtesy, respect, and diplomacy
- Balances self-confidence and assertiveness with respect for others' perspectives
- Respects the requirements, expectations, and procedures of both the College of Education and of our field partners and appreciates the issues of trust, fairness, and professionalism involved

The following dispositions apply to Special Education majors only:

- Is receptive to faculty feedback and acts meaningfully and professionally upon suggestions
- Reflects on his or her own progress, identifies strengths and weaknesses, and evaluates strategies for success and professional growth
- Takes initiative
- Is open to new ideas and engagement in learning
- Respects diversity and cultural contexts to determine how to be responsive to learners and to proactively promote all students' learning
- Expresses positive attitudes toward individuals with disabilities and a willingness to advocate on their behalf
- Is committed to collaboration with colleagues, families, and communities in order to promote all students' learning and development
- Demonstrates professional ethical and legal behavior as defined by the respective codes of ethics and laws
- Demonstrates consistent professional behavior across all academic settings
- Maintains appropriate interpersonal and professional boundaries
- Accepts personal responsibility for one's behavior
- Expresses feelings and opinions effectively and appropriately
- Upholds confidentiality
Skill Building Courses

Before taking any math or English courses, students must take the DePaul placement tests to determine if skill level is at the college level. If placement indicates skill level in these courses, the courses become part of degree requirements. Consult with your advisor regarding placement test results and any required classes.

Advanced Standing

Students are conditionally admitted to the College of Education. There are additional requirements to reach Advanced Standing in your program in the College of Education. Requirements must be met to progress in the major and take courses in the Advanced Standing category.

Advanced Standing requirements are:

- Maintain a DePaul undergraduate 2.5 GPA
- Pass the Illinois Test of Academic Proficiency (TAP)
- Submit a petition for advanced standing form

Students should attempt to complete the Advanced Standing requirements soon after beginning the program. There is no time limit to meet these criteria; however, students will only be able to take pre-education courses until requirements have been met. Students can also take liberal studies or content area courses before or after meeting Advanced Standing requirements.

Modern Language Competence Requirement

Students pursuing a Bachelor of Arts degree in the College of Education will be required to demonstrate a measure of competence in a modern language, as defined by the college. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing two years of a language sequence in high school
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

Please note: The Modern Language Competence Requirement is not required for students in the Early Childhood Education: SNL Joint Program (BAECE) program.

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Education will abide by the COE Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.

B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program. While B.S. students are not required to demonstrate competency in a modern language, the "Modern Language Option" is available to them for language study at any level.

Licensure Tests

All individuals licensed by the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) are required to complete licensure tests specific to their teaching license.

Field Experiences

Each student seeking licensure from the College of Education/Professional Education Unit must complete supervised field experiences in appropriate settings in conjunction with education courses. The field experiences must include a variety of grade levels, multicultural experiences, and a minimum of 10 hours in special education settings. All field experiences must be completed prior to final approval for student teaching. Field experience hours should be entered by the student into the FEDS system when completing courses with field experience requirements.

Endorsements
An endorsement is a subject area that you can qualify to teach full time, in addition to your main licensure area. Endorsements are issued at three levels: primary, middle school, and high school.

The Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) issues endorsements in various subject areas. To view the full list and requirements, visit the ISBE website.

Qualifying for an endorsement at the middle school level requires 18 semester hours (27 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area and complete SCU 339. Some areas (like math) have specifically required courses or require additional hours. Courses must have a grade of C or better to qualify for endorsements and must be earned credit listed on a college transcript as earned credit.

Consult with your advisor regarding endorsements. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following middle school areas: Arabic, art, bilingual education, biological science, Chinese, ESL, French, general science, German, Italian, Japanese, language arts, math, physical science, social science, and Spanish.

In general, endorsement requirements for the primary level are identical to the middle school requirements except that they do not require SCU 339. There are a limited number of areas available at the primary level.

Qualifying for most endorsements at the high school level requires 24 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area* and passing the relevant content area test. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following high school areas: art, Arabic, Chinese, English, French, German, Italian, Japanese, math, Russian, science, social science, and Spanish.

* Exceptions to the basic requirements for high school level endorsements include the subject areas of foreign language, science, and social science.

 For science and social science, 32 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in the broad area of either science or social science, and 12 semester hours in the specific endorsement designation area, plus the content test are required. To qualify for additional science and social science designations, individuals applying after February 1, 2012 need both the content test and 12 semester hours in the additional designation area.

Special Education majors do not qualify for middle school endorsements.

Student Teaching Requirements

Student Teaching is the culminating clinical experience in the student's program. All students in teacher preparation programs must meet the following requirements before applying for student teaching:

Academic Requirements:

- Completion of all Liberal Studies, Pre-Education, Advanced Standing and concentration/content area courses
- Overall cumulative G.P.A. of 2.50 or better
- Cumulative GPA. of 2.75 or better in all education courses
- Meet all other program requirements (e.g., modern language and residency requirements)
- Meet designated program standards
- Pass the required Illinois licensure content area test

Clinical Requirements:

- Completion of all required field experiences
- Three satisfactory evaluations in field experiences
- Three satisfactory faculty recommendations
- Attendance at mandatory meeting for student teaching
- Application for student teaching, resume, transcripts, and writing sample (check deadlines)
- Review and approval by Student Teaching Committee of the College of Education

Student Teaching Timeline and Deadlines:

- Attend a Mandatory Meeting approximately 1 year prior to expected quarter of student teaching.
- Submit application for student teaching after attending Mandatory Meeting, approximately 1 year prior to student teaching.
- Academic requirements are due one quarter before expected quarter of student teaching.
- Clinical requirements are completed as course requirements. Field experience hours are entered by the student as coursework is completed.

Online Faculty Evaluations are entered by the instructor of relevant courses. All data must be entered in the Field Experience Documentation System (FEDS) due one month prior to student teaching.
Individual child care agencies and public and private school districts may have additional requirements (application, training, background check, etc.).

Degree Conferral and Graduation

The awarding of a degree is not automatic. You must submit an application to be considered for the degree. DePaul awards and posts degrees at the end of each regular academic term (autumn, winter, spring, summer I and summer II).

It is your responsibility to initiate the degree conferral application process by submitting an online application. Submitting an application means you intend to finish your degree requirements by the end of the term for which you have applied.

Undergraduate students must be approved for student teaching and complete student teaching and capstone to be cleared for the degree. Student must submit graduation application for the quarter that matches the quarter you are student teaching.

After you submit the application, you cannot register for any term after the one selected in the application.

Application deadlines are as follows:
- Fall Quarter - October 1st
- Winter Quarter - January 15th
- Spring Quarter - February 1st
- Summer Quarter - July 15th

To apply for degree conferral, log on to Campus Connection. Select STUDENT CENTER, then MY ACADEMICS. On screen instructions will take you through the application process.

Provided that all requirements and financial obligations are met, degrees are posted 30 days after the official end of the term. Official dates are listed on the Academic Calendar.

DePaul holds one commencement ceremony each year in June. If you intend to participate, you must first apply for degree conferral for the current academic year and then submit a cap and gown order. Honors are not announced at the ceremony for undergraduates completing their final courses in spring quarter because a final GPA is not available at the time of the ceremony.

Additional information about degree conferral and graduation can be found on the College of Education website at: http://education.depaul.edu/.

Licensure

Requirements for licensure include completion of full bachelor's degree program, all licensure tests (including OPI for world language majors), and awarding of bachelor's degree. A bachelor's degree is required to qualify for licensure and must be awarded before applying for the license.

Individuals must submit an application directly to the Illinois State Board of Education after completion of requirements and after DePaul has submitted notification to ISBE. Application requirements include application form, application fee, official transcripts, and registration fee.

All individuals must meet ISBE requirements in place at the time of application for the license. Requirements are subject to change per the discretion of ISBE.

Individuals seeking additional endorsements after applying for the licensure must contact ISBE directly for an evaluation request.

Liberal Studies Requirements

Honors program requirements can be found in the individual Colleges & Schools section of the University Catalog. Select Academics, followed by Undergraduate, then Honors Program Alternative.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.

Major Requirements

Course Requirements

Content Area Courses

Note: HST 298 is a prerequisite for all 300 level history courses.

EDU 95 indicates to the Illinois State Board of Education that all field experience hours are complete. All students also take SEC 387, Capstone Seminar with student teaching (listed in the Liberal Studies section).

- SEC 390 SECONDARY STUDENT TEACHING (10 credit hours)
- EDU 95 CLINICAL EXPERIENCE WITH CHILDREN AND YOUTH (non-credit, non-tuition, PA grade required)

Licensure Tests

All individuals licensed by the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) are required to complete licensure tests specific to their teaching license. Secondary Education Social Science majors must complete the following tests:

- Test of Academic Proficiency (TAP) (test #400) - assesses knowledge of reading comprehension, language arts, writing, and math. Test is required to qualify for Advanced Standing. *Check with your advisor about qualifying for a waiver with acceptable ACT or SAT test scores.
- Social Science: History Content Area Test (test #114) – assesses and measures the candidate's core knowledge across history and social science fields. Test is required before Student Teaching (deadlines apply).
- Assessment of Professional Teaching (APT) (test #103, grade 6-12) – assesses knowledge of teaching planning, delivery, assessment, professionalism, and technology. Test is required to be licensed; recommended to be taken before Student Teaching.
Secondary Education Visual Art (BA)

The Bachelor of Arts program in Secondary Education Visual Art prepares students to teach 6th through 12th grade in a variety of urban and suburban education settings, including public and private middle schools and high schools.

Students learn educational theories and effective teaching practices, participate in field experiences, which require observation and participation in teaching activities at multiple schools, and student teaching. Students should meet early and regularly with their advisor to design and monitor their program of study.

The program combines theoretical principles of education and field work with the student's choice of major. Students follow a general pattern of study for middle school and high school levels. In all cases, appropriate field experience plays an integral role.

Students entering the program must be able and willing to devote themselves to a program requiring a minimum of 100 hours of daytime field experiences in schools. These school-based clinical hours are completed in conjunction with methodology courses that require students to spend a half-day each week in a school. In addition, the student must spend a minimum of 11 weeks in full-time student teaching.

Please make sure you consult the Liberal Studies Requirements, Major Requirements, and College Core Requirements for full degree requirements.

College Core Requirements

Dispositions

The academic programs within the College of Education have set forth these dispositions as educational and professional expectations for all students. Students should be aware that failing to abide by DePaul University or College of Education policies including, under certain circumstances, these dispositions, could result in adverse consequences for the student, including removal from his or her program, the College of Education, or the University.

The following dispositions apply to Early Childhood Education, Elementary Education, Physical Education, Secondary Education, and World Language Education majors only:

- Reflects on progress and identifies strengths and weaknesses, including evaluating strategies for success, finding alternatives for inappropriate strategies, and modifying future practices
- Is receptive to faculty feedback and acts meaningfully and professionally upon suggestions
- Values critical thinking, including engaging theoretical and philosophical frameworks and shows evidence of critical thinking through discussion and writing (e.g., journals, response to prompts)
- Understands the importance of and is committed to communicating clearly orally and in writing both in traditional and in new and emerging digital formats
- Values and is committed to continually developing strong content area knowledge and/or knowledge of the professional field, including pedagogical content knowledge
- Takes initiative, uses imagination and creativity, and seeks out information using a variety of human and material resources and technology to inform his or her teaching
- Is aware of the role of classroom environment and uses management procedures that reflect respect and care for learners and concern for their emotional and physical well being
Takes the time and effort needed to understand how students learn, including discovering their interests and experiences and determining how to shape teaching acts (using technology as appropriate) that engage learners meaningfully and actively

Values and is committed to using assessment to evaluate and ensure the continuous intellectual, social, emotional, and physical development of the learner

Respects and considers cultural contexts in order to determine how to be responsive to learners and to proactively promote all students' learning

Values and is responsive to diverse learners' academic, emotional, and social needs through teaching acts (including careful instructional planning, implementation, and differentiation) and through everyday interactions with students

Is committed to collaboration with colleagues, families, and communities in order to promote all students' learning and development

Recognizes and fulfills professional responsibilities and habits of conduct (e.g., dress, language, preparedness, attendance, punctuality, etc.)

Demonstrates collegiality, honesty, good judgment, courtesy, respect, and diplomacy

Balances self-confidence and assertiveness with respect for others' perspectives

Respects the requirements, expectations, and procedures of both the College of Education and of our field partners and appreciates the issues of trust, fairness, and professionalism involved

The following dispositions apply to Special Education majors only:

- Is receptive to faculty feedback and acts meaningfully and professionally upon suggestions
- Reflects on his or her own progress, identifies strengths and weaknesses, and evaluates strategies for success and professional growth
- Takes initiative
- Is open to new ideas and engagement in learning
- Respects diversity and cultural contexts to determine how to be responsive to learners and to proactively promote all students' learning
- Expresses positive attitudes toward individuals with disabilities and a willingness to advocate on their behalf
- Is committed to collaboration with colleagues, families, and communities in order to promote all students' learning and development
- Demonstrates professional ethical and legal behavior as defined by the respective codes of ethics and laws
- Demonstrates consistent professional behavior across all academic settings
- Maintains appropriate interpersonal and professional boundaries
- Accepts personal responsibility for one's behavior
- Expresses feelings and opinions effectively and appropriately
- Upholds confidentiality

Skill Building Courses

Before taking any math or English courses, students must take the DePaul placement tests to determine if skill level is at the college level. If placement indicates skill level in these courses, the courses become part of degree requirements. Consult with your advisor regarding placement test results and any required classes.

Advanced Standing

Students are conditionally admitted to the College of Education. There are additional requirements to reach Advanced Standing in your program in the College of Education. Requirements must be met to progress in the major and take courses in the Advanced Standing category.

Advanced Standing requirements are:

- Maintain a DePaul undergraduate 2.5 GPA
- Pass the Illinois Test of Academic Proficiency (TAP)
- Submit a petition for advanced standing form

Students should attempt to complete the Advanced Standing requirements soon after beginning the program. There is no time limit to meet these criteria; however, students will only be able to take pre-education courses until requirements have been met. Students can also take liberal studies or content area courses before or after meeting Advanced Standing requirements.

Modern Language Competence Requirement

Students pursuing a Bachelor of Arts degree in the College of Education will be required to demonstrate a measure of competence in a modern language, as defined by the college. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing two years of a language sequence in high school
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

Please note: The Modern Language Competence Requirement is not required for students in the Early Childhood Education: SNL Joint Program (BAECE) program.

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Education will abide by the COE Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.

B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program. While B.S. students are not required to demonstrate competency in a modern language, the "Modern Language Option" is available to them for language study at any level.

Licensure Tests

All individuals licensed by the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) are required to complete licensure tests specific to their teaching license.

Field Experiences

Each student seeking licensure from the College of Education/Professional Education Unit must complete supervised field experiences in appropriate settings in conjunction with education courses. The field experiences must include a variety of grade levels, multicultural experiences, and a minimum of 10 hours in special education settings. All field experiences must be completed prior to final approval for student teaching. Field experience hours should be entered by the student into the FEDS system when completing courses with field experience requirements.

Endorsements

An endorsement is a subject area that you can qualify to teach full time, in addition to your main licensure area. Endorsements are issued at three levels: primary, middle school, and high school.

The Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) issues endorsements in various subject areas. To view the full list and requirements, visit the ISBE website.

Qualifying for an endorsement at the middle school level requires 18 semester hours (27 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area and complete SCU 339. Some areas (like math) have specifically required courses or require additional hours. Courses must have a grade of C or better to qualify for endorsements and must be earned credit listed on a college transcript as earned credit.

Consult with your advisor regarding endorsements. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following middle school areas: Arabic, art, bilingual education, biological science, Chinese, ESL, French, general science, German, Italian, Japanese, language arts, math, physical science, social science, and Spanish.

In general, endorsement requirements for the primary level are identical to the middle school requirements except that they do not require SCU 339. There are a limited number of areas available at the primary level.

Qualifying for most endorsements at the high school level requires 24 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area* and passing the relevant content area test. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following high school areas: art, Arabic, Chinese, English, French, German, Italian, Japanese, math, Russian, science, social science, and Spanish.

* Exceptions to the basic requirements for high school level endorsements include the subject areas of foreign language, science, and social science.

For science and social science, 32 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in the broad area of either science or social science, and 12 semester hours in the specific endorsement designation area, plus the content area test are required. To qualify for additional science and social science designations, individuals applying after February 1, 2012 need both the content test and 12 semester hours in the additional designation area.
Special Education majors do not qualify for middle school endorsements.

Student Teaching Requirements

Student Teaching is the culminating clinical experience in the student's program. All students in teacher preparation programs must meet the following requirements before applying for student teaching:

Academic Requirements:
- Completion of all Liberal Studies, Pre-Education, Advanced Standing and concentration/content area courses
- Overall cumulative G.P.A. of 2.50 or better
- Cumulative GPA of 2.75 or better in all education courses
- Meet all other program requirements (e.g., modern language and residency requirements)
- Meet designated program standards
- Pass the required Illinois licensure content area test

Clinical Requirements:
- Completion of all required field experiences
- Three satisfactory evaluations in field experiences
- Three satisfactory faculty recommendations
- Attendance at mandatory meeting for student teaching
- Application for student teaching, resume, transcripts, and writing sample (check deadlines)
- Review and approval by Student Teaching Committee of the College of Education

Student Teaching Timeline and Deadlines:
- Attend a Mandatory Meeting approximately 1 year prior to expected quarter of student teaching.
- Submit application for student teaching after attending Mandatory Meeting, approximately 1 year prior to student teaching.
- Academic requirements are due one quarter before expected quarter of student teaching.
- Clinical requirements are completed as course requirements. Field experience hours are entered by the student as coursework is completed.

Online Faculty Evaluations are entered by the instructor of relevant courses. All data must be entered in the Field Experience Documentation System (FEDS) due one month prior to student teaching.

Individual child care agencies and public and private school districts may have additional requirements (application, training, background check, etc.).

Degree Conferral and Graduation

The awarding of a degree is not automatic. You must submit an application to be considered for the degree. DePaul awards and posts degrees at the end of each regular academic term (autumn, winter, spring, summer I and summer II).

It is your responsibility to initiate the degree conferral application process by submitting an online application. Submitting an application means you intend to finish your degree requirements by the end of the term for which you have applied.

Undergraduate students must be approved for student teaching and complete student teaching and capstone to be cleared for the degree. Student must submit graduation application for the quarter that matches the quarter you are student teaching.

After you submit the application, you cannot register for any term after the one selected in the application.

Application deadlines are as follows:
- Fall Quarter - October 1st
- Winter Quarter - January 15th
- Spring Quarter - February 1st
- Summer Quarter - July 15th

To apply for degree conferral, log on to Campus Connection. Select STUDENT CENTER, then MY ACADEMICS. On screen instructions will take you through the application process.

Provided that all requirements and financial obligations are met, degrees are posted 30 days after the official end of the term. Official dates are listed on the Academic Calendar.
DePaul holds one commencement ceremony each year in June. If you intend to participate, you must first apply for degree conferral for the current academic year and then submit a cap and gown order. Honors are not announced at the ceremony for undergraduates completing their final courses in spring quarter because a final GPA is not available at the time of the ceremony.

Additional information about degree conferral and graduation can be found on the College of Education website at: http://education.depaul.edu/.

Licensure

Requirements for licensure include completion of full bachelor's degree program, all licensure tests (including OPI for world language majors), and awarding of bachelor's degree. A bachelor's degree is required to qualify for licensure and must be awarded before applying for the license.

Individuals must submit an application directly to the Illinois State Board of Education after completion of requirements and after DePaul has submitted notification to ISBE. Application requirements include application form, application fee, official transcripts, and registration fee.

All individuals must meet ISBE requirements in place at the time of application for the license. Requirements are subject to change per the discretion of ISBE.

Individuals seeking additional endorsements after applying for the licensure must contact ISBE directly for an evaluation request.

Liberal Studies Requirements

All individuals licensed by the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) are required to complete licensure tests specific to their teaching license. Secondary Education Visual Art majors must complete the following tests:

- Test of Academic Proficiency (TAP) (test #400) - assesses knowledge of reading comprehension, language arts, writing, and math. Test is required to qualify for Advanced Standing. *Check with your advisor about qualifying for a waiver with acceptable ACT or SAT test scores.
- Visual Art Content Area Test (test #145) – assesses elements, principles, and expressive features of the visual arts; creating and producing works of visual art; analyzing and evaluating works of visual art; and the role of the visual arts. Test is required before Student Teaching (deadlines apply).
- Assessment of Professional Teaching (APT) (test #103, grade 6-12) – assesses knowledge of teaching planning, delivery, assessment, professionalism, and technology. Test is required to be licensed; recommended to be taken before Student Teaching.

Sociology (BA)

Sociology is the study of groups, societies, social processes, and institutions. To study these, the department provides a program that focuses on sociological methods (how we know) and sociological theory (how we explain). The curriculum provides students with a basis for understanding and participation in their own communities and enables them to pursue careers and occupations in professions related to sociological knowledge and training.

College Core Requirements

Study in the Major Field

The student’s course of study in the College consists of three parts: Liberal Studies, the major field, and electives. Together these three parts contribute to the liberal education of the student which is the common purpose of all study in the College. By “liberal education” the College understands not only a deep and thorough knowledge of a particular area of study but a knowledge of the diverse areas of study represented by criticism, history, the arts, the behavioral and social sciences, philosophy, religious studies, the natural science, and mathematics.

The major field program generally is built upon a set of core courses and a specialized “concentration.” The number of courses required for a major varies by department. Most students go beyond the minimum requirements, electing additional courses which both broaden and deepen their understanding of their chosen discipline.

Because no academic major program is built in isolation, students are required to pursue a number of electives of the student’s choice. The inherent flexibility of this curriculum demands that the student consult an academic advisor at each stage in the total program and at least once prior to each registration.

Students will be prompted to visit the College Office for their official graduation check early in their senior year.

Declaration of Major, Minor and Concentration

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor in the major field department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

Students must declare or change majors, minors, and concentrations, via Campus Connection. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the the Office for Academic Advising Support.

Competence in Modern Language

All students will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language (i.e., a language other than English) equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in the fourth-year high school sequence of any language
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations or achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language, or achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program, or achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College will abide by this Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT, regardless of when they first matriculated at DePaul.

Students who have met the Modern Language Requirement and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the “Modern Language Option” of the Liberal Studies Program (see "Special Programs").

External Credit and Residency

A student who has been admitted to the College begins residency within the college as of the first day of classes of the term in which the student is registered. Students in residence, whether attending on a full-time or part-time basis, may not take courses away from DePaul University without the written permission of the college. Permission must be obtained in advance of registration to avoid loss of credit or residency in the college; see the LAS website for more information.

Notes
Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy
Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.

Major Requirements

Course Requirements
Core
- SOC 101 INTRODUCTION TO SOCIOLOGY
  or SOC 105 SOCIAL PROBLEMS
- SOC 279 INTRO STATS FOR THE SOCIAL SCIENCES *
- SOC 331 SOCIOLOGICAL THEORY
- SOC 380 RESEARCH METHODS IN SOCIOLOGY I
- SOC 381 RESEARCH METHODS IN SOCIOLOGY II

*The statistics requirement, SOC 279, may also be fulfilled by PSY 240, MAT 137, or MAT 242.

NOTE: 8 credits maximum of SOC 398 INTERNSHIP can be counted toward major field credit. Additional SOC 398 credit may be earned but it will count for open elective credit or Junior Year Experiential Learning (JYEL) credit, if applicable.

Concentration Requirements
Students must also complete the requirements from one of the following concentrations: Standard; Sociology of
Concentration Requirements

Concentrations, tracks and specializations provide focus to the major. In addition to any college core requirements, liberal studies requirements and major requirements, students are required to choose one of the following:

- Dynamics of Urban Society
- Health and Human Services
- Law, Crime, and Criminology
- Sociology of Culture
- Standard

Dynamics of Urban Society Concentration

This concentration focuses on understanding the history, development, social and political dynamics of urban centers, both in the US and globally. It addresses the current and future environmental, physical and demographic aspects of human settlement as well as social and political aspects. Topics include issues of urban social stratification and poverty; race/ethnicity and lifestyles; immigration; crime and delinquency; community, politics and community activism; urban planning; housing; technology and the environment; media, art and culture; and work and occupations. We strongly suggest that students in this concentration take SOC 245: Urban Sociology or SOC 212: Community and Society.

Course Requirements

- Two 200-level courses from the following list:
  - SOC 212 COMMUNITY AND SOCIETY
  - SOC 214 POLICE AND THE URBAN COMMUNITY
  - SOC 230 SEX AND GENDER IN THE CITY
  - SOC 231 RACE AND ETHNICITY IN THE CITY
  - SOC 232 GLOBAL CITIES
  - SOC 245 URBAN SOCIOLOGY
  - SOC 271 POPULATION PROBLEMS

- Three 300-level courses from the following list:
  - SOC 340 SOCIAL INEQUALITY
  - SOC 346 URBAN ETHNOGRAPHY
  - SOC 347 CLASS, POWER AND DECISION MAKING IN THE CITY
  - SOC 348 THE CITY IN THE FUTURE
  - SOC 354 COMPARATIVE COMMUNITY POLITICS
  - SOC 355 CHICAGO AS A SOCIAL SYSTEM
  - SOC 356 THE CITY IN CROSS-CULTURAL PERSPECTIVE
  - SOC 370 PEOPLE, PLACES, AND FOOD
  - SOC 390 SEMINAR IN SOCIOLOGY (with approval)
  - SOC 394 COMMUNITY BASED SOCIOLOGY (with approval)
  - SOC 398 INTERNSHIP (with approval)

- Two 300 level electives in Sociology, which may include those courses listed above
- One additional 200 or 300 level elective in Sociology, which may include those courses listed above

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.
Health and Human Services Concentration

This concentration addresses policies and issues of health and public welfare in the U.S. and abroad. Students develop an understanding of the social factors that create disparities in health and illness, health care delivery systems, and other social resources. Students interested in careers in health care, health policy, public health, nursing, and social work should consider this concentration. We strongly suggest that students in this concentration take SOC 221: Introduction to the U.S. Health Care System.

Course Requirements

- Two 200-level courses from the following list:
  - SOC 200 SOCIAL WORK AND SOCIAL WELFARE
  - SOC 221 INTRODUCTION TO THE U.S. HEALTH CARE SYSTEM
  - SOC 223 SOCIOLOGY OF HEALTH AND ILLNESS
  - SOC 235 ADOLESCENT HEALTH
  - SOC 236 IMMIGRATION, HEALTH AND ILLNESS
- Three 300-level courses from the following list:
  - SOC 307 SOCIOLOGY OF SUBSTANCE USE AND ABUSE
  - SOC 321 HEALTH AND HUMAN SERVICE ORGANIZATIONS
  - SOC 323 THE SOCIAL WELFARE INSTITUTION
  - SOC 326 AGING AND THE LIFE COURSE
  - SOC 351 HEALTH DISPARITIES
  - SOC 353 SOCIOLOGY OF MENTAL ILLNESS
  - SOC 365 HEALTH AND GLOBALIZATION
  - SOC 370 PEOPLE, PLACES, AND FOOD
  - SOC 373 PUBLIC HEALTH AND HIGH RISK BEHAVIOR
  - SOC 390 SEMINAR IN SOCIOLOGY (with approval)
  - SOC 394 COMMUNITY BASED SOCIOLOGY (with approval)
  - SOC 398 INTERNSHIP (with approval)

- Two 300 level electives in Sociology, which may include those courses listed above.
- One additional 200 or 300 level elective in Sociology, which may include those courses listed above.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Law, Crime, and Criminology Concentration

This concentration spans topics of criminalization, the legal system, and criminal justice systems, paying particular attention to the way these affect marginalized segments of the population and work to maintain interlocking systems of oppression. Students in this concentration will learn about the cultural and structural forces that work to define deviance, inform the construction and interpretation of the law, and delimit the experiences of people affected by the criminal justice system. This concentration prepares students for careers in law, non-profit social justice work, social work, or youth services. We strongly suggest that students in this concentration take SOC 220 THEORIES OF CRIME AND DELINQUENCY.

Course Requirements
- Two 200-level courses from the following list:
  - SOC 207 YOUTH AND SOCIETY
  - SOC 208 LAW AND SOCIETY
  - SOC 214 POLICE AND THE URBAN COMMUNITY
  - SOC 220 THEORIES OF CRIME AND DELINQUENCY
  - SOC 248 WHITE RACISM
- Three 300-level courses from the following list:
  - SOC 301 THE JUVENILE COURT SYSTEM: ITS OPERATIONS
  - SOC 304 SOCIAL DEVIATION
  - SOC 305 POWER, CONSTRUCTIONS OF DEVIANCE, AND SOCIAL CONTROL
  - SOC 307 SOCIOLOGY OF SUBSTANCE USE AND ABUSE
  - SOC 310 CRITICAL PERSPECTIVES ON CRIMINAL JUSTICE
  - SOC 315 LAW, POWER AND RESISTANCE
  - SOC 316 STREET GANGS
  - SOC 317 GENDER, CRIME AND JUSTICE
  - SOC 322 TREATMENT AND PREVENTION OF DELINQUENCY
  - SOC 373 PUBLIC HEALTH AND HIGH RISK BEHAVIOR
  - SOC 390 SEMINAR IN SOCIOLOGY (with approval)
  - SOC 394 COMMUNITY BASED SOCIOLOGY (with approval)
  - SOC 398 INTERNSHIP (with approval)
- Two 300 level electives in Sociology, which may include those courses listed above.
- One additional 200 or 300 level elective in Sociology, which may include those courses listed above.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

---

Sociology of Culture Concentration

This concentration focuses on popular culture, the media, technology, and the arts, as well as cultural diversity in post-industrial society. Students in this concentration will take a critical look at how the culture of everyday life is linked to the economy, state, family, education, and politics. Students interested in pursuing careers in communications, advertising, cultural criticism, market research and journalism should consider this concentration. We strongly suggest that students in this concentration take SOC 280 MASS MEDIA AND CULTURE.

Course Requirements

- Two 200-level courses from the following list:
  - SOC 205 SELF AND SOCIETY
  - SOC 207 YOUTH AND SOCIETY
  - SOC 209 SOCIOLOGY OF WOMEN
  - SOC 213 BLACK AMERICAN MUSIC CULTURE: TRADITIONS AND INNOVATIONS
  - SOC 233 SOCIOLOGY OF SPORT
  - SOC 280 MASS MEDIA AND CULTURE
  - SOC 281 SOCIOLOGY OF ROCK MUSIC
- Three 300-level courses from the following list:
  - SOC 309 SOCIOLOGY OF SEXUALITY
  - SOC 330 THEMES IN SOCIAL THOUGHT
  - SOC 382 QUALITATIVE METHODS
  - SOC 383 VISUAL SOCIOLOGY
  - SOC 384 ETHNOGRAPHIC DOCUMENTARY FILM PRODUCTION
  - SOC 386 POPULAR CULTURE AND THE ARTS
  - SOC 387 SOCIOLOGY OF CELEBRITY
  - SOC 388 SOCIOLOGY OF CONSUMPTION
  - SOC 390 SEMINAR IN SOCIOLOGY (with approval)
  - SOC 394 COMMUNITY BASED SOCIOLOGY (with approval)
Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Standard Concentration

This concentration is for students who want a broad and generalized course of study. Students in this concentration may take a broad array of 200 and 300 level courses. This concentration is excellent preparation for graduate work in sociology and other disciplines, as well as careers in many different areas.

Course Requirements

- Five 300-level Sociology courses
- Three additional Sociology courses at the 200 or 300 level

Students should select these courses in consultation with their advisor.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

The Sociology (B.A.) offers two options:

- Sociology (B.A.)/ Sociology (M.A.)
- Sociology (B.A.)/Secondary Education Social Science (M.Ed.)

Sociology (B.A.)/ Sociology (M.A.)

Students apply to this program in spring of their junior year; interested students should meet with the Director of the program. Students in this program take twelve graduate credit hours in their senior year; these graduate courses apply toward both undergraduate and graduate Sociology requirements.

Sociology (B.A.)/ Secondary Education Social Science (M.Ed.)

The TEACH Program combines a Liberal Arts and Social Sciences (LAS) undergraduate Social Science major (Anthropology, Economics, Geography, History, Political Science, or Sociology) or a Science and Health (Psychology) major with a graduate level College of Education (COE) Master's in Education Program. Students graduate with a B.A. or B.S. in their disciplinary major and a MEd in Education with State of Illinois Secondary Social Science licensure.

Students may apply to the Program during the spring of their junior year. They must enroll in the Junior Year Experiential Learning course, TCH 320, and meet other application criteria; these include completion of at least 16 quarter credit hours at DePaul and a 3.0 grade point average. During their senior year, students are required to complete a Program capstone course, TCH 390, and three 400-level courses that count toward both their undergraduate and graduate degrees:

- TCH 401 TEACHING AS A PROFESSION IN SECONDARY SCHOOL
- TCH 412 THE NATURE OF HISTORY AND THE SOCIAL SCIENCES
- TCH 422 INQUIRY & APPLICATION IN DEVELOPING SECONDARY HISTORY AND SOCIAL SCIENCES PEDAGOGY

Social Science Content Area (grades of C or better required for licensure):
The following Social Science content area requirements are required. These can be taken as part of the major, liberal studies or open elective requirements:

- HST 298 INTRODUCTION TO HISTORICAL SOURCES AND METHODS
- HST 299 CRAFT OF HISTORY
- 3 United States History courses
- 2 Non-United States History courses
- 6 from the sociology major
- Additional licensure requirements: (one course in each area required)
  - Geography (GEO 101 recommended)
  - Economics (ECO 101 recommended)
  - Political Science (PSC 120 recommended)
  - Psychology (PSY 105 recommended)
  - Anthropology (ANT 102 recommended)

The Master's year comprises teacher-preparation coursework that culminates with student teaching during Spring quarter. Upon graduation and the fulfilling of State of Illinois licensure requirements (which may require some additional coursework in the student’s major and related fields), students are eligible to be licensed to teach Social Sciences at the 6th-12th grade levels.

A full description of the Program can be found on the College of Education website in the graduate course catalog. Students interested in the Program should consult with the designated TEACH Program advisor in their home department.

Sociology (Minor)

The Sociology minor is designed to provide you with the critical thinking skills needed to effectively observe people in social groups and institutions. The program offers an overview of sociological research and theory.

Course Requirements

- SOC 101 INTRODUCTION TO SOCIOLOGY
  or SOC 105 SOCIAL PROBLEMS
- Four courses from the 200/300-level SOC course offerings.

Courses in theory, research methods, and statistics are recommended, but not required.

Students majoring in Sociology (BA) are restricted from earning this minor.
Sound Design - CDM (Minor)

The minor in Sound Design provides you with the basic skills to edit, record and compose sound for film, television, games and more. You will use the hardware and software used by professionals in the field.

Course Requirements

- DC 215 INTRODUCTION TO SOUND DESIGN
- DC 312 SCORING FOR FILM AND VIDEO
- DC 313 PRODUCTION SOUND
- DC 315 POST-PRODUCTION SOUND DESIGN
- 3 courses from the following list:
  - ANI 315 AUDIO FOR ANIMATION
  - GAM 250 DIGITAL SOUND FOR COMPUTER GAMES
  - DC 317 ADVANCED SOUND MIXING
  - DC 318 ADVANCED DIALOGUE EDITING
  - DC 319 ADVANCED SOUND EFFECTS RECORDING AND EDITING
  - DC 113 AUDIO FOR PODCASTS AND OTHER MEDIA

Students majoring in Digital Cinema (BA) - Sound Concentration are restricted from earning this minor.

Sound Design (BFA)

The Theatre School’s Bachelor of Fine Arts (BFA) degree in Sound Design trains students to be successful sound designers and engineers in all levels of the theatre and entertainment industries. Sound design students learn techniques for sound editing, recording and composition using the hardware and software that are the standard tools of the industry. Students collaborate with directors, other designers and our professional production staff to get practical experience designing and rigging sound as part of our production program.

Sound Recording Technology (BS)

The Bachelor of Science degree with an emphasis in Sound Recording Technology (SRT) prepares students for careers in the audio industry. The SRT program includes coursework in classical and popular recording, music production, surround sound audio for film and multimedia, as well as physics, electronics, and mathematics. The faculty is comprised of experienced recording engineers, dedicated to teaching excellence. Drawing upon the resources of the city, students have the opportunity to work and study at Chicago area recording studios and live performance venues.

  o MUS 223 GROUP PIANO V
  o MUS 233 GROUP PIANO VI

Additional Courses

• MUS 265 MUSICAL TRADITIONS OF AMERICA AND THE WORLD
• MUS 303 BASIC CONDUCTING PRACTICUM
• MUS 304 BASIC CONDUCTING

Applied Music

Students may enroll in a maximum of 4 credits of applied study per quarter, with a maximum of 48 credits total. The requirements for applied study vary by degree program:

• BM in performance, 48 credits
• BM in jazz studies, 30 credits
• BM in composition, 24 credits
• BM in music education, 24 credits
• BM in performing arts management, 24 credits
• BA in music, 16 credits
• BS in sound recording technology, 12 credits

Except performance majors, students may enroll in additional applied credits, which will count towards music electives.

Modern Language Option

If a music student wishes to study a modern language for a three-course sequence (12 credits), one quarter of language study (4 credits) may be used to replace a course requirement in Arts and Literature, Philosophical Inquiry, or Religious Dimensions. The remaining two quarters of language (8 credits) will be applied towards free electives.

cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.

Petition to Major

Students are admitted to a specialization on the basis of a petition to major process, which occurs during the spring of the freshmen or sophomore year. The petition to major process differs for each specialization, and students should contact the department chairs or area coordinators for more information. Students are not permitted to enroll in classes in the specialization until they have passed their petition to major.

Spanish (BA)

In DePaul’s Spanish program, students will study Spanish language, literature and culture. Spanish is the second most widely spoken language in the world, behind Chinese, and is one of the official languages of the United Nations and European Union. Because Spanish is becoming more widely used in the United States, having the ability to speak and understand the Spanish language will provide students with many professional opportunities.

Courses in the Spanish major cover a variety of topics, including:

- Cinema
- Conversational Spanish
- Culture
- Film
- Grammar/composition
- Hispanic women writers
- Language
- Latin American literature and culture
- Linguistics
- Literature
- Mexican literature
- Spanish for medical professions
- Translation/interpretation

As Spanish majors, students are encouraged to participate in one of DePaul’s Study Abroad programs in order to grow linguistically and expand their cultural understanding of Spanish-speaking societies. DePaul sponsors programs in Argentina, Chile, Mexico, Peru, Puerto Rico and Spain.

Chicago is a culturally diverse city, providing students with many opportunities to attend Spanish festivals, dine out at Spanish restaurants and watch Spanish films.

College Core Requirements

Study in the Major Field

The student’s course of study in the College consists of three parts: Liberal Studies, the major field, and electives. Together these three parts contribute to the liberal education of the student which is the common purpose of all study in the College. By "liberal education" the College understands not only a deep and thorough knowledge of a particular area of study but a knowledge of the diverse areas of study represented by criticism, history, the arts, the behavioral and social sciences, philosophy, religious studies, the natural science, and mathematics.

The major field program generally is built upon a set of core courses and a specialized "concentration." The number of courses required for a major varies by department. Most students go beyond the minimum requirements, electing additional courses which both broaden and deepen their understanding of their chosen discipline.

Because no academic major program is built in isolation, students are required to pursue a number of electives of the student's choice. The inherent flexibility of this curriculum demands that the student consult an academic advisor at each stage in the total program and at least once prior to each registration.

Students will be prompted to visit the College Office for their official graduation check early in their senior year.

Declaration of Major, Minor and Concentration
All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor in the major field department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

Students must declare or change majors, minors, and concentrations, via Campus Connection. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the Office for Academic Advising Support.

Competence in Modern Language

All students will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language (i.e., a language other than English) equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in the fourth-year high school sequence of any language
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations or achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language, or achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program, or achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College will abide by this Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT, regardless of when they first matriculated at DePaul.

Students who have met the Modern Language Requirement and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program (see "Special Programs").

External Credit and Residency

A student who has been admitted to the College begins residency within the college as of the first day of classes of the term in which the student is registered. Students in residence, whether attending on a full-time or part-time basis, may not take courses away from DePaul University without the written permission of the college. Permission must be obtained in advance of registration to avoid loss of credit or residency in the college; see the LAS website for more information.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.
In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Spanish (Minor)

The Spanish language, spoken by over 30 million people in the United States, is one of the world’s major languages. DePaul’s minor in Spanish offers a basic proficiency in writing, reading and speaking Spanish, which can open the door to several career opportunities.

The minor consists of a total of 5 courses in Spanish language at the 200/300-level.

Students majoring in Spanish (BA) or minoring in Commercial Spanish are restricted from earning this minor.

Special Education (BS)

The Bachelor of Arts in Special Education will prepare you to teach students with exceptionalities in kindergarten through 12th grade in a variety of urban and suburban educational settings, including public and private schools.

By completing the Special Education program, you will be eligible for the Illinois Learning and Behavior Specialist I (LBS1) license, provided you complete additional state requirements.

As a Special Education major, you will learn to:

- Apply specific strategies needed to teach exceptional learners
- Consult and co-teach in general education inclusion classrooms
- Modify content for exceptional learners in reading, math, natural and social sciences
- Teach small groups of exceptional students in a resource room
- Teach students with more significant disabilities in a self-contained classroom

Courses in the Special Education curriculum include:
Students entering the program must be able and willing to devote themselves to a program requiring a minimum of 140 hours of field experience. Students should expect to spend 80 hours of evening field hours in the Education and Counseling Center, and 60 hours of daytime field experience in schools. These school-based clinical hours are completed in conjunction with methodology courses that require students to spend a half-day each week in a school. In addition, the student must spend a minimum of 16 weeks in full-time student teaching.

Please make sure you consult the Liberal Studies Requirements, Major Requirements, and College Core Requirements for full degree requirements.

College Core Requirements

Dispositions

The academic programs within the College of Education have set forth these dispositions as educational and professional expectations for all students. Students should be aware that failing to abide by DePaul University or College of Education policies including, under certain circumstances, these dispositions, could result in adverse consequences for the student, including removal from his or her program, the College of Education, or the University.

The following dispositions apply to Early Childhood Education, Elementary Education, Physical Education, Secondary Education, and World Language Education majors only:

- Reflects on progress and identifies strengths and weaknesses, including evaluating strategies for success, finding alternatives for inappropriate strategies, and modifying future practices
- Is receptive to faculty feedback and acts meaningfully and professionally upon suggestions
- Values critical thinking, including engaging theoretical and philosophical frameworks and shows evidence of critical thinking through discussion and writing (e.g., journals, response to prompts)
- Understands the importance of and is committed to communicating clearly orally and in writing both in traditional and in new and emerging digital formats
- Values and is committed to continually developing strong content area knowledge and/or knowledge of the professional field, including pedagogical content knowledge
- Takes initiative, uses imagination and creativity, and seeks out information using a variety of human and material resources and technology to inform his or her teaching
- Is aware of the role of classroom environment and uses management procedures that reflect respect and care for learners and concern for their emotional and physical well being
- Takes the time and effort needed to understand how students learn, including discovering their interests and experiences and determining how to shape teaching acts (using technology as appropriate) that engage learners meaningfully and actively
- Values and is committed to using assessment to evaluate and ensure the continuous intellectual, social, emotional, and physical development of the learner
- Respects and considers cultural contexts in order to determine how to be responsive to learners and to proactively promote all students' learning
• Values and is responsive to diverse learners' academic, emotional, and social needs through teaching acts (including careful instructional planning, implementation, and differentiation) and through everyday interactions with students
• Is committed to collaboration with colleagues, families, and communities in order to promote all students' learning and development
• Recognizes and fulfills professional responsibilities and habits of conduct (e.g., dress, language, preparedness, attendance, punctuality, etc.)
• Demonstrates collegiality, honesty, good judgment, courtesy, respect, and diplomacy
• Balances self-confidence and assertiveness with respect for others' perspectives
• Respects the requirements, expectations, and procedures of both the College of Education and of our field partners and appreciates the issues of trust, fairness, and professionalism involved

The following dispositions apply to Special Education majors only:

• Is receptive to faculty feedback and acts meaningfully and professionally upon suggestions
• Reflects on his or her own progress, identifies strengths and weaknesses, and evaluates strategies for success and professional growth
• Takes initiative
• Is open to new ideas and engagement in learning
• Respects diversity and cultural contexts to determine how to be responsive to learners and to proactively promote all students' learning
• Expresses positive attitudes toward individuals with disabilities and a willingness to advocate on their behalf
• Is committed to collaboration with colleagues, families, and communities in order to promote all students' learning and development
• Demonstrates professional ethical and legal behavior as defined by the respective codes of ethics and laws
• Demonstrates consistent professional behavior across all academic settings
• Maintains appropriate interpersonal and professional boundaries
• Accepts personal responsibility for one's behavior
• Expresses feelings and opinions effectively and appropriately
• Upholds confidentiality

Skill Building Courses

Before taking any math or English courses, students must take the DePaul placement tests to determine if skill level is at the college level. If placement indicates skill level in these courses, the courses become part of degree requirements. Consult with your advisor regarding placement test results and any required classes.

Advanced Standing

Students are conditionally admitted to the College of Education. There are additional requirements to reach Advanced Standing in your program in the College of Education. Requirements must be met to progress in the major and take courses in the Advanced Standing category.

Advanced Standing requirements are:

- Maintain a DePaul undergraduate 2.5 GPA
- Pass the Illinois Test of Academic Proficiency (TAP)
- Submit a petition for advanced standing form

Students should attempt to complete the Advanced Standing requirements soon after beginning the program. There is no time limit to meet these criteria; however, students will only be able to take pre-education courses until requirements have been met. Students can also take liberal studies or content area courses before or after meeting Advanced Standing requirements.

Modern Language Competence Requirement

Students pursuing a Bachelor of Arts degree in the College of Education will be required to demonstrate a measure of competence in a modern language, as defined by the college. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing two years of a language sequence in high school
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

Please note: The Modern Language Competence Requirement is not required for students in the Early Childhood Education: SNL Joint Program (BAECE) program.

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Education will abide by the COE Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.

B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program. While B.S. students are not required to demonstrate competency in a modern language, the "Modern Language Option" is available to them for language study at any level.

Licensure Tests

All individuals licensed by the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) are required to complete licensure tests specific to their teaching license.

Field Experiences

Each student seeking licensure from the College of Education/Professional Education Unit must complete supervised field experiences in appropriate settings in conjunction with education courses. The field experiences must include a variety of grade levels, multicultural experiences, and a minimum of 10 hours in special education settings. All field experiences must be completed prior to final approval for student teaching. Field experience hours should be entered by the student into the FEDS system when completing courses with field experience requirements.

Endorsements

An endorsement is a subject area that you can qualify to teach full time, in addition to your main licensure area. Endorsements are issued at three levels: primary, middle school, and high school.

The Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) issues endorsements in various subject areas. To view the full list and requirements, visit the ISBE website.

Qualifying for an endorsement at the middle school level requires 18 semester hours (27 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area and complete SCU 339. Some areas (like math) have specifically required courses or require additional hours. Courses must have a grade of C or better to qualify for endorsements and must be earned credit listed on a college transcript as earned credit.

Consult with your advisor regarding endorsements. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following middle school areas: Arabic, art, bilingual education, biological science, Chinese, ESL, French, general science, German, Italian, Japanese, language arts, math, physical science, social science, and Spanish.

In general, endorsement requirements for the primary level are identical to the middle school requirements except that they do not require SCU 339. There are a limited number of areas available at the primary level.

Qualifying for most endorsements at the high school level requires 24 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area* and passing the relevant content area test. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following high school areas: art, Arabic, Chinese, English, French, German, Italian, Japanese, math, Russian, science, social science, and Spanish.

* Exceptions to the basic requirements for high school level endorsements include the subject areas of foreign language, science, and social science.

For science and social science, 32 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in the broad area of either science or social science, and 12 semester hours in the specific endorsement designation area, plus the content area test are required. To qualify for additional science and social science designations, individuals applying after February 1, 2012 need both the content test and 12 semester hours in the additional designation area.

Special Education majors do not qualify for middle school endorsements.

Student Teaching Requirements

Student Teaching is the culminating clinical experience in the student’s program. All students in teacher preparation programs must meet the following requirements before applying for student teaching:
Academic Requirements:

- Completion of all Liberal Studies, Pre-Education, Advanced Standing and concentration/content area courses
- Overall cumulative G.P.A. of 2.50 or better
- Cumulative GPA. of 2.75 or better in all education courses
- Meet all other program requirements (e.g., modern language and residency requirements)
- Meet designated program standards
- Pass the required Illinois licensure content area test

Clinical Requirements:

- Completion of all required field experiences
- Three satisfactory evaluations in field experiences
- Three satisfactory faculty recommendations
- Attendance at mandatory meeting for student teaching
- Application for student teaching, resume, transcripts, and writing sample (check deadlines)
- Review and approval by Student Teaching Committee of the College of Education

Student Teaching Timeline and Deadlines:

- Attend a Mandatory Meeting approximately 1 year prior to expected quarter of student teaching.
- Submit application for student teaching after attending Mandatory Meeting, approximately 1 year prior to student teaching.
- Academic requirements are due one quarter before expected quarter of student teaching.
- Clinical requirements are completed as course requirements. Field experience hours are entered by the student as coursework is completed.

Online Faculty Evaluations are entered by the instructor of relevant courses. All data must be entered in the Field Experience Documentation System (FEDS) due one month prior to student teaching.

Individual child care agencies and public and private school districts may have additional requirements (application, training, background check, etc.).

Degree Conferral and Graduation

The awarding of a degree is not automatic. You must submit an application to be considered for the degree. DePaul awards and posts degrees at the end of each regular academic term (autumn, winter, spring, summer I and summer II).

It is your responsibility to initiate the degree conferral application process by submitting an online application. Submitting an application means you intend to finish your degree requirements by the end of the term for which you have applied.

Undergraduate students must be approved for student teaching and complete student teaching and capstone to be cleared for the degree. Student must submit graduation application for the quarter that matches the quarter you are student teaching.

After you submit the application, you cannot register for any term after the one selected in the application.

Application deadlines are as follows:
- Fall Quarter - October 1st
- Winter Quarter - January 15th
- Spring Quarter - February 1st
- Summer Quarter - July 15th

To apply for degree conferral, log on to Campus Connection. Select STUDENT CENTER, then MY ACADEMICS. On screen instructions will take you through the application process.

Provided that all requirements and financial obligations are met, degrees are posted 30 days after the official end of the term. Official dates are listed on the Academic Calendar.

DePaul holds one commencement ceremony each year in June. If you intend to participate, you must first apply for degree conferral for the current academic year and then submit a cap and gown order. Honors are not announced at the ceremony for undergraduates completing their final courses in spring quarter because a final GPA is not available at the time of the ceremony.

Additional information about degree conferral and graduation can be found on the College of Education website at: http://education.depaul.edu/.
Licensure

Requirements for licensure include completion of full bachelor's degree program, all licensure tests (including OPI for world language majors), and awarding of bachelor's degree. A bachelor's degree is required to qualify for licensure and must be awarded before applying for the license.

Individuals must submit an application directly to the Illinois State Board of Education after completion of requirements and after DePaul has submitted notification to ISBE. Application requirements include application form, application fee, official transcripts, and registration fee.

All individuals must meet ISBE requirements in place at the time of application for the license. Requirements are subject to change per the discretion of ISBE.

Individuals seeking additional endorsements after applying for the licensure must contact ISBE directly for an evaluation request.

Stage Management (BFA)

The Theatre School's Bachelor of Fine Arts (BFA) degree in Stage Management is a blend of training in management, design and technical skills. The four-year curriculum in many ways simulates a stage managers professional experience and process. Students learn to communicate with and manage all areas of production. Students collaborate with directors, designers, actors, administration and our professional production staff as part of our production program.

Theatre Arts (BFA)

The Theatre School's Bachelor of Fine Arts (BFA) degree in Theatre Arts is our most flexible program and allows students to study and get experience in a variety of theatrical disciplines. The program is tailored toward students interested in pursuing careers in areas as diverse as directing, arts writing, educational outreach, literary management, arts administration or law.

Newly admitted Theatre Arts majors are automatically placed in the standard Theatre Arts curriculum, which includes all core and elective requirements for the B.F.A. degree in Theatre Arts. After completing a minimum of two quarters of study at The Theatre School, students have the option of adding a concentration in either...
With respect to the core and elective requirements, students who do not declare a concentration remain in the standard Theatre Arts curriculum, which includes successful completion of all core requirements plus six elective courses in theatre (24 credit hours), chosen in consultation with the student's advisor. The requirements for those students who declare a concentration in either TYA or Directing include successful completion of all core requirements plus eight courses (or 32 credit hours) to fulfill the requirements of the concentration.

In addition, 24 credits of Theatre Electives are required, to be chosen in consultation with the student's advisor.

Concentration Requirements

Students pursuing a concentration must also complete the requirements from one of the following concentrations: Theatre for Young Audiences or Directing.

Concentration Requirements

Concentration in Theatre for Young Audiences

The concentration in Theatre for Young Audiences (TYA) focuses on the theoretical knowledge and practical skills necessary for continuing work in this field. The concentration requires 8 courses or 32 credit hours of coursework. The breakdown of this coursework includes the three-term Dramaturgy I sequence (12 credit hours), a minimum of three terms (12 credit hours) of Production Practice assignments in The Theatre School's Playworks Series and/or a TYA Internship—in which the student serves as assistant director, dramaturg, or assistant dramaturg, and two additional courses (8 credit hours) as approved by the student's advisor, as follows:

  • Dramaturgy Sequence I
    o THE 234 DRAMATURGY I: INTRODUCTION TO DRAMATURGY
Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours. Courses should be chosen in consultation with the student's advisor. Students are strongly encouraged to utilize these courses to pursue a minor or second major.

Concentration in Directing

The concentration in Directing focuses on the theoretical knowledge and practical skills necessary for continuing work in this field. The concentration requires 8 courses or 32 credit hours of coursework that includes the first two quarters of the Dramaturgy I sequence (8 credit hours), two courses chosen from a corpus of four, depending on the student's directorial focus and interests (8 credit hours), a combination of two production practices and/or internship (8 credit hours), and two additional courses approved in consultation with the student's advisor. The breakdown of this coursework is as follows:

- The first two quarters of the Dramaturgy I sequence
  - THE 234 DRAMATURGY I: INTRODUCTION TO DRAMATURGY
  - THE 235 DRAMATURGY I: INTRODUCTION TO PRODUCTION DRAMATURGY

- Two courses from the following:
  - THE 236 DRAMATURGY I: TYA AND PLAYWORKS DRAMATURGY
  - THE 334 DRAMATURGY II: CLASSICAL DRAMATURGY
  - THE 335 DRAMATURGY II: NEW PLAY DRAMATURGY
  - PRF 418 NEW PLAY WORKSHOP

  - THE 471 THEATRE STUDIES PRODUCTION PRACTICE III
  - THE 472 THEATRE STUDIES PRODUCTION PRACTICE III
  - THE 473 THEATRE STUDIES PRODUCTION PRACTICE III
  - THE 490 THEATRE STUDIES INTERNSHIP

- Two additional courses as approved by the advisor.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours. Courses should be chosen in consultation with the student's advisor. Students are strongly encouraged to utilize these courses to pursue a minor or second major.
Theatre Management (BFA)

The Theatre School's Bachelor of Fine Arts (BFA) degree in Theatre Management program teaches students both the art and business of theatre while preparing them for careers in the extensive and growing performing arts industry. With a focus on both non-profit arts administration and the commercial theatre, the Theatre Management program uses the theatrical community in Chicago as a laboratory where students interview arts leaders, discover best practices through research, and participate in the art form through internships and production practice assignments.

The Theatre Management curriculum combines Theatre Arts courses from The Theatre School with courses from the Liberal Studies program and The Driehaus College of Business. In alternating years the program offers the New York City Intensive, a one week independent study in New York City, America's commercial theatre capital. Theatre Management faculty members are industry professionals allowing you a first-hand experience.

Upon completion of the Theatre Management program you will earn a Bachelor of Fine Arts (BFA) in Theatre Management at The Theatre School and, with the addition of a single course, a minor in Management through The Driehaus College of Business.

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Theatre Studies (Minor)

The Theatre School offers a minor as a way for DePaul University students in other colleges to engage and explore their interest in the theatre through a broad range of theatre coursework. Theatre School students are not eligible to declare a minor in Theatre Studies.

Course Requirements

A minor in Theatre Studies requires the completion of 24 Theatre School credits of the student's choosing, based on the list below. Students from outside The Theatre School may take the following classes at their home college tuition rate:

- PRF 290 PERFORMANCE WORKSHOP FOR NON-MAJORS
- PRF 380 ADVANCED PERFORMANCE WORKSHOP FOR NON-MAJORS
- THE 100 WORLD OF THE THEATRE
- THE 200 DRAMA ON STAGE: GENDER & SEXUALITY IN THE THEATRE
- THE 209 SKETCH COMEDY
- THE 241 ARE WE STILL FABULOUS?: QUEER IDENTITY IN CONTEMPORARY DRAMA
- THE 242 STAGE DIRECTION FOR NON-MAJORS

- THE 434 SEMINAR: TOPICS IN DRAMATIC LITERATURE
- THE 435 SEMINAR: TOPICS IN DRAMATIC LITERATURE
- THE 436 SEMINAR: TOPICS IN DRAMATIC LITERATURE

On occasion, Theatre Studies minors may take Theatre Studies (THE) classes not listed above.* Availability of those courses is dependent on space available in the class, completion of appropriate prerequisites and permission of the instructor, which the student must obtain in order to enroll. Classes in the acting program (PRF) are not open to students pursuing a minor.

Students pursuing a minor who are approved to take Theatre School courses not on this list will be charged the part-time, per-credit Theatre School tuition rate for those classes.
Theatre Technology (BFA)

The Theatre School's Bachelor of Fine Arts (BFA) degree in Theatre Technology trains students in the execution and realization of a designer's vision. Theatre Technology majors collaborate with the Scenic, Lighting, and Sound Designers, and other technicians to create the set, props, light and sound for theatre and entertainment productions.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.

Students majoring in Religious Studies (BA) or minoring in Religious Studies, Cultural Studies in Religion or Religion: Specialized are restricted from earning this minor.

Women’s and Gender Studies (BA)

The Department of Women’s and Gender Studies provides students with a strong educational foundation for lifelong learning. It nurtures students’ abilities to think critically and to examine social and cultural circumstances that too often remain unquestioned. The curriculum also emphasizes the development of strong written & oral communication skills.

A thirteen-course major is offered, consisting of a six-course common core, four courses in a concentration, and three electives.

As a Women’s and Gender Studies major, you will take courses such as:

- Women and Film
- Women in the Middle East
- Feminist Theories
- Gender and Education
- Deconstructing the Diva
- Gender, Community, & Activism: Community-Based Learning in WGS
- Growing Up Female in the U.S.
- Growing up Latino/Latina in the United States
College Core Requirements

Study in the Major Field

The student’s course of study in the College consists of three parts: Liberal Studies, the major field, and electives. Together these three parts contribute to the liberal education of the student which is the common purpose of all study in the College. By “liberal education” the College understands not only a deep and thorough knowledge of a particular area of study but a knowledge of the diverse areas of study represented by criticism, history, the arts, the behavioral and social sciences, philosophy, religious studies, the natural science, and mathematics.

The major field program generally is built upon a set of core courses and a specialized “concentration.” The number of courses required for a major varies by department. Most students go beyond the minimum requirements, electing additional courses which both broaden and deepen their understanding of their chosen discipline.

Because no academic major program is built in isolation, students are required to pursue a number of electives of the student’s choice. The inherent flexibility of this curriculum demands that the student consult an academic advisor at each stage in the total program and at least once prior to each registration. Students will be prompted to visit the College Office for their official graduation check early in their senior year.

Declaration of Major, Minor and Concentration

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor in the major field department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

Students must declare or change majors, minors, and concentrations, via Campus Connection. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the the Office for Academic Advising Support.

Competence in Modern Language

All students will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language (i.e., a language other than English) equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in the fourth-year high school sequence of any language
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations or achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language, or achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program, or achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College will abide by this Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT, regardless of when they first matriculated at DePaul.
Students who have met the Modern Language Requirement and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program (see "Special Programs").

External Credit and Residency

A student who has been admitted to the College begins residency within the college as of the first day of classes of the term in which the student is registered. Students in residence, whether attending on a full-time or part-time basis, may not take courses away from DePaul University without the written permission of the college. Permission must be obtained in advance of registration to avoid loss of credit or residency in the college; see the LAS website for more information.

Combined Bachelor’s/ Master’s Degree

The combined Bachelor’s/Master’s degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

Women’s and Gender Studies (BA)/ Women’s and Gender Studies (MA)

Students apply to this program in spring of their junior year; interested students should contact the WGS graduate director. Students in this program take twelve graduate credit hours in their senior year; these graduate courses apply toward both undergraduate and graduate Women’s and Gender Studies requirements.

In the senior year students complete:

- WGS 400 FEMINIST THEORIES
Women's and Gender Studies (Minor)

Similar to the major, the Women's and Gender Studies minor includes three basic social analysis courses aimed at providing students with a gendered lens through which to see social, cultural, and political issues. Students are encouraged to expand their view of their personal lives to include a framework that promotes resilient responses to all forms of oppression. To complete the minor, students take three additional courses to be chosen from the approved course list from the Women's and Gender Studies Department.

Students wishing to attain the Women's and Gender Studies minor are required to successfully complete 24 credit hours (six classes): the three core classes listed below and three general electives approved for the Women's and Gender Studies major.

Course Requirements

- WGS 100 WOMEN'S LIVES: RACE/CLASS/GENDER
- WGS 200 WOMEN'S STUDIES IN TRANSNATIONAL CONTEXTS
- WGS 250 FEMINIST FRAMEWORKS

Students majoring in Women's and Gender Studies (BA) are restricted from earning this minor.

World Language Education Chinese (BA)

The Bachelor of Arts program in World Language Education Chinese prepares students to teach Kindergarten through 12th grade in a variety of urban and suburban education settings, including public and private elementary and high schools.

Students learn educational theories and effective teaching practices, participate in field experiences, which require observation and participation in teaching activities at multiple schools, and student teaching. Students should meet early and regularly with their advisor to design and monitor their program of study.

The program combines theoretical principles of education and field work with the student's choice of major. Students follow a general pattern of study for middle school and high school levels. In all cases, appropriate field experience plays an integral role.

Students entering the program must be able and willing to devote themselves to a program requiring a minimum of 130-135 hours of daytime field experiences in schools. These school-based clinical hours are completed in conjunction with methodology courses that require students to spend a half-day each week in a school. In addition, the student must spend a minimum of 11 weeks in full-time student teaching.

Please make sure you consult the Liberal Studies Requirements, Major Requirements, and College Core Requirements for full degree requirements.

Licensure

Illinois Professional Educator License with endorsement in Foreign Language Chinese (kindergarten-grade 12), an Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) approved program.

College Core Requirements

Dispositions

The academic programs within the College of Education have set forth these dispositions as educational and professional expectations for all students. Students should be aware that failing to abide by DePaul University or College of Education policies including, under certain circumstances, these dispositions, could result in adverse consequences for the student, including removal from his or her program, the College of Education, or the University.

The following dispositions apply to Early Childhood Education, Elementary Education, Physical Education, Secondary Education, and World Language Education majors only:

- Reflects on progress and identifies strengths and weaknesses, including evaluating strategies for success, finding alternatives for inappropriate strategies, and modifying future practices
- Is receptive to faculty feedback and acts meaningfully and professionally upon suggestions
- Values critical thinking, including engaging theoretical and philosophical frameworks and shows evidence of critical thinking through discussion and writing (e.g., journals, response to prompts)
- Understands the importance of and is committed to communicating clearly orally and in writing both in traditional and in new and emerging digital formats
- Values and is committed to continually developing strong content area knowledge and/or knowledge of the professional field, including pedagogical content knowledge
- Takes initiative, uses imagination and creativity, and seeks out information using a variety of human and material resources and technology to inform his or her teaching
- Is aware of the role of classroom environment and uses management procedures that reflect respect and care for learners and concern for their emotional and physical well being
- Takes the time and effort needed to understand how students learn, including discovering their interests and experiences and determining how to shape teaching acts (using technology as appropriate) that engage learners meaningfully and actively
- Values and is committed to using assessment to evaluate and ensure the continuous intellectual, social, emotional, and physical development of the learner
- Respects and considers cultural contexts in order to determine how to be responsive to learners and to proactively promote all students' learning
- Values and is responsive to diverse learners' academic, emotional, and social needs through teaching acts (including careful instructional planning, implementation, and differentiation) and through everyday interactions with students
- Is committed to collaboration with colleagues, families, and communities in order to promote all students' learning and development
- Recognizes and fulfills professional responsibilities and habits of conduct (e.g., dress, language, preparedness, attendance, punctuality, etc.)
- Demonstrates collegiality, honesty, good judgment, courtesy, respect, and diplomacy
- Balances self-confidence and assertiveness with respect for others' perspectives
- Respects the requirements, expectations, and procedures of both the College of Education and of our field partners and appreciates the issues of trust, fairness, and professionalism involved

The following dispositions apply to Special Education majors only:

- Is receptive to faculty feedback and acts meaningfully and professionally upon suggestions
- Reflects on his or her own progress, identifies strengths and weaknesses, and evaluates strategies for success and professional growth
- Takes initiative
- Is open to new ideas and engagement in learning
- Respects diversity and cultural contexts to determine how to be responsive to learners and to proactively promote all students' learning
- Expresses positive attitudes toward individuals with disabilities and a willingness to advocate on their behalf
- Is committed to collaboration with colleagues, families, and communities in order to promote all students' learning and development
- Demonstrates professional ethical and legal behavior as defined by the respective codes of ethics and laws
- Demonstrates consistent professional behavior across all academic settings
- Maintains appropriate interpersonal and professional boundaries
• Accepts personal responsibility for one's behavior
• Expresses feelings and opinions effectively and appropriately
• Upholds confidentiality

Skill Building Courses

Before taking any math or English courses, students must take the DePaul placement tests to determine if skill level is at the college level. If placement indicates skill level in these courses, the courses become part of degree requirements. Consult with your advisor regarding placement test results and any required classes.

Advanced Standing

Students are conditionally admitted to the College of Education. There are additional requirements to reach Advanced Standing in your program in the College of Education. Requirements must be met to progress in the major and take courses in the Advanced Standing category.

Advanced Standing requirements are:

- Maintain a DePaul undergraduate 2.5 GPA
- Pass the Illinois Test of Academic Proficiency (TAP)
- Submit a petition for advanced standing form

Students should attempt to complete the Advanced Standing requirements soon after beginning the program. There is no time limit to meet these criteria; however, students will only be able to take pre-education courses until requirements have been met. Students can also take liberal studies or content area courses before or after meeting Advanced Standing requirements.

Modern Language Competence Requirement

Students pursuing a Bachelor of Arts degree in the College of Education will be required to demonstrate a measure of competence in a modern language, as defined by the college. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing two years of a language sequence in high school
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

Please note: The Modern Language Competence Requirement is not required for students in the Early Childhood Education: SNL Joint Program (BAECE) program.

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Education will abide by the COE Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.

B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program. While B.S. students are not required to demonstrate competency in a modern language, the "Modern Language Option" is available to them for language study at any level.

Licensure Tests

All individuals licensed by the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) are required to complete licensure tests specific to their teaching license.

Field Experiences

Each student seeking licensure from the College of Education/Professional Education Unit must complete supervised field experiences in appropriate settings in conjunction with education courses. The field experiences must include a variety of grade levels, multicultural experiences, and a minimum of 10 hours in special education settings. All field experiences must be completed prior to final approval for student teaching. Field experience hours should be entered by the student into the FEDS system when completing courses with field experience requirements.

Endorsements

An endorsement is a subject area that you can qualify to teach full time, in addition to your main licensure area. Endorsements are issued at three levels: primary, middle school, and high school.

The Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) issues endorsements in various subject areas. To view the full list and requirements, visit the ISBE website.

Qualifying for an endorsement at the middle school level requires 18 semester hours (27 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area and complete SCU 339. Some areas (like math) have specifically required courses or require additional hours. Courses must have a grade of C or better to qualify for endorsements and must be earned credit listed on a college transcript as earned credit.

Consult with your advisor regarding endorsements. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following middle school areas: Arabic, art, bilingual education, biological science, Chinese, ESL, French, general science, German, Italian, Japanese, language arts, math, physical science, social science, and Spanish.

In general, endorsement requirements for the primary level are identical to the middle school requirements except that they do not require SCU 339. There are a limited number of areas available at the primary level.

Qualifying for most endorsements at the high school level requires 24 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area* and passing the relevant content area test. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following high school areas: art, Arabic, Chinese, English, French, German, Italian, Japanese, math, Russian, science, social science, and Spanish.

* Exceptions to the basic requirements for high school level endorsements include the subject areas of foreign language, science, and social science.

 For science and social science, 32 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in the broad area of either science or social science, and 12 semester hours in the specific endorsement designation area, plus the content area test are required. To qualify for additional science and social science designations, individuals applying after February 1, 2012 need both the content test and 12 semester hours in the additional designation area.

Special Education majors do not qualify for middle school endorsements.

Student Teaching Requirements

Student Teaching is the culminating clinical experience in the student’s program. All students in teacher preparation programs must meet the following requirements before applying for student teaching:

Academic Requirements:

- Completion of all Liberal Studies, Pre-Education, Advanced Standing and concentration/content area courses
- Overall cumulative G.P.A. of 2.50 or better
- Cumulative GPA of 2.75 or better in all education courses
- Meet all other program requirements (e.g., modern language and residency requirements)
- Meet designated program standards
- Pass the required Illinois licensure content area test

Clinical Requirements:

- Completion of all required field experiences
- Three satisfactory evaluations in field experiences
- Three satisfactory faculty recommendations
- Attendance at mandatory meeting for student teaching
- Application for student teaching, resume, transcripts, and writing sample (check deadlines)
- Review and approval by Student Teaching Committee of the College of Education

Student Teaching Timeline and Deadlines:

- Attend a Mandatory Meeting approximately 1 year prior to expected quarter of student teaching.
- Submit application for student teaching after attending Mandatory Meeting, approximately 1 year prior to student teaching.
- Academic requirements are due one quarter before expected quarter of student teaching.
- Clinical requirements are completed as course requirements. Field experience hours are entered by the
Online Faculty Evaluations are entered by the instructor of relevant courses. All data must be entered in the Field Experience Documentation System (FEDS) due one month prior to student teaching.

Individual child care agencies and public and private school districts may have additional requirements (application, training, background check, etc.).

Degree Conferral and Graduation

The awarding of a degree is not automatic. You must submit an application to be considered for the degree. DePaul awards and posts degrees at the end of each regular academic term (autumn, winter, spring, summer I and summer II).

It is your responsibility to initiate the degree conferral application process by submitting an online application. Submitting an application means you intend to finish your degree requirements by the end of the term for which you have applied.

Undergraduate students must be approved for student teaching and complete student teaching and capstone to be cleared for the degree. Student must submit graduation application for the quarter that matches the quarter you are student teaching.

After you submit the application, you cannot register for any term after the one selected in the application.

Application deadlines are as follows:
- Fall Quarter - October 1st
- Winter Quarter - January 15th
- Spring Quarter - February 1st
- Summer Quarter - July 15th

To apply for degree conferral, log on to Campus Connection. Select STUDENT CENTER, then MY ACADEMICS. On screen instructions will take you through the application process.

Provided that all requirements and financial obligations are met, degrees are posted 30 days after the official end of the term. Official dates are listed on the Academic Calendar.

DePaul holds one commencement ceremony each year in June. If you intend to participate, you must first apply for degree conferral for the current academic year and then submit a cap and gown order. Honors are not announced at the ceremony for undergraduates completing their final courses in spring quarter because a final GPA is not available at the time of the ceremony.

Additional information about degree conferral and graduation can be found on the College of Education website at: http://education.depaul.edu/.

Licensure

Requirements for licensure include completion of full bachelor's degree program, all licensure tests (including OPI for world language majors), and awarding of bachelor's degree. A bachelor's degree is required to qualify for licensure and must be awarded before applying for the license.

Individuals must submit an application directly to the Illinois State Board of Education after completion of requirements and after DePaul has submitted notification to ISBE. Application requirements include application form, application fee, official transcripts, and registration fee.

All individuals must meet ISBE requirements in place at the time of application for the license. Requirements are subject to change per the discretion of ISBE.

Individuals seeking additional endorsements after applying for the licensure must contact ISBE directly for an evaluation request.
Liberal Studies Requirements

Honors program requirements can be found in the individual Colleges & Schools section of the University Catalog. Select Academics, followed by Undergraduate, then Honors Program Alternative.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.

Major Requirements

Course Requirements

Content Area Courses

Note: Language courses begin at the Advanced language for the major. A placement test in the language is required to determine skill level and appropriate level to begin the language. Beginning and Intermediate language courses are in addition to the content area requirements but can fulfill open elective requirements.

Oral Proficiency Interview (OPI) Test

Pursuing certification in the teaching of a world language (Chinese, French, German, Italian, Japanese, or Spanish) requires the oral proficiency test – an Interview – before you begin student teaching. You must earn a rating of “intermediate high” or better on the test.

Open Electives: 2 quarter hours are required

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours. The following cannot be used to fulfill an open elective: WRD 98, MAT 94, and MAT 95.

Student Teaching: 12 quarter hours required, grade of B- or better required

Registration in student teaching requires completion of all requirements and procedures indicated in the college core section. EDU 95 indicates to the Illinois State Board of Education that all field experience hours are complete. All students also take WLE 384 with student teaching (listed in the Liberal Studies section).
Licensure Tests

All individuals licensed by the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) are required to complete licensure tests specific to their teaching license. World Language Education Chinese majors must complete the following tests:

- Test of Academic Proficiency (TAP) (test #400) - assesses knowledge of reading comprehension, language arts, writing, and math. Test is required to qualify for Advanced Standing. *Check with your advisor about qualifying for a waiver with acceptable ACT or SAT test scores.
- Chinese Content Area Test (test #126) – assesses knowledge of the Chinese language and culture. Test is required before Student Teaching (deadlines apply).
- Assessment of Professional Teaching (APT) (test #104, grade K-12) – assesses knowledge of teaching planning, delivery, assessment, professionalism, and technology. Test is required to be licensed; recommended to be taken before Student Teaching.

World Language Education French (BA)

The Bachelor of Arts program in World Language Education French prepares students to teach Kindergarten through 12th grade in a variety of urban and suburban education settings, including public and private elementary and high schools.

Students learn educational theories and effective teaching practices, participate in field experiences, which require observation and participation in teaching activities at multiple schools, and student teaching. Students should meet early and regularly with their advisor to design and monitor their program of study.

The program combines theoretical principles of education and field work with the student's choice of major. Students follow a general pattern of study for middle school and high school levels. In all cases, appropriate field experience plays an integral role.

Students entering the program must be able and willing to devote themselves to a program requiring a minimum of 130-135 hours of daytime field experiences in schools. These school-based clinical hours are completed in conjunction with methodology courses that require students to spend a half-day each week in a school. In addition, the student must spend a minimum of 11 weeks in full-time student teaching.

Please make sure you consult the Liberal Studies Requirements, Major Requirements, and College Core Requirements for full degree requirements.

College Core Requirements

Dispositions

The academic programs within the College of Education have set forth these dispositions as educational and professional expectations for all students. Students should be aware that failing to abide by DePaul University or College of Education policies including, under certain circumstances, these dispositions, could result in adverse consequences for the student, including removal from his or her program, the College of Education, or the University.

The following dispositions apply to Early Childhood Education, Elementary Education, Physical Education, Secondary Education, and World Language Education majors only:

- Reflects on progress and identifies strengths and weaknesses, including evaluating strategies for success, finding alternatives for inappropriate strategies, and modifying future practices
- Is receptive to faculty feedback and acts meaningfully and professionally upon suggestions
- Values critical thinking, including engaging theoretical and philosophical frameworks and shows evidence of critical thinking through discussion and writing (e.g., journals, response to prompts)
- Understands the importance of and is committed to communicating clearly orally and in writing both in traditional and in new and emerging digital formats
- Values and is committed to continually developing strong content area knowledge and/or knowledge of the professional field, including pedagogical content knowledge
- Takes initiative, uses imagination and creativity, and seeks out information using a variety of human and material resources and technology to inform his or her teaching
- Is aware of the role of classroom environment and uses management procedures that reflect respect and care for learners and concern for their emotional and physical well being
- Takes the time and effort needed to understand how students learn, including discovering their interests and experiences and determining how to shape teaching acts (using technology as appropriate) that engage learners meaningfully and actively
- Values and is committed to using assessment to evaluate and ensure the continuous intellectual, social, emotional, and physical development of the learner
- Respects and considers cultural contexts in order to determine how to be responsive to learners and to proactively promote all students' learning
- Values and is responsive to diverse learners' academic, emotional, and social needs through teaching acts (including careful instructional planning, implementation, and differentiation) and through everyday interactions with students
- Is committed to collaboration with colleagues, families, and communities in order to promote all students' learning and development
- Recognizes and fulfills professional responsibilities and habits of conduct (e.g., dress, language, preparedness, attendance, punctuality, etc.)
- Demonstrates collegiality, honesty, good judgment, courtesy, respect, and diplomacy
- Balances self-confidence and assertiveness with respect for others' perspectives
- Respects the requirements, expectations, and procedures of both the College of Education and of our field partners and appreciates the issues of trust, fairness, and professionalism involved

The following dispositions apply to Special Education majors only:

- Is receptive to faculty feedback and acts meaningfully and professionally upon suggestions
- Reflects on his or her own progress, identifies strengths and weaknesses, and evaluates strategies for success and professional growth
- Takes initiative
- Is open to new ideas and engagement in learning
- Respects diversity and cultural contexts to determine how to be responsive to learners and to proactively promote all students' learning
- Expresses positive attitudes toward individuals with disabilities and a willingness to advocate on their behalf
- Is committed to collaboration with colleagues, families, and communities in order to promote all students' learning and development
- Demonstrates professional ethical and legal behavior as defined by the respective codes of ethics and laws
- Demonstrates consistent professional behavior across all academic settings
- Maintains appropriate interpersonal and professional boundaries
- Accepts personal responsibility for one's behavior
- Expresses feelings and opinions effectively and appropriately
- Upholds confidentiality

Skill Building Courses

Before taking any math or English courses, students must take the DePaul placement tests to determine if skill level is at the college level. If placement indicates skill level in these courses, the courses become part of degree requirements. Consult with your advisor regarding placement test results and any required classes.

Advanced Standing

Students are conditionally admitted to the College of Education. There are additional requirements to reach Advanced Standing in your program in the College of Education. Requirements must be met to progress in the major and take courses in the Advanced Standing category.

Advanced Standing requirements are:

- Maintain a DePaul undergraduate 2.5 GPA
- Pass the Illinois Test of Academic Proficiency (TAP)
- Submit a petition for advanced standing form

Students should attempt to complete the Advanced Standing requirements soon after beginning the program. There is no time limit to meet these criteria; however, students will only be able to take pre-education courses until requirements have been met. Students can also take liberal studies or content area courses before or after meeting Advanced Standing requirements.

Modern Language Competence Requirement

Students pursuing a Bachelor of Arts degree in the College of Education will be required to demonstrate a measure of competence in a modern language, as defined by the college. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing two years of a language sequence in high school
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

Please note: The Modern Language Competence Requirement is not required for students in the Early Childhood Education: SNL Joint Program (BAECE) program.

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Education will abide by the COE Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.

B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program. While B.S. students are not required to demonstrate competency in a modern language, the "Modern Language Option" is available to them for language study at any level.

Licensure Tests

All individuals licensed by the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) are required to complete licensure tests specific to their teaching license.

Field Experiences

Each student seeking licensure from the College of Education/Professional Education Unit must complete supervised field experiences in appropriate settings in conjunction with education courses. The field experiences must include a variety of grade levels, multicultural experiences, and a minimum of 10 hours in special education settings. All field experiences must be completed prior to final approval for student teaching. Field experience hours should be entered by the student into the FEDS system when completing courses with field experience requirements.

Endorsements

An endorsement is a subject area that you can qualify to teach full time, in addition to your main licensure area. Endorsements are issued at three levels: primary, middle school, and high school.
The Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) issues endorsements in various subject areas. To view the full list and requirements, visit the ISBE website.

Qualifying for an endorsement at the middle school level requires 18 semester hours (27 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area and complete SCU 339. Some areas (like math) have specifically required courses or require additional hours. Courses must have a grade of C or better to qualify for endorsements and must be earned credit listed on a college transcript as earned credit.

Consult with your advisor regarding endorsements. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following middle school areas: Arabic, art, bilingual education, biological science, Chinese, ESL, French, general science, German, Italian, Japanese, language arts, math, physical science, social science, and Spanish.

In general, endorsement requirements for the primary level are identical to the middle school requirements except that they do not require SCU 339. There are a limited number of areas available at the primary level.

Qualifying for most endorsements at the high school level requires 24 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area* and passing the relevant content area test. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following high school areas: art, Arabic, Chinese, English, French, German, Italian, Japanese, math, Russian, science, social science, and Spanish.

* Exceptions to the basic requirements for high school level endorsements include the subject areas of foreign language, science, and social science.

For science and social science, 32 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in the broad area of either science or social science, and 12 semester hours in the specific endorsement designation area, plus the content area test are required. To qualify for additional science and social science designations, individuals applying after February 1, 2012 need both the content test and 12 semester hours in the additional designation area.

Special Education majors do not qualify for middle school endorsements.

Student Teaching Requirements

Student Teaching is the culminating clinical experience in the student's program. All students in teacher preparation programs must meet the following requirements before applying for student teaching:

Academic Requirements:

- Completion of all Liberal Studies, Pre-Education, Advanced Standing and concentration/content area courses
- Overall cumulative G.P.A. of 2.50 or better
- Cumulative GPA. of 2.75 or better in all education courses
- Meet all other program requirements (e.g., modern language and residency requirements)
- Meet designated program standards
- Pass the required Illinois licensure content area test

Clinical Requirements:

- Completion of all required field experiences
- Three satisfactory evaluations in field experiences
- Three satisfactory faculty recommendations
- Attendance at mandatory meeting for student teaching
- Application for student teaching, resume, transcripts, and writing sample (check deadlines)
- Review and approval by Student Teaching Committee of the College of Education

Student Teaching Timeline and Deadlines:

- Attend a Mandatory Meeting approximately 1 year prior to expected quarter of student teaching.
- Submit application for student teaching after attending Mandatory Meeting, approximately 1 year prior to student teaching.
- Academic requirements are due one quarter before expected quarter of student teaching.
- Clinical requirements are completed as course requirements. Field experience hours are entered by the student as coursework is completed.

Online Faculty Evaluations are entered by the instructor of relevant courses. All data must be entered in the Field Experience Documentation System (FEDS) due one month prior to student teaching.

Individual child care agencies and public and private school districts may have additional requirements (application, training, background check, etc.).
Degree Conferral and Graduation

The awarding of a degree is not automatic. You must submit an application to be considered for the degree. DePaul awards and posts degrees at the end of each regular academic term (autumn, winter, spring, summer I and summer II).

It is your responsibility to initiate the degree conferral application process by submitting an online application. Submitting an application means you intend to finish your degree requirements by the end of the term for which you have applied.

Undergraduate students must be approved for student teaching and complete student teaching and capstone to be cleared for the degree. Student must submit graduation application for the quarter that matches the quarter you are student teaching.

After you submit the application, you cannot register for any term after the one selected in the application.

Application deadlines are as follows:
- Fall Quarter - October 1st
- Winter Quarter - January 15th
- Spring Quarter - February 1st
- Summer Quarter - July 15th

To apply for degree conferral, log on to Campus Connection. Select STUDENT CENTER, then MY ACADEMICS. On screen instructions will take you through the application process.

Provided that all requirements and financial obligations are met, degrees are posted 30 days after the official end of the term. Official dates are listed on the Academic Calendar.

DePaul holds one commencement ceremony each year in June. If you intend to participate, you must first apply for degree conferral for the current academic year and then submit a cap and gown order. Honors are not announced at the ceremony for undergraduates completing their final courses in spring quarter because a final GPA is not available at the time of the ceremony.

Additional information about degree conferral and graduation can be found on the College of Education website at: http://education.depaul.edu/.

Licensure

Requirements for licensure include completion of full bachelor's degree program, all licensure tests (including OPI for world language majors), and awarding of bachelor's degree. A bachelor's degree is required to qualify for licensure and must be awarded before applying for the license.

Individuals must submit an application directly to the Illinois State Board of Education after completion of requirements and after DePaul has submitted notification to ISBE. Application requirements include application form, application fee, official transcripts, and registration fee.

All individuals must meet ISBE requirements in place at the time of application for the license. Requirements are subject to change per the discretion of ISBE.

Individuals seeking additional endorsements after applying for the licensure must contact ISBE directly for an evaluation request.

- Values and is committed to continually developing strong content area knowledge and/or knowledge of the professional field, including pedagogical content knowledge
- Takes initiative, uses imagination and creativity, and seeks out information using a variety of human and technological resources material resources and technology to inform his or her teaching

- Is aware of the role of classroom environment and uses management procedures that reflect respect and care for learners and concern for their emotional and physical well being
- Takes the time and effort needed to understand how students learn, including discovering their interests and experiences and determining how to shape teaching acts (using technology as appropriate) that engage learners meaningfully and actively
- Values and is committed to using assessment to evaluate and ensure the continuous intellectual, social, emotional, and physical development of the learner
- Respects and considers cultural contexts in order to determine how to be responsive to learners and to proactively promote all students' learning
- Values and is responsive to diverse learners' academic, emotional, and social needs through teaching acts (including careful instructional planning, implementation, and differentiation) and through everyday interactions with students
- Is committed to collaboration with colleagues, families, and communities in order to promote all students' learning and development
- Demonstrates professional responsibilities and habits of conduct (e.g., dress, language, preparedness, attendance, punctuality, etc.)
- Demonstrates collegiality, honesty, good judgment, courtesy, respect, and diplomacy
- Balances self-confidence and assertiveness with respect for others' perspectives
- Respects the requirements, expectations, and procedures of both the College of Education and of our field partners and appreciates the issues of trust, fairness, and professionalism involved

The following dispositions apply to Special Education majors only:

- Is receptive to faculty feedback and acts meaningfully and professionally upon suggestions
- Reflects on his or her own progress, identifies strengths and weaknesses, and evaluates strategies for success and professional growth
- Takes initiative
- Is open to new ideas and engagement in learning
- Respects diversity and cultural contexts to determine how to be responsive to learners and to proactively promote all students' learning
- Expresses positive attitudes toward individuals with disabilities and a willingness to advocate on their behalf
- Is committed to collaboration with colleagues, families, and communities in order to promote all students' learning and development
- Demonstrates professional ethical and legal behavior as defined by the respective codes of ethics and laws
- Demonstrates consistent professional behavior across all academic settings
- Maintains appropriate interpersonal and professional boundaries
- Accepts personal responsibility for one's behavior
- Expresses feelings and opinions effectively and appropriately
- Upholds confidentiality

Skill Building Courses

Before taking any math or English courses, students must take the DePaul placement tests to determine if skill level is at the college level. If placement indicates skill level in these courses, the courses become part of degree requirements. Consult with your advisor regarding placement test results and any required classes.

Advanced Standing

Students are conditionally admitted to the College of Education. There are additional requirements to reach Advanced Standing in your program in the College of Education. Requirements must be met to progress in the major and take courses in the Advanced Standing category.

Advanced Standing requirements are:

- Maintain a DePaul undergraduate 2.5 GPA
- Pass the Illinois Test of Academic Proficiency (TAP)
- Submit a petition for advanced standing form

Students should attempt to complete the Advanced Standing requirements soon after beginning the program. There is no time limit to meet these criteria; however, students will only be able to take pre-education courses until requirements have been met. Students can also take liberal studies or content area courses before or after meeting Advanced Standing requirements.

Modern Language Competence Requirement

Students pursuing a Bachelor of Arts degree in the College of Education will be required to demonstrate a measure of competence in a modern language, as defined by the college. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:
• completing two years of a language sequence in high school
• completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
• completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
• achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
• achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
• achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language
• achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
• achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

Please note: The Modern Language Competence Requirement is not required for students in the Early Childhood Education: SNL Joint Program (BAECE) program.

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Education will abide by the COE Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.

B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program. While B.S. students are not required to demonstrate competency in a modern language, the "Modern Language Option" is available to them for language study at any level.

Licensure Tests

All individuals licensed by the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) are required to complete licensure tests specific to their teaching license.

Field Experiences

Each student seeking licensure from the College of Education/Professional Education Unit must complete supervised field experiences in appropriate settings in conjunction with education courses. The field experiences must include a variety of grade levels, multicultural experiences, and a minimum of 10 hours in special education settings. All field experiences must be completed prior to final approval for student teaching. Field experience hours should be entered by the student into the FEDS system when completing courses with field experience requirements.

Endorsements

An endorsement is a subject area that you can qualify to teach full time, in addition to your main licensure area. Endorsements are issued at three levels: primary, middle school, and high school.

The Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) issues endorsements in various subject areas. To view the full list and requirements, visit the ISBE website.

Qualifying for an endorsement at the middle school level requires 18 semester hours (27 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area and complete SCU 339. Some areas (like math) have specifically required courses or require additional hours. Courses must have a grade of C or better to qualify for endorsements and must be earned credit listed on a college transcript as earned credit.

Consult with your advisor regarding endorsements. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following middle school areas: Arabic, art, bilingual education, biological science, Chinese, ESL, French, general science, German, Italian, Japanese, language arts, math, physical science, social science, and Spanish.

In general, endorsement requirements for the primary level are identical to the middle school requirements except that they do not require SCU 339. There are a limited number of areas available at the primary level.

Qualifying for most endorsements at the high school level requires 24 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area* and passing the relevant content area test. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following high school areas: art, Arabic, Chinese, English, French, German, Italian, Japanese, math, Russian, science, social science, and Spanish.

* Exceptions to the basic requirements for high school level endorsements include the subject areas of foreign language, science, and social science.

 For science and social science, 32 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in the broad area of either science or social science, and 12 semester hours in the specific endorsement designation area, plus the content area test are required. To qualify for additional science and social science designations, individuals applying after February 1, 2012 need both the content test and 12 semester hours in the additional designation area.

Special Education majors do not qualify for middle school endorsements.

Student Teaching Requirements

Student Teaching is the culminating clinical experience in the student's program. All students in teacher preparation programs must meet the following requirements before applying for student teaching:

Academic Requirements:

- Completion of all Liberal Studies, Pre-Education, Advanced Standing and concentration/content area courses
- Overall cumulative G.P.A. of 2.50 or better
- Cumulative GPA of 2.75 or better in all education courses
- Meet all other program requirements (e.g., modern language and residency requirements)
- Meet designated program standards
- Pass the required Illinois licensure content area test

Clinical Requirements:

- Completion of all required field experiences
- Three satisfactory evaluations in field experiences
- Three satisfactory faculty recommendations
- Attendance at mandatory meeting for student teaching
- Application for student teaching, resume, transcripts, and writing sample (check deadlines)
- Review and approval by Student Teaching Committee of the College of Education

Student Teaching Timeline and Deadlines:

- Attend a Mandatory Meeting approximately 1 year prior to expected quarter of student teaching.
- Submit application for student teaching after attending Mandatory Meeting, approximately 1 year prior to student teaching.
- Academic requirements are due one quarter before expected quarter of student teaching.
- Clinical requirements are completed as course requirements. Field experience hours are entered by the student as coursework is completed.

Online Faculty Evaluations are entered by the instructor of relevant courses. All data must be entered in the Field Experience Documentation System (FEDS) due one month prior to student teaching.

Individual child care agencies and public and private school districts may have additional requirements (application, training, background check, etc.).

Degree Conferral and Graduation

The awarding of a degree is not automatic. You must submit an application to be considered for the degree. DePaul awards and posts degrees at the end of each regular academic term (autumn, winter, spring, summer I and summer II).

It is your responsibility to initiate the degree conferral application process by submitting an online application. Submitting an application means you intend to finish your degree requirements by the end of the term for which you have applied.

Undergraduate students must be approved for student teaching and complete student teaching and capstone to be cleared for the degree. Student must submit graduation application for the quarter that matches the quarter you are student teaching.

After you submit the application, you cannot register for any term after the one selected in the application.

Application deadlines are as follows:
- Fall Quarter - October 1st
- Winter Quarter - January 15th
- Spring Quarter - February 1st
- Summer Quarter - July 15th

To apply for degree conferral, log on to Campus Connection. Select STUDENT CENTER, then MY ACADEMICS. On screen instructions will take you through the application process.
Provided that all requirements and financial obligations are met, degrees are posted 30 days after the official end of the term. Official dates are listed on the Academic Calendar.

DePaul holds one commencement ceremony each year in June. If you intend to participate, you must first apply for degree conferral for the current academic year and then submit a cap and gown order. Honors are not announced at the ceremony for undergraduates completing their final courses in spring quarter because a final GPA is not available at the time of the ceremony.

Additional information about degree conferral and graduation can be found on the College of Education website at: http://education.depaul.edu/.

Licensure

Requirements for licensure include completion of full bachelor’s degree program, all licensure tests (including OPI for world language majors), and awarding of bachelor’s degree. A bachelor’s degree is required to qualify for licensure and must be awarded before applying for the license.

Individuals must submit an application directly to the Illinois State Board of Education after completion of requirements and after DePaul has submitted notification to ISBE. Application requirements include application form, application fee, official transcripts, and registration fee.

All individuals must meet ISBE requirements in place at the time of application for the license. Requirements are subject to change per the discretion of ISBE.

Individuals seeking additional endorsements after applying for the licensure must contact ISBE directly for an evaluation request.

Liberal Studies Requirements

Honors program requirements can be found in the individual Colleges & Schools section of the University Catalog. Select Academics, followed by Undergraduate, then Honors Program Alternative.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.

Major Requirements

Course Requirements

Content Area Courses

Note: Language courses begin at the Advanced level for the major. A placement test in the language is required to determine skill level and appropriate level to begin the language. Beginning and Intermediate language courses are in addition to the content area requirements but can fulfill open elective requirements.

Advanced Language Core: 12 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

- GER 201 ADVANCED COMMUNICATION I
- GER 202 ADVANCED COMMUNICATION II
- GER 203 ADVANCED COMMUNICATION III

Language Electives Core: 36 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

- GER 200-300 level course 1
- GER 200-300 level course 2
- GER 200-300 level course 3
- GER 200-300 level course 4

- WLE 375 WLE HISTORY, POLICY, AND CURRICULUM DEVELOPMENT
- SCU 338 THE PROCESS AND EVALUATION OF LEARNING
  or SCU 339 PHILOSOPHY AND PSYCHOLOGY OF YOUTH AND MIDDLE LEVEL EDUCATION

Oral Proficiency Interview (OPI) Test
Pursuing certification in the teaching of a world language (Chinese, French, German, Italian, Japanese, or Spanish) requires the oral proficiency test – an Interview – before you begin student teaching. You must earn a rating of "intermediate high" or better on the test.

Open Electives: 2 quarter hours are required

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours. The following cannot be used to fulfill an open elective: WRD 98, MAT 94, and MAT 95.

Student Teaching: 12 quarter hours required, grade of B- or better required

Registration in student teaching requires completion of all requirements and procedures indicated in the college core section. EDU 95 indicates to the Illinois State Board of Education that all field experience hours are complete. All students also take WLE 384 with student teaching (listed in the Liberal Studies section).

- WLE 385 STUDENT TEACHING IN WORLD LANGUAGES (12 credit hours)
- EDU 95 CLINICAL EXPERIENCE WITH CHILDREN AND YOUTH (non-credit, non-tuition, PA grade required)

Licensure Tests

All individuals licensed by the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) are required to complete licensure tests specific to their teaching license. World Language Education German majors must complete the following tests:

- Test of Academic Proficiency (TAP) (test #400) - assesses knowledge of reading comprehension, language arts, writing, and math. Test is required to qualify for Advanced Standing. *Check with your advisor about qualifying for a waiver with acceptable ACT or SAT test scores.
- German Content Area Test (test #128) – assesses knowledge of the German language and culture. Test is required before Student Teaching (deadlines apply).
- Assessment of Professional Teaching (APT) (test #104, grade K-12) – assesses knowledge of teaching planning, delivery, assessment, professionalism, and technology. Test is required to be licensed; recommended to be taken before Student Teaching.

World Language Education Italian (BA)

The Bachelor of Arts program in World Language Education Italian prepares students to teach Kindergarten through 12th grade in a variety of urban and suburban education settings, including public and private elementary and high schools.

Students learn educational theories and effective teaching practices, participate in field experiences, which require observation and participation in teaching activities at multiple schools, and student teaching. Students should meet early and regularly with their advisor to design and monitor their program of study.

The program combines theoretical principles of education and field work with the student's choice of major. Students follow a general pattern of study for middle school and high school levels. In all cases, appropriate field experience plays an integral role.

Students entering the program must be able and willing to devote themselves to a program requiring a minimum of 130-135 hours of daytime field experiences in schools. These school-based clinical hours are completed in conjunction with methodology courses that require students to spend a half-day each week in a school. In addition, the student must spend a minimum of 11 weeks in full-time student teaching.

Please make sure you consult the Liberal Studies Requirements, Major Requirements, and College Core Requirements for full degree requirements.

Licensure

College Core Requirements

Dispositions

The academic programs within the College of Education have set forth these dispositions as educational and professional expectations for all students. Students should be aware that failing to abide by DePaul University or College of Education policies including, under certain circumstances, these dispositions, could result in adverse consequences for the student, including removal from his or her program, the College of Education, or the University.

The following dispositions apply to Early Childhood Education, Elementary Education, Physical Education, Secondary Education, and World Language Education majors only:

- Reflects on progress and identifies strengths and weaknesses, including evaluating strategies for success, finding alternatives for inappropriate strategies, and modifying future practices
- Is receptive to faculty feedback and acts meaningfully and professionally upon suggestions
- Values critical thinking, including engaging theoretical and philosophical frameworks and shows evidence of critical thinking through discussion and writing (e.g., journals, response to prompts)
- Understands the importance of and is committed to communicating clearly orally and in writing both in traditional and in new and emerging digital formats
- Values and is committed to continually developing strong content area knowledge and/or knowledge of the professional field, including pedagogical content knowledge
- Takes initiative, uses imagination and creativity, and seeks out information using a variety of human and material resources and technology to inform his or her teaching
- Is aware of the role of classroom environment and uses management procedures that reflect respect and care for learners and concern for their emotional and physical well being
- Takes the time and effort needed to understand how students learn, including discovering their interests and experiences and determining how to shape teaching acts (using technology as appropriate) that engage learners meaningfully and actively
- Values and is committed to using assessment to evaluate and ensure the continuous intellectual, social, emotional, and physical development of the learner
- Respects and considers cultural contexts in order to determine how to be responsive to learners and to proactively promote all students' learning
- Values and is responsive to diverse learners' academic, emotional, and social needs through teaching acts (including careful instructional planning, implementation, and differentiation) and through everyday interactions with students
- Is committed to collaboration with colleagues, families, and communities in order to promote all students' learning and development
- Recognizes and fulfills professional responsibilities and habits of conduct (e.g., dress, language, preparedness, attendance, punctuality, etc.)
- Demonstrates collegiality, honesty, good judgment, courtesy, respect, and diplomacy
- Balances self-confidence and assertiveness with respect for others' perspectives
- Respects the requirements, expectations, and procedures of both the College of Education and of our field partners and appreciates the issues of trust, fairness, and professionalism involved

The following dispositions apply to Special Education majors only:

- Is receptive to faculty feedback and acts meaningfully and professionally upon suggestions
- Reflects on his or her own progress, identifies strengths and weaknesses, and evaluates strategies for success and professional growth
- Takes initiative
- Is open to new ideas and engagement in learning
- Respects diversity and cultural contexts to determine how to be responsive to learners and to proactively promote all students' learning
• Expresses positive attitudes toward individuals with disabilities and a willingness to advocate on their behalf
• Is committed to collaboration with colleagues, families, and communities in order to promote all students' learning and development
• Demonstrates professional ethical and legal behavior as defined by the respective codes of ethics and laws
• Demonstrates consistent professional behavior across all academic settings
• Maintains appropriate interpersonal and professional boundaries
• Accepts personal responsibility for one's behavior
• Expresses feelings and opinions effectively and appropriately
• Upholds confidentiality

Skill Building Courses

Before taking any math or English courses, students must take the DePaul placement tests to determine if skill level is at the college level. If placement indicates skill level in these courses, the courses become part of degree requirements. Consult with your advisor regarding placement test results and any required classes.

Advanced Standing

Students are conditionally admitted to the College of Education. There are additional requirements to reach Advanced Standing in your program in the College of Education. Requirements must be met to progress in the major and take courses in the Advanced Standing category.

Advanced Standing requirements are:

- Maintain a DePaul undergraduate 2.5 GPA
- Pass the Illinois Test of Academic Proficiency (TAP)
- Submit a petition for advanced standing form

Students should attempt to complete the Advanced Standing requirements soon after beginning the program. There is no time limit to meet these criteria; however, students will only be able to take pre-education courses until requirements have been met. Students can also take liberal studies or content area courses before or after meeting Advanced Standing requirements.

Modern Language Competence Requirement

Students pursuing a Bachelor of Arts degree in the College of Education will be required to demonstrate a measure of competence in a modern language, as defined by the college. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing two years of a language sequence in high school
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

Please note: The Modern Language Competence Requirement is not required for students in the Early Childhood Education: SNL Joint Program (BAECE) program.

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Education will abide by the COE Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.

B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the “Modern Language Option” of the Liberal Studies Program. While B.S. students are not required to demonstrate competency in a modern language, the “Modern Language Option” is available to them for language study at any level.

Licensure Tests

All individuals licensed by the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) are required to complete licensure tests specific to their teaching license.
Field Experiences

Each student seeking licensure from the College of Education/Professional Education Unit must complete supervised field experiences in appropriate settings in conjunction with education courses. The field experiences must include a variety of grade levels, multicultural experiences, and a minimum of 10 hours in special education settings. All field experiences must be completed prior to final approval for student teaching. Field experience hours should be entered by the student into the FEDS system when completing courses with field experience requirements.

Endorsements

An endorsement is a subject area that you can qualify to teach full time, in addition to your main licensure area. Endorsements are issued at three levels: primary, middle school, and high school.

The Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) issues endorsements in various subject areas. To view the full list and requirements, visit the ISBE website.

Qualifying for an endorsement at the middle school level requires 18 semester hours (27 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area and complete SCU 339. Some areas (like math) have specifically required courses or require additional hours. Courses must have a grade of C or better to qualify for endorsements and must be earned credit listed on a college transcript as earned credit.

Consult with your advisor regarding endorsements. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following middle school areas: Arabic, art, bilingual education, biological science, Chinese, ESL, French, general science, German, Italian, Japanese, language arts, math, physical science, social science, and Spanish.

In general, endorsement requirements for the primary level are identical to the middle school requirements except that they do not require SCU 339. There are a limited number of areas available at the primary level.

Qualifying for most endorsements at the high school level requires 24 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area* and passing the relevant content area test. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following high school areas: art, Arabic, Chinese, English, French, German, Italian, Japanese, math, Russian, science, social science, and Spanish.

* Exceptions to the basic requirements for high school level endorsements include the subject areas of foreign language, science, and social science.

For science and social science, 32 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in the broad area of either science or social science, and 12 semester hours in the specific endorsement designation area, plus the content area test are required. To qualify for additional science and social science designations, individuals applying after February 1, 2012 need both the content test and 12 semester hours in the additional designation area.

Special Education majors do not qualify for middle school endorsements.

Student Teaching Requirements

Student Teaching is the culminating clinical experience in the student's program. All students in teacher preparation programs must meet the following requirements before applying for student teaching:

Academic Requirements:

- Completion of all Liberal Studies, Pre-Education, Advanced Standing and concentration/content area courses
- Overall cumulative G.P.A. of 2.50 or better
- Cumulative GPA. of 2.75 or better in all education courses
- Meet all other program requirements (e.g., modern language and residency requirements)
- Meet designated program standards
- Pass the required Illinois licensure content area test

Clinical Requirements:

- Completion of all required field experiences
- Three satisfactory evaluations in field experiences
- Three satisfactory faculty recommendations
- Attendance at mandatory meeting for student teaching
- Application for student teaching, resume, transcripts, and writing sample (check deadlines)
- Review and approval by Student Teaching Committee of the College of Education

Student Teaching Timeline and Deadlines:
Attend a Mandatory Meeting approximately 1 year prior to expected quarter of student teaching.
Submit application for student teaching after attending Mandatory Meeting, approximately 1 year prior to student teaching.
Academic requirements are due one quarter before expected quarter of student teaching.
Clinical requirements are completed as course requirements. Field experience hours are entered by the student as coursework is completed.

Online Faculty Evaluations are entered by the instructor of relevant courses. All data must be entered in the Field Experience Documentation System (FEDS) due one month prior to student teaching.

Individual child care agencies and public and private school districts may have additional requirements (application, training, background check, etc.).

Degree Conferral and Graduation

The awarding of a degree is not automatic. You must submit an application to be considered for the degree. DePaul awards and posts degrees at the end of each regular academic term (autumn, winter, spring, summer I and summer II).

It is your responsibility to initiate the degree conferral application process by submitting an online application. Submitting an application means you intend to finish your degree requirements by the end of the term for which you have applied.

Undergraduate students must be approved for student teaching and complete student teaching and capstone to be cleared for the degree. Student must submit graduation application for the quarter that matches the quarter you are student teaching.

After you submit the application, you cannot register for any term after the one selected in the application.

Application deadlines are as follows:
Fall Quarter - October 1st
Winter Quarter - January 15th
Spring Quarter - February 1st
Summer Quarter - July 15th

To apply for degree conferral, log on to Campus Connection. Select STUDENT CENTER, then MY ACADEMICS. On screen instructions will take you through the application process.

Provided that all requirements and financial obligations are met, degrees are posted 30 days after the official end of the term. Official dates are listed on the Academic Calendar.

DePaul holds one commencement ceremony each year in June. If you intend to participate, you must first apply for degree conferral for the current academic year and then submit a cap and gown order. Honors are not announced at the ceremony for undergraduates completing their final courses in spring quarter because a final GPA is not available at the time of the ceremony.

Additional information about degree conferral and graduation can be found on the College of Education website at: http://education.depaul.edu/.

Licensure

Requirements for licensure include completion of full bachelor’s degree program, all licensure tests (including OPI for world language majors), and awarding of bachelor’s degree. A bachelor’s degree is required to qualify for licensure and must be awarded before applying for the license.

Individuals must submit an application directly to the Illinois State Board of Education after completion of requirements and after DePaul has submitted notification to ISBE. Application requirements include application form, application fee, official transcripts, and registration fee.

All individuals must meet ISBE requirements in place at the time of application for the license. Requirements are subject to change per the discretion of ISBE.

Individuals seeking additional endorsements after applying for the licensure must contact ISBE directly for an evaluation request.

- 1 CHE/ENV/GEO/PHY course
- 1 Additional Course
  (Note: One course must be a lab.)

Self, Society and the Modern World (SSMW)

- 2 Courses Required:
  - PSC 120 THE AMERICAN POLITICAL SYSTEM
  - 1 Additional Course

Religious Dimensions (RD)

- 2 Courses Required

Understanding the Past (UP)

- 2 Courses Required
  (Note: One must be US History.)

* Students must earn a C- or better in this course.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.

Major Requirements

Course Requirements

Content Area Courses

Note: Language courses begin at the Advanced language for the major. A placement test in the language is required to determine skill level and appropriate level to begin the language. Beginning and Intermediate language courses are in addition to the content area requirements but can fulfill open elective requirements.

Advanced Language Core: 12 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

- ITA 201 ADVANCED COMMUNICATION I
- ITA 202 ADVANCED COMMUNICATION II
- ITA 203 ADVANCED COMMUNICATION III

Language Electives Core: 36 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required
Teaching Culture Core: 4 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

- WLE 360 SECOND, WORLD AND HERITAGE LANGUAGE ACQUISITION K-12

Pre-Education Introductory Courses: 22 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

- SCU 207 SOCIAL AND HISTORICAL ISSUES IN EDUCATION
- SCU 337 HUMAN GROWTH AND DEVELOPMENT
- EE 281 INTRODUCTION TO EDUCATIONAL PRACTICE
- SEC 364 METHODS: CURRICULUM AND INSTRUCTION IN SECONDARY SCHOOLS (6 credit hours)
- PE 206 PERSONAL AND COMMUNITY HEALTH
  or PE 273 HEALTH AND NUTRITION

Advanced Standing Education Courses: 24 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

- LSI 346 STRATEGIES FOR MAINSTREAMING AND INCLUSION
- WLE 326 THEORETICAL FOUNDATIONS OF ESL AND WLE
- WLE 349 STANDARD AND CONTENT-BASED METHODS OF TEACHING WORLD LANGUAGES K-12
- WLE 370 SECOND & WORLD LANGUAGE LITERACIES AND CULTURES
- WLE 375 WLE HISTORY, POLICY, AND CURRICULUM DEVELOPMENT
- SCU 338 THE PROCESS AND EVALUATION OF LEARNING
  or SCU 339 PHILOSOPHY AND PSYCHOLOGY OF YOUTH AND MIDDLE LEVEL EDUCATION

Oral Proficiency Interview (OPI) Test

Pursuing certification in the teaching of a world language (Chinese, French, German, Italian, Japanese, or Spanish) requires the oral proficiency test – an Interview – before you begin student teaching. You must earn a rating of "intermediate high" or better on the test.

Open Electives: 2 quarter hours are required

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours. The following cannot be used to fulfill an open elective: WRD 98, MAT 94, and MAT 95.

Student Teaching: 12 quarter hours required, grade of B- or better required

Registration in student teaching requires completion of all requirements and procedures indicated in the college core section. EDU 95 indicates to the Illinois State Board of Education that all field experience hours are complete. All students also take WLE 384 with student teaching (listed in the Liberal Studies section).

- WLE 385 STUDENT TEACHING IN WORLD LANGUAGES (12 credit hours)
- EDU 95 CLINICAL EXPERIENCE WITH CHILDREN AND YOUTH (non-credit, non-tuition, PA grade required)

Licensure Tests

All individuals licensed by the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) are required to complete licensure tests specific to their teaching license. World Language Education Italian majors must complete the following tests:

- Test of Academic Proficiency (TAP) (test #400) - assesses knowledge of reading comprehension, language arts, writing, and math. Test is required to qualify for Advanced Standing. *Check with your advisor about qualifying for a waiver with acceptable ACT or SAT test scores.
- Italian Content Area Test (test #130) – assesses knowledge of the Italian language and culture. Test is required before Student Teaching (deadlines apply).
- Assessment of Professional Teaching (APT) (test #104, grade K-12) – assesses knowledge of teaching planning, delivery, assessment, professionalism, and technology. Test is required to be licensed; recommended to be taken before Student Teaching.

World Language Education Japanese (BA)

The Bachelor of Arts program in World Language Education Japanese prepares students to teach Kindergarten through 12th grade in a variety of urban and suburban education settings, including public and private elementary and high schools.

Students learn educational theories and effective teaching practices, participate in field experiences, which require observation and participation in teaching activities at multiple schools, and student teaching. Students should meet early and regularly with their advisor to design and monitor their program of study.

The program combines theoretical principles of education and field work with the student's choice of major. Students follow a general pattern of study for middle school and high school levels. In all cases, appropriate field experience plays an integral role.

Students entering the program must be able and willing to devote themselves to a program requiring a minimum of 130-135 hours of daytime field experiences in schools. These school-based clinical hours are completed in conjunction with methodology courses that require students to spend a half-day each week in a school. In addition, the student must spend a minimum of 11 weeks in full-time student teaching.

Please make sure you consult the Liberal Studies Requirements, Major Requirements, and College Core Requirements for full degree requirements.

Licensure

Illinois Professional Educator License with endorsement in Foreign Language Japanese (kindergarten-grade 12), an Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) approved program.

College Core Requirements

Dispositions

The academic programs within the College of Education have set forth these dispositions as educational and professional expectations for all students. Students should be aware that failing to abide by DePaul University or College of Education policies including, under certain circumstances, these dispositions, could result in adverse consequences for the student, including removal from his or her program, the College of Education, or the University.

The following dispositions apply to Early Childhood Education, Elementary Education, Physical Education, Secondary Education, and World Language Education majors only:

- Reflects on progress and identifies strengths and weaknesses, including evaluating strategies for success, finding alternatives for inappropriate strategies, and modifying future practices
- Is receptive to faculty feedback and acts meaningfully and professionally upon suggestions
Values critical thinking, including engaging theoretical and philosophical frameworks and shows evidence of critical thinking through discussion and writing (e.g., journals, response to prompts)
- Understands the importance of and is committed to communicating clearly orally and in writing both in traditional and in new and emerging digital formats
- Values and is committed to continually developing strong content area knowledge and/or knowledge of the professional field, including pedagogical content knowledge
- Takes initiative, uses imagination and creativity, and seeks out information using a variety of human and material resources and technology to inform his or her teaching
- Is aware of the role of classroom environment and uses management procedures that reflect respect and care for learners and concern for their emotional and physical well being
- Takes the time and effort needed to understand how students learn, including discovering their interests and experiences and determining how to shape teaching acts (using technology as appropriate) that engage learners meaningfully and actively
- Values and is committed to using assessment to evaluate and ensure the continuous intellectual, social, emotional, and physical development of the learner
- Respects and considers cultural contexts in order to determine how to be responsive to learners and to proactively promote all students' learning
- Values and is responsive to diverse learners' academic, emotional, and social needs through teaching acts (including careful instructional planning, implementation, and differentiation) and through everyday interactions with students
- Is committed to collaboration with colleagues, families, and communities in order to promote all students' learning and development
- Recognizes and fulfills professional responsibilities and habits of conduct (e.g., dress, language, preparedness, attendance, punctuality, etc.)
- Demonstrates collegiality, honesty, good judgment, courtesy, respect, and diplomacy
- Balances self-confidence and assertiveness with respect for others' perspectives
- Respects the requirements, expectations, and procedures of both the College of Education and of our field partners and appreciates the issues of trust, fairness, and professionalism involved

The following dispositions apply to Special Education majors only:
- Is receptive to faculty feedback and acts meaningfully and professionally upon suggestions
- Reflects on his or her own progress, identifies strengths and weaknesses, and evaluates strategies for success and professional growth
- Takes initiative
- Is open to new ideas and engagement in learning
- Respects diversity and cultural contexts to determine how to be responsive to learners and to proactively promote all students' learning
- Expresses positive attitudes toward individuals with disabilities and a willingness to advocate on their behalf
- Is committed to collaboration with colleagues, families, and communities in order to promote all students' learning and development
- Demonstrates professional ethical and legal behavior as defined by the respective codes of ethics and laws
- Demonstrates consistent professional behavior across all academic settings
- Maintains appropriate interpersonal and professional boundaries
- Accepts personal responsibility for one's behavior
- Expresses feelings and opinions effectively and appropriately
- Upholds confidentiality

Skill Building Courses

Before taking any math or English courses, students must take the DePaul placement tests to determine if skill level is at the college level. If placement indicates skill level in these courses, the courses become part of degree requirements. Consult with your advisor regarding placement test results and any required classes.

Advanced Standing

Students are conditionally admitted to the College of Education. There are additional requirements to reach Advanced Standing in your program in the College of Education. Requirements must be met to progress in the major and take courses in the Advanced Standing category.

Advanced Standing requirements are:
- Maintain a DePaul undergraduate 2.5 GPA
- Pass the Illinois Test of Academic Proficiency (TAP)
- Submit a petition for advanced standing form

Students should attempt to complete the Advanced Standing requirements soon after beginning the program. There is no time limit to meet these criteria; however, students will only be able to take pre-education courses until requirements have been met. Students can also take liberal studies or content area courses before or after meeting Advanced Standing requirements.
Modern Language Competence Requirement

Students pursuing a Bachelor of Arts degree in the College of Education will be required to demonstrate a measure of competence in a modern language, as defined by the college. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing two years of a language sequence in high school
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

Please note: The Modern Language Competence Requirement is not required for students in the Early Childhood Education: SNL Joint Program (BAECE) program.

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Education will abide by the COE Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.

B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program. While B.S. students are not required to demonstrate competency in a modern language, the "Modern Language Option" is available to them for language study at any level.

Licensure Tests

All individuals licensed by the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) are required to complete licensure tests specific to their teaching license.

Field Experiences

Each student seeking licensure from the College of Education/Professional Education Unit must complete supervised field experiences in appropriate settings in conjunction with education courses. The field experiences must include a variety of grade levels, multicultural experiences, and a minimum of 10 hours in special education settings. All field experiences must be completed prior to final approval for student teaching. Field experience hours should be entered by the student into the FEDS system when completing courses with field experience requirements.

Endorsements

An endorsement is a subject area that you can qualify to teach full time, in addition to your main licensure area. Endorsements are issued at three levels: primary, middle school, and high school.

The Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) issues endorsements in various subject areas. To view the full list and requirements, visit the ISBE website.

Qualifying for an endorsement at the middle school level requires 18 semester hours (27 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area and complete SCU 339. Some areas (like math) have specifically required courses or require additional hours. Courses must have a grade of C or better to qualify for endorsements and must be earned credit listed on a college transcript as earned credit.

Consult with your advisor regarding endorsements. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following middle school areas: Arabic, art, bilingual education, biological science, Chinese, ESL, French, general science, German, Italian, Japanese, language arts, math, physical science, social science, and Spanish.

In general, endorsement requirements for the primary level are identical to the middle school requirements except that they do not require SCU 339. There are a limited number of areas available at the primary level.

Qualifying for most endorsements at the high school level requires 24 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area* and passing the relevant content area test. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following high school areas: art, Arabic, Chinese, English, French, German, Italian,
Japanese, math, Russian, science, social science, and Spanish.

* Exceptions to the basic requirements for high school level endorsements include the subject areas of foreign language, science, and social science.

For science and social science, 32 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in the broad area of either science or social science, and 12 semester hours in the specific endorsement designation area, plus the content area test are required. To qualify for additional science and social science designations, individuals applying after February 1, 2012 need both the content test and 12 semester hours in the additional designation area.

Special Education majors do not qualify for middle school endorsements.

Student Teaching Requirements

Student Teaching is the culminating clinical experience in the student's program. All students in teacher preparation programs must meet the following requirements before applying for student teaching:

Academic Requirements:
- Completion of all Liberal Studies, Pre-Education, Advanced Standing and concentration/content area courses
- Overall cumulative G.P.A. of 2.50 or better
- Cumulative GPA. of 2.75 or better in all education courses
- Meet all other program requirements (e.g., modern language and residency requirements)
- Meet designated program standards
- Pass the required Illinois licensure content area test

Clinical Requirements:
- Completion of all required field experiences
- Three satisfactory evaluations in field experiences
- Three satisfactory faculty recommendations
- Attendance at mandatory meeting for student teaching
- Application for student teaching, resume, transcripts, and writing sample (check deadlines)
- Review and approval by Student Teaching Committee of the College of Education

Student Teaching Timeline and Deadlines:
- Attend a Mandatory Meeting approximately 1 year prior to expected quarter of student teaching.
- Submit application for student teaching after attending Mandatory Meeting, approximately 1 year prior to student teaching.
- Academic requirements are due one quarter before expected quarter of student teaching.
- Clinical requirements are completed as course requirements. Field experience hours are entered by the student as coursework is completed.

Online Faculty Evaluations are entered by the instructor of relevant courses. All data must be entered in the Field Experience Documentation System (FEDS) due one month prior to student teaching.

Individual child care agencies and public and private school districts may have additional requirements (application, training, background check, etc.).

Degree Conferral and Graduation

The awarding of a degree is not automatic. You must submit an application to be considered for the degree. DePaul awards and posts degrees at the end of each regular academic term (autumn, winter, spring, summer I and summer II).

It is your responsibility to initiate the degree conferral application process by submitting an online application. Submitting an application means you intend to finish your degree requirements by the end of the term for which you have applied.

Undergraduate students must be approved for student teaching and complete student teaching and capstone to be cleared for the degree. Student must submit graduation application for the quarter that matches the quarter you are student teaching.

After you submit the application, you cannot register for any term after the one selected in the application.

Application deadlines are as follows:
- Fall Quarter - October 1st
Winter Quarter - January 15th
Spring Quarter - February 1st
Summer Quarter - July 15th

To apply for degree conferral, log on to Campus Connection. Select STUDENT CENTER, then MY ACADEMICS. On screen instructions will take you through the application process.

Provided that all requirements and financial obligations are met, degrees are posted 30 days after the official end of the term. Official dates are listed on the Academic Calendar.

DePaul holds one commencement ceremony each year in June. If you intend to participate, you must first apply for degree conferral for the current academic year and then submit a cap and gown order. Honors are not announced at the ceremony for undergraduates completing their final courses in spring quarter because a final GPA is not available at the time of the ceremony.

Additional information about degree conferral and graduation can be found on the College of Education website at: http://education.depaul.edu/.

Licensure

Requirements for licensure include completion of full bachelor's degree program, all licensure tests (including OPI for world language majors), and awarding of bachelor's degree. A bachelor's degree is required to qualify for licensure and must be awarded before applying for the license.

Individuals must submit an application directly to the Illinois State Board of Education after completion of requirements and after DePaul has submitted notification to ISBE. Application requirements include application form, application fee, official transcripts, and registration fee.

All individuals must meet ISBE requirements in place at the time of application for the license. Requirements are subject to change per the discretion of ISBE.

Individuals seeking additional endorsements after applying for the licensure must contact ISBE directly for an evaluation request.

Students can also take liberal studies or content area courses before or after meeting Advanced Standing requirements.

Modern Language Competence Requirement

Students pursuing a Bachelor of Arts degree in the College of Education will be required to demonstrate a measure of competence in a modern language, as defined by the college. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- Completing two years of a language sequence in high school.
- Completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language.
• completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
• achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
• achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
• achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language
• achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
• achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

Please note: The Modern Language Competence Requirement is not required for students in the Early Childhood Education: SNL Joint Program (BAECE) program.

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Education will abide by the COE Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.

B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the “Modern Language Option” of the Liberal Studies Program. While B.S. students are not required to demonstrate competency in a modern language, the “Modern Language Option” is available to them for language study at any level.

Licensure Tests

All individuals licensed by the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) are required to complete licensure tests specific to their teaching license.

Field Experiences

Each student seeking licensure from the College of Education/Professional Education Unit must complete supervised field experiences in appropriate settings in conjunction with education courses. The field experiences must include a variety of grade levels, multicultural experiences, and a minimum of 10 hours in special education settings. All field experiences must be completed prior to final approval for student teaching. Field experience hours should be entered by the student into the FEDS system when completing courses with field experience requirements.

Endorsements

An endorsement is a subject area that you can qualify to teach full time, in addition to your main licensure area. Endorsements are issued at three levels: primary, middle school, and high school.

The Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) issues endorsements in various subject areas. To view the full list and requirements, visit the ISBE website.

Qualifying for an endorsement at the middle school level requires 18 semester hours (27 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area and complete SCU 339. Some areas (like math) have specifically required courses or require additional hours. Courses must have a grade of C or better to qualify for endorsements and must be earned credit listed on a college transcript as earned credit.

Consult with your advisor regarding endorsements. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following middle school areas: Arabic, art, bilingual education, biological science, Chinese, ESL, French, general science, German, Italian, Japanese, language arts, math, physical science, social science, and Spanish.

In general, endorsement requirements for the primary level are identical to the middle school requirements except that they do not require SCU 339. There are a limited number of areas available at the primary level.

Qualifying for most endorsements at the high school level requires 24 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area* and passing the relevant content area test. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following high school areas: art, Arabic, Chinese, English, French, German, Italian, Japanese, math, Russian, science, social science, and Spanish.

* Exceptions to the basic requirements for high school level endorsements include the subject areas of foreign language, science, and social science.

For science and social science, 32 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in the broad area of either science or social science, and 12 semester hours in the specific endorsement designation area, plus the content area test are required. To qualify for additional science and social science designations, individuals applying after February 1, 2012 need both the content test and 12 semester hours in the additional designation area.
Special Education majors do not qualify for middle school endorsements.

Student Teaching Requirements

Student Teaching is the culminating clinical experience in the student's program. All students in teacher preparation programs must meet the following requirements before applying for student teaching:

Academic Requirements:
- Completion of all Liberal Studies, Pre-Education, Advanced Standing and concentration/content area courses
- Overall cumulative G.P.A. of 2.50 or better
- Cumulative GPA. of 2.75 or better in all education courses
- Meet all other program requirements (e.g., modern language and residency requirements)
- Meet designated program standards
- Pass the required Illinois licensure content area test

Clinical Requirements:
- Completion of all required field experiences
- Three satisfactory evaluations in field experiences
- Three satisfactory faculty recommendations
- Attendance at mandatory meeting for student teaching
- Application for student teaching, resume, transcripts, and writing sample (check deadlines)
- Review and approval by Student Teaching Committee of the College of Education

Student Teaching Timeline and Deadlines:
- Attend a Mandatory Meeting approximately 1 year prior to expected quarter of student teaching.
- Submit application for student teaching after attending Mandatory Meeting, approximately 1 year prior to student teaching.
- Academic requirements are due one quarter before expected quarter of student teaching.
- Clinical requirements are completed as course requirements. Field experience hours are entered by the student as coursework is completed.

Online Faculty Evaluations are entered by the instructor of relevant courses. All data must be entered in the Field Experience Documentation System (FEDS) due one month prior to student teaching.

Individual child care agencies and public and private school districts may have additional requirements (application, training, background check, etc.).

Degree Conferral and Graduation

The awarding of a degree is not automatic. You must submit an application to be considered for the degree. DePaul awards and posts degrees at the end of each regular academic term (autumn, winter, spring, summer I and summer II).

It is your responsibility to initiate the degree conferral application process by submitting an online application. Submitting an application means you intend to finish your degree requirements by the end of the term for which you have applied.

Undergraduate students must be approved for student teaching and complete student teaching and capstone to be cleared for the degree. Student must submit graduation application for the quarter that matches the quarter you are student teaching.

After you submit the application, you cannot register for any term after the one selected in the application.

Application deadlines are as follows:
- Fall Quarter - October 1st
- Winter Quarter - January 15th
- Spring Quarter - February 1st
- Summer Quarter - July 15th

To apply for degree conferral, log on to Campus Connection. Select STUDENT CENTER, then MY ACADEMICS. On screen instructions will take you through the application process.

Provided that all requirements and financial obligations are met, degrees are posted 30 days after the official end of the term. Official dates are listed on the Academic Calendar.
DePaul holds one commencement ceremony each year in June. If you intend to participate, you must first apply for degree conferral for the current academic year and then submit a cap and gown order. Honors are not announced at the ceremony for undergraduates completing their final courses in spring quarter because a final GPA is not available at the time of the ceremony.

Additional information about degree conferral and graduation can be found on the College of Education website at: http://education.depaul.edu/.

Licensure

Requirements for licensure include completion of full bachelor's degree program, all licensure tests (including OPI for world language majors), and awarding of bachelor's degree. A bachelor's degree is required to qualify for licensure and must be awarded before applying for the license.

Individuals must submit an application directly to the Illinois State Board of Education after completion of requirements and after DePaul has submitted notification to ISBE. Application requirements include application form, application fee, official transcripts, and registration fee.

All individuals must meet ISBE requirements in place at the time of application for the license. Requirements are subject to change per the discretion of ISBE.

Individuals seeking additional endorsements after applying for the licensure must contact ISBE directly for an evaluation request.

Notes

Courses offered in the student’s primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student’s major and is cross-listed with a course within the student’s major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.
Major Requirements

Course Requirements

Content Area Courses

Note: Language courses begin at the Advanced language for the major. A placement test in the language is required to determine skill level and appropriate level to begin the language. Beginning and Intermediate language courses are in addition to the content area requirements but can fulfill open elective requirements.

Advanced Language Core: 16 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

- SPN 201 ADVANCED GRAMMAR AND COMMUNICATION
- SPN 205 ADVANCED GRAMMAR AND COMPOSITION FOR HERITAGE SPEAKERS I
- SPN 202 ADVANCED COMPOSITION AND COMMUNICATION
- SPN 206 ADVANCED GRAMMAR AND COMPOSITION FOR HERITAGE SPEAKERS II
- Choose one of the following:
  - SPN 203 ADVANCED CONVERSATION I
  - SPN 204 ADVANCED CONVERSATION II
  - SPN 207 ADVANCED CONVERSATION FOR THE HERITAGE SPEAKER
- SPN 220 INTRODUCTION TO LITERARY ANALYSIS IN SPANISH

Language Electives Core: 28 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

- SPN 200-300 level course 1
- SPN 200-300 level course 2
- SPN 200-300 level course 3
- SPN 200-300 level course 4
- SPN 300 level course 1
- SPN 300 level course 2
- SPN 300 level course 3

Linguistics Core: 4 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

- SPN 352 SPANISH PHONOLOGY AND PHONETICS

Teaching Culture Core: 4 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

- WLE 360 SECOND, WORLD AND HERITAGE LANGUAGE ACQUISITION K-12

Pre-Education Introductory Courses: 22 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

- SCU 207 SOCIAL AND HISTORICAL ISSUES IN EDUCATION
- SCU 337 HUMAN GROWTH AND DEVELOPMENT
- EE 281 INTRODUCTION TO EDUCATIONAL PRACTICE
- SEC 364 METHODS: CURRICULUM AND INSTRUCTION IN SECONDARY SCHOOLS (6 credit hours)
- PE 206 PERSONAL AND COMMUNITY HEALTH
  or PE 273 HEALTH AND NUTRITION

Advanced Standing Education Courses: 24 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

- LSI 346 STRATEGIES FOR MAINSTREAMING AND INCLUSION
- WLE 326 THEORETICAL FOUNDATIONS OF ESL AND WLE
- WLE 349 STANDARD AND CONTENT-BASED METHODS OF TEACHING WORLD LANGUAGES K-12

- WLE 375 WLE HISTORY, POLICY, AND CURRICULUM DEVELOPMENT
- SCU 338 THE PROCESS AND EVALUATION OF LEARNING
  or SCU 339 PHILOSOPHY AND PSYCHOLOGY OF YOUTH AND MIDDLE LEVEL EDUCATION
Oral Proficiency Interview (OPI) Test

Pursuing certification in the teaching of a world language (Chinese, French, German, Italian, Japanese, or Spanish) requires the oral proficiency test – an Interview – before you begin student teaching. You must earn a rating of "intermediate high" or better on the test.

Open Electives: 2 quarter hours are required

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours. The following cannot be used to fulfill an open elective: WRD 98, MAT 94, and MAT 95.

Student Teaching: 12 quarter hours required, grade of B- or better required

Registration in student teaching requires completion of all requirements and procedures indicated in the college core section. EDU 95 indicates to the Illinois State Board of Education that all field experience hours are complete. All students also take WLE 384 with student teaching (listed in the Liberal Studies section).

- WLE 385 STUDENT TEACHING IN WORLD LANGUAGES (12 credit hours)
- EDU 95 CLINICAL EXPERIENCE WITH CHILDREN AND YOUTH (non-credit, non-tuition, PA grade required)

Licensure Tests

All individuals licensed by the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) are required to complete licensure tests specific to their teaching license. World Language Education Spanish majors must complete the following tests:

- Test of Academic Proficiency (TAP) (test #400) - assesses knowledge of reading comprehension, language arts, writing, and math. Test is required to qualify for Advanced Standing. * Check with your advisor about qualifying for a waiver with acceptable ACT or SAT test scores.
- Spanish Content Area Test (test #135) – assesses knowledge of the Spanish language and culture. Test is required before Student Teaching (deadlines apply).
- Assessment of Professional Teaching (APT) (test #104, grade K-12) – assesses knowledge of teaching planning, delivery, assessment, professionalism, and technology. Test is required to be licensed; recommended to be taken before Student Teaching.

Writing for Film and Television (Minor)

The Writing for Film and Television minor is designed to help students develop the fundamental skills and creative acumen to write for film and television.

Course Requirements

- DC 101 SCREENWRITING FOR MAJORS or DC 201 INTRODUCTION TO SCREENWRITING
- DC 222 CLASSIC HOLLYWOOD FILM STRUCTURE

  - DC 302 ADVANCED SCREENWRITING II
  - DC 303 REWRITING THE FEATURE FILM SCRIPT
  - DC 308 WRITING ON ASSIGNMENT
  - DC 309 FEATURE DEVELOPMENT
  - DC 344 ADVANCED SCREENWRITING LAB
  - DC 272 INTRODUCTION TO TELEVISION WRITING
  - DC 306 WRITING THE SITCOM
  - DC 307 WRITING THE EPISODIC DRAMA
Writing, Rhetoric and Discourse (BA)

The Bachelor of Arts in WRD focuses on the development and expression of ideas in writing—the very foundation of the liberal arts, and more broadly, contemporary democratic culture. Our lives are increasingly mediated by digital technologies that use writing to organize sound and image in interactive spaces like the World Wide Web. And through text messaging, email, and social networking, individual identity and interpersonal relationships are progressively bound up with writing. At the same time, we face growing demands for communicating across national, cultural, and linguistic borders, requiring us to rethink many assumptions we may have about written communication and expression. As a WRD major, theories of language, rhetoric (how to make effective choices as writers), and discourse (the way writing structures human activity) will help you develop an understanding of the role of the individual writer within communities of writers. WRD majors study a great diversity of writing contexts and engage in varied writing practices and genres in preparation for a full range of dynamic and rewarding careers grounded in written communication.

WRD faculty members are published specialists in the fields that make up writing studies—rhetoric, technical and professional writing, new media studies, and linguistics—allowing you to learn from leading scholars.

College Core Requirements

Study in the Major Field

The student’s course of study in the College consists of three parts: Liberal Studies, the major field, and electives. Together these three parts contribute to the liberal education of the student which is the common purpose of all study in the College. By “liberal education” the College understands not only a deep and thorough knowledge of a particular area of study but a knowledge of the diverse areas of study represented by criticism, history, the arts, the behavioral and social sciences, philosophy, religious studies, the natural science, and mathematics.

The major field program generally is built upon a set of core courses and a specialized “concentration.” The number of courses required for a major varies by department. Most students go beyond the minimum requirements, electing additional courses which both broaden and deepen their understanding of their chosen discipline.

Because no academic major program is built in isolation, students are required to pursue a number of electives of the student's choice. The inherent flexibility of this curriculum demands that the student consult an academic advisor at each stage in the total program and at least once prior to each registration.

Students will be prompted to visit the College Office for their official graduation check early in their senior year.

Declaration of Major, Minor and Concentration

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor in the major field department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.
Students must declare or change majors, minors, and concentrations, via Campus Connection. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the Office for Academic Advising Support.

Competence in Modern Language

All students will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language (i.e., a language other than English) equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in the fourth-year high school sequence of any language
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations or achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language, or achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program, or achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College will abide by this Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT, regardless of when they first matriculated at DePaul.

Students who have met the Modern Language Requirement and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program (see "Special Programs").

External Credit and Residency

A student who has been admitted to the College begins residency within the college as of the first day of classes of the term in which the student is registered. Students in residence, whether attending on a full-time or part-time basis, may not take courses away from DePaul University without the written permission of the college. Permission must be obtained in advance of registration to avoid loss of credit or residency in the college; see the LAS website for more information.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.
Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. - WRD 368 GLOBAL ENGLISHES
- WRD 378 TEACHING ENGLISH AS A SECOND LANGUAGE IN CHICAGO (EL/JYEL)
• WRD 390 RHETORIC AND PUBLIC WRITING

*May be repeated for credit when the topic is different.

Major Field Electives

The equivalent of seven additional four-hour electives may be drawn from either of the elective categories above and from the following:

- WRD 398 INTERNSHIP
- WRD 399 INDEPENDENT STUDY
- WRD 290 WRITER’S TOOLS WORKSHOP (2 hr course, may be repeated for major-field elective credit as long as topic differs)

Experiential Learning (EL) Requirement

All WRD students are required to take one EL-designated course within the major. WRD courses designated both EL and JYEL will fulfill the major's EL requirement and the Liberal Studies Junior Year Experiential Learning requirement simultaneously. A JYEL course taken outside of WRD will not count toward the EL course requirement.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

---

Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

The Writing, Rhetoric and Discourse (BA) offers two options:

- Writing, Rhetoric and Discourse (BA)/Writing, Rhetoric and Discourse (MA)
- Writing, Rhetoric and Discourse (BA)/Secondary Education English (MED)

Writing, Rhetoric and Discourse (BA)/Writing, Rhetoric and Discourse (MA)

Writing, Rhetoric, & Discourse offers undergraduate majors the opportunity to begin earning an advanced degree as seniors. The program allows approved B.A./M.A. students to take one graduate course in each quarter of the senior year, allowing for the completion of the M.A. in nine subsequent graduate courses rather than 12. Applicants must have a minimum GPA of 3.50 in the major and 3.20 overall at time of application, and they should have completed two of the undergraduate Core courses and at least one other 300-level course counting toward the major. Students must apply for this program no later than March 1 of their junior year.

Writing, Rhetoric and Discourse (BA)/Secondary Education English (MED)
