Open elective credit (4.0 hours) is needed to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.
Degree Conferral Requirements

All Accountancy (ACC) courses and any courses used toward the Accountancy major must be completed with a minimum grade of C- and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.

Concentration in Internal Audit

Available to students majoring in Accountancy, the optional concentration in Internal Audit prepares students to meet the challenges of the profession and provides them with knowledge of the internal audit function that is becoming increasingly important in the global business community. Students experience rigorous classroom learning designed to deliver the knowledge and practical skills they'll need to succeed during the first years of their careers including: oral and written communication, understanding of internal audit's role of providing objective assurance of key governance, risk management, and compliance processes, use information technology processes and controls in the assurance function, and development of teamwork and leadership skills. Successful students will enjoy opportunities to visit companies and interact with Chief Audit Executives on risk assessment projects.

A student completing the concentration in Internal Audit is required to take three courses:

- ACC 372 AUDITING I
- ACC 376 INTERNAL AUDITING
- One elective course chosen from:
  - ACC 375 FRAUD EXAMINATION & FORENSIC AUDITING
  - IS 344 IT AUDITING

Courses for the concentration may be taken in any order.

To declare the concentration in Internal Audit, a student must be a declared Accountancy major. The concentration may be declared at the same time as major declaration or added afterward. All courses for the concentration must be completed with a minimum grade of C-.

Sample Schedule

Students majoring in Accountancy are encouraged to take the required courses in the following order:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Year</th>
<th>Autumn</th>
<th>Winter</th>
<th>Spring</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>1st Year</td>
<td>ACC 101</td>
<td>ACC 102</td>
<td>ACC 303</td>
</tr>
<tr>

</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

ACC 250 may be taken by students any quarter that fits their schedule. Completion is recommended prior to third year.
Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

Accountancy (BSB)/Accountancy (MACC)

The Five-Year Accountancy Program allows majors to complete a bachelor's degree and a Master of Accountancy (MACC) degree in five years. The graduate degree provides students with advanced skills in accounting in areas of high demand: internal audit, forensic accounting, and accounting information systems.

Admission Requirements

Current DePaul accountancy majors who meet the following criteria may apply to this program:

- Junior standing or higher (at least 88.0 credits)
- A minimum cumulative DePaul grade point average of 3.200
- A minimum Accountancy (ACC) grade point average of 3.000

Admission to the five year program does not require the GMAT, essays, or letters of recommendation. Students should apply for program admission while enrolled in ACC 305, 372, or 380.

Classes During Senior Year

In the five year program, students will take three graduate classes during the senior year. These three classes will count toward the bachelor's degree as indicated below. Students should note that requirements for graduate classes are more rigorous.

- ACC 545 ADVANCED TOPICS IN ACCOUNTING THEORY (replaces ACC 308; prerequisite ACC 305)
- ACC 550 ADVANCED TOPICS IN AUDITING (replaces ACC 374; prerequisite ACC 372)
- ACC 551 TAX TREATMENT OF CORPORATIONS AND PARTNERSHIPS (replaces ACC 383; prerequisite ACC 380)

These courses are offered every quarter except summer and may be taken at any time providing prerequisites have been met.

Final Quarter of Senior Year

During the final quarter of senior year, students must petition for formal admission to the Kellstadt Graduate School of Business. Students must apply for graduation prior to submitting the petition for admission.

The admission criteria are as follows:

- Completion of the Bachelor of Science in Business with a major in Accountancy
- A minimum cumulative DePaul grade point average of 3.200
- A minimum Accountancy (ACC) grade point average of 3.000

Students take nine additional graduate classes to complete the graduate degree, for a total of twelve graduate classes. Information on the MACC degree is found in the graduate catalog.

Accountancy (Minor: Business Students Only)

Students in the Driehaus College of Business who minor in Accountancy will acquire skills in analyzing, interpreting and communicating financial information to complement their major course of study.

  - ACC 380 TAX TREATMENT OF INDIVIDUALS AND PROPERTY
  - ACC 383 TAX TREATMENT OF CORPORATIONS AND PARTNERSHIPS
  - ACC 398 SPECIAL TOPICS (with approval)
  - ACC 399 INDEPENDENT STUDY

ACC 250 Career Management for Accountants may not be used toward minor requirements.

Degree Conferral Requirements

All Accountancy (ACC) courses and any courses used toward the Accountancy minor must be completed with a minimum grade of C- and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.

Accountancy Honors (BSB)

The designation Strobel Scholar is reserved for students of exceptional ability, achievement, and motivation in the School of Accountancy and Management Information Systems' Strobel Honors Program. These students are characterized by outstanding academic records, high aptitudes for scholastic work, and reputations for leadership.

Special honors sections of accountancy courses are provided for Strobel Scholars every quarter as indicated in the quarterly class schedule. The content and structure of these honors sections are designed to appeal to the Strobel Scholar. Strobel Scholars proceed through the Program together, interacting with peers who have similar abilities. Learning and teaching concepts are advanced and student-oriented; small group activities and student presentations are used in honors sections. Students in the Strobel Scholars Program are expected to maintain high academic performance throughout the complete honors curriculum. Academic performance is reviewed at the end of each school year by the Administrator of the Strobel Scholars Program, Deloitte Professor John McEnroe. Outside speakers from the accounting and business communities are frequent visitors and participants.
The program is named after the late chair of the Accountancy Department, Eldred C. Strobel. Professor Strobel's distinguished career as an accounting educator spanned thirty-five years, fourteen of which were served as chair. Known for his support of innovative approaches to accounting education, he was the founder of the honors program, which now bears his name.

Admission to the Strobel Honors Program is by invitation only and is based on outstanding academic achievement in high school. Prior to being considered for the Strobel Honors Program, a student must be admitted to DePaul University and the Driehaus College of Business as a full-time, first-year, degree-seeking student.

- No grade of IN, R, or lower than C- in any Accountancy (ACC) course or course used toward the Accountancy major
- Completion of ACC 303 and ACC 304 with minimum grades of C-

Course Requirements

In addition to ACC 101 and ACC 102, a student majoring in Accountancy Honors is required to complete the following courses totaling at least 42.0 hours:

- ACC 250 CAREER MANAGEMENT FOR ACCOUNTANTS (2.0 hours)
- ACC 303 MANAGERIAL ACCOUNTING
- ACC 304 FINANCIAL REPORTING I
- ACC 305 FINANCIAL REPORTING II
- ACC 306 FINANCIAL REPORTING III
- ACC 308 ADVANCED FINANCIAL ACCOUNTING
- ACC 350 INFORMATION FOR DECISION MAKING
- ACC 372 AUDITING I
- ACC 374 AUDITING II
- ACC 380 TAX TREATMENT OF INDIVIDUALS AND PROPERTY
- ACC 383 TAX TREATMENT OF CORPORATIONS AND PARTNERSHIPS

Students majoring in accounting (primary or secondary) are allowed to substitute ACC 370 in place of BLW 201.

Strobel Course Sections
The courses listed above (excluding ACC 250 and ACC 370) must be taken as honors sections by students in the Strobel program. Strobel students take specially designated sections of all ACC classes, including ACC 101 and ACC 102.

Grade Standard

Strobel Honors students will face dismissal from the honors track if they receive a D or F in an honors accounting class or less than a B- in three honors accounting classes. This standard is designed to ensure that the academic excellence that the designation engenders is maintained.

Finance Honors

Strobel Honors students who are also accepted into the Finance Honors Program are not required to take ACC 307 or ACC 309.

Open Electives

Open elective credit (4.0 hours) is needed to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Degree Conferral Requirements

All Accountancy (ACC) courses and any courses used toward the Accountancy major must be completed with a minimum grade of C- and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.

Concentration in Internal Audit

Available to students majoring in Accountancy, the optional concentration in Internal Audit prepares students to meet the challenges of the profession and provides them with knowledge of the internal audit function that is becoming increasingly important in the global business community. Students experience rigorous classroom learning designed to deliver the knowledge and practical skills they'll need to succeed during the first years of their careers including: oral and written communication, understanding of internal audit's role of providing objective assurance of key governance, risk management, and compliance processes, use information technology processes and controls in the assurance function, and development of teamwork and leadership skills. Successful students will enjoy opportunities to visit companies and interact with Chief Audit Executives on risk assessment projects.

A student completing the concentration in Internal Audit is required to take three courses:

- ACC 372 AUDITING I
- ACC 376 INTERNAL AUDITING
- One elective course chosen from:
  - ACC 375 FRAUD EXAMINATION & FORENSIC AUDITING
  - IS 344 IT AUDITING

Courses for the concentration may be taken in any order.

To declare the concentration in Internal Audit, a student must be a declared Accountancy major. The concentration may be declared at the same time as major declaration or added afterward. All courses for the concentration must be completed with a minimum grade of C-.
Sample Schedule

Courses in the Strobel sequence must be taken in the following order:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Year</th>
<th>Autumn</th>
<th>Winter</th>
<th>Spring</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>1st</td>
<td>ACC 101H</td>

<td>ACC 308H</td>
<td>ACC 350H</td>
</tr>
</tbody>

"H" denotes Strobel specific section of the course listed. The courses must be taken as honors sections by students in the Strobel program (with the exception of the recommended ACC 393, which is not offered as an honors section).

There is no honors section of ACC 250. Students may take that course any quarter that fits their schedule. Completion is recommended prior to third year.

ACC 393 is not required for the major, but it is recommended and may be used for Junior Year Experiential Learning in the Liberal Studies requirements.

Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

Accountancy (BSB)/Accountancy (MACC)

The Five-Year Accountancy Program allows majors to complete a bachelor's degree and a Master of Accountancy (MACC) degree in five years. The graduate degree provides students with advanced skills in accounting in areas of high demand: internal audit, forensic accounting, and accounting information systems.

Admission Requirements

Current DePaul accountancy majors who meet the following criteria may apply to this program:

- Junior standing or higher (at least 88.0 credits)
- A minimum cumulative DePaul grade point average of 3.200
- A minimum Accountancy (ACC) grade point average of 3.000

Admission to the five year program does not require the GMAT, essays, or letters of recommendation. Students should apply for program admission while enrolled in ACC 305, 372, or 380.

Classes During Senior Year

In the five year program, students will take three graduate classes during the senior year. These three classes will count toward the bachelor's degree as indicated below. Students should note that requirements for graduate classes are more rigorous.

- ACC 545 ADVANCED TOPICS IN ACCOUNTING THEORY (replaces ACC 308; prerequisite ACC 305)
- ACC 550 ADVANCED TOPICS IN AUDITING (replaces ACC 374; prerequisite ACC 372)
- ACC 551 TAX TREATMENT OF CORPORATIONS AND PARTNERSHIPS (replaces ACC 383; prerequisite ACC 380)

These courses are offered every quarter except summer and may be taken at any time providing prerequisites have been met.
Final Quarter of Senior Year

During the final quarter of senior year, students must petition for formal admission to the Kellstadt Graduate School of Business. Students must apply for graduation prior to submitting the petition for admission.

The admission criteria are as follows:

- Completion of the Bachelor of Science in Business with a major in Accountancy
- A minimum cumulative DePaul grade point average of 3.200
- A minimum Accountancy (ACC) grade point average of 3.000

Students take nine additional graduate classes to complete the graduate degree, for a total of twelve graduate classes. Information on the MACC degree is found in the graduate catalog.

Acting (BFA)

The Theatre School’s Bachelor of Fine Arts (BFA) degree in Acting prepares actors to work on both stage and screen. It develops actors who are imaginative, skillful, expressive and vibrantly alive. It is rooted in the Chicago tradition, emphasizing physicality, truth in action, communication, collaboration and spontaneity. The first year introduces the actor to a broad range of techniques and experiences, defines a way of working and provides a set of skills. The next three years focus on developing and refining this way of working - adding skills and technique - while helping each actor discover and apply those which work best for him or her.

Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Identify and describe the historical and theoretical significance of a range of theatrical artists, works and artistic approaches from antiquity to the present, encompassing a broad range of periods, cultures, and styles.
- Synthesize and apply elements of their education and training in classes, rehearsals, and productions.
- Participate in theatrical production in a professional manner, with discipline, respect, and maturity.
- Demonstrate the role of the theatre practitioner as an active member of society and of the cultural and social impact of the arts.

Program Specific Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Act truthfully from moment-to-moment in a variety of theatrical works, periods, and styles.
- Create a role within the action of the assignment or production through text analysis, personalization, and imagination.
- Demonstrate a personal practice of improving vocal and physical expressiveness as an actor.
- Create unique, insightful, and compelling work that impacts those who witness it.
- Apply the training to professional opportunities.

Notes
Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy
Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab or SWK requirement.

Actuarial Science (BS)

An actuary is a business professional who analyzes the financial consequences of risk and uncertainty. They interpret statistics to determine probabilities of accidents, sickness, death, and loss of property from theft and natural disasters. Actuaries use mathematics, statistics and financial theory to study uncertain future events, especially concerning risk management and insurance programs. Actuaries are considered the "financial architects" of the insurance world.

Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Apply the laws of probability and statistics to problems encountered by actuaries on a daily basis.
- Understand the theory of interest and its applications to the pricing of securities including bonds, stocks and financial derivatives.
- Understand the theory of life contingencies and its applications to mitigating financial risks through insurance contracts.
- Calculate the financial costs and benefits of insurance for various individuals given different needs and life cycle assumptions.
- Design, implement and monitor life contingency models in a manner consistent with current industry practices.
- Describe modern risk management frameworks and identify how specific risks can be quantified.

College Core Requirements

Modern Language Requirements

Students who intend to graduate with the Bachelor of Arts (B.A.) Degree will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:
• completing the last course in the fourth-year high school sequence of any language
• completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
• completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
• achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
• achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
• achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language
• achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
• achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Science and Health will abide by the College of Science and Health Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.

B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program. While Bachelor of Science (B.S.) students are not required to demonstrate competency in a modern language, the "Modern Language Option" is available to them for language study at any level.

Major Declaration Requirements

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. After researching College programs, the student should declare a major field by visiting Campus Connection and using the Declarations and Inter-College Transfer tool. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor or staff advisor in the department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

To change major fields, or to declare a minor or concentration, the student must use the Declarations and Inter-College Transfer tool described above. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the College or an academic advisor in the Office for Academic Advising Support.

Actuaries are in high demand and work for insurance companies, consulting and investment firms, government, employee benefit departments of large corporations, hospitals, and banks. The field is highly competitive and requires students to pass exams that lead to professional certification by the Society of Actuaries, the Casualty Actuarial Society and other accredited international societies. This program will equip students with the skills needed to pass at least two actuarial exams, which are the industry’s standard of gauging expertise for internships and employment, prior to graduation. We have structured our program around these milestones, enabling our students to gain internships in a timely manner and to graduate into full employment.

A course taken as part of a term-long study abroad program
One Professional Writing course to be chosen from:
- WRD 204 TECHNICAL WRITING
- WRD 206 PROFESSIONAL WRITING
- MAT 341 STATISTICAL METHODS USING SAS

Second Majors and Minors

The addition of a second major or minor may affect the Business Core classes required for a student. Meet with an academic advisor to confirm requirements.

Math Requirements

- A student is expected to complete the math sequence (MAT 150, MAT 151, and MAT 152) in the first year of study
- MAT 150 and MAT 152 are completed through Liberal Studies requirements
- MAT 150 may be replaced by MAT 160 or MAT 170
- MAT 151 may be replaced by MAT 161 or MAT 171
- MAT 152 may be replaced by MAT 162 or MAT 172
- MAT 150, MAT 151 and MAT 152 may be replaced by the sequence of MAT 147, MAT 148, and MAT 149

Grade Minimums for Actuarial Science Major

A minimum grade of C- is required for the following: ACC 101, ACC 102, BLW 201, ECO 105, ECO 106, FIN 317, FIN 320, MAT 150, MAT 151, MAT 152, the course used for Professional Writing, and any FIN course used for Global Business Perspective.

Liberal Studies Requirements

Honors program requirements can be found in the individual Colleges & Schools section of the University Catalog. Select Academics, followed by Undergraduate, then Honors Program Alternative.

Notes

Courses offered in the student’s primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student’s major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Major Requirements

Declaration Requirements

To declare a major in Actuarial Science, a student must meet the following requirements:

- Completion of 28.0 hours at DePaul University
- The following courses must be completed with a minimum grade of C- and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher: ACC 101, ACC 102, BLW 201, ECO 105, ECO 106, MAT 150, MAT 151, and MAT 152
- A minimum cumulative DePaul grade point average of 2.000
- A minimum Actuarial Science grade point average of 2.000
- No grade of IN, R, or lower than C- in any courses used toward the Actuarial Science major
- Completion of FIN 317 with minimum grade of C-

Course Requirements

In addition to FIN 317 and FIN 320, a student majoring in Actuarial Science is required to complete the following courses totaling at least 44.0 hours:

- Eleven required courses:
  - MAT 260 MULTIVARIABLE CALCULUS I
  - MAT 262 LINEAR ALGEBRA
  - MAT 351 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS I
  - MAT 352 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS II
  - MAT 353 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS III
  - MAT 361 ACTUARIAL SCIENCE I
  - MAT 362 ACTUARIAL SCIENCE II
  - MAT 363 ACTUARIAL SCIENCE III
  - FIN 362 RISK MANAGEMENT
  - FIN 365 PRINCIPLES OF RISK & INSURANCE
  - FIN 369 ACTUARIAL CAPSTONE

Degree Conferral Requirements

All Finance (FIN) courses and any course used towards the Actuarial Science major must be completed with a minimum grade of C- and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.

African and Black Diaspora Studies (BA)

The purpose of the African & Black Diaspora Studies Program is to provide DePaul students with a systematic, interdisciplinary, and integrated course of study of Africa & the Black Diaspora. The Program provides students with an opportunity to earn a Bachelor of Arts degree in African & Black Diaspora Studies with a concentration in Africa, Black America, and/or Afro-Caribbean and Latin America. African & Black Diaspora Studies will also train students in comparative analysis of regions (e.g., peoples, religions, philosophies) through an incorporation of the study of history, power, identity, gender, and race. The Program's offerings provide students with opportunities to learn about and develop expertise in the cultures, epistemologies, histories, sciences, and societies of Africans and peoples of African descent. The Program prepares students to pursue professions and careers that require a systematic knowledge of Africa and its Diaspora.

Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Describe and discuss the complex multiculturalism of Africa and the Black Diaspora, particularly the diverse communities that have emerged in Africa as a result of centuries of interactions, invasions and colonization by indigenous, European and African societies and other immigrant and diasporic groups.
Describe, discuss and engage the Black Diaspora as a concept, including the interrelationship between and among the peoples of three key geographic locations: Africa, The United States and the Afro-Caribbean and Latin America, along with other regions of the world, including Europe, Asia and Canada, for example.

Describe and discuss the Africa and the Black Diaspora through five interdisciplinary sites of inquiry: history, power, identity, gender and race.

Describe and discuss a complex range of multiple theories of "blackness," including blackness as cultural identity, aesthetic, political and/or national movement, within the fields of African, Pan African and African American Studies.

Critique stereotypes concerning African and Black Diasporic Populations.

Apply an ethical framework and exhibit a strong sense of social responsibility within a commitment to community outreach.

Apply theoretical approaches to practical problems, especially as they relate to issues of social justice in Africa and the Black Diaspora.

Explain, apply, and combine in written form the field's multiple cultural and linguistic literacies, including those that are musical, visual, symbolic, computational, technological, and scientific, drawing on African and Black Diaspora literature.

Study in the Major Field

The student’s course of study in the College consists of three parts: Liberal Studies, the major field, and electives. Together these three parts contribute to the liberal education of the student which is the common purpose of all study in the College. By "liberal education" the College understands not only a deep and thorough knowledge of a particular area of study but a knowledge of the diverse areas of study represented by criticism, history, the arts, the behavioral and social sciences, philosophy, religious studies, the natural science, and mathematics.

The major field program generally is built upon a set of core courses and a specialized "concentration." The number of courses required for a major varies by department. Most students go beyond the minimum requirements, electing additional courses which both broaden and deepen their understanding of their chosen discipline.

Because no academic major program is built in isolation, students are required to pursue a number of electives of the student's choice. The inherent flexibility of this curriculum demands that the student consult an academic advisor at each stage in the total program and at least once prior to each registration.

Students will be prompted to visit the College Office for their official graduation check early in their senior year.

Declaration of Major, Minor and Concentration

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor in the major field department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

Students must declare or change majors, minors, and concentrations, via Campus Connection. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the the Office for Academic Advising Support.

The Modern Language Requirement (MLR)

All students will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language (i.e., a language other than English) equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. This Modern Language Requirement (MLR) may be demonstrated by:

- placing into 104 or above on the DePaul language placement exam
- completing the last course or earning AP/IB credit for the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language (e.g. 103 for DePaul language classes)
- completing a college course or earning AP/IB credit for a college course beyond the first-year level in any language (e.g. 104 or above for DePaul language classes)
- completing the final course of a four-year sequence of the same modern language in high school*
- completing a proctored exam by BYU and passing the exam (see the Department of Modern Languages website for registration details)
- completing a proctored Written Proficiency Test (WPT) by Language Testing International (LTI) and achieving a score of Beginner High or above (see the Department of Modern Languages website for registration details)

* Students are strongly encouraged to take the DePaul language placement exam even if they have met the MLR via study of a language in high school. This will ensure continuation of language study at the proper level.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College will abide by this MLR in place on the effective date of the ICT, regardless of when they first matriculated at DePaul.

Students who have met the MLR and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" (MLO) of the Liberal Studies Program (see "Special Programs").

External Credit and Residency

A student who has been admitted to the College begins residency within the college as of the first day of classes of the term in which the student is registered. Students in residence, whether attending on a full-time or part-time basis, may not take courses away from DePaul University without the written permission of the college. Permission must be obtained in advance of registration to avoid loss of credit or residency in the college; see the LAS website for more information.

This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab or SWK requirement.

Course Requirements

- ABD 100 INTRODUCTION TO AFRICAN AND THE BLACK DIASPORA STUDIES
- ABD 200 AFRICA: PEOPLES, CULTURES, IDEAS AND MOVEMENTS
- ABD 206 AFRO-CARIBBEAN AND AFRO-LATIN AMERICA: PEOPLES, CULTURES, IDEAS AND MOVEMENTS
- ABD 208 AFRICAN AMERICA: PEOPLES, CULTURES, IDEAS AND MOVEMENTS
- 6 Courses in an Area of Concentration
- 2 Major-Field Electives
- ABD 391 CAPSTONE

Core Courses

Students are required to complete four core courses (16-quarter hours). The core courses are designed to accomplish three goals: to introduce students to the goals of the Program; to emphasize the Vincentian tenet that questions of human value undergird scholarly inquiry; and to strengthen an understanding of the interrelationships and dynamics among and between Africa, the Caribbean and Latin America, and the United States.

Courses in an Area of Concentration

For this requirement, students must take six courses (24-quarter hours) at the 300 level which should focus on one region of the Black World: Africa, the Caribbean and Latin America, or the United States and its respective relation to other regions of the world. These six concentration courses are designed to provide students with a body of knowledge about a particular region of study. Students who wish to take a 200 level course in partial fulfillment of this requirement must petition the African and Black Diaspora Studies Program Steering Committee for approval. These courses build upon the general foundation of knowledge provided by the core courses and serve to augment and extend student knowledge about a particular region of Africa or the Black Diaspora and its relationship to other areas of the Program, and inquiry (culture, gender, history, power, and race) impact a specific region. These courses incorporate an explicit discussion of at least two of the five sites of inquiry into the syllabus.

The framework below outlines the kinds of courses that students will be required to take. To insure that students are exposed to a variety of methodological approaches, students will be required to take three courses in the social and behavioral sciences (anthropology, geography, history, international studies, psychology, political science, and sociology) and humanities (e.g., American studies, history of art and architecture, literature, Latin American & Latino studies, modern languages, music, philosophy, religious studies, and theatre). Each student, in consultation with his or her advisor, which is mandatory, will design a concentration that is attentive to comparative analysis.

Major Electives

Students in the Program will be able to take two courses as major field electives (eight-quarter hours). Such courses are designed to provide students with an opportunity to take courses related to their field of concentration in African and Black Diaspora Studies and at the same time extend their academic preparation through coursework in allied fields. The selection of electives will be done in consultation with the student's academic advisor.

Capstone

This senior seminar (four quarter hours) engages students in a synthesis of what they have learned through coursework. The capstone course will involve reading, writing, discussion, as well as the preparation by students a substantive piece of work (e.g., a senior thesis, a research paper, or a creative work).

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.
African and Black Diaspora Studies (Minor)

A minor concentration in African and Black Diaspora studies provides students with a general knowledge about Africa and the movement of its people throughout the world.

Course Requirements

- ABD 100 INTRODUCTION TO AFRICAN AND THE BLACK DIASPORA STUDIES
- One course from the following list:
  - ABD 200 AFRICA: PEOPLES, CULTURES, IDEAS AND MOVEMENTS
  - ABD 206 AFRO-CARIBBEAN AND AFRO-LATIN AMERICA: PEOPLES, CULTURES, IDEAS AND MOVEMENTS
  - ABD 208 AFRICAN AMERICA: PEOPLES, CULTURES, IDEAS AND MOVEMENTS
- One 300 level course in an area of concentration
- One course from the following list:
  - ABD 391 CAPSTONE
  - Approved field elective
- Two ABD electives

Students majoring in African and Black Diaspora Studies (BA) are restricted from earning this minor.

Allied Health Technologies (BS)

If you are interested in the technological aspects of biosciences, DePaul's Allied Health Technologies program will provide you with a strong foundation in biology, chemistry and physics with a specific focus on scientific technology.

As an Allied Health Technologies student, you will take courses in

- Biology
- Chemistry
- Mathematics
- Physics

Learning Outcomes

Students will:

- Describe, both orally and in writing the basic principles underlying modern Biology.
- Discuss and describe an understanding of the diversity of fields and approaches within Biology and an appreciation of how Biology relates to other fields.
- Gain an ability to understand the scientific process and to critically analyze information scientifically.
- Gain an ability to demonstrate effective communication skills in both written and oral forms in order to function effectively as entry level radiation therapists and nuclear medicine technologists.
- Have the curricular foundation and working knowledge of clinical and technical skills necessary for entry into the clinical workforce as qualified, entry level radiation therapists and nuclear medicine technologists.
- Gain high standards of continuing professional clinical practice.

College Core Requirements

Modern Language Requirements

Students who intend to graduate with the Bachelor of Arts (B.A.) Degree will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in the fourth-year high school sequence of any language
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Science and Health will abide by the College of Science and Health Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.

B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program. While Bachelor of Science (B.S.) students are not required to demonstrate competency in a modern language, the "Modern Language Option" is available to them for language study at any level.

Major Declaration Requirements

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. After researching College programs, the student should declare a major field by visiting Campus Connection and using the Declarations and Inter-College Transfer tool. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor or staff advisor in the department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

To change major fields, or to declare a minor or concentration, the student must use the Declarations and Inter-College Transfer tool described above. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the College or an academic advisor in the Office for Academic Advising Support.

Notes

Students with a primary major in Allied Health Technologies are required to complete the Capstone offered by the BIO department. Students double majoring or pursuing dual degrees with the primary major or primary degree in Allied Health Technologies are required to complete the Capstone offered by the BIO department. Allied Health Technologies students in the University Honors Program shall take the University Honors Capstone. They are not expected to take both the Honors Capstone and the primary major or primary degree Capstone.

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

• BIO 395 BIOLOGY CAPSTONE SEMINAR (Liberal Studies Program Capstone)

Biology courses that fulfill the Scientific Inquiry Domain requirements, other than the General Biology sequence, do not generate credit toward the major.

Chemistry Courses
• CHE 130 GENERAL CHEMISTRY I and CHE 131 GENERAL CHEMISTRY I LABORATORY
First-year chemistry courses should be taken simultaneously with BIO 191, BIO 192, and BIO 193.

Physics

- PHY 150 GENERAL PHYSICS I
- PHY 151 GENERAL PHYSICS II

Students may take any comparable sequences of Physics courses designed for science majors.

Mathematics

Choose one of the following Calculus sequences

- Sequence One
  - MAT 150 CALCULUS I
  - MAT 151 CALCULUS II
- Sequence Two
  - MAT 147 CALCULUS WITH INTEGRATED PRECALCULUS I
  - MAT 148 CALCULUS WITH INTEGRATED PRECALCULUS II
- Sequence Three
  - MAT 160 CALCULUS FOR MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE MAJORS I
  - MAT 161 CALCULUS FOR MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE MAJORS II
- Sequence Four
  - MAT 170 CALCULUS I WITH SCIENTIFIC APPLICATIONS
  - MAT 171 CALCULUS II WITH SCIENTIFIC APPLICATIONS

Students may be advised on the basis of their performance on the Mathematics Diagnostic test to take one or more courses before calculus.

Concentration Requirements

Students must also complete the requirements from one of the following two concentrations: Clinical Laboratory Sciences or Nuclear Medicine Technology or Radiation Therapy. Students are limited to only declaring one concentration.

Sequencing

Since programs in the Biological Sciences tend to be structured, it is useful for students to take courses in sequence. Students should begin with the General Biology and Chemistry sequences. These are prerequisite to Cell Biology, Genetics, and Organic Chemistry, which should preferably be taken in the sophomore year. Since calculus is required, students should also begin their study of mathematics as soon as possible, preferably prior to their junior year, so that they can be adequately prepared for the General Physics sequence, best taken in the junior year. Because of this highly structured sequence, students are strongly encouraged to work with their Program Director in order to plan their course schedules and plan alternatives if necessary. Such planning is particularly important for transfer students, as the sequence presented above is highly recommended and most likely to be completed in a timely fashion.

The predominance of chemistry and biology sequences in the freshman and sophomore years generally dictates that, with the exception of the Liberal Studies Core courses, the majority of the Liberal Studies courses may be postponed until the junior and senior years. Students therefore tend to take fewer Liberal Studies courses in the first two years, concentrating instead on major field requirements, which are prerequisites to upper division courses. For the Clinical Lab Sciences (CLS) concentration, students will complete their post-graduate (fifth year) internship at an associated hospital. For the Nuclear Medicine Technology (NMT) and Radiation Therapy (RT) concentrations, students apply to take the internship during their fourth year. Entry into the fifth year (CLS) and fourth year (NMT and RT) program is on a competitive basis.
Concentration Requirements

Concentrations, tracks and specializations provide focus to the major. In addition to any college core requirements, liberal studies requirements and major requirements, students are required to choose one of the following:

- Clinical Laboratory Sciences
- Nuclear Medicine Technology or Radiation Therapy

Nuclear Medicine Technology or Radiation Therapy

The Allied Health Technologies program has two concentrations that are offered in conjunction with Northwestern Memorial Hospital (NMH): Nuclear Medicine Technology or Radiation Therapy. These programs require three years of study at DePaul University and the fourth year, if accepted, at Northwestern Memorial Hospital. Entry into the fourth year is on a competitive basis. The three years of study at DePaul include 12 credits each of General Biology, General Chemistry and Organic Chemistry, and 8 credits each of Physics and Calculus. These concentrations will also include 72 credits of the required Liberal Studies Courses (The Junior Year Experiential Learning course is taken at Northwestern Memorial Hospital as part of a clinical practicum). One of the Liberal Studies Domain courses should be in speech or communications, and one should be in some field of ethics, preferably bioethics. Students interested in either of these concentrations should contact the Program Director for additional information guidelines.

Biological Sciences Core

- BIO 201 HUMAN ANATOMY
- BIO 215 ECOLOGY

Northwestern Hospital Courses

After the three year program of study at DePaul the student will apply to Northwestern Hospital to take approximately 42 quarter hours of core study and practicum at the Hospital (4 credits count towards the Experiential Learning requirement), along with taking a 4 quarter Capstone course at DePaul. Students should be aware that entrance into the fourth year at NMH is on a competitive basis. If not accepted into the fourth year at NMH, students complete their degree in Biological Sciences at DePaul.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Clinical Laboratory Sciences

In the CLS concentration, you will complete your four year bachelor degree requirements at DePaul, followed by an independent one-year program at a hospital associated with DePaul (currently Evanston Hospital). After completing your degree, you will be eligible for national board certification by the Board of Registry of the American Society for Clinical Pathology and/or the National Certification Agency for Medical Lab Personnel. Entry into the one-year program is on a competitive basis. Admission is not guaranteed.
Course Requirements

Biological Sciences Core

- BIO 210 MICROBIOLOGY
- BIO 210 MICROBIOLOGY
- or BIO 235 EVOLUTION
- BIO 370 IMMUNOBIOLOGY
- Three additional Biology courses, one of which must include a laboratory

Biology courses that fulfill the Scientific Inquiry Domain requirements, other than the General Biology sequence, do not generate credit toward the major.

Mathematics

Choose one additional course from a following Calculus sequence:

- Sequence One
  - MAT 152 CALCULUS III
- Sequence Two
  - MAT 149 CALCULUS WITH INTEGRATED PRECALCULUS III
- Sequence Three
  - MAT 162 CALCULUS FOR MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE MAJORS III
- Sequence Four
  - MAT 172 CALCULUS III WITH DIFFERENTIAL EQUATIONS

Students may be advised on the basis of their performance on the Mathematics Diagnostic test to take one or more courses before taking calculus.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

American Politics (Minor)

A minor concentration in American Politics offers a survey of American political institutions and behavior. It provides an opportunity to explore in depth a specific topic of interest which complements an individual course of study.

Course Requirements

- PSC 120 THE AMERICAN POLITICAL SYSTEM
- Three 200-level courses from the following list:
  - PSC 213 POLITICAL SOCIALIZATION
  - PSC 214 POLITICS AND MULTICULTURALISM
  - PSC 216 AMERICAN POLITICAL CULTURE
  - PSC 217 WOMEN AND POLITICS
  - PSC 218 AFRICAN-AMERICAN POLITICS
  - PSC 219 TOPICS IN POLITICAL CULTURE
  - PSC 220 THE AMERICAN PRESIDENCY
  - PSC 221 CONGRESS AND THE LEGISLATIVE PROCESS
  - PSC 222 POLITICAL PARTIES AND ELECTIONS
  - PSC 223 URBAN POLITICS
  - PSC 224 BUREAUCRACY AND POLITICS
  - PSC 225 STATE POLITICS
  - PSC 229 TOPICS IN AMERICAN POLITICS
  - PSC 260 LAW AND THE POLITICAL SYSTEM
  - PSC 282 POLITICAL ACTION AND SOCIAL JUSTICE
  - PSC 286 CAMPAIGNS AND SOCIAL ENGAGEMENT
  - PSC 288 BIKING, POLITICS AND POLICY
• Two 300-level courses from the following list:
  o PSC 310 POLITICAL CULTURE AND DEVELOPMENT
  o PSC 312 CREATING CHANGE: CONTEMPORARY GAY, LESBIAN, BISEXUAL & TRANSGENDERED POLITICS
  o PSC 315 INTERNET, TECHNOLOGY, AND POLITICS
  o PSC 319 ADVANCED TOPICS IN POLITICAL CULTURE
  o PSC 321 MASS MEDIA AND AMERICAN POLITICS
  o PSC 322 URBAN POLICYMAKING
  o PSC 323 CHICAGO GOVERNMENT AND POLITICS
  o PSC 324 INEQUALITY IN AMERICAN SOCIETY
  o PSC 326 IDEOLOGY, ECONOMICS AND POLICY o PSC 327 PUBLIC OPINION
  o PSC 328 ADVANCED TOPICS IN AMERICAN POLITICS
  o PSC 329 ADVANCED TOPICS IN PUBLIC POLICY o PSC 330 AMERICAN POLITICAL THOUGHT
  o PSC 362 THE CRIMINAL JUSTICE SYSTEM

Students majoring in Political Science (BA) or minoring in International Politics or Public Law/Political Thought are restricted from earning this minor.

American Sign Language (Minor)

The minor in American Sign Language at DePaul University provides students with a basic linguistic and cultural background, develops their creative and critical thinking skills, and helps to prepare them for a career in a multicultural world.

The minor consists of a total of 5 courses in American Sign Language at the 200/300-level.

American Studies (BA)

American Studies examines the breadth and diversity of the American experience. It is an interdisciplinary field that integrates the study of history, literature, popular culture, media, geography, politics, art, and religion in order to critically analyze American society, culture, institutions, and intellectual traditions. Students and faculty in American Studies question what constitutes American culture, and how cultural expressions reflect and reveal American values, beliefs, prejudices, pleasures, and perceptions.

American Studies courses are methodologically grounded in many different areas of cultural studies including media studies, material culture, visual literacy, critical race theory, and gender/sexuality studies. Students are expected to gain competency in American cultural studies by mastering the theoretical and intellectual frameworks of their concentrations and by learning to interpret and analyze primary documents.

Students in history, communication, anthropology, political science, sociology, English and other interdisciplinary programs find it beneficial to double major or minor in American studies. Students who pursue American Studies are well prepared for graduate work in the humanities as well as professional training in law or business, and most of our graduates go on to pursue post-graduate degrees.

Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Integrate the contributions of different disciplinary understandings and methods.
- Research primary and secondary text sources.
- Find, use, and synthesize material from multiple disciplines to extend textual sources with material culture, visual culture, music, and popular culture.
- Apply theories and methodologies within culture studies, culture, theory, and cultural criticism.
- Contextualize historically.
- Work within a multicultural perspective.
- Produce a written product of interdisciplinary independent research.

College Core Requirements

Study in the Major Field

The student’s course of study in the College consists of three parts: Liberal Studies, the major field, and electives. Together these three parts contribute to the liberal education of the student which is the common purpose of all study in the College. By “liberal education” the College understands not only a deep and thorough knowledge of a particular area of study but a knowledge of the diverse areas of study represented by criticism, history, the arts, the behavioral and social sciences, philosophy, religious studies, the natural science, and mathematics.

The major field program generally is built upon a set of core courses and a specialized “concentration.” The number of courses required for a major varies by department. Most students go beyond the minimum requirements, electing additional courses which both broaden and deepen their understanding of their chosen discipline.

Because no academic major program is built in isolation, students are required to pursue a number of electives of the student’s choice. The inherent flexibility of this curriculum demands that the student consult an academic advisor at each stage in the total program and at least once prior to each registration. Students will be prompted to visit the College Office for their official graduation check early in their senior year.

Declaration of Major, Minor and Concentration

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor in the major field department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

Students must declare or change majors, minors, and concentrations, via Campus Connection. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the Office for Academic Advising Support.

The Modern Language Requirement (MLR)

All students will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language (i.e., a language other than English) equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. This Modern Language Requirement (MLR) may be demonstrated by:

- placing into 104 or above on the DePaul language placement exam
- completing the last course or earning AP/IB credit for the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language (e.g. 103 for DePaul language classes)
- completing a college course or earning AP/IB credit for a college course beyond the first-year level in any language (e.g. 104 or above for DePaul language classes)
• completing the final course of a four-year sequence of the same modern language in high school*
• completing a proctored exam by BYU and passing the exam (see the Department of Modern Languages website for registration details)
• completing a proctored Written Proficiency Test (WPT) by Language Testing International (LTI) and achieving a score of Beginner High or above (see the Department of Modern Languages website for registration details)

* Students are strongly encouraged to take the DePaul language placement exam even if they have met the MLR via study of a language in high school. This will ensure continuation of language study at the proper level.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College will abide by this MLR in place on the effective date of the ICT, regardless of when they first matriculated at DePaul.

Students who have met the MLR and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" (MLO) of the Liberal Studies Program (see "Special Programs").

External Credit and Residency

A student who has been admitted to the College begins residency within the college as of the first day of classes of the term in which the student is registered. Students in residence, whether attending on a full-time or part-time basis, may not take courses away from DePaul University without the written permission of the college. Permission must be obtained in advance of registration to avoid loss of credit or residency in the college; see the LAS website for more information.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab or SWK requirement.

Course Requirements

- AMS 211 AMERICAN EXPERIENCE I: EARLY AMERICA TO 1860
- AMS 213 AMERICAN EXPERIENCE II: FROM 1860 TO 1941
- AMS 215 AMERICAN EXPERIENCE III: FROM 1941 TO PRESENT
- 6 Concentration Courses
- 3 Major Electives
- AMS 301 SENIOR SEMINAR

Prerequisites

At least one course in U.S. History (AMS 200 or one course from the HST 181/HST 182/HST 183 sequence) is a prerequisite to the core courses in the American Studies Program. Submission of AP U.S. History credit or SAT II U.S. History scores of 650 or higher will satisfy this requirement. In some cases, students will be allowed to enroll in U.S. History and AMS 211, 213 or 215 concurrently. Students are encouraged to take more than one course in U.S. History and to take U.S. History in the fall quarter as soon as they decide on an American Studies major.

Core Courses

The three-course sequence AMS 211, 213, and 215 forms the foundation of the program and, ideally, should be completed in the sophomore or junior years. Seniors should plan to take the capstone seminar course, AMS 301, in the fall of their senior year.

Major Electives and Distribution Requirements

In consultation with an advisor, students will select three additional courses from outside of the concentration. For the concentration and the electives, no more than three courses for the major should be from any one department outside of AMS.

Senior Seminar

During the fall quarter of their senior year, students should take AMS 301 capstone, the Senior Seminar. Over the summer, students must prepare their Senior Seminar Packet, composed of a 5-7 page reflection on their intellectual development in the major, a writing sample of their best work, and a list of preliminary topics for their Senior Seminar paper. Students will be sent instructions on how to prepare this packet by the Autumn Quarter instructor for the Senior Seminar.

Concentration Requirements

Students must also complete the requirements from one of the following concentrations: Popular Culture and Media Studies; Social and Literary Movements; Politics, Institutions and Values; Comparative Race and Ethnic Studies; or Material Culture and the Built Environment.
Concentration Requirements

Concentrations, tracks and specializations provide focus to the major. In addition to any college core requirements, liberal studies requirements and major requirements, students are required to choose one of the following:

- Comparative Race and Ethnic Studies
- Material Culture and the Built Environment
- Politics, Institutions and Values
- Popular Culture and Media Studies
- Social and Literary Movements

Social and Literary Movements Concentration

The Social and Literary Movements concentration focuses upon two areas of study: major cultural products by the principal novelists, philosophers, poets, political and religious thinkers, historians, artists, musicians and intellectuals in American history; and major cultural movements which have shaped the world view and attitudes of literate Americans in American history.

In the first area of focus, a heavy emphasis will be given to individual creative work, its form and content, its specific antecedents and influences as well as its later impact, and the cultural and philosophical implications of the document itself. The relationship between each work and larger trends of the period, both cultural and social, will also be explored.

In the second field of study, the focus will be upon broader cultural movements which are diffused through the larger literate society, which include major cultural documents as well as popular expressions of these ideas, beliefs and attitudes. Thus, the focus here is on the cultural reception and diffusion of ideas, the relation between innovative movements and mainstream belief systems and attitudes, and the nature and direction of cultural exchange.

Concentration Courses

Please note that the below list of possible courses is not exhaustive and that many courses listed under "topics" headings may also count toward American Studies. Students may take an unlimited number of "TOPICS" courses, as long as the topic of each course is different.

Portfolio Requirement

Throughout the concentration courses, students are required to maintain a “portfolio” which combines reflections on the courses with collections of course materials (syllabi, completed written course work, collections of visuals, e.g., photo essays—whatever is appropriate to the six courses chosen for the concentration). The reflections on each course and then on the concentration overall should include responses to questions such as “What were the course’s most valuable lessons in research, analysis, writing and communication? How did this course, taken together with the other courses you have chosen for your concentration, influence/develop your understanding of the area of American culture on which you are focusing?” Students turn in their portfolio on the concentration, along with a proposal for the senior seminar project, in the first weeks of the senior seminar. Specific directions for the portfolio can be obtained from your American Studies advisor, from the American Studies Program office, or from the American Studies Program Director.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Popular Culture and Media Studies Concentration

The Popular Culture and Media Studies concentration in American Studies offers students an opportunity to explore the rich and complex role popular culture has played and continues to play in American life. In contrast to high culture or folk culture forms, “popular culture” generally refers to those commercialized leisure activities or arts that are broadly accessible to most Americans, either through their mass media production (music, radio, film, television, novels, newspapers, magazines, fashion) or wide availability (amusement parks, concerts, sports, Broadway shows, shopping malls, internet sites). Since the end of the nineteenth century, American culture has been defined through its popular arts, most obviously Hollywood films and television programs, and American popular culture and media products have had enormous effects on American identity.

Four broad sets of questions underpin our examination of American popular culture and media. First, what does our close examination of the formal elements of cultural products - their written and visual texts, their physical... shapes and sounds - tell us about their specific cultural effects and meanings, both during the historical period in which they were produced and in the present? Second, how does examining the development processes and industrial histories of cultural products help us better understand their political, economic, technological, and social implications? Third, what does the reception of these products by audiences, either through live performances or mass media, tell us about their impact on the formation of American identities (gender, racial, sexual), values, and opinions? Finally, how does studying the history of American popular culture help us critically assess our current cultural politics and the role American popular culture continues to play in our understanding of ourselves as individuals, as members of social groups, and as national and international citizens?

In this concentration, students integrate courses from a number of disciplines, combining those that offer broad surveys of cultural development as well as close examinations of particular cultural products; students should also look for courses that offer a variety of methodological approaches to studying American popular culture.

Politics, Institutions and Values Concentration

Students in the Politics, Institutions, and Values concentration examine the structural and cultural processes that shape the distribution of power and resources, and supply the cultural meanings for U.S. society. Courses in this concentration explore a variety of American institutions and social processes, among them the political system, the economy, the educational system, the health care arena, the justice system and numerous other cultural and social spheres. Students will study the dynamic relations among these realms in courses ranging from traditional disciplines, like Political Science and Sociology, to those within interdisciplinary programs such as Women's and Gender Studies and, of course, American Studies.

This concentration particularly encourages students to choose courses that emphasize an historical perspective in order to better understand the interplay of individuals, social groups and subcultures as they shape and are shaped by various institutions over time. An historical perspective also allows for comparisons among traditional, modern and contemporary methodologies for conceptualizing American society. Ultimately, students in the Politics, Institutions and Values concentration should develop the critical skills with which to analyze the complexity of the conflicts among these institutions and processes and their diverse participants, among ruling elites, their members and outsiders, and between the official discourses and the complex real outcomes.

Material Culture and the Built Environment Concentration

Students in this concentration study the complex interrelationships among the arts, craft, design, ideas, places, and social and cultural life in America. This concentration allows for the encyclopedic study of things in their historical context, drawing on methodologies and approaches from art and design history, economic history, history of technology, philosophy, anthropology, archaeology, and geography.

The curriculum combines two broad approaches: giving objects prime importance and placing objects in wider social and intellectual contexts. Some courses raise issues related to media, techniques, aesthetics, production and consumption, historiography, and theory, while others focus on the role objects and places play in people's lives: the planning of cities, parks, and gardens; the design of buildings, interiors, and furnishings; clothing; jewelry and body adornment; the material culture of food, decoration, and ornament; illustration and the graphic arts. Students will explore the ways in which Americans have been shaped by and have shaped their physical environments, from "nature" to the urban environment.

Specific directions for the portfolio can be obtained from your American Studies advisor, from the American Studies Program office, or from the American Studies Program Director.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Comparative Race and Ethnic Studies Concentration

American Studies has taken a central position in the analysis of American ethnicity and race. Early work in this area focused on the history and culture of specific groups, but as the field has developed, inquiry has turned to the theoretical and comparative analysis of race. Courses in this concentration encourage students to explore both the specificity and the diversity of race and ethnicity in American culture by taking some courses that focus on the experience of one racial or ethnic group and others that offer comparative perspectives.

Concentration Courses

Please note that the below list of possible courses is not exhaustive and that many courses listed under "topics" headings may also count toward American Studies. Students may take an unlimited number of "TOPICS" courses, as long as the topic of each course is different.

Students must choose six courses from the following however exceptions may be granted by the Director of the American Studies Program

American Studies

- AMS 150 PERSPECTIVES ON AMERICA
- AMS 220 AMERICAN BUDDHISMS: RACE AND RELIGIOUS DIVERSITY
- AMS 230 ASIAN AMERICAN HISTORIES

* Portfolio Requirement

Throughout the concentration courses, students are required to maintain a “portfolio” which combines reflections on the courses with collections of course materials (syllabi, completed written course work, collections of visuals, e.g., photo essays—whatever is appropriate to the six courses chosen for the concentration). The reflections on each course and then on the concentration overall should include responses to questions such as “What were the course’s most valuable lessons in research, analysis, writing and communication? How did this course, taken together with the other courses you have chosen for your concentration, influence/develop your understanding of the area of American culture on which you are focusing?” Students turn in their portfolio on the concentration, along with a proposal for the senior seminar project, in the first weeks of the senior seminar. Specific directions for the portfolio can be obtained from your American Studies advisor, from the American Studies Program.
American Studies (Minor)

The American Studies minor offers a course of study on what constitutes American culture and how cultural expressions reflect and reveal American values, beliefs and perceptions.

Course Requirements

- Two core courses from the following list:
  - AMS 211 AMERICAN EXPERIENCE I: EARLY AMERICA TO 1860
  - AMS 213 AMERICAN EXPERIENCE II: FROM 1860 TO 1941
  - AMS 215 AMERICAN EXPERIENCE III: FROM 1941 TO PRESENT
- One course from the following list:
  - AMS 200 INTRODUCTION TO AMERICAN SOCIAL HISTORY AND CULTURE
  - One US History course
- Three US topic courses (American Studies electives) which may include AMS 301 SENIOR SEMINAR

Ideally, AMS 200 or the U.S. History course should be taken before enrolling in AMS 211.

Students majoring in American Studies (BA) are restricted from earning this minor.

Animation (BA)

The BA in Animation focuses on 3D modeling and animation, hand-drawn animation, motion graphics, and stop-motion animation for game development, cinema, TV and interactive media.

Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Demonstrate a solid foundation in design and traditional studio art, and will be able to use these skills in order to communicate effectively through visual means:
• Demonstrate knowledge of the history of animation through written critical evaluation of animated films and be able to analyze work in a historical context.
• Create work in a variety of animation techniques including hand-drawn, 3D animation, stop-motion and experimental methods.
• Implement the use of storyboarding, animatics, and essential pre-production techniques to develop a film concept.
• Discuss learning experiences across disciplines in the University and establish connections to their own animation practices.
• Utilize their skills to produce a number of animated films culminating in a thesis animation in the media of their choosing.

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab or SWK requirement.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Degree Requirements

Students in this degree must meet the following requirements:

- Complete a minimum of 192 credit hours (generally 48 courses).
- Earn a grade of C- or higher in WRD 103, WRD 104, and all Major and Minor courses.
- Earn a grade of D or higher in all other Liberal Studies and Open Elective courses.
- Maintain a cumulative GPA of 2.0 or higher.

Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs. Students who meet the admission requirements below may choose to apply to a combined degree program. Interested students should consult their faculty advisor regarding the application procedure. This program allows students to combine many CDM bachelor's degrees with a CDM master's degree following the structure outlined below.

Admission Criteria

- Minimum of 44 quarter hours earned
- Minimum of 12 quarter hours earned at DePaul
- GPA of 3.3 or higher in courses taken at DePaul
- Endorsement of faculty advisor

In order to apply for the combined degree program, your faculty advisor must send an e-mail recommendation to the CDM Academic Success Center. The recommendation should include your full name, student ID number, and the bachelor's and master's degrees you wish to combine.

Bachelor of Arts in Computing students who are enrolled via the School for New Learning are eligible for this program. Interested students who meet the admission criteria for a combined degree should contact Kenn Skorupa at SNL for more information.

Program Structure

Students in the combined degree program take a maximum of three graduate level courses that count toward both their bachelor's and master's degree requirements. Students may enroll in graduate level coursework in the junior and senior year only. Students in the combined degree program will receive the bachelor's degree after meeting all graduation requirements including the minimum credit hours required for graduation.
To earn the master’s degree, the student must earn as many additional graduate credit hours as needed to reach the minimum number of graduate credit hours required in that master’s degree.

Only CDM courses can be taken as part of this program. Advanced programs (e.g., JD/MS, MFA, and PhD) are not eligible for the combined degree program.

Maintaining Good Standing

Cumulative GPA and course grades will be reviewed after each Autumn, Winter, and Spring Quarter.

The student and faculty advisor will be notified when the student’s cumulative GPA falls below 3.3 or when the students receives less than a C- in graduate level course.

If a student’s cumulative GPA falls below 3.3, the student must earn a term GPA of 3.3 or above in the following quarter to stay in good standing. If the student does not achieve a 3.3 term GPA, then the student will be dismissed from the combined program and resume the traditional B.A./B.S./B.F.A.

If dismissed from the combined degree program after graduate courses have been passed, the graduate courses may only apply to the undergraduate degree. Should the student later be admitted to a graduate program, graduate courses applied to the undergraduate degree may not apply to the graduate program and may not be repeated if they are required in the declared graduate curriculum. Other graduate courses may be substituted in this case.

Designing a Course of Study

It is extremely important that the student and faculty advisor work together on a course of study immediately upon admission to the Combined Degree Program.

This course of study should include the graduate courses to be taken and the undergraduate courses that are replaced by the graduate courses. Failure to put together a solid plan can lead to extra coursework and a lengthening of the Combined Degree program.

It is advisable for the student and the faculty advisor to enter the proposed plan of study in the student communication record on the CDM intranet so it is available to the student and CDM faculty and staff.

Registering for Master’s Degree Courses

Combined degree students must meet regularly with their faculty advisors. The faculty advisor will initiate the registration process for all graduate level courses taken during the undergraduate career.

Bachelor’s Degree to Master’s Degree Transition

In order to be fully admitted to the designated master’s program, the student must meet all admission requirements for that program. When preparing to complete the undergraduate portion of the combined degree, students must submit the application for degree conferral for the undergraduate degree by the application deadline. At this time, the students should contact the CDM Academic Success Center about the procedure required to be formally admitted to the declared graduate program.

Animation (BFA)

The BFA in Animation provides students with a solid foundation in the art of animation and its history combined with insight into the latest techniques used in the rapidly-moving fields of high end 3D animation in the film, television, and game development industries.

Concentrations

Cinema Concentration
The technically demanding art of modern 3D character animation is grounded in the core fundamentals of animation mechanics, visual storytelling and acting. Right from the start, students in the Cinema Animation concentration gain hands-on experience bringing digital characters to life. They are given in-depth instruction in the most up-to-date software and technology available, including motion capture and green screen, but the emphasis is always on creativity, experimentation and expression.

Game Art Concentration

Becoming a game development artist requires a solid foundation in animation, visual design principles, color theory, and drawing. Students in the Game Art concentration also receive in-depth instruction in the latest advanced game modeling and animation technology and practices, including motion capture, rigging and digital sculpting. They learn about real-world problem-solving, team dynamics, and pipeline requirements while working alongside programmers and game designers on cross-disciplinary game development projects.

Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs. Students who meet the admission requirements below may choose to apply to a combined degree program. Interested students should consult their faculty advisor regarding the application procedure. This program allows students to combine many CDM bachelor's degrees with a CDM master's degree following the structure outlined
Admission Criteria

- Minimum of 44 quarter hours earned
- Minimum of 12 quarter hours earned at DePaul
- GPA of 3.3 or higher in courses taken at DePaul
- Endorsement of faculty advisor

In order to apply for the combined degree program, your faculty advisor must send an e-mail recommendation to the CDM Academic Success Center. The recommendation should include your full name, student ID number, and the bachelor’s and master’s degrees you wish to combine.

Bachelor of Arts in Computing students who are enrolled via the School for New Learning are eligible for this program. Interested students who meet the admission criteria for a combined degree should contact Kenn Skorupa at SNL for more information.

Program Structure

Students in the combined degree program take a maximum of three graduate level courses that count toward both their bachelor’s and master’s degree requirements. Students may enroll in graduate level coursework in the junior and senior year only. Students in the combined degree program will receive the bachelor’s degree after meeting all graduation requirements including the minimum credit hours required for graduation.

To earn the master’s degree, the student must earn as many additional graduate credit hours as needed to reach the minimum number of graduate credit hours required in that master’s degree.

Only CDM courses can be taken as part of this program. Advanced programs (e.g., JD/MS, MFA, and PhD) are not eligible for the combined degree program.

Maintaining Good Standing

Cumulative GPA and course grades will be reviewed after each Autumn, Winter, and Spring Quarter.

The student and faculty advisor will be notified when the student's cumulative GPA falls below 3.3 or when the student receives less than a C- in graduate level course.

If a student’s cumulative GPA falls below 3.3, the student must earn a term GPA of 3.3 or above in the following quarter to stay in good standing. If the student does not achieve a 3.3 term GPA, then the student will be dismissed from the combined program and resume the traditional B.A./B.S./B.F.A.

If dismissed from the combined degree program after graduate courses have been passed, the graduate courses may only apply to the undergraduate degree. Should the student later be admitted to a graduate program, graduate courses applied to the undergraduate degree may not apply to the graduate program and may not be repeated if they are required in the declared graduate curriculum. Other graduate courses may be substituted in this case.

Designing a Course of Study

It is extremely important that the student and faculty advisor work together on a course of study immediately upon admission to the Combined Degree Program.

This course of study should include the graduate courses to be taken and the undergraduate courses that are replaced by the graduate courses. Failure to put together a solid plan can lead to extra coursework and a lengthening of the Combined Degree program.

It is advisable for the student and the faculty advisor to enter the proposed plan of study in the student communication record on the CDM intranet so it is available to the student and CDM faculty and staff.

Registering for Master’s Degree Courses

Combined degree students must meet regularly with their faculty advisors. The faculty advisor will initiate the registration process for all graduate level courses taken during the undergraduate career.

Bachelor’s Degree to Master’s Degree Transition

In order to be fully admitted to the designated master's program, the student must meet all admission requirements for that program. When preparing to complete the undergraduate portion of the combined degree, students must submit the application for degree conferral for the undergraduate degree by the application... deadlines. At this time, the students should contact the CDM Academic Success Center about the procedure required to be formally admitted to the declared graduate program.

Animation (Minor)

The minor in Animation at DePaul emphasizes solid traditional animation and storytelling skills, while encouraging experimentation in form, content and medium.

Course Requirements

- ANI 101 ANIMATION FOR NON-MAJORS
  - or ANI 201 ANIMATION I
- ANI 206 HISTORY OF ANIMATION
- 20 credit hours from the following list of courses (at least 3 must be ANI courses):
  - Any ANI course
  - DC 201 INTRODUCTION TO SCREENWRITING
  - DC 210 DIGITAL CINEMA PRODUCTION I
  - DC 220 EDITING I

Students majoring in Animation (BA), Animation (BS), Animation (BFA) or Digital Cinema (BS) are restricted from earning this minor.

Anthropology (BA)

Anthropology is the comparative study of humanity, focusing on people in all places and throughout history and prehistory. Courses engage students in the analysis of beliefs, values, and practices from a perspective that understands societies on their own terms. This perspective includes comparing the similarities and differences among different groups and appreciating and valuing different ways of living. Students study other cultures in order to learn more about their own. This curriculum affords students the opportunity to see the interaction between “what we know” and “what we do” that lies at the heart of the study of humanity.

Our curriculum combines the best parts of a critical, creative, liberal arts education with practical, professional preparation. The major courses direct the student toward the subfields of cultural anthropology and archaeology, with a focus on applied research in these sub-fields. As part of the major, students engage in several research projects, including those that expose them to the application of anthropological knowledge for non-academic audiences, and to our archaeological field school. Out-of-class research projects in the City of Chicago are integral components of several courses. They graduate with an extensive knowledge of how anthropology is actually done. We bring students farther into this practical side of the discipline than any other B.A. program in the country.

Academic careers are attractive to some graduates, but more than half of all professional anthropologists work outside of academic institutions. Some of these careers include research for public and private organizations, administration and/or public policy on the local, regional, federal, or international level; research and work in museums; intercultural communication; advertising, marketing, and public relations; human resources, public health, health care, and law. They also contribute to non-governmental and international organizations. Within the context of administration or public policy, anthropologists are engaged in cultural resource management (CRM), monitoring the preservation of cultural resources for national parks, museums, and state or municipal cultural institutions (i.e., parks and historical societies). Anthropology enhances other career paths, such as modern languages, international studies, international relations, cultural studies, and international business.
Students will have completed at least four ethnographic research projects and be certified in archaeological research skills by the time they graduate.
The extensive ethnographic research experience qualifies students with B.A. degrees to work in both non-profit (social service agencies) and for-profit (marketing, design, user-based) research settings. The archaeological certification opens avenues for careers in cultural resource management (CRM), and monitoring the preservation of cultural resources for national parks, museums, and state or municipal cultural institutions.

Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Describe and discuss their own value system in relation to those of others, critique evidence in support of the Boasian position that race, culture and language are not mutually determinant.
- Explain and apply uses of anthropology across a variety of profit and not for profit settings in contemporary society.
  - Identify and explain how anthropology may be used explicitly to affect social change.
- Conduct ethnographic projects that exhibit a mastery of methodology.
- Students can apply the language of everyday encounters, and write at least two ethnographic project reports for a non-academic public.
- Write narratives that utilize first-person accounts in archival records to reconstruct the development of past colonial relationships.
- Discuss and describe in depth at least one regional experience outside Anglophone North America, as well as explain in depth anthropological literature on urban life and information on Chicago’s archaeological past.
- Write about connections in the history of ideas in 20th century culture theory.
  - Draw connections in archaeological practice to culture theory, in biosocial anthropology to culture theory, in linguistic anthropology to culture theory, and in ethnohistory to culture theory.
- Discuss in depth at least one area of contemporary research in the field of anthropology.
  - Interpret and critique in written and oral form specific ethnographic literatures.

College Core Requirements

Study in the Major Field

The student's course of study in the College consists of three parts: Liberal Studies, the major field, and electives. Together these three parts contribute to the liberal education of the student which is the common purpose of all study in the College. By “liberal education” the College understands not only a deep and through knowledge of a particular area of study but a knowledge of the diverse areas of study represented by criticism, history, the arts, the behavioral and social sciences, philosophy, religious studies, the natural science, and mathematics.

The major field program generally is built upon a set of core courses and a specialized “concentration.” The number of courses required for a major varies by department. Most students go beyond the minimum requirements, electing additional courses which both broaden and deepen their understanding of their chosen discipline.

Because no academic major program is built in isolation, students are required to pursue a number of electives.
of the student's choice. The inherent flexibility of this curriculum demands that the student consult an academic advisor at each stage in the total program and at least once prior to each registration. Students will be prompted to visit the College Office for their official graduation check early in their senior year.

Declaration of Major, Minor and Concentration

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor in the major field department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

Students must declare or change majors, minors, and concentrations, via Campus Connection. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the Office for Academic Advising Support.

The Modern Language Requirement (MLR)

All students will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language (i.e., a language other than English) equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. This Modern Language Requirement (MLR) may be demonstrated by:

- placing into 104 or above on the DePaul language placement exam
- completing the last course or earning AP/IB credit for the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language (e.g. 103 for DePaul language classes)
- completing a college course or earning AP/IB credit for a college course beyond the first-year level in any language (e.g. 104 or above for DePaul language classes)
- completing the final course of a four-year sequence of the same modern language in high school*
- completing a proctored exam by BYU and passing the exam (see the Department of Modern Languages website for registration details)
- completing a proctored Written Proficiency Test (WPT) by Language Testing International (LTI) and achieving a score of Beginner High or above (see the Department of Modern Languages website for registration details)

* Students are strongly encouraged to take the DePaul language placement exam even if they have met the MLR via study of a language in high school. This will ensure continuation of language study at the proper level.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College will abide by this MLR in place on the effective date of the ICT, regardless of when they first matriculated at DePaul.

Students who have met the MLR and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" (MLO) of the Liberal Studies Program (see "Special Programs").

External Credit and Residency

A student who has been admitted to the College begins residency within the college as of the first day of classes of the term in which the student is registered. Students in residence, whether attending on a full-time or part-time basis, may not take courses away from DePaul University without the written permission of the college. Permission must be obtained in advance of registration to avoid loss of credit or residency in the college; see the LAS website for more information.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab or SWK requirement.

Major Requirements

Course Requirements

- One of the following courses:
  - ANT 102 CULTURAL ANTHROPOLOGY
  - ANT 103 ARCHAEOLOGY
  - ANT 104 INTRODUCTION TO BIOLOGICAL ANTHROPOLOGY
  - ANT 105 ANTHROPOLOGY THROUGH FILM
  - ANT 107 CULTURAL DIMENSION OF BUSINESS
  - ANT 109 FOOD AND CULTURE
  - ANT 120 SCIENCE OF ARCHAEOLOGY
- ANT 201 ETHNOGRAPHIC RESEARCH METHODS
- ANT 202 ARCHAEOLOGICAL FIELD METHODS
- ANT 203 PROFESSIONALISM AND ETHICS IN ANTHROPOLOGY
- ANT 204 LINEAGES OF CULTURE THEORY
- ANT 386 CULTURAL ANALYSIS
- ANT 396 SENIOR CAPSTONE SEMINAR
- One of the following courses:
  - ANT 322 COMMUNITY-BASED APPLIED PRACTICE
  - ANT 328 INTERNATIONAL APPLIED PRACTICE
  - ANT 330 CLIENT-BASED APPLIED PRACTICE
- Five 200/300 level ANT courses (100 level courses do not count as electives unless approved by the chair)

Allied Field Requirement

Anthropological research makes extensive use of language skills because of the opportunity it presents for cultural learning. Students are encouraged to study at least one language to the point of functional fluency, if they wish to become professional anthropologists. The minimum requirement for the major is completion of a language-based study abroad program of ten or more weeks duration. If the student is unable to participate in such a program, they can complete the requirement by studying the language with coursework through the end of the second year (Courses numbered 106). Study abroad programs at other universities may be used as long as half of the credit earned is in language-based courses. Depending on previous course work, students may place out of the requirement entirely by scoring high on the university’s placement exam. Heritage speakers of a language other than English must also take the university’s test. For languages for which no test is available, consult the chair of the Modern Languages department. Even when the minimum of the language requirement is met, all majors are strongly encouraged to participate in a study abroad program that allows them to live in a community where English is not spoken and to seeks instruction in a third or fourth language.
Experiential Learning and Senior Capstone

Majors in anthropology are expected to fulfill their junior year experiential learning (JYEL) and senior capstone (SC) requirements with ANT 322 and ANT 396 respectively. Both of these courses are recognized by the Liberal Studies Council as fulfilling these requirements. Students may take other junior year experiential learning and senior capstone courses, but are still required to take these two courses (or designated alternatives) to fulfill the major with the permission of the department chair. When students take ANT 322 to fulfill the JYEL requirement they must take an additional course in a liberal studies learning domain of their choice.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

Anthropology (BA)/Secondary Education Social Science (MEd)

The TEACH Program combines a Liberal Arts and Social Sciences (LAS) undergraduate Social Science major (Anthropology, Economics, Geography, History, Political Science, or Sociology) or a Science and Health (Psychology) major with a graduate level College of Education (COE) Master's in Education Program. Students graduate with a BA or BS in their disciplinary major and a MEd in Education with State of Illinois Secondary Social Science licensure.

Students may apply to the Program during the spring of their junior year. They must enroll in the Junior Year Experiential Learning course, TCH 320, and meet other application criteria; these include completion of at least 16 quarter credit hours at DePaul and a 3.0 GPA. During their senior year, students are required to complete a Program capstone course, TCH 390, and three 400-level courses that count toward both their undergraduate and graduate degrees:

- TCH 401 TEACHING AS A PROFESSION IN SECONDARY SCHOOL
- TCH 412 THE NATURE OF HISTORY AND THE SOCIAL SCIENCES
- TCH 422 INQUIRY & APPLICATION IN DEVELOPING SECONDARY HISTORY AND SOCIAL SCIENCES PEDAGOGY

Social Science Content Area (grades of C or better required for licensure):
The following Social Science content area requirements are required. These can be taken as part of the major, liberal studies or open elective requirements:

- HST 298 INTRODUCTION TO HISTORICAL SOURCES AND METHODS
- HST 299 CRAFT OF HISTORY
- 3 United States History courses
- 2 Non- United States History courses
- 6 from the anthropology major
- Additional licensure requirements: (one course in each area required)
  - Geography (GEO 101 recommended)
  - Economics (ECO 101 recommended)
  - Political Science (PSC 120 recommended)
  - Psychology (PSY 105 recommended)
  - Sociology (SOC 101 recommended)

The Master's year comprises teacher-preparation coursework that culminates with student teaching during Spring quarter. Upon graduation and the fulfilling of State of Illinois licensure requirements (which may require some additional course work in the student’s major and related fields), students are eligible to be licensed to teach Social Sciences at the 6th-12th grade levels.

Anthropology (Minor)

The minor in Anthropology is intended to give you an overview of the discipline. You will study beliefs, values and practices of various cultures and will compare similarities and differences among diverse groups.

Course Requirements

- ANT 102 CULTURAL ANTHROPOLOGY
- ANT 103 ARCHAEOLOGY
- ANT 104 INTRODUCTION TO BIOLOGICAL ANTHROPOLOGY
- Any three additional courses from the anthropology curriculum for which the student has the prerequisites, including at least one 200-level and one 300-level course.

Students majoring in Anthropology (BA) or minoring in Archaeology are restricted from earning this minor.

Applied Behavioral Sciences (BA)

An accelerated, inter-disciplinary, 2-year degree completion program for adult students, the ABS major is offered at the Loop and Naperville campuses, requiring only one on-site class each week. The remaining courses are offered online.

This course-based major is for graduates of community colleges with an Associates degree who seek broad interdisciplinary preparation for a career in human services, social work, nonprofit management and other related fields.

The major combines courses from the Department of Psychology, the College of Communication, and the School for New Learning, which offers the majority of courses, including a unique series of Adult Learning Seminars. The courses in the major provide students with multiple perspectives on human behavior, interaction and communications.
Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Demonstrate knowledge of major theoretical traditions within psychology and related social sciences and analyze their shaping effects on key subject matter areas within those disciplines.
- Analyze the effectiveness of major mental health treatment models across the human life course.
- Understand and appreciate the complexities of human communication and how these dynamics impact life in relationships, groups, organizational and cultural settings.
- Interpret basic statistical results from social science research and be able to evaluate their validity.
- Demonstrate writing skills appropriate to college graduates with a special emphasis on writing in the disciplines.
- Apply and analyze all central elements of scientific research methods, including a framework for evaluating ethical decisions in research and protecting human and animal subjects.
- Understand and appreciate the role of psychological phenomena in social, community and organizational contexts.
- Apply the elements of logical, critical thinking in the development of work-based models of negotiation and leadership.

Program Requirements

There are 93 quarter hours required for this degree, as follows:

Understanding Human Behavior (4 courses equaling 16 credit hours)

- RELC 329 PERSUASION
- PSY 347 SOCIAL PSYCHOLOGY
- PSY 363 ALCOHOLISM, DRUG ADDICTION AND RECOVERY
  or DCM 333 ADDICTIONS AND RECOVERY
- DCM 307 ANALYZING HUMAN BEHAVIOR

Life Cycle in Context (2 courses equaling 8 credit hours)

- DCM 323 THE PSYCHOLOGY OF AGING AND THE AGED
- PSY 302 PERSONAL ADJUSTMENT AND MENTAL HEALTH

Community and Social Justice (3 courses equaling 12 credit hours)

- DCM 304 EVOLVING PROFESSIONAL ETHICS
- DCM 325 WORK & SOCIETY
- PSY 354 COMMUNITY PSYCHOLOGY
  or PSY 353 ABNORMAL PSYCHOLOGY

Methods (3 courses equaling 12 credit hours)

- DCM 306 PRODUCTIVE APPLICATIONS OF WORK BASED INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY
- DCM 308 INTRODUCTION TO STATISTICS
- DCM 309 APPLIED RESEARCH

Effective Workplace Dynamics (3 courses equaling 12 credit hours)

- ORGC 316 COMMUNICATION AND GROUP DECISION-MAKING
- ORGC 353 COMMUNICATION AND ORGANIZATIONAL CHANGE
- DCM 324 EFFECTIVE GROUP AND PERSONAL DYNAMICS

Leadership Theories and Skills (3 courses equaling 12 credit hours)
- DCM 310 THINKING CRITICALLY
- DCM 311 CONFLICT MANAGEMENT AND NEGOTIATION
- DCM 303 LEADERSHIP MODELS FOR STRONG ORGANIZATIONS

Adult Learning Seminars (10 courses equaling 21 credit hours)

- DCM 313 LEARNING FROM EXPERIENCE AND SELF-ASSESSMENT
- DCM 314 LEARNING AND TRANSFORMATION
- DCM 315 EXPLORING THE FIELD
- DCM 316 WORK IN A GLOBAL ENVIRONMENT
- DCM 317 ETHICS IN THE PROFESSIONS
- DCM 318 SOCIAL JUSTICE IN THE PROFESSIONS
- DCM 319 CREATIVITY AND INNOVATIVE THINKING
- DCM 320 PROFESSIONAL PORTFOLIO DEVELOPMENT
- DCM 321 CAPSTONE PLANNING
- DCM 322 CAPSTONE PROJECT/PORTFOLIO REVIEW

Electives

Additional elective credit may be required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 quarter hours (128 semester hours).

---

Applied Psychology (Minor)

The Applied Psychology minor allows you to study the application of psychological theories and research to fields that integrate applied psychological perspectives including health care, education, community outreach, and sports.

This minor is only for non-psychology majors and a maximum of one psychology minor may be earned by a student.

Students cannot earn a minor in the same academic program as their major.

Six psychology courses are required, including:

- PSY 105 INTRODUCTORY PSYCHOLOGY I
- PSY 106 INTRODUCTORY PSYCHOLOGY II
- PSY 353 ABNORMAL PSYCHOLOGY
- PSY 354 COMMUNITY PSYCHOLOGY
- 2 Additional Psychology courses (Recommended List):
  - PSY 317 PSYCHOLOGY OF INTERPERSONAL RELATIONSHIP
  - PSY 333 CHILD PSYCHOLOGY
  - PSY 334 ADOLESCENT PSYCHOLOGY
  - PSY 345 CULTURAL ISSUES IN PSYCHOLOGY
  - PSY 363 ALCOHOLISM, DRUG ADDICTION AND RECOVERY
  - PSY 366 BEHAVIOR PROBLEMS OF CHILDREN
  - PSY 367 PSYCHOLOGY OF EXCEPTIONAL CHILDREN
Arabic Language (Minor)

An Arabic Language minor will provide intermediate proficiency in Arabic. Arabic is considered by the United States government as one of the critical languages for Americans to learn.

The minor will consist of a total of 5 courses in Arabic language at the 200/300-level.

Students majoring in Arabic Studies (BA) or minoring in Arabic Studies are restricted from earning this minor.

Arabic Studies (BA)

Through DePaul's Arabic Studies program, students will develop the ability to speak, understand, read and write the Arabic language and will be encouraged to foster an appreciation of Islamic literature and civilization.

Studying Arabic will expand the student's knowledge of the Middle East and of the culture of more than one billion Arabs across the globe. While learning the Arabic language, the student will also learn about Arab cultural, religious and political forces.

The Arabic language is one of the United Nations' six official languages, and the U.S. Government considers it one of the most critical languages for Americans to learn. Chicago has one of the nation's largest Arab-American populations in the U.S., giving the student opportunities to visit its communities and gain first-hand knowledge about the Arab culture and language.

What can the student do with this degree?

- Consulting
- Education
- Governmental Agency Work
- Immigration Services
- International Business
- Non-Profit Work
- Public Administration
- Public Policy
- Translation Services

College Core Requirements

Study in the Major Field

The student’s course of study in the College consists of three parts: Liberal Studies, the major field, and electives. Together these three parts contribute to the liberal education of the student which is the common purpose of all study in the College. By “liberal education” the College understands not only a deep and through knowledge of a particular area of study but a knowledge of the diverse areas of study represented by criticism, history, the arts, the behavioral and social sciences, philosophy, religious studies, the natural science, and mathematics.

The major field program generally is built upon a set of core courses and a specialized “concentration.” The number of courses required for a major varies by department. Most students go beyond the minimum requirements, electing additional courses which both broaden and deepen their understanding of their chosen discipline.

Because no academic major program is built in isolation, students are required to pursue a number of electives of the student’s choice. The inherent flexibility of this curriculum demands that the student consult an academic advisor at each stage in the total program and at least once prior to each registration.

Students will be prompted to visit the College Office for their official graduation check early in their senior year.

Declaration of Major, Minor and Concentration

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor in the major field department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

Students must declare or change majors, minors, and concentrations, via Campus Connection. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the Office for Academic Advising Support.

The Modern Language Requirement (MLR)

All students will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language (i.e., a language other than English) equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. This Modern Language Requirement (MLR) may be demonstrated by:

- placing into 104 or above on the DePaul language placement exam
- completing the last course or earning AP/IB credit for the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language (e.g. 103 for DePaul language classes)
- completing a college course or earning AP/IB credit for a college course beyond the first-year level in any language (e.g. 104 or above for DePaul language classes)
- completing the final course of a four-year sequence of the same modern language in high school*
- completing a proctored exam by BYU and passing the exam (see the Department of Modern Languages website for registration details)
- completing a proctored Written Proficiency Test (WPT) by Language Testing International (LTI) and achieving a score of Beginner High or above (see the Department of Modern Languages website for registration details)

* Students are strongly encouraged to take the DePaul language placement exam even if they have met the MLR via study of a language in high school. This will ensure continuation of language study at the proper level.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College will abide by this MLR in place on the effective date of the ICT, regardless of when they first matriculated at DePaul.

Students who have met the MLR and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" (MLO) of the Liberal Studies Program (see "Special Programs").

External Credit and Residency

A student who has been admitted to the College begins residency within the college as of the first day of classes of the term in which the student is registered. Students in residence, whether attending on a full-time or part-time basis, may not take courses away from DePaul University without the written permission of the college. Permission must be obtained in advance of registration to avoid loss of credit or residency in the college; see the LAS website for more information.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab or SWK requirement.
Major Requirements

Course Requirements

- 24-32 credit hours of 200/300 level courses in Arabic Language
- 20-28 credit hours of Allied Courses from at least three different departments

Students who begin their study of Arabic at DePaul with ARB 202 or higher may substitute a 300-level Arabic elective course for any of the required 200-level courses.

MOL 340, MOL 341, and MOL 342 are specifically designed to help Arabic Studies students better understand the Arabic-speaking world. Students are highly recommended to take at least two of the three MOL Arabic-related courses that we offer.

ANT 202 is only taught as part of the Archaeological Field School. Non-anthropology courses that apply as electives for the minor include: AMS 370, HST 290, HST 291, HST 294, and/or HST 296.

Students majoring in Anthropology (BA) or minoring in Anthropology are restricted from earning this minor.

Art, Media, and Design (BA)

The BA in Art, Media, and Design offers a general curriculum which identifies and promotes continuing contact with the enduring values of our artistic heritage and the application of these values to the future. The educational aim of the department is to provide, through individualized instruction, a broad foundation in studio art practice. The curriculum emphasizes fundamental artistic concepts through problem solving and experimentation in studio courses.

Three areas of concentration are offered: 1) A Studio Art concentration designed to develop artistic skills and abilities in painting, drawing, sculpture, printmaking, and digital imaging; 2) A Photography and Media Art concentration designed to develop artistic skills and abilities in photography, digital photography, video, and web art; and 3) A Graphic Art concentration designed to develop artistic skills and abilities in primarily two-dimensional intermedia forms, focusing on the following areas: photography, drawing, printmaking, text, digital imaging, web art, the graphic novel, and the artist book and poster.

Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Demonstrate a reasonably high degree of competency of technical execution appropriate to the chosen medium. This includes long-term perspective on how their skills develop and evolve.
- Demonstrate an understanding of the social, visual, psychological and/or aesthetic components of artmaking in their oral presentations and written papers. This includes an awareness of all of the above and:
  - Differences between specific audience groups.
  - The relationship between aesthetics and ethics.
- Demonstrate in their artist statements and group critiques an awareness of the contemporary concerns in art, and assess critically their own contribution. This includes sensitivity to all of the above and:
  - The history and traditions of their chosen medium.
  - How their Liberal Studies experience can inform their creative practice.
- Recognize that professional artists – regardless of their chosen medium, specific discipline, or professional affiliations (creative studios, exhibition venues, etc) – distinguish the difference between hard, sustained work and mastery of materials as distinct from inspiration. This includes sensitivity to all of the above and:
  - How the institutions in which they practice and exhibit affect the reception of their creative work
  - The difference between working independently or as part of a group
- Make works of art that reflect a synthesis of competent technical execution, written understanding and critical thinking appropriate to the chosen medium. This work may involve a variety of strategies including possible combinations of traditional and nontraditional media, form, and text. This includes sensitivity to all of the above and:
  - Understanding the difference between being informed and being insightful.
  - The value of being a producer of images and objects in a society that allows freedom of speech.
  - The value of risk taking and willingness to fail.

College Core Requirements

Study in the Major Field

The student’s course of study in the College consists of three parts: Liberal Studies, the major field, and electives. Together these three parts contribute to the liberal education of the student which is the common purpose of all study in the College. By “liberal education” the College understands not only a deep and thorough knowledge of a particular area of study but a knowledge of the diverse areas of study represented by criticism, history, the arts, the behavioral and social sciences, philosophy, religious studies, the natural science, and mathematics.

The major field program generally is built upon a set of core courses and a specialized “concentration.” The number of courses required for a major varies by department. Most students go beyond the minimum requirements, electing additional courses which both broaden and deepen their understanding of their chosen discipline.

Because no academic major program is built in isolation, students are required to pursue a number of electives of the student’s choice. The inherent flexibility of this curriculum demands that the student consult an academic advisor at each stage in the total program and at least once prior to each registration.

Students will be prompted to visit the College Office for their official graduation check early in their senior year.

Declaration of Major, Minor and Concentration

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor in the major field department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

Students must declare or change majors, minors, and concentrations, via Campus Connection. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the the Office for Academic Advising Support.
The Modern Language Requirement (MLR)

- placing into 104 or above on the DePaul language placement exam
- completing the last course or earning AP/IB credit for the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language (e.g. 103 for DePaul language classes)
- completing a college course or earning AP/IB credit for a college course beyond the first-year level in any language (e.g. 104 or above for DePaul language classes)
- completing the final course of a four-year sequence of the same modern language in high school*
- completing a proctored exam by BYU and passing the exam (see the Department of Modern Languages website for registration details)
- completing a proctored Written Proficiency Test (WPT) by Language Testing International (LTI) and achieving a score of Beginner High or above (see the Department of Modern Languages website for registration details)

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Bilingual Education (Minor)

The Bilingual Education (BE) minor provides a learning opportunity to all DePaul students interested in working with second language learners. Students gain a comprehensive and in-depth understanding of second language acquisition, as well as related educational theories and practices.

Students interested in this minor should consult home college advisors and secure permission from the Bilingual-Bicultural Education Program to enroll.

Course Requirements

7 courses are required for the minor:

- BBE 310 SPECIAL TOPICS IN LANGUAGE EDUCATION AND CULTURE
- BBE 304 LANGUAGE, LITERACY AND CULTURE
  or BBE 370 SECOND & WORLD LANGUAGE LITERACIES AND CULTURES
- BBE 307 EQUITY ISSUES IN ASSESSMENT OF LANGUAGE LEARNERS
- BBE 316 SOCIOCULTURAL AND HISTORICAL PERSPECTIVES IN BILINGUAL EDUCATION
- BBE 324 METHODS OF TEACHING ESL
- BBE 325 BILITERACY PRACTICES IN BILINGUAL EDUCATION AND ESL
- BBE 366 FIRST AND SECOND LANGUAGE ACQUISITION
  or BBE 360 SECOND, WORLD AND HERITAGE LANGUAGE ACQUISITION K-12

Minor in Bilingual Education with Bilingual Endorsement

This option is only available to undergraduates in the College of Education pursuing ISBE Licensure.

The minor with endorsement requires the above 7 courses PLUS 100 fieldwork hours (including registration in BBE 96) and a passing score on the Target Language Proficiency Test.

- BBE 96 100 FIELD EXPERIENCE HOURS IN ESL / BE DOCUMENTED

ISBE Licensure Division endorses in any target language for which tests are available through ILTS. If a language test through ILTS does not exist for bilingual endorsement, candidates may substitute the Foreign Language Content-Area test.

Note: Individuals interested in pursuing a minor in bilingual and a minor in ESL need to select the combined ESL-Bilingual (ESL-BE) minor. Individuals cannot earn a separate minor for both areas.
Biological Science (Minor)

As a Biological Science minor you will gain a strong foundation in biological science theories and practices. You will have the opportunity to choose electives based on your individual study plan.

Course Requirements

- BIO 191 GENERAL BIOLOGY I FOR SCIENCE MAJORS
- BIO 192 GENERAL BIOLOGY II FOR SCIENCE MAJORS
- BIO 193 GENERAL BIOLOGY III FOR SCIENCE MAJORS
- Three additional courses (generally lab-based) designed for the major must be taken. If desired, these courses can be recommended by a departmental advisor on the basis of the student’s interests.

Students cannot earn a minor in the same academic program as their major.

Biological Sciences (BS)

The Department of Biological Sciences provides courses for both biology majors and non-majors. For its majors, the department offers six different concentrations. These concentrations provide a core program consisting of six to seven lecture/laboratory courses. Beyond the core program, the concentrations allow the students to have a moderate degree of specialization in any one of several areas. It also provides a number of opportunities for learning outside the classroom, including a program of seminars, internships and opportunities for research with, or under the direction of, a member of the faculty.

Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Describe, both orally and in writing:
  - The roles and contributions of organ systems to homeostasis.
  - Why statistics are necessary for the understanding of scientific information.
  - How genetic information is encoded, decoded, mutated and transmitted.
  - A general overview of the scientific method.
  - The general physical organization of cells and their contribution to the growth and development of multicellular organisms.
  - The basic structure and roles of macromolecules in cellular processes.
  - Basic mechanisms by which organisms use and convert energy.
  - Different examples of the ways in which organisms interact with each other and their environment.
  - The way in which evolutionary processes underlie the changing pattern of organisms over time.

- Discuss and describe:
  - Current areas in which modern science intersects with issues of ethics, religion or philosophy.
  - Various disciplines within Biology, and the types of methodologies used in these disciplines.
How various other scientific disciplines such as chemistry and physics have an impact on our understanding of biological principles.
How interdisciplinary fields such as biophysics, biochemistry, biostatistics, etc. rely on the development and integration of different fields.

- Discuss and critically analyze aspects of a research seminar, poster presentation, and/or published research journal article.
- Describe the component steps of the experimental process.
- Design and implement basic experimental protocols, relate the experiments to underlying assumptions and hypotheses, and describe the necessary experimental controls.
- Explain and defend the scientific approach as a valid form of inquiry.
- Use statistical analysis (where appropriate) to interpret the significance and validity of research data.
- Present a coherent and well-organized oral presentation or written report that describes the objectives, methodologies, experimental results and interpretations of a research investigation.
- Develop and write a review paper on a particular scientific topic.
- Explain the structure of a scientific paper and which parts of a scientific paper contain which specific types of information.
- Develop lab reports, papers, or oral presentations that use scientific terminology articulately - using it accurately, precisely, and in the appropriate context.
- Outline or describe some basic principles of carrying out lab or field practice in their chosen area of study.

College Core Requirements

Modern Language Requirements

Students who intend to graduate with the Bachelor of Arts (B.A.) Degree will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in the fourth-year high school sequence of any language
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Science and Health will abide by the College of Science and Health Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.

B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program. While Bachelor of Science (B.S.) students are not required to demonstrate competency in a modern language, the "Modern Language Option" is available to them for language study at any level.

Major Declaration Requirements

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. After researching College programs, the student should declare a major field by visiting Campus Connection and using the Declarations and Inter-College Transfer tool. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor or staff advisor in the department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

To change major fields, or to declare a minor or concentration, the student must use the Declarations and Inter-College Transfer tool described above. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the College or an academic advisor in the Office for

Students may substitute comparable sequences of Physics courses designed for science majors.

Mathematics

Choose one of the following three course Calculus sequences:

- Sequence One
  - MAT 150 CALCULUS I
  - MAT 151 CALCULUS II
  - MAT 152 CALCULUS III

- Sequence Two
  - MAT 147 CALCULUS WITH INTEGRATED PRECALCULUS I
  - MAT 148 CALCULUS WITH INTEGRATED PRECALCULUS II
  - MAT 149 CALCULUS WITH INTEGRATED PRECALCULUS III

- Sequence Three
  - MAT 160 CALCULUS FOR MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE MAJORS I
  - MAT 161 CALCULUS FOR MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE MAJORS II
  - MAT 162 CALCULUS FOR MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE MAJORS III

- Sequence Four
  - MAT 170 CALCULUS I WITH SCIENTIFIC APPLICATIONS
  - MAT 171 CALCULUS II WITH SCIENTIFIC APPLICATIONS
  - MAT 172 CALCULUS III WITH DIFFERENTIAL EQUATIONS

- Sequence Five
  - MAT 155 SUMMER CALCULUS I
  - MAT 156 SUMMER CALCULUS II

Students may be advised on the basis of their performance on the Mathematics Diagnostic test to take one or more course before calculus.

Concentration Requirements

Students must also complete the requirements from one of the following concentrations: Integrative Biology; Biotechnology; Medicine and Health; Neuroscience; Ecology and Evolution; or Cell & Molecular Biology. Students are limited to only declaring one concentration.

Sequencing

Since programs in the Biological Sciences tend to be structured, it is useful for students to take courses in sequence. Students should begin with the General Biology and General Chemistry sequences. These are prerequisite to higher level requirements such as Ecology, Cell Biology, Genetics, and Organic Chemistry, which should preferably be taken in the sophomore year. Since calculus is required for the degree, students should also begin their study of mathematics as soon as possible, preferably prior to their junior year, so that they can be adequately prepared for the General Physics sequence, best taken in the junior year. Because of this highly structured sequence, students are strongly encouraged to work with their Departmental advisor in order to plan their course schedules and plan alternatives if necessary. Such planning is particularly important for transfer students, as the sequence presented above is highly recommended and most likely to be completed in a timely fashion.

The predominance of chemistry and biology course sequences required in the freshman and sophomore years generally dictates that, with the exception of the Liberal Studies Core courses, the majority of the Liberal Studies courses may be postponed until the junior and senior years. Students may therefore be taking fewer Liberal Studies courses in the first two years than many other programs, concentrating instead on major field requirements, which are prerequisites to upper division courses.
Concentration Requirements

Concentrations, tracks and specializations provide focus to the major. In addition to any college core requirements, liberal studies requirements and major requirements, students are required to choose one of the following:

- Integrative Biology
- Biotechnology
- Medicine and Health
- Neuroscience
- Ecology and Evolution
- Cell & Molecular Biology

Integrative Biology Concentration

Course Requirements

- BIO 215 ECOLOGY
- BIO 250 CELL BIOLOGY
- BIO 309 PLANT PHYSIOLOGY
  - or BIO 310 VERTEBRATE PHYSIOLOGY
- Five additional majors-level Biology courses
  - at least two of the five must have a lab component and at least two of the five must be 300-level courses.

Biology courses that fulfill the Scientific Inquiry Domain requirements, other than the General Biology sequence, do not generate credit toward the major or minor.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Biotechnology Concentration

Course Requirements

- BIO 210 MICROBIOLOGY
- BIO 220 PRINCIPLES OF BIOTECHNOLOGY
- BIO 250 CELL BIOLOGY
- BIO 360 MOLECULAR BIOLOGY
- Two courses from the following list:
  - BIO 209 PLANT BIOLOGY
  - BIO 309 PLANT PHYSIOLOGY
  - BIO 310 VERTEBRATE PHYSIOLOGY
  - BIO 320 MICROBIAL ECOLOGY
  - BIO 321 MOLECULAR METHODS IN ECOLOGY AND EVOLUTION
  - BIO 330 DEVELOPMENTAL BIOLOGY
  - BIO 347 TOPICS IN MEDICAL BACTERIOLOGY
  - BIO 348 THE BIOLOGY OF INFECTION
  - BIO 355 GENETIC TOXICOLOGY
At least one of the four biology electives must have a lab. Biology courses other than the General Biology sequence that have any Scientific Inquiry domain designation do not generate credit toward the major or minor.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Medicine and Health Concentration

Course Requirements

- BIO 250 CELL BIOLOGY
- Two courses from the following list (Each professional program in health requires different courses from the list below. Please consult with an academic advisor to help you select the ones that will support your applications)
  - BIO 201 HUMAN ANATOMY
  - BIO 210 MICROBIOLOGY
  - BIO 310 VERTEBRATE PHYSIOLOGY
  - CHE 340 BIOCHEMISTRY I/CHE 341 EXPERIMENTAL BIOCHEMISTRY I
  - CHE 342 BIOCHEMISTRY II/CHE 343 EXPERIMENTAL BIOCHEMISTRY II
- Three additional courses from the following list (at least one of the three must have a lab)
  - BIO 201 HUMAN ANATOMY
  - BIO 210 MICROBIOLOGY
  - BIO 220 PRINCIPLES OF BIOTECHNOLOGY
  - BIO 270 COMPARATIVE VERTEBRATE ANATOMY
  - BIO 310 VERTEBRATE PHYSIOLOGY
  - BIO 311 HISTOLOGY
  - BIO 330 DEVELOPMENTAL BIOLOGY
  - BIO 339 CELLULAR NEUROBIOLOGY
  - BIO 340 SYSTEMS NEUROBIOLOGY
  - BIO 341 TOPICS IN NEUROBIOLOGY
  - BIO 342 COGNITIVE NEUROSCIENCE
  - BIO 347 TOPICS IN MEDICAL BACTERIOLOGY
  - BIO 348 THE BIOLOGY OF INFECTION
  - BIO 352 ADVANCED COMPARATIVE PHYSIOLOGY
  - BIO 360 MOLECULAR BIOLOGY
  - BIO 362 BIOINFORMATICS FOR BENCH SCIENTISTS
  - BIO 370 IMMUNOBIOLOGY
  - BIO 375 INTRODUCTION TO PHARMACOLOGY
  - BIO 380 CANCER BIOLOGY
  - BIO 385 MAMMALIAN REPRODUCTION
  - BIO 386 INTRODUCTION TO ENDOCRINOLOGY
  - CHE 340 BIOCHEMISTRY I/CHE 341 EXPERIMENTAL BIOCHEMISTRY I
  - CHE 342 BIOCHEMISTRY II/CHE 343 EXPERIMENTAL BIOCHEMISTRY II
- Students can request permission from the department to have a BIO 390 SPECIAL TOPICS class count for one of the requirements if appropriate.
- Two additional majors-level Biology courses.

It is strongly recommended that students who wish to take the MCAT take an ethics course as part of their Philosophical Inquiry Domain and PSY 105, PSY 106 & SOC 101 for their Self, Society, and the Modern World Domain. Biology courses other than the General Biology sequence that have any Scientific Inquiry domain designation do not generate credit toward the major or minor.
Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Neuroscience Concentration

Course Requirements

- BIO 250 CELL BIOLOGY
- BIO 310 VERTEBRATE PHYSIOLOGY
- BIO 339 CELLULAR NEUROBIOLOGY
- BIO 340 SYSTEMS NEUROBIOLOGY
- One course from the following list
  - BIO 341 TOPICS IN NEUROBIOLOGY
  - BIO 342 COGNITIVE NEUROSCIENCE
  - BIO 360 MOLECULAR BIOLOGY
  - BIO 375 INTRODUCTION TO PHARMACOLOGY
  - BIO 386 INTRODUCTION TO ENDOCRINOLOGY
- Three additional majors-level Biology courses. At least two of the four total electives must be lab courses. Biology courses other than the General Biology sequence that have any Scientific Inquiry domain designation do not generate credit toward the major or minor.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Ecology and Evolution Concentration

Course Requirements

- BIO 215 ECOLOGY
- BIO 235 EVOLUTION
- Three courses from the following list - at least one must be a lab course
  - BIO 270 COMPARATIVE VERTEBRATE ANATOMY
  - BIO 301 ANIMAL BEHAVIOR
  - BIO 304 FIELD METHODS FOR BIOLOGISTS
  - BIO 315 TOPICS IN ECOLOGY
  - BIO 318 FIELD STUDIES IN MARINE AND ESTUARINE BIOLOGY
  - BIO 321 MOLECULAR METHODS IN ECOLOGY AND EVOLUTION
  - BIO 325 PALEOBIOLOGY
  - BIO 335 CONCEPTS IN EVOLUTION
  - BIO 345 TOPICS IN PALEOBIOLOGY
  - BIO 350 ANIMAL ADAPTATIONS
  - Students can request permission from the department to have a BIO 390 SPECIAL TOPICS class count for one of the requirements if appropriate.
- Three additional majors-level Biology courses. Two of the six total electives must have a lab. Biology courses other than the General Biology sequence that have any Scientific Inquiry domain designation do not generate credit toward the major or minor.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

---

Cell & Molecular Biology Concentration

Course Requirements

- BIO 210 MICROBIOLOGY
- BIO 250 CELL BIOLOGY
- BIO 360 MOLECULAR BIOLOGY
- One advanced Topics course
- Two courses from the following list, one of which must be a lab course:
  - BIO 309 PLANT PHYSIOLOGY
  - BIO 315 TOPICS IN ECOLOGY
  - BIO 321 MOLECULAR METHODS IN ECOLOGY AND EVOLUTION
  - BIO 330 DEVELOPMENTAL BIOLOGY
  - BIO 339 CELLULAR NEUROBIOLOGY
  - BIO 341 TOPICS IN NEUROBIOLOGY
  - BIO 345 TOPICS IN PALEOBIOLOGY
  - BIO 347 TOPICS IN MEDICAL BACTERIOLOGY
  - BIO 348 THE BIOLOGY OF INFECTION
  - BIO 354 PROBLEMS IN CELL MOTILITY
  - BIO 355 GENETIC TOXICOLOGY
  - BIO 361 TOPICS IN MOLECULAR BIOLOGY
  - BIO 365 PRINCIPLES OF TOXICOLOGY
  - BIO 370 IMMUNOBIOLOGY
  - BIO 375 INTRODUCTION TO PHARMACOLOGY
  - BIO 380 CANCER BIOLOGY
  - BIO 385 MAMMALIAN REPRODUCTION (CROSS-LISTED AS BIO 485)
  - BIO 386 INTRODUCTION TO ENDOCRINOLOGY
  - CHE 340 BIOCHEMISTRY I
  - and CHE 341 EXPERIMENTAL BIOCHEMISTRY I
  - Students can request permission from the department to have a BIO 390 SPECIAL TOPICS class count for one of the requirements if appropriate

- Two additional majors-level Biology courses, one of which must be a lab course. Biology courses other than the General Biology sequence that have any Scientific Inquiry domain designation do not generate credit toward the major or minor.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.
Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

The Biological Sciences (BS) offers two options:

- Biological Sciences (BS)/Biological Sciences (MS)
- Biological Sciences (BS)/Education Biological Sciences (MED)

Biological Sciences (BS)/ Biological Sciences (MS)

Students apply to this program in spring of their junior year; interested students should meet with the Graduate Program Director of the program. Students accepted into this program take a maximum of twelve graduate credit hours as three courses in their senior year; these graduate courses apply toward both undergraduate and graduate Biological Sciences requirements.

Biological Sciences (BS)/ Secondary Education Biological Sciences (MEd)

This combined degree program of the College of Science and Health and the College of Education was collaboratively developed, and is governed and taught by faculty from these units.

Students may apply to the Program during the spring of their junior year. They must enroll in the Junior Year Experiential Learning course, TCH 320, and meet other application criteria; these include completion of at least 16 quarter credit hours at DePaul and a 3.0 GPA. During their senior year, students are required to complete a Program capstone course, TCH 390, and three 400-level courses that count toward both their undergraduate and graduate degrees:

- TCH 401 TEACHING AS A PROFESSION IN SECONDARY SCHOOL
- TCH 414 THE NATURE OF SCIENCE
- TCH 424 INQUIRY & APPLICATION IN DEVELOPING SECONDARY SCIENCE PEDAGOGY

Biology Content Area (grades C or better required for licensure):

The following biology content area requirements are required. These can be taken as part of the major, liberal studies or open elective requirements:

- BIO 191 GENERAL BIOLOGY I FOR SCIENCE MAJORS
- BIO 192 GENERAL BIOLOGY II FOR SCIENCE MAJORS
- BIO 193 GENERAL BIOLOGY III FOR SCIENCE MAJORS
- BIO 215 ECOLOGY
- BIO 250 CELL BIOLOGY
- BIO 309 PLANT PHYSIOLOGY
- BIO 260 GENETICS
- 3 Biology Electives (non-scientific inquiry)
- 2 Biology Electives (with lab) (non-scientific inquiry)
- College Algebra or Calculus I (MAT 130/MAT 147/MAT 150/MAT 160/MAT 170)
- Trigonometry or Calculus II (MAT 131/MAT 148/MAT 151/MAT 161/MAT 170)
- CHE 130 GENERAL CHEMISTRY I and CHE 131 GENERAL CHEMISTRY I LABORATORY
- CHE 132 GENERAL CHEMISTRY II and CHE 133 GENERAL CHEMISTRY LABORATORY II
- CHE 134 GENERAL CHEMISTRY III and CHE 135 GENERAL CHEMISTRY LABORATORY III
- PHY 150 GENERAL PHYSICS I
- PHY 151 GENERAL PHYSICS II
- PHY 152 GENERAL PHYSICS III

The Master’s year comprises teacher-preparation coursework that culminates with student teaching during Spring quarter. Upon graduation and the fulfilling of State of Illinois licensure requirements (which may require some additional course work in the student’s major and related fields), students are eligible to be licensed to teach Biological Sciences at the 6th-12th grade levels.

A full description of the Program can be found on the College of Education website in the graduate course
Students interested in the Program should consult with the designated TEACH Program advisor in their home department.

Business Administration (BSB)

The Bachelor of Science in Business with a major in Business Administration is designed for those students who desire a broad-based business curriculum with a strong liberal arts foundation. This flexible program is geared to the student who has no strong functional preference (e.g. Accounting, Finance, Marketing) but rather desires an overall conceptual foundation. Students majoring in Business Administration might be preparing for law school, entering into a family business, or some other specialized purpose. The program has sufficient flexibility to meet the needs of each of these career orientations.

Learning Outcomes

Core Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Use analytical and reflective skills in decision making.
- Communicate effectively both orally and in writing.
- Recognize legal and ethical issues confronting them.
- Contribute to the performance of a group within a business setting.
- Know the differences among global economies, institutions, business practices and cultures.
- Acquire knowledge of the functional areas of business and the interrelationships among the functional areas within a business.

Business Core Requirements

All undergraduate students in the Driehaus College of Business complete foundational courses in the areas of accountancy, mathematics, economics, business law, finance, management, management information systems, and marketing.

Course Requirements

For a student to complete the Bachelor of Science in Business, the following Business Core courses totaling at least 66.0 hours are required:

- ACC 101 INTRODUCTION TO ACCOUNTING I
- ACC 102 INTRODUCTION TO ACCOUNTING II
- BLW 201 LEGAL & ETHICAL ASPECTS IN THE BUSINESS ENVIRONMENT
- ECO 105 PRINCIPLES OF MICROECONOMICS
- ECO 106 PRINCIPLES OF MACROECONOMICS
- ECO 315 INTRODUCTION TO MONEY AND BANKING
- FIN 310 INTRODUCTION TO FINANCE
- MAT 136 BUSINESS CALCULUS II
- MGT 300 PRINCIPLES OF MANAGEMENT
- MGT 301 PRINCIPLES OF OPERATIONS MANAGEMENT
- MIS 140 MANAGEMENT INFORMATION SYSTEMS
- MKT 301 PRINCIPLES OF MARKETING
- MKT 310 CONSUMER BEHAVIOR
- One Business Capstone course to be chosen from:
  - ICS 394 ENTREPRENEURSHIP STRATEGY
  - ICS 395 MANAGEMENT STRATEGY
- One Communication course to be chosen from:
  - MKT 376 EFFECTIVE BUSINESS COMMUNICATION
  - ORGC 201 BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL COMMUNICATION
- Global Business Perspective (4.0 hours) to be chosen from:
  - ECO 316 EUROPEAN ECONOMIC HISTORY
  - ECO 333 TOPICS IN GLOBAL ECONOMIES
  - ECO 334 UNDERSTANDING CHINA'S ECONOMY
  - ECO 360 ECONOMICS OF LOW-INCOME COUNTRIES
  - ECO 361 INTERNATIONAL TRADE
  - ECO 362 INTERNATIONAL MONETARY ECONOMICS
  - ECO 363 ECONOMICS OF THE EUROPEAN UNION
  - FIN 340 INTERNATIONAL FINANCE
  - FIN 394 APPLIED INTERNATIONAL PORTFOLIO MANAGEMENT (2.0 hours)
  - ICS 350 INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS SEMINAR
  - MGT 354 GLOBAL HUMAN RESOURCE MANAGEMENT
  - MGT 357 INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS
  - MKT 340 MARKETING ACROSS CULTURES: A CULTURAL PERSPECTIVE ON MULTICULTURAL MARKETS
  - MKT 358 MARKETING IN A GLOBAL ENVIRONMENT
  - MKT 360 INTERNATIONAL MARKETING
  - A course taken as part of a term-long study abroad program
- One Professional Writing course to be chosen from:
  - WRD 202 PROFESSIONAL WRITING FOR BUSINESS (2.0 hours)
  - WRD 204 TECHNICAL WRITING
  - WRD 206 PROFESSIONAL WRITING

Second Majors and Minors

The addition of a second major or minor may affect the Business Core classes required for a student. Meet with an academic advisor to confirm requirements.

Math Requirements

- A student is expected to complete the business math sequence (MAT 135, MAT 136, and MAT 137) in the first year of study
- MAT 135 and MAT 137 are completed through Liberal Studies requirements
- MAT 135 may be replaced by MAT 150 or MAT 160 or MAT 170
- MAT 136 may be replaced by MAT 151 or MAT 161 or MAT 171
- MAT 135 and MAT 136 may be replaced by the sequence of MAT 147, MAT 148, and MAT 149
• MAT 137 may be replaced by MAT 348 or MAT 351; if done, an additional Scientific Inquiry course must be added to the degree plan.

Grade Minimums for Business Administration Major

A minimum grade of C- is required for the following: ACC 101, ACC 102, BLW 201, ECO 105, ECO 106, ICS 394 or ICS 395, MAT 135, MAT 136, MAT 137, MGT 300, MGT 301, the course used for Professional Writing, and any MGT course used for Global Business Perspective.

Global Business Perspective

If a course is shared between Global Business Perspective and the Business Administration major, additional hours of Open Elective credit are required.

Liberal Studies Requirements

Honors program requirements can be found in the individual Colleges & Schools section of the University Catalog. Select Academics, followed by Undergraduate, then Honors Program Alternative.

 PHL 248/ MGT 248 is required in PI or REL 228/ MGT 228 is required in RD

Notes
Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Major Requirements

Declaration Requirements
To declare a major in Business Administration, a student must meet the following requirements:

- Completion of 28.0 hours at DePaul University
- The following courses must be completed with a minimum grade of C- and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher: ACC 101, ACC 102, BLW 201, ECO 105, ECO 106, MAT 135, MAT 136, and MAT 137
- A minimum cumulative DePaul grade point average of 2.000
- A minimum grade point average of 2.000 for Management (MGT) courses and all courses used to meet major requirements
- No grade of IN, R, or lower than C- in any Management (MGT) course or course used toward the Business Administration major
- Completion of MGT 300 and BLW 201 with a minimum grade of C- in each course

Course Requirements
A student majoring in Business Administration is required to complete the following courses totaling at least 30.0 hours:

- Two required courses:
BLW 203 BUSINESS ORGANIZATIONS
MGT 250 CAREER MANAGEMENT SKILLS (2.0 hours)

- Six electives to be chosen from:
  - Economics Elective
  - Management Elective
  - Marketing Elective
  - Business Elective

The Economics Electives are chosen from 300-level courses offered by the Economics department, excluding ECO 395. Additionally, ECO 375 and 380 are not recommended for Business Administration majors.

Management and Marketing Electives may be chosen from any 300-level course offered through the respective departments. The three Business Electives are selected from any 300-level courses offered through any Driehaus College of Business program or department.

ECO 315, FIN 310, FIN 320, ICS 392, MGT 300, MGT 301, MKT 301, and MKT 310 may not be used toward the major. MKT 376 may not be used when also used for the Communication requirement. ICS 394, ICS 395, or ICS 396 may not be used when also used for the Business Capstone requirement.

BLW 202 may be used within Business Administration as a Management Elective or Business Elective.

Open Electives

Open elective credit (16.0 hours) is needed to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Global Business Perspective

If any course is shared between Global Business Perspective and the Business Administration major, additional hours of Open Elective credit are required.

Degree Conferral Requirements

All Management (MGT) and Business Law (BLW) courses, ICS 394 and/or ICS 395, and any courses used toward the Business Administration major must be completed with a minimum grade of C- and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.

Business Administration (Minor)

Available to students outside of the Driehaus College of Business, those students who minor in Business Administration will acquire a general foundation in business, including the fields of accounting, business law, economics, finance, management, and marketing.

Declaration Requirements

To declare a minor in Business Administration, a non-Driehaus student must meet the following requirements:

- Completion of one of the following courses with a minimum grade of C-:
  - ACC 101 Introduction to Accounting I
  - BLW 201 Legal and Ethical Aspects in the Business Environment
  - ECO 105 Principles of Microeconomics
- No grade lower than C- in any of the courses above

Course Requirements

A non-Driehaus student minoring in Business Administration is required to complete the following courses totaling at least 32.0 hours:

- A course in statistics
- ACC 101 INTRODUCTION TO ACCOUNTING I
The requirement for a course in statistics may be satisfied through the completion of the LSP 120 and LSP 121 sequence.

Degree Conferral Requirements

All Management (MGT), Business Law (BLW), and Interdisciplinary Commerce Studies (ICS) courses and any other courses used toward the Business Administration minor must be completed with a minimum grade of C- and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.

Catholic Studies (BA)

The Department of Catholic Studies is intellectual in focus and interdisciplinary in nature. Rigorous intellectual study, a deepened critical understanding and an appreciation of the Catholic contribution to human civilization are its main goals. The program explores Roman Catholicism as a religious and cultural reality that expresses and motivates multiple forms of human expression. All members of the university are invited to participate in the scholarly examination of Catholicism and the development of Catholic thought. True to DePaul's tradition, no religious test is applied to either students or faculty participating in the department. In addition to the offerings of DePaul University, upper-level students in the program in Catholic Studies are able to take selected courses at the Catholic Theological Union at Chicago. The cooperative relationship between DePaul and CTU opens to students in the program the resources of the largest Catholic school of theology and ministry in North America. The Catholic Studies major is designed to give students with differing learning objectives and career goals maximum flexibility in the design of their Bachelor of Arts degree. In order to ensure intellectual coherence in their program, all students are expected to meet quarterly with their academic advisor to design a course of study, refine their learning goals, and select classes that meet their educational and professional objectives.

Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Explain how Catholics have reflected at once critically and faithfully about God, the natural world, society, and the Church, and how Catholics have sought to integrate these reflections into their lives.
- Interpret in their writing and in their speaking history, texts, and social realities.
- Use these interpretations to engage new situations in personal, local, and global contexts.
- Explain inculturation and the importance of cultural memory, i.e., how Catholicism takes root in different places and discourses, based upon specific examples in history, literature, and contemporary practice.
- Understand and explain on their terms how faith and reason are integrated in the Catholic tradition and how a faith grounded in revelation and the encounter with the person of Christ can be deepened through study.
- Acquire a basic knowledge of and demonstrate an ability to integrate the core areas of Catholic Studies:
  - Theology and spirituality
  - History of Catholicism
College Core Requirements

Study in the Major Field

The student’s course of study in the College consists of three parts: Liberal Studies, the major field, and electives. Together these three parts contribute to the liberal education of the student which is the common purpose of all study in the College. By “liberal education” the College understands not only a deep and thorough knowledge of a particular area of study but a knowledge of the diverse areas of study represented by criticism, history, the arts, the behavioral and social sciences, philosophy, religious studies, the natural science, and mathematics.

The major field program generally is built upon a set of core courses and a specialized “concentration.” The number of courses required for a major varies by department. Most students go beyond the minimum requirements, electing additional courses which both broaden and deepen their understanding of their chosen discipline.

Because no academic major program is built in isolation, students are required to pursue a number of electives of the student’s choice. The inherent flexibility of this curriculum demands that the student consult an academic advisor at each stage in the total program and at least once prior to each registration.

Students will be prompted to visit the College Office for their official graduation check early in their senior year.

Declaration of Major, Minor and Concentration

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor in the major field department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

Students must declare or change majors, minors, and concentrations, via Campus Connection. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the the Office for Academic Advising Support.

The Modern Language Requirement (MLR)

All students will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language (i.e., a language other than English) equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. This Modern Language Requirement (MLR) may be demonstrated by:

- placing into 104 or above on the DePaul language placement exam
- completing the last course or earning AP/IB credit for the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language (e.g. 103 for DePaul language classes)
- completing a college course or earning AP/IB credit for a college course beyond the first-year level in any language (e.g. 104 or above for DePaul language classes)
- completing the final course of a four-year sequence of the same modern language in high school*
- completing a proctored exam by BYU and passing the exam (see the Department of Modern Languages website for registration details)
- completing a proctored Written Proficiency Test (WPT) by Language Testing International (LTI) and achieving a score of Beginner High or above (see the Department of Modern Languages website for registration details)

* Students are strongly encouraged to take the DePaul language placement exam even if they have met the MLR via study of a language in high school. This will ensure continuation of language study at the proper level.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College will abide by this MLR in place on the effective date of the ICT, regardless of when they first matriculated at DePaul.

Students who have met the MLR and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Requirement (MLR)" as an elective.
Language Option” (MLO) of the Liberal Studies Program (see “Special Programs”).

External Credit and Residency

A student who has been admitted to the College begins residency within the college as of the first day of classes of the term in which the student is registered. Students in residence, whether attending on a full-time or part-time basis, may not take courses away from DePaul University without the written permission of the college. Permission must be obtained in advance of registration to avoid loss of credit or residency in the college; see the LAS website for more information.

Notes

See Program Director for one additional course reduction.

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student’s major and is cross-listed with a course within the student’s major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab or SWK requirement.

Students majoring in Catholic Studies (BA) are restricted from earning this minor.

Chemistry (BA)

As a Chemistry major, you will learn the fundamentals of chemical theory and practice through scientific investigation, laboratory experience and research opportunities.

All Chemistry students will take core courses in chemistry, physics and mathematics.

Chemistry faculty members conduct research projects that are funded through government, foundation and industry grants, providing you with multiple opportunities to gain hands-on research experience. Being in Chicago also allows you to attend many scientific conferences hosted in the city throughout the year.

Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

• Comprehensively review and clearly communicate concepts among all five disciplines of chemistry: analytical, inorganic, organic, physical, and biochemistry.
• Design and carry out chemical experiments, record data and analyze results.
• Use instrumentation to collect and record data for chemical experiments.
• Provide clear rationale for independent statements and conclusions by using problem solving, critical thinking, and analytical reasoning skills.
• Use modern library retrieval methods to obtain information about a topic related to chemistry.
• Practice/implement standard safety procedures and regulations for safe handling and use of chemicals.
• Proficiently explain and apply, both orally and in writing, core chemical principles to the results of experiments and to representative problems.
• Carry out all chemistry related tasks ethically which can include carrying out experiments, recording and analyzing data, presenting and publishing scientific findings.
College Core Requirements

Modern Language Requirements

Students who intend to graduate with the Bachelor of Arts (B.A.) Degree will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in the fourth-year high school sequence of any language
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Science and Health will abide by the College of Science and Health Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.

B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program. While Bachelor of Science (B.S.) students are not required to demonstrate competency in a modern language, the "Modern Language Option" is available to them for language study at any level.

Major Declaration Requirements

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. After researching College programs, the student should declare a major field by visiting Campus Connection and using the Declarations and Inter-College Transfer tool. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor or staff advisor in the department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

To change major fields, or to declare a minor or concentration, the student must use the Declarations and Inter-College Transfer tool described above. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the College or an academic advisor in the Office for Academic Advising Support.

Notes

Students with a primary major in Chemistry are required to complete the Capstone offered by the Chemistry department. Students double majoring or pursuing dual degrees with the primary major or primary degree in Chemistry are required to complete the Capstone offered by the Chemistry department. Chemistry students in the University Honors Program shall take the University Honors Capstone. They are not expected to take both the Honors Capstone and the primary major or primary degree Capstone.

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In addition, the Department of Chemistry recommends that students who are seeking accreditation by the American Chemical Society fulfill the Modern Language Option by completing a three-course language sequence. Please see an advisor for further information.

Major Requirements

Course Requirements

Common Core

All students pursuing a Bachelor of Arts or Bachelor of Science in chemistry must complete a common core of courses in the department. These courses are consistent with the requirements of all degree programs accredited by the American Chemical Society. The courses in the common core consist of:

Introductory Courses

- CHE 130 GENERAL CHEMISTRY I and CHE 131 GENERAL CHEMISTRY I LABORATORY or CHE 140 UNIVERSITY CHEMISTRY I and CHE 141 UNIVERSITY CHEMISTRY I LABORATORY
- CHE 132 GENERAL CHEMISTRY II and CHE 133 GENERAL CHEMISTRY II LABORATORY or CHE 142 UNIVERSITY CHEMISTRY II and CHE 143 UNIVERSITY CHEMISTRY II LABORATORY
- CHE 134 GENERAL CHEMISTRY III and CHE 135 GENERAL CHEMISTRY III LABORATORY or CHE 144 UNIVERSITY CHEMISTRY III and CHE 145 UNIVERSITY CHEMISTRY III LABORATORY

The department offers General Chemistry each summer. In this case, the combination of CHE 136/CHE 137 and CHE 138/CHE 139 may substitute for the three-quarter sequences above.

Foundation Courses

- CHE 202 APPLIED PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS
- CHE 204 ANALYTICAL CHEMISTRY and CHE 205 ANALYTICAL CHEMISTRY LABORATORY
- CHE 230 ORGANIC CHEMISTRY I and CHE 231 ORGANIC CHEMISTRY I LABORATORY
- CHE 232 ORGANIC CHEMISTRY II and CHE 233 ORGANIC CHEMISTRY II LABORATORY
- CHE 394 SEMINAR
- CHE 330 SENIOR CAPSTONE IN THE PHYSICAL SCIENCES (Liberal Studies Program Capstone)

Calculus

One year of calculus is required to earn a baccalaureate degree in chemistry. This may be accomplished by completing any of the following three course sequences offered by the Department of Mathematical Sciences:

- Sequence One
  - MAT 147 CALCULUS WITH INTEGRATED PRECALCULUS I
  - MAT 148 CALCULUS WITH INTEGRATED PRECALCULUS II
  - MAT 149 CALCULUS WITH INTEGRATED PRECALCULUS III
- Sequence Two
  - MAT 150 CALCULUS I
  - MAT 151 CALCULUS II
Students interested in earning credit for multi-variable calculus should not take the MAT 170/MAT 171/MAT 172 sequence. Business calculus cannot be substituted for any of the sequences above.

Physics

One year of calculus-based physics is required to earn a baccalaureate in chemistry. This may be accomplished by completing the following three course sequence offered by the Department of Physics:

- PHY 170 UNIVERSITY PHYSICS I
- PHY 171 UNIVERSITY PHYSICS II
- PHY 172 UNIVERSITY PHYSICS III

Non-calculus-based physics cannot be used to meet the requirements of the common core unless previously approved by the Director of Undergraduate Studies or the Chair.

Departmental Program Requirements

The following enrollment-related policies are fully enforced by the Department of Chemistry:

1. All students enrolling in the first course of a General Chemistry sequence must independently meet a minimum mathematics requirement and successfully complete either the General Chemistry placement examination or a General Chemistry preparation course (CHE 128/CHE 129). See the course descriptions for General Chemistry for up-to-date information.
2. All prerequisite chemistry courses must be completed with a C- or better. Students not meeting this requirement may be removed from course rosters before the start of an academic session. This requirement may be waived only with departmental consent.
3. The department offers lower-level sequences several times each academic year. Due to potentially small class sizes, upper-level courses are typically scheduled every other year. Students should consult with their faculty academic advisor to develop a program they can complete in a timely fashion.

Sequencing and Prerequisites

Students should begin their General Chemistry, Physics, and Calculus sequences in their freshman year, provided they have an adequate mathematics background. The Organic Chemistry sequence and Analytical Chemistry should be taken in the sophomore year. Students not yet prepared for calculus should take the prerequisite courses in the first year and take Calculus and General Physics one year later than suggested above. Advanced courses in Chemistry may be taken as soon as students have met the appropriate prerequisites.

Students in Biochemistry are recommended to consider taking the General Biology sequence (BIO 191, BIO 192, BIO 193) prior to taking the Biochemistry sequence.

Since the Undergraduate Common Core in Chemistry, Mathematics, and Physics is particularly demanding in the first two years, students take the majority of their Liberal Studies courses in their junior and senior years. This is necessary so that students have the necessary prerequisites for advanced courses.
Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

Chemistry (BA)/ Secondary Education Chemistry (MEd)

This combined degree program of the College of Science and Health and the College of Education was collaboratively developed, and is governed and taught by faculty from these units.

Students may apply to the Program during the spring of their junior year. They must enroll in the Junior Year Experiential Learning course, TCH 320, and meet other application criteria; these include completion of at least 16 quarter credit hours at DePaul and a 3.0 GPA. During their senior year, students are required to complete a Program capstone course, TCH 390, and three 400-level courses that count toward both their undergraduate and graduate degrees:

- TCH 401 TEACHING AS A PROFESSION IN SECONDARY SCHOOL
- TCH 414 THE NATURE OF SCIENCE
- TCH 424 INQUIRY & APPLICATION IN DEVELOPING SECONDARY SCIENCE PEDAGOGY

In addition, students are responsible for all the course requirements for the BA in Chemistry. Grades of C or better are required for licensure.

The Master's year comprises teacher-preparation coursework that culminates with student teaching during Spring quarter. Upon graduation and the fulfilling of State of Illinois licensure requirements (which may require some additional course work in the student's major and related fields), students are eligible to be licensed to teach Chemistry at the 6th-12th grade levels.

Concentration Requirements

Concentrations, tracks and specializations provide focus to the major. In addition to any college core requirements, liberal studies requirements and major requirements, students are required to choose one of the following:

- Standard
- Accelerated Program

Standard Concentration

Course Requirements
Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Accelerated Program

The Accelerated Program is only for qualified Pathways Honors students with a major in Chemistry (BA) who have been accepted into the 3+4 College of Science and Health pre-professional program in pharmacy in conjunction with Rosalind Franklin University of Medicine and Science (RFUMS). In order to pursue the pre-pharmacy track, a student must secure approval from the College of Science and Health's pre-health advisor and Pre-health Advising Committee's (PAC) Accelerated Program advisor.

Students formally accepted into a 3+ Accelerated Program will complete their fourth year of coursework - taken at RFUMS and not shown here - and apply the credit toward their Bachelor of Arts degree in Chemistry at DePaul. Students must apply for degree conferral via Campus Connection by the deadline outlined in the Student Handbook in order to be considered a candidate for earning their Bachelor of Arts degree at the conclusion of their fourth year of study. As part of the agreement with RFUMS, some Liberal Studies Program courses, Chemistry major requirements, and open electives will be fulfilled by RFUMS courses. To avoid possibly earning duplicate credit for some courses, please be sure you meet regularly with the College of Science and Health pre-health advisor and your Chemistry faculty advisor.

Course Requirements

Pre-pharmacy

- CHE 234 ORGANIC CHEMISTRY III /CHE 235 ORGANIC CHEMISTRY III LABORATORY.

- BIO 201 HUMAN ANATOMY
- BIO 310 VERTEBRATE PHYSIOLOGY
- HLTH 120 EXPLORING THE HEALTH SCIENCES
- HLTH 201 INTRODUCTION TO HEALTH SCIENCE

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

- Carry out all chemistry related tasks ethically which can include carrying out experiments, recording and analyzing data, presenting and publishing scientific findings.

College Core Requirements

Modern Language Requirements

Students who intend to graduate with the Bachelor of Arts (B.A.) Degree will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in the fourth-year high school sequence of any language
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Science and Health will abide by the College of Science and Health Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.

B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the “Modern Language Option” of the Liberal Studies Program. While Bachelor of Science (B.S.) students are not
Major Declaration Requirements

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. After researching College programs, the student should declare a major field by visiting Campus Connection and using the Declarations and Inter-College Transfer tool. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor or staff advisor in the department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

To change major fields, or to declare a minor or concentration, the student must use the Declarations and Inter-College Transfer tool described above. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the College or an academic advisor in the Office for Academic Advising Support.

Notes

Students with a primary major in Chemistry are required to complete the Capstone offered by the Chemistry department. Students double majoring or pursuing dual degrees with the primary major or primary degree in Chemistry are required to complete the Capstone offered by the Chemistry department. Chemistry students in the University Honors Program shall take the University Honors Capstone. They are not expected to take both the Honors Capstone and the primary major or primary degree Capstone.

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

In addition, the Department of Chemistry recommends that students who are seeking accreditation by the American Chemical Society fulfill the Modern Language Option by completing a three-course language sequence. Please see an advisor for further information.

Major Requirements

Course Requirements

Common Core

All students pursuing a Bachelor of Arts or Bachelor of Science in chemistry must complete a common core of courses in the department. These courses are consistent with the requirements of all degree programs accredited by the American Chemical Society. The courses in the common core consist of:
Introductory Courses

- CHE 130 GENERAL CHEMISTRY I and CHE 131 GENERAL CHEMISTRY I LABORATORY
- or CHE 140 UNIVERSITY CHEMISTRY I and CHE 141 UNIVERSITY CHEMISTRY I LABORATORY
- CHE 132 GENERAL CHEMISTRY II and CHE 133 GENERAL CHEMISTRY II LABORATORY
- or CHE 142 UNIVERSITY CHEMISTRY II and CHE 143 UNIVERSITY CHEMISTRY II LABORATORY
- CHE 134 GENERAL CHEMISTRY III and CHE 135 GENERAL CHEMISTRY III LABORATORY
- or CHE 144 UNIVERSITY CHEMISTRY III and CHE 145 UNIVERSITY CHEMISTRY III LABORATORY

The department offers General Chemistry each summer. In this case, the combination of CHE 136/CHE 137 and CHE 138/CHE 139 may substitute for the three-quarter sequences above.

Foundation Courses

- CHE 202 APPLIED PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS
- CHE 204 ANALYTICAL CHEMISTRY and CHE 205 ANALYTICAL CHEMISTRY LABORATORY
- CHE 230 ORGANIC CHEMISTRY I and CHE 231 ORGANIC CHEMISTRY I LABORATORY
- CHE 232 ORGANIC CHEMISTRY II and CHE 233 ORGANIC CHEMISTRY II LABORATORY
- CHE 302 QUANTUM CHEMISTRY and CHE 303 EXPERIMENTAL PHYSICAL CHEMISTRY I
- CHE 304 THERMOCHEMISTRY and CHE 305 EXPERIMENTAL PHYSICAL CHEMISTRY II
- CHE 320 INTERMEDIATE INORGANIC CHEMISTRY and CHE 321 INTERMEDIATE INORGANIC CHEMISTRY LABORATORY
- CHE 340 BIOCHEMISTRY I and CHE 341 EXPERIMENTAL BIOCHEMISTRY I
- CHE 394 SEMINAR
- CHE 330 SENIOR CAPSTONE IN THE PHYSICAL SCIENCES (Liberal Studies Program Capstone)

Calculus

One year of calculus is required to earn a baccalaureate degree in chemistry. This may be accomplished by completing any of the following three course sequences offered by the Department of Mathematical Sciences:

- Sequence One
  - MAT 147 CALCULUS WITH INTEGRATED PRECALCULUS I
  - MAT 148 CALCULUS WITH INTEGRATED PRECALCULUS II
  - MAT 149 CALCULUS WITH INTEGRATED PRECALCULUS III
- Sequence Two
  - MAT 150 CALCULUS I
  - MAT 151 CALCULUS II
  - MAT 152 CALCULUS III
- Sequence Three
  - MAT 160 CALCULUS FOR MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE MAJORS I
  - MAT 161 CALCULUS FOR MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE MAJORS II
  - MAT 162 CALCULUS FOR MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE MAJORS III
- Sequence Four
  - MAT 170 CALCULUS I WITH SCIENTIFIC APPLICATIONS
  - MAT 171 CALCULUS II WITH SCIENTIFIC APPLICATIONS
  - MAT 172 CALCULUS III WITH DIFFERENTIAL EQUATIONS

- Sequence Four
  - MAT 155 SUMMER CALCULUS I
  - MAT 156 SUMMER CALCULUS II

Students interested in earning credit for multi-variable calculus should not take the MAT 170/MAT 171/MAT 172 sequence. Business calculus cannot be substituted for any of the sequences above.

Physics

One year of calculus-based physics is required to earn a baccalaureate in chemistry. This may be accomplished by completing the following three course sequence offered by the Department of Physics:

- PHY 170 UNIVERSITY PHYSICS I
- PHY 171 UNIVERSITY PHYSICS II
- PHY 172 UNIVERSITY PHYSICS III

Non-calculus-based physics cannot be used to meet the requirements of the common core unless previously approved by the departmental Exceptions Committee.

Concentration Requirements

Students must also complete the requirements from one of the following tracks: Standard; Analytical/Physical Departmental Program Requirements

The following enrollment-related policies are fully enforced by the Department of Chemistry:

1. All students enrolling in the first course of a General Chemistry sequence must independently meet a minimum mathematics requirement and successfully complete either the General Chemistry placement examination or a General Chemistry preparation course (CHE 128/CHE 129). See the course descriptions for General Chemistry for up-to-date information.
2. All prerequisite chemistry courses must be completed with a C- or better. Students not meeting this requirement may be removed from course rosters before the start of an academic session. This requirement may be waived only with departmental consent.
3. The department offers lower-level sequences several times each academic year. Due to potentially small class sizes, upper-level courses are typically scheduled every other year. Students should consult with their faculty academic advisor to develop a program they can complete in a timely fashion.

Sequencing and Prerequisites

Students should begin their General Chemistry, Physics, and Calculus sequences in their freshman year, provided they have an adequate mathematics background. The Organic Chemistry sequence and Analytical Chemistry should be taken in the sophomore year. Students not yet prepared for calculus should take the prerequisite courses in the first year and take Calculus and General Physics one year later than suggested above. Advanced courses in Chemistry may be taken as soon as students have met the appropriate prerequisites.

Students in Biochemistry are recommended to consider taking the General Biology sequence (BIO 191, BIO 192, BIO 193) prior to taking the Biochemistry sequence.

Since the Undergraduate Common Core in Chemistry, Mathematics, and Physics is particularly demanding in the first two years, students take the majority of their Liberal Studies courses in their junior and senior years. This is necessary so that students have the necessary prerequisites for advanced courses.

Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

The Chemistry (BS) offers two options:

- Chemistry (BS)/Chemistry (MS)
- Chemistry (BS)/Secondary Education Chemistry (MEd)

Chemistry (BS)/ Chemistry (MS)

Students planning to integrate a B.S. and M.S. degree program at DePaul University should inquire of the Director of Undergraduate Studies as undergraduate juniors. Students who have applied and are accepted into this program take a maximum of twelve graduate credit hours as three courses in their senior year; these graduate courses apply toward both undergraduate and graduate Chemistry requirements.

Chemistry (BS)/ Secondary Education Chemistry (MEd)

This combined degree program of the College of Science and Health and the College of Education was collaboratively developed, and is governed and taught by faculty from these units.

Students may apply to the Program during the spring of their junior year. They must enroll in the Junior Year Experiential Learning course, TCH 320, and meet other application criteria; these include completion of at least 16 quarter credit hours at DePaul and a 3.0 GPA. During their senior year, students are required to complete a Program capstone course, TCH 390, and three 400-level courses that count toward both their undergraduate and graduate degrees:

- TCH 401 TEACHING AS A PROFESSION IN SECONDARY SCHOOL
- TCH 414 THE NATURE OF SCIENCE
- TCH 424 INQUIRY & APPLICATION IN DEVELOPING SECONDARY SCIENCE PEDAGOGY

To earn the BS in Chemistry, students must meet the corresponding major and concentration requirements. Grades of C or better are required for licensure.

The Master’s year comprises teacher-preparation coursework that culminates with student teaching during Spring quarter. Upon graduation and the fulfilling of State of Illinois licensure requirements (which may require some additional course work in the student’s major and related fields), students are eligible to be licensed to teach Chemistry at the 6th-12th grade levels.

Track Requirements

Concentrations, tracks and specializations provide focus to the major. In addition to any college core requirements, liberal studies requirements and major requirements, students are required to choose one of the following:

- Standard Track
- Analytical/Physical Chemistry Track
- Biochemical/Medicinal/ Synthetic Chemistry Track

---

Standard Track

The Standard Track is the most flexible option for undergraduate study. It is suited for those students who have a broader interests and would like the additional flexibility in course selections.

Course Requirements

In addition to the Undergraduate Common Core, students are required to take

- CHE 234 ORGANIC CHEMISTRY III /CHE 235 ORGANIC CHEMISTRY LABORATORY III
- CHE 306 KINETICS AND MOLECULAR DYNAMICS
- CHE 307 EXPERIMENTAL PHYSICAL CHEMISTRY III
- Additional sixteen quarter hours taken from any chemistry course numbered CHE 250 or above but below CHE 400.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.
Analytical/ Physical Chemistry Track

The Analytical/Physical Chemistry Track offers a variety of courses at the upper-level to prepare for advanced study or employment in the areas of analytical chemistry or physical chemistry.

Course Requirements

In addition to the Undergraduate Common Core in Chemistry, Mathematics, and Physics, students must take:

- CHE 234 ORGANIC CHEMISTRY III /CHE 235 ORGANIC CHEMISTRY III LABORATORY
- CHE 306 KINETICS AND MOLECULAR DYNAMICS/CHE 307 EXPERIMENTAL PHYSICAL CHEMISTRY III

- Sixteen quarter hours taken from the following list:
  - CHE 264 ATMOSPHERIC CHEMISTRY /CHE 265 ATMOSPHERIC CHEMISTRY LABORATORY
  - CHE 268 SOLID WASTE CHEMISTRY /CHE 269 SOLID WASTE CHEMISTRY LABORATORY
  - CHE 310 NUCLEAR CHEMISTRY
  - CHE 318 BIOPHYSICAL CHEMISTRY

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Biochemical/ Medicinal/ Synthetic Chemistry Track

The Biochemistry/Medicinal/Synthetic Chemistry Track offers students a solid preparation for work in biotechnology and pharmaceutical fields. The track also provides a good foundation for those interested in professional fields such as medicine, dentistry, pharmacy, or veterinary science. Students who are thinking of pursuing advanced work in biomedical or medicinal or synthetic chemistry will benefit from this track as well.

Course Requirements

In addition to the Undergraduate Common Core in Chemistry, Mathematics, and Physics, students must take:

- CHE 234 ORGANIC CHEMISTRY III /CHE 235 ORGANIC CHEMISTRY III LABORATORY
- CHE 342 BIOCHEMISTRY II /CHE 343 EXPERIMENTAL BIOCHEMISTRY II
- CHE 344 BIOCHEMISTRY III /CHE 345 EXPERIMENTAL BIOCHEMISTRY III

- Twelve quarter hours taken from the following list:
  - CHE 306 KINETICS AND MOLECULAR DYNAMICS
  - CHE 307 EXPERIMENTAL PHYSICAL CHEMISTRY III
  - CHE 318 BIOPHYSICAL CHEMISTRY
  - CHE 326 INTERMEDIATE ORGANIC CHEMISTRY /CHE 327 INTERMEDIATE ORGANIC CHEMISTRY LABORATORY
  - CHE 348 CHEMICAL BIOLOGY
  - CHE 360 MEDICINAL CHEMISTRY
  - CHE 362 DRUGS AND TOXICOLOGY
  - CHE 378 APPLIED SPECTROSCOPY

The General Biology sequence (BIO 191/BIO 192/BIO 193) may be of interest to students in this track. The sequence is not required but is recommended if time permits.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.
Chemistry (Minor)

As a Chemistry minor, you will learn the fundamentals of chemical theory and practice through scientific investigation and laboratory experience.

Course Requirements

- CHE 130 GENERAL CHEMISTRY I /CHE 131 GENERAL CHEMISTRY I LABORATORY or CHE 140 UNIVERSITY CHEMISTRY I/ CHE 141 UNIVERSITY CHEMISTRY I LABORATORY
- CHE 132 GENERAL CHEMISTRY II /CHE 133 GENERAL CHEMISTRY II LABORATORY or CHE 142 UNIVERSITY CHEMISTRY II/ CHE 143 UNIVERSITY CHEMISTRY II LABORATORY
- CHE 134 GENERAL CHEMISTRY III /CHE 135 GENERAL CHEMISTRY III LABORATORY or CHE 144 UNIVERSITY CHEMISTRY III/ CHE 145 UNIVERSITY CHEMISTRY III LABORATORY
- CHE 202 APPLIED PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS
- CHE 204 ANALYTICAL CHEMISTRY /CHE 205 ANALYTICAL CHEMISTRY LABORATORY
- CHE 230 ORGANIC CHEMISTRY I /CHE 231 ORGANIC CHEMISTRY I LABORATORY
- CHE 232 ORGANIC CHEMISTRY II /CHE 233 ORGANIC CHEMISTRY II LABORATORY
- One additional 4 credit-hour course numbered above CHE 250

The department offers General Chemistry each summer. In this case, the combination of CHE 136/CHE 137 and CHE 138/CHE 139 may substitute for the three-quarter sequences above.

Students cannot earn a minor in the same academic program as their major.

Chinese Language (Minor)

DePaul’s Chinese Language minor focuses on developing an intermediate proficiency in spoken and written Chinese, one of the world’s major languages that is growing in importance in our global society.

The minor consists of a total of 5 courses in Chinese language at the 200/300-level.

Students majoring in Chinese Studies (BA) or minoring in Chinese Studies are restricted from earning this minor.

Chinese Studies (BA)

DePaul's Chinese Studies program focuses on developing the ability to speak Chinese and understand Chinese culture. Twenty percent of the global population speaks Chinese, making it the most widely used language in the world. Having the ability to communicate in Chinese provides students with many career opportunities around the world.

Chinese Studies courses focus on a variety of topics, including:

- Art
- Business
Chinese Studies students often earn a second degree in a complementary field of study, such as International Business or International Studies.

As a Chinese Studies major, the student is encouraged to participate in one of DePaul's Study Abroad programs in Beijing, Hong Kong or Shanghai. By studying and living in China for an extended period of time, the student will experience the Chinese language and culture first-hand.

Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Proficiently speak, understand, read, and write the studied language(s) to:
  - Engage in conversations.
  - Interpret and create a variety of written texts.
  - Provide and obtain information.
  - Express feelings and emotions.
  - Exchange opinions.
- Acquire knowledge of the cultures related to the studied language(s) with appropriate background in geography, history, politics, and society.
- Acquire knowledge of the literary traditions related to the studied language(s) along with techniques of literary and rhetorical analysis.
- Acquire basic notion of the history and theory of language and language study, including linguistics, sociolinguistics, language acquisition, and dialectology.
- Acquire basic notion of the theory and practice of translation and interpretation.

College Core Requirements

Study in the Major Field

The student's course of study in the College consists of three parts: Liberal Studies, the major field, and electives. Together these three parts contribute to the liberal education of the student which is the common purpose of all study in the College. By “liberal education” the College understands not only a deep and thorough knowledge of a particular area of study but a knowledge of the diverse areas of study represented by criticism, history, the arts, the behavioral and social sciences, philosophy, religious studies, the natural science, and mathematics.

The major field program generally is built upon a set of core courses and a specialized “concentration.” The number of courses required for a major varies by department. Most students go beyond the minimum requirements, electing additional courses which both broaden and deepen their understanding of their chosen discipline.
Because no academic major program is built in isolation, students are required to pursue a number of electives of the student’s choice. The inherent flexibility of this curriculum demands that the student consult an academic advisor at each stage in the total program and at least once prior to each registration. Students will be prompted to visit the College Office for their official graduation check early in their senior year.

Declaration of Major, Minor and Concentration

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor in the major field department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

Students must declare or change majors, minors, and concentrations, via Campus Connection. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the the Office for Academic Advising Support.

The Modern Language Requirement (MLR)

All students will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language (i.e., a language other than English) equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. This Modern Language Requirement (MLR) may be demonstrated by:

- placing into 104 or above on the DePaul language placement exam
- completing the last course or earning AP/IB credit for the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language (e.g. 103 for DePaul language classes)
- completing a college course or earning AP/IB credit for a college course beyond the first-year level in any language (e.g. 104 or above for DePaul language classes)
- completing the final course of a four-year sequence of the same modern language in high school*
- completing a proctored exam by BYU and passing the exam (see the Department of Modern Languages website for registration details)
- completing a proctored Written Proficiency Test (WPT) by Language Testing International (LTI) and achieving a score of Beginner High or above (see the Department of Modern Languages website for registration details)

* Students are strongly encouraged to take the DePaul language placement exam even if they have met the MLR via study of a language in high school. This will ensure continuation of language study at the proper level.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College will abide by this MLR in place on the effective date of the ICT, regardless of when they first matriculated at DePaul.

Students who have met the MLR and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" (MLO) of the Liberal Studies Program (see "Special Programs").

External Credit and Residency

A student who has been admitted to the College begins residency within the college as of the first day of classes of the term in which the student is registered. Students in residence, whether attending on a full-time or part-time basis, may not take courses away from DePaul University without the written permission of the college. Permission must be obtained in advance of registration to avoid loss of credit or residency in the college; see the LAS website for more information.

Cities (Minor)

The interdisciplinary Cities Minor brings together the prominent emphases on the material landscapes and cultural environments of the city evident in Geography courses and History of Art and Architecture courses. While both History of Art and Architecture and Geography have different kinds of theoretical or historical questions, they nevertheless strongly overlap when considering how the specific geographic spaces of cities unfold as particular spatial and cultural constructs. Courses in the minor thus explore the variety of ways in which the spaces of cities relate to their historical/geographical materiality. In this sense, culture is broadly construed to encompass the spatial, aesthetic, linguistic, and other social practices that define the material and phenomenological particularities of cities.

Course Requirements

- GEO 103 URBANIZATION
- GEO 233 COMPARATIVE URBANISM
- HAA 280 HISTORY OF PREMODERN ARCHITECTURE
- HAA 281 HISTORY OF MODERN ARCHITECTURE
- One Geography course from the following list:
  - GEO 133 URBAN GEOGRAPHY - EXPERIENTIAL LEARNING
Classical Studies (Minor)

The Classical Studies minor offers a basic grounding in Latin or Greek, along with a more in-depth exploration of at least two disciplines focusing on the history, culture, art or religion of the ancient Western world.

Course Requirements

- Three quarters of college-level Ancient Greek or Latin (at any level).
- Five additional courses focusing on Ancient Greece or Rome from at least two different disciplines, chosen in consultation with an advisor or faculty member, from the current approved Classical Studies Allied Course List. For any of these five courses students are strongly encouraged to substitute any intermediate level course in Ancient Greek or Latin.

Commercial French (Minor)

The Commercial French minor program is offered to students who wish to be proficient enough to conduct business in French. Students completing the minor are encouraged to take the business language certification exams given by the French government through their respective chambers of commerce.

Course Requirements

- FCH 320 FRENCH FOR BUSINESS
- Four more courses at the 200/300 level in French. At least one must be at the 300 level.

Students majoring in French (BA) or minoring in French or French Translation are restricted from earning this minor.

Commercial Spanish (Minor) Overview

The Commercial Spanish minor program is for students who wish to be proficient enough to conduct business in Spanish. Students completing the minor are encouraged to take the business language certification exam in Spanish.

Course Requirements

- SPN 320 COMMERCIAL SPANISH II
- Four more courses at the 200/300 level in Spanish. The department recommends that those four courses include SPN 252 COMMERCIAL SPANISH I.
Students majoring in Spanish (BA) or minoring in Spanish are restricted from earning this minor.

Communication and Media (BA)

The College of Communication offers a variety of courses leading to a Bachelor of Arts degree in Communication and Media. The B.A. in Communication and Media offers students the opportunity to pursue coursework in communication and media that draws upon two or more related areas of study. This degree will provide flexibility for transfer students and others who have not determined their precise career trajectory, while affording them the fundamental communication and critical thinking skills needed to enter jobs across the public, private and non-profit sectors, or to continue their education in academic or professional post-graduate programs. This major is designed especially for those students holding allied field interests, as well as those who would like to complete a communication degree, by taking mostly evening courses. In order to complete this degree, students have the option of pursuing coursework from any of the other majors offered in the College of Communication.

Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Understand and analyze the complexities of human communication.
- Construct a presentation that tailors ideas to a specific audience.
- Analyze and evaluate content from various media.
- Explain how elements of formal style impact an audience's interpretation of a creative work.

College Core Requirements

All majors in the College of Communication (with the exception of Public Relations and Advertising) consist of a total of fourteen courses: a four-course common core plus an additional combination of ten program requirements and electives. The Public Relations and Advertising major consists of a total of fifteen courses: a four-course common core plus an additional combination of eleven program requirements and electives.

Course Requirements

Four core courses are required of all College of Communication students:

- CMN 101 INTRODUCTION TO HUMAN COMMUNICATION
- CMN 102 INTRODUCTION TO MASS COMMUNICATION
Students are encouraged to complete all four prior to taking additional coursework in the major.

Modern Language Requirement

Students who intend to graduate with a Bachelor of Arts degree in the College of Communication will be required to demonstrate a measure of competence in a modern language, as defined by the college. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in a second year high school course work in a modern language or Latin
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language (must be completed during high school)
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination. (Note that CLEP scores may be used only to meet the language requirement. Credit is not awarded in modern languages on the basis of CLEP scores).

Students with some modern language training should consult with the Modern Language Department about the course with which they should begin. Students with little or no previous work in the language will be required to complete the entire three-course introductory sequence.

Honors program requirements can be found in the individual Colleges & Schools section of the University Catalog. Select Academics, followed by Undergraduate, then Honors Program Alternative.

Internship Credit

Students in the major may take CMN 394 ADVANCED COMMUNICATION INTERNSHIP and/or CMN 395 COMMUNICATION INTERNSHIP SPECIAL TOPICS (when work relates to the major). In order to take CMN 394 or CMN 395, students must have completed two of the four communication core classes (CMN 101, CMN 102, CMN 103, CMN 104), two courses in the chosen major and have fulfilled internship program eligibility requirements.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

The following Communication graduate programs have been approved as combined degree options:

- Digital Communication and Media Arts (MA)
- Health Communication (MA)
- Journalism (MA)
- Media and Cinema Studies (MA)
- Organizational and Multicultural Communication (MA)
- Public Relations and Advertising (MA)
- Relational Communication (MA)
Deferring Admission

Students can defer their graduate admission for one year. If students do not matriculate after completing their B.A. degrees or within the one year deferral period, the graduate courses taken as undergraduate students will no longer count towards the graduate degree and students must reapply for admission to the graduate program.

Digital Communication and Media Arts (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in their major courses, have 3.0 cumulative GPA, and have successfully completed CMN 101, CMN 102 and CMN 103 are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by May 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, Statement of Purpose (750 words) explaining why the student is seeking admission to the program, writing sample (research paper that demonstrates the applicant's ability to synthesize and analyze scholarly work), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Digital Communication and Media Arts coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take two of the DCMA core courses (CMNS 570 and MCS 575) and one DCMA elective course during their senior year. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Health Communication (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in their major courses, have a 3.0 cumulative GPA, and have successfully completed three 300-level courses in their major are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by May 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, answers to essay questions, writing sample (research paper), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Health Communication coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take the HTHC core courses (HTHC 515, HTHC 516, HTHC 517) during the senior year. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Journalism (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.25 GPA in their major courses and 3.0 cumulative GPA are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by May 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, Statement of Purpose (750 words) explaining why the student is seeking admission to the program, writing sample or project that demonstrates the applicant's ability in journalism, and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Journalism coursework which will fulfill undergraduate Journalism major electives, communication electives and/or open electives. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirements, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Media and Cinema Studies (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in their major courses, have 3.0 cumulative GPA, and have successfully completed CMN 101, CMN 102 and CMN 103 are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by May 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, Statement of Purpose (750 words) explaining why the student is seeking admission to the program, writing sample (research paper that demonstrates the applicant's ability to synthesize and analyze scholarly work), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Media and Cinema Studies coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take two of the MCS core courses (MCS 501, MCS 502, MCS 504) and one MCS elective during their senior year. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.
as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Organizational and Multicultural Communication (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in their major courses, have 3.0 cumulative GPA, have successfully completed CMN 101, CMN 102 and CMN 103, and have successfully completed three 300-level Communication courses are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by May 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, answers to essay questions, writing sample (research paper), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Communication coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take at least two core courses and a methods requirement during their senior year (examples: CMNS 500, CMNS 501, CMNS 541, CMNS 581 or CMNS 582). Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Public Relations and Advertising (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.25 GPA in their major courses, have 3.0 cumulative GPA, have successfully completed CMN 101, CMN 102 and CMN 103, have successfully completed three 300-level Communication courses, and are currently holding one or more PRAD internships or jobs are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by May 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, answers to essay questions, writing sample (research paper), one letter of recommendation from a PRAD professor, and one letter of recommendation from a supervisor at a PRAD-related internship or job.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Public Relations and Advertising coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take three core courses during their senior year (examples: PRAD 553, PRAD 555, PRAD 575, and PRAD 585). Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Relational Communication (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in their major courses, have 3.0 cumulative GPA, and have successfully completed CMN 101, CMN 102 and CMN 103 are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by May 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, Statement of Purpose (750 words) explaining why the student is seeking admission to the program, writing sample (research paper that demonstrates the applicant's ability to synthesize and analyze scholarly work), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Relational Communication coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take at least two core courses and a methods requirement during their senior year (examples: CMNS 500, RELC 500*, CMNS 581 or CMNS 582). Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

* For BA/MA students who are completing their BA in Relational Communication and seeking an MA in Relational Communication, the core course requirement of RELC 500 – Theories of Relational Communication will be waived. Students waived from having to take RELC 500 will replace the course with an additional graduate RELC elective course (still completing the required total of 48-credit hours).
Communication and Media (Minor)

The Communication and Media minor is for students interested in multiple areas of the media who wish to further their skills in effective communication to complement their major course of study.

Course Requirements

A minor in Communication and Media consists of a total of 24 credit hours (six courses).

- 3 courses starting with the prefix CMNS, INTC, ORGC or RELC
- 3 courses starting with the prefix JOUR, MCS or PRAD

Any of these six courses may be replaced with

- CMN 394 ADVANCED COMMUNICATION INTERNSHIP
- CMN 395 COMMUNICATION INTERNSHIP SPECIAL TOPICS

Students majoring in Communication and Media (BA) are restricted from earning this minor.

Communication Studies (BA)

The College of Communication offers a variety of courses leading to a Bachelor of Arts degree in Communication Studies. The program explores effective and participatory communication in interpersonal, small group, public, organizational, intercultural, rhetorical and performative contexts. Through a blend of theory and practice, students are encouraged to think, speak, and write clearly; to develop confidence and ability as ethical communicators; to view communication events from multiple perspectives; to understand the multicultural character of communication in contemporary society; to analyze and evaluate variables operating in verbal transactions; to probe the basic problems of human communication in order to understand self, others, and events; and to recognize the connections between communication studies and other disciplines.

Students whose professional goals are in the public, private, or non-profit sectors, such as government, training and human resources, and social and human services are well served by relational, group, and organizational communication, as well as courses in communication and culture, performance studies, and rhetoric. In addition, the B.A. in Communication Studies prepares students who want to continue their education, to excel in academic or professional graduate programs.

Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Describe the impact of language/discourse on attitudes, behaviors, and identity formation.
- Explain the symbiotic relationship between communication and culture.
- Identify the complexities of human communication, and explain how these dynamics impact life in relationships, groups, organizational and/or intercultural settings.

- Illustrate and critique the effectiveness of human communication in multiple contexts.
- Compare and contrast the capacities necessary to exert influence and affect change in relational, group, organizational, and/or intercultural settings.
- Appraise the communication skills necessary to work effectively in relational, group, organizational, and/or intercultural settings.

College Core Requirements

All majors in the College of Communication (with the exception of Public Relations and Advertising) consist of a total of fourteen courses: a four-course common core plus an additional combination of ten program requirements and electives. The Public Relations and Advertising major consists of a total of fifteen courses: a four-course common core plus an additional combination of eleven program requirements and electives.

Course Requirements

Four core courses are required of all College of Communication students:

- CMN 101 INTRODUCTION TO HUMAN COMMUNICATION
- CMN 102 INTRODUCTION TO MASS COMMUNICATION
- CMN 103 INTERCULTURAL COMMUNICATION
- CMN 104 PUBLIC SPEAKING

Students are encouraged to complete all four prior to taking additional coursework in the major.

Modern Language Requirement

Students who intend to graduate with a Bachelor of Arts degree in the College of Communication will be required to demonstrate a measure of competence in a modern language, as defined by the college. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in a second year high school course work in a modern language or Latin
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language (must be completed during high school)
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination. (Note that CLEP scores may be used only to meet the language requirement. Credit is not awarded in modern languages on the basis of CLEP scores).

Students with some modern language training should consult with the Modern Language Department about the course with which they should begin. Students with little or no previous work in the language will be required to complete the entire three-course introductory sequence.

• Three electives from any College of Communication offering

Internship Credit
Students in the major may take CMN 394 ADVANCED COMMUNICATION INTERNSHIP and/or CMN 395 COMMUNICATION INTERNSHIP SPECIAL TOPICS (when work relates to the major). In order to take CMN 394 or CMN 395, students must have completed two of the four communication core classes (CMN 101, CMN 102, CMN 103, CMN 104), two courses in the chosen major and have fulfilled internship program eligibility requirements.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

---

Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs. The following Communication graduate programs have been approved as combined degree options:

- Digital Communication and Media Arts (MA)
- Health Communication (MA)
- Journalism (MA)
- Media and Cinema Studies (MA)
- Organizational and Multicultural Communication (MA)
- Public Relations and Advertising (MA)
- Relational Communication (MA)

Deferring Admission

Students can defer their graduate admission for one year. If students do not matriculate after completing their B.A. degrees or within the one year deferral period, the graduate courses taken as undergraduate students will no longer count towards the graduate degree and students must reapply for admission to the graduate program.

Digital Communication and Media Arts (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in their major courses, have 3.0 cumulative GPA, and have successfully completed CMN 101, CMN 102 and CMN 103 are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by May 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, Statement of Purpose (750 words) explaining why the student is seeking admission to the program, writing sample (research paper that demonstrates the applicant's ability to synthesize and analyze scholarly work), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Digital Communication and Media Arts coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take two of the DCMA core courses (CMNS 570 and MCS 575) and one DCMA elective course during their senior year. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Health Communication (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in their major courses, have a 3.0 cumulative GPA, and have successfully completed three 300-level courses in their major are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by May 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, answers to essay questions, writing sample (research paper), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Health Communication coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take the HTHC core courses (HTHC 515, HTHC 516, HTHC 517) during the senior year. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Journalism (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.25 GPA in their major courses and 3.0 cumulative GPA are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by May 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, Statement of Purpose (750 words) explaining why the student is seeking admission to the program, writing sample or project that demonstrates the applicant's ability in journalism, and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Journalism coursework which will fulfill undergraduate Journalism major electives, communication electives and/or open electives. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirements, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Media and Cinema Studies (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in their major courses, have 3.0 cumulative GPA, and have successfully completed CMN 101, CMN 102 and CMN 103 are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by May 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, Statement of Purpose (750 words) explaining why the student is seeking admission to the program, writing sample (research paper that demonstrates the applicant's ability to synthesize and analyze scholarly work), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Media and Cinema Studies coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take two of the MCS core courses (MCS 501, MCS 502, MCS 504) and one MCS elective during their senior year. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Organizational and Multicultural Communication (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in their major courses, have 3.0 cumulative GPA, have successfully completed CMN 101, CMN 102 and CMN 103, and have successfully completed three 300-level Communication courses are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by May 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, answers to essay questions, writing sample (research paper), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Communication coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take at least two core courses and a methods requirement during their senior year (examples: CMNS 500, CMNS 501, CMNS 541, CMNS 581 or CMNS 582). Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Public Relations and Advertising (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.25 GPA in their major courses, have 3.0 cumulative GPA, have successfully completed CMN 101, CMN 102 and CMN 103, have successfully completed three 300-level Communication courses, and are currently holding one or more PRAD internships or jobs are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by May 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, answers to essay questions, writing sample (research paper), one letter of recommendation from a PRAD professor, and one letter of recommendation from a supervisor at a PRAD-related internship or job.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Public Relations and Advertising coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take three core courses during their senior year (examples: PRAD 553, PRAD 555, PRAD 575, and PRAD 585). Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Relational Communication (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in their major courses, have 3.0 cumulative GPA, and have successfully completed CMN 101, CMN 102 and CMN 103 are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by May 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, Statement of Purpose (750 words) explaining why the student is seeking admission to the program, writing sample (research paper that demonstrates the applicant's ability to synthesize and analyze scholarly work), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Relational Communication coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take at least two core courses and a methods requirement during their senior year (examples: CMNS 500, RELC 500*, CMNS 581 or CMNS 582). Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

* For BA/MA students who are completing their BA in Relational Communication and seeking an MA in Relational Communication, the core course requirement of RELC 500 – Theories of Relational Communication will be waived. Students waived from having to take RELC 500 will replace the course with an additional graduate RELC elective course (still completing the required total of 48-credit hours).

Communication Studies (Minor)

The Communication Studies minor is focused on preparing students to communicate effectively in any career. Emphasis is placed on speaking and writing for presentation, along with professional, workplace communication.

Course Requirements

A minor in Communication Studies consists of 6 course offerings in Communication Studies.

- One communication methods course chosen from the following selection of methods classes:
  - CMNS 291 RESEARCH METHODS
  - CMNS 327 RESEARCHING RELATIONSHIPS
  - INTC 331 COMMUNICATION FIELDWORK
  - INTC 310 DISCOURSE ANALYSIS
  - INTC 321 CULTURAL AND SYMBOLIC CRITICISM
  - INTC 332 TOPICS IN INTERCULTURAL COMMUNICATION METHODOLOGY

- One presentation skills course from the following selection of classes:
  - ORGC 201 BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL COMMUNICATION
  - CMN 104 PUBLIC SPEAKING
  - INTC 230 PERFORMANCE: COMMUNICATION, CREATIVITY, AND THE BODY
  - INTC 330 TOPICS IN PERFORMANCE
  - ORGC 354 EMPLOYMENT INTERVIEWING

- Four additional courses from the following prefixes CMNS, INTC, ORGC, RELC, as well as
  - CMN 394 ADVANCED COMMUNICATION INTERNSHIP
  - CMN 395 COMMUNICATION INTERNSHIP SPECIAL TOPICS

Students majoring in Communication Studies (BA) are restricted from earning this minor.
Community Service Studies (Minor)

The Community Service Studies (CSS) Minor is a multidisciplinary program that provides a framework for understanding and engaging in critical social issues at the level of community. While the notion of community is increasingly complex, the program explores the nuances of community as defined through the lens of groups with common affiliation, identity, or grievance that may be geographically or non-geographically based. The curriculum relies heavily on community-based service learning courses and is designed to provide students with a foundation of analytical, reflective, interpersonal, and leadership skills. Through supporting university partnerships with Chicago-area community-based organizations, students gain a local perspective on social justice issues, including those built on race, class, and gender inequalities and other forms of social, economic and political exclusion.

The practice of service is often shaped by particular economic and cultural circumstances related to power, privilege, and identity. A central component of CSS is the importance of viewing communities through an asset lens and thus working to support existing community strengths rather than responding to needs. Students minoring in CSS therefore develop strong critical self-reflection skills that guide them as future leaders in making ethical and socially responsible decisions.

Course Requirements

- CSS 201 CRITICAL COMMUNITY ENGAGEMENT
- CSS 300 INTRODUCTION TO NON-PROFIT MANAGEMENT
- CSS 395 COMMUNITY INTERNSHIP
- One EL-CbSL (community-based service learning) course from the Approved Electives list
- Two electives from the Approved Electives list

Study Abroad Courses

Several Study Abroad experiences may be used to fulfill one or more course requirements for the Minor. Approval of these trips for the Minor must be obtained in consultation with the Director.

Comparative Literature (Minor)

The Comparative Literature minor enables students to study the history, theory, and criticism of literature across national, linguistic, and disciplinary boundaries. It is designed for students who combine the drive and the ability to master foreign languages with a strong commitment to theoretical and interdisciplinary approaches to literature. Students must do a substantial portion of their work in at least one foreign language. Although students will take many of their courses in the departments of their elected literary fields, the program in comparative literature is distinguished from national literature departments by its comparative scope and by the requirement of seminars that focus on fundamental theoretical questions regarding the nature of literature and literary inquiry. The requirements for the minor are designed to allow each student to follow a course of study that combines intellectual rigor with the pursuit of personal interests.

Course Requirements

- CPL 355 CONTEMPORARY CRITICISM
- Choose one of the following two five-course options:
  - Option One
    - Five Comparative Literature offerings
  - Option Two
    - Four Comparative Literature offerings
    - One 300 level literature offering from Modern Languages in a language other than English

Composition (BM)

The Bachelor of Music degree in composition is comprised of a comprehensive range of courses including analysis, orchestration, counterpoint, compositional procedures, and contemporary musical styles. Throughout their studies, students work with a faculty of distinguished composers and participate in master classes with well-known guest composers. Student compositions may be performed at quarterly Composers Forums, and seniors may have a composition read through and recorded by the DePaul Chamber Orchestra.

Learning Outcomes

Core Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Perform with an acceptable tone quality, pitch and rhythmic accuracy, dynamic control, articulation, and expressiveness.
- Participate in a musical ensemble, with appropriate technique and musicality.
- Identify and analyze the elements of music in a given piece, including an understanding of its compositional processes, aesthetic properties, and artistic, social, and historical context.
- Identify significant composers and works in the Western music tradition, and trace the evolution of musical styles through the Medieval, Renaissance, Baroque, Classical, Romantic, and Contemporary periods, as well as in jazz and select world music cultures.
- Hear, notate, analyze, and perform music through aural skills, sight-singing, and keyboard skills.
- Demonstrate basic conducting knowledge and skills for both instrumental and vocal settings.
- Develop an expanded global awareness and cultural understanding through musical study
- Describe basic information about health and safety within the contexts of practice, performing, teaching, and listening; topics will include hearing, vocal, and musculoskeletal health and injury prevention.

Program Specific Outcomes

Students will be able to:
• Compose consistently throughout the specialization.
  ■ Have at least one work performed on the student composers’ concert, known as Composers Forum.
• Demonstrate an emerging compositional voice or style, through compositions for a variety of ensembles, that reflects an awareness of prevalent musical styles of the 20th and 21st centuries.
• Analyze music of the common practice period as well as the 20th and 21st centuries.
• Demonstrate a fundamental knowledge of instrumentation while composing for large and small ensembles.
• Identify and demonstrate basic techniques used to create electro-acoustic music.
• Demonstrate contrapuntal techniques in the languages of at least two of the following:
  ■ 16th century counterpoint.
  ■ 18th century counterpoint.
  ■ 20th century counterpoint.
• Understand important musical works, focusing on music from 1700 to the present.
• Read and reflect on increasingly complex musical scores.

Music Core Requirements

Course Requirements

All students in the School of Music are required to enroll in the following music courses:

Musicianship (36 credits)

• Musicianship Sequence
  ■ MUS 110 MUSICIANSHIP I
  ■ MUS 120 MUSICIANSHIP II
  ■ MUS 130 MUSICIANSHIP III
  ■ MUS 210 MUSICIANSHIP IV
  ■ MUS 220 MUSICIANSHIP V
  ■ MUS 230 MUSICIANSHIP VI
• Aural Training Sequence
  ■ MUS 111 AURAL TRAINING I
  ■ MUS 121 AURAL TRAINING II
  ■ MUS 131 AURAL TRAINING III
  ■ MUS 211 AURAL TRAINING IV
  ■ MUS 221 AURAL TRAINING V
  ■ MUS 231 AURAL TRAINING VI
• Group Piano Sequence
  ■ MUS 113 GROUP PIANO I
  ■ MUS 123 GROUP PIANO II
  ■ MUS 133 GROUP PIANO III
  ■ MUS 213 GROUP PIANO IV
  ■ MUS 223 GROUP PIANO V
  ■ MUS 233 GROUP PIANO VI

Additional Courses

• MUS 265 MUSICAL TRADITIONS OF AMERICA AND THE WORLD
• MUS 303 BASIC CONDUCTING PRACTICUM
• MUS 304 BASIC CONDUCTING

Applied Music

Students may enroll in a maximum of 4 credits of applied study per quarter, with a maximum of 48 credits total. The requirements for applied study vary by degree program:

• BM in performance, 48 credits
• BM in jazz studies, 30 credits
• BM in composition, 24 credits
BM in music education, 24 credits
BM in performing arts management, 24 credits
BA in music, 16 credits
BS in sound recording technology, 12 credits

Except performance majors, students may enroll in additional applied credits, which will count towards music electives.

Modern Language Option

If a music student wishes to study a modern language for a three-course sequence (12 credits), one quarter of language study (4 credits) may be used to replace a course requirement in Arts and Literature, Philosophical Inquiry, or Religious Dimensions. The remaining two quarters of language (8 credits) will be applied towards free electives.

Liberal Studies Requirements

Honors program requirements can be found in the individual Colleges & Schools section of the University Catalog. Select Academics, followed by Undergraduate, then Honors Program Alternative.

* Students must earn a C- or better in this course.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student’s major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab or SWK requirement.

Major Requirements

Petition to Major

Students are admitted to a specialization on the basis of a petition to major process, which occurs during the spring of the freshmen or sophomore year. The petition to major process differs for each specialization, and students should contact the department chairs or area coordinators for more information. Students are not permitted to enroll in classes in the specialization until they have passed their petition to major.

Course Requirements

Students are required to complete the following courses for a specialization in Composition:

- COM 315 COMPOSITION
- Choose two of the following three courses:
  - COM 301 16TH CENTURY COUNTERPOINT
  - COM 302 18TH CENTURY COUNTERPOINT
  - COM 303 20TH CENTURY COUNTERPOINT
- COM 300 ORCHESTRATION I
- COM 320 ORCHESTRATION II
- COM 305 ANALYTICAL STUDIES
- COM 326 ELECTRO-ACOUSTIC MUSIC I
- Final Composition Project
Computational Physics (Minor)

The Computational Physics minor provides a hands-on curriculum in computational and experimental physics with an emphasis on applications in modern, applied physics.

Course Requirements

- PHY 170 UNIVERSITY PHYSICS I
- PHY 171 UNIVERSITY PHYSICS II
- PHY 172 UNIVERSITY PHYSICS III
- PHY 270 UNIVERSITY PHYSICS IV
- PHY 300 METHODS OF COMPUTATIONAL AND THEORETICAL PHYSICS I
- PHY 301 METHODS OF COMPUTATIONAL AND THEORETICAL PHYSICS II

Students cannot earn a minor in the same academic program as their major.

Computer Game Development (BS)

The BS in Computer Game Development prepares students to work in the multi-disciplinary field of computer gaming and interactive media. Students specialize in either game design or game programming, but all students work in cross-disciplinary teams to design and develop games.

Concentrations

Game Design Concentration

A game designer conceives and crafts the rules, structure and experience of a game. The game design concentration equips students to become the next generation of creative leaders in the growing field of games. Throughout the program students will explore and push the boundaries of games as expressive and artistic media. They will develop skills for each phase of the game design and development cycle including ideation, iteration through the creation of multiple playable game builds (including prototypes), and reflection on the effectiveness of their designs using playtesting and written evaluations. Students will also develop skills and confidence in reading, writing, and modifying computer programs and scripts. Students will collaborate in interdisciplinary teams with programmers, artists, producers, writers, and audio designers. This concentration has an emphasis on building a portfolio of games and advancing the medium of games through experimentation and innovation.

Gameplay Programming Concentration

Students in this concentration engage in the rigorous study of computer science basics, and then apply this knowledge to the demanding specialization of game programming. Gameplay programmers bring their technical understanding of game internals to the problem of delivering engaging game experiences to players. Areas of study include level design, game scripting, computer graphics development, game physics, and artificial intelligence programming.

Systems Programming Concentration
The systems programming concentration emphasizes the internals of a game – the game engine and other systems that make a modern games possible. In addition to computer science fundamentals, students in this concentration cover additional topics in computer hardware and operating systems essential to developing game engines.

Learning Outcomes

Core Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Collaboratively generate ideas, share them and assess their inherent risks and scope.
- Translate game ideas into playable prototypes in regard to feasibility and creative value.
  - Iterate on prototype until they have a viable, playable version.
- Plan and manage their own develop tasks to work effectively within a cross-disciplinary team.
- Evaluate games with users using multiple common games user research methods.
- Manage the pipeline for games, effectively evaluating the impact of potential changes.
- Develop a foundational literacy and confidence in reading, writing, and modifying computer programs and scripts.

Concentration Specific Outcomes

Systems Programming

Students will be able to:

- Read, write, and modify machine-level programs.
- Efficiently use the power and resources of game hardware platforms.

Gameplay Programming

Students will be able to:

- Read, write, and modify programs that deliver the intended player experience.
- Integrate programs with and use game architectures and pipelines.

Game Design

Students will be able to:

- Clearly communicate and establish the vision for a game's experiential goal by taking formal and dramatic game elements into account.
- Intentionally craft experiences that leverage and develop the unique affordances of games as an artistic medium.

Understanding the Past (UP)
- 2 Courses Required

* Students must earn a C- or better in this course.

Note
Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Major Requirements

Course Requirements
- ANI 230 3D DESIGN & MODELING
- GAM 226 FUNDAMENTALS OF GAME DESIGN
- GAM 394 GAME DEVELOPMENT PROJECT I
- GAM 395 GAME DEVELOPMENT PROJECT II

Concentration Requirements
Students must also complete the requirements from one of the following concentrations: Game Design; Gameplay Programming; or Systems Programming.

Degree Requirements
Students in this degree must meet the following requirements:
- Complete a minimum of 192 credit hours (generally 48 courses)
- Earn a grade of C- or higher in WRD 103, WRD 104, and all Major and Minor courses
- Earn a grade of D or higher in all other Liberal Studies and Open Elective courses
- Maintain a cumulative GPA of 2.0 or higher
Concentration Requirements

Concentrations, tracks and specializations provide focus to the major. In addition to any college core requirements, liberal studies requirements and major requirements, students are required to choose one of the following:

- Game Design
- Gameplay Programming
- Systems Programming Concentration

- GAM 392 GAME MODIFICATION WORKSHOP
- GD 105 INTRO TO VISUAL DESIGN
- IT 223 DATA ANALYSIS

Students must take 5 Major Electives and 2 of these major electives must be GAM courses at the 300 level. Students must earn a grade of C- or higher in all Major Elective Courses. 3 Major Electives must be chosen from the following list:

- 200 level ANI, DC, GAM, GD, GPH, or ISM courses
- 300 level CDM courses

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

CombinedBachelor's/Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs. Students who meet the admission requirements below may choose to apply to a combined degree program. Interested students should consult their faculty advisor regarding the application procedure. This program allows students to combine many CDM bachelor's degrees with a CDM master's degree following the structure outlined below.

Admission Criteria

- Minimum of 44 quarter hours earned
- Minimum of 12 quarter hours earned at DePaul
- GPA of 3.3 or higher in courses taken at DePaul
- Endorsement of faculty advisor

In order to apply for the combined degree program, your faculty advisor must send an e-mail recommendation to the CDM Academic Success Center. The recommendation should include your full name, student ID number, and the bachelor's and master's degrees you wish to combine.

Bachelor of Arts in Computing students who are enrolled via the School for New Learning are eligible for this program. Interested students who meet the admission criteria for a combined degree should contact Kenn Skorupa at SNL for more information

Students in the combined degree program take a maximum of three graduate level courses that count toward both their bachelor's and master's degree requirements. Students may enroll in graduate level coursework in the junior and senior year only. Students in the combined degree program will receive the bachelor's degree after meeting all graduation requirements including the minimum credit hours required for graduation.

To earn the master's degree, the student must earn as many additional graduate credit hours as needed to reach the minimum number of graduate credit hours required in that master's degree.

Only CDM courses can be taken as part of this program. Advanced programs (e.g., JD/MS, MFA, and PhD) are not eligible for the combined degree program.

Maintaining Good Standing

Cumulative GPA and course grades will be reviewed after each Autumn, Winter, and Spring Quarter.

The student and faculty advisor will be notified when the student's cumulative GPA falls below 3.3 or when the students receives less than a C- in graduate level course.

If a student's cumulative GPA falls below 3.3, the student must earn a term GPA of 3.3 or above in the following quarter to stay in good standing. If the student does not achieve a 3.3 term GPA, then the student will be dismissed from the combined program and resume the traditional B.A./B.S./B.F.A.

If dismissed from the combined degree program after graduate courses have been passed, the graduate courses may only apply to the undergraduate degree. Should the student later be admitted to a graduate program, graduate courses applied to the undergraduate degree may not apply to the graduate program and may not be repeated if they are required in the declared graduate curriculum. Other graduate courses may be substituted in this case.

Designing a Course of Study

It is extremely important that the student and faculty advisor work together on a course of study immediately upon admission to the Combined Degree Program.

This course of study should include the graduate courses to be taken and the undergraduate courses that are replaced by the graduate courses. Failure to put together a solid plan can lead to extra coursework and a lengthening of the Combined Degree program.
It is advisable for the student and the faculty advisor to enter the proposed plan of study in the student communication record on the CDM intranet so it is available to the student and CDM faculty and staff.

Registering for Master's Degree Courses

Combined degree students must meet regularly with their faculty advisors. The faculty advisor will initiate the registration process for all graduate level courses taken during the undergraduate career.

Bachelor's Degree to Master's Degree Transition

In order to be fully admitted to the designated master's program, the student must meet all admission requirements for that program. When preparing to complete the undergraduate portion of the combined degree, students must submit the application for degree conferral for the undergraduate degree by the application deadline. At this time, the students should contact the CDM Academic Success Center about the procedure required to be formally admitted to the declared graduate program.

Computer Science (BS)

The BS in Computer Science provides essential training in the foundations of computing, data storage and information processing. With this foundation, graduates of the program can easily adapt to and create new information technologies, new computing paradigms, and new ideas for applying computer systems.

The BS in Computer Science can be completed online by transfer students if they meet the following requirements:

- Have a minimum of 45 quarter/30 semester hours of transfer credit
- Completed one semester of Java or C++
- Have a minimum cumulative 2.0 GPA
- Be in good standing at the last school they attended

Note - The lab science requirement, English Composition I (WRD 103), and the pre-calculus prerequisite (MAT 130) for the Discrete Mathematics I (MAT 140) and Data Analysis (IT 223) requirements are not available online at DePaul and will need to be completed on campus or transferred in from another institution.

For more information on this option and a sample schedule please see http://www.cdm.depaul.edu/onlinelearning/Pages/BS-in-Computer-Science-Online-Degree-Completion.aspx.

Students can choose to study within one of three concentrations in the BS in Computer Science program:

- Software Development
- Software Engineering
- Game Systems

Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Interpret the informal description of an algorithm, translate the description to a program, and write tests to determine whether a program solves the intended problem.
- Analytically determine the running time of a program and validate the analysis experimentally.
- Select an appropriate combinatoric or statistical technique to solve an analytic problem.
- Analyze and select an algorithm based on systems effects.
- Solve a specific problem by selecting appropriate data structures, algorithms, and customize them to the problem.
- Correlate the input of a compiler and its assembly language output.
- Write programs that interact with other processes and with databases.
- Implement systems that run across several distributed computers.
- Criticize a program on the basis of its maintainability and suggest improvements
- Interpret new APIs and use them in developing computer applications.

Liberal Studies Requirements

Honors program requirements can be found in the individual Colleges & Schools section of the University Catalog. Select Academics, followed by Undergraduate, then Honors Program Alternative.

Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs. Students who meet the admission requirements below may choose to apply to a combined degree program. Interested students should consult their faculty advisor regarding the application procedure. This program allows students to combine many CDM bachelor's degrees with a CDM master's degree following the structure outlined below.

Admission Criteria

- Minimum of 44 quarter hours earned
- Minimum of 12 quarter hours earned at DePaul
- GPA of 3.3 or higher in courses taken at DePaul
- Endorsement of faculty advisor

In order to apply for the combined degree program, your faculty advisor must send an e-mail recommendation to the CDM Academic Success Center. The recommendation should include your full name, student ID number, and the bachelor's and master's degrees you wish to combine.

Bachelor of Arts in Computing students who are enrolled via the School for New Learning are eligible for this program. Interested students who meet the admission criteria for a combined degree should contact Kenn
Program Structure

Students in the combined degree program take a maximum of three graduate level courses that count toward both their bachelor's and master's degree requirements. Students may enroll in graduate level coursework in the junior and senior year only. Students in the combined degree program will receive the bachelor's degree after meeting all graduation requirements including the minimum credit hours required for graduation.

To earn the master's degree, the student must earn as many additional graduate credit hours as needed to reach the minimum number of graduate credit hours required in that master's degree.

Only CDM courses can be taken as part of this program. Advanced programs (e.g., JD/MS, MFA, and PhD) are not eligible for the combined degree program.

Maintaining Good Standing

Cumulative GPA and course grades will be reviewed after each Autumn, Winter, and Spring Quarter.

The student and faculty advisor will be notified when the student's cumulative GPA falls below 3.3 or when the students receives less than a C- in graduate level course.

If a student's cumulative GPA falls below 3.3, the student must earn a term GPA of 3.3 or above in the following quarter to stay in good standing. If the student does not achieve a 3.3 term GPA, then the student will be dismissed from the combined program and resume the traditional B.A./B.S./B.F.A.

If dismissed from the combined degree program after graduate courses have been passed, the graduate courses may only apply to the undergraduate degree. Should the student later be admitted to a graduate program, graduate courses applied to the undergraduate degree may not apply to the graduate program and may not be repeated if they are required in the declared graduate curriculum. Other graduate courses may be substituted in this case.

Designing a Course of Study

It is extremely important that the student and faculty advisor work together on a course of study immediately upon admission to the Combined Degree Program.

This course of study should include the graduate courses to be taken and the undergraduate courses that are replaced by the graduate courses. Failure to put together a solid plan can lead to extra coursework and a lengthening of the Combined Degree program.

It is advisable for the student and the faculty advisor to enter the proposed plan of study in the student communication record on the CDM intranet so it is available to the student and CDM faculty and staff.

Registering for Master's Degree Courses

Combined degree students must meet regularly with their faculty advisors. The faculty advisor will initiate the registration process for all graduate level courses taken during the undergraduate career.

Bachelor's Degree to Master's Degree Transition

In order to be fully admitted to the designated master's program, the student must meet all admission requirements for that program. When preparing to complete the undergraduate portion of the combined degree, students must submit the application for degree conferral for the undergraduate degree by the application deadline. At this time, the students should contact the CDM Academic Success Center about the procedure required to be formally admitted to the declared graduate program.
Computer Science (Minor)

DePaul’s Computer Science minor provides an overview of the field with a focus on programming, data storage and information processing.

Course Requirements

- MAT 140 DISCRETE MATHEMATICS I
- CSC 241 INTRODUCTION TO COMPUTER SCIENCE I
- CSC 242 INTRODUCTION TO COMPUTER SCIENCE II
- CSC 300 DATA STRUCTURES IN JAVA I
- CSC 301 DATA STRUCTURES IN JAVA II
- CSC 373 COMPUTER SYSTEMS I
- CSC 374 COMPUTER SYSTEMS II

Students majoring in Computer Science (BS), Computer Game Development (BS) - Gameplay Programming or Systems Programming Concentration, Information Technology (BS), or Math and Computer Science (BS) or minoring in Information Technology are restricted from earning this minor.

Computing (BA)

The Bachelor of Arts in Computing (BAC) is a degree offered jointly by the School for New Learning (SNL) and the College of Computing and Digital Media (CDM) at DePaul University. This degree has been designed to prepare adults for computer related careers and graduate programs in Computer Science or Digital Media. Instituted in 1996, the BAC program has remained on the cutting edge of preparing students to work and study in a variety of technology fields. The program is open to students aged 24 or older.

For those who have a great deal of knowledge and background in computing, the BAC program offers the opportunity to fulfill requirements through documentation of that experience and through ongoing projects completed in the workplace. For those who have little experience with computing, all requirements can be completed as course work. In either case, the BAC offers the flexibility and individualized learning approach of SNL while focusing on the latest technology, theory and content provided by CDM.

BAC students also work with the CDM Professional Advisors to define and plan their focus area requirements within the program. Students may elect to design an individualized computing related focus area that reflects their unique backgrounds and career interests or they may select from 10 Specialized Focus Area tracks offered by CDM. These tracks relate to dynamic and diverse aspects of computer technology and its applications. Students may need to demonstrate or complete certain pre-requisite requirements for some of the Focus Area tracks depending on the student's entry level of competence in that area.

The degree is earned by completing 50 competence requirements. Competence requirements can be met by SNL and CDM courses, equivalent transfer courses with a grade of C- or better or equivalent documented experience. CDM courses are offered at DePaul's Loop campus in day time, evening and weekend sessions and online. SNL courses are available online and at the Loop, Naperville, O'Hare campuses in evening and weekend sessions.
Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Use independent learning skills and strategies to organize, initiate, and document prior, current, and future college-level learning.
- Design learning strategies to attain goals for personal and educational development.
- Reflect on the learning process and methods used in an experiential project.
- Articulate the personal and social value of lifelong learning.
- Assess the social and personal value of civic engagement for achieving change.
- Analyze, synthesize, and evaluate experiences and concepts through writing.
- Analyze issues and reconcile problems through critical and appreciative thinking.
- Use mathematical symbols, concepts, and methods to describe and solve problems.
- Learn collaboratively and examine the skills, knowledge, and values that contribute to such learning.
- Pose questions and use methods of formal inquiry to answer questions and solve problems.
- Analyze a problem using two different ethical systems.
- Define and analyze a creative process.
- Analyze power relations among racial, social, cultural, or economic groups in the United States.
- Analyze issues and problems from a global perspective.
- Describe and explain connections among diverse aspects of nature.
- Use current information technology for integrated solutions to problems.
- Design a plan for development in one’s Focus Area based on an analysis of elements that comprise the area.
- Design and produce a significant computing related product that gives evidence of advanced competence.

Competence Framework

The SNL curriculum is organized around the knowledge, skills and abilities that describe an educated adult in contemporary society. These are defined by a framework of 50 competence statements grouped in 3 areas: Lifelong Learning, Individual Focus, and Liberal Learning. Students demonstrate these degree requirements through SNL courses, independent learning projects, and transfer coursework.

Students in SNL’s competence-based joint degree programs, the BA in Computing, BA in Early Childhood Education and BA in General Business follow a format similar to the descriptions below with some variations. See their Program Requirements for more information.

Lifelong Learning Area

The Lifelong Learning Area has 12 competences that develop skills in reading, writing, goal setting, decision-making, teamwork, and research.

Liberal Learning Area

The Liberal Learning Area encompasses fields of study generally referred to as the Liberal Arts. Students satisfy 26 competences in this area.

This area is divided into 3 categories: Arts and Ideas (AI), Human Community (HC), and Scientific World (SW). Each category is divided into 3 subcategories. Students complete 8 competences in each category and 2 additional Advanced Elective competences. Students must satisfy at least 1 competence from each subcategory, and 3 more from any subcategory. The 4th and 5th competences are required.

Arts and Ideas Category

This category includes the arts, philosophy, theology, literature, and other fields that focus on expression of values and aesthetics. The 3 subcategories are: Interpreting the Arts, Creative Expression, and Reflection and Meaning.
Human Community Category

This category includes human relations, history, political science, and other fields closely aligned with the development and maintenance of human society. The 3 subcategories are: Communities and Society, Institutions and Organizations, and Individual Development.

The Scientific World Category

This category includes fields related to scientific inquiry, technology, and relevant skills. The 3 subcategories in this area are: Experiencing Science, Patterns and Processes, and Science, Technology and Society.

Individual Focus Area

The Individual Focus Area may reflect a field of study, preparation for graduate study, a career goal or avocation. These 12 competences are defined by the student with the advice and approval of a faculty mentor and a professional advisor who has expertise in the area of interest.

The BA in Computing, BA in Early Childhood Education and BA in General Business each have a series of prescribed competence statements in their Focus Areas that correspond to particular course requirements.

Program Requirements

Lifelong Learning

The Lifelong Learning Area consists of 12 competencies that can be met by SNL courses, equivalent transfer courses or proficiency exams as listed below.

- LL 103 INDEPENDENT LEARNING SEMINAR (L-1)
- LL 250 FOUNDATIONS OF ADULT LEARNING: DEVELOPING PERSONAL, PROFESSIONAL AND EDUCATIONAL GOALS (L-2, F-1)
- L-3: Civic Engagement competence in SNL course, transfer, or experience.
  - AI 143 ROOTED IN THE CITY: WRITERS & WRITING IN CHICAGO
  - AI 218 ORGANIZING AND DEVELOPING EMERGENCY TRAINING & SERVICE STRATEGIES: "LESSONS-LEARNED" FROM KATRINA
  - AI 230 MEMOIR WRITING: A JOURNEY FROM THE INSIDE OUT
  - AI 257 ENGAGE FOR CHANGE: GET INFORMED, INVOLVED AND CONNECTED
  - HC 118 MAKING SOCIAL CHANGE: THE LEGACY OF THE 1960'S
  - HC 211 ENGAGING A LOCAL NONPROFIT TO SOLVE A GLOBAL PROBLEM
  - HC 268 WHO CARES? THE POLITICS, ECONOMICS AND ETHICS OF WORK THAT MAKES ALL WORK POSSIBLE
  - HC 283 WORK-LIFE BALANCE: HISTORY & GENDER POLITICS
  - HC 302 ACTIVE CITIZENSHIP: MAKING A DIFFERENCE
  - HC 362 POVERTY, POLICY AND THE ECONOMY: POOR IN THE USA
  - IN 231 EXPLORING CHICAGO POLITICS
  - IN 352 EYES ON THE PRIZE: A TELEVISION HISTORY OF THE AMERICAN CIVIL RIGHTS MOVEMENT
  - SNC 215 ISSUES IN HEALTH POLICY AND ADMINISTRATION
  - SW 251 UNDERSTANDING GLOBAL HEALTH CONCEPTS AND PRACTICES
  - SW 254 ENVIRONMENTAL SUSTAINABILITY AND ADVOCACY
- LL 260 WRITING FOR COMPETENCE (L-4)
- LL 270 CRITICAL THINKING (L-5)
- LL 205 QUANTITATIVE REASONING (L-6)
- L-7: Collaborative Learning competence in SNL course, transfer, or experience. The L-7 competence is available in the following SNL courses:
  - AI 255 SELF EXPLORATION: INSIDE OURSELVES, OUTSIDE WITH OTHERS
  - AI 285 WORK, PLAY AND REST: INTEGRATING THE FRAGMENTS
  - FA 133 EDITING YOURSELF AND OTHERS: A COLLABORATIVE APPROACH TO WRITING AT WORK
  - FA 196 MANAGING A SUCCESSFUL BUSINESS
  - FA 198 FINANCIAL PLANNING FOR RETIREMENT
The Liberal Learning Area consists of 26 competencies in 4 categories. Competences can be satisfied by SNL and CDM courses, equivalent transfer courses, and documented college-level learning from experience as listed below.

Arts & Ideas Category:
- 6 SNL competencies

Human Community Category:
- 6 SNL competencies

Scientific World Category:
- 2 CDM courses:
  - IT 223 DATA ANALYSIS
  - IT 263 APPLIED NETWORKS AND SECURITY
- 4 SNL competencies

Elective Category:
- 6 Open Electives
- 2 SNL Advanced Electives

The BAC Focus Area

The BAC Focus Area consists of 12 competencies satisfied through CDM courses, approved transfer courses or experiential learning and SNL Advanced Project or CDM Capstone courses. Students can design their own Customized Focus Area track or choose one of the Specialized Focus Area tracks.

Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Program

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

To earn the master's degree, the student must earn at least 52 graduate credit hours (13 graduate courses). Twelve hours of graduate credits taken during the undergraduate career may also apply to the graduate degree. Only CDM courses may be taken as part of this program.

In order to apply for the combined degree program, your faculty advisor must send an e-mail recommendation to the Assistant Director of SNL Joint Degree Programs. The recommendation should include your full name, DePaul student ID number, and the bachelor's and master's degrees you wish to combine.

Admissions Criteria

- Minimum of 6 courses (24 credit hours) completed at DePaul.
- GPA of 3.3 or higher in courses taken at DePaul.
- Endorsement of faculty advisor.

The following Computing Digital Media graduate programs have been approved as combined degree options:

- Animation (MA)
- Applied Technology (MS, Joint CDM / SNL Degree)
- Business Information Technology (MS)
- Cinema Production (MS)
- Computational Finance (MS)
- Computer Game Development (MS)
- Computer Science (MS)
- Computer, Information and Network Security (MS)
- E-Commerce Technology (MS)
- Human Computer Interaction (MS)
- Information Systems (MS)

Costume Design (BFA)

The Theatre School’s Bachelor of Fine Arts (BFA) degree in Costume Design is designed to give students the opportunity to explore and expand their artistic and visual expression and provides them the opportunity to practice their craft. The four-year curriculum in many ways simulates a costume designer’s professional experience and process. Designers learn to visualize the world of plays through the garments and clothing the actors wear while collaborating with directors, dramaturgs, other designers and technicians, and our professional costume shop staff who build the costumes they design.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab or SWK requirement.

Costume Design and Costume Technology (BFA)

The Theatre School's Bachelor of Fine Arts (BFA) degree in Costume Design and Costume Technology is designed to give students the opportunity to train as costume designers as well as theatrical draper/cutters, crafts persons, and costume shop managers, while providing them opportunities to practice their art and craft. The four-year curriculum, in many ways, simulates a costume designer’s, and costume technician’s professional experiences and processes. As designers, students learn to visualize the world of plays through the costumes and accessories actors wear, while the technology courses will teach students to turn those designs into reality. Students learn a variety of design and technical skills including: life drawing, photoshop, media for designers, sewing, pattern making, cutting, fitting, millinery, mask making, etc. They also take a progression of business management coursework. Students collaborate with directors, dramaturgs, other designers and technicians, and our professional costume shop staff in work on productions in addition to their class work. Only students who have completed their freshman year as either a Costume Design or Costume Technician major are eligible to apply for this degree.

Data Analysis and Data Mining (Minor)

The minor in Data Analysis and Data Mining is designed for students interested in organizing and understanding statistics and data. The minor complements any scientific or data-driven field of study.

Course Requirements

- IT 240 INTRODUCTION TO DATABASES
- IT 223 DATA ANALYSIS
- CSC 324 DATA ANALYSIS & STATISTICAL SOFTWARE II
- CSC 367 INTRODUCTION TO DATA MINING
- CSC 334 ADVANCED DATA ANALYSIS
- 2 CDM Electives
Decision Analytics (BA)

Designed for working adults, the BA in Decision Analytics has a strong industry orientation that is specifically geared to provide students with the knowledge and skills they need for the jobs they hold today as well as those they might seek out tomorrow.

Decision analytics is an interdisciplinary field dedicated to the collection, analysis and communication of Big Data, a term used to reflect the challenging complexities and dynamic nature of large data sets today. Decision analysts have a keen sense of data and are able to apply critical reasoning to both qualitative and quantitative data in context. They are able to ask the right questions and formulate problems to facilitate analysis. As such, they are able to understand the organization from a systems perspective. They are comfortable learning new technologies in this dynamic field, particularly database, statistical and visualization software. They also excel in working collaboratively, dealing with ambiguity, creative problem solving, and communication skills.

Students can fulfill program requirements by demonstrating what they already know from work and other life experiences so that they can focus on new learning.

Concentration Requirements (24 credit hours)
Students must also complete the requirements from one of the following concentrations: General or Computing.
Concentration Requirements

Concentrations, tracks and specializations provide focus to the major. In addition to any college core requirements, liberal studies requirements and major requirements, students are required to choose one of the following:

- General
- Computing

General Concentration

Students are free to pick courses that meet their interests. However, those who wish to pursue a master's degree in Predictive Analytics or a similar computing field should take the CSC courses. Students interested in a master's degree in Marketing Analysis or a similar marketing field should take the MKT courses.

Students select 24 credits from the courses listed below:

- MKT 202 QUANTITATIVE METHODS IN MARKETING
- MKT 301 PRINCIPLES OF MARKETING
- MKT 305 INTRODUCTION TO MARKETING RESEARCH
- MKT 310 CONSUMER BEHAVIOR
- MKT 315 STRATEGIC TOOLS FOR MARKETERS

- DA 330 PRESCRIPTIVE ANALYTICS
- DA 340 ACCELERATING ORGANIZATION INTELLIGENCE: WHAT'S THE STORY?
- CSC 241 INTRODUCTION TO COMPUTER SCIENCE I
- CSC 242 INTRODUCTION TO COMPUTER SCIENCE II
- CSC 334 ADVANCED DATA ANALYSIS
- CSC 352 DATABASE PROGRAMMING
- CSC 367 INTRODUCTION TO DATA MINING

Computing Concentration

Students interested in continuing their study of decision analytics with a master's degree in Predictive Analytics or a similar computing field should take the following courses:

- CSC 241 INTRODUCTION TO COMPUTER SCIENCE I
- CSC 242 INTRODUCTION TO COMPUTER SCIENCE II
- CSC 334 ADVANCED DATA ANALYSIS
- CSC 352 DATABASE PROGRAMMING
- CSC 367 INTRODUCTION TO DATA MINING
- Choose four additional credit hours from the courses listed below:
  - MKT 202 QUANTITATIVE METHODS IN MARKETING
  - MKT 301 PRINCIPLES OF MARKETING
  - DA 150 ANALYTICS IN ACTION SEMINARS
  - DA 220 DATA MINING
Digital Cinema (BA)

The BA in Digital Cinema is an innovative motion picture production program dedicated to utilizing the latest digital technology while incorporating classic cinema narrative theory and aesthetics. Students receive hands-on experience with the latest production equipment in the first year and get an insider’s view of the industry from experienced faculty.

Concentrations

Cinema Production Concentration

This concentration features a hands-on program in live-action production. With its greater number of electives students may also develop an interdisciplinary program of study in cinema history and theory.

Documentary Production Concentration

The BA in Digital Cinema Concentration in Documentary Production prepares future documentary filmmakers by providing a foundation in the production and post-production skills applicable to any genre in cinema. Building on these skills, the concentration then teaches advanced documentary concepts and techniques in storytelling, pre-production and production.

Television Concentration

This concentration features a hands-on experience with cutting edge digital equipment in studio and field production for video and television. Students apply theoretical concepts while planning and designing programs, capturing, editing (linear and non-linear) and post-production.

Sound Concentration

This concentration features hands-on experience with cutting edge equipment and technologies in production and post-production sound for cinema in addition to other core courses in cinema production and post-production.

Writing for Film and Television Concentration

This concentration features a program of study in advanced screenwriting in addition to core courses in cinema production, dramatic literature and cinema history/theory.

Notes

Students must take one of the following ethics courses: DC 228/GAM 228/IT 228 (PI), PHL 248/MGT 248 (PI) or REL 228/MGT 228 (RD)

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab or SWK requirement.

Concentration Requirements

Students must also complete the requirements from one of the following concentrations: Cinema Production; Documentary Production; Television Production; Sound; or Writing for Film and Television.

Degree Requirements

Students in this degree must meet the following requirements:

- Complete a minimum of 192 credit hours (generally 48 courses)
- Earn a grade of C- or higher in WRD 103, WRD 104, and all Major and Minor courses
- Earn a grade of D or higher in all other Liberal Studies and Open Elective courses
- Maintain a cumulative GPA of 2.0 or higher

Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

Students who meet the admission requirements below may choose to apply to a combined degree program. Interested students should consult their faculty advisor regarding the application procedure. This program allows students to combine many CDM bachelor's degrees with a CDM master's degree following the structure outlined below.

Admission Criteria

- Minimum of 44 quarter hours earned
- Minimum of 12 quarter hours earned at DePaul
- GPA of 3.3 or higher in courses taken at DePaul
- Endorsement of faculty advisor

In order to apply for the combined degree program, your faculty advisor must send an e-mail recommendation to the CDM Academic Success Center. The recommendation should include your full name, student ID number, and the bachelor's and master's degrees you wish to combine.

Bachelor of Arts in Computing students who are enrolled via the School for New Learning are eligible for this program. Interested students who meet the admission criteria for a combined degree should contact Kenn Skorupa at SNL for more information

Program Structure

Students in the combined degree program take a maximum of three graduate level courses that count toward both their bachelor's and master's degree requirements. Students may enroll in graduate level coursework in the junior and senior year only. Students in the combined degree program will receive the bachelor's degree after meeting all graduation requirements including the minimum credit hours required for graduation.
To earn the master's degree, the student must earn as many additional graduate credit hours as needed to reach the minimum number of graduate credit hours required in that master's degree.

Only CDM courses can be taken as part of this program. Advanced programs (e.g., JD/MS, MFA, and PhD) are not eligible for the combined degree program.

Maintaining Good Standing

Cumulative GPA and course grades will be reviewed after each Autumn, Winter, and Spring Quarter.

The student and faculty advisor will be notified when the student’s cumulative GPA falls below 3.3 or when the students receives less than a C- in graduate level course.

If a student’s cumulative GPA falls below 3.3, the student must earn a term GPA of 3.3 or above in the following quarter to stay in good standing. If the student does not achieve a 3.3 term GPA, then the student will be dismissed from the combined program and resume the traditional B.A./B.S./B.F.A.

If dismissed from the combined degree program after graduate courses have been passed, the graduate courses may only apply to the undergraduate degree. Should the student later be admitted to a graduate program, graduate courses applied to the undergraduate degree may not apply to the graduate program and may not be repeated if they are required in the declared graduate curriculum. Other graduate courses may be substituted in this case.

Designing a Course of Study

It is extremely important that the student and faculty advisor work together on a course of study immediately upon admission to the Combined Degree Program.

This course of study should include the graduate courses to be taken and the undergraduate courses that are replaced by the graduate courses. Failure to put together a solid plan can lead to extra coursework and a lengthening of the Combined Degree program.

It is advisable for the student and the faculty advisor to enter the proposed plan of study in the student communication record on the CDM intranet so it is available to the student and CDM faculty and staff.

Registering for Master’s Degree Courses

Combined degree students must meet regularly with their faculty advisors. The faculty advisor will initiate the registration process for all graduate level courses taken during the undergraduate career.

Bachelor's Degree to Master's Degree Transition

In order to be fully admitted to the designated master's program, the student must meet all admission requirements for that program. When preparing to complete the undergraduate portion of the combined degree, students must submit the application for degree conferment for the undergraduate degree by the application deadline. At this time, the students should contact the CDM Academic Success Center about the procedure required to be formally admitted to the declared graduate program.

Concentration Requirements

Concentrations, tracks and specializations provide focus to the major. In addition to any college core requirements, liberal studies requirements and major requirements, students are required to choose one of the following:

Digital Cinema (BS)

The BS in Digital Cinema at DePaul CDM is an innovative program that seeks to define and to develop the evolving relationship between cinema production technologies and creative artistic expression. The intensive technical emphasis of the Bachelor of Science degree prepares students for work in live-action special effects, 3-D animation, and game development.

Students must take one of the following ethics courses: DC 228/GAM 228/IT 228 (PI), PHL 248/MGT 248 (PI) or REL 228/MGT 228 (RD)

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab or SWK requirement.

Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs. Students who meet the admission requirements below may choose to apply to a combined degree program. Interested students should consult their faculty advisor regarding the application procedure. This program allows students to combine many CDM bachelor's degrees with a CDM master's degree following the structure outlined below.

Admission Criteria

- Minimum of 44 quarter hours earned
- Minimum of 12 quarter hours earned at DePaul
- GPA of 3.3 or higher in courses taken at DePaul
- Endorsement of faculty advisor

In order to apply for the combined degree program, your faculty advisor must send an e-mail recommendation to the CDM Academic Success Center. The recommendation should include your full name, student ID number, and the bachelor's and master's degrees you wish to combine.

Bachelor of Arts in Computing students who are enrolled via the School for New Learning are eligible for this program. Interested students who meet the admission criteria for a combined degree should contact Kenn Skorupa at SNL for more information.

Program Structure

Students in the combined degree program take a maximum of three graduate level courses that count toward both their bachelor's and master's degree requirements. Students may enroll in graduate level coursework in the junior and senior year only. Students in the combined degree program will receive the bachelor's degree after meeting all graduation requirements including the minimum credit hours required for graduation.

To earn the master's degree, the student must earn as many additional graduate credit hours as needed to reach the minimum number of graduate credit hours required in that master's degree.

Only CDM courses can be taken as part of this program. Advanced programs (e.g., JD/MS, MFA, and PhD) are not eligible for the combined degree program.

Maintaining Good Standing

Cumulative GPA and course grades will be reviewed after each Autumn, Winter, and Spring Quarter.

The student and faculty advisor will be notified when the student's cumulative GPA falls below 3.3 or when the students receives less than a C- in graduate level course.

If a student's cumulative GPA falls below 3.3, the student must earn a term GPA of 3.3 or above in the following quarter to stay in good standing. If the student does not achieve a 3.3 term GPA, then the student will be dismissed from the combined program and resume the traditional B.A./B.S./B.F.A.

If dismissed from the combined degree program after graduate courses have been passed, the graduate courses may only apply to the undergraduate degree. Should the student later be admitted to a graduate program, graduate courses applied to the undergraduate degree many not apply to the graduate program and may not be repeated if they are required in the declared graduate curriculum. Other graduate courses may be substituted in this case.
Designing a Course of Study

It is extremely important that the student and faculty advisor work together on a course of study immediately upon admission to the Combined Degree Program.

This course of study should include the graduate courses to be taken and the undergraduate courses that are replaced by the graduate courses. Failure to put together a solid plan can lead to extra coursework and a lengthening of the Combined Degree program.

It is advisable for the student and the faculty advisor to enter the proposed plan of study in the student communication record on the CDM intranet so it is available to the student and CDM faculty and staff.

Registering for Master's Degree Courses

Combined degree students must meet regularly with their faculty advisors. The faculty advisor will initiate the registration process for all graduate level courses taken during the undergraduate career.

Bachelor's Degree to Master's Degree Transition

In order to be fully admitted to the designated master's program, the student must meet all admission requirements for that program. When preparing to complete the undergraduate portion of the combined degree, students must submit the application for degree conferral for the undergraduate degree by the application deadline. At this time, the students should contact the CDM Academic Success Center about the procedure required to be formally admitted to the declared graduate program.

Digital Cinema (Minor)

The minor in Digital Cinema provides students with hands-on experience utilizing the latest digital technology in motion picture production while incorporating classic cinema narrative theory and aesthetics.

Course Requirements

- DC 201 INTRODUCTION TO SCREENWRITING
- DC 205 FOUNDATIONS OF CINEMA FOR NON-MAJORS
- DC 220 EDITING I
- DC 210 DIGITAL CINEMA PRODUCTION I
- 3 courses from the following list:
  - DC 215 INTRODUCTION TO SOUND DESIGN
  - DC 225 DIGITAL STILL PHOTOGRAPHY
  - DC 275 CINEMATOGRAPHY I
  - DC 310 DIGITAL CINEMA PRODUCTION II
  - DC 320 EDITING II

  - DC 323 PRE-PRODUCTION FOR CINEMA
  - DC 349 ACTING FOR FILMMAKERS
  - DC 389 THE BIG PICTURE: THE ENTERTAINMENT INDUSTRY
  - VFX 200 INTRODUCTION TO VISUAL EFFECTS

Students majoring in Digital Cinema (BA) or Digital Cinema (BS) or minoring in Television Production are restricted from earning this minor.
Documentary Studies (Minor)

The Documentary Studies minor is designed to give students a foundation in the field of documentary creation across genres and subject matters. Students may choose to focus on a specific area such as audio or photo documentary.

Course Requirements

Students take a total of six courses.

- MCS 231 INTRODUCTION TO DOCUMENTARY STUDIES
- MCS 383 TALKING ABOUT FILM: THEORY & CRITICISM
- Four remaining classes must be taken from among the following:
  - MCS 373 AUDIO DOCUMENTARY
  - DC 371 DOCUMENTARY PRODUCTION

Dramaturgy/ Criticism (BFA)

The Theatre School’s Bachelor of Fine Arts (BFA) degree in Dramaturgy/Criticism focuses on helping students explore their critical thinking and writing skills for a variety of applications within theatre and other art forms. The four-year curriculum provides students with primary tools – script analysis, dramatic theory and new play development – and opportunity for practical application of those tools in our production process.

Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Demonstrate and apply:
  - General knowledge of theatre history, dramatic literature covering a broad range of historical periods, cultures, and styles, and major theatre artists on both a national and international level.
  - The principles and vocabulary of performance, directing, design, and a thorough grounding in the theory of their particular area of specialization.
- Write with competency in a variety of writing styles from casual to formal.
• Fully engage with knowledge through the ability to access, analyze, and evaluate information and ideas from multiple sources in order to identify underlying arguments and assumptions and to formulate conclusions.
• Utilize existing knowledge to generate and synthesize ideas in original, creative, and imaginative ways.
• Articulate clearly the process of transforming the written text into the theatrical event.
• Design, develop, and execute a noteworthy intellectual and/or creative project.
• Develop a profound understanding of the role of the artist in society.
• Develop an understanding of the cultural and sociopolitical context of theatre from the perspective of both historical and contemporary practice.
• Develop strong self-discipline, self-motivation, and an ability to work independently.
• Work collaboratively and effectively within a group process and with creative artists from all theatrical disciplines.
• Understand the interrelationship of what it means to be human and what it means to be a theatre artist.
• Evaluate ethical issues with respect to theatrical analysis, concept, and practice.
• Contribute artistically to communities through socially responsible engagement and leadership.
• Develop an understanding of and a respect for a multiplicity of cultural and artistic perspectives that may be different from their own.
• Understand the availability and/or scarcity of global resources for a sustainable future.
• Set goals for future work that are the result of rigorous self-appraisal and reflection.
• Articulate their skills and knowledge as they represent themselves to external audiences.
• Work both independently and collaboratively.
• Use technology to create, communicate, and synthesize their ideas.

- PHL 381 DRAMATIC THEORY: TRAGEDY
- PHL 381 DRAMATIC THEORY: TRAGEDY These courses are alternately offered every other spring quarter.
It is also strongly suggested that students take the following
  - Three quarters of language

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

---

Early Childhood Education (BS)

The Bachelor of Science program in Early Childhood Education prepares students to teach children birth through third grade in a variety of urban and suburban education settings, including public and private elementary schools and child care centers.

Students learn educational theories and effective teaching practices, participate in field experiences that require observation and participation in teaching activities at multiple schools, and student teaching. Early Childhood students complete six weeks in a preschool classroom and six weeks in a primary classroom to fulfill their student teaching requirement leading to Illinois licensure. Students should meet early and regularly with their advisors to design and monitor their program of study.

Students entering the program must be able and willing to devote themselves to a minimum of 380 hours of daytime field experiences in schools and child care centers (230 hours in early childhood, including special education settings, and 150 hours in bilingual/ESL education settings). These field-based clinical hours are completed in conjunction with curriculum and strategy courses that require students to participate in teaching activities with children ranging in age from birth through eight years. In addition, the student must successfully complete two six-week periods of full-time student teaching as part of their culminating early childhood education experience.

The program incorporates a required concentration in bilingual education and English as a Second Language (ESL). Upon completion of the program, students are eligible to apply for Endorsements in bilingual education or ESL to be added to their early childhood teaching license. Bilingual Endorsements require a test of proficiency in the non-English language.

The required curriculum prepares students in special education and students are eligible for an Approval in ECE Special Education on their teaching license. This qualifies the individual to teach young children with special needs in a preschool setting (ages 3-6). Additional courses are available to prepare individuals to teach special education for the full range of the license (birth-3, primary grades).

Please make sure you consult the Liberal Studies Requirements, Major Requirements, and College Core Requirements for full degree requirements.

Licensure

Illinois Professional Educator Licensure with Endorsement in Early Childhood Education (birth-grade 3), Early Childhood Special Education Approval for Preschool (ages 3-6), and ESL/Bilingual Endorsement. The Early Childhood Education Program at DePaul is an Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) approved program.

- Use positive relationships and supportive interactions as the foundation for work with young children.
- Know, understand, and use a wide array of effective approaches, strategies, and tools to support children's development and learning.
- Use their own knowledge and other resources to design, implement, and evaluate meaningful, challenging curriculum that promotes comprehensive developmental and learning outcomes for all young children.
- Use their knowledge and understanding of effective verbal, nonverbal, and media communication techniques to foster active inquiry, collaboration, and supportive interaction in the classroom.
- Implement appropriate assessment, instruction, and environment that supports children and youth with disabilities in mainstream/inclusive settings.

- Learn about and use technology, as appropriate for the discipline.
- Use technology to enhance his/her teaching.
- Undertake independent inquiry and use technology as one tool to assist him or her in the overall inquiry process.

College Core Requirements

Dispositions

The academic programs within the College of Education have set forth these dispositions as educational and professional expectations for all students. Students should be aware that failing to abide by DePaul University or College of Education policies including, under certain circumstances, these dispositions, could result in adverse consequences for the student, including removal from his or her program, the College of Education, or the University.

The following dispositions apply to Early Childhood Education, Elementary Education, Physical Education, Secondary Education, and World Language Education majors only:

- Reflects on progress and identifies strengths and weaknesses, including evaluating strategies for success, finding alternatives for inappropriate strategies, and modifying future practices
- Is receptive to faculty feedback and acts meaningfully and professionally upon suggestions
- Values critical thinking, including engaging theoretical and philosophical frameworks and shows evidence of critical thinking through discussion and writing (e.g., journals, response to prompts)
- Understands the importance of and is committed to communicating clearly orally and in writing both in traditional and in new and emerging digital formats
- Values and is committed to continually developing strong content area knowledge and/or knowledge of the professional field, including pedagogical content knowledge
- Takes initiative, uses imagination and creativity, and seeks out information using a variety of human and material resources and technology to inform his or her teaching
- Is aware of the role of classroom environment and uses management procedures that reflect respect and care for learners and concern for their emotional and physical well being
- Takes the time and effort needed to understand how students learn, including discovering their interests and experiences and determining how to shape teaching acts (using technology as appropriate) that engage learners meaningfully and actively
- Values and is committed to using assessment to evaluate and ensure the continuous intellectual, social, emotional, and physical development of the learner
- Respects and considers cultural contexts in order to determine how to be responsive to learners and to proactively promote all students' learning
- Values and is responsive to diverse learners' academic, emotional, and social needs through teaching acts (including careful instructional planning, implementation, and differentiation) and through everyday interactions with students
- Is committed to collaboration with colleagues, families, and communities in order to promote all students' learning and development
- Recognizes and fulfills professional responsibilities and habits of conduct (e.g., dress, language, preparedness, attendance, punctuality, etc.)
- Demonstrates collegiality, honesty, good judgment, courtesy, respect, and diplomacy
- Balances self-confidence and assertiveness with respect for others' perspectives
- Respects the requirements, expectations, and procedures of both the College of Education and of our field partners and appreciates the issues of trust, fairness, and professionalism involved

The following dispositions apply to Special Education majors only:

- Is receptive to faculty feedback and acts meaningfully and professionally upon suggestions
- Reflects on his or her own progress, identifies strengths and weaknesses, and evaluates strategies for success and professional growth
- Takes initiative
- Is open to new ideas and engagement in learning
- Respects diversity and cultural contexts to determine how to be responsive to learners and to proactively promote all students' learning
- Expresses positive attitudes toward individuals with disabilities and a willingness to advocate on their behalf
- Is committed to collaboration with colleagues, families, and communities in order to promote all students' learning and development

- Demonstrates professional ethical and legal behavior as defined by the respective codes of ethics and laws
- Demonstrates consistent professional behavior across all academic settings
- Maintains appropriate interpersonal and professional boundaries
- Accepts personal responsibility for one's behavior
- Expresses feelings and opinions effectively and appropriately
- Upholds confidentiality

Skill Building Courses

Before taking any math or English courses, students must take the DePaul placement tests to determine if skill level is at the college level. If placement indicates skill level in these courses, the courses become part of degree requirements. Consult with your advisor regarding placement test results and any required classes.

Advanced Standing

Students are conditionally admitted to the College of Education. There are additional requirements to reach Advanced Standing in your program in the College of Education. Requirements must be met to progress in the major and take courses in the Advanced Standing category.

Advanced Standing requirements are:

- Maintain a DePaul undergraduate 2.5 GPA
- Pass the Illinois Test of Academic Proficiency (TAP)
- Submit a petition for advanced standing form

Students should attempt to complete the Advanced Standing requirements soon after beginning the program. There is no time limit to meet these criteria; however, students will only be able to take pre-education courses until requirements have been met. Students can also take liberal studies or content area courses before or after meeting Advanced Standing requirements.

Modern Language Competence Requirement

Students pursuing a Bachelor of Arts degree in the College of Education will be required to demonstrate a measure of competence in a modern language, as defined by the college. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing two years of a language sequence in high school
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

Please note: The Modern Language Competence Requirement is not required for students in the Early Childhood Education: SNL Joint Program (BAECE) program.

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Education will abide by the COE Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.

B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program. While B.S. students are not required to demonstrate competency in a modern language, the "Modern Language Option" is available to them for language study at any level.

Licensure Tests

All individuals licensed by the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) are required to complete licensure tests specific to their teaching license.

Field Experiences
Each student seeking licensure from the College of Education/Professional Education Unit must complete supervised field experiences in appropriate settings in conjunction with education courses. The field experiences must include a variety of grade levels, multicultural experiences, and a minimum of 10 hours in special education settings. All field experiences must be completed prior to final approval for student teaching. Field experience hours should be entered by the student into the FEDS system when completing courses with field experience requirements.

Endorsements

An endorsement is a subject area that you can qualify to teach full time, in addition to your main licensure area. Endorsements are issued at three levels: primary, middle school, and high school.

The Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) issues endorsements in various subject areas. To view the full list and requirements, visit the ISBE website.

Qualifying for an endorsement at the middle school level requires 18 semester hours (27 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area and complete SCU 339. Some areas (like math) have specifically required courses or require additional hours. Courses must have a grade of C or better to qualify for endorsements and must be earned credit listed on a college transcript as earned credit.

Consult with your advisor regarding endorsements. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following middle school areas: Arabic, art, bilingual education, biological science, Chinese, ESL, French, general science, German, Italian, Japanese, language arts, math, physical science, social science, Spanish, and special education.

In general, endorsement requirements for the primary level are identical to the middle school requirements except that they do not require SCU 339. There are a limited number of areas available at the primary level.

Qualifying for most endorsements at the high school level requires 24 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area* and passing the relevant content area test. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following high school areas: art, Arabic, Chinese, English, French, German, Italian, Japanese, math, Russian, science, social science, Spanish, and special education.

* Exceptions to the basic requirements for high school level endorsements include the subject areas of foreign language, science, and social science.

 For science and social science, 32 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in the broad area of either science or social science, and 12 semester hours in the specific endorsement designation area, plus the content area test are required. To qualify for additional science and social science designations, individuals applying after February 1, 2012 need both the content test and 12 semester hours in the additional designation area.

Special Education majors do not qualify for middle school endorsements.

Student Teaching Requirements

Student Teaching is the culminating clinical experience in the student's program. All students in teacher preparation programs must meet the following requirements before applying for student teaching:

Academic Requirements:

- Completion of all Liberal Studies, Pre-Education, Advanced Standing and concentration/content area courses
- Overall cumulative G.P.A. of 2.50 or better
- Cumulative GPA of 2.75 or better in all education courses
- Meet all other program requirements (e.g., modern language and residency requirements)
- Meet designated program standards
- Pass the required Illinois licensure content area test

Clinical Requirements:

- Completion of all required field experiences
- Three satisfactory evaluations in field experiences
- Three satisfactory faculty recommendations
- Attendance at mandatory meeting for student teaching
- Application for student teaching, resume, transcripts, and writing sample (check deadlines)
- Review and approval by Student Teaching Committee of the College of Education

Student Teaching Timeline and Deadlines:
- Attend a Mandatory Meeting approximately 1 year prior to expected quarter of student teaching.
- Submit application for student teaching after attending Mandatory Meeting, approximately 1 year prior to student teaching.
- Academic requirements are due one quarter before expected quarter of student teaching.
- Clinical requirements are completed as course requirements. Field experience hours are entered by the student as coursework is completed.

Online Faculty Evaluations are entered by the instructor of relevant courses. All data must be entered in the Field Experience Documentation System (FEDS) due one month prior to student teaching.

Individual child care agencies and public and private school districts may have additional requirements (application, training, background check, etc.).

Degree Conferral and Graduation

The awarding of a degree is not automatic. You must submit an application to be considered for the degree. DePaul awards and posts degrees at the end of each regular academic term (autumn, winter, spring, summer I and summer II).

It is your responsibility to initiate the degree conferral application process by submitting an online application. Submitting an application means you intend to finish your degree requirements by the end of the term for which you have applied.

Undergraduate students must be approved for student teaching and complete student teaching and capstone to be cleared for the degree. Student must submit graduation application for the quarter that matches the quarter you are student teaching.

After you submit the application, you cannot register for any term after the one selected in the application.

Application deadlines are as follows:
- Fall Quarter - October 1st
- Winter Quarter - January 15th
- Spring Quarter - February 1st
- Summer Quarter - July 15th

To apply for degree conferral, log on to Campus Connection. Select STUDENT CENTER, then MY ACADEMICS. On screen instructions will take you through the application process.

Provided that all requirements and financial obligations are met, degrees are posted 30 days after the official end of the term. Official dates are listed on the Academic Calendar.

DePaul holds one commencement ceremony each year in June. If you intend to participate, you must first apply for degree conferral for the current academic year and then submit a cap and gown order. Honors are not announced at the ceremony for undergraduates completing their final courses in spring quarter because a final GPA is not available at the time of the ceremony.

Additional information about degree conferral and graduation can be found on the College of Education website at: http://education.depaul.edu/

Licensure

Requirements for licensure include completion of full bachelor's degree program, all licensure tests (including OPI for world language majors), and awarding of bachelor's degree. A bachelor's degree is required to qualify for licensure and must be awarded before applying for the license.

Individuals must submit an application directly to the Illinois State Board of Education after completion of requirements and after DePaul has submitted notification to ISBE. Application requirements include application form, application fee, official transcripts, and registration fee.

All individuals must meet ISBE requirements in place at the time of application for the license. Requirements are subject to change per the discretion of ISBE. All coursework and requirements pertaining to licensure requirements must be completed before DePaul University can recommend an individual for the license.

Individuals seeking additional endorsements after applying for the licensure must contact ISBE directly for an evaluation request.

All coursework and requirements must be completed before DePaul University can recommend an individual for the license.
Liberal Studies Requirements

Honors program requirements can be found in the individual Colleges & Schools section of the University Catalog. Select Academics, followed by Undergraduate, then Honors Program Alternative.

First Year Program

Chicago Quarter

- LSP 110 DISCOVER CHICAGO
  or LSP 111 EXPLORE CHICAGO

Focal Point

- LSP 112 FOCAL POINT SEMINAR

Writing

- WRD 103 COMPOSITION AND RHETORIC I *
- WRD 104 COMPOSITION AND RHETORIC II *

Quantitative Reasoning & Technological Literacy

- LSP 120 QUANTITATIVE REASONING & TECHNOLOGICAL LITERACY I
- LSP 121 QUANTITATIVE REASONING AND TECHNOLOGICAL LITERACY II
  (Note: See information below.)

Sophomore Year

Multiculturalism in the US

- LSP 200 SEMINAR ON MULTICULTURALISM IN THE UNITED STATES

Junior Year

Experiential Learning

- Met by successful completion of required field experience hours.

Senior Year

Capstone

- ECE 387 CAPSTONE SEMINAR IN EARLY CHILDHOOD EDUCATION
  (Note: This must be taken along with student teaching.)

Learning Domains

Arts and Literature (AL)

- 2 Courses Required

Philosophical Inquiry (PI)

- 2 Courses Required:
  - LSE 380 PHILOSOPHICAL ISSUES IN EDUCATION
Scientific Inquiry (SI)

- 3 Courses Required:
  - 1 BIO
  - 1 CHE/ENV/GEO/PHY
  - 1 Additional Course

  (Note: One course must be a lab or SWK.)

Self, Society and the Modern World (SSMW)

- 3 Courses Required:
  - PSC 120 THE AMERICAN POLITICAL SYSTEM
  - 2 Additional Courses

Religious Dimensions (RD)

- 1 Course Required

Understanding the Past (UP)

- 2 Courses Required
  (Note: One must be in US History.)

* Students must earn a C- or better in this course.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab or SWK requirement.

Major Requirements

Course Requirements

Pre-Education Courses

Theory & Practice Introductory Core: 18 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

- ECE 290 CHILD GROWTH AND DEVELOPMENT
- ECE 280 INTERNSHIP WITH INFANTS AND TODDLERS (2 credit hours) (must be taken with ECE 290)
- ECE 286 ART, MUSIC, AND MOVEMENT FOR THE YOUNG CHILD
- ECE 302 CHILD AND FAMILY IN THE URBAN COMMUNITY
- ECE 303 INTRODUCTION TO EARLY CHILDHOOD EDUCATION

Health and Nutrition: 4 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

- ECE 298 CHILD HEALTH SAFETY AND NUTRITION

Pre-Education Core: 12 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

- SCU 207 SOCIAL AND HISTORICAL ISSUES IN EDUCATION
- EE 347 CHILDREN'S LITERATURE
- ECE 309 YOUNG EXCEPTIONAL CHILD: METHODS AND CHARACTERISTICS

Bilingual/ESL Concentration Courses: 28 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

- ECE 313 CROSS CULTURAL STUDIES IN EARLY CHILDHOOD EDUCATION
- ECE 314 METHODS AND MATERIALS FOR ENGLISH LANGUAGE LEARNERS IN EARLY CHILDHOOD EDUCATION
- ECE 325 SECOND LANGUAGE ACQUISITION AND EARLY LITERACY DEVELOPMENT
- ECE 377 ASSESSMENT OF YOUNG BILINGUAL/ESL STUDENTS
- ECE 383 INTERNSHIP IN ESL/BILINGUAL EDUCATION SETTINGS
- BBE 305 THEORETICAL FOUNDATIONS IN BILINGUAL EARLY CHILDHOOD DEVELOPMENT
- BBE 306 FOUNDATIONS OF ENGLISH AS SECOND LANGUAGE INSTRUCTION IN EARLY CHILDHOOD EDUCATION

Advanced Standing Courses: 36 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

- SCU 336 ADOLESCENT AND ADULT GROWTH AND DEVELOPMENT
- ECE 306 FUNCTIONAL BEHAVIOR ASSESSMENT: POSITIVE BEHAVIORAL SUPPORT AND INTERVENTION METHODS
- ECE 307 SPEECH AND LANGUAGE DEVELOPMENT OF THE YOUNG CHILD
- ECE 310 PREPRIMARY PROGRAMS: CURRICULUM AND STRATEGIES (must be taken with ECE 381)
- ECE 381 INTERNSHIP IN PRESCHOOL SETTING (2 credit hours) (ECE 310 is co-requisite)
- ECE 311 CURRICULUM AND INSTRUCTION IN PRIMARY GRADES (must be taken with ECE 382)
- ECE 382 INTERNSHIP IN PRIMARY SETTING (2 credit hours) (ECE 311 is co-requisite)
- ECE 331 BEGINNING MATH AND SCIENCE INSTRUCTION
- ECE 375 EARLY CHILDHOOD ASSESSMENT
- EE 324 READING/LANGUAGE ARTS IN THE EARLY YEARS

Open Electives: 4 quarter hours required

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours. The following cannot be used to fulfill an open elective: WRD 98, MAT 94, and MAT 95.

Student Teaching: 12 quarter hours required, grade of B- or better required

Registration in student teaching requires completion of all requirements and procedures indicated in the college core section. EDU 95 indicates to the Illinois State Board of Education that all field experience hours are complete. All students also take ECE 387, Capstone Seminar with student teaching (listed in the Liberal Studies section) during the Autumn, Winter or Spring quarters. Early Childhood students complete 6 weeks in a preschool classroom and 6 weeks in a primary classroom

- ECE 385 EARLY CHILDHOOD STUDENT TEACHING (12 credit hours)
- EDU 95 CLINICAL EXPERIENCE WITH CHILDREN AND YOUTH (non-credit, non-tuition, PA grade required)

Licensure Tests

All individuals licensed by the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) are required to complete licensure tests specific to their teaching license. Early Childhood majors must complete the following tests:

- Test of Academic Proficiency (TAP) (test #400) - assesses knowledge of reading comprehension, language arts, writing, and math. Test is required to qualify for Advanced Standing. *Check with your advisor about qualifying for a waiver with acceptable ACT or SAT tests.
- Early Childhood Content Area Test (test #107) – assesses knowledge of the content of what is taught at the early childhood level including language and literacy development, learning across the curriculum, diversity, collaboration, and professionalism in the early childhood program. Test is required before Student Teaching (deadlines apply).

- Assessment of Professional Teaching (APT) – assesses knowledge of teaching planning, delivery, assessment, professionalism, and technology. Test is required to be licensed; recommended that it be taken before Student Teaching.

- EdTPA - assessment conducted during the student teaching experience including video clips of instruction, lesson plans, student work samples, analysis of student learning and reflective commentaries. Students will submit an electronic portfolio to an outside agency for independent evaluation and a fee will be imposed by that agency as part of the assessment.

Early Childhood Education (Minor)

The Early Childhood Education minor provides a learning opportunity to all DePaul Students for those interested in the care and education of young children. Students interested in this minor should consult home college advisors and secure permission from the Early Childhood Program to enroll.

Course Requirements

- Seven courses from the following list selected in consultation with an academic advisor and Early Childhood Program faculty:
  - ECE 286 ART, MUSIC, AND MOVEMENT FOR THE YOUNG CHILD
  - ECE 290 CHILD GROWTH AND DEVELOPMENT
  - ECE 302 CHILD AND FAMILY IN THE URBAN COMMUNITY
  - ECE 303 INTRODUCTION TO EARLY CHILDHOOD EDUCATION
  - ECE 307 SPEECH AND LANGUAGE DEVELOPMENT OF THE YOUNG CHILD
  - ECE 309 YOUNG EXCEPTIONAL CHILD: METHODS AND CHARACTERISTICS
  - ECE 310 PREPRIMARY PROGRAMS: CURRICULUM AND STRATEGIES
  - ECE 375 EARLY CHILDHOOD ASSESSMENT

Note: Students in DePaul's College of Education programs in Elementary Education, Physical Education, Special Education, Secondary Education, or World Language Education cannot select the ECE minor. Students may elect to take courses in this minor or other education courses but it would not lead to an endorsement on their Professional Educator License at the completion of their program, though it may be applied in the future to a post-degree program leading to the addition of an endorsement.

Early Childhood Education: SNL Joint Program (BA)

The Bachelor of Arts in Early Childhood Education (BAECE) is a degree offered jointly by the School for New Learning (SNL) and the College of Education (COE) at DePaul University. The program has been designed to prepare adults to work in early childhood education by obtaining licensure credentials to teach children through third grade. The program is open to students age 24y or older. Students in the BAECE program take courses in both the SNL and the COE.

In the program, students have the opportunity to fulfill requirements through course work and experience relating to liberal arts objectives and early childhood education experience gained in the workplace. In the COE, students take courses that address theories and practices of teaching young children and the skills necessary to obtain the Illinois licensure to teach children from birth to grade three. The program offers the flexibility and individualized learning approach of the SNL while focusing on the latest theory and content provided by the COE.

BAECE students work with COE faculty advisors to complete all requirements for certification and student teaching experiences in preparation for careers in early childhood education. Students are placed in practicum learning environments to enhance their understanding of children's development in language, literacy, mathematics, science, as well as social and physical development across the early childhood span.
The degree is earned by completing 50 competency requirements and teaching licensure requirements. Competency requirements can be met by DePaul courses, equivalent transfer courses, and/or equivalent documented experience. All Education course grades must be C or better; course grades for SNL competencies must be C- or better. COE courses are offered at DePaul's Loop and Lincoln Park campuses, with some available online. SNL courses are available online and at the Loop, Naperville, Oak Forest, and O'Hare campuses.

Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Use independent learning skills and strategies to organize, initiate, and document prior, current, and future college-level learning.
- Design learning strategies to attain goals for personal and educational development.
- Reflect on the learning process and methods used in an experiential project. Articulate the personal and social value of lifelong learning.
- Assess the social and personal value of civic engagement for achieving change.
- Write to analyze, synthesize, and evaluate experiences and concepts to demonstrate competences.
- Analyze issues and reconcile problems through critical and appreciative thinking.
- Use mathematical symbols, concepts, and methods to describe and solve problems.
- Learn collaboratively and examine the skills, knowledge, and values that contribute to such learning.
- Pose questions and use methods of formal inquiry to answer questions and solve problems.
- Analyze a problem using two different ethical systems.
- Define and analyze a creative process.
- Analyze power relations among racial, social, cultural, or economic groups in the United States.
- Analyze issues and problems from a global perspective.
- Describe and explain connections among diverse aspects of nature.

College Core Requirements

Dispositions

The academic programs within the College of Education have set forth these dispositions as educational and professional expectations for all students. Students should be aware that failing to abide by DePaul University or College of Education policies including, under certain circumstances, these dispositions, could result in adverse consequences for the student, including removal from his or her program, the College of Education, or the University.

The following dispositions apply to Early Childhood Education, Elementary Education, Physical Education, Secondary Education, and World Language Education majors only:

- Reflects on progress and identifies strengths and weaknesses, including evaluating strategies for success, finding alternatives for inappropriate strategies, and modifying future practices
- Is receptive to faculty feedback and acts meaningfully and professionally upon suggestions
- Values critical thinking, including engaging theoretical and philosophical frameworks and shows evidence of critical thinking through discussion and writing (e.g., journals, response to prompts)
- Understands the importance of and is committed to communicating clearly orally and in writing both in traditional and in new and emerging digital formats
- Values and is committed to continually developing strong content area knowledge and/or knowledge of the... professional field, including pedagogical content knowledge

- Takes initiative, uses imagination and creativity, and seeks out information using a variety of human and material resources and technology to inform his or her teaching
- Is aware of the role of classroom environment and uses management procedures that reflect respect and care for learners and concern for their emotional and physical well being
- Takes the time and effort needed to understand how students learn, including discovering their interests and experiences and determining how to shape teaching acts (using technology as appropriate) that engage learners meaningfully and actively
- Values and is committed to using assessment to evaluate and ensure the continuous intellectual, social, emotional, and physical development of the learner
- Respects and considers cultural contexts in order to determine how to be responsive to learners and to proactively promote all students' learning
- Values and is responsive to diverse learners' academic, emotional, and social needs through teaching acts (including careful instructional planning, implementation, and differentiation) and through everyday interactions with students
- Is committed to collaboration with colleagues, families, and communities in order to promote all students' learning and development
- Recognizes and fulfills professional responsibilities and habits of conduct (e.g., dress, language, preparedness, attendance, punctuality, etc.)
- Demonstrates collegiality, honesty, good judgment, courtesy, respect, and diplomacy
- Balances self-confidence and assertiveness with respect for others' perspectives
- Respects the requirements, expectations, and procedures of both the College of Education and of our field partners and appreciates the issues of trust, fairness, and professionalism involved

The following dispositions apply to Special Education majors only:

- Is receptive to faculty feedback and acts meaningfully and professionally upon suggestions
- Reflects on his or her own progress, identifies strengths and weaknesses, and evaluates strategies for success and professional growth
- Takes initiative
- Is open to new ideas and engagement in learning
- Respects diversity and cultural contexts to determine how to be responsive to learners and to proactively promote all students' learning
- Expresses positive attitudes toward individuals with disabilities and a willingness to advocate on their behalf
- Is committed to collaboration with colleagues, families, and communities in order to promote all students' learning and development
- Demonstrates professional ethical and legal behavior as defined by the respective codes of ethics and laws
- Demonstrates consistent professional behavior across all academic settings
- Maintains appropriate interpersonal and professional boundaries
- Accepts personal responsibility for one's behavior
- Expresses feelings and opinions effectively and appropriately
- Upholds confidentiality

Skill Building Courses

Before taking any math or English courses, students must take the DePaul placement tests to determine if skill level is at the college level. If placement indicates skill level in these courses, the courses become part of degree requirements. Consult with your advisor regarding placement test results and any required classes.

Advanced Standing

Students are conditionally admitted to the College of Education. There are additional requirements to reach Advanced Standing in your program in the College of Education. Requirements must be met to progress in the major and take courses in the Advanced Standing category.

Advanced Standing requirements are:

- Maintain a DePaul undergraduate 2.5 GPA
- Pass the Illinois Test of Academic Proficiency (TAP)
- Submit a petition for advanced standing form

Students should attempt to complete the Advanced Standing requirements soon after beginning the program. There is no time limit to meet these criteria; however, students will only be able to take pre-education courses until requirements have been met. Students can also take liberal studies or content area courses before or after meeting Advanced Standing requirements.

Modern Language Competence Requirement

Students pursuing a Bachelor of Arts degree in the College of Education will be required to demonstrate a measure of competence in a modern language, as defined by the college. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing two years of a language sequence in high school
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

Please note: The Modern Language Competence Requirement is not required for students in the Early Childhood Education: SNL Joint Program (BAECE) program.

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Education will abide by the COE Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.

B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program. While B.S. students are not required to demonstrate competency in a modern language, the "Modern Language Option" is available to them for language study at any level.

Licensure Tests

All individuals licensed by the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) are required to complete licensure tests specific to their teaching license.

Field Experiences

Each student seeking licensure from the College of Education/Professional Education Unit must complete supervised field experiences in appropriate settings in conjunction with education courses. The field experiences must include a variety of grade levels, multicultural experiences, and a minimum of 10 hours in special education settings. All field experiences must be completed prior to final approval for student teaching. Field experience hours should be entered by the student into the FEDS system when completing courses with field experience requirements.

Endorsements

An endorsement is a subject area that you can qualify to teach full time, in addition to your main licensure area. Endorsements are issued at three levels: primary, middle school, and high school.

The Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) issues endorsements in various subject areas. To view the full list and requirements, visit the ISBE website.

Qualifying for an endorsement at the middle school level requires 18 semester hours (27 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area and complete SCU 339. Some areas (like math) have specifically required courses or require additional hours. Courses must have a grade of C or better to qualify for endorsements and must be earned credit listed on a college transcript as earned credit.

Consult with your advisor regarding endorsements. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following middle school areas: Arabic, art, bilingual education, biological science, Chinese, ESL, French, general science, German, Italian, Japanese, language arts, math, physical science, social science, Spanish, and special education.

In general, endorsement requirements for the primary level are identical to the middle school requirements except that they do not require SCU 339. There are a limited number of areas available at the primary level.

Qualifying for most endorsements at the high school level requires 24 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area* and passing the relevant content area test. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following high school areas: art, Arabic, Chinese, English, French, German, Italian, Japanese, math, Russian, science, social science, Spanish, and special education.

* Exceptions to the basic requirements for high school level endorsements include the subject areas of foreign language, science, and social science.
For science and social science, 32 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in the broad area of either science or social science, and 12 semester hours in the specific endorsement designation area, plus the content area test are required. To qualify for additional science and social science designations, individuals applying after February 1, 2012 need both the content test and 12 semester hours in the additional designation area.

Special Education majors do not qualify for middle school endorsements.

Student Teaching Requirements

Student Teaching is the culminating clinical experience in the student's program. All students in teacher preparation programs must meet the following requirements before applying for student teaching:

Clinical Requirements:

- Completion of all required field experiences
- Three satisfactory evaluations in field experiences
- Three satisfactory faculty recommendations
- Attendance at mandatory meeting for student teaching
- Application for student teaching, resume, transcripts, and writing sample (check deadlines)
- Review and approval by Student Teaching Committee of the College of Education

Student Teaching Timeline and Deadlines:

- Attend a Mandatory Meeting approximately 1 year prior to expected quarter of student teaching.
- Submit application for student teaching after attending Mandatory Meeting, approximately 1 year prior to student teaching.
- Academic requirements are due one quarter before expected quarter of student teaching.
- Clinical requirements are completed as course requirements. Field experience hours are entered by the student as coursework is completed.

Online Faculty Evaluations are entered by the instructor of relevant courses. All data must be entered in the Field Experience Documentation System (FEDS) due one month prior to student teaching.

Individual child care agencies and public and private school districts may have additional requirements (application, training, background check, etc.).

Degree Conferral and Graduation

Licensure

Requirements for licensure include completion of full bachelor’s degree program, all licensure tests (including OPI for world language majors), and awarding of bachelor’s degree. A bachelor’s degree is required to qualify for licensure and must be awarded before applying for the license.

Individuals must submit an application directly to the Illinois State Board of Education after completion of requirements and after DePaul has submitted notification to ISBE. Application requirements include application form, application fee, official transcripts, and registration fee.

All individuals must meet ISBE requirements in place at the time of application for the license. Requirements are subject to change per the discretion of ISBE. All coursework and requirements pertaining to licensure requirements must be completed before DePaul University can recommend an individual for the license.

Individuals seeking additional endorsements after applying for the licensure must contact ISBE directly for an evaluation request.

All coursework and requirements must be completed before DePaul University can recommend an individual for the license.

E-Commerce Technology (Minor)

The E-Commerce Technology minor exposes students to a broad variety of technologies, programming languages and tools focused on building the skill set needed to program and administer an e-commerce website.

- IT 130 INTRODUCTORY COMPUTING FOR THE WEB
- CSC 241 INTRODUCTION TO COMPUTER SCIENCE I
- CSC 242 INTRODUCTION TO COMPUTER SCIENCE II
- IT 231 WEB DEVELOPMENT I
- ECT 330 ADVANCED INTERNET APPLICATION DEVELOPMENT
- ISM 210 INTRODUCTION TO HUMAN-COMPUTER INTERACTION
Economics (BA)

Economics is both a social science discipline and a framework for analyzing production, consumption, and distribution decisions. The goal of the undergraduate curriculum is to offer students the theoretical background necessary to understand business and policy issues, as well as the quantitative and analytical skills necessary to evaluate these issues independently. The Economics Department offers courses that explore topics such as unemployment, inflation, production and distribution, economic growth, environmental issues, poverty, urban and regional development, international trade, labor issues, economic history, and international economic relations.

Courses emphasize the need for accurate knowledge of business institutions and economic phenomena, for theories capable of explaining these phenomena, for estimating relationships among economic variables, and for testing explanations.

Graduates with a major in economics are solidly prepared for employment in the private, public, and non-profit sectors, or for advanced studies in business, law, and economics.

DePaul offers Economics as both a major and minor field of study through both the College of Liberal Arts and Social Sciences and the Driehaus College of Business. An Honors Track option is available to economic majors in both colleges. In addition, the Department of Economics offers the Accelerated Bachelor-Master of Science in Economics and Policy Analysis.

Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Define economic concepts needed to analyze issues in the popular press.
- Identify the function of key economic institutions, such as the Federal Reserve System.
- Apply the supply and demand framework to analyze the impact of exogenous changes on price and output of goods and services.
- Differentiate the pricing and output decisions of firms operating under varying conditions of competition.
- Design and construct a basic macroeconomic model and apply it to illustrate the concept of macroeconomic equilibrium.
- Assess the potential impact of government interventions on individuals, markets and/or the macroeconomy.
- Gain exposure to the application of economic concepts/models in a variety of fields within economics (e.g., Labor Economics, Health Economics, Urban Economics, International Economics, Development Economics, History of Economic Thought, Financial Economics, etc).
College Core Requirements

Study in the Major Field

The student's course of study in the College consists of three parts: Liberal Studies, the major field, and electives. Together these three parts contribute to the liberal education of the student which is the common purpose of all study in the College. By "liberal education" the College understands not only a deep and thorough knowledge of a particular area of study but a knowledge of the diverse areas of study represented by criticism, history, the arts, the behavioral and social sciences, philosophy, religious studies, the natural science, and mathematics.

The major field program generally is built upon a set of core courses and a specialized "concentration." The number of courses required for a major varies by department. Most students go beyond the minimum requirements, electing additional courses which both broaden and deepen their understanding of their chosen discipline.

Because no academic major program is built in isolation, students are required to pursue a number of electives of the student's choice. The inherent flexibility of this curriculum demands that the student consult an academic advisor at each stage in the total program and at least once prior to each registration.

Students will be prompted to visit the College Office for their official graduation check early in their senior year.

Declaration of Major, Minor and Concentration

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor in the major field department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

Students must declare or change majors, minors, and concentrations, via Campus Connection. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the the Office for Academic Advising Support.

The Modern Language Requirement (MLR)

All students will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language (i.e., a language other than English) equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. This Modern Language Requirement (MLR) may be demonstrated by:

- placing into 104 or above on the DePaul language placement exam
- completing the last course or earning AP/IB credit for the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language (e.g. 103 for DePaul language classes)
- completing a college course or earning AP/IB credit for a college course beyond the first-year level in any language (e.g. 104 or above for DePaul language classes)
- completing the final course of a four-year sequence of the same modern language in high school*
- completing a proctored exam by BYU and passing the exam (see the Department of Modern Languages website for registration details)
- completing a proctored Written Proficiency Test (WPT) by Language Testing International (LTI) and achieving a score of Beginner High or above (see the Department of Modern Languages website for registration details)

* Students are strongly encouraged to take the DePaul language placement exam even if they have met the MLR via study of a language in high school. This will ensure continuation of language study at the proper level.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College will abide by this MLR in place on the effective date of the ICT, regardless of when they first matriculated at DePaul.

Students who have met the MLR and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" (MLO) of the Liberal Studies Program (see "Special Programs").

External Credit and Residency

A student who has been admitted to the College begins residency within the college as of the first day of classes of the term in which the student is registered. Students in residence, whether attending on a full-time or part-time basis, may not take courses away from DePaul University without the written permission of the college. Permission must be obtained in advance of registration to avoid loss of credit or residency in the college; see the LAS website for more information.

- MAT 136 BUSINESS CALCULUS II
- MAT 137 BUSINESS STATISTICS (or an equivalent statistics course approved by an Economics advisor).

MAT 135 BUSINESS CALCULUS I is not a requirement for the major but its successful completion is a prerequisite for MAT 136. MAT 135 is approved to count for the Liberal Studies Program's Scientific Inquiry-Elective learning domain.

MAT 150 and MAT 151 may be substituted for MAT 135 and MAT 136.

Curricular Specializations

The eight Economics electives should be selected from the following. The department offers three recommendations for students who would like to focus their studies on one area of expertise. These areas are optional; no curricular specialization is required for the major.

- ECO 336 EXPLORING ECONOMICS & STATISTICS THROUGH SPORTS
- ECO 375 INTRODUCTION TO ECONOMETRICS
- ECO 379 GAME THEORY
- ECO 380 MATHEMATICAL ECONOMICS
- ECO 398 SPECIAL TOPICS: TIME SERIES ANALYSIS

ECO 101, ECO 250 and ECO 395 may not be used as Economics Electives towards a major or minor in Economics.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Students are encouraged to use their open electives to minor or double major in a complementary field of study. A student’s specific interest in economics will dictate the best choice of a minor or double major.

Combined Bachelor’s/ Master’s Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

The Economics (BA) offers two options:

- Economics (B.A.)/Economics and Policy Analysis (M.S.)
- Economics (B.A.)/Secondary Education Social Sciences (M.Ed)

Economics (BA)/ Economics and Policy Analysis (MS)
The M.S. in Economics and Policy Analysis (M.S.-EPA) gives students a distinguished and marketable set of skills in economic theory as it applies to business and economic policy analysis. Students learn how to conduct statistical and econometric research grounded in sound economic models using data from multiple sources on different issues. In addition, students will be able to explain their results and policy recommendations not only to economists, but also to politicians, and the general public.

M.S.-EPA graduates can find employment in the private sector working for corporations in governmental relations departments, in federal and state governmental agencies, in trade associations or lobbying firms, or in the not-for-profit sector.

Undergraduate students will apply to the program during their junior year and will typically take the following three graduate level courses during their senior year:

- ECO 505 ADVANCED MICROECONOMICS
- ECO 515 MICROECONOMICS OF MARKET ORGANIZATION
- ECO 516 ECONOMICS OF THE PUBLIC SECTOR I

These three courses will count towards completion of the B.A. with a major in Economics and will also count towards completion of the M.S.-EPA. The undergraduate degree will be awarded at the completion of all undergraduate work while the M.S.-EPA will be awarded upon completion of the remaining graduate level work.

Economics (BA)/ Secondary Education Social Science (MEd)

The TEACH Program combines a Liberal Arts and Social Sciences (LAS) undergraduate Economics major with a graduate level College of Education (COE) Master’s in Education Program. Students graduate with a B.A. in their disciplinary major and a M.Ed. in Education with State of Illinois Secondary Social Science licensure.

Students may apply to the Program during the spring of their junior year. They must enroll in the Junior Year Experiential Learning course, TCH 320, and meet other application criteria; these include completion of at least 16 quarter credit hours at DePaul and a 3.0 grade point average. During their senior year, students are required to complete a Program capstone course, TCH 390, and three 400-level courses that count toward both their undergraduate and graduate degrees:

- TCH 401 TEACHING AS A PROFESSION IN SECONDARY SCHOOL
- TCH 412 THE NATURE OF HISTORY AND THE SOCIAL SCIENCES
- TCH 422 INQUIRY & APPLICATION IN DEVELOPING SECONDARY HISTORY AND SOCIAL SCIENCES PEDAGOGY

Social Science Content Area (grades of C or better required for licensure):
The following Social Science content area requirements are required. These can be taken as part of the major, liberal studies or open elective requirements:

- HST 298 INTRODUCTION TO HISTORICAL SOURCES AND METHODS
- HST 299 CRAFT OF HISTORY
- 3 United States History courses
- 2 Non- United States History courses
- 6 from the economics major
- Additional licensure requirements: (one course in each area required)
  - Geography (GEO 101 recommended)
  - Political Science (PSC 120 recommended)
  - Psychology (PSY 105 recommended)
  - Sociology (SOC 101 recommended)
  - Anthropology (ANT 102 recommended)

The Master’s year comprises teacher-preparation coursework that culminates with student teaching during Spring quarter. Upon graduation and the fulfilling of State of Illinois licensure requirements (which may require some additional course work in the student’s major and related fields), students are eligible to be licensed to teach Social Sciences at the 6th-12th grade levels.

Economics (BSB)

Economics is both a social science discipline and a framework for analyzing production, consumption, and distribution decisions. The goal of the undergraduate curriculum is to offer students the theoretical background necessary to understand business and policy issues, as well as the quantitative and analytical skills necessary to evaluate these issues independently. The Economics Department offers courses that explore topics such as unemployment, inflation, production and distribution, economic growth, environmental issues, poverty, urban and regional development, international trade, labor issues, economic history, and international economic relations. Courses emphasize the need for accurate knowledge of business institutions and economic phenomena, for theories capable of explaining these phenomena, for estimating relationships among economic variables, and for testing explanations.

Graduates with a major in economics are solidly prepared for employment in the private, public, and non-profit sectors, or for advanced studies in business, law, and economics. The economics major in the College of Business combines the study of economics with the related business fields of accountancy, finance, marketing and management.

DePaul offers Economics as both a major and minor field of study through both the Driehaus College of Business and the College of Liberal Arts and Social Sciences. An Honors Track option is available to economic majors in both colleges. In addition, the Department of Economics offers the Accelerated Bachelor-Master of Science in Economics and Policy Analysis.

  - ECO 361 INTERNATIONAL TRADE
  - ECO 362 INTERNATIONAL MONETARY ECONOMICS
  - ECO 363 ECONOMICS OF THE EUROPEAN UNION
  - FIN 340 INTERNATIONAL FINANCE
  - FIN 394 APPLIED INTERNATIONAL PORTFOLIO MANAGEMENT (2.0 hours)
  - ICS 350 INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS SEMINAR
  - MGT 354 GLOBAL HUMAN RESOURCE MANAGEMENT
  - MGT 357 INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS
  - MKT 340 MARKETING ACROSS CULTURES: A CULTURAL PERSPECTIVE ON MULTICULTURAL MARKETS
  - MKT 358 MARKETING IN A GLOBAL ENVIRONMENT
  - MKT 360 INTERNATIONAL MARKETING
  - A course taken as part of a term-long study abroad program
- One Professional Writing course to be chosen from:
  - WRD 202 PROFESSIONAL WRITING FOR BUSINESS (2.0 hours)
  - WRD 204 TECHNICAL WRITING
  - WRD 206 PROFESSIONAL WRITING

Second Majors and Minors

The addition of a second major or minor may affect the Business Core classes required for a student. Meet with an academic advisor to confirm requirements.

Math Requirements

- A student is expected to complete the business math sequence (MAT 135, MAT 136, and MAT 137) in the first year of study
- MAT 135 and MAT 137 are completed through Liberal Studies requirements
- MAT 135 may be replaced by MAT 150 or MAT 160 or MAT 170
- MAT 136 may be replaced by MAT 151 or MAT 161 or MAT 171
- MAT 135 and MAT 136 may be replaced by the sequence of MAT 147, MAT 148, and MAT 149
• MAT 137 may be replaced by MAT 348 or MAT 351; if done, an additional Scientific Inquiry course must be added to the degree plan.

Grade Minimums for Economics Major

A minimum grade of C- is required for the following: ACC 101, ACC 102, BLW 201, ECO 105, ECO 106, ECO 315, MAT 135, MAT 136, MAT 137, the course used for Professional Writing, and any ECO course used for Global Business Perspective.

Global Business Perspective

If an ECO course is shared between Global Business Perspective and the Economics major, additional hours of Open Elective credit are required.

Liberal Studies Requirements

Declaration Requirements

To declare a major in Economics, a student must meet the following requirements:

- Completion of 28.0 hours at DePaul University
- The following courses must be completed with a minimum grade of C- and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher: ACC 101, ACC 102, BLW 201, ECO 105, ECO 106, MAT 135, MAT 136, and MAT 137
- A minimum cumulative DePaul grade point average of 2.000
- A minimum Economics (ECO) grade point average of 2.000
- No grade of IN, R, or lower than C- in any Economics (ECO) course or course used toward the Economics major
- Completion of ECO 105, ECO 106 and ECO 315 with minimum grades of C-

Course Requirements

In addition to ECO 105, ECO 106 and ECO 315, a student majoring in Economics is required to complete the following courses totaling 30.0 hours:
• Three required courses:
  o ECO 250 CAREER PREPARATION FOR ECONOMICS MAJORS    (2.0 hours)
  o ECO 305 INTERMEDIATE MICROECONOMICS
  o ECO 306 INTERMEDIATE MACROECONOMICS
• Five elective courses to be chosen from:
  o ECO 310 URBAN ECONOMICS
  o ECO 311 BUSINESS AND ECONOMIC FORECASTING
  o ECO 312 THE CHICAGO ECONOMY
  o ECO 313 ECONOMICS OF REGULATION & ANTI TRUST LAWS
  o ECO 314 ECONOMICS OF THE PUBLIC SECTOR
  o ECO 316 EUROPEAN ECONOMIC HISTORY
  o ECO 317 AMERICAN ECONOMIC HISTORY
  o ECO 318 LABOR ECONOMICS AND ORGANIZATION
  o ECO 319 ECONOMICS AND GENDER

  o ECO 363 ECONOMICS OF THE EUROPEAN UNION o ECO 375 INTRODUCTION TO ECONOMETRICS
  o ECO 379 GAME THEORY
  o ECO 380 MATHEMATICAL ECONOMICS
  o ECO 398 SPECIAL TOPICS (multiple topics may be used)
  o ECO 399 INDEPENDENT STUDY

If you are completing a double major or minor in finance, you must take FIN 320 in place of ECO 315.

Other 250 career courses (2.0 hours) offered in the Driehaus College of Business can be used as a substitute for ECO 250.

ECO 101 is intended for non-Driehaus students and cannot be counted toward a major or minor in economics.

ECO 395 may not be taken by students in the Driehaus College of Business.

Open Electives

Open elective credit (16.0 hours) is needed to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Global Business Perspective

If an ECO course is shared between Global Business Perspective and the Economics major, additional hours of Open Elective credit are required.

Degree Conferral Requirements

All Economics (ECO) courses and any courses used toward the Economics major must be completed with a minimum grade of C- and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.
Curricular Specializations

The Department offers three recommendations for students who would like to focus their studies on one area of expertise. These areas are optional; no curricular specialization is required for the major.

- Further coursework in econometrics can be taken from the Kellstadt Graduate School of Business via ECO 399 with departmental permission

Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

Economics (BSB)/ Economics and Policy Analysis (MS)

The MS in Economics and Policy Analysis gives students a distinguished and marketable set of skills in economic theory as it applies to business and policy analysis. Students learn how to conduct statistical and econometric research grounded in sound economic models using data from multiple sources on different issues. In addition, students will be able to explain their results and policy recommendations not only to economists, but also to politicians and the general public.

M.S.-EPA graduates can find employment in the private sector working for corporations in governmental relations departments, in federal and state governmental agencies, in trade associations or lobbying firms, or in the not-for-profit sector.

Undergraduate students will apply to the program during their junior year and will typically take the following three graduate level courses during their senior year:

- ECO 505 ADVANCED MICROECONOMICS
- ECO 515 MICROECONOMICS OF MARKET ORGANIZATION
- ECO 516 ECONOMICS OF THE PUBLIC SECTOR I

These three courses will count towards completion of the BSB with a major in Economics and will also count towards completion of the MS-EPA. The undergraduate degree will be awarded at the completion of all undergraduate work while the MS-EPA will be awarded upon completion of the remaining graduate level work.

Economics (Minor: Business Students Only)

Students in the Driehaus College of Business who wish to gain a deeper understanding of economic theory and practice to complement their majors can do so with a minor in Economics. Students may choose the economics electives that best fit their individual courses of study.

Declaration Requirements

To declare a minor in Economics, a Driehaus student must meet the following requirements:

- A minimum cumulative DePaul grade point average of 2.000
- A minimum Economics grade point average of 2.000
- No grade of IN, R, or lower than C- in any Economics (ECO) course

Course Requirements

In addition to ECO 105, ECO 106 and ECO 315, a Driehaus student minoring in Economics is required to complete the following courses totaling at least 12.0 hours:

Three elective courses to be chosen from:

- ECO 305 INTERMEDIATE MICROECONOMICS
- ECO 306 INTERMEDIATE MACROECONOMICS
- ECO 310 URBAN ECONOMICS
- ECO 311 BUSINESS AND ECONOMIC FORECASTING
- ECO 312 THE CHICAGO ECONOMY
- ECO 313 ECONOMICS OF REGULATION & ANTI TRUST LAWS

- ECO 341 BEHAVIORAL ECONOMICS
- ECO 359 DEVELOPMENT ECONOMICS
- ECO 360 ECONOMICS OF LOW-INCOME COUNTRIES
- ECO 361 INTERNATIONAL TRADE
- ECO 362 INTERNATIONAL MONETARY ECONOMICS
Degree Conferral Requirements

All Economics (ECO) courses and any other courses used toward the Economics minor must be completed with a minimum grade of C- and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.

Economics (Minor: Liberal Arts and Social Sciences)

Undergraduate students in any college can minor in Economics in order to learn the foundations of microeconomic and macroeconomic theory, along with the theoretical, quantitative and analytical skills necessary to understand business and policy issues.

Course Requirements

- ECO 105 PRINCIPLES OF MICROECONOMICS
- ECO 106 PRINCIPLES OF MACROECONOMICS
- Four additional 300 level Economics courses
- ECO 395 CAPSTONE SEMINAR IN ECONOMICS and ECO 250 CAREER PREPARATION FOR ECONOMICS MAJORS may not be used as electives

Students majoring in Economics (BA) or Economics Honors (BA) are restricted from earning this minor.

Economics (Minor)

Available to students outside the Driehaus College of Business, the minor in Economics allows a student to learn the foundations of microeconomic and macroeconomic theory, along with the theoretical, quantitative and analytical skills necessary to understand business and policy issues.

Declaration Requirements

To declare a minor in Economics, a non-Driehaus student must meet the following requirements:

- A minimum cumulative DePaul grade point average of 2.000
- A minimum Economics grade point average of 2.000
- No grade of IN, R, or lower than C- in any Economics (ECO) course
- Completion of a pre-calculus course as a prerequisite to the first course in Economics

Course Requirements

A non-Driehaus student minoring in Economics is required to complete the following courses totaling at least 24.0 hours:

- Two required courses:
  - ECO 105 PRINCIPLES OF MICROECONOMICS
  - ECO 106 PRINCIPLES OF MACROECONOMICS

- Four elective courses to be chosen from:
  - ECO 305 INTERMEDIATE MICROECONOMICS
  - ECO 306 INTERMEDIATE MACROECONOMICS
  - ECO 310 URBAN ECONOMICS
  - ECO 311 BUSINESS AND ECONOMIC FORECASTING
  - ECO 312 THE CHICAGO ECONOMY
  - ECO 313 ECONOMICS OF REGULATION & ANTI TRUST LAWS
  - ECO 314 ECONOMICS OF THE PUBLIC SECTOR
  - ECO 315 INTRODUCTION TO MONEY AND BANKING
  - ECO 316 EUROPEAN ECONOMIC HISTORY
  - ECO 317 AMERICAN ECONOMIC HISTORY
  - ECO 318 LABOR ECONOMICS AND ORGANIZATION
  - ECO 319 ECONOMICS AND GENDER
  - ECO 320 ECONOMICS OF RELIGION
  - ECO 321 LAW & ECONOMICS
  - ECO 322 ECONOMICS AND FINANCIAL POLICY
  - ECO 325 THE ECONOMICS OF POVERTY
  - ECO 326 HEALTH ECONOMICS
  - ECO 330 THE ECONOMICS OF SOCIALISM
  - ECO 333 TOPICS IN GLOBAL ECONOMIES
  - ECO 334 UNDERSTANDING CHINA'S ECONOMY
  - ECO 335 ENERGY AND ENVIRONMENTAL ECONOMICS
  - ECO 336 EXPLORING ECONOMICS & STATISTICS THROUGH SPORTS
  - ECO 340 DEVELOPMENT OF ECONOMIC THOUGHT
  - ECO 341 BEHAVIORAL ECONOMICS
  - ECO 359 DEVELOPMENT ECONOMICS
  - ECO 360 ECONOMICS OF LOW-INCOME COUNTRIES
  - ECO 361 INTERNATIONAL TRADE
  - ECO 362 INTERNATIONAL MONETARY ECONOMICS
  - ECO 363 ECONOMICS OF THE EUROPEAN UNION
  - ECO 375 INTRODUCTION TO ECONOMETRICS
  - ECO 379 GAME THEORY
  - ECO 380 MATHEMATICAL ECONOMICS
  - ECO 398 SPECIAL TOPICS (multiple topics may be used)
  - ECO 399 INDEPENDENT STUDY

ECO 101 cannot be counted toward a major or minor in economics.

ECO 395 Capstone Seminar in Economics may not be used as an Economics Elective.

Degree Conferral Requirements

All Economics (ECO) courses and any other courses used toward the Economics minor must be completed with a minimum grade of C- and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.

Economics Honors (BA)

The Honors Track in Economics is available to students completing the Bachelor of Arts in Economics in the College of Liberal Arts and Social Sciences. It provides the opportunity to pursue a more challenging path of meeting degree requirements. In addition to maintaining a higher GPA, this path requires the demonstration of more quantitative and writing skills than the basic requirements for the Economics major. The student successfully completing this track would graduate with departmental honors.

Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Define economic concepts needed to analyze issues in the popular press.
- Identify the function of key economic institutions, such as the Federal Reserve System.
- Apply the supply and demand framework to analyze the impact of exogenous changes on price and output of goods and services.
- Differentiate the pricing and output decisions of firms operating under varying conditions of competition.
- Design and construct a basic macroeconomic model and apply it to illustrate the concept of macroeconomic equilibrium.
- Assess the potential impact of government interventions on individuals, markets and/or the macroeconomy.
- Gain exposure to the application of economic concepts/models in a variety of fields within economics (e.g., Labor Economics, Health Economics, Urban Economics, International Economics, Development Economics, History of Economic Thought, Financial Economics, etc).

College Core Requirements

Study in the Major Field

The student's course of study in the College consists of three parts: Liberal Studies, the major field, and electives. Together these three parts contribute to the liberal education of the student which is the common purpose of all study in the College. By "liberal education" the College understands not only a deep and through knowledge of a particular area of study but a knowledge of the diverse areas of study represented by criticism, history, the arts, the behavioral and social sciences, philosophy, religious studies, the natural science, and mathematics.

The major field program generally is built upon a set of core courses and a specialized "concentration." The number of courses required for a major varies by department. Most students go beyond the minimum requirements, electing additional courses which both broaden and deepen their understanding of their chosen discipline.

Because no academic major program is built in isolation, students are required to pursue a number of electives of the student's choice. The inherent flexibility of this curriculum demands that the student consult an academic advisor at each stage in the total program and at least once prior to each registration.

Students will be prompted to visit the College Office for their official graduation check early in their senior year.

Declaration of Major, Minor and Concentration

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor in the major field department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

Students must declare or change majors, minors, and concentrations, via Campus Connection. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the the Office for Academic Advising Support.

The Modern Language Requirement (MLR)

All students will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language (i.e., a language other than English) equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. This Modern Language Requirement (MLR) may be demonstrated by:

- placing into 104 or above on the DePaul language placement exam
- completing the last course or earning AP/IB credit for the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language (e.g. 103 for DePaul language classes)
- completing a college course or earning AP/IB credit for a college course beyond the first-year level in any language (e.g. 104 or above for DePaul language classes)
- completing the final course of a four-year sequence of the same modern language in high school*
- completing a proctored exam by BYU and passing the exam (see the Department of Modern Languages website for registration details)
- completing a proctored Written Proficiency Test (WPT) by Language Testing International (LTI) and achieving a score of Beginner High or above (see the Department of Modern Languages website for registration details)

* Students are strongly encouraged to take the DePaul language placement exam even if they have met the MLR via study of a language in high school. This will ensure continuation of language study at the proper level.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College will abide by this MLR in place on the effective date of the ICT, regardless of when they first matriculated at DePaul.

Students who have met the MLR and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" (MLO) of the Liberal Studies Program (see "Special Programs").

External Credit and Residency

A student who has been admitted to the College begins residency within the college as of the first day of classes of the term in which the student is registered. Students in residence, whether attending on a full-time or part-time basis, may not take courses away from DePaul University without the written permission of the college. Permission must be obtained in advance of registration to avoid loss of credit or residency in the college; see the LAS website for more information.

* Students must earn a C- or better in this course.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student’s major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.
Major Requirements

Invitation

Economics majors will be invited each term to participate in the Honors Track if they meet the following criteria:

- Have declared Economics as their major (or second major).
- Have completed ECO 305 INTERMEDIATE MICROECONOMICS and ECO 306 INTERMEDIATE MACROECONOMICS with a minimum grade of B- in each course.
- Have a minimum grade point average (GPA) of 3.300 in all economics courses taken at DePaul.

Course Requirements

- ECO 105 PRINCIPLES OF MICROECONOMICS
- ECO 106 PRINCIPLES OF MACROECONOMICS
- ECO 305 INTERMEDIATE MICROECONOMICS (Minimum grade of B-)
- ECO 306 INTERMEDIATE MACROECONOMICS (Minimum grade of B-)
- ECO 375 INTRODUCTION TO ECONOMETRICS (Minimum grade of B-)
- One advanced economics elective (an ECO course that carries a prerequisite of ECO 305 Intermediate Microeconomic Theory, ECO 306 Intermediate Macroeconomic Theory, or ECO 375 Econometrics). This requirement must be satisfied with a course taken at DePaul. Current courses meeting this requirement are:
  - ECO 311 BUSINESS AND ECONOMIC FORECASTING
  - ECO 313 ECONOMICS OF REGULATION & ANTI TRUST LAWS
  - ECO 314 ECONOMICS OF THE PUBLIC SECTOR
  - ECO 340 DEVELOPMENT OF ECONOMIC THOUGHT
  - ECO 341 BEHAVIORAL ECONOMICS
  - ECO 359 DEVELOPMENT ECONOMICS
  - ECO 398 SPECIAL TOPICS: TIME SERIES ANALYSIS
  - Any other ECO course that carries a prerequisite of ECO 305, ECO 306 or ECO 375
- Six additional Economics courses
- MAT 135 BUSINESS CALCULUS I (taken as a Scientific Inquiry domain course)
- MAT 136 BUSINESS CALCULUS II
- MAT 137 BUSINESS STATISTICS (or an equivalent statistics course approved by an Economics advisor).

Degree Requirements

- Honors Track students must maintain a minimum GPA of 3.300 (B+ average) in all economics courses taken at DePaul.
- Honors Track students must submit a paper written for any economics class that meets the following criteria: (a) the student earned a B+ or better on the paper; (b) the paper contained a literature review based on at least 5 sources; and (c) the paper was at least 10 pages OR used econometrics. This requirement must be satisfied using a paper from a course taken at DePaul. Students should contact the Director of the Undergraduate Economics Program for submission guidelines.

Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

The Economics (BA) offers two options:

- Economics (B.A.)/Economics and Policy Analysis (M.S.)
The M.S. in Economics and Policy Analysis (M.S.-EPA) gives students a distinguished and marketable set of skills in economic theory as it applies to business and economic policy analysis. Students learn how to conduct statistical and econometric research grounded in sound economic models using data from multiple sources on different issues. In addition, students will be able to explain their results and policy recommendations not only to economists, but also to politicians, and the general public.

M.S.-EPA graduates can find employment in the private sector working for corporations in governmental relations departments, in federal and state governmental agencies, in trade associations or lobbying firms, or in the not-for-profit sector.

Undergraduate students will apply to the program during their junior year and will take the following three graduate level courses during their senior year:

- ECO 505 ADVANCED MICROECONOMICS
- ECO 515 MICROECONOMICS OF MARKET ORGANIZATION
- ECO 516 ECONOMICS OF THE PUBLIC SECTOR I

These three courses will count towards completion of the B.A. with a major in Economics and will also count towards completion of the M.S.-EPA. The undergraduate degree will be awarded at the completion of all undergraduate work while the MS-EPA will be awarded upon completion of the remaining graduate level work.

The TEACH Program combines a Liberal Arts and Social Sciences (LAS) undergraduate Economics major with a graduate level College of Education (COE) Master's in Education Program. Students graduate with a B.A. in their disciplinary major and a M.Ed. in Education with State of Illinois Secondary Social Science licensure.

Students may apply to the Program during the spring of their junior year. They must enroll in the Junior Year Experiential Learning course, TCH 320, and meet other application criteria; these include completion of at least 16 quarter credit hours at DePaul and a 3.0 grade point average. During their senior year, students are required to complete a Program capstone course, TCH 390, and three 400-level courses that count toward both their undergraduate and graduate degrees:

- TCH 401 TEACHING AS A PROFESSION IN SECONDARY SCHOOL
- TCH 412 THE NATURE OF HISTORY AND THE SOCIAL SCIENCES
- TCH 422 INQUIRY & APPLICATION IN DEVELOPING SECONDARY HISTORY AND SOCIAL SCIENCES PEDAGOGY

Social Science Content Area (grades of C or better required for licensure):

The following Social Science content area requirements are required. These can be taken as part of the major, liberal studies or open elective requirements:

- HST 298 INTRODUCTION TO HISTORICAL SOURCES AND METHODS
- HST 299 CRAFT OF HISTORY
- 3 United States History courses
- 2 Non-United States History courses
- 6 from the economics major
- Additional licensure requirements: (one course in each area required
  - Geography (GEO 101 recommended)
  - Political Science (PSC 120 recommended)
  - Psychology (PSY 105 recommended)
  - Sociology (SOC 101 recommended)
  - Anthropology (ANT 102 recommended)

The Master's year comprises teacher-preparation coursework that culminates with student teaching during Spring quarter. Upon graduation and the fulfilling of State of Illinois licensure requirements (which may require some additional course work in the student's major and related fields), students are eligible to be licensed to teach Social Sciences at the 6th-12th grade levels.

A full description of the Program can be found on the College of Education website in the graduate course catalog. Students interested in the Program should consult with the designated TEACH Program advisor in their
Economics Honors (BSB)

The Honors Track in Economics is available to students completing the Bachelor of Science in Business with a major in Economics. It provides the opportunity to pursue a more challenging path of meeting degree requirements. In addition to maintaining a higher GPA, this path requires the demonstration of more quantitative and writing skills than the basic requirements for the Economics major. The student successfully completing this track would graduate with departmental honors.

Learning Outcomes

Core Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Use analytical and reflective skills in decision making.
- Communicate effectively both orally and in writing.
- Recognize legal and ethical issues confronting them.
- Contribute to the performance of a group within a business setting.
- Know the differences among global economies, institutions, business practices and cultures.
- Acquire knowledge of the functional areas of business and the interrelationships among the functional areas within a business.

Program Specific Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Understand how the degree on competition in a market affects firm behavior.
- Understand the relationship of macroeconomic variables.
Business Core Requirements

All undergraduate students in the Driehaus College of Business complete foundational courses in the areas of accountancy, mathematics, economics, business law, finance, management, management information systems, and marketing.

Course Requirements

For a student to complete the Bachelor of Science in Business, the following Business Core courses totaling at least 66.0 hours are required:

- ACC 101 INTRODUCTION TO ACCOUNTING I
- ACC 102 INTRODUCTION TO ACCOUNTING II
- BLW 201 LEGAL & ETHICAL ASPECTS IN THE BUSINESS ENVIRONMENT
- ECO 105 PRINCIPLES OF MICROECONOMICS
- ECO 106 PRINCIPLES OF MACROECONOMICS
- ECO 315 INTRODUCTION TO MONEY AND BANKING
- FIN 310 INTRODUCTION TO FINANCE
- MAT 136 BUSINESS CALCULUS II
- MGT 300 PRINCIPLES OF MANAGEMENT
- MGT 301 PRINCIPLES OF OPERATIONS MANAGEMENT
- MIS 140 MANAGEMENT INFORMATION SYSTEMS
- MKT 301 PRINCIPLES OF MARKETING
- MKT 310 CONSUMER BEHAVIOR
- One Business Capstone course to be chosen from:
  - ICS 394 ENTREPRENEURSHIP STRATEGY
  - ICS 395 MANAGEMENT STRATEGY
- One Communication course to be chosen from:
  - MKT 376 EFFECTIVE BUSINESS COMMUNICATION
  - ORGC 201 BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL COMMUNICATION
- Global Business Perspective (4.0 hours) to be chosen from:
  - ECO 316 EUROPEAN ECONOMIC HISTORY
  - ECO 333 TOPICS IN GLOBAL ECONOMIES
  - ECO 334 UNDERSTANDING CHINA'S ECONOMY

  - ECO 361 INTERNATIONAL TRADE
  - ECO 362 INTERNATIONAL MONETARY ECONOMICS
  - ECO 363 ECONOMICS OF THE EUROPEAN UNION
  - FIN 340 INTERNATIONAL FINANCE
  - FIN 394 APPLIED INTERNATIONAL PORTFOLIO MANAGEMENT (2.0 hours)
  - ICS 350 INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS SEMINAR
  - MGT 354 GLOBAL HUMAN RESOURCE MANAGEMENT
  - MGT 357 INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS
  - MKT 340 MARKETING ACROSS CULTURES: A CULTURAL PERSPECTIVE ON MULTICULTURAL MARKETS
  - MKT 358 MARKETING IN A GLOBAL ENVIRONMENT
  - MKT 360 INTERNATIONAL MARKETING
  - A course taken as part of a term-long study abroad program
- One Professional Writing course to be chosen from:
  - WRD 202 PROFESSIONAL WRITING FOR BUSINESS (2.0 hours)
  - WRD 204 TECHNICAL WRITING
  - WRD 206 PROFESSIONAL WRITING

Second Majors and Minors

The addition of a second major or minor may affect the Business Core classes required for a student. Meet with an academic advisor to confirm requirements.

Math Requirements

- A student is expected to complete the business math sequence (MAT 135, MAT 136, and MAT 137) in the first year of study
- MAT 135 and MAT 137 are completed through Liberal Studies requirements
- MAT 135 may be replaced by MAT 150 or MAT 160 or MAT 170
- MAT 136 may be replaced by MAT 151 or MAT 161 or MAT 171
- MAT 135 and MAT 136 may be replaced by the sequence of MAT 147, MAT 148, and MAT 149
• MAT 137 may be replaced by MAT 348 or MAT 351; if done, an additional Scientific Inquiry course must be added to the degree plan.

Grade Minimums for Economics Major

A minimum grade of C- is required for the following: ACC 101, ACC 102, BLW 201, ECO 105, ECO 106, ECO 315, MAT 135, MAT 136, MAT 137, the course used for Professional Writing, and any ECO course used for Global Business Perspective.

Global Business Perspective

If an ECO course is shared between Global Business Perspective and the Economics major, additional hours of Open Elective credit are required.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Major Requirements

Invitation

Economics majors will be invited each term to participate in the Honors Track if they meet the following criteria:

- Have declared Economics as their major (or second major)
- Have completed ECO 305 INTERMEDIATE MICROECONOMICS and ECO 306 INTERMEDIATE MACROECONOMICS with a minimum grade of B- in each course
- Have a minimum GPA of 3.300 in all Economics (ECO) courses taken at DePaul

Course Requirements

In addition to ECO 105, ECO 106 and ECO 315, a student majoring in the Honors Track in Economics is required to complete the following courses totaling 30.0 hours:

- One required course:
  - ECO 250 CAREER PREPARATION FOR ECONOMICS MAJORS (2.0 hours)
- Three required courses with B- minimum grade in each:
  - ECO 305 INTERMEDIATE MICROECONOMICS
  - ECO 306 INTERMEDIATE MACROECONOMICS
  - ECO 375 INTRODUCTION TO ECONOMETRICS
- One Advanced Economics Elective completed at DePaul with a B- minimum grade to be chosen from:
  - ECO 311 BUSINESS AND ECONOMIC FORECASTING
ECO 313 ECONOMICS OF REGULATION & ANTI TRUST LAWS
ECO 314 ECONOMICS OF THE PUBLIC SECTOR
ECO 340 DEVELOPMENT OF ECONOMIC THOUGHT
ECO 341 BEHAVIORAL ECONOMICS
ECO 359 DEVELOPMENT ECONOMICS
Any other ECO course that carries a prerequisite of ECO 305, ECO 306 or ECO 375

- Three electives to be chosen from:
  ECO 310 URBAN ECONOMICS
  ECO 311 BUSINESS AND ECONOMIC FORECASTING
  ECO 312 THE CHICAGO ECONOMY
  ECO 313 ECONOMICS OF REGULATION & ANTI TRUST LAWS
  ECO 314 ECONOMICS OF THE PUBLIC SECTOR
  ECO 316 EUROPEAN ECONOMIC HISTORY
  ECO 317 AMERICAN ECONOMIC HISTORY
  ECO 318 LABOR ECONOMICS AND ORGANIZATION
  ECO 319 ECONOMICS AND GENDER
  ECO 320 ECONOMICS OF RELIGION
  ECO 321 LAW & ECONOMICS
  ECO 322 ECONOMICS AND FINANCIAL POLICY
  ECO 325 THE ECONOMICS OF POVERTY
  ECO 326 HEALTH ECONOMICS
  ECO 330 THE ECONOMICS OF SOCIALISM
  ECO 333 TOPICS IN GLOBAL ECONOMIES
  ECO 334 UNDERSTANDING CHINA'S ECONOMY
  ECO 335 ENERGY AND ENVIRONMENTAL ECONOMICS
  ECO 336 EXPLORING ECONOMICS & STATISTICS THROUGH SPORTS
  ECO 340 DEVELOPMENT OF ECONOMIC THOUGHT
  ECO 341 BEHAVIORAL ECONOMICS
  ECO 360 ECONOMICS OF LOW-INCOME COUNTRIES
  ECO 361 INTERNATIONAL TRADE
  ECO 362 INTERNATIONAL MONETARY ECONOMICS
  ECO 363 ECONOMICS OF THE EUROPEAN UNION
  ECO 379 GAME THEORY
  ECO 380 MATHEMATICAL ECONOMICS
  ECO 398 SPECIAL TOPICS (multiple topics may be used)
  ECO 399 INDEPENDENT STUDY

If you are completing a double major or minor in finance, you must take FIN 320 in place of ECO 315.

Other 250 career courses (2.0 hours) offered in the Driehaus College of Business can be used as a substitute for ECO 250.

ECO 395 may not be taken by students in the Driehaus College of Business.

Open Electives

Open elective credit (16.0 hours) is needed to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Global Business Perspective

If an ECO course is shared between Global Business Perspective and the Economics major, additional hours of Open Elective credit are required.

Additional Requirements

Honors Track students must maintain a minimum GPA of 3.300 (B+ average) in all Economics (ECO) courses taken at DePaul.

Honors Track students must submit a paper written for any economics class that meets the following criteria: (a) the student earned a B+ or better on the paper; (b) the paper contained a literature review based on at least 5 sources; and (c) the paper was at least 10 pages OR used econometrics. This requirement must be satisfied using a paper from a course taken at DePaul. Students should contact the Director of the Undergraduate Economics Program for submission guidelines. The director position is currently held by Associate Professor Laura Owen, lowen@depaul.edu.

Degree Conferral Requirements

All Economics (ECO) courses and any other courses used toward the Economics major must be completed with a minimum grade of C- and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.

Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

Economics (BSB)/ Economics and Policy Analysis (MS)

The MS in Economics and Policy Analysis gives students a distinguished and marketable set of skills in economic theory as it applies to business and policy analysis. Students learn how to conduct statistical and econometric research grounded in sound economic models using data from multiple sources on different issues. In addition, students will be able to explain their results and policy recommendations not only to economists, but also to politicians and the general public.

M.S.-EPA graduates can find employment in the private sector working for corporations in governmental relations departments, in federal and state governmental agencies, in trade associations or lobbying firms, or in the not-for-profit sector.

Undergraduate students will apply to the program during their junior year and will typically take the following three graduate level courses during their senior year:

- ECO 505 ADVANCED MICROECONOMICS
- ECO 515 MICROECONOMICS OF MARKET ORGANIZATION
- ECO 516 ECONOMICS OF THE PUBLIC SECTOR I

These three courses will count towards completion of the BSB with a major in Economics and will also count towards completion of the MS-EPA. The undergraduate degree will be awarded at the completion of all undergraduate work while the MS-EPA will be awarded upon completion of the remaining graduate level work.
Educational Studies (Minor)

The minor is for undergraduates with majors in other fields of study who want to study educational issues but are not pursuing teacher licensure. From a critical and interdisciplinary lens, students enrolled in the minor will study educational thought, policy and practice in relationship to broader social, cultural and political forces, in both school and non-school settings. The minor will help students develop the knowledge and skills necessary to understand and critically analyze the purposes of education and its impact on individuals and the broader society.

Note: College of Education students may apply up to three courses from their major toward the completion of this minor.

Course Requirements

The requirements for the Undergraduate Minor in Educational Studies include completion of six courses among the following:

- SCU 207 SOCIAL AND HISTORICAL ISSUES IN EDUCATION
- LSE 258 EDUCATION AND SOCIAL JUSTICE
- LSE 254 THE POLITICS OF EDUCATION
- LSE 380 PHILOSOPHICAL ISSUES IN EDUCATION
- SCU 337 HUMAN GROWTH AND DEVELOPMENT
- LSE 255 INTERNATIONAL STUDIES IN EDUCATION

Electronics (Minor)

The minor in Electronics provides a grounding in physics and a fundamental technical understanding of linear circuits and digital electronics to enable you to troubleshoot and create basic electronic circuits.

Course Requirements

- PHY 110 BASIC ELECTRONICS: PRINCIPLES & TECHNIQUES
- PHY 231 LINEAR ELECTRIC CIRCUITS
- PHY 232 INTRODUCTION TO DIGITAL ELECTRONICS
- Three additional physics courses

Students cannot earn a minor in the same academic program as their major.

Elementary Education (BS)

The Bachelor of Science program in Elementary Education prepares students to teach Kindergarten through 9th grade in a variety of urban and suburban education settings, including public and private elementary and middle schools.
Students learn educational theories and effective teaching practices, participate in field experiences, which require observation and participation in teaching activities at multiple schools, and student teaching. Students should meet early and regularly with their advisor to design and monitor their program of study.

The program combines theoretical principles of education and field work with the student's choice of major. Students follow a general pattern of study for middle school and high school levels. In all cases, appropriate field experience plays an integral role.

Students entering the program must be able and willing to devote themselves to a program requiring a minimum of 155-170 hours of daytime field experiences in schools. These school-based clinical hours are completed in conjunction with methodology courses that require students to spend a half-day each week in a school. In addition, the student must spend a minimum of 11 weeks in full-time student teaching.

Along with general elementary education courses, EE majors are required to complete a series of courses in a specific concentration in liberal arts. Possible concentration areas include: Anthropology, Arabic, Art, Bilingual Education, Biology, Catholic Studies, Chemistry, Chinese, Communications, Economics, English, Environmental Science, ESL, French, Geography, General Science, German, History, Italian, Japanese, Language Arts, Math, Philosophy, Physical Science, Physics, Political Science, Psychology, Religious Studies, Social Studies, Sociology, and Spanish.

Please make sure you consult the Liberal Studies Requirements, Major Requirements, and College Core Requirements for full degree requirements.

Licensure

Illinois Professional Educator License with endorsement in Elementary Education (self-contained) (kindergarten-grade 9), an Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) approved program.

Learning Outcomes

Core Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Demonstrate interpretive, normative, critical understanding of educational phenomenon and/or praxis through the use of the humanities, social sciences and psychological sciences within the disciplinary foundations of education (anthropology of education, history of education, philosophy of education, psychology of education and sociology of education).
- Demonstrate understanding of the human transformative dimensions of educational phenomenon and/or praxis at the level of the self and/or the social.
- Understand the dynamic nature of identity development and maintain the role of individual agency in bringing about personal and social transformation.
- Understand the multiple subjectivities and social relations of race, ethnicity, class, gender, and sexuality as they define a range of lived experiences and understand pedagogy as a project aimed at helping to realize the greatest range of possibilities for all youth irrespective of differences.

Program Specific Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Know, understand, and use:
  - Major concepts, principles, theories, and research related to the development of children and young adolescents to construct learning opportunities that support individual students' development, acquisition of knowledge, and motivation.
  - Central concepts, tools of inquiry, and structures of content and can create meaningful learning experiences that develop students' competence in subject matter and skills for various developmental levels.
Central concepts, tools of inquiry and structures of content and create meaningful learning experiences that develop subject matter competence and performance skills across developmental levels.

Fundamental concepts in science (physical, life, earth, space sciences), science and technology, science in personal and social perspectives, history and nature of science, unifying concepts of science, scientific inquiry processes.

- Help students learn scientific inquiry, scientific understanding of the natural world, and the nature and utility of science.

- Major concepts, procedures, and reasoning processes of mathematics that define number systems, number sense, geometry, measurement, statistics and probability, and algebra in order to foster patterns, quantities, and spatial relationships that can represent phenomena, solve problems, and manage data.

- Major concepts and modes of inquiry from the social studies—the integrated study of history, geography, the social sciences, and other related areas—to promote elementary students’ abilities to make informed decisions as citizens of a culturally diverse, democratic society and interdependent world.

- Content, functions, and achievements of dance, music, theater, and the visual arts as primary media to promote communication, inquiry, and insight among elementary students, as appropriate to their own knowledge and skill.

- Major concepts in health education to create opportunities for students to develop and practice skills that contribute to good health.

- Human movement and physical activity as central elements to foster active, healthy life styles and enhanced quality of life for elementary students, as appropriate to their own understanding and skills.

- Connections among concepts, procedures, and applications from content areas to motivate elementary students, build understanding, and encourage the application of knowledge, skills, tools, and ideas to real world issues.

- Formal and informal assessment strategies to plan, evaluate, and strengthen instruction that will promote continuous intellectual, social, emotional, and physical development of each student.

- Plan and implement instruction based on knowledge of students, learning theory, subject matter, curricular goals, and community.

- Understand how elementary students differ in their development and approaches to learning and create instructional opportunities that are adapted to diverse students.

- Develop critical thinking, problem solving and performance skills.

- Understand and use a variety of teaching strategies that encourage elementary students’ development of critical thinking, problem solving, and performance skills.

- Use their knowledge and understanding of individual and group motivation and behavior among students to foster active engagement in learning, self-motivation, and positive social interaction and to create supportive learning environments.

- Use their knowledge and understanding of effective verbal, nonverbal, and media communication techniques to foster active inquiry, collaboration, and supportive interaction in the classroom.

- Implement appropriate assessment and instruction that supports students with disabilities in mainstream/inclusive settings.

- Enable students to learn about and to use technology, as appropriate for the discipline.

- Understand and use technology to enhance his/her teaching.

- Design and implement learning engagements that enable all students to build their literacy, as appropriate to the discipline and age level.

- Undertake independent inquiry and use technology as one tool to assist him or her in the overall inquiry process.

- Understand and apply practices and behaviors that are characteristic of developing career teachers.

  - Analyzing and solving instructional problems,
  - Engaging in professional development including technology,
  - Adhering to code of ethics,
  - Understanding interrelationships and interdependencies within the profession.

- Reflect on practice in light of research and available resources for professional development.

  - Evaluate the effects of educational decisions and actions on students, parents and professionals.
  - Actively seek out opportunities to grow professionally.

- Know the importance of establishing and maintaining positive collaboration with families to promote growth and learning in children.

- Foster relationships with school colleagues and agencies in the community to support students’ learning and well-being.
College Core Requirements

Dispositions

The academic programs within the College of Education have set forth these dispositions as educational and professional expectations for all students. Students should be aware that failing to abide by DePaul University or College of Education policies including, under certain circumstances, these dispositions, could result in adverse consequences for the student, including removal from his or her program, the College of Education, or the University.

The following dispositions apply to Early Childhood Education, Elementary Education, Physical Education, Secondary Education, and World Language Education majors only:

- Reflects on progress and identifies strengths and weaknesses, including evaluating strategies for success, finding alternatives for inappropriate strategies, and modifying future practices
- Is receptive to faculty feedback and acts meaningfully and professionally upon suggestions
- Values critical thinking, including engaging theoretical and philosophical frameworks and shows evidence of critical thinking through discussion and writing (e.g., journals, response to prompts)
- Understands the importance of and is committed to communicating clearly orally and in writing both in traditional and in new and emerging digital formats
- Values and is committed to continually developing strong content area knowledge and/or knowledge of the professional field, including pedagogical content knowledge
- Takes initiative, uses imagination and creativity, and seeks out information using a variety of human and material resources and technology to inform his or her teaching
- Is aware of the role of classroom environment and uses management procedures that reflect respect and care for learners and concern for their emotional and physical well being
- Takes the time and effort needed to understand how students learn, including discovering their interests and experiences and determining how to shape teaching acts (using technology as appropriate) that engage learners meaningfully and actively
- Values and is committed to using assessment to evaluate and ensure the continuous intellectual, social, emotional, and physical development of the learner
- Respects and considers cultural contexts in order to determine how to be responsive to learners and to proactively promote all students' learning
- Values and is responsive to diverse learners' academic, emotional, and social needs through teaching acts (including careful instructional planning, implementation, and differentiation) and through everyday interactions with students
- Is committed to collaboration with colleagues, families, and communities in order to promote all students' learning and development
- Recognizes and fulfills professional responsibilities and habits of conduct (e.g., dress, language, preparedness, attendance, punctuality, etc.)
- Demonstrates collegiality, honesty, good judgment, courtesy, respect, and diplomacy
- Balances self-confidence and assertiveness with respect for others' perspectives
- Respects the requirements, expectations, and procedures of both the College of Education and of our field partners and appreciates the issues of trust, fairness, and professionalism involved

The following dispositions apply to Special Education majors only:

- Is receptive to faculty feedback and acts meaningfully and professionally upon suggestions
- Reflects on his or her own progress, identifies strengths and weaknesses, and evaluates strategies for success and professional growth
- Takes initiative
- Is open to new ideas and engagement in learning
- Respects diversity and cultural contexts to determine how to be responsive to learners and to proactively promote all students' learning
- Expresses positive attitudes toward individuals with disabilities and a willingness to advocate on their behalf
- Is committed to collaboration with colleagues, families, and communities in order to promote all students' learning and development
- Demonstrates professional ethical and legal behavior as defined by the respective codes of ethics and laws
- Demonstrates consistent professional behavior across all academic settings
- Maintains appropriate interpersonal and professional boundaries
- Accepts personal responsibility for one's behavior
- Expresses feelings and opinions effectively and appropriately
- Upholds confidentiality

Skill Building Courses

Before taking any math or English courses, students must take the DePaul placement tests to determine if skill level is at the college level. If placement indicates skill level in these courses, the courses become part of degree requirements. Consult with your advisor regarding placement test results and any required classes.

Advanced Standing

Students are conditionally admitted to the College of Education. There are additional requirements to reach Advanced Standing in your program in the College of Education. Requirements must be met to progress in the major and take courses in the Advanced Standing category.

Advanced Standing requirements are:

- Maintain a DePaul undergraduate 2.5 GPA
- Pass the Illinois Test of Academic Proficiency (TAP)
- Submit a petition for advanced standing form

Students should attempt to complete the Advanced Standing requirements soon after beginning the program. There is no time limit to meet these criteria; however, students will only be able to take pre-education courses until requirements have been met. Students can also take liberal studies or content area courses before or after meeting Advanced Standing requirements.

Modern Language Competence Requirement

Students pursuing a Bachelor of Arts degree in the College of Education will be required to demonstrate a measure of competence in a modern language, as defined by the college. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing two years of a language sequence in high school
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

Please note: The Modern Language Competence Requirement is not required for students in the Early Childhood Education: SNL Joint Program (BAECE) program.

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Education will abide by the COE Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.

B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program. While B.S. students are not required to demonstrate competency in a modern language, the "Modern Language Option" is available to them for language study at any level.

Licensure Tests

All individuals licensed by the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) are required to complete licensure tests specific to their teaching license.

Field Experiences

Each student seeking licensure from the College of Education/Professional Education Unit must complete supervised field experiences in appropriate settings in conjunction with education courses. The field experiences must include a variety of grade levels, multicultural experiences, and a minimum of 10 hours in special education settings. All field experiences must be completed prior to final approval for student teaching. Field experience hours should be entered by the student into the FEDS system when completing courses with field experience requirements.

Endorsements

An endorsement is a subject area that you can qualify to teach full time, in addition to your main licensure area. Endorsements are issued at three levels: primary, middle school, and high school.
The Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) issues endorsements in various subject areas. To view the full list and requirements, visit the ISBE website.

Qualifying for an endorsement at the middle school level requires 18 semester hours (27 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area and complete SCU 339. Some areas (like math) have specifically required courses or require additional hours. Courses must have a grade of C or better to qualify for endorsements and must be earned credit listed on a college transcript as earned credit.

Consult with your advisor regarding endorsements. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following middle school areas: Arabic, art, bilingual education, biological science, Chinese, ESL, French, general science, German, Italian, Japanese, language arts, math, physical science, social science, Spanish, and special education.

In general, endorsement requirements for the primary level are identical to the middle school requirements except that they do not require SCU 339. There are a limited number of areas available at the primary level.

Qualifying for most endorsements at the high school level requires 24 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area* and passing the relevant content area test. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following high school areas: art, Arabic, Chinese, English, French, German, Italian, Japanese, math, Russian, science, social science, Spanish, and special education.

* Exceptions to the basic requirements for high school level endorsements include the subject areas of foreign language, science, and social science.

 For science and social science, 32 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in the broad area of either science or social science, and 12 semester hours in the specific endorsement designation area, plus the content area test are required. To qualify for additional science and social science designations, individuals applying after February 1, 2012 need both the content test and 12 semester hours in the additional designation area.

Special Education majors do not qualify for middle school endorsements.

Student Teaching Requirements

Student Teaching is the culminating clinical experience in the student's program. All students in teacher preparation programs must meet the following requirements before applying for student teaching:

Academic Requirements:

- Completion of all Liberal Studies, Pre-Education, Advanced Standing and concentration/content area courses
- Overall cumulative G.P.A. of 2.50 or better
- Cumulative GPA. of 2.75 or better in all education courses
- Meet all other program requirements (e.g., modern language and residency requirements)
- Meet designated program standards
- Pass the required Illinois licensure content area test

Clinical Requirements:

- Completion of all required field experiences
- Three satisfactory evaluations in field experiences
- Three satisfactory faculty recommendations
- Attendance at mandatory meeting for student teaching
- Application for student teaching, resume, transcripts, and writing sample (check deadlines)
- Review and approval by Student Teaching Committee of the College of Education

Student Teaching Timeline and Deadlines:

- Attend a Mandatory Meeting approximately 1 year prior to expected quarter of student teaching.
- Submit application for student teaching after attending Mandatory Meeting, approximately 1 year prior to student teaching.
- Academic requirements are due one quarter before expected quarter of student teaching.
- Clinical requirements are completed as course requirements. Field experience hours are entered by the student as coursework is completed.

Online Faculty Evaluations are entered by the instructor of relevant courses. All data must be entered in the Field Experience Documentation System (FEDS) due one month prior to student teaching.

Individual child care agencies and public and private school districts may have additional requirements (application, training, background check, etc.).
Degree Conferral and Graduation

The awarding of a degree is not automatic. You must submit an application to be considered for the degree. DePaul awards and posts degrees at the end of each regular academic term (autumn, winter, spring, summer I and summer II).

It is your responsibility to initiate the degree conferral application process by submitting an online application. Submitting an application means you intend to finish your degree requirements by the end of the term for which you have applied.

Undergraduate students must be approved for student teaching and complete student teaching and capstone to be cleared for the degree. Student must submit graduation application for the quarter that matches the quarter you are student teaching.

After you submit the application, you cannot register for any term after the one selected in the application.

Application deadlines are as follows:
- Fall Quarter - October 1st
- Winter Quarter - January 15th
- Spring Quarter - February 1st
- Summer Quarter - July 15th

To apply for degree conferral, log on to Campus Connection. Select STUDENT CENTER, then MY ACADEMICS. On screen instructions will take you through the application process.

Provided that all requirements and financial obligations are met, degrees are posted 30 days after the official end of the term. Official dates are listed on the Academic Calendar.

DePaul holds one commencement ceremony each year in June. If you intend to participate, you must first apply for degree conferral for the current academic year and then submit a cap and gown order. Honors are not announced at the ceremony for undergraduates completing their final courses in spring quarter because a final GPA is not available at the time of the ceremony.

Additional information about degree conferral and graduation can be found on the College of Education website at: http://education.depaul.edu/.

Licensure

Requirements for licensure include completion of full bachelor’s degree program, all licensure tests (including OPI for world language majors), and awarding of bachelor’s degree. A bachelor’s degree is required to qualify for licensure and must be awarded before applying for the license.

Individuals must submit an application directly to the Illinois State Board of Education after completion of requirements and after DePaul has submitted notification to ISBE. Application requirements include application form, application fee, official transcripts, and registration fee.

All individuals must meet ISBE requirements in place at the time of application for the license. Requirements are subject to change per the discretion of ISBE. All coursework and requirements pertaining to licensure requirements must be completed before DePaul University can recommend an individual for the license.

Individuals seeking additional endorsements after applying for the licensure must contact ISBE directly for an evaluation request.

All coursework and requirements must be completed before DePaul University can recommend an individual for the license.
Liberal Studies Requirements

Honors program requirements can be found in the individual Colleges & Schools section of the University Catalog. Select Academics, followed by Undergraduate, then Honors Program Alternative.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab or SWK requirement.

Major Requirements

Course Requirements

Pre-Education Core: 16 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

- SCU 207 SOCIAL AND HISTORICAL ISSUES IN EDUCATION
- EE 281 INTRODUCTION TO EDUCATIONAL PRACTICE
- EE 347 CHILDREN'S LITERATURE
- PE 206 PERSONAL AND COMMUNITY HEALTH
  or PE 273 HEALTH AND NUTRITION

Mathematics for Elementary Teachers: 8 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

- MAT 110 FOUNDATIONS OF MATHEMATICS FOR ELEMENTARY SCHOOL TEACHERS I
- MAT 111 FOUNDATIONS OF MATHEMATICS FOR ELEMENTARY SCHOOL TEACHERS II
Concentration Courses: 28 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

A concentration is a single area of study in liberal arts (cannot include coursework in Education).

- 100, 200, 300 level Concentration Course 1
- 100, 200, 300 level Concentration Course 1
- 100, 200, 300 level Concentration Course 1
- 200-300 level Concentration Course 1
- 200-300 level Concentration Course 2
- 200-300 level Concentration Course 3
- 200-300 level Concentration Course 4

Possible concentrations areas include: Anthropology, Arabic, Art, Bilingual Education, Biology, Catholic Studies, Chemistry, Chinese, Communications, Economics, English, Environmental Science, ESL, French, Geography, General Science, German, History, Italian, Japanese, Language Arts, Math*, Philosophy, Physical Science, Physics, Political Science, Psychology, Religious Studies, Social Studies, Sociology or Spanish.

* Students pursuing a Math concentration are required to take:

- MAT 150 CALCULUS I
- MAT 151 CALCULUS II
- MAT 152 CALCULUS III
- MAT 215 INTRODUCTION TO MATHEMATICAL REASONING

Choose 3 of the following:
- MAT 301 HISTORY OF MATHEMATICS
- MAT 303 THEORY OF NUMBERS
- MAT 320 GEOMETRY I
- MAT 348 APPLIED STATISTICAL METHODS
- CSC 211 PROGRAMMING IN JAVA I
- CSC 261 PROGRAMMING IN C++ I

Students in the math concentration will also take MAT 110 and MAT 111 as part of the elementary major.

Advanced Standing Education Courses: 44 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

- SCU 336 ADOLESCENT AND ADULT GROWTH AND DEVELOPMENT
  or SCU 337 HUMAN GROWTH AND DEVELOPMENT
- SCU 338 THE PROCESS AND EVALUATION OF LEARNING or SCU 339 PHILOSOPHY AND PSYCHOLOGY OF YOUTH AND MIDDLE LEVEL EDUCATION
- EE 317 PHYSICAL EDUCATION AND CLASSROOM MANAGEMENT IN THE ELEMENTARY SCHOOL

- EE 344 ART AND MUSIC IN THE ELEMENTARY SCHOOL
- EE 355 METHODS: CONTEMPORARY TEACHING OF SOCIAL STUDIES
- EE 356 ASSESSMENT IN THE ELEMENTARY CLASSROOMS
- LSI 346 STRATEGIES FOR MAINSTREAMING AND INCLUSION

Open Electives: 4 quarter hours required

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours. The following cannot be used to fulfill an open elective: WRD 98, MAT 94, and MAT 95.

Student Teaching: 12 quarter hours required, grade of B- or better required

Registration in student teaching requires completion of all requirements and procedures indicated in the college core section. EDU 95 indicates to the Illinois State Board of Education that all field experience hours are complete. All students also take EE 384, Capstone Experience with student teaching (listed in the Liberal Studies section).

- EE 385 ELEMENTARY STUDENT TEACHING (12 hours)
- EDU 95 CLINICAL EXPERIENCE WITH CHILDREN AND YOUTH (non-credit, non-tuition, PA grade required)

Licensure Tests

DePaul University Autumn 2015-2016 Page 327 of 2665
All individuals licensed by the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) are required to complete licensure tests specific to their teaching license. Elementary majors must complete the following tests:

- Test of Academic Proficiency (TAP) (test #400) - assesses knowledge of reading comprehension, language arts, writing, and math. Test is required to qualify for Advanced Standing. *Check with your advisor about qualifying for a waiver with acceptable ACT or SAT test scores.
- Elementary Content Area Test (test #110) – assesses knowledge of the content of what is taught at the elementary level including language arts and literacy, mathematics, science, social science, the arts, health, and physical education. Test is required before Student Teaching (deadlines apply).
- Assessment of Professional Teaching (APT) – assesses knowledge of teaching planning, delivery, assessment, professionalism, and technology. Test is required to be licensed, recommended to be taken before Student Teaching.
- EdTPA - assessment conducted during the student teaching experience including video clips of instruction, lesson plans, student work samples, analysis of student learning and reflective commentaries. Students will submit an electronic portfolio to an outside agency for independent evaluation and a fee will be imposed by that agency as part of the assessment.

English (BA)

The English major exposes students to a broad range of literatures in English, strengthens their grasp of historical and critical principles, and hones their skill in using the written word. English majors study the major authors, works, genres, and literary movements in the British and American traditions, approaching these texts both analytically and historically. Students in the Creative Writing concentration also take a number of workshops, practicing writing in a variety of literary genres. Both concentrations teach students to read perceptively and to write effectively, to deepen their understanding of the power of language, to think creatively and critically, and to develop an awareness of multiple points of view.

Learning Outcomes

Concentration Specific Outcomes

Literary Studies

Students will be able to:

- Recognize and explain significant themes, stylistic features, and generic conventions associated with literary production in English in a range of historical periods.
- Analyze and discuss (orally and in writing) the complex relationship between literature and its context, including aesthetic, intellectual, political, and social aspects of the historical period in which it was produced.

Creative Writing
Students will be able to:

- Produce original creative work that demonstrates imagination as well as an application of literary technique.
- Demonstrate a practical understanding of how literary texts are made.
- Think critically about how writers combine the material of everyday life with more expansive questions concerning human existence.
- Demonstrate an understanding of some of the many standards by which literary work is judged and apply them to their own and others’ writing.
- Critique other writers’ work and to revise their own writing.

College Core Requirements

Study in the Major Field

The student’s course of study in the College consists of three parts: Liberal Studies, the major field, and electives. Together these three parts contribute to the liberal education of the student which is the common purpose of all study in the College. By “liberal education” the College understands not only a deep and through knowledge of a particular area of study but a knowledge of the diverse areas of study represented by criticism, history, the arts, the behavioral and social sciences, philosophy, religious studies, the natural science, and mathematics.

The major field program generally is built upon a set of core courses and a specialized “concentration.” The number of courses required for a major varies by department. Most students go beyond the minimum requirements, electing additional courses which both broaden and deepen their understanding of their chosen discipline.

Because no academic major program is built in isolation, students are required to pursue a number of electives of the student’s choice. The inherent flexibility of this curriculum demands that the student consult an academic advisor at each stage in the total program and at least once prior to each registration.

Students will be prompted to visit the College Office for their official graduation check early in their senior year.

Declaration of Major, Minor and Concentration

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor in the major field department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

Students must declare or change majors, minors, and concentrations, via Campus Connection. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the Office for Academic Advising Support.

The Modern Language Requirement (MLR)

All students will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language (i.e., a language other than English) equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. This Modern Language Requirement (MLR) may be demonstrated by:

- placing into 104 or above on the DePaul language placement exam
- completing the last course or earning AP/IB credit for the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language (e.g. 103 for DePaul language classes)
- completing a college course or earning AP/IB credit for a college course beyond the first-year level in any language (e.g. 104 or above for DePaul language classes)
- completing the final course of a four-year sequence of the same modern language in high school*
- completing a proctored exam by BYU and passing the exam (see the Department of Modern Languages website for registration details)
- completing a proctored Written Proficiency Test (WPT) by Language Testing International (LTI) and achieving a score of Beginner High or above (see the Department of Modern Languages website for registration details)

* Students are strongly encouraged to take the DePaul language placement exam even if they have met the MLR via study of a language in high school. This will ensure continuation of language study at the proper level.
Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College will abide by this MLR in place on the effective date of the ICT, regardless of when they first matriculated at DePaul.

Students who have met the MLR and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" (MLO) of the Liberal Studies Program (see "Special Programs").

External Credit and Residency

A student who has been admitted to the College begins residency within the college as of the first day of classes of the term in which the student is registered. Students in residence, whether attending on a full-time or part-time basis, may not take courses away from DePaul University without the written permission of the college. Permission must be obtained in advance of registration to avoid loss of credit or residency in the college; see the LAS website for more information.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab or SWK requirement.
Major Requirements

Course Requirements
All English majors must complete the following core courses early in their studies:

- ENG 220 READING POETRY
- ENG 221 READING PROSE

These courses are prerequisites for many of the 300-level courses in the major.

Concentration Requirements
English majors should declare a concentration in Literary Studies or Creative Writing by the time they complete the English core courses. All further course requirements are listed within the two concentrations.

Concentration Requirements
Concentrations, tracks and specializations provide focus to the major. In addition to any college core requirements, liberal studies requirements and major requirements, students are required to choose one of the following:

- Creative Writing
- Literary Studies

Literary Studies Concentration
The Literary Studies concentration broadens and deepens students’ knowledge of literature and language through a range of courses focused on historical periods, literary movements, the structure of language, and critical approaches to literature. Students learn to read works of literature in their historical and cultural contexts; they develop their powers of textual analysis and their critical vocabulary; they examine and question the values expressed in literature; they practice research methods; and they work towards a written style that is clear, precise, and persuasive.

Course Requirements
Completion of ENG 220 and ENG 221 required.

Studies in British Literature
- ENG 328 SHAKESPEARE
- Four courses chosen from:
  - ENG 310 ENGLISH LITERATURE TO 1500
  - or ENG 319 TOPICS IN MEDIEVAL LITERATURE
  - ENG 320 ENGLISH RENAISSANCE LITERATURE
Studies in American Literature

Two courses chosen from:

- ENG 360 AMERICAN LITERATURE TO 1830
- ENG 361 AMERICAN LITERATURE 1830 TO 1865
- ENG 362 AMERICAN LITERATURE FROM 1865 TO 1920
- ENG 363 AMERICAN LITERATURE SINCE 1920
- ENG 369 TOPICS IN AMERICAN LITERATURE

Major Electives

- Five English electives, three of which must be at the 300 level.

Diverse Traditions Requirement

English majors must take at least one course in English designated as "Diverse Traditions." Diverse Traditions courses focus on historically under-represented groups. Qualifying concentration requirements or major electives are designated as "Diverse Traditions" or "DT" courses in the quarterly schedule.

Research Intensive Requirement

English majors who declared their majors after January 1, 2012, must take at least one course in English designated as "Research Intensive." These courses integrate research instruction and assignments with the subject matter of the course. Qualifying concentration requirements or major electives are designated as "Research Intensive" or "RI" in the quarterly schedule.

Creative Writing Concentration

The Creative Writing concentration trains students in writing imaginatively for professional publication. Students strengthen their creative skills in a variety of genres through a series of writing workshops, which they take alongside courses in literary history and analysis. They acquire a solid grounding in literary forms; they learn to think critically and creatively about how writers represent the material of everyday life; they gain insight into writing and audience through the intense study of style, voice, and genre; and they develop an understanding of the standards by which literary works are judged.

Course Requirements

Completion of ENG 220 and ENG 221 required.

Creative Writing

- ENG 201 CREATIVE WRITING
- ENG 290 INTERMEDIATE CREATIVE NONFICTION WRITING or ENG 291 INTERMEDIATE FICTION WRITING or ENG 292 INTERMEDIATE POETRY WRITING
- Three additional writing workshops chosen from:
  - ENG 306 ADVANCED CREATIVE NONFICTION WRITING (may be taken twice)
  - ENG 307 ADVANCED FICTION WRITING (may be taken twice)
  - ENG 308 ADVANCED POETRY WRITING (may be taken twice)
  - ENG 309 ADVANCED TOPICS IN WRITING (repeatable with different topics)
Literary Analysis

- One 300-level literature course chosen from:
  - ENG 310 ENGLISH LITERATURE TO 1500
  - ENG 311 CHAUCER
  - ENG 319 TOPICS IN MEDIEVAL LITERATURE
  - ENG 320 ENGLISH RENAISSANCE LITERATURE
  - ENG 327 MILTON
  - ENG 328 SHAKESPEARE
  - ENG 329 TOPICS IN RENAISSANCE LITERATURE
  - ENG 330 RESTORATION AND 18TH CENTURY LITERATURE
  - ENG 339 TOPICS IN RESTORATION AND 18TH CENTURY ENGLISH LITERATURE
  - ENG 340 NINETEENTH CENTURY BRITISH LITERATURE
  - ENG 346 NINETEENTH CENTURY IRISH LITERATURE
  - ENG 349 TOPICS IN NINETEENTH CENTURY BRITISH LITERATURE
  - ENG 350 MODERN BRITISH LITERATURE
  - ENG 354 THE IRISH REVIVAL
  - ENG 355 MODERN IRISH LITERATURE
  - ENG 357 TOPICS IN IRISH STUDIES
  - ENG 359 TOPICS IN MODERN BRITISH LITERATURE
  - ENG 360 AMERICAN LITERATURE TO 1830
  - ENG 361 AMERICAN LITERATURE 1830 TO 1865
  - ENG 362 AMERICAN LITERATURE FROM 1865 TO 1920
  - ENG 363 AMERICAN LITERATURE SINCE 1920
  - ENG 364 TOPICS IN GENRE STUDIES
  - ENG 365 MODERN AMERICAN FICTION
  - ENG 366 MODERN POETRY
  - ENG 367 TOPICS IN AMERICAN STUDIES
  - ENG 369 TOPICS IN AMERICAN LITERATURE
  - ENG 371 TOPICS IN AFRICAN AMERICAN LITERATURE
  - ENG 373 MULTIETHNIC LITERATURE OF THE U.S.
  - ENG 374 NATIVE AMERICAN LITERATURE
  - ENG 375 STUDIES IN SHORT FICTION
  - ENG 379 TOPICS IN LITERATURE
  - ENG 380 MASTERPIECES OF WORLD LITERATURE
  - ENG 381 LITERARY THEORY
  - ENG 382 MAJOR AUTHORS
  - ENG 383 WOMEN AND LITERATURE
  - ENG 384 TOPICS IN LATINO/A LITERATURE
  - ENG 386 POPULAR LITERATURE
  - ENG 387 TOPICS IN CONTEMPORARY LITERATURE
  - ENG 388 TOPICS IN TRANSATLANTIC LITERATURE
  - ENG 389 TOPICS IN COMPARATIVE LITERATURE
  - ENG 397 NEWBERRY LIBRARY SEMINAR

- One major author course chosen from:
  - ENG 311 CHAUCER
  - ENG 327 MILTON
  - ENG 328 SHAKESPEARE
  - ENG 382 MAJOR AUTHORS

- One literary history course chosen from:
  - ENG 310 ENGLISH LITERATURE TO 1500
  - ENG 319 TOPICS IN MEDIEVAL LITERATURE
  - ENG 320 ENGLISH RENAISSANCE LITERATURE
  - ENG 329 TOPICS IN RENAISSANCE LITERATURE

  - ENG 362 AMERICAN LITERATURE FROM 1865 TO 1920
  - ENG 363 AMERICAN LITERATURE SINCE 1920
  - ENG 369 TOPICS IN AMERICAN LITERATURE

Major Electives

Four English electives, at least three of which must be at the 300 level.
Diverse Traditions Requirement

English majors must take at least one course in English designated as "Diverse Traditions." Diverse Traditions courses focus on historically under-represented groups. Qualifying concentration requirements or major electives are designated as "Diverse Traditions" or "DT" courses in the quarterly schedule.

Research Intensive Requirement

English majors who declared their majors after January 1, 2012, must take at least one course in English designated as "Research Intensive." These courses integrate research instruction and assignments with the subject matter of the course. Qualifying concentration requirements or major electives are designated as "Research Intensive" or "RI" in the quarterly schedule.

Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

The English (BA) offers three options:

- English (BA)/English (MA)
- English (BA)/Writing and Publishing (MA)
- English (BA)/Secondary Education English (MEd)

English (BA)/ English (MA)

Students apply to this program in the last quarter of their junior-year status; interested students should meet with the Director of the program. Applicants must have a minimum grade point average of 3.50 in English and 3.30 overall, and should have completed at least ENG 220, ENG 221, and two additional 300-level English courses. Students in this program take twelve graduate credit hours in their senior year; these graduate courses apply toward both undergraduate and graduate English requirements.

English (BA)/Writing and Publishing (MA)

Students apply to this program in the last quarter of their junior-year status; interested students should meet with the Director of the program. Applicants must have a minimum grade point average of 3.50 in English and 3.30 overall and must have completed at least ENG 220, ENG 221, and two creative writing workshops beyond ENG 201 at the time of beginning the program. Students in this program take twelve graduate credit hours in their senior year; these graduate courses apply toward both undergraduate and graduate program requirements.

English (BA)/ Secondary Education English (MEd)

The TEACH Program combines a Liberal Arts and Social Sciences (LAS) undergraduate English major with a graduate level College of Education (COE) Master's in Education Program. Students graduate with a BA in English and an MEd in Education with State of Illinois Secondary English Language Arts licensure. This combined degree program of the College of Liberal Arts and Social Sciences, the College of Science and Health, and the College of Education was collaboratively developed, and is governed and taught by faculty from these units.

Students may apply to the Program during the spring of their junior year. They must complete the Junior Year Experiential Learning course, TCH 320, and meet other application criteria prior to applying; these include completion of at least 16 quarter credit hours at DePaul and a 3.0 GPA. During their senior year, students are required to complete a Program capstone course, TCH 390, and three 400-level courses that count toward both their undergraduate and graduate degrees.
The following English content area requirements are required and should be taken as either part of the major or open elective requirements (grades of C or better are required for licensure):

- Introduction to Literature course: ENG 120 or 200-level LSP English course
- Reading Poetry course: ENG 220 or ENG 366
- Shakespeare course: ENG 221
- Literary Research and Writing/Reading Prose course: ENG 221
- Linguistics/Grammar/History of the English Language course: ENG 211, ENG 370, WRD 203, ENG 300, WRD 300, WRD 323, or WRD 340
- Three British Literature courses chosen from: ENG 245, any British Literature course in the 310s-350s sequence, any topics course in the 319s-359s sequence, ENG 382 (when focused on British authors), ENG 383 (when focused on British authors), ENG 387 (when focused on British literature), ENG 388 (when focused on British literature)
- American Literature 1830-1865 course: ENG 361
- Two American Literature courses chosen from: ENG 265, ENG 271, ENG 276, ENG 360, ENG 362, ENG 363, ENG 365, ENG 369, ENG 371, ENG 373, ENG 374, ENG 376, ENG 382 (when focused on American authors), ENG 383 (when focused on American authors), ENG 387 (when focused on American literature), ENG 388 (when focused on American literature), ENG 389 (when focused on American literature)
- Two 300-level Literature elective courses (with permission, an upper-level writing course may be substituted)
- Fulfillment of the Diverse Traditions Requirement
- Five of these courses must be at the 300-level

The Master’s year comprises teacher-preparation coursework that culminates with student teaching during Spring quarter. Upon graduation and the fulfillment of State of Illinois Licensure requirements (which may require some additional course work in the student’s major and related fields), students are eligible to be licensed to teach English at the 9th-12th grade levels.

A full description of the Program can be found on the College of Education website in the graduate course catalog. Students interested in the Program should consult Dr. Robert Meyer, TEACH Program Advisor for English.

---

English as a Second Language (Minor)

The English as a Second Language (ESL) minor provides a learning opportunity to all DePaul students for those interested in working with second language learners. Students gain a comprehensive and in-depth understanding of second-language acquisition, as well as related educational theories and practices.

Students interested in this minor should consult home college advisors and secure permission from the Bilingual-Bicultural Education Program to enroll.

Course Requirements

7 courses are required for the minor:

- BBE 310 SPECIAL TOPICS IN LANGUAGE EDUCATION AND CULTURE
- BBE 304 LANGUAGE, LITERACY AND CULTURE
- or BBE 370 SECOND & WORLD LANGUAGE LITERACIES AND CULTURES
- BBE 307 EQUITY ISSUES IN ASSESSMENT OF LANGUAGE LEARNERS
- BBE 324 METHODS OF TEACHING ESL
- BBE 325 BILITERACY PRACTICES IN BILINGUAL EDUCATION AND ESL
- BBE 326 THEORETICAL FOUNDATIONS OF ESL AND WLE
- BBE 366 FIRST AND SECOND LANGUAGE ACQUISITION
- or BBE 360 SECOND, WORLD AND HERITAGE LANGUAGE ACQUISITION K-12
Minor in ESL with ESL Endorsement

This option is only available to undergraduates in the College of Education pursuing ISBE Licensure.

The minor with endorsement requires the above 7 courses PLUS 100 fieldwork hours (including registration in BBE 96)

- BBE 96 100 FIELD EXPERIENCE HOURS IN ESL / BE DOCUMENTED

Note: Individuals interested in pursuing a minor in bilingual and a minor in ESL need to select the combined ESL-Bilingual (ESL-BE) minor. Individuals cannot earn a separate minor for both areas.

English as a Second Language/ Bilingual Education (ESL-BE) (Minor)

The combined English as a Second Language (ESL) and Bilingual Education (BE) minor provides a learning opportunity to all DePaul students interested in working with second language learners. Students gain a comprehensive and in-depth understanding of second language acquisition, as well as related educational theories and practices.

Students interested in this minor should consult home college advisors and secure permission from the Bilingual-Bicultural Education Program to enroll.

Course Requirements

8 courses are required for the minor:

- BBE 310 SPECIAL TOPICS IN LANGUAGE EDUCATION AND CULTURE
- BBE 304 LANGUAGE, LITERACY AND CULTURE
  or BBE 370 SECOND & WORLD LANGUAGE LITERACIES AND CULTURES
- BBE 307 EQUITY ISSUES IN ASSESSMENT OF LANGUAGE LEARNERS
- BBE 316 SOCIOCULTURAL AND HISTORICAL PERSPECTIVES IN BILINGUAL EDUCATION
- BBE 324 METHODS OF TEACHING ESL
- BBE 325 BILITERACY PRACTICES IN BILINGUAL EDUCATION AND ESL
- BBE 326 THEORETICAL FOUNDATIONS OF ESL AND WLE
- BBE 366 FIRST AND SECOND LANGUAGE ACQUISITION
  or BBE 360 SECOND, WORLD AND HERITAGE LANGUAGE ACQUISITION K-12

Minor in ESL/ Bilingual Education with Bilingual Endorsement

This option is only available to undergraduates in the College of Education pursuing ISBE Licensure.

The minor with endorsement requires the above 8 courses PLUS 100 fieldwork hours (including registration in BBE 96) and a passing score on the Target Language Proficiency Test.

- BBE 96 100 FIELD EXPERIENCE HOURS IN ESL / BE DOCUMENTED

ISBE Licensure Division endorses in any target language for which tests are available through ILTS. If a language test through ILTS does not exist for bilingual endorsement, candidates may substitute the Foreign Language Content-Area test.
English Literature (Minor)

English literature minors study the major authors, works, genres, and literary movements, approaching them both analytically and historically.

Course Requirements

- Six courses in English literature. At least three courses must be at the 300-level, and no more than one course may be at the 100-level. ENG 220 READING POETRY and ENG 221 READING PROSE are strongly recommended but not required; these courses are prerequisites to many 300-level English courses.

Students majoring in English or minoring in Creative Writing are restricted from earning this minor.

Environmental Science (BS)

The B.S. degree in Environmental Science is a broad, science-based curriculum designed to prepare students for a variety of environmentally-related technical careers, as well as for graduate programs in environmental and allied fields. The program requires 192 credit hours and draws upon the faculty and resources of several departments. Majors take core courses in Biology, Chemistry, Environmental Science, Mathematics, and Physics, advanced study in Environmental Science and five University-wide electives.

Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Understand how the natural world functions as an interconnected system consisting of the biosphere, hydrosphere, atmosphere and lithosphere.
- Understand how these interconnected systems affect human wellbeing and, in turn, how humans impact the natural world.
- Understand and critically evaluate the science behind the complex environmental problems that humans currently face both locally and globally.
- Understand the challenges and opportunities associated with different landscapes, ranging from densely urban to wilderness, with a focus on urban sustainability.
- Design and conduct a scientific investigation using appropriate tools and techniques to gather, analyze, and interpret data.
- Communicate in oral and written form the results of their scientific investigations.
- Collect and handle data/samples in a manner that displays understanding of the basic safety procedures in the field and laboratory.
- Draft, evaluate, and interpret technical documents on environmental analyses.
- Identify and apply the concepts and methods from an allied science field.
- Understand the concepts and methods of assessing and evaluating sustainability practices in various social... and political institutions.

- Comprehend historical and ethical foundations of sustainability from the local to global.

College Core Requirements

Modern Language Requirements

Students who intend to graduate with the Bachelor of Arts (B.A.) Degree will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in the fourth-year high school sequence of any language
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Science and Health will abide by the College of Science and Health Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.

B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program. While Bachelor of Science (B.S.) students are not required to demonstrate competency in a modern language, the "Modern Language Option" is available to them for language study at any level.

Major Declaration Requirements

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. After researching College programs, the student should declare a major field by visiting Campus Connection and using the Declarations and Inter-College Transfer tool. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor or staff advisor in the department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

To change major fields, or to declare a minor or concentration, the student must use the Declarations and Inter-College Transfer tool described above. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the College or an academic advisor in the Office for Academic Advising Support.

Liberal Studies Requirements

Honors program requirements can be found in the individual Colleges & Schools section of the University Catalog. Select Academics, followed by Undergraduate, then Honors Program Alternative.

Notes
Students with a primary major in Environmental Science are required to complete the Capstone offered by the Environmental Science department. Students double majoring or pursuing dual degrees with the primary major or primary degree in Environmental Science are required to complete the Capstone offered by the Environmental Science department. Environmental Science students in the University Honors Program shall take the University Honors Capstone. They are not expected to take both the Honors Capstone and the primary major or primary degree Capstone.

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. (Courses in the range 150-199 are exceptions to this rule.) If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

*Students in the University Honors Program and students with a double major may be required to take a different Capstone. If this is the case, they may choose to substitute ENV 350 as one of their required 300-level ENV courses or as an open elective.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

Environmental Science/ Studies (BA/ BS)/ Master of Science in Sustainable Management (MSSM)

The combined degree provides environmental science/studies students with advanced knowledge of business systems and practices, focusing on environmental sustainability, to create leaders for business, government and civic organizations. For more information on the full Master of Science in Sustainable Management curriculum, go to MSSM degree requirements found within the graduate programs section of the University Catalog.

Admission Requirements

Current DePaul Environmental Science or Studies majors who meet the following criteria may apply to this program:

* Junior standing or higher (at least 88.0 credits)
* A minimum cumulative DePaul grade point average of 3.300

Admission to the combined program does not require the GMAT, essays, or letters of recommendation.

Classes During Senior Year

If accepted into the combined program, students will take three graduate classes during the senior year. These three graduate classes at 12 quarter hours will count toward the bachelor's degree - as indicated below - and toward the master's degree.

Students must apply for degree conferral in order to be eligible to graduate with either the B.A. in environmental studies or the B.S. in environmental science before matriculating into the MSSM program.

Students are limited to applying a maximum of three graduate courses as 12 quarter hours toward both the bachelor's and master's degrees. Students should note that expectations for graduate classes are typically more rigorous than for undergraduate classes. Students can choose from the following list of core MSSM courses; other options available upon consultation with the MSSM advisor.

Final Quarter of Senior Year

During the final quarter of the bachelor's degree, students must petition for formal admission into the Kellstadt Graduate School of Business. The admission criteria are as follows:

* Completion of the Bachelor of Arts in Environmental Studies or Bachelor of Science in Environmental Science
* A minimum cumulative DePaul grade point average of 3.300
* A minimum grade point average for graduate courses of 3.000.
* Student must apply for undergraduate degree conferral of their Environmental Science or Studies program in anticipation of completing their fourth year of study.

After Senior Year

After completion of the undergraduate degree including the three graduate courses, students take nine additional graduate classes to complete the graduate degree, for a total of twelve graduate classes. Information on the MSSM degree can be found in the graduate program degree requirements section of the University Catalog.

For an application to the combined program (at the end of your junior year) or to learn more about it, please contact the chair of the Environmental Science and Studies department.

Environmental Science (BS)/Secondary Education Environmental Science (MEd)
This combined degree program of the College of Science and Health and the College of Education was collaboratively developed, and is governed and taught by faculty from these units.

Students may apply to the Program during the spring of their junior year. They must enroll in the Junior Year Experiential Learning course, TCH 320, and meet other application criteria; these include completion of at least 16 quarter credit hours at DePaul and a 3.0 GPA. During their senior year, students are required to complete a Program capstone course, TCH 390, and three 400-level courses that count toward both their undergraduate and graduate degrees:

- TCH 401 TEACHING AS A PROFESSION IN SECONDARY SCHOOL
- TCH 414 THE NATURE OF SCIENCE
- TCH 424 INQUIRY & APPLICATION IN DEVELOPING SECONDARY SCIENCE PEDAGOGY

Environmental Science Content Area (grades of C or better required for licensure):
The following environmental content area requirements are required. These can be taken as part of the major, liberal studies or open elective requirements:

- BIO 191 GENERAL BIOLOGY I FOR SCIENCE MAJORS
- BIO 192 GENERAL BIOLOGY II FOR SCIENCE MAJORS
- BIO 193 GENERAL BIOLOGY III FOR SCIENCE MAJORS
- CHE 130 GENERAL CHEMISTRY I and CHE 131 GENERAL CHEMISTRY I LABORATORY

  - ENV 320 CONSERVATION BIOLOGY
  - ENV 322 ECOSYSTEM ECOLOGY
  - ENV 340 URBAN ECOLOGY
  - ENV 345 URBAN AGRICULTURE
  - ENV 355 INTRODUCTION TO ENVIRONMENTAL HEALTH

The Master's year comprises teacher-preparation coursework that culminates with student teaching during Spring quarter. Upon graduation and the fulfilling of State of Illinois licensure requirements (which may require some additional coursework in the student's major and related fields), students are eligible to be licensed to teach Environmental Science at the 6th-12th grade levels.

A full description of the Program can be found on the College of Education website in the graduate course catalog. Students interested in the Program should consult with the designated TEACH Program advisor in their home department.

Environmental Science (Minor)

The Environmental Science minor offers students the strongest background in the science behind environmental issues. Students will understand and explore the natural world and our interactions within the natural and built environment.
Course Requirements

- ENV 102 INTRO TO ENVIRONMENTAL SCIENCE WITH LAB (may be replaced with an upper-level course; check with an ENV advisor or the department chair)
- ENV 216 EARTH SYSTEM SCIENCE
- ENV 217 HUMAN IMPACTS ON THE ENVIRONMENT
- ENV 250 APPLIED ECOLOGY
- Two additional ENV courses from the following list. At least one must be a 300-level course.
  - ENV 200 CITIES AND THE ENVIRONMENT
  - ENV 204 ENERGY AND THE ENVIRONMENT
  - ENV 230 GLOBAL CLIMATE CHANGE
  - ENV 300 PLANT IDENTIFICATION
  - ENV 310 ENVIRONMENTAL SOIL SCIENCE
  - ENV 315 PLANT ECOLOGY
  - ENV 316 CHEMISTRY OF EARTH SYSTEMS
  - ENV 320 CONSERVATION BIOLOGY
  - ENV 322 ECOSYSTEM ECOLOGY
  - ENV 340 URBAN ECOLOGY
  - ENV 344 ENVIRONMENTAL JUSTICE AND ADVOCACY
  - ENV 355 INTRODUCTION TO ENVIRONMENTAL HEALTH
  - ENV 390 SPECIAL TOPICS IN ENVIRONMENTAL SCIENCE

Students cannot earn a minor in the same academic program as their major.

Environmental Studies (BA)

The B.A. degree in Environmental Studies provides students with a holistic education on environmental topics that includes the natural and social sciences as well as the humanities. The degree allows students to connect with present and emerging environmental problems in a uniquely interdisciplinary manner, and will prepare them for positions in environmental management and in environmentally themed non-profit organizations, to bring an environmental perspective to any career, as well as preparing them for further studies. The degree is focused on the comprehensive study of human interaction with the natural environment.

The B.A. degree offers students a choice of two concentrations: A standard concentration and a sustainability concentration. Within the sustainability concentration, students can further choose an urban sustainability focus. Students selecting the sustainability concentration will recognize the concept of "sustainability" as a dynamic condition characterized by the interdependency among physical, biological, economic, and social systems.

Students choosing the urban sustainability focus will be able to identify the concepts and methods of environmental economics, environmental politics, ethics, design, and human geography relevant to the sustainability of environmental resources and social institutions in urban settings; as well as recognize and understand the functions of sustainable institutions created for water, land, air, and urban management at multiple spatial and temporal scales.

Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Understand how the natural world functions as an interconnected system consisting of the biosphere, hydrosphere, atmosphere and lithosphere.
- Understand how these interconnected systems affect human wellbeing and in turn, how humans impact the natural world.
- Understand and critically evaluate the science behind the complex environmental problems that humans currently face both locally and globally.
- Understand the challenges and opportunities associated with different landscapes ranging from densely urban to wilderness with a focus on urban sustainability.
- Identify the scientific, political, economic, social and ethical components of both the causes and solutions to environmental issues.
- Put into practice interdisciplinary skills gained in fields encompassing communication, the social sciences and humanities.
- Articulate the relationship between global poverty, security, social justice, and environmental degradation.

College Core Requirements

Modern Language Requirements

Students who intend to graduate with the Bachelor of Arts (B.A.) Degree will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in the fourth-year high school sequence of any language
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Science and Health will abide by the College of Science and Health Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.

B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program. While Bachelor of Science (B.S.) students are not required to demonstrate competency in a modern language, the "Modern Language Option" is available to them for language study at any level.

Major Declaration Requirements

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. After researching College programs, the student should declare a major field by visiting Campus Connection and using the Declarations and Inter-College Transfer tool. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor or staff advisor in the department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

To change major fields, or to declare a minor or concentration, the student must use the Declarations and Inter-College Transfer tool described above. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the College or an academic advisor in the Office for Academic Advising Support.

* Students must earn a C- or better in this course.

Notes
Students with a primary major in Environmental Studies are required to complete the Capstone offered by the Environmental Studies department. Students double majoring or pursuing dual degrees with the primary major or primary degree in Environmental Studies are required to complete the Capstone offered by the Environmental Studies department. Environmental Studies students in the University Honors Program shall take the University Honors Capstone. They are not expected to take both the Honors Capstone and the primary major or primary degree Capstone.

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy
Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required.

Major Requirements

Course Requirements
- ENV 150 FOUNDATIONS OF ENVIRONMENTAL STUDIES
- ENV 152 ECOLOGICAL AND SOCIAL ECONOMICS
- ENV 216 EARTH SYSTEM SCIENCE
- ENV 217 HUMAN IMPACTS ON THE ENVIRONMENT
- ENV 250 APPLIED ECOLOGY
- ENV 294 SECOND YEAR SEMINAR (2 quarter credits)
- CHE 103 ENVIRONMENTAL CHEMISTRY
- ENV 350 ENVIRONMENTAL SCIENCE AND STUDIES CAPSTONE (Liberal Studies Program Capstone*)

Concentration Requirements
Students must also complete the requirements from one of the following concentrations: Standard or Sustainability. Students are limited to only declaring one concentration.

* Students in the University Honor Program and students with a double major may be required to take a different Capstone. If this is the case, they may choose to substitute ENV 350 as one of their required 300-level ENV courses or as an open elective.

Concentration Requirements

Concentrations, tracks and specializations provide focus to the major. In addition to any college core requirements, liberal studies requirements and major requirements, students are required to choose one of the following:

- Standard
- Sustainability

Standard Concentration

Course Requirements

- Three Natural Sciences courses from the following list. At least one must be non-SI:
  - ENV 200 CITIES AND THE ENVIRONMENT
  - ENV 204 ENERGY AND THE ENVIRONMENT
  - ENV 230 GLOBAL CLIMATE CHANGE
  - ENV 240 INTRODUCTION TO HORTICULTURE
  - ENV 300 PLANT IDENTIFICATION

  - ENV 320 URBAN ECOLOGY
  - ENV 355 INTRODUCTION TO ENVIRONMENTAL HEALTH

- Three or Four Social Sciences from the following list. (If ENV 150 is waived by advisor, then four must be completed.)
  - At least one of the following:
    - INTC 325 PROMOTING SUSTAINABLE PRACTICES
    - INTC 326 ENVIRONMENTAL POLITICS AND RHETORIC
  - At least two of the following (if both INTC 325 and INTC 326 are taken, then at least one of the following):
    - ENV 151 INTRODUCTION TO SUSTAINABILITY
    - ENV 235 ENVIRONMENTAL EDUCATION AND STEWARDSHIP
    - ENV 245 URBAN AND COMMUNITY AGRICULTURE
    - ENV 344 ENVIRONMENTAL JUSTICE AND ADVOCACY

- At least two Humanities courses from the following list:
  - ENV 160 IDEAS OF NATURE
  - ENV 170 ENVIRONMENTAL ETHICS
  - ENV 180 ISSUES IN ENVIRONMENTAL DESIGN
  - ENV 181 LANDSCAPE AND MEANING

See your advisor about ENV 390 SPECIAL TOPICS IN ENVIRONMENTAL SCIENCE.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.
Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

Environmental Science/ Studies (BA/ BS)/ Master of Science in Sustainable Management (MSSM)

The combined degree provides environmental science/studies students with advanced knowledge of business systems and practices, focusing on environmental sustainability, to create leaders for business, government and civic organizations. For more information on the full Master of Science in Sustainable Management curriculum, go to MSSM degree requirements found within the graduate programs section of the University Catalog.

Admission Requirements

Current DePaul Environmental Science or Studies majors who meet the following criteria may apply to this program:

- Junior standing or higher (at least 88.0 credits)
- A minimum cumulative DePaul grade point average of 3.300

Admission to the combined program does not require the GMAT, essays, or letters of recommendation.

Classes During Senior Year

If accepted into the combined program, students will take three graduate classes during the senior year. These three graduate classes at 12 quarter hours will count toward the bachelor's degree - as indicated below - and toward the master's degree.

Students must apply for degree conferral in order to be eligible to graduate with either the B.A. in environmental studies or the B.S. in environmental science before matriculating into the MSSM program.

Students are limited to applying a maximum of three graduate courses as 12 quarter hours toward both the bachelor's and master's degrees. Students should note that expectations for graduate classes are typically more rigorous than for undergraduate classes. Students can choose from the following list of core MSSM courses; other options available upon consultation with the MSSM advisor.

Final Quarter of Senior Year

During the final quarter of the bachelor’s degree, students must petition for formal admission into the Kellstadt Graduate School of Business. The admission criteria are as follows:

- Completion of the Bachelor of Arts in Environmental Studies or Bachelor of Science in Environmental Science
- A minimum cumulative DePaul grade point average of 3.300
- A minimum grade point average for graduate courses of 3.000
- Student must apply for undergraduate degree conferral of their Environmental Science or Studies program in anticipation of completing their fourth year of study.

After Senior Year

After completion of the undergraduate degree including the three graduate courses, students take nine additional graduate classes to complete the graduate degree, for a total of twelve graduate classes. Information on the MSSM degree can be found in the graduate program degree requirements section of the University Catalog.

For an application to the combined program (at the end of your junior year) or to learn more about it, please contact the chair of the Environmental Science and Studies department.

Environmental Studies (Minor)

The Environmental Studies minor offers students a broad, interdisciplinary overview of topics linking environmental science to human behavior and society.

Course Requirements

- ENV 102 INTRO TO ENVIRONMENTAL SCIENCE WITH LAB
- ENV 150 FOUNDATIONS OF ENVIRONMENTAL STUDIES
- One from the following list:
  - ENV 160 IDEAS OF NATURE
  - ENV 170 ENVIRONMENTAL ETHICS
  - PHL 235 PHILOSOPHY AND THE ENVIRONMENT

  - ENV 355 INTRODUCTION TO ENVIRONMENTAL HEALTH
The Exercise Science (EXS) degree program includes a knowledge base in the scientific principles that underlie human movement and requires the development of basic skills in exercise assessment, prescription and programming in healthy and special populations, performance enhancement, prevention and treatment of sports injuries, nutritional principles applied to exercise and sport, patient/client interpersonal relations and professional ethics and behavior.

Students receiving this degree are qualified to pursue careers in areas such as cardiopulmonary rehabilitation, strength and conditioning, corporate fitness, sports medicine, community health and wellness, and personal training or can pursue graduate work in numerous fields related to the health, fitness, and exercise sciences.

The American College of Sport Medicine (ACSM), as the professional organization that establishes guidelines and competencies for the field of Exercise Science, serves as the guiding professional organization for program academic quality.

Students should meet early and regularly with their advisor to design and monitor their program of study.

Please make sure you consult the Liberal Studies Requirements, Major Requirements, Concentration Requirements, and College Core Requirements for full degree requirements.

Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Know how the human body moves, based on the knowledge of muscles, bones, connective tissues and the related physical laws of movement.

  Evaluate and prescribe exercise as a therapeutic modality based on concepts and theories of exercise physiology.

- Ensure that programs they may work in are comprehensive and follow professional standards based on their understanding of the central aspects of exercise science program design.

- Gain an appreciation of how basic human behavior impacts their professional goal of ensuring that all individuals become "physically educated."

- Provide high quality fitness evaluations and goal setting for a variety of individuals based on knowledge and skills in assessment and testing.

- Know and appreciate appropriate safety issues, injury prevention protocols, and gain certification in emergency procedures needed for the settings they will be employed.

- Gain knowledge of health and nutrition as they relate to healthy individuals as well as those involved in sports and exercise.
College Core Requirements

Dispositions

The academic programs within the College of Education have set forth these dispositions as educational and professional expectations for all students. Students should be aware that failing to abide by DePaul University or College of Education policies including, under certain circumstances, these dispositions, could result in adverse consequences for the student, including removal from his or her program, the College of Education, or the University.

The following dispositions apply to Early Childhood Education, Elementary Education, Physical Education, Secondary Education, and World Language Education majors only:

- Reflects on progress and identifies strengths and weaknesses, including evaluating strategies for success, finding alternatives for inappropriate strategies, and modifying future practices
- Is receptive to faculty feedback and acts meaningfully and professionally upon suggestions
- Values critical thinking, including engaging theoretical and philosophical frameworks and shows evidence of critical thinking through discussion and writing (e.g., journals, response to prompts)
- Understands the importance of and is committed to communicating clearly orally and in writing both in traditional and in new and emerging digital formats
- Values and is committed to continually developing strong content area knowledge and/or knowledge of the professional field, including pedagogical content knowledge
- Takes initiative, uses imagination and creativity, and seeks out information using a variety of human and material resources and technology to inform his or her teaching
- Is aware of the role of classroom environment and uses management procedures that reflect respect and care for learners and concern for their emotional and physical well being
- Takes the time and effort needed to understand how students learn, including discovering their interests and experiences and determining how to shape teaching acts (using technology as appropriate) that engage learners meaningfully and actively
- Values and is committed to using assessment to evaluate and ensure the continuous intellectual, social, emotional, and physical development of the learner
- Respects and considers cultural contexts in order to determine how to be responsive to learners and to proactively promote all students' learning
- Values and is responsive to diverse learners' academic, emotional, and social needs through teaching acts (including careful instructional planning, implementation, and differentiation) and through everyday interactions with students
- Is committed to collaboration with colleagues, families, and communities in order to promote all students' learning and development
- Recognizes and fulfills professional responsibilities and habits of conduct (e.g., dress, language, preparedness, attendance, punctuality, etc.)
- Demonstrates collegiality, honesty, good judgment, courtesy, respect, and diplomacy
- Balances self-confidence and assertiveness with respect for others' perspectives
- Respects the requirements, expectations, and procedures of both the College of Education and of our field partners and appreciates the issues of trust, fairness, and professionalism involved

The following dispositions apply to Special Education majors only:

- Is receptive to faculty feedback and acts meaningfully and professionally upon suggestions
- Reflects on his or her own progress, identifies strengths and weaknesses, and evaluates strategies for success and professional growth
- Takes initiative
- Is open to new ideas and engagement in learning
- Respects diversity and cultural contexts to determine how to be responsive to learners and to proactively promote all students' learning
- Expresses positive attitudes toward individuals with disabilities and a willingness to advocate on their behalf
- Is committed to collaboration with colleagues, families, and communities in order to promote all students' learning and development
- Demonstrates professional ethical and legal behavior as defined by the respective codes of ethics and laws
- Demonstrates consistent professional behavior across all academic settings
- Maintains appropriate interpersonal and professional boundaries
- Accepts personal responsibility for one's behavior
- Expresses feelings and opinions effectively and appropriately
- Upholds confidentiality

Skill Building Courses

Before taking any math or English courses, students must take the DePaul placement tests to determine if skill level is at the college level. If placement indicates skill level in these courses, the courses become part of degree requirements. Consult with your advisor regarding placement test results and any required classes.

Advanced Standing

Students are conditionally admitted to the College of Education. There are additional requirements to reach Advanced Standing in your program in the College of Education. Requirements must be met to progress in the major and take courses in the Advanced Standing category.

Advanced Standing requirements are:

- Maintain a DePaul undergraduate 2.5 GPA
- Pass the Illinois Test of Academic Proficiency (TAP)
- Submit a petition for advanced standing form

Students should attempt to complete the Advanced Standing requirements soon after beginning the program. There is no time limit to meet these criteria; however, students will only be able to take pre-education courses until requirements have been met. Students can also take liberal studies or content area courses before or after meeting Advanced Standing requirements.

Modern Language Competence Requirement

Students pursuing a Bachelor of Arts degree in the College of Education will be required to demonstrate a measure of competence in a modern language, as defined by the college. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing two years of a language sequence in high school
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

Please note: The Modern Language Competence Requirement is not required for students in the Early Childhood Education: SNL Joint Program (BAECE) program.

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Education will abide by the COE Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.

B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program. While B.S. students are not required to demonstrate competency in a modern language, the "Modern Language Option" is available to them for language study at any level.

Licensure Tests

All individuals licensed by the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) are required to complete licensure tests specific to their teaching license.

Field Experiences

Each student seeking licensure from the College of Education/Professional Education Unit must complete supervised field experiences in appropriate settings in conjunction with education courses. The field experiences must include a variety of grade levels, multicultural experiences, and a minimum of 10 hours in special education settings. All field experiences must be completed prior to final approval for student teaching. Field experience hours should be entered by the student into the FEDS system when completing courses with field experience requirements.

Endorsements

An endorsement is a subject area that you can qualify to teach full time, in addition to your main licensure area. Endorsements are issued at three levels: primary, middle school, and high school.
The Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) issues endorsements in various subject areas. To view the full list and requirements, visit the ISBE website.

Qualifying for an endorsement at the middle school level requires 18 semester hours (27 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area and complete SCU 339. Some areas (like math) have specifically required courses or require additional hours. Courses must have a grade of C or better to qualify for endorsements and must be earned credit listed on a college transcript as earned credit.

Consult with your advisor regarding endorsements. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following middle school areas: Arabic, art, bilingual education, biological science, Chinese, ESL, French, general science, German, Italian, Japanese, language arts, math, physical science, social science, Spanish, and special education.

In general, endorsement requirements for the primary level are identical to the middle school requirements except that they do not require SCU 339. There are a limited number of areas available at the primary level.

Qualifying for most endorsements at the high school level requires 24 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area* and passing the relevant content area test. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following high school areas: art, Arabic, Chinese, English, French, German, Italian, Japanese, math, Russian, science, social science, Spanish, and special education.

* Exceptions to the basic requirements for high school level endorsements include the subject areas of foreign language, science, and social science.

 For science and social science, 32 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in the broad area of either science or social science, and 12 semester hours in the specific endorsement designation area, plus the content area test are required. To qualify for additional science and social science designations, individuals applying after February 1, 2012 need both the content test and 12 semester hours in the additional designation area.

Special Education majors do not qualify for middle school endorsements.

Student Teaching Requirements

Student Teaching is the culminating clinical experience in the student's program. All students in teacher preparation programs must meet the following requirements before applying for student teaching:

Academic Requirements:

- Completion of all Liberal Studies, Pre-Education, Advanced Standing and concentration/content area courses
- Overall cumulative G.P.A. of 2.50 or better
- Cumulative GPA. of 2.75 or better in all education courses
- Meet all other program requirements (e.g., modern language and residency requirements)
- Meet designated program standards
- Pass the required Illinois licensure content area test

Clinical Requirements:

- Completion of all required field experiences
- Three satisfactory evaluations in field experiences
- Three satisfactory faculty recommendations
- Attendance at mandatory meeting for student teaching
- Application for student teaching, resume, transcripts, and writing sample (check deadlines)
- Review and approval by Student Teaching Committee of the College of Education

Student Teaching Timeline and Deadlines:

- Attend a Mandatory Meeting approximately 1 year prior to expected quarter of student teaching.
- Submit application for student teaching after attending Mandatory Meeting, approximately 1 year prior to student teaching.
- Academic requirements are due one quarter before expected quarter of student teaching.
- Clinical requirements are completed as course requirements. Field experience hours are entered by the student as coursework is completed.

Online Faculty Evaluations are entered by the instructor of relevant courses. All data must be entered in the Field Experience Documentation System (FEDS) due one month prior to student teaching.

Individual child care agencies and public and private school districts may have additional requirements (application, training, background check, etc.).
Degree Conferral and Graduation

The awarding of a degree is not automatic. You must submit an application to be considered for the degree. DePaul awards and posts degrees at the end of each regular academic term (autumn, winter, spring, summer I and summer II).

It is your responsibility to initiate the degree conferral application process by submitting an online application. Submitting an application means you intend to finish your degree requirements by the end of the term for which you have applied.

Undergraduate students must be approved for student teaching and complete student teaching and capstone to be cleared for the degree. Student must submit graduation application for the quarter that matches the quarter you are student teaching.

After you submit the application, you cannot register for any term after the one selected in the application.

Application deadlines are as follows:
- Fall Quarter - October 1st
- Winter Quarter - January 15th
- Spring Quarter - February 1st
- Summer Quarter - July 15th

To apply for degree conferral, log on to Campus Connection. Select STUDENT CENTER, then MY ACADEMICS. On screen instructions will take you through the application process.

Provided that all requirements and financial obligations are met, degrees are posted 30 days after the official end of the term. Official dates are listed on the Academic Calendar.

DePaul holds one commencement ceremony each year in June. If you intend to participate, you must first apply for degree conferral for the current academic year and then submit a cap and gown order. Honors are not announced at the ceremony for undergraduates completing their final courses in spring quarter because a final GPA is not available at the time of the ceremony.

Additional information about degree conferral and graduation can be found on the College of Education website at: http://education.depaul.edu/.

Licensure

Requirements for licensure include completion of full bachelor’s degree program, all licensure tests (including OPI for world language majors), and awarding of bachelor’s degree. A bachelor’s degree is required to qualify for licensure and must be awarded before applying for the license.

Individuals must submit an application directly to the Illinois State Board of Education after completion of requirements and after DePaul has submitted notification to ISBE. Application requirements include application form, application fee, official transcripts, and registration fee.

All individuals must meet ISBE requirements in place at the time of application for the license. Requirements are subject to change per the discretion of ISBE. All coursework and requirements pertaining to licensure requirements must be completed before DePaul University can recommend an individual for the license.

Individuals seeking additional endorsements after applying for the licensure must contact ISBE directly for an evaluation request.

All coursework and requirements must be completed before DePaul University can recommend an individual for the license.
Liberal Studies Requirements

Honors program requirements can be found in the individual Colleges & Schools section of the University Catalog. Select Academics, followed by Undergraduate, then Honors Program Alternative.

  - 1 Additional Course

Religious Dimensions (RD)

- 2 Courses Required

Understanding the Past (UP)

- 2 Courses Required
  (Note: One must be US History)

* Students must earn a C- or better in this course.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab or SWK requirement.

Finance (BSB)

DePaul's Finance program will provide you with a solid foundation in financial management and an understanding of public and private financial processes, financial markets, analysis and investments.

As a Finance major, you will take courses in:

- Corporate finance
- Financial statements analysis
- Investment theory and practice
You will also take multiple elective courses. Depending on your career goals, you may take a series of courses that focus on one of the following areas:

- Banking and financial services
- Corporate financial management
- Investment analysis/management
- Risk management

DePaul’s Driehaus College of Business is located in downtown Chicago, in the heart of the city's financial district, providing you with countless opportunities to intern and work professionally with leading companies in the business industry. You are encouraged to complete an internship with a Chicago-area business during the summer preceding either your junior or senior year.

Finance Honors (BSB)

The honors program in finance is reserved for students of high promise and exceptional ability. Students admitted to this program are characterized by outstanding academic performance, exceptional leadership capability, high aptitude for superior academic work and exceptional ability for making meaningful contributions during a professional career.

Honors students in finance proceed through the program together in a cohort system with peers who have similar exceptional abilities. Courses reserved for honors students are advanced in nature, student-oriented, and small. Students in the program are afforded the opportunity to interact with leaders from finance and business communities in small settings.

Major Requirements

Admission Requirements

Admission to the honors program in finance is dependent on a student's academic performance through the winter quarter of the junior year. The honors program requires that students have:

- An overall GPA of 3.300 or better
- Earned a B+ or better in FIN 310
- Officially declared finance as a major

Students with an overall GPA of 3.300 and a minimum grade of B+ in FIN 310 may apply for admission into the program. The admissions committee will consider the student's GPA, grade in FIN 310 as well as other evidence of superior academic performance for admission into the program.

Declaration Requirements

To declare a major in Finance Honors, a student must meet the following requirements:

- Acceptance into the Finance Honors program
- Completion of 28.0 hours at DePaul University
- The following courses must be completed with a minimum grade of C- and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher: ACC 101, ACC 102, BLW 201, ECO 105, ECO 106, MAT 135, MAT 136, and MAT 137
- A minimum cumulative DePaul grade point average of 3.300
- A minimum Finance (FIN) grade point average of 2.700
- No grade of IN, R, or lower than C- in any Finance (FIN) course or course used toward the Finance major
- Completion of FIN 310 with a minimum grade of B+

Course Requirements

In addition to FIN 310 and FIN 320, a student majoring in Finance Honors is required to complete the following courses totaling at least 36.0 hours:

- One required course (not taken as Honors section)
  - FIN 202 QUANTITATIVE REASONING (2.0 hours)
- Ten required courses (must be taken as Honors sections)
  - FIN 311 CORPORATE FINANCE
  - FIN 330 INVESTMENTS: THEORY & PRACTICE
  - FIN 333 FINANCIAL STATEMENTS ANALYSIS
  - FIN 362 RISK MANAGEMENT
  - FIN 366 FINANCIAL MODELING
  - FIN 380 CASES IN FINANCIAL DECISION MAKING
  - FIN 396 HONORS SEMINAR (2.0 hours)
  - FIN 397 HONORS SEMINAR CONTINUATION (0.0 hours)
  - ACC 307 FINANCIAL REPORTING I FOR FINANCE HONORS STUDENTS
  - ACC 309 FINANCIAL REPORTING II FOR FINANCE HONORS STUDENTS

Accounting majors who have taken the financial accounting courses, ACC 304, ACC 305 and ACC 306, are exempt from taking the financial accounting courses taught within the finance cohort, ACC 307-H and ACC 309-H.

Expectations

A cumulative GPA of 3.000 is required to remain in the program. A student will be dropped from the program if a grade of D or F is earned in any DePaul course after admission to the program.

Once admitted, students will begin the curriculum in the spring quarter of the current academic year, and will complete the curriculum in the winter quarter of the following year. The program consists of a set of courses taught in lock step during the junior and senior years. The honors student cohort will be exposed to rigorous and challenging courses in corporate finance, risk management, financial statement analysis, and financial accounting. Analytical writing and teamwork skills will be emphasized throughout the program.
Open Electives

Open elective credit (10.0 hours) is needed to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Degree Conferral Requirements

All Finance (FIN) courses and any courses used toward the Finance major must be completed with a minimum grade of C- and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.

Candidates for the honors program may take FIN 310 and FIN 320 during their junior year. FIN 311 and FIN 330 are included in the honors curriculum and should not be taken before entering the honors program. Students are urged to complete FIN 310 during the autumn term of their junior year, and to complete FIN 320 and FIN 202 during the winter quarter of their junior year. Students who take FIN 310 during the winter quarter may be accepted into the honors program contingent upon earning a minimum grade of B+ in FIN 310. Students who are accepted on a contingent basis, but who fail to meet the FIN 310 B+ standard, will not be permitted to participate in the honors program. Honors students who have not completed FIN 320 and FIN 202 before the spring quarter may be granted permission to take FIN 320 during the spring quarter and FIN 202 during the summer. Both courses must be completed before the following autumn quarter. Students who do not complete both courses before the autumn quarter will not be permitted to continue in the honors program.

The cohort instruction begins in the spring and ends the following winter. The finance courses and accounting courses will be taught in the afternoon once per week, or on Friday mornings, in three hour sessions. The seminar course is a two credit hour course that will meet over the spring, autumn, and winter terms every other Wednesday afternoon. All honors students will take all classes at the scheduled times. There are no exceptions.

The classes reserved exclusively for honors students are the following:
French (BA)

In DePaul’s French program, students will study French language, literature and culture. Because French is a major world language with more than 200 million speakers in more than 50 countries, having the ability to communicate in French will provide students with many career opportunities around the world.

Courses in the French major will cover a variety of topics, including:

- Business
- Cinema
- Civilization
- Communication
- Grammar
- Historical literary periods
- Phonology and phonetics
- Translation

For students interested in pursuing careers in education, the French department partners with the College of Education to award teaching degrees at the middle school and high school levels.

As French majors, students are encouraged to participate in one of DePaul’s study abroad programs in order to grow linguistically and expand their cultural understanding of French-speaking societies. DePaul sponsors two study abroad programs in Paris: one at Alliance Française and another at the Institute for the International Education of Students.

Chicago is a culturally diverse city, providing many opportunities to attend French lectures and festivals, dine out at French restaurants and see the work of French artists.
Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Proficiently speak, understand, read, and write the studied language(s) to:
  - Engage in conversations.
  - Interpret and create a variety of written texts.
  - Provide and obtain information
  - Express feelings and emotions.
  - Exchange opinions.
- Acquire knowledge of the cultures related to the studied language(s) with appropriate background in geography, history, politics, and society.
- Acquire knowledge of the literary traditions related to the studied language(s) along with techniques of literary and rhetorical analysis.
- Acquire basic notion of the history and theory of language and language study, including linguistics, sociolinguistics, language acquisition, and dialectology.
- Acquire basic notion of the theory and practice of translation and interpretation.

College Core Requirements

Study in the Major Field

The student’s course of study in the College consists of three parts: Liberal Studies, the major field, and electives. Together these three parts contribute to the liberal education of the student which is the common purpose of all study in the College. By “liberal education” the College understands not only a deep and thorough knowledge of a particular area of study but a knowledge of the diverse areas of study represented by criticism, history, the arts, the behavioral and social sciences, philosophy, religious studies, the natural science, and mathematics.

The major field program generally is built upon a set of core courses and a specialized “concentration.” The number of courses required for a major varies by department. Most students go beyond the minimum requirements, electing additional courses which both broaden and deepen their understanding of their chosen discipline.

Because no academic major program is built in isolation, students are required to pursue a number of electives of the student’s choice. The inherent flexibility of this curriculum demands that the student consult an academic advisor at each stage in the total program and at least once prior to each registration. Students will be prompted to visit the College Office for their official graduation check early in their senior year.

Declaration of Major, Minor and Concentration

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor in the major field department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

Students must declare or change majors, minors, and concentrations, via Campus Connection. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the Office for Academic Advising Support.

The Modern Language Requirement (MLR)
All students will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language (i.e., a language other than English) equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. This Modern Language Requirement (MLR) may be demonstrated by:

- placing into 104 or above on the DePaul language placement exam
- completing the last course or earning AP/IB credit for the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language (e.g. 103 for DePaul language classes)
- completing a college course or earning AP/IB credit for a college course beyond the first-year level in any language (e.g. 104 or above for DePaul language classes)
- completing the final course of a four-year sequence of the same modern language in high school*
- completing a proctored exam by BYU and passing the exam (see the Department of Modern Languages website for registration details)
- completing a proctored Written Proficiency Test (WPT) by Language Testing International (LTI) and achieving a score of Beginner High or above (see the Department of Modern Languages website for registration details)

* Students are strongly encouraged to take the DePaul language placement exam even if they have met the MLR via study of a language in high school. This will ensure continuation of language study at the proper level.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College will abide by this MLR in place on the effective date of the ICT, regardless of when they first matriculated at DePaul.

Students who have met the MLR and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" (MLO) of the Liberal Studies Program (see "Special Programs").

External Credit and Residency

A student who has been admitted to the College begins residency within the college as of the first day of classes of the term in which the student is registered. Students in residence, whether attending on a full-time or part-time basis, may not take courses away from DePaul University without the written permission of the college. Permission must be obtained in advance of registration to avoid loss of credit or residency in the college; see the LAS website for more information.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the J YEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy
Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab or SWK requirement.

Major Requirements

Course Requirements

- FCH 201 ADVANCED COMMUNICATION I
- FCH 202 ADVANCED COMMUNICATION II
- FCH 203 ADVANCED COMMUNICATION III or FCH 204 ADVANCED COMMUNICATION IV
- FCH 341 INTRODUCTION TO FRENCH LITERATURE I
- FCH 342 INTRODUCTION TO FRENCH LITERATURE II
- FCH 350 FRENCH PHONOLOGY AND PHONETICS
- Six additional 300-level FCH courses

Students who begin their study of French at DePaul with FCH 202 or higher may substitute a 300-level French elective course for any of the required 200-level courses.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Study Abroad Requirements

Year-long program

Students on the year-long program at IES will be taking a total of 10 courses, 5 of which may be applied to their French Major or Minor. The remaining courses might fulfill various learning domains or other major/minor requirements. They can also simply be counted as general electives. Note that the 5 French courses taken on a year-long program that may be applied to the French major or Minor will generate more than 5 courses worth of credit (30 vs. 20); the remaining 10 credits should be used towards the fulfillment of domain requirements, if possible, or applied to general electives, as appropriate.

Semester-long program

Students on the semester-long program at IES will be taking a total of 5 courses, 3 of which may be applied to their French Major or Minor. The remaining courses might fulfill various learning domains or other major/minor requirements. They can also simply be counted as general electives. Note that the 3 French courses taken on a semester-long basis that may be applied to the French Major or Minor will generate more than 3 courses worth of credit (18 vs. 12); the remaining 6 credits should be used towards the fulfillment of domain requirements, if possible, or applied to general electives, as appropriate.
French (Minor)

A minor in French is customizable to fit the goals of each student, with an aim of general proficiency in writing, reading and speaking French. The student may choose to focus on a specific area to complement the course of study.

The minor consists of a total of 5 courses in French language at the 200/300-level.

Students majoring in French (BA) or minoring in Commercial French or French Translation are restricted from earning this minor.

French Translation (Minor)

Course Requirements

- 12 credits of advanced (200-level) coursework in French language, selected to develop appropriate levels of proficiency in the language and to provide an introduction to translation
- 12 credits of advanced (300-level) coursework in translation classes

Depending on their level of prior expertise with French, students may need to complete courses at the Basic and Intermediate levels before enrolling in 200 or 300-level language courses.

Students majoring in French (BA) or minoring in French or Commercial French are restricted from earning this minor.

Fundamentals of Psychology (Minor)

The Fundamentals of Psychology minor will give you a foundation in the major topic areas in psychology. This minor is good for people who want to round out their current major with core courses in psychology or think they might want to pursue a psychology oriented major in graduate school (e.g., social work).

This minor is only for non-psychology majors and a maximum of one psychology minor may be earned by a student.

Students cannot earn a minor in the same academic program as their major.

Six psychology courses are required, including:

- PSY 105 INTRODUCTORY PSYCHOLOGY I
- PSY 106 INTRODUCTORY PSYCHOLOGY II
- Two from approved list:
  - PSY 333 CHILD PSYCHOLOGY
  - PSY 334 ADOLESCENT PSYCHOLOGY
  - PSY 347 SOCIAL PSYCHOLOGY
  - PSY 351 THEORIES OF PERSONALITY
  - PSY 360 THEORIES OF LEARNING AND COGNITION
Game Design (Minor)

The minor in Game Design exposes students to the three areas of game development — animation design, writing and production.

Course Requirements

- ANI 101 ANIMATION FOR NON-MAJORS
- or ANI 201 ANIMATION I
- ANI 230 3D DESIGN & MODELING
- GAM 224 GAME DESIGN FOR NON-MAJORS
- or GAM 226 FUNDAMENTALS OF GAME DESIGN
- GAM 244 GAME DEVELOPMENT I
- GAM 245 GAME DEVELOPMENT II
- 1 course from the following list:
  - ANI 231 3D ANIMATION
  - GAM 341 INTRODUCTION TO LEVEL DESIGN
  - GAM 362 MAKING DEEP GAMES
  - GAM 365 ADVANCED GAME DESIGN
  - GAM 392 GAME MODIFICATION WORKSHOP
  - GAM 397 TOPICS IN GAME DESIGN
  - DC 341 STORYTELLING FOR VIDEO GAMES

Students majoring in Computer Game Development (BS) or minoring in Game Programming are restricted from earning this minor.

Game Programming (Minor)

DePaul's Game Programming minor teaches the fundamentals of computer game development including graphics, 3-D modeling and programming.

Course Requirements

- CSC 309 C++ FOR PROGRAMMERS
- CSC 393 DATA STRUCTURES IN C++
- or CSC 301 DATA STRUCTURES IN JAVA II
- GAM 245 GAME DEVELOPMENT II
- GAM 372 OBJECT-ORIENTED GAME DEVELOPMENT
- or SE 350 OBJECT-ORIENTED SOFTWARE DEVELOPMENT
- GAM 374 FUNDAMENTALS OF GAME PROGRAMMING I
- GPH 321 COMPUTER GRAPHICS DEVELOPMENT I

Students majoring in Computer Game Development (BS) or minoring in Game Design are restricted from earning this minor.
The Bachelor of Arts in General Business (BAGB) is a degree offered jointly by the School for New Learning (SNL) and Driehaus College of Business (BUS) at DePaul University. The program is designed to help adults further their careers in business and to prepare them for graduate work in a business related area. The program is open to students age 24 and older. Students in the BAGB program take courses in both SNL and BUS.

The program offers the flexibility and individualized learning approach of SNL while providing the business theory and content provided by BUS. In SNL, students fulfill liberal learning requirements through coursework and, in some cases, documentation of knowledge gained through life experiences.

In BUS, students take courses in the business disciplines of marketing, finance, accounting, management, economics, business law and inter-disciplinary business studies. Students also develop skills in writing, calculus, information technology, planning and research and are able to earn a minor in a business topic area. The focus of the degree is general business and it is accredited by the Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business (AACSB).

The degree is earned by completing 50 competence requirements. Competence requirements can be met by SNL and BUS courses, equivalent transfer courses with a grade of C- or better or approved content exams. SNL competence requirements can also be met through documented college-level learning experience. Business courses are offered at DePaul's Loop campus. SNL courses are available online and at the Loop, Naperville, O'Hare campuses.

Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Use independent learning skills and strategies to organize, initiate, and document prior, current, and future college-level learning.
- Design learning strategies to attain goals for personal and educational development.
- Reflect on the learning process and methods used in an experiential project.
- Articulate the personal and social value of lifelong learning.
- Assess the social and personal value of civic engagement for achieving change.
- Write to analyze, synthesize, and evaluate experiences and concepts to demonstrate competences.
- Analyze issues and reconcile problems through critical and appreciative thinking.
- Use mathematical symbols, concepts, and methods to describe and solve problems.
- Learn collaboratively and examine the skills, knowledge, and values that contribute to such learning.
- Pose questions and use methods of formal inquiry to answer questions and solve problems.
- Analyze a problem using two different ethical systems.
- Define and analyze a creative process.
- Analyze power relations among racial, social, cultural, or economic groups in the United States.
- Analyze issues and problems from a global perspective.
- Describe and explain connections among diverse aspects of nature.
- Use current information technology for integrated solutions to problems.
- Design a plan for development in one’s Focus Area based on an analysis of elements that comprise the area.
- Design and produce a significant business related product that gives evidence of advanced competence.
Competence Framework

The SNL curriculum is organized around the knowledge, skills and abilities that describe an educated adult in contemporary society. These are defined by a framework of 50 competence statements grouped in 3 areas: Lifelong Learning, Individual Focus, and Liberal Learning. Students demonstrate these degree requirements through SNL courses, independent learning projects, and transfer coursework.

Students in SNL’s competence-based joint degree programs, the BA in Computing, BA in Early Childhood Education and BA in General Business follow a format similar to the descriptions below with some variations. See their Program Requirements for more information.

Lifelong Learning Area

The Lifelong Learning Area has 12 competences that develop skills in reading, writing, goal setting, decision-making, teamwork, and research.

Liberal Learning Area

The Liberal Learning Area encompasses fields of study generally referred to as the Liberal Arts. Students satisfy 26 competences in this area.

This area is divided into 3 categories: Arts and Ideas (AI), Human Community (HC), and Scientific World (SW). Each category is divided into 3 subcategories. Students complete 8 competences in each category and 2 additional Advanced Elective competences. Students must satisfy at least 1 competence from each subcategory, and 3 more from any subcategory. The 4th and 5th competences are required.

Arts and Ideas Category

This category includes the arts, philosophy, theology, literature, and other fields that focus on expression of values and aesthetics. The 3 subcategories are: Interpreting the Arts, Creative Expression, and Reflection and Meaning.

Human Community Category

This category includes human relations, history, political science, and other fields closely aligned with the development and maintenance of human society. The 3 subcategories are: Communities and Society, Institutions and Organizations, and Individual Development.

The Scientific World Category

This category includes fields related to scientific inquiry, technology, and relevant skills. The 3 subcategories in this area are: Experiencing Science, Patterns and Processes, and Science, Technology and Society.

Individual Focus Area

The Individual Focus Area may reflect a field of study, preparation for graduate study, a career goal or avocation. These 12 competences are defined by the student with the advice and approval of a faculty mentor and a professional advisor who has expertise in the area of interest.

The BA in Computing, BA in Early Childhood Education and BA in General Business each have a series of prescribed competence statements in their Focus Areas that correspond to particular course requirements.
Program Requirements

Lifelong Learning Area
The Lifelong Learning Area consists of 12 competencies satisfied by SNL courses, approved transfer courses or proficiency exams.

- LL 103 INDEPENDENT LEARNING SEMINAR (L-1)
- LL 250 FOUNDATIONS OF ADULT LEARNING: DEVELOPING PERSONAL, PROFESSIONAL AND EDUCATIONAL GOALS
- L-3: Civic Engagement competence in SNL course, transfer, or experience. The L-3 competence is available in the following SNL courses:
  - AI 143 ROOTED IN THE CITY: WRITERS & WRITING IN CHICAGO
  - AI 218 ORGANIZING AND DEVELOPING EMERGENCY TRAINING & SERVICE STRATEGIES: "LESSONS-LEARNED" FROM KATRINA
  - AI 230 MEMOIR WRITING: A JOURNEY FROM THE INSIDE OUT
  - AI 257 ENGAGE FOR CHANGE: GET INFORMED, INVOLVED AND CONNECTED
  - HC 118 MAKING SOCIAL CHANGE: THE LEGACY OF THE 1960'S
  - HC 211 ENGAGING A LOCAL NONPROFIT TO SOLVE A GLOBAL PROBLEM
  - HC 268 WHO CARES? THE POLITICS, ECONOMICS AND ETHICS OF WORK THAT MAKES ALL WORK POSSIBLE
  - HC 283 WORK-LIFE BALANCE: HISTORY & GENDER POLITICS
  - HC 362 POVERTY, POLICY AND THE ECONOMY: POOR IN THE USA
  - IN 231 EXPLORING CHICAGO POLITICS
  - IN 352 EYES ON THE PRIZE: A TELEVISION HISTORY OF THE AMERICAN CIVIL RIGHTS MOVEMENT
  - SNC 215 ISSUES IN HEALTH POLICY AND ADMINISTRATION
  - SW 254 ENVIRONMENTAL SUSTAINABILITY AND ADVOCACY
- LL 260 WRITING FOR COMPETENCE
- LL 270 CRITICAL THINKING (L-5)
- LL 205 QUANTITATIVE REASONING
- L-7: Collaborative Learning competence in SNL course, transfer, or experience. The L-7 competence is available in the following SNL courses:
  - AI 170 CREATIVITY AND ENTREPRENEURSHIP
  - AI 255 SELF EXPLORATION: INSIDE OURSELVES, OUTSIDE WITH OTHERS
  - AI 285 WORK, PLAY AND REST: INTEGRATING THE FRAGMENTS
  - FA 133 EDITING YOURSELF AND OTHERS: A COLLABORATIVE APPROACH TO WRITING AT WORK
  - FA 196 MANAGING A SUCCESSFUL BUSINESS
  - FA 198 FINANCIAL PLANNING FOR RETIREMENT
  - FA 214 ENTREPRENEURIAL ACCOUNTING
  - FA 221 ENTREPRENEURSHIP: FROM START-UP TO SUCCESS
  - FA 224 HOMELAND SECURITY IN THE 21ST CENTURY
  - FA 237 CONFLICT MANAGEMENT, NEGOTIATION, AND CLIENT RELATIONS
  - FA 241 WORKPLACE ENGAGEMENT AND COMMITMENT: HOW TO MOTIVATE EMPLOYEES
  - FA 300 PROJECT MANAGEMENT
  - FA 340 IMPLEMENTING CORPORATE TRAINING PROGRAMS
  - FA 363 ACHIEVING WORK AND LIFE GOALS
  - FA 390 DIVERSITY: IN AND BEYOND THE WORK PLACE
  - HC 102 HOLIDAY ECONOMICS
  - HC 141 COACHING FOR PERSONAL DEVELOPMENT AND PROFESSIONAL EFFECTIVENESS
  - HC 171 ORGANIZATIONAL CULTURE IN ACTION
  - HC 178 GENDER AT WORK
  - HC 217 HIP HOP AND THE POLITICS OF DIFFERENCE
  - HC 246 LANGUAGE AND LANDSCAPE
  - HC 299 ASSESSING AND MANAGING CONFLICT
  - HC 302 ACTIVE CITIZENSHIP: MAKING A DIFFERENCE
  - HC 344 INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS: A CROSS-CULTURAL PERSPECTIVE
  - SW 262 THE HAPPINESS PROJECT
  - SW 295 SUCCESSFUL INTERVIEWING
- LL 300 RESEARCH SEMINAR
- LL 302 EXTERNSHIP
- LL 390 SUMMIT SEMINAR
Liberal Learning Area

The Liberal Learning Area consists of 26 competencies in 4 categories.

Competencies are satisfied by DePaul courses, approved transfer courses and documented learning experience. Most SNL courses fill two competence requirements. Required courses and competencies are listed below:

Arts & Ideas Category:
- Communications course from DePaul or SNL
- Professional Business Writing course from DePaul
- Business Ethics Course from DePaul or SNL
- 3 SNL Arts and Ideas competencies

Human Community Category:
- BLW 201 LEGAL & ETHICAL ASPECTS IN THE BUSINESS ENVIRONMENT
- ECO 105 PRINCIPLES OF MICROECONOMICS
- ECO 106 PRINCIPLES OF MACROECONOMICS
- 3 SNL Human Community competencies

Scientific World Category:
- MAT 135 BUSINESS CALCULUS I
- IT 223 DATA ANALYSIS
- MIS 140 MANAGEMENT INFORMATION SYSTEMS
- 3 SNL Scientific World competencies

Elective Category:
- MKT 202 QUANTITATIVE METHODS IN MARKETING
- 3 Business Electives
- 3 Open Electives
- 2 SNL Advanced Electives

Focus Area

The Focus Area consists of 12 competencies satisfied through 9 Business courses and the SNL Advanced Project course:
- ACC 101 INTRODUCTION TO ACCOUNTING I
- ACC 102 INTRODUCTION TO ACCOUNTING II
- MKT 301 PRINCIPLES OF MARKETING
- MKT 310 CONSUMER BEHAVIOR
- MGT 300 PRINCIPLES OF MANAGEMENT
- MGT 301 PRINCIPLES OF OPERATIONS MANAGEMENT
- FIN 290 FINANCE FOR NON-BUSINESS MAJORS
- ECO 315 INTRODUCTION TO MONEY AND BANKING
- ICS 394 ENTREPRENEURSHIP STRATEGY
- FA 303 INDEPENDENT ADVANCED PROJECT or FA 304 ADVANCED PROJECT COURSE

General Psychology (Minor)

The General Psychology minor enables students to select courses in psychology tailored to their particular interests or career goals. This minor allows students maximum flexibility to complement a variety of majors and areas of interest.
This minor is only for non-psychology majors and a maximum of one psychology minor may be earned by a student.

Students cannot earn a minor in the same academic program as their major.

Six psychology courses are required, including:

- PSY 105 INTRODUCTORY PSYCHOLOGY I
- PSY 106 INTRODUCTORY PSYCHOLOGY II
- Four psychology classes, at least two of which must be numbered PSY 317 PSYCHOLOGY OF INTERPERSONAL RELATIONSHIP and above.

Geography (BA)

Geographers examine the spatial relationships between people, places, environments and economies using innovative conceptual and technological approaches. Exciting technological changes, from computer mapping software like Google Earth, to satellite image processing, and global positioning systems (GPS), make geography a fascinating discipline to study. DePaul's geographers share a commitment to 'hands on' teaching and research that makes a world of difference for the people, places, environments and processes that we study. Geographers apply methods such as observation, visualization, analysis, and modeling to explain the spatial organization of human and physical environments. Geographical perspectives foster skills that have broad applications in public policy, research and the private sector. The Department of Geography teaches students to reason spatially by applying geographic techniques and information technologies, including new technologies such as Geographic Information Systems (GIS). This helps students produce sophisticated understandings of the world, its people, environments, economic structures and cultures.

Geospatial analysis and Geographic Information Systems (GIS) is a rapidly-growing multi-billion dollar industry. Geotechnology was named by the U.S. Bureau of Labor as a "hot" area for job growth in both 2005 and 2010 and it is estimated that over the next ten years, demand for geospatial analysts will exceed supply as the geospatial technology industry grows to ten times the size of the video games industry. Geography holds a comparative advantage as a discipline that straddles fields in the social and natural science disciplines and, as a result, Geography has courses in every DePaul learning domain. This breadth of courses makes Geography the ideal double major at DePaul and the range of classes offered means that geography is an exceptional foundation for a variety of careers that explore questions of spatial organization and require regional knowledge. The study of geography builds a unique spatial perspective that sits at the intersection of "natural" and "social" science, and it addresses both "human" and "physical" domains of knowledge, examining the interactions between them through space.

Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Define and describe the fundamental quality of the spatiality of phenomena and analyze that characteristic using either qualitative or quantitative methodologies and communicate the results of that analysis clearly in speech and writing.
- Formulate a cogent research question about the spatial character of a physical, socio-cultural, or Collect, identify and apply spatial data in either primary (including field work), or secondary sources. Interpret spatial patterns of economic inequalities and their relation to built and natural environments. Explain the structure of spatial linkages, or the processes that may tie, for example, local action to global effect.

- Analyze these linkages.
- Communicate the results of that analysis clearly in speech and writing.
- Interpret how socio-cultural, political, economic or environmental phenomena may construct a "space," a "place," a "landscape," a "location," or a "region" as a complex material or symbolic structure.
- Analyze these phenomena.
- Communicate the results of that analysis clearly in speech and writing.
- Use with competence one or more of the several geotechnologies (i.e. remote sensing, geographical information systems, etc.) and articulate effectively the results of that use in speech, text, image, or map.
- Articulate in speech and writing the significance and application of the society-space and nature-society dialectics to environmental change.
- Describe and differentiate processes of globalization and their effects on regions, physical systems, cultures, and political divisions.
- Demonstrate that understanding in speech and writing.
- Exhibit a range of practical and communication skills, including but not limited to:
  - Conducting independent research and writing.
  - Conducting research and writing as part of a team.
  - Conducting research and analysis for a community client or other third party.
  - Engaging in critical and analytical thinking.
  - Creating and delivering a presentation.
  - Writing a 10-page research paper or compiling a scholarly poster.

Students will be prompted to visit the College Office for their official graduation check early in their senior year.

Declaration of Major, Minor and Concentration

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor in the major field department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

Students must declare or change majors, minors, and concentrations, via Campus Connection. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the the Office for Academic Advising Support.

The Modern Language Requirement (MLR)

All students will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language (i.e., a language other than English) equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. This Modern Language Requirement (MLR) may be demonstrated by:

- placing into 104 or above on the DePaul language placement exam
- completing the last course or earning AP/IB credit for the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language (e.g. 103 for DePaul language classes)
- completing a college course or earning AP/IB credit for a college course beyond the first-year level in any language (e.g. 104 or above for DePaul language classes)
- completing the final course of a four-year sequence of the same modern language in high school*
- completing a proctored exam by BYU and passing the exam (see the Department of Modern Languages website for registration details)
- completing a proctored Written Proficiency Test (WPT) by Language Testing International (LTI) and achieving a score of Beginner High or above (see the Department of Modern Languages website for registration details)

* Students are strongly encouraged to take the DePaul language placement exam even if they have met the MLR via study of a language in high school. This will ensure continuation of language study at the proper level.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College will abide by this MLR in place on the effective date of the ICT, regardless of when they first matriculated at DePaul.

Students who have met the MLR and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" (MLO) of the Liberal Studies Program (see "Special Programs").

External Credit and Residency

A student who has been admitted to the College begins residency within the college as of the first day of classes of the term in which the student is registered. Students in residence, whether attending on a full-time or part-time basis, may not take courses away from DePaul University without the written permission of the college. Permission must be obtained in advance of registration to avoid loss of credit or residency in the college; see the LAS website for more information.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who... complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab or SWK requirement.

Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

Geography (BA)/ Secondary Education Social Science (MEd)

The TEACH Program combines a Liberal Arts and Social Sciences (LAS) undergraduate Social Science major (Anthropology, Economics, Geography, History, Political Science, or Sociology) or a Science and Health (Psychology) major with a graduate level College of Education (COE) Master's in Education Program. Students graduate with a BA or BS in their disciplinary major and a MEd in Education with State of Illinois Secondary Social Science licensure.

Students may apply to the Program during the spring of their junior year. They must enroll in the Junior Year Experiential Learning course, TCH 320, and meet other application criteria; these include completion of at least 16 quarter credit hours at DePaul and a 3.0 GPA. During their senior year, students are required to complete a Program capstone course, TCH 390, and three 400-level courses that count toward both their undergraduate and graduate degrees:

- TCH 401 TEACHING AS A PROFESSION IN SECONDARY SCHOOL
- TCH 412 THE NATURE OF HISTORY AND THE SOCIAL SCIENCES PEDAGOGY
- TCH 422 INQUIRY & APPLICATION IN DEVELOPING SECONDARY HISTORY AND SOCIAL SCIENCES

Social Science Content Area (grades of C or better required for licensure):

The following Social Science content area requirements are required. These can be taken as part of the major, liberal studies or open elective requirements:

---

DePaul University

Autumn 2015-2016
The Master's year comprises teacher-preparation coursework that culminates with student teaching during Spring quarter. Upon graduation and the fulfilling of State of Illinois licensure requirements (which may require some additional coursework in the student's major and related fields), students are eligible to be licensed to teach Social Sciences at the 6th-12th grade levels.

A full description of the Program can be found on the College of Education website in the graduate course catalog. Students interested in the Program should consult with the designated TEACH Program advisor in their home department.

Concentration Requirements

Concentrations, tracks and specializations provide focus to the major. In addition to any college core requirements, liberal studies requirements and major requirements, students are required to choose one of the following:

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Geography (Minor)

In the Geography minor program you can explore spatial relationships at the local, regional, national and global scales. From learning how to apply methods such as GIS data visualization and analyses, to urban development and planning, and international environmental, geopolitical and economic policies and processes, the six course Geography minor offers students an introduction to this dynamic and exciting discipline.

Course Requirements

- Any six Geography courses, selected with the approval of the student’s Geography faculty advisor.

A student completing a Geography minor is eligible to simultaneously complete a GIS Certificate. No more than 3 Geography minor courses can be applied to a GIS Certificate. A student wishing to complete a Geography minor and a GIS Certificate will complete a minimum of 8 Geography courses. Please see a faculty advisor in the Department of Geography for further details. Students majoring in Geography (BA) or minoring in Geography Nature-Society Studies or Urban Geography and Planning are restricted from earning this minor.

Geography Nature-Society Studies (Minor)

The minor in Geography Nature-Society Studies offers an overview of how earth’s physical landscape is impacted by humans and natural phenomena, including urban encroachment, climate change and geopolitical decisions.

Course Requirements

- GEO 101 PHYSICAL GEOGRAPHY
- GEO 210 ENVIRONMENTAL CONSERVATION
- And an additional four courses selected from the following list:

  - GEO 269 POLITICAL ECOLOGY
  - GEO 299 THE NATURE OF GEOGRAPHY
  - GEO 310 GREEN INFRASTRUCTURE
  - GEO 351 GEOGRAPHY, FOOD AND JUSTICE
Courses should be selected with the consent of the student’s Geography faculty advisor.

A student completing a Geography Nature-Society Studies minor is eligible to simultaneously complete a GIS Certificate. Only GEO 241 and/or GEO 243 from the Nature-Society Studies minor can be applied to a GIS Certificate. A student wishing to complete a Geography Nature-Society Studies minor and a GIS Certificate will complete a minimum of 9 Geography courses. Please see a faculty advisor in the Department of Geography for further details. Students majoring in Geography (BA) or minoring in Geography or Urban Geography and Planning are restricted from earning this minor.

German (BA)

In DePaul’s German program, students will study German language, literature and culture. With more than 100 million speakers worldwide, German is also the most widely spoken first language in the European Union. Having the ability to communicate in German will provide students with career opportunities around the world.

As German majors, students will take courses in:

- Cinema
- Culture
- History
- Language
- Literature
- Poetry
- Translation

Students are encouraged to participate in DePaul’s Study Abroad program in Bonn, Germany, in order to grow linguistically and expand their cultural understanding of German-speaking societies.

Chicago is a culturally diverse city, providing many opportunities to attend German lectures and festivals, dine out at German restaurants and watch German films.

- Acquire knowledge of the literary traditions related to the studied language(s) along with techniques of literary and rhetorical analysis.
- Acquire basic notion of the history and theory of language and language study, including linguistics, sociolinguistics, language acquisition, and dialectology.
- Acquire basic notion of the theory and practice of translation and interpretation.
College Core Requirements

Study in the Major Field

The student’s course of study in the College consists of three parts: Liberal Studies, the major field, and electives. Together these three parts contribute to the liberal education of the student which is the common purpose of all study in the College. By “liberal education” the College understands not only a deep and thorough knowledge of a particular area of study but a knowledge of the diverse areas of study represented by criticism, history, the arts, the behavioral and social sciences, philosophy, religious studies, the natural science, and mathematics.

The major field program generally is built upon a set of core courses and a specialized “concentration.” The number of courses required for a major varies by department. Most students go beyond the minimum requirements, electing additional courses which both broaden and deepen their understanding of their chosen discipline.

Because no academic major program is built in isolation, students are required to pursue a number of electives of the student’s choice. The inherent flexibility of this curriculum demands that the student consult an academic advisor at each stage in the total program and at least once prior to each registration.

Students will be prompted to visit the College Office for their official graduation check early in their senior year.

Declaration of Major, Minor and Concentration

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor in the major field department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

Students must declare or change majors, minors, and concentrations, via Campus Connection. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the Office for Academic Advising Support.

The Modern Language Requirement (MLR)

All students will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language (i.e., a language other than English) equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. This Modern Language Requirement (MLR) may be demonstrated by:

- placing into 104 or above on the DePaul language placement exam
- completing the last course or earning AP/IB credit for the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language (e.g. 103 for DePaul language classes)
- completing a college course or earning AP/IB credit for a college course beyond the first-year level in any language (e.g. 104 or above for DePaul language classes)
- completing the final course of a four-year sequence of the same modern language in high school*
- completing a proctored exam by BYU and passing the exam (see the Department of Modern Languages website for registration details)
- completing a proctored Written Proficiency Test (WPT) by Language Testing International (LTI) and achieving a score of Beginner High or above (see the Department of Modern Languages website for registration details)

* Students are strongly encouraged to take the DePaul language placement exam even if they have met the MLR via study of a language in high school. This will ensure continuation of language study at the proper level.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College will abide by this MLR in place on the effective date of the ICT, regardless of when they first matriculated at DePaul.

Global Asian Studies (Minor)

Global Asian Studies is an interdisciplinary program that explores culture, literature, politics, economic development and international relations of Asia, the Asian diaspora in the world and Asian Americans.

Students obtain a variety of critical thinking, research, writing and presentation skills through in-depth analyses of Asian cultures historically and in the context of current trends in the global economy.

Global Asian Studies contributes to developing a fuller and more accurate understanding of global culture, national and ethnic identity formation and examines the particular ways Asian and Pacific Islanders have contributed to society, politics and economy in their home countries, via expatriate networks globally and as Asian Americans in the United States.

Global Asian Studies program is currently a stand-alone minor program within the college of Liberal Arts and Social Sciences at DePaul University.

Unique Aspects

The minor program employs interdisciplinary analysis and approaches from the humanities and social sciences. The program faculty draw upon Asian and Asian American communities to combine university scholarship, classroom teaching and experiential learning in local communities and internationally. A Global Asian Studies minor offers students analytic and critical thinking skills and encourages a lifelong pursuit of deep cultural competency about Asia at home and abroad.

Students take two required courses and four elective courses offered under the rubric of Global Asian Studies to complete the minor. Many of our courses can also be taken to fulfill domain credits. Our faculty also offer Sophomore Seminar in Multiculturalism courses on Asian American Art, Asian American Experiences in the U.S. and on Immigrant Entrepreneurs, all of which focus on Asian American communities. We also offer several Study Abroad opportunities.

Faculty Highlights

This interdisciplinary minor program draws from over twenty faculty members from across the University to contribute to the program. Areas of expertise include: American studies, pan-Asian American studies, art and art history, Chinese studies, creative writing, cultural studies, entrepreneurship, film studies, history, inter- and pan-ethnic studies, Japanese studies, Latin American and Latino studies, literature, law, media studies, political economy, religious studies, sociology, and women and gender studies.

Program Highlights

In addition to offering courses, which students can take towards the minor and for domain credit, the Global Asian Studies program provides students with quality co-curricular activities. We bring in speakers and performers of national renown to provide the latest theoretical, scholarly, or popular culture developments in the field of Global Asian Studies. These co-curricular activities provide a contemporary link between in-class learning and out-of-the-classroom experiences and are open to the public.

Career Possibilities

Global Asian Studies can lead to a number of career paths in law, academia, international business and finance and the non-profit sector. Global Asian Studies related careers include: advertising, international business, marketing, and public relations managers; arts (visual, performing, literary, music) and media; child, family and school social workers; curators; elementary, middle, and high school teachers; government executives and legislators; historians; human resource managers; postsecondary teachers; philanthropy.

Courses Offered Each Year

Not all the courses approved for Global Asian Studies are offered each year. We seek to offer the two core courses, AAS 200 and AAS 205, at least once per year. Study Abroad trips are offered regularly. Our approved elective course offerings vary from quarter to quarter. Please refer to the Program Degree Requirements for a complete list of approved elective courses. Refer to Campus Connect and the Global Asian Studies website for the latest offerings.

Study Abroad

Several programs with trips to Asia are offered, including short-term programs to Hawai‘i, the Philippines, India, Japan, Vietnam, and China.

Graphic Art (Minor)

Graphic Art is designed to develop artistic skills and abilities in primarily two-dimensional art, which focuses on the following areas: photography, drawing, printmaking, text, digital imaging, web art, the graphic novel, and the artist book and poster.

Course Requirements

- Choose one of the following:
  - ART 101 DIGITAL TOOLS FOR VISUAL THINKERS
  - ART 105 TWO-DIMENSIONAL FOUNDATIONS
  - ART 106 BEGINNING DRAWING
- Choose any two courses from the following list:
  - ART 200 ART & ARTISTS IN CONTEMPORARY CULTURE
    or ART 118 THINKING PHOTOGRAPHY
Choose any three courses from the following list.

- ART 264 TEXT IN THE VISUAL ARTS
- ART 292 COMMUNITY VIDEO PRODUCTION or ART 382 STUDENTS TEACHING ART IN THE ELEMENTARY CLASSROOM or ART 383 SERVICE LEARNING IN THE ARTS INTERNSHIP
- ART 321 INTERMEDIATE DIGITAL PHOTOGRAPHY
  or ART 323 INTERMEDIATE PHOTOGRAPHY
- ART 324 INTERMEDIATE PRINTMAKING I
- ART 332 TOPICS IN PHOTOGRAPHIC PRACTICE
- ART 334 PORTFOLIO
- ART 348 GRAPHIC ART IN THE PUBLIC REALM
- ART 358 GRAPHIC ART
- ART 359 PRINT MEDIA
- ART 385 WEB ART & DESIGN I

Students majoring in Art, Media, and Design (BA) or minoring in Studio Art or Photography are restricted from earning this minor.

Health (Minor)

The Health minor is designed for education students interested in adding teaching skills in Health to their major course of study, which can lead to a middle school teaching endorsement for teacher candidates.

Course Requirements

- PE 206 PERSONAL AND COMMUNITY HEALTH
- PE 273 HEALTH AND NUTRITION
- PE 302 FIRST AID: RESPONDING TO EMERGENCIES
- PE 304 THE SCHOOL HEALTH PROGRAM
- Five additional courses to meet state requirements (see advisor)

Health Sciences (BS)

The mission of DePaul University’s Department of Health Sciences is to educate and train students who will collaboratively address human health from interdisciplinary natural and social scientific perspectives in order to promote health and to improve the lives of individuals and communities.

The Health Sciences major offers concentrations in BioScience and Public Health Studies that will enable future health care professionals to begin this cross-disciplinary conversation even earlier. Each concentration offers tracks that help students focus their interests and prepare for future careers. This degree a) provides students interested in pursuing a career in one of many health-related professions with a common core of knowledge; b) provides a general track in each concentration but also articulates additional tracks that meet requirements for entry into graduate programs; c) provides enough flexibility to enable students to move among those tracks as their interests evolve, and d) brings students headed for multiple health-related professions into on-going conversation with each other.

Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Demonstrate effective communication skills and work collaboratively with individuals and populations of varied perspectives.
- Evaluate both natural and social science research as it applies to individual and population health.
- Explain and understand foundational biological principles related to human health.
- Apply the scientific method and evidence-based approaches to human health.
- Identify and analyze ethical issues in research, health, and public health.
- Identify and understand how social determinants influence an individual’s health and create health disparities.
- Identify the core concepts and principles of public health and apply them to the promotion of health and prevention of disease.
- Describe the components of health policy and health care systems both domestically and globally.

College Core Requirements

Modern Language Requirements

Students who intend to graduate with the Bachelor of Arts (B.A.) Degree will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in the fourth-year high school sequence of any language
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Science and Health will abide by the College of Science and Health Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.

B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program. While Bachelor of Science (B.S.) students are not required to demonstrate competency in a modern language, the "Modern Language Option" is available to them for language study at any level.

Major Declaration Requirements

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. After researching College programs, the student should declare a major field by visiting Campus Connection and using the Declarations and Inter-College Transfer tool. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor or staff advisor in the department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

To change major fields, or to declare a minor or concentration, the student must use the Declarations and Inter-College Transfer tool described above. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the College or an academic advisor in the Office for...

Notes
Students must complete one approved health ethics course: REL 229 (RD) or PHL 229 (PI) within their liberal studies program or a track elective in the major, HLTH 229.

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy (for Public Health Studies only)
Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam.

Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required.

Major Requirements

Core Course Requirements
• HLTH 201 INTRODUCTION TO HEALTH SCIENCE
• HLTH 202 HEALTH RESEARCH LITERACY
• HLTH 350 HEALTH SCIENCES CAPSTONE (Capstone required for major requirements.)
• BIO 191 GENERAL BIOLOGY I FOR SCIENCE MAJORS
• BIO 210 MICROBIOLOGY

Concentration Requirements
Students must select a concentration and track within the major and complete the requirements. A maximum of one concentration and one track may be selected. Health Sciences concentrations include BioScience (with tracks in General; Medical; Lab Investigations; and Pre-nursing) and Public Health Studies (with tracks in General; Health Education; Community Health; and Health Policy and Administration). All majors will also complete one approved health ethics course, which can apply to the Religious Dimensions or Philosophical Inquiry learning
Concentration Requirements

Concentrations provide an opportunity for students to narrow the focus of their major. In addition to the college core requirements, liberal studies requirements and major requirements, students are required to choose one of the following concentrations.

- BioScience
- Bioscience - Accelerated Program
- Public Health Studies

Public Health Studies Concentration

Bioscience Concentration - Accelerated Program

The Accelerated Program is only for qualified Pathways Honors students who are majoring in the Health Sciences with a BioScience concentration, and who have been accepted into an accelerated 3+ College of Science and Health pre-professional program in conjunction with Rosalind Franklin University of Medicine and Science (RFUMS). In order to pursue one of the six pre-professional Accelerated Program tracks, a student must secure approval from the College of Science and Health's Pre-Health Advisor and Pre-Health Advising Committee's (PAC) Accelerated Program advisor. There are six available pre-professional Accelerated Programs: Medicine (3+4), Pathologists’ Assistant (3+2), Pharmacy (3+4), Physical Therapy (3+3), Physician Assistant (3+2), and Podiatry (3+4).

Students formally accepted into an Accelerated Program will complete their fourth year of coursework at RFUMS (courses not shown here) and apply the credit toward their Bachelor of Science in Health Sciences at DePaul. Students must apply for degree conferral via Campus Connect by the deadline outlined in the Student Handbook in order to be considered a candidate for earning their Bachelor of Science degree at the conclusion of their fourth year of study. As part of the agreement with RFUMS, some Liberal Studies Program courses, Health Sciences major requirements, and open electives will be fulfilled by RFUMS courses. To avoid possibly earning duplicate credit for some courses, please be sure you meet regularly with the Pre-Health Advisor and the Health Sciences departmental academic advisor.

General Track

- Select 10 courses from the following:
  - HLTH 210 INTRODUCTION TO PUBLIC HEALTH
  - HLTH 229 ETHICS FOR HEALTH SCIENCES
  - One of the following:
    - HLTH 301 INTEGRATED HUMAN ANATOMY AND PHYSIOLOGY-A
    - HLTH 302 INTEGRATED HUMAN ANATOMY AND PHYSIOLOGY-B
    - BIO 201 HUMAN ANATOMY
  - HLTH 320 MOLECULAR VIROLOGY
  - HLTH 329 MEDICAL HUMANITIES
  - HLTH 310 FUNDAMENTALS OF EPIDEMIOLOGY
    - or BIO 230 EPIDEMIOLOGY
  - HLTH 399 INDEPENDENT STUDY
  - ANT 360 ISSUES IN GLOBAL HEALTH

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Program

Health Sciences (BS)/ Health Communication (MA)

The BS in Health Sciences and MA in Health Communication is a combined degree offered through the College of Science and Health and the College of Communication.

Students with junior status who have earned at least a 3.5 GPA in their Health Sciences courses, have earned at least a 3.0 cumulative GPA, and have successfully completed three 300 level courses in the Public Health Studies or BioScience major curriculum in Health Sciences may apply for the combined BS Health Sciences/MA Health Communication program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by June 1 (priority deadline): BS/MA Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, answers to essay questions, writing sample (research paper), and two letters of recommendation from professors in Health Sciences and/or College of Communication.

Students in Health Sciences will take all of the required courses for the undergraduate major. During their senior year, students in this program take a maximum of twelve graduate credit hours as three Health Communication courses; these graduate courses apply toward both undergraduate Health Sciences and graduate Health Communication requirements. Students are strongly encouraged to take the following three HTHC core courses during their senior year: HTHC 515, HTHC 516, HTHC 517. In the Public Health Studies concentration, HTHC 515 INTRO TO HEALTH COMMUNICATION can replace CMNS 315 HEALTH COMMUNICATION. In BioScience, HTHC 515 INTRO TO HEALTH COMMUNICATION will count as an elective in the major. The other two graduate courses will count as either major electives or open electives for either concentration.

Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the minimum grade requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Students can defer their graduate admission for one year after they earn their BS. If students do not matriculate after completing their BS or within the one year deferral period, the graduate courses taken as undergraduate students will no longer count towards the graduate degree and students must reapply for admission to the graduate program.

Because this program requires careful planning of courses, students in their sophomore year are encouraged to work with the Health Sciences academic advisor in the College of Science and Health and a graduate advisor in the College of Communication.

While students are enrolled as undergraduates in the College of Science and Health, they must apply for undergraduate degree conferral in anticipation of completing their BS in Health Sciences at the conclusion of their fourth year of study. While students are enrolled as graduate students in the College of Communication, they must apply for graduate degree conferral in anticipation of completing their MA.

Health Sciences (BS)/ Master of Public Health (MPH)

Interested students may apply to this combined degree program during the start of their Junior year at DePaul. The student will need to be a Health Sciences major in the Public Health Studies concentration with a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.5. Application to the Master of Public Health program includes a 1-2 page personal statement and a current CV. The GRE requirement will be waived. Students must present a plan for their remaining quarters at DePaul to confirm that they can complete all degree requirements.

This combined program maintains the rigor and value of both the undergraduate degree in Health Sciences from the College of Science and Health and the Master of Public Health from the College of Liberal Arts and Social Sciences, so that students are earning exceptional training at both the undergraduate and graduate level. The advantage to this program is that students can earn their BS in Health Sciences degree and an MPH in as few as five years.

In year four, accepted students take undergraduate courses toward the BS, graduate courses toward the MPH, and graduate courses that will count toward both degrees. The student will be awarded the BS at the end of the fourth year. The fifth year will solely consist of courses for the MPH.

Because this program requires careful planning of courses, students in their sophomore year are encouraged to work with the Health Sciences academic advisor in the College of Science and Health and a faculty advisor from the MPH program in the College of Liberal Arts and Social Sciences.

While students are enrolled as undergraduates in the College of Science and Health, they must apply for undergraduate degree conferral in anticipation of completing their BS in Health Sciences at the conclusion of their fourth year of study. While students are enrolled as graduate students in the College of Liberal Arts and Social Sciences, they must apply for graduate degree conferral in anticipation of completing their MPH.

In the event that they are not accepted into the MPH program, students would take the remaining requirements in their fourth year to earn the BS in Health Sciences. They are then encouraged to apply for the MPH program as a traditional applicant.

The MPH curriculum will be completed in its entirety and is unaltered by this program.

The following courses in the BS Health Sciences/Public Health Studies curriculum will be replaced by graduate level courses:

</tbody>
</table>

MPH 699 is a zero credit course taken each quarter of the 2nd year of MPH

Unique to this combined program only, a maximum of five courses as 20 quarter hours may be applied toward both the BS in Health Sciences and toward the MPH. Courses in bold are those which apply toward both the BS and MPH. All other graduate courses count solely towards MPH.

If the student is admitted and has completed some MPH coursework, but decides not to complete the MPH, then completed MPH courses will count toward the undergraduate degree and any remaining Health Sciences courses will be finished at the undergraduate level.

Students will also be carefully advised as to the financial implications of this program as the timing of courses affects when students would be counted as graduate students for purposes of tuition and eligibility for financial aid. Students will be considered graduate students for tuition-purposes beginning in Spring Quarter of the fourth year. During that quarter, the student will take two undergraduate courses on a per-credit basis (concentration elective and open elective) and graduate courses (MPH 522, MPH 512, MPH 600). Once the undergraduate degree is conferred at the end of Spring Quarter of the fourth year, then the student is eligible for the Double Demon Scholarship - see DePaul’s Scholarship website for details. Students will also be told that if they already have a significant scholarship as an undergraduate, they can finish out the regular four-year BS academic program and then apply for the regular two-year MPH program.

Health Sciences (BS)/Master's Entry to Nursing Practice (MENP)

Sophomore Health Sciences Bioscience students with a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.20 will have a streamlined application process. Students will submit an application and personal statement only (GRE is not required for this particular combined program) to the nursing advisor on the Pre-health Advising Committee (PAC). The nursing PAC advisor will forward the information to the School of Nursing’s admissions committee for expedited review. The application review will include the nursing PAC advisor’s review of courses, a developed plan for the student’s third year at DePaul to confirm that he/she could complete all outlined Health Sciences requirements by the end of the third year, and a plan for a fourth year in Health Sciences in the event that the student is not accepted into the School of Nursing. The student is responsible for completing and submitting all appropriate documents via the nursing PAC advisor. The nursing PAC advisor will maintain contact with accepted students as they complete their third year and transition to taking courses in the School of Nursing during the fourth year.

The Health Sciences advisor will act at the primary advisor for all aspects of the student’s undergraduate Health Sciences curriculum. In addition, the Health Sciences advisor will advise students who choose to leave the combined program, to guide them as they complete the necessary coursework for the B.S. in Health Sciences and graduate in four years. This will require the Health Sciences advisor and the PAC nursing advisor to be in close communication about the progress of third and fourth year students.

In anticipation of the student completing his/her fourth year of study, the student must apply for undergraduate degree conferral. In the fifth year as an MENP student in the School of Nursing - after the B.S. has already been awarded - the MENP student will only receive advising from the School of Nursing. In anticipation of completing the MENP program, the student must apply for degree conferral in order to be awarded the M.S. degree through the School of Nursing.

History (BA)

As the American Historical Association has noted, “We all interpret and narrate the past, which is to say that we all participate in making history. It is among our most fundamental tools for understanding ourselves and the world around us.” The History Department at DePaul University embraces this idea, and is committed to engaging with students, the university, and the wider community in an ongoing effort to understand the past and its varied meanings, the critical and scholarly debates through which we gain such understanding, and the relationship of the past to the problems of the present.

The history program at DePaul combines a breadth of chronological and geographical coverage with the opportunity to develop a concentration in a student’s fields of interest. Instruction emphasizes the humanistic as well as the social scientific dimension of the field. One-hundred and two-hundred-level courses (lower division) provide surveys of Asian, African, European, Latin American, North American and World and Comparative History. A main focus of these lower division courses is teaching students how to evaluate primary sources. Three-hundred-level courses (upper division) concentrate on historical debates within specific fields. All courses stress development of research, writing and oral communications skills.

The history major gives students a broad base of knowledge and skills applicable to a variety of careers. Many of our graduates go on to work in the fields of education and law. Others pursue jobs in government and politics; museums, historical societies, and libraries; and business and commercial ventures. A wide range of employers find that history majors have honed critical analytical and communications skills, making them ideal candidates for positions of requiring responsibility and independent work habits.

Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Describe and discuss historical facts, themes, and ideas.
- Identify, analyze, evaluate, and synthesize primary and secondary source evidence.
- Identify and explain how the past is different from the present.
- Express knowledge of the history of individuals and groups who are different from themselves.
- Analyze an event, source, idea or person within its historical context.
- Critically evaluate change over time (the idea that the relationship between events over time suggests meanings that might be overlooked if the events were examined in isolation).
- Identify different perspectives on the past, whether those be historical, interpretive, or methodological in nature.
- Conduct research independently using primary and secondary source evidence.
- Express knowledge and reason effectively in writing.

College Core Requirements

Study in the Major Field

The student’s course of study in the College consists of three parts: Liberal Studies, the major field, and electives. Together these three parts contribute to the liberal education of the student which is the common purpose of all study in the College. By “liberal education” the College understands not only a deep and thorough knowledge of a particular area of study but a knowledge of the diverse areas of study represented by criticism, history, the arts, the behavioral and social sciences, philosophy, religious studies, the natural science, and mathematics.

The major field program generally is built upon a set of core courses and a specialized “concentration.” The number of courses required for a major varies by department. Most students go beyond the minimum requirements, electing additional courses which both broaden and deepen their understanding of their chosen discipline.

Because no academic major program is built in isolation, students are required to pursue a number of electives of the student’s choice. The inherent flexibility of this curriculum demands that the student consult an academic advisor at each stage in the total program and at least once prior to each registration. Students will be prompted to visit the College Office for their official graduation check early in their senior year.
Declaration of Major, Minor and Concentration

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor in the major field department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

Students must declare or change majors, minors, and concentrations, via Campus Connection. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the the Office for Academic Advising Support.

The Modern Language Requirement (MLR)

All students will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language (i.e., a language other than English) equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. This Modern Language Requirement (MLR) may be demonstrated by:

- placing into 104 or above on the DePaul language placement exam
- completing the last course or earning AP/IB credit for the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language (e.g. 103 for DePaul language classes)
- completing a college course or earning AP/IB credit for a college course beyond the first-year level in any language (e.g. 104 or above for DePaul language classes)
- completing the final course of a four-year sequence of the same modern language in high school*
- completing a proctored exam by BYU and passing the exam (see the Department of Modern Languages website for registration details)
- completing a proctored Written Proficiency Test (WPT) by Language Testing International (LTI) and achieving a score of Beginner High or above (see the Department of Modern Languages website for registration details)

* Students are strongly encouraged to take the DePaul language placement exam even if they have met the MLR via study of a language in high school. This will ensure continuation of language study at the proper level.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College will abide by this MLR in place on the effective date of the ICT, regardless of when they first matriculated at DePaul.

Students who have met the MLR and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" (MLO) of the Liberal Studies Program (see "Special Programs").

External Credit and Residency

A student who has been admitted to the College begins residency within the college as of the first day of classes of the term in which the student is registered. Students in residence, whether attending on a full-time or part-time basis, may not take courses away from DePaul University without the written permission of the college. Permission must be obtained in advance of registration to avoid loss of credit or residency in the college; see the LAS website for more information.

Liberal Studies Requirements

Honors program requirements can be found in the individual Colleges & Schools section of the University Catalog. Select Academics, followed by Undergraduate, then Honors Program Alternative.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the J'EL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab or SWK requirement.

Major Requirements

Course Requirements

Core

- HST 298 INTRODUCTION TO HISTORICAL SOURCES AND METHODS*
- HST 299 CRAFT OF HISTORY
- HST 390 CAPSTONE IN HISTORICAL RESEARCH AND WRITING

*Important Note: Students must complete WRD 103 and WRD 104 or HON 101 prior to enrolling in HST 298.

For all concentrations, HON 102 may be counted toward lower division requirements.

Concentration Requirements

Students must also complete the requirements from one of the following concentrations: standard, pre-law, public history, or secondary-education.

Concentration Requirements

Concentrations, tracks and specializations provide focus to the major. In addition to any college core requirements, liberal studies requirements and major requirements, students are required to choose one of the following:

- Standard
- Pre-Law
- Public History
- Secondary Education History
Standard Concentration

Course Requirements

Lower Division Courses

In addition to the Common Core, students take 5 courses at the 100 or 200 level. The 100-level indicates that the course examines global history or large regions of the world. The 200-level indicates that the course has a narrower national or thematic focus. Note: HON 102 HISTORY IN GLOBAL CONTEXTS may be counted toward this lower division requirement.

Upper Division Courses

Students take 6 courses at the 300 level. Students must complete a preparatory 300-level "gateway" course before entering into a linked section of HST 390 CAPSTONE IN HISTORICAL RESEARCH AND WRITING with the faculty's permission. The gateway course will count as one of the 6 upper division courses.

One Additional Course

Students will take one additional HST course in either the lower or upper division

Open Electives

Open elective credit is also required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Pre-Law Concentration

Course Requirements

Lower Division Courses

In addition to the Common Core, students take 5 courses at the 100 or 200 level.

Upper Division Courses

- HST 388 THE COURT AND THE U.S. BILL OF RIGHTS
- HST 395 ISSUES IN NON-U.S. LEGAL HISTORY
- Two 300-level HST courses of choice, one of which must be a gateway linked to a HST 390.
- Two courses from the following list:
  - HST 301 U.S. LABOR HISTORY
  - HST 308 EUROPE FROM CONFLICT TO CONSENSUS
  - HST 328 ENGLISH CONSTITUTIONAL HISTORY
  - HST 331 THE NATION AND NATIONALISM IN EUROPE
  - HST 332 FRENCH REVOLUTION AND NAPOLEON
  - HST 335 EUROPE IN AN AGE OF ENLIGHTMENT
  - HST 371 THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION
  - HST 379 RECONSTRUCTION AND THE RISE OF JIM CROW

  - Any 300-level HST Topics course with a relevant topic
Additional Course

Students will take one additional HST course in either the lower or upper division.

Open Electives

Open elective credit is also required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Public History Concentration

Course Requirements

Lower Division Courses

In addition to the Common Core, students take 5 courses at the 100 or 200 level.

Upper Division Courses

Six courses from the 300-level. One must be a gateway course linked to HST 390.

Additional Public History Requirement

- Three courses from the following list. (These courses count towards lower and upper level requirements):
  - HST 269 MUSEUMS, MATERIAL CULTURE AND MEMORY: INTRODUCTION TO PUBLIC HISTORY
  - HST 360 DOING DIGITAL HISTORY
  - HST 382 CHICAGO HISTORY MUSEUM EXPERIENCE
  - HST 389 TOPICS IN PUBLIC HISTORY
  - HST 391 DOING LOCAL AND COMMUNITY HISTORY
  - HST 396 ORAL HISTORY PROJECT

One Additional Course

Students will take one additional HST course in either the lower or upper divisions.

Open Electives

Open elective credit is also required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Secondary Education History Concentration

Course Requirements

Lower Division Courses

In addition to the Common Core, students take five 100- or 200-level courses, including:

- Two courses in the World History Sequence:
  - HST 111 THE WORLD TO C.1500
  - HST 112 THE WORLD, C.1500-1914
  - HST 113 THE WORLD, 1900-PRESENT

- Two courses in the American History Sequence:
Upper Division Courses

Six courses from the 300 level, one of which must be a gateway course linked to HST 390.

Additional Secondary Education History Requirement

Students must take two additional U.S. History and two additional non-U.S. history courses split between lower and upper division courses.

One Additional Course

Students will take one additional HST course in either the lower or upper divisions.

Open Electives

Open elective credit is also required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Note: out of the courses at the 200- and 300-level, students must complete 2 U.S. courses and 2 non-U.S. courses.

*The Secondary Education concentration is intended to be completed as a double major with the College of Education. Please consult an advisor for more information.

Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

History (BA)/Journalism (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.25 GPA in their major courses and 3.0 cumulative GPA are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by May 1 (priority deadline): BA/MA Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, Statement of Purpose (750 words) explaining why the student is seeking admission to the program, writing sample or project that demonstrates the applicant's ability in journalism, and two letters of recommendation from professors in the History department.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Journalism coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Students can defer their graduate admission for one year. If students do not matriculate after completing their BA degrees or within the one year deferral period, the graduate courses taken as undergraduate students will no longer count towards the graduate degree and students must reapply for admission to the graduate program.

History (BA)/ International Studies (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA eligible to apply to the program. During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of International Studies coursework as well as a thesis preparation course, which may be taken as HST 390 or INT 301.

History (BA)/ Secondary Education History (MEd)

The TEACH Program combines a Liberal Arts and Social Sciences (LAS) undergraduate Social Science major...
(Anthropology, Economics, Geography, History, Political Science, or Sociology) or a Science and Health (Psychology) major with a graduate level College of Education (COE) Master’s in Education Program. Students graduate with a BA or BS in their disciplinary major and a MEd in Education with State of Illinois Secondary Social Science licensure.

This combined degree program of the College of Liberal Arts and Social Sciences and the College of Education was collaboratively developed, and is governed and taught by faculty from these units.

Students may apply to the Program during the spring of their junior year. They must enroll in the Junior Year Experiential Learning course, TCH 320, and meet other application criteria; these include completion of at least 16 quarter credit hours at DePaul and a 3.0 GPA. During their senior year, students are required to complete a Program capstone course, TCH 390, and three 400-level courses that count toward both their undergraduate and graduate degrees:

- TCH 401 TEACHING AS A PROFESSION IN SECONDARY SCHOOL
- TCH 412 THE NATURE OF HISTORY AND THE SOCIAL SCIENCES
- TCH 422 INQUIRY & APPLICATION IN DEVELOPING SECONDARY HISTORY AND SOCIAL SCIENCES PEDAGOGY

Content Area Requirements for Secondary History Education (grades of C or better required for certification):

The following courses should be completed as part of the history major:

- HST 298 INTRODUCTION TO HISTORICAL SOURCES AND METHODS (serves as prerequisite for HST 299 & serves as prerequisite for upper division History courses)
- HST 299 CRAFT OF HISTORY
- 4 US History courses
- 4 Non-US History courses

*A minimum of four History courses must be at the upper division level (300-level) with at least one of those courses in non-US History.

Additional licensure requirements which can be taken as liberal studies or open elective requirements (minimum of one course in each discipline required):

- Geography (GEO 101 recommended)
- Economics (ECO 106 recommended)
- Political Science (PSC 120 recommended)
- Sociology (SOC 101 recommended)
- Psychology (PSY 105 recommended)
- Anthropology (ANT 102 recommended)

History (Minor)

DePaul's History minor is designed to help students develop a critical understanding of the past, as well as its impact on the present and the future. Students may pick a specific focus area of interest to complement their major.

Course Requirements

- HST 298 INTRODUCTION TO HISTORICAL SOURCES AND METHODS
- Two lower division HST courses (100 or 200 level)
- Two upper division HST courses (300 level)
- One course in either the lower or upper level

Students majoring in History (B.A.) are restricted from earning this minor.
History of Art and Architecture (BA)

The Department of the History of Art and Architecture familiarizes DePaul students with works of art that define civilizations around the world from their emergence to the present day. The study of art is integral to the development of human knowledge and thus consistent with the academic goals of DePaul University as well as a liberal arts education. We extend the Vincentian mission in our particular focus on comparative culture and art in its urban setting. In an increasingly interconnected world, art history encourages a critical engagement with the visual and its role in individual and social formation.

The study of art and architectural history prepares students for a wide variety of careers and post-graduate pursuits. Thus, all of our classes foster critical thinking by developing visual literacy, close reading, persuasive writing, research skills and oral communication. Taking advantage of the rich cultural resources of Chicago through classroom lectures, discussions and site visits to exhibits, museums, and architectural monuments, students come to understand how art is produced and how it operates in its social and historical moment. In more advanced classes, students become well-versed in the nature of the field and its current and traditional theoretical issues. In these classes, too, consideration is given to the professional world, including museums, galleries, cultural institutions, and the global art market.

All of these goals are consistent with our professional aspirations, not only as faculty, but as scholars who distinguish ourselves by the breadth of our geographical and chronological interests and through our record of publishing and professional achievements. Although our approaches vary widely, we are united in our shared interest in the creative, social, and political forces that both determine and emanate from all works of art.

Learning Outcomes

Student will be able to:

- Identify and analyze physical, technical, and conceptual aspects of an object, building, or architectural site.
- Initiate and conduct independent research on art and architecture, making use of library, textual, and primary source materials.
- Discuss and explain, in an in-depth way, the history of art and architecture, including its most compelling theoretical issues, and various ideological approaches.
- Speak and write in a sophisticated way on the diverse cultural, ethnic and gender traditions in the visual arts and architecture.
- Demonstrate a geographically and chronologically broad knowledge of art and architecture sufficient for applying to graduate programs or for entry level work in most professional art contexts, such as museums, galleries, educational and research centers, and publications.

College Core Requirements

Study in the Major Field

The student’s course of study in the College consists of three parts: Liberal Studies, the major field, and electives. Together these three parts contribute to the liberal education of the student which is the common purpose of all study in the College. By “liberal education” the College understands not only a deep and through knowledge of a particular area of study but a knowledge of the diverse areas of study represented by criticism, history, the arts, the behavioral and social sciences, philosophy, religious studies, the natural science, and mathematics.

The major field program generally is built upon a set of core courses and a specialized “concentration.” The number of courses required for a major varies by department. Most students go beyond the minimum requirements, electing additional courses which both broaden and deepen their understanding of their chosen discipline.

Because no academic major program is built in isolation, students are required to pursue a number of electives of the student’s choice. The inherent flexibility of this curriculum demands that the student consult an academic advisor at each stage in the total program and at least once prior to each registration.

Students will be prompted to visit the College Office for their official graduation check early in their senior year.

Declaration of Major, Minor and Concentration

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor in the major field department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

Students must declare or change majors, minors, and concentrations, via Campus Connection. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the the Office for Academic Advising Support.

The Modern Language Requirement (MLR)

All students will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language (i.e., a language other than English) equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. This Modern Language Requirement (MLR) may be demonstrated by:

- placing into 104 or above on the DePaul language placement exam
- completing the last course or earning AP/IB credit for the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language (e.g. 103 for DePaul language classes)
- completing a college course or earning AP/IB credit for a college course beyond the first-year level in any language (e.g. 104 or above for DePaul language classes)
- completing the final course of a four-year sequence of the same modern language in high school*
- completing a proctored exam by BYU and passing the exam (see the Department of Modern Languages website for registration details)
- completing a proctored Written Proficiency Test (WPT) by Language Testing International (LTI) and achieving a score of Beginner High or above (see the Department of Modern Languages website for registration details)

* Students are strongly encouraged to take the DePaul language placement exam even if they have met the MLR via study of a language in high school. This will ensure continuation of language study at the proper level.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College will abide by this MLR in place on the effective date of the ICT, regardless of when they first matriculated at DePaul.

Students who have met the MLR and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" (MLO) of the Liberal Studies Program (see “Special Programs”).

External Credit and Residency

A student who has been admitted to the College begins residency within the college as of the first day of classes of the term in which the student is registered. Students in residence, whether attending on a full-time or part-time basis, may not take courses away from DePaul University without the written permission of the college.
Permission must be obtained in advance of registration to avoid loss of credit or residency in the college; see the LAS website for more information.

* Students must earn a C- or better in this course.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab or SWK requirement.

History of Art and Architecture (Minor)

The minor program helps students develop visual literacy by critically thinking about how art and architecture affect individuals and societies. Students may focus on a particular area of art history or architecture.

Course Requirements

- One course from the following list:
  - HAA 101 AFRICAN ART
  - HAA 115 ASIAN ART
  - HAA 145 ARTS OF THE AMERICAS
- Five additional 200- or 300-level history of art and architecture courses
  - HAA 130 EUROPEAN ART may be substituted for one 200 or 300 level course in the minor

Students wishing to group their minor courses around a specialty should confer with the history of art and architecture professor in that specialty.

Students majoring in History of Art and Architecture (BA) are restricted from earning this minor.
Hospitality Accounting and Management Information Systems (Minor)

The applied field of hospitality is worldwide in both scale and scope. While many business skills are routinely utilized in the field, the practice of accounting in U.S. hotels and restaurants is different than what is common for other industries. DePaul students are trained in the classic accounting principles that are in compliance with GAAP; however, hospitality firms follow a unique set of GAAP standards that have been customized for the hospitality industry. Students wishing to prepare for comptroller and related accounting leadership positions will need this specialized knowledge in order to be successful. Further, the role of management information systems developed for the hospitality industry is complex, integrative and specialized for these large-scale yet unique operations. The comptroller of a hotel or restaurant is often charged with the selection, implementation and oversight of such systems. Knowledge of system functionality, integration issues, and how financial data flows from one system to the next is required for the typical hospitality comptroller. Thus, this 20-hour minor has been built with the assistance of the School of Accountancy and Management Information Systems to provide students with the required knowledge.

Declaration Requirements

To declare a minor in Hospitality Accounting and Management Information Systems, a student must meet the following requirements:

- A minimum cumulative DePaul grade point average of 2.000
- No grades of IN, R, or lower than C- in any Hospitality Leadership (HSP) course
- Completion of ACC 101, ACC 102, and MIS 140 with a minimum grade of C- in each

Course Requirements

A student minoring in Hospitality Accounting and Management Information Systems is required to complete the following courses totaling at least 20.0 hours:

- HSP 100 INTRODUCTION TO HOSPITALITY
- HSP 201 HOSPITALITY SERVICE & EXPERIENCE MANAGEMENT (2.0 hour)
- HSP 202 HOSPITALITY BUSINESS OPERATIONS (2.0 hour)
- HSP 386 HOSPITALITY ACCOUNTING I: REVENUES & EXPENSES
- HSP 387 HOSPITALITY ACCOUNTING II: CAPITAL MANAGEMENT & RISK
- HSP 388 HOSPITALITY ACCOUNTING III: BUDGETS & LEASES (1.0 hour)
- HSP 389 HOSPITALITY ACCOUNTING IV: INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY SYSTEMS (3.0 hours)

Degree Conferral Requirements

All Hospitality Leadership (HSP) courses and any other courses used toward the minor must be completed with a minimum grade of C- and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.

Hospitality Leadership (BSB)

The heart and soul of any academic program is the curriculum and the faculty who deliver it. We have developed our unique curriculum with the strong involvement of local Chicago hospitality industry leaders and the members of our national advisory board. We have also asked senior faculty at four of the nation's top ranked hospitality programs to review it and advise us how to strengthen it. By incorporating this input, we created a powerful curriculum that distinguishes us from other hospitality programs. Our curriculum blends two primary concepts: hospitality industry knowledge and key business skills. Additionally, woven throughout the courses are five central themes: leadership, ethics, human resources, globalization and sustainability. By including these themes in many of our courses, we strive to deeply instill within students a sense of personal and corporate social responsibility embedded within an awareness of the larger world around them.

We have three primary curricular goals:

1. Embed a true sense of hospitality within our students; that is, to create a bedrock belief that hospitality is about serving others.
2. Create industry leaders prepared to deliver hospitality to anyone who needs it, whenever or wherever.
3. Embrace the Vincentian mission: to share hospitality with the underprivileged and disenfranchised members of our communities.

The Hospitality Leadership major is comprised of three components: the Liberal Studies Program (the broad, general education of members of our society), the College of Business core (foundational business skills), and the specific requirements of the School of Hospitality Leadership.

  - WRD 206 PROFESSIONAL WRITING

Second Majors and Minors

The addition of a second major or minor may affect the Business Core classes required for a student. Meet with an academic advisor to confirm requirements.

Math Requirements

- A student is expected to complete the business math sequence (MAT 135, MAT 136, and MAT 137) in the first year of study
- MAT 135 and MAT 137 are completed through Liberal Studies requirements
- MAT 135 may be replaced by MAT 150 or MAT 160 or MAT 170
- MAT 136 may be replaced by MAT 151 or MAT 161 or MAT 171
- MAT 135 and MAT 136 may be replaced by the sequence of MAT 147, MAT 148, and MAT 149
- MAT 137 may be replaced by MAT 348 or MAT 351; if done, an additional Scientific Inquiry course must be added to the degree plan

Grade Minimums for Hospitality Leadership Major

A minimum grade of C- is required for the following: ACC101, ACC 102, ECO 105, ECO 106, HSP 207, ICS 396, MAT 135, MAT 136, MAT 137, and the course in Professional Writing.

Business Capstone Requirement
Hospitality Leadership majors must take ICS 396 for the Business Capstone; use of ICS 396 is limited to Hospitality Leadership majors.

Business Law Requirement

Hospitality Leadership majors must take HSP 207 for the Business Law requirement; use of HSP 207 is limited to Hospitality Leadership majors. A student majoring in Hospitality Leadership and a second business major must complete both HSP 207 and BLW 201.

Business Capstone

Hospitality Leadership majors must take ICS 396 for the Business Capstone; use of ICS 396 is limited to Hospitality Leadership majors.

Business Law

Hospitality Leadership majors must take HSP 207 for the Business Law requirement; use of HSP 207 is limited to Hospitality Leadership majors. A student majoring in Hospitality Leadership and a second business major must complete both HSP 207 and BLW 201.

Junior Year Experiential Learning

Hospitality Leadership majors must complete HSP 303 and HSP 304. The completed sequence satisfies the requirement for Experiential Learning in the Liberal Studies Program.

Hospitality Leadership Milestones

The Hospitality Leadership Milestones are independent activities that a student majoring in Hospitality Leadership must complete prior to graduation. Minors offered by the School of Hospitality Leadership do not require milestone completion unless otherwise noted.

1. ServSafe Alcohol Certification or TIPS: These two certifications are equivalent industry standards in the proper handling of alcohol and spirits. Students are to complete one of the two certifications and submit proof of completion to the School of Hospitality Leadership anytime prior to graduation. The exams may be found at http://www.servsafe.com/alcohol and http://gettips.com. Only one of these two alcohol-handling certifications is required.

2. ServSafe Manager Certification: This certification is a standard in the Food & Beverage industry and students can use it to strengthen their individual credentials. Every U.S. foodservice outlet must have at least one manager who holds this certification. The focus is upon risk and sanitation concerns in foodservice operations. Students are to complete the standardized exam found at http://www.servsafe.com and submit proof of completion to the School of Hospitality Leadership anytime prior to graduation.

Open Electives

Open elective credit (4.0 hours) is needed to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Degree Conferral Requirements

All Hospitality Leadership (HSP) courses and any other courses used toward the major must be completed with a minimum grade of C- (or PA where specified) and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.
Concentration Requirements

Concentrations, tracks and specializations provide focus to the major. In addition to any college core requirements, liberal studies requirements and major requirements, students are required to choose one of the following:

- Event Management
- Food & Beverage Management
- Lodging Management
- Non-Profit Hospitality Leadership
- Private Club Management

Private Club Management

This field of study is about the management of membership clubs. The many different types of clubs that need managers include city clubs, country clubs, golf clubs, athletic clubs, yacht clubs, faculty clubs, town clubs, and military clubs. As membership-based organizations, the customers and staff are often in regular contact, sometimes on a weekly or monthly basis. Learning how to create engaging programs to satisfy member interest is a key challenge in this industry. A student majoring in Hospitality Leadership with this concentration must complete the following requirements totaling at least 12.0 hours:

- One required course:
  - HSP 320 CLUB MANAGEMENT
- Two elective courses to be chosen from:
  - HSP 323 ADVANCED CLUB MANAGEMENT
  - HSP 330 FOODSERVICE MANAGEMENT
  - HSP 331 FOODSERVICE PURCHASING
  - HSP 332 BEVERAGE MANAGEMENT
  - HSP 333 INTERNATIONAL WINE EDUCATION & MANAGEMENT
  - HSP 340 LODGING PROPERTY MANAGEMENT
  - HSP 350 EVENT PLANNING
  - HSP 352 EVENT PRODUCTION
  - HSP 361 YIELD MANAGEMENT
  - HSP 382 MANAGING PEOPLE IN THE HOSPITALITY ENVIRONMENT
  - HSP 398 SPECIAL TOPICS IN HOSPITALITY
  - ICS 350 INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS SEMINAR (Hospitality-led programs only)
  - MGT 340 LEADERSHIP IN SPORTS: LESSONS FOR COACHING IN THE WORKPLACE
  - MGT 356 SPORTS MANAGEMENT

Degree Conferral Requirements

All Hospitality Leadership (HSP), Management (MGT), and any other courses used toward the Hospitality Leadership major must be completed with a minimum grade of C- (or PA where specified) and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.
Non-Profit Hospitality Leadership

Food and overnight accommodations are often part of a social service network offered by a community. Examples include soup kitchens, shelters for battered women and children, support centers for the homeless, disaster relief efforts, etc. The purpose of this concentration is to provide social service providers with the necessary knowledge to operate hospitality venues in a safe, clean and financially viable yet non-profit manner. A student majoring in Hospitality Leadership with this concentration must complete the following requirements totaling at least 12.0 hours:

Three courses to be chosen from:

- HSP 331 FOODSERVICE PURCHASING
- HSP 339 NON-PROFIT FOODSERVICE MANAGEMENT
- HSP 349 NON-PROFIT ACCOMMODATION, SAFETY & SECURITY
- HSP 398 SPECIAL TOPICS IN HOSPITALITY: Non-Profit Event Management

Degree Conferral Requirements

All Hospitality Leadership (HSP) courses and any other courses used toward the Hospitality Leadership major must be completed with a minimum grade of C- (or PA where specified) and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.

Lodging Management

Hotels, motels, inns, bed & breakfast, resorts, cruises, etc., or anywhere that people sleep away from home is included in this concentration. This field includes the management of all of the various facilities and amenities found at modern lodging facilities: sleeping rooms, restaurants, bars, meetings & events, catering, recreation facilities, business centers, etc., in a wide range of environments. A student majoring in Hospitality Leadership with this concentration must complete the following requirements totaling at least 12.0 hours:

- One required course:
  - HSP 340 LODGING PROPERTY MANAGEMENT
- Two elective courses to be chosen from:
  - HSP 330 FOODSERVICE MANAGEMENT
  - HSP 341 RESORT & SPA MANAGEMENT
  - HSP 342 TIME SHARE MANAGEMENT

  - HSP 372 GLOBAL HOSPITALITY BRAND MANAGEMENT
  - HSP 382 MANAGING PEOPLE IN THE HOSPITALITY ENVIRONMENT
  - HSP 398 SPECIAL TOPICS IN HOSPITALITY
  - ICS 350 INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS SEMINAR (Hospitality-led programs only)

Degree Conferral Requirements

All Hospitality Leadership (HSP) courses and any other courses used toward the Hospitality Leadership major must be completed with a minimum grade of C- (or PA where specified) and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.
Food & Beverage Management

Students can prepare for leadership careers in restaurants, contract food companies (industrial and commercial settings), catering, and bar/beverage organizations by completing this concentration. The focus of the coursework is upon the development of strong managerial skills in the leadership of foodservice operations rather than culinary expertise. Students are strongly encouraged to complete at least one internship in the 'back of the house' (kitchen) in order to gain an understanding of culinary operations. A student majoring in Hospitality Leadership with this concentration must complete the following requirements totaling at least 12.0 hours:

- One required course:
  - HSP 330 FOODSERVICE MANAGEMENT

- Two elective courses to be chosen from:
  - HSP 331 FOODSERVICE PURCHASING
  - HSP 332 BEVERAGE MANAGEMENT
  - HSP 333 INTERNATIONAL WINE EDUCATION & MANAGEMENT
  - HSP 334 CONTRACT FOODSERVICE MANAGEMENT
  - HSP 352 EVENT PRODUCTION

  - HSP 371 CUSTOMER RELATIONSHIP MANAGEMENT
  - HSP 372 GLOBAL HOSPITALITY BRAND MANAGEMENT
  - HSP 382 MANAGING PEOPLE IN THE HOSPITALITY ENVIRONMENT
  - HSP 398 SPECIAL TOPICS IN HOSPITALITY
  - ICS 350 INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS SEMINAR (Hospitality-led programs only)

Degree Conferral Requirements

All Hospitality Leadership (HSP) courses and any other courses used toward the Hospitality Leadership major must be completed with a minimum grade of C- (or PA where specified) and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.

Event Management

This dynamic and fast growing field includes the management of meetings, events, and tradeshows for organizations and facilities. Career paths include corporate planning, association planning, special event companies, and intermediaries or third party planning companies. Most common types of meetings and events planned by these professionals include: product launches, business meetings, conventions, tradeshows, customer events, and special events. A student majoring in Hospitality Leadership with this concentration must complete the following requirements totaling at least 12.0 hours:

- One required course:
  - HSP 350 EVENT PLANNING

- Two elective courses to be chosen from:
  - HSP 351 EVENT TOURISM
  - HSP 352 EVENT PRODUCTION
  - HSP 353 EVENT SALES & SERVICE
  - HSP 355 ADVANCED EVENT MANAGEMENT
  - HSP 382 MANAGING PEOPLE IN THE HOSPITALITY ENVIRONMENT
  - HSP 398 SPECIAL TOPICS IN HOSPITALITY
  - ICS 350 INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS SEMINAR (Hospitality-led programs only)

Degree Conferral Requirements
All Hospitality Leadership (HSP) courses and any other courses used toward the Hospitality Leadership major must be completed with a minimum grade of C- (or PA where specified) and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.

Specialization Requirements

Concentrations, tracks and specializations provide focus to the major. In addition to any college core requirements, liberal studies requirements and major requirements, students are required to choose one of the following:

- Entrepreneurship
- Hospitality Accounting and MIS
- Hospitality Real Estate
- Leadership
- Revenue Management
- Sales Leadership
- Virtual Marketing

Virtual Marketing

The Internet and social media tools such as Twitter, Facebook, YouTube, etc., have created marketing opportunities for businesses. Hospitality firms need help in harnessing this power of digital marketing. In addition, the preponderance of customer loyal programs, such as frequent diner points at restaurants and frequent stay points at hotels, has added to the complexity of strategic marketing plans. A student majoring in Hospitality Leadership with this specialization must complete the following requirements totaling at least 12.0 hours:

- HSP 371 CUSTOMER RELATIONSHIP MANAGEMENT
- MKT 395 INTERACTIVE/INTERNET MARKETING
- MKT 398 SPECIAL TOPICS: Social Media

Degree Conferral Requirements

All Hospitality Leadership (HSP), Marketing (MKT), and any other courses used toward the Hospitality Leadership major must be completed with a minimum grade of C- (or PA where specified) and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.

Sales Leadership

Selling to groups of people, whether for business or pleasure, is an integral part of the hospitality business. Corporations send legions of managers to meetings and conventions, and to call upon customers for sales and service purposes. Travel agencies design package tours that are open to the general public. Families celebrate weddings, anniversaries, and other special events. All of these activities involve the negotiation and coordination of groups of people who often want food to eat, places to meet, and rooms in which to sleep. To prepare for a career in the art of selling to these groups, a student majoring in Hospitality Leadership with this specialization must complete the following requirements totaling at least 12.0 hours:

- MKT 377 FUNDAMENTALS OF SALES & NETWORKING
- MKT 379 LEADERSHIP IN SALES ORGANIZATIONS
- MKT 383 ADVANCED VALUATIONS FOR BUSINESS

Degree Conferral Requirements

All Hospitality Leadership (HSP), Marketing (MKT), and any other courses used toward the Hospitality Leadership major must be completed with a minimum grade of C- (or PA where specified) and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.

Revenue Management

Similar to the tactics airlines use to offers seats and flight ticket prices, hotels seek to maximize revenue through the careful process of offering rooms at various price points through different distribution channels. This focus on managing the revenue stream has become a central role in the operation of the hotel. Managers are needed who understand the concepts of pricing, human behavior, forecasting demand, and the distribution channels through which hotel reservations are made available. A student majoring in Hospitality Leadership with this specialization must complete the following requirements totaling at least 12.0 hours:

- Two required courses:
  - HSP 360 HOSPITALITY PRICING
  - HSP 361 YIELD MANAGEMENT
- One elective course to be chosen from:
  - HSP 362 GLOBAL DISTRIBUTION SYSTEMS
  - HSP 371 CUSTOMER RELATIONSHIP MANAGEMENT

Degree Conferral Requirements

All Hospitality Leadership (HSP) courses and any other courses used toward the Hospitality Leadership major must be completed with a minimum grade of C- (or PA where specified) and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.

Leadership

This specialization is designed for the student who wishes to build a career in the daily operations of the business. A student pursuing this specialization must choose one of the two options below, totaling at least 12.0 hours. The coursework focus in option one is upon human development, including advanced concepts in leadership. The focus in option two is upon understanding more about hospitality operations, enabling a student to delve deeply into how aspects of hospitality business function.

Course Requirements

Option One

- One required course:
  - MGT 360 LEADERSHIP
- Two elective courses to be chosen from:
Option Two

- Any three 300-level HSP courses numbered 310-399. Students may also use up to two ICS 350 (Hospitality-led programs only) for Option Two. (Courses may not also be used to satisfy other Hospitality major requirements.)

Degree Conferral Requirements

All Hospitality Leadership (HSP), Management (MGT), and any other courses used toward the Hospitality Leadership major must be completed with a minimum grade of C- (or PA where specified) and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.

Hospitality Real Estate

The millions of hotels and restaurants around the world operate in buildings that sit on pieces of land. With franchising a common business practice in these industries, who owns the building or the land is often someone different from who operates the business. Thus, the buying and selling of the real estate (building and land) is a key factor in the hospitality business. Experts are needed who understand the relationship between real estate transactions and the operations of hotels and restaurants. To gain this needed knowledge, a student majoring in Hospitality Leadership with this specialization must complete the following requirements totaling at least 12.0 hours:

- One required course:
  - RE 350 REAL ESTATE ANALYSIS

- Two courses to be chosen from:
  - RE 300 REAL ESTATE LAW
  - RE 320 URBAN PLANNING AND PUBLIC POLICY
  - RE 352 REAL ESTATE FINANCE
  - RE 353 REAL ESTATE INVESTMENT
  - RE 354 REAL ESTATE VALUATION
  - RE 398 SPECIAL TOPICS (multiple topics may be used)

Degree Conferral Requirements

All Hospitality Leadership (HSP), Real Estate (RE), and any other courses used toward the Hospitality Leadership major must be completed with a minimum grade of C- (or PA where specified) and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.

Hospitality Accounting and Management Information Systems

The applied field of hospitality is worldwide in both scale and scope. While many business skills are routinely utilized in the field, the practice of accounting in U.S. hotels and restaurants is different than what is common for other industries. DePaul students are trained in the classic accounting principles that are in compliance with GAAP; however, hospitality firms follow a unique set of GAAP standards that have been customized for the hospitality industry. Students wishing to prepare for comptroller and related accounting leadership positions will... need this specialized knowledge in order to be successful. Further, the role of management information systems developed for the hospitality industry is complex, integrative and specialized for these large-scale yet unique operations. The comptroller of a hotel or restaurant is often charged with the selection, implementation and oversight of such systems. Knowledge of system functionality, integration issues, and how financial data flows from one system to the next is required for the typical hospitality comptroller. A student majoring in Hospitality Leadership with this specialization must complete the following requirements totaling at least 12.0 hours:

Four required courses:

- HSP 386 HOSPITALITY ACCOUNTING I: REVENUES & EXPENSES
- HSP 387 HOSPITALITY ACCOUNTING II: CAPITAL MANAGEMENT & RISK
- HSP 388 HOSPITALITY ACCOUNTING III: BUDGETS & LEASES (1.0 hour)
- HSP 389 HOSPITALITY ACCOUNTING IV: INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY SYSTEMS (3.0 hours)

Degree Conferral Requirements

All Hospitality Leadership (HSP) courses and any other courses used toward the Hospitality Leadership major must be completed with a minimum grade of C- (or PA where specified) and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.

---

Entrepreneurship

Opening a small business, such as a restaurant or a meeting planning service, is the goal of many students. Aspiring entrepreneurs should select this specialization to help them plan in advance for the start of their new enterprise. As the range of small business opportunities is vast, students have great flexibility in choosing a set of three courses that best fits his or her needs. Choices include offerings from both the Management and Marketing departments where students will be able to use their individual concepts as the focus of much of the coursework. A student majoring in Hospitality Leadership with this specialization must complete the following requirements totaling at least 12.0 hours:

- Two courses chosen from:
  - MGT 360 LEADERSHIP
  - MGT 370 BUSINESS PLAN DEVELOPMENT
  - MGT 373 CREATIVITY & ENTREPRENEURSHIP
- One more course chosen from the list above or:
  - MGT 345 SERVICE SECTOR MANAGEMENT
  - MGT 393 INTERNSHIP AND MANAGEMENT CONSULTING PROGRAM
  - HSP 399 INDEPENDENT STUDY (with approval)
  - MKT 352 NEW PRODUCT DEVELOPMENT
  - MKT 377 FUNDAMENTALS OF SALES & NETWORKING

Degree Conferral Requirements

All Hospitality Leadership (HSP), Management (MGT), Marketing (MKT), and any other courses used toward the Hospitality Leadership major must be completed with a minimum grade of C- (or PA where specified) and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.

Elective Selection

To review what courses may be used for the concentration-specific elective, students should refer to the Concentration Requirements section of the Hospitality Leadership major. A listing of approved courses is available for each of the four concentrations that may be selected for this minor (Private Club Management, Food & Beverage Management, Lodging Management, Event Management).

Degree Conferral Requirements

All Hospitality Leadership (HSP) courses and any other courses used toward the minor must be completed with a minimum grade of C- (or PA where specified) and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.

Hospitality: Revenue Management (Minor)

The hospitality industry has an ongoing need for managers skilled in the science and art of forecasting demand. Similar to the tactics of the airlines in pricing and seat allocation, Revenue Management is a business practice that applies theories of pricing and statistics to patterns of lodging room sales and advance reservations. Knowledge of pricing theory, trend analysis, distribution channels, and customer relationship management (CRM) are key tenets.

Declaration Requirements

To declare a minor in Revenue Management, a Driehaus student must meet the following requirements:

- A minimum cumulative DePaul grade point average of 2.000
- A minimum Hospitality Leadership grade point average of 2.000
- No grades of IN, R, or lower than C- in any Hospitality Leadership (HSP) course
- Completion of HSP 100 or HSP 201 with a minimum grade of C- in each

Course Requirements

A Driehaus student minoring in Revenue Management is required to complete the following courses totaling at least 22.0 hours:

- Five required courses:
  - HSP 100 INTRODUCTION TO HOSPITALITY
Degree Conferral Requirements

All Hospitality Leadership (HSP) courses and any other courses used toward the minor must be completed with a minimum grade of C- (or PA where specified) and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.

Individualized Focus Area (BA)

This degree is for adults who want to accelerate their progress through applied experience and individual attention, with a focus of study based on personal or professional goals.

Students meet degree requirements by documenting learning from experience as well as through transfer and SNL courses.

Working with a faculty mentor and an expert in their focus area, students assess their prior learning and develop an individualized plan to meet their goals. Some students focus on topics of personal interest, such as memoir writing. Most students focus on developing knowledge and skills directly related to their current or future careers. Being able to tailor their learning to specific work-related goals provides students with unique opportunities to integrate lifelong, liberal and work-related learning.

The degree is earned after satisfying 50 requirements, written as statements describing competence. Certain competencies are met by specific courses or projects; others can be satisfied by relevant transfer courses or learning from experience.
SNL courses are offered in downtown Chicago, Naperville, and near O'Hare, as well as Online.

Active Duty Servicemembers, Reservists and National Guardsmen

The School for New Learning is an active member of the Servicemembers Opportunity Colleges (SOC) Consortium and operates within the SOC policies and residence requirement parameters in its Individual Focus Area undergraduate degrees. Servicemembers can design degree programs in any area of interest and complete their requirements through a combination of on campus or online learning, documentation of relevant experience and independent study. Academic residency can be completed at any time while enrolled and does not exceed 25% of the academic requirements. SNL programs exempt from SOC participation include the BA in Computing, BA in General Business, BA in Early Childhood Development, and Degree Completion Majors in Applied Behavioral Sciences and Leadership.

---

Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Use independent learning skills and strategies to organize, initiate, and document prior, current, and future college-level learning.
- Design learning strategies to attain goals for personal and educational development.
- Reflect on the learning process and methods used in an experiential project.
- Articulate the personal and social value of lifelong learning.
- Assess the social and personal value of civic engagement for achieving change.
- Write to analyze, synthesize, and evaluate experiences and concepts to demonstrate competences.
- Analyze issues and reconcile problems through critical and appreciative thinking.
- Use mathematical symbols, concepts, and methods to describe and solve problems.
- Learn collaboratively and examine the skills, knowledge, and values that contribute to such learning.
- Pose questions and use methods of formal inquiry to answer questions and solve problems.
- Analyze a problem using two different ethical systems.
- Define and analyze a creative process.
- Analyze power relations among racial, social, cultural, or economic groups in the United States.
- Analyze issues and problems from a global perspective.
- Describe and explain connections among diverse aspects of nature.
- Use current information technology for integrated solutions to problems.
- Design and produce a significant document that gives evidence of advanced competence in one’s own focus area.

---

Competence Framework

The SNL curriculum is organized around the knowledge, skills and abilities that describe an educated adult in contemporary society. These are defined by a framework of 50 competence statements grouped in 3 areas: Lifelong Learning, Individual Focus, and Liberal Learning. Students demonstrate these degree requirements through SNL courses, independent learning projects, and transfer coursework.

Students in SNL’s competence-based joint degree programs, the BA in Computing, BA in Early Childhood Education and BA in General Business follow a format similar to the descriptions below with some variations. See their Program Requirements for more information.

Lifelong Learning Area

The Lifelong Learning Area has 12 competences that develop skills in reading, writing, goal setting, decision-making, teamwork, and research.

Liberal Learning Area
The Liberal Learning Area encompasses fields of study generally referred to as the Liberal Arts. Students satisfy 26 competences in this area.

This area is divided into 3 categories: Arts and Ideas (AI), Human Community (HC), and Scientific World (SW). Each category is divided into 3 subcategories. Students complete 8 competences in each category and 2 additional Advanced Elective competences. Students must satisfy at least 1 competence from each subcategory, and 3 more from any subcategory. The 4th and 5th competences are required.

Arts and Ideas Category

This category includes the arts, philosophy, theology, literature, and other fields that focus on expression of values and aesthetics. The 3 subcategories are: Interpreting the Arts, Creative Expression, and Reflection and Meaning.

Human Community Category

This category includes human relations, history, political science, and other fields closely aligned with the development and maintenance of human society. The 3 subcategories are: Communities and Society, Institutions and Organizations, and Individual Development.

The Scientific World Category

This category includes fields related to scientific inquiry, technology, and relevant skills. The 3 subcategories in this area are: Experiencing Science, Patterns and Processes, and Science, Technology and Society.

Individual Focus Area

The Individual Focus Area may reflect a field of study, preparation for graduate study, a career goal or avocation. These 12 competences are defined by the student with the advice and approval of a faculty mentor and a professional advisor who has expertise in the area of interest.

The BA in Computing, BA in Early Childhood Education and BA in General Business each have a series of prescribed competence statements in their Focus Areas that correspond to particular course requirements.

Program Requirements

Lifelong Learning

The Lifelong Learning Area consists of 12 competencies satisfied by 8 required SNL courses, approved transfer courses or proficiency exams. They are:

- LL 103 INDEPENDENT LEARNING SEMINAR (L-1)
- LL 250 FOUNDATIONS OF ADULT LEARNING: DEVELOPING PERSONAL, PROFESSIONAL AND EDUCATIONAL GOALS (L-2 & F-1)
- L-3: Civic Engagement competence in SNL course, transfer, or experience. The L-3 competence is available in the following SNL courses:
  - AI 143 ROOTED IN THE CITY: WRITERS & WRITING IN CHICAGO

Liberal Learning

The Liberal Learning Area consists of 26 competencies in 4 categories. Competencies can be satisfied by SNL courses, relevant transfer courses of C- or better, and documented college-level learning from experience. They are:

Arts & Ideas Category

- 1 from Interpreting the Arts (A-1)
- 1 from Creative Expression (A-2)
- 1 from Reflection and Meaning (A-3)
- 1 from Ethics in the Contemporary World (A-4)
- 1 from Creativity (A-5)
- 3 additional AI competencies

Human Community Category

- 1 from Communities and Societies (H-1)
- 1 from Institutions and Organizations (H-2)
- 1 from Individual Development (H-3)
- 1 from Power and Justice (H-4)
- 1 from Globalization (H-5)
- 3 additional HC competencies

The Scientific World Category

Focus Area

The Focus Area consists of 12 competencies satisfied by SNL courses, relevant transfer courses of C- or better, and documented college-level learning from experience.

- F-1: Focused Planning (Fulfilled by LL 250)
- F-2: Focus Area Elective
- F-3: Focus Area Elective
- F-4: Focus Area Elective
- F-5: Focus Area Elective
- F-6: Focus Area Elective
- F-7: Focus Area Elective
- F-8: Focus Area Elective
- F-9: Focus Area Elective
- F-10: Focus Area Elective
- F-11: Advanced Project (Fulfilled by FA 303 or FA 304)
- F-12: Advanced Project (Fulfilled by FA 303 or FA 304)

Leadership Track

Students pursuing the Bachelor of Arts with an Individualized Focus Area can select the Leadership Track, which consists of courses designed to provide broad-based, basic competence in skills and theories necessary to leadership in the 21st century.

This 50-competence program includes 10 core courses, elective courses in liberal arts, and a minimum of 9 leadership courses from the following list:

- AI 256 WORKPLACE AND PROFESSIONAL ETHICS
- DCM 301 EFFECTIVE LEADERSHIP IN A CHANGING PROFESSIONAL ENVIRONMENT
- DCM 302 PROJECT MANAGEMENT: DESIGN AND ASSESSMENT
- DCM 303 LEADERSHIP MODELS FOR STRONG ORGANIZATIONS
- DCM 311 CONFLICT MANAGEMENT AND NEGOTIATION
- DCM 317 ETHICS IN THE PROFESSIONS
- FA 260 ESSENTIALS OF PROJECT MANAGEMENT
- FA 316 MAKING BUDGETS: FINANCIAL AND ETHICAL INTERPRETATIONS
- HC 267 WORKPLACE LAW: HARASSMENT, DISCRIMINATION AND CIVIL RIGHTS
- An additional course or courses not on this list but approved for the Leadership Track by the student’s faculty mentor and professional advisor.
Industrial/Organizational Psychology (Minor)

The Industrial Organizational Psychology minor allows you to explore the behaviors that contribute to a successful or problematic work environment. This minor complements a major course of study tied closely with businesses.

This minor is only for non-psychology majors and a maximum of one psychology minor may be earned by a student.

Students cannot earn a minor in the same academic program as their major.

Six psychology courses are required, including:

- PSY 105 INTRODUCTORY PSYCHOLOGY I
- PSY 106 INTRODUCTORY PSYCHOLOGY II
- PSY 380 INDUSTRIAL AND ORGANIZATIONAL PSYCHOLOGY - Offered at least twice a year.
- At least one from the I/O approved list:
  - PSY 355 GROUPS AND ORGANIZATIONS
  - PSY 381 PERSONNEL PSYCHOLOGY
  - PSY 382 ORGANIZATIONAL BEHAVIOR
  - PSY 385 TRAINING AND DEVELOPMENT IN ORGANIZATIONS
  - PSY 388 TOPICAL SEMINAR IN INDUSTRIAL - ORGANIZATIONAL PSYCHOLOGY
- Any two additional psychology courses. It is recommended that they be from the above list, but it is not required.

Information and Computing in the Modern World (Minor)

The minor in Information and Computing in the Modern World offers an understanding of the mechanisms and impact of the internet and the media information stream it creates across the globe.

Course Requirements

- ECT 250 INTERNET, COMMERCE, AND SOCIETY
- HCI 201 MULTIMEDIA AND THE WORLD WIDE WEB
- IS 201 INTRODUCTION TO INFORMATION SYSTEMS
- IS 215 ANALYSIS AND DESIGN TECHNIQUES
- CSC 223 THE IMPACT OF COMPUTING TECHNOLOGY ON OUR LIVES
  - or IT 228 ETHICS IN COMPUTER GAMES AND CINEMA
  - or CSC 208 ETHICS IN TECHNOLOGY
  - or IS 208 INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY, ECONOMY AND SOCIETY
- IS 324 ENTERPRISE ARCHITECTURE
  - or IS 331 FUNDAMENTALS OF DIGITAL PRODUCT MANAGEMENT
  - or IT 398 TOPICS IN GLOBAL INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY
Information Assurance and Security Engineering (BS)

The BS in Information Assurance and Security Engineering prepares students to evaluate and manage an organization's computer, information and network security, as well as develop a solid information technology infrastructure.

Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Explain the differences between the three major goals of information security: confidentiality, integrity and availability.
  - List and explain one technique for ensuring each.
- Implement in the security lab environment a comprehensive and integrated security infrastructure that meets or exceeds current best practices.
- Design and write security policies by writing a policy for an environment presented in a case study.
- Perform risk assessment for an organization.
- Design a security infrastructure based on the business requirements of an organization.
- Define appropriate security incident response policies.
- Identify weaknesses in non-technical elements such as processes and human factors.
- Perform a penetration testing for an organization.

Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

Students who meet the admission requirements below may choose to apply to a combined degree program. Interested students should consult their faculty advisor regarding the application procedure. This program allows students to combine many CDM bachelor's degrees with a CDM master's degree following the structure outlined below.

Admission Criteria
• Minimum of 44 quarter hours earned
• Minimum of 12 quarter hours earned at DePaul
• GPA of 3.3 or higher in courses taken at DePaul
• Endorsement of faculty advisor

In order to apply for the combined degree program, your faculty advisor must send an e-mail recommendation to the CDM Academic Success Center. The recommendation should include your full name, student ID number, and the bachelor's and master's degrees you wish to combine.

Bachelor of Arts in Computing students who are enrolled via the School for New Learning are eligible for this program. Interested students who meet the admission criteria for a combined degree should contact Kenn Skorupka at SNL for more information.

Program Structure

Students in the combined degree program take a maximum of three graduate level courses that count toward both their bachelor's and master's degree requirements. Students may enroll in graduate level coursework in the junior and senior year only. Students in the combined degree program will receive the bachelor's degree after meeting all graduation requirements including the minimum credit hours required for graduation.

To earn the master's degree, the student must earn as many additional graduate credit hours as needed to reach the minimum number of graduate credit hours required in that master's degree.

Only CDM courses can be taken as part of this program. Advanced programs (e.g., JD/MS, MFA, and PhD) are not eligible for the combined degree program.

Maintaining Good Standing

Cumulative GPA and course grades will be reviewed after each Autumn, Winter, and Spring Quarter.

The student and faculty advisor will be notified when the student's cumulative GPA falls below 3.3 or when the students receives less than a C- in graduate level course.

If a student's cumulative GPA falls below 3.3, the student must earn a term GPA of 3.3 or above in the following quarter to stay in good standing. If the student does not achieve a 3.3 term GPA, then the student will be dismissed from the combined program and resume the traditional B.A./B.S./B.F.A.

If dismissed from the combined degree program after graduate courses have been passed, the graduate courses may only apply to the undergraduate degree. Should the student later be admitted to a graduate program, graduate courses applied to the undergraduate degree may not apply to the graduate program and may not be repeated if they are required in the declared graduate curriculum. Other graduate courses may be substituted in this case.

Designing a Course of Study

It is extremely important that the student and faculty advisor work together on a course of study immediately upon admission to the Combined Degree Program.

This course of study should include the graduate courses to be taken and the undergraduate courses that are replaced by the graduate courses. Failure to put together a solid plan can lead to extra coursework and a lengthening of the Combined Degree program.

It is advisable for the student and the faculty advisor to enter the proposed plan of study in the student communication record on the CDM intranet so it is available to the student and CDM faculty and staff.

Registering for Master's Degree Courses

Combined degree students must meet regularly with their faculty advisors. The faculty advisor will initiate the registration process for all graduate level courses taken during the undergraduate career.

Bachelor's Degree to Master's Degree Transition

In order to be fully admitted to the designated master's program, the student must meet all admission requirements for that program. When preparing to complete the undergraduate portion of the combined degree, students must submit the application for degree conferral for the undergraduate degree by the application deadline. At this time, the students should contact the CDM Academic Success Center about the procedure required to be formally admitted to the declared graduate program.
Information Systems (BS)

The BS in Information Systems focuses on the organizational and business application of computers and related technologies. It prepares students for careers in IT project management, systems analysis & design, database administration, helpdesk, enterprise systems administration, and user training.

Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Describe major types and characteristics of business information systems.
- Design data flows and process modeling for commonly deployed business information systems.
- Develop a database diagram from a set of business rules, and map the diagram to a set of tables in a relational database.
- Describe the characteristics and implementation requirements for enterprise-level information systems.
- Create a project charter or plan for the development of an information system.
- Recommend testing, deployment options and user training for a particular type of business information system.
- Construct a project plan for a major information system development.

Information Systems (Minor)

DePaul's Information Systems minor will help you acquire the technological skills needed to address the operational, tactical and strategic challenges facing business, governmental and non-profit organizations.

Course Requirements

- IT 240 INTRODUCTION TO DATABASES
- IS 201 INTRODUCTION TO INFORMATION SYSTEMS
- IS 215 ANALYSIS AND DESIGN TECHNIQUES
- IS 372 SOFTWARE PROJECT MANAGEMENT
- IS 373 INTRODUCTION TO ENTERPRISE SYSTEMS
- IT 263 APPLIED NETWORKS AND SECURITY

Students majoring in Information Systems (BS) are restricted from earning this minor.

Information Technology (BS)

The BS in Information Technology focuses on preparing graduates who are able to configure software to meet the needs of organizations. Students acquire skills related to the selection, creation, application, integration and administration of computing technologies. This degree prepares you to become skilled in problem solving and programming, networks and communications systems, databases, Internet and Web technologies, security and project management, and have a strong grasp of business concepts and technical communications.

The BS in Information Technology has two concentrations:

- Standard Concentration
Web Development Concentration

The BS in Information Technology can be completed online by transfer students if they meet the following requirements:

- Have a minimum of 45 quarter/30 semester hours of transfer credit
- Have a minimum cumulative 2.0 GPA
- Be in good standing at the last school they attended

Note - The lab science requirement and the pre-calculus prerequisite for the Data Analysis (IT 223) requirement are not available online at DePaul and will need to be completed on campus or transferred in from another institution.

Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Select and implement the most appropriate communication protocols to support an application’s requirements.
- Choose and conduct at least one appropriate method for each stage of the human-centered design (HCD) process.
- Design, implement and test a normalized database from a case study.
- Construct a website using a framework that includes both client-side and server-side.
- Prepare a threat analysis and recommend the appropriate countermeasures.
- Choose software components and integrate them to create a working application.
- Prepare technical documents and present them to multiple audiences for their capstone project.

Liberal Studies Requirements

Honors program requirements can be found in the individual Colleges & Schools section of the University Catalog. Select Academics, followed by Undergraduate, then Honors Program Alternative.

Notes

Students must take one of the following ethics courses: CSC 208 (PI), PHL 248/MGT 248 (PI) or REL 228/MGT 228 (RD)

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student’s major and is cross-listed with a course within the student’s major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

- ORGC 201 BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL COMMUNICATION

*IT 394 is the first of a two course sequence (8 credit hours). It counts for both the capstone and the Junior Year Experiential Learning. The second course in the sequence is IT 395. Both quarters must be completed to receive any credit.

Concentration Requirements

Students must also complete the requirements from one of the following concentrations: Standard or Web Development.

Degree Requirements

Students in this degree must meet the following requirements:

- Complete a minimum of 192 credit hours (generally 48 courses)
- Earn a grade of C- or higher in WRD 103, WRD 104, and all Major and Minor courses
- Earn a grade of D or higher in all other Liberal Studies and Open Elective courses
- Maintain a cumulative GPA of 2.0 or higher

Concentration Requirements

Concentrations, tracks and specializations provide focus to the major. In addition to any college core requirements, liberal studies requirements and major requirements, students are required to choose one of the following:

- Standard
- Web Development
Standard Concentration

Course Requirements

- CNS 340 FUNDAMENTALS OF INFORMATION ASSURANCE
- IS 215 ANALYSIS AND DESIGN TECHNIQUES
- IS 372 SOFTWARE PROJECT MANAGEMENT
- 5 Major Field Electives
  - Major Electives can be chosen from any 300-level CDM courses. Students must earn a grade of C- or higher in all major elective courses.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Web Development Concentration

Course Requirements

- CNS 340 FUNDAMENTALS OF INFORMATION ASSURANCE
  or CNS 378 HOST BASED SECURITY
- ISM 270 USER-CENTERED WEB DESIGN
- IT 238 INTERACTIVE WEB SCRIPTING
- IT 251 INTRODUCTION TO MOBILE APPS
- IT 338 WEB DEVELOPMENT FRAMEWORKS
- 3 Major Field Electives
  - Major Electives can be chosen from any 300-level CDM courses or from the following list of courses:
    - CSC 243 PYTHON FOR PROGRAMMERS
    - GD 105 INTRO TO VISUAL DESIGN
    - IS 215 ANALYSIS AND DESIGN TECHNIQUES
    - ISM 220 INTERACTIVE DESIGN & PROTOTYPING
  - Students must earn a grade of C- or higher in all major elective courses.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Standard Concentration

Although students are free to take course requirements in any order they choose, provided they have mastered the course-specific prerequisites, it is strongly recommended that students follow these year-by-year suggestions, especially regarding the first-year major courses.
Web Development Concentration

Although students are free to take course requirements in any order they choose, provided they have mastered the course-specific prerequisites, it is strongly recommended that students follow these year-by-year suggestions, especially regarding the first-year major courses.
Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs. Students who meet the admission requirements below may choose to apply to a combined degree program. Interested students should consult their faculty advisor regarding the application procedure. This program allows students to combine many CDM bachelor's degrees with a CDM master's degree following the structure outlined below.

Admission Criteria

- Minimum of 44 quarter hours earned
- Minimum of 12 quarter hours earned at DePaul
- GPA of 3.3 or higher in courses taken at DePaul
- Endorsement of faculty advisor

In order to apply for the combined degree program, your faculty advisor must send an e-mail recommendation to the CDM Academic Success Center. The recommendation should include your full name, student ID number, and the bachelor's and master's degrees you wish to combine.

Bachelor of Arts in Computing students who are enrolled via the School for New Learning are eligible for this program. Interested students who meet the admission criteria for a combined degree should contact Kenn Skorupa at SNL for more information.

Program Structure

Students in the combined degree program take a maximum of three graduate level courses that count toward both their bachelor's and master's degree requirements. Students may enroll in graduate level coursework in the junior and senior year only. Students in the combined degree program will receive the bachelor's degree after meeting all graduation requirements including the minimum credit hours required for graduation.

To earn the master's degree, the student must earn as many additional graduate credit hours as needed to reach the minimum number of graduate credit hours required in that master's degree.
Only CDM courses can be taken as part of this program. Advanced programs (e.g., JD/MS, MFA, and PhD) are not eligible for the combined degree program.

Maintaining Good Standing

Cumulative GPA and course grades will be reviewed after each Autumn, Winter, and Spring Quarter.

The student and faculty advisor will be notified when the student's cumulative GPA falls below 3.3 or when the students receives less than a C- in graduate level course.

If a student's cumulative GPA falls below 3.3, the student must earn a term GPA of 3.3 or above in the following quarter to stay in good standing. If the student does not achieve a 3.3 term GPA, then the student will be dismissed from the combined program and resume the traditional B.A./B.S./B.F.A.

If dismissed from the combined degree program after graduate courses have been passed, the graduate courses may only apply to the undergraduate degree. Should the student later be admitted to a graduate program, graduate courses applied to the undergraduate degree many not apply to the graduate program and may not be repeated if they are required in the declared graduate curriculum. Other graduate courses may be substituted in this case.

Designing a Course of Study

It is extremely important that the student and faculty advisor work together on a course of study immediately upon admission to the Combined Degree Program.

This course of study should include the graduate courses to be taken and the undergraduate courses that are replaced by the graduate courses. Failure to put together a solid plan can lead to extra coursework and a lengthening of the Combined Degree program.

It is advisable for the student and the faculty advisor to enter the proposed plan of study in the student communication record on the CDM intranet so it is available to the student and CDM faculty and staff.

Registering for Master's Degree Courses

Combined degree students must meet regularly with their faculty advisors. The faculty advisor will initiate the registration process for all graduate level courses taken during the undergraduate career.

Bachelor's Degree to Master's Degree Transition

In order to be fully admitted to the designated master's program, the student must meet all admission requirements for that program. When preparing to complete the undergraduate portion of the combined degree, students must submit the application for degree conferral for the undergraduate degree by the application deadline. At this time, the students should contact the CDM Academic Success Center about the procedure required to be formally admitted to the declared graduate program.

Information Technology (Minor)

The Information Technology minor emphasizes the technical aspects of information technology including web design, human interaction, databases, scripting and content management systems.

Course Requirements

- IT 130 INTRODUCTORY COMPUTING FOR THE WEB
- IT 240 INTRODUCTION TO DATABASES
- IT 231 WEB DEVELOPMENT I
- IT 211 INTRODUCTION TO APPLIED PROGRAMMING
- ISM 210 INTRODUCTION TO HUMAN-COMPUTER INTERACTION
- Chose one course from the following list:
  - IT 212 APPLIED OO PROGRAMMING
Interactive and Social Media (BS)

The BS in Interactive and Social Media prepares students for the expanding fields of social media and interaction design. The base program integrates technical and creative disciplines such as human-computer interaction, information technology and graphic design. Concepts and skills involve web development languages, interactive scripting, human-centered design and social computing.

Concentrations

Design Concentration

The design concentration emphasizes coursework in information and interaction design as well as strategies for design of social media. It further prepares students to integrate components for social media and create finished visual designs for website, apps, and causal games.

Development Concentration

The development concentration emphasizes coursework in information technology and interaction scripting. It further prepares students to develop the web sites, mobile apps and interactive displays that they have designed.

Interactive and Social Media (Minor)

The Interactive and Social Media minor gives students a foundational skill set in the expanding field of interaction design and its applications to multimedia and web development.

Course Requirements

- ISM 101 FOUNDATIONS OF INTERACTIVE & SOCIAL MEDIA
- ISM 210 INTRODUCTION TO HUMAN-COMPUTER INTERACTION
- ISM 220 INTERACTIVE DESIGN & PROTOTYPING
- IT 130 INTRODUCTORY COMPUTING FOR THE WEB
- or GD 110 WEB DESIGN
- ISM 270 USER-CENTERED WEB DESIGN
- or ISM 320 ADVANCED PRINCIPLES OF INTERACTIVITY
- Elective from the list of required and elective courses for the Interactive and Social Media major.

Students majoring in Interactive and Social Media (BS) are restricted from earning this minor.

Intercultural Communication (BA)

The B.A. in Intercultural Communication offers students an interdisciplinary degree program that is inclusive of rhetorical studies, performance studies, language and social interaction, sociolinguistics, ethnography, gender studies, public address, critical/cultural communication, and global/transnational studies. Students in this program engage theories and methods for understanding human communication across a variety of intercultural contexts, ranging from urban communication, popular culture, and consumerism to a broad intersection of identities (race, ethnicity, gender, sexuality, class, nation, age, religion, ability).

The curriculum is both deep and broad, enabling students to gain practical expertise in their area of interest while gaining a working knowledge of related areas. The curriculum focuses on ethical practice and the convergence of traditional and new media, preparing students for professional practice in an evolving marketplace. Students learn to express themselves well in oral and written communications, to think critically about communication events all around them, to develop skills valuable in the workplace, and to communicate effectively and appropriately in a diverse world.

Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Articulate the concepts, domains, and dimensions of culture and intercultural communication.
- Apply interpretive and/or critical methods to the study of cultural acts and artifacts.
- Reflexively examine global issues, power dynamics, and social inequities including diverse cultural experiences, perceptions, and behaviors.
- Employ effectively and appropriately intercultural communication skills with sensitivity and empathy.
- Demonstrate presentation skills in professional and social contexts.

College Core Requirements

All majors in the College of Communication (with the exception of Public Relations and Advertising) consist of a total of fourteen courses: a four-course common core plus an additional combination of ten program requirements and electives. The Public Relations and Advertising major consists of a total of fifteen courses: a four-course common core plus an additional combination of eleven program requirements and electives.

Course Requirements

Four core courses are required of all College of Communication students:

- CMN 101 INTRODUCTION TO HUMAN COMMUNICATION
- CMN 102 INTRODUCTION TO MASS COMMUNICATION
- CMN 103 INTERCULTURAL COMMUNICATION
- CMN 104 PUBLIC SPEAKING

Students are encouraged to complete all four prior to taking additional coursework in the major.

Modern Language Requirement

Students who intend to graduate with a Bachelor of Arts degree in the College of Communication will be required to demonstrate a measure of competence in a modern language, as defined by the college. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in a second year high school course work in a modern language or Latin
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language (must be completed during high school)
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination. (Note that CLEP scores may be used only to meet the language requirement. Credit is not awarded in modern languages on the basis of CLEP scores).

Students with some modern language training should consult with the Modern Language Department about the course with which they should begin. Students with little or no previous work in the language will be required to complete the entire three-course introductory sequence.

* Students must earn a C- or better in this course.

Note

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student’s major and is cross-listed with a course within the student’s major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab or SWK requirement.

Internship Credit

Students in the major may take CMN 394 ADVANCED COMMUNICATION INTERNSHIP and/or CMN 395 COMMUNICATION INTERNSHIP SPECIAL TOPICS (when work relates to the major). In order to take CMN 394 or CMN 395, students must have completed two of the four communication core classes (CMN 101, CMN 102, CMN 103, CMN 104), two courses in the chosen major and have fulfilled internship program eligibility requirements.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

The following Communication graduate programs have been approved as combined degree options:

• Digital Communication and Media Arts (MA)
• Health Communication (MA)
• Journalism (MA)
• Media and Cinema Studies (MA)
• Organizational and Multicultural Communication (MA)
• Public Relations and Advertising (MA)
• Relational Communication (MA)

Deferring Admission

Students can defer their graduate admission for one year. If students do not matriculate after completing their B.A. degrees or within the one year deferral period, the graduate courses taken as undergraduate students will no longer count towards the graduate degree and students must reapply for admission to the graduate program.
Digital Communication and Media Arts (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in their major courses, have 3.0 cumulative GPA, and have successfully completed CMN 101, CMN 102 and CMN 103 are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by May 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, Statement of Purpose (750 words) explaining why the student is seeking admission to the program, writing sample (research paper that demonstrates the applicant's ability to synthesize and analyze scholarly work), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Digital Communication and Media Arts coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take two of the DCMA core courses (CMNS 570 and MCS 575) and one DCMA elective course during their senior year. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Health Communication (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in their major courses, have a 3.0 cumulative GPA, and have successfully completed three 300-level courses in their major are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by May 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, answers to essay questions, writing sample (research paper), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Health Communication coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take the HTHC core courses (HTHC 515, HTHC 516, HTHC 517) during the senior year. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Journalism (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.25 GPA in their major courses and 3.0 cumulative GPA are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by May 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, Statement of Purpose (750 words) explaining why the student is seeking admission to the program, writing sample or project that demonstrates the applicant's ability in journalism, and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Journalism coursework which will fulfill undergraduate Journalism major electives, communication electives and/or open electives. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirements, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Media and Cinema Studies (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in their major courses, have 3.0 cumulative GPA, and have successfully completed CMN 101, CMN 102 and CMN 103 are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by May 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, Statement of Purpose (750 words) explaining why the student is seeking admission to the program, writing sample (research paper that demonstrates the applicant's ability to synthesize and analyze scholarly work), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Media and Cinema Studies coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take two of the MCS core courses (MCS 501, MCS 502, MCS 504) and one MCS elective during their senior year. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Organizational and Multicultural Communication (MA)
Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in their major courses, have 3.0 cumulative GPA, have successfully completed CMN 101, CMN 102 and CMN 103, and have successfully completed three 300-level Communication courses are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by May 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, answers to essay questions, writing sample (research paper), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Communication coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take at least two core courses and a methods requirement during their senior year (examples: CMNS 500, CMNS 501, CMNS 541, CMNS 581 or CMNS 582). Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Public Relations and Advertising (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.25 GPA in their major courses, have 3.0 cumulative GPA, have successfully completed CMN 101, CMN 102 and CMN 103, have successfully completed three 300-level Communication courses, and are currently holding one or more PRAD internships or jobs are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by May 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, answers to essay questions, writing sample (research paper), one letter of recommendation from a PRAD professor, and one letter of recommendation from a supervisor at a PRAD-related internship or job.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Public Relations and Advertising coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take three core courses during their senior year (examples: PRAD 553, PRAD 555, PRAD 575, and PRAD 585). Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Relational Communication (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in their major courses, have 3.0 cumulative GPA, and have successfully completed CMN 101, CMN 102 and CMN 103 are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by May 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, Statement of Purpose (750 words) explaining why the student is seeking admission to the program, writing sample (research paper that demonstrates the applicant's ability to synthesize and analyze scholarly work), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Relational Communication coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take at least two core courses and a methods requirement during their senior year (examples: CMNS 500, RELC 500*, CMNS 581 or CMNS 582). Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

* For BA/MA students who are completing their BA in Relational Communication and seeking an MA in Relational Communication, the core course requirement of RELC 500 – Theories of Relational Communication will be waived. Students waived from having to take RELC 500 will replace the course with an additional graduate RELC elective course (still completing the required total of 48-credit hours).
Intercultural Communication (Minor)

In the Intercultural Communication minor program, you will study the theories and methods necessary to analyze communication among and between diverse communities and ethnic groups within the United States.

Course Requirements

To complete the minor in Intercultural Communication, students must take:

- CMN 103 INTERCULTURAL COMMUNICATION
- CMN 104 PUBLIC SPEAKING
  or INTC 230 PERFORMANCE: COMMUNICATION, CREATIVITY, AND THE BODY
- Four additional courses chosen from
  - INTC 205 COMMUNICATION, CULTURE AND COMMUNITY
  - INTC 301 CULTURE AND LANGUAGE THROUGH MUSIC
  - INTC 308 TOPICS IN INTERCULTURAL COMMUNICATION
  - INTC 309 INTERNATIONAL/GLOBAL COMMUNICATION
  - INTC 310 DISCOURSE ANALYSIS
  - INTC 321 CULTURAL AND SYMBOLIC CRITICISM
  - INTC 329 PERFORMANCE OF GENDER & SEXUALITY
  - INTC 330 TOPICS IN PERFORMANCE
  - INTC 333 CULTURAL WAYS OF SPEAKING
  - INTC 334 URBAN COMMUNICATION
  - INTC 337 ASIAN-AMERICAN MEDIA REPRESENTATIONS
  - INTC 338 ASIAN CULTURE AND COMMUNICATION
  - INTC 340 LEGISLATING LANGUAGE
  - INTC 361 GENDER AND COMMUNICATION
  - CMN 398 STUDY ABROAD
  - CMN 394 ADVANCED COMMUNICATION INTERNSHIP

Students majoring in Intercultural Communication (BA) are restricted from earning this minor.

International Business (Minor: Business Students Only)

Students in the Driehaus College of Business who demonstrate a proficiency in a modern language may minor in International Business. Students will learn about factors affecting international trade, monetary economics, and political economy with a special focus on a particular economic hot spot.

The International Business minor is available to Driehaus College of Business students only. A student must be able to demonstrate that he or she has modern language proficiency through the intermediate level of college coursework to complete the minor.

Declaration Requirements

To declare a minor in International Business, a Driehaus student must meet the following requirements:

- Completion of 28.0 hours at DePaul University
- The following courses must be completed with a minimum grade of C- and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher: ACC 101, ACC 102, BLW 201 (or HSP 207 for Hospitality Leadership majors), ECO 105, ECO 106, MAT 135, MAT 136, and MAT 137
- A minimum cumulative DePaul grade point average of 2.000
- No grade of IN, R, or lower than C- in any course used toward the International Business minor

Course Requirements

The minor consists of six to ten courses totaling 24.0-36.0 hours:
● One economics course to be chosen from:
  ○ ECO 333 TOPICS IN GLOBAL ECONOMIES
  ○ ECO 361 INTERNATIONAL TRADE
  ○ ECO 362 INTERNATIONAL MONETARY ECONOMICS
  ○ PSC 344 WORLD POLITICAL ECONOMY

● International business courses (8.0 hours) to be chosen from:
  ○ ECO 316 EUROPEAN ECONOMIC HISTORY
  ○ ECO 330 THE ECONOMICS OF SOCIALISM
  ○ ECO 333 TOPICS IN GLOBAL ECONOMIES
  ○ ECO 334 UNDERSTANDING CHINA'S ECONOMY
  ○ ECO 360 ECONOMICS OF LOW-INCOME COUNTRIES
  ○ ECO 361 INTERNATIONAL TRADE
  ○ ECO 362 INTERNATIONAL MONETARY ECONOMICS
  ○ ECO 363 ECONOMICS OF THE EUROPEAN UNION
  ○ FIN 340 INTERNATIONAL FINANCE
  ○ FIN 394 APPLIED INTERNATIONAL PORTFOLIO MANAGEMENT (2.0 hours)
  ○ ICS 350 INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS SEMINAR
  ○ MGT 354 GLOBAL HUMAN RESOURCE MANAGEMENT
  ○ MGT 357 INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS
  ○ MKT 340 MARKETING ACROSS CULTURES: A CULTURAL PERSPECTIVE ON MULTICULTURAL MARKETS
  ○ MKT 358 MARKETING IN A GLOBAL ENVIRONMENT (available only to Marketing Honors majors)
  ○ MKT 360 INTERNATIONAL MARKETING

● Three to six modern language and/or area studies courses (related to the language being studied)

Modern Language and Area Studies

The exact mix of language and area studies courses is determined by the student’s starting level in the modern language.

1. For a student with limited language background who does not place out of any college level language course, two years of college level language instruction (six courses through the intermediate level) are required.
2. For a student who places out of one or more of the college language courses, he/she will start the language sequence at the appropriate placement and continue it through the intermediate level of instruction. If the student needs fewer than three language courses to complete the intermediate sequence, the student will take either advanced language or area studies courses to complete the minimum three course language/area studies requirement.

Examples of language/area studies mix:

1. A Driehaus student wishing to pursue the IB minor tests out of SPN 101 and SPN 102. The student begins language instruction in SPN 103 (which completes the introductory sequence), and then continues with the intermediate sequence of SPN 104/105/106. The student completes the minor with the 3 international economics/business requirements plus the 4 language courses, for a total of seven courses.
2. A Driehaus student wishing to pursue the IB minor tests out of SPN 101/102/103/104. The student begins language instruction in SPN 105 and completes the intermediate sequence with SPN 106. Because the student has taken only two courses to complete the intermediate sequence, he/she will take an additional advanced language or area studies course to complete the minimum 3 course language/area studies requirement. Along with the 3 international economics/business requirements, this student can complete the minor with a total of six courses.

Economics/International Business Courses

The three courses taken for the Economics/International Business requirements must be chosen from at least two different departments. The one course taken for the economics requirement may not be used again for the two course international business requirement; course sharing is not allowed.

Degree Requirements

All courses used toward the International Business minor must be completed with a minimum grade of C- and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.
International Communication (Minor)

The interdisciplinary minor in International Communication draws from the College's rich curricular offerings in Journalism, Public Relations and Advertising, Media and Cinema Studies, Relational, Organizational, and Intercultural Communication. Focusing on contemporary international and global issues and debates, the courses will examine the intersections of culture, identity, politics, education, labor, media, technology, and global information flows. Thus, this minor will develop international understanding, cultural intelligence, inclusivity and sensitivity, critical and analytical skills that teach different ways of being and doing in diverse settings. It will also enhance the cross-cultural appreciation required to compete in an increasingly multicultural, multiethnic, and global workplace. The courses may focus on one or more countries beyond the United States. They may focus on a region, a continent or consider global issues more generally. The interdisciplinary depth of courses, faculty expertise and industry connections, as well as the theoretical and practical knowledge acquired in this minor will enable students to become globally competitive candidates ready to engage in the 21st century job market.

Course Requirements

Choose six from the following courses:

- CMN 398 STUDY ABROAD
- INTC 309 INTERNATIONAL/GLOBAL COMMUNICATION
- INTC 338 ASIAN CULTURE AND COMMUNICATION
- INTC 340 LEGISLATING LANGUAGE
- JOUR 367 INTERNATIONAL REPORTING/JOUR 519 INTERNATIONAL REPORTING
- JOUR 310 COMPARATIVE MEDIA SYSTEMS OR GLOBAL JOURNALISM
- MCS 251 SPACES OF CINEMA IN ROME
- MCS 252 CONTEMPORARY ITALIAN CULTURE THROUGH FILM
- MCS 350 TOPICS IN GLOBAL CINEMA
- MCS 375 LATINO/A TELEVISION AND MEDIA
- MCS 376 LATIN AMERICAN CINEMA
- ORGC 357 TOPICS IN ORGANIZATIONAL COMMUNICATION
- PRAD 384 INTERNATIONAL PUBLIC RELATIONS
- PRAD 390 SPECIAL TOPICS INTERNATIONAL ADVERTISING
- PRAD 393 SPECIAL TOPICS IN PUBLIC RELATIONS AND ADVERTISING/PRAD 595
- RELC 311 TOPICS IN RELATIONAL COMMUNICATION

Each course should have at least 50 percent or more of the content related to international or global issues. Such content may include issues pertaining to the United States as long as they are discussed within an international or global context.

International Politics (Minor)

The minor in international politics is designed to provide the non-major with an opportunity to develop a specialty in the domestic and international politics of regions outside the United States.

Course Requirements

- PSC 140 INTRODUCTION TO INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS
- PSC 150 INTRODUCTION TO COMPARATIVE POLITICS
- Two of the following 200-level courses:
  - PSC 242 AMERICAN FOREIGN POLICY
  - PSC 243 RUSSIAN-AMERICAN RELATIONS
  - PSC 244 LATIN AMERICAN-UNITED STATES RELATIONS
  - PSC 245 FOREIGN POLICIES OF WESTERN EUROPE
Students majoring in Political Science (B.A.) or minoring in American Politics or Public Law/Political Thought are restricted from earning this minor.

International Studies (BA)

Our undergraduate program is designed to equip students with the interdisciplinary approach, critical thinking skills and international perspectives necessary to address real world challenges. Students can expect to be challenged by a rigorous interdisciplinary curriculum founded in critical social theory and international political economy. Undergraduate students are required to take seven core classes that, taken together, explore and problematize notions of culture, migration, conflict, governance, popular movements, and identities and boundaries. In the process, students acquire critical reading, writing, research, and problem-solving skills tailored to contemporary local, regional, and international challenges.

The BA program is unique within the Midwest and far beyond for its interdisciplinary approach to international studies and commitment to placing the themes of power and inequality at the heart of academic inquiry. Unlike conventional programs that focus on international security and economy, our program addresses the economic in conjunction with the political and social. Moreover, undergraduates are encouraged to develop second-language proficiency through two years of intensive language study, and we encourage study abroad in a country where the second language is spoken. Students learn to think in more international and interdisciplinary contexts, to value social and cultural complexity, and to question conventional wisdom. As a result, our students often engage in activism and social justice work in Chicago, nationally, and internationally.

Internships

Students in the INT Department pursue internship opportunities to gain job experience, investigate career possibilities, earn academic credit, and round out their concentrations. We work with the University Internship Program to help students find or create an internship that suits their particular interests. Our students have worked at local and international non-profit organizations, consulates, government offices, international businesses, and cultural institutions, including RefugeOne, the Council for American-Islamic Relations, the Puerto Rican Cultural Institute, and the European Community Commission’s Office in Brussels, which offers a unique research internship.
Study Abroad Programs

All International Studies majors are encouraged, but not required, to participate in study abroad programs. Study abroad challenges students to develop cultural competency, expand their education through diverse intellectual perspectives, and engage with local and global challenges. DePaul University sponsors study abroad opportunities with a range of course offerings, including intensive language-learning classes, cultural and historical studies, public service, and business. Some INT students pursue study abroad programs outside of DePaul that match their particular interests.

Employers of Graduates

The combination of language training with rigorous preparation in interdisciplinary social sciences and political economy opens doors to careers in nonprofits and community organizations, international non-governmental organizations, international diplomatic entities, international law, international commerce and cross cultural communications.

Graduate School

Students who complete the major in International Studies are prepared with the writing and critical thinking skills necessary to go on to graduate school and many choose to pursue advanced degrees in the political, economic, anthropological, sociological, geographical, historical, linguistic, or literary fields. We have placed students in prestigious graduate programs with membership in the Association of Professional Schools of International Affairs, including those at Johns Hopkins University, Tufts University, University of Maryland, Georgetown University, University of California at San Diego, and University of Colorado at Boulder. Additionally, our students have entered University of California at Berkeley, University of Chicago, Emory University, University of Illinois, Indiana University, University of Michigan, Northwestern University, University of Wisconsin at Madison, and Yale University in languages or the social sciences.

Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Produce written and/or oral work that exhibits mastery of the content areas found in the core courses of the major: nationalism, international relations, social movements, cultural analysis, international political economy, and critical geography.
- Write scholarly essays presented in a format consistent with The Chicago Manual of Style:
  - Using reliable primary and/or scholarly sources.
  - Drawing valid inferences from the evidence presented.
  - Making unified arguments, logically presented, that are coherent and cohesive.
- Make arguments, whether in a written or oral context, that are logically valid and based on reliable evidence, critique arguments that are logically invalid or lack adequate evidence, and use these to propose well-considered real-world courses of action.
- Conduct research or communicate in professional contexts using at least one language other than English.
- Analyze the mathematical basis of moderately technical arguments in the field of international political economy.
- Analyze how historical pathways inflect present meanings and both constrain and enable what can be done in the present and the future.
College Core Requirements

Study in the Major Field

The student’s course of study in the College consists of three parts: Liberal Studies, the major field, and electives. Together these three parts contribute to the liberal education of the student which is the common purpose of all study in the College. By “liberal education” the College understands not only a deep and thorough knowledge of a particular area of study but a knowledge of the diverse areas of study represented by criticism, history, the arts, the behavioral and social sciences, philosophy, religious studies, the natural science, and mathematics.

The major field program generally is built upon a set of core courses and a specialized “concentration.” The number of courses required for a major varies by department. Most students go beyond the minimum requirements, electing additional courses which both broaden and deepen their understanding of their chosen discipline.

Because no academic major program is built in isolation, students are required to pursue a number of electives of the student’s choice. The inherent flexibility of this curriculum demands that the student consult an academic advisor at each stage in the total program and at least once prior to each registration.

Students will be prompted to visit the College Office for their official graduation check early in their senior year.

Declaration of Major, Minor and Concentration

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor in the major field department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

Students must declare or change majors, minors, and concentrations, via Campus Connection. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the Office for Academic Advising Support.

The Modern Language Requirement (MLR)

All students will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language (i.e., a language other than English) equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. This Modern Language Requirement (MLR) may be demonstrated by:

- placing into 104 or above on the DePaul language placement exam
- completing the last course or earning AP/IB credit for the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language (e.g. 103 for DePaul language classes)
- completing a college course or earning AP/IB credit for a college course beyond the first-year level in any language (e.g. 104 or above for DePaul language classes)
- completing the final course of a four-year sequence of the same modern language in high school*
- completing a proctored exam by BYU and passing the exam (see the Department of Modern Languages website for registration details)
- completing a proctored Written Proficiency Test (WPT) by Language Testing International (LTI) and achieving a score of Beginner High or above (see the Department of Modern Languages website for registration details)

* Students are strongly encouraged to take the DePaul language placement exam even if they have met the MLR via study of a language in high school. This will ensure continuation of language study at the proper level.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College will abide by this MLR in place on the effective date of the ICT, regardless of when they first matriculated at DePaul.

Students who have met the MLR and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" (MLO) of the Liberal Studies Program (see “Special Programs”).

External Credit and Residency

A student who has been admitted to the College begins residency within the college as of the first day of classes of the term in which the student is registered. Students in residence, whether attending on a full-time or part-time basis, may not take courses away from DePaul University without the written permission of the college. Permission must be obtained in advance of registration to avoid loss of credit or residency in the college; see the LAS website for more information.

Notes

See an advisor to utilize the modern language option.

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab or SWK requirement.

Major Requirements

Course Requirements

- INT 201 THE EVOLUTION OF THE MODERN NATION STATE
- INT 202 INTERNATIONAL CONFLICT AND COOPERATION
- INT 203 INTERNATIONAL MOVEMENTS IN THE 20TH AND 21ST CENTURIES
- INT 204 CULTURAL ANALYSIS
- INT 205 INTERNATIONAL POLITICAL ECONOMY
- INT 206 IDENTITIES AND BOUNDARIES
- INT 301 SENIOR SEMINAR (Counts for the LSP senior capstone)
- ECO 105 PRINCIPLES OF MICROECONOMICS (Pre-requisite for INT 205; Counts for Self, Society, and the Modern World)
- ECO 106 PRINCIPLES OF MACROECONOMICS (Pre-requisite for INT 205)
- GEO 201 GEOPOLITICS
  or HON 201 STATES, MARKETS, AND SOCIETIES  (Counts for Self, Society, and the Modern World)
- Five courses in an individualized concentration
- Second Language Proficiency (coursework through 106)

Individualized Concentration (5 courses)

All international studies majors are required to complete a twenty-credit individualized concentration designed in consultation with their faculty advisors. This concentration provides students with a depth of knowledge on a particular theme, approach, region, and/or question of some international importance. The concentration is restricted to 300-level INT courses (including cross-listed courses), with the following exceptions:

- Study Abroad: Up to eight credits (two courses) from Study Abroad may be counted toward the concentration, if approved in advance by the student's faculty advisor.
- Double Majors/Minors: Up to eight credits (two courses) in a double major or minor can be applied to the concentration, if approved in advance by the student's faculty advisor.
- Foreign Language Courses: Language courses taken at DePaul or as part of Study Abroad, including those at the 300 level, cannot be counted for the concentration.

Language Requirement

Proficiency in a language other than English is required and can be demonstrated through passing grades in college coursework through the intermediate (second-year) level, up to and including 106. Students who enter the program with second language skills developed outside of formal college coursework may petition the director to demonstrate proficiency by examination in order to satisfy the language requirement. The assessment and proficiency tests can be taken on Campus Connection.

Open Electives

Open elective credit is also required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours. International Studies majors have 60 open elective credit hours. Courses taken to meet the second language proficiency requirement count as electives.

Combined Bachelor's/Master's Program

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

Students interested in applying to one of the the BA/MA programs in International Studies should contact the INT academic advisor, Mallory Warner, at mwarner3@depaul.edu.

International Studies (BA)/ International Studies (MA)

INT majors apply to this program by April 15th of their Junior year. Applicants must have completed INT 201, INT 202, and INT 203 with a grade of B+ or higher and have an overall GPA of 3.5 or above.

INT students in this program take INT 401 and two other 400-level courses in their senior year. For students admitted to the five-year program, the three graduate-level INT courses taken in the senior year will count toward their individualized concentrations in the INT major as well as their graduate degree. Additionally, BA/MA students will begin their thesis research during their senior year in INT 301, the International Studies Senior Seminar.

History (BA)/ International Studies (MA)

History majors apply to this program by April 15th of their Junior year. Applicants must have an overall GPA of 3.5 or above.
History students in this program take INT 401 and two other INT 400-level courses in their senior year. These three graduate-level courses will count toward open electives in the history major as well as requirements in the MA degree. Whenever possible, HST majors will begin their thesis research during their senior year in HST 390, the History Senior Seminar. If this is not possible (e.g., a student’s thesis interests do not fit within the theme of HST 390 for that year), then HST majors will be required to take INT 301 as an elective in order to begin their thesis research.

International Studies (Minor)

For students who do not wish to or are unable to pursue a major in International Studies, the minor offers the opportunity to gain a basic grounding in a rigorous, interdisciplinary approach to international affairs. Students who pursue this minor will benefit from an introduction to theories of nationalism, international relations, social movements, cultural studies, international political economy, and critical geography.

The minor can complement traditional disciplines, as well as other interdisciplinary programs, by providing students with the theoretical tools necessary to critically analyze pressing global issues. Additionally, students will build their writing, reading, and research skills through the coursework required for the minor.

Course Requirements

- INT 201 THE EVOLUTION OF THE MODERN NATION STATE
- INT 202 INTERNATIONAL CONFLICT AND COOPERATION
- INT 203 INTERNATIONAL MOVEMENTS IN THE 20TH AND 21ST CENTURIES
- INT 204 CULTURAL ANALYSIS
- INT 205 INTERNATIONAL POLITICAL ECONOMY
- INT 206 IDENTITIES AND BOUNDARIES

Note that ECO 105 and ECO 106 are prerequisites for INT 205.

Students majoring in International Studies (BA) are restricted from earning this minor.

Irish Studies (Minor)

The Irish Studies minor is an interdisciplinary academic program focused on Ireland and its place in the world. The purpose of the minor is to give students access to another culture in order to enable them to better understand the role of culture in human society.

The study of Ireland is particularly apposite for a number of reasons:

1. Ireland has a rich history, culture and literature that in itself is worthy of study.
2. The Irish experience epitomizes a variety of processes which are of relevance to an understanding of today’s world. Among them are:
   1. an experience of colonialism and development
   2. the phenomenon of emigration and diaspora
   3. a changing interaction with adjacent countries
   4. finding a place in Europe and a globalized world
   5. searching for cultural identity
   6. coping with intercommunal, political conflict and violence, and reconfiguring the role of women in society
3. How Ireland has dealt with issues such as the environment and the configuration of gender roles can provide a point of comparison for and reflection on American experience.
4. The study of Ireland provides insights on how American influence impinges on other cultures.
5. Irish immigration into the United States has proved to be a formative influence on the development of American society. The study of Ireland can contribute to the shifting search for personal and social identity within America itself.

Course Requirements

Students can complete the 6 course Irish Studies Minor by completing one of the following two tracks:

1) For students who complete courses at DePaul University Chicago campus (i.e. do not participate in the Dublin Internship):
   - IRE 100 INTRODUCTION TO IRISH STUDIES
   - 5 additional approved elective courses in Irish Studies. Courses must be taken from at least three separate departments/programs and must represent a range of topics/issues.

2) For students who participate in DePaul's Parliamentary Internship in Dublin:
   The College of Liberal Arts and Social Sciences offers a study abroad program in Dublin, Ireland, twice each year. It provides an excellent opportunity for students to get to know Ireland at first hand. It is not a compulsory part of the minor in Irish Studies. However, students taking part in the Study Abroad Program in Dublin may gain credit for four courses that count towards completion of the minor. Thus, for students who successfully complete the Dublin Internship, the requirements for the IRE minor are as follows:
   - IRE 100 INTRODUCTION TO IRISH STUDIES
   - 1 additional approved elective courses in Irish Studies

For further information on the Dublin Parliamentary Internship courses please contact the Director of the Irish Studies Program.

Ancillary Studies
Islamic World Studies (BA)

Islamic World Studies is an interdisciplinary program. Islamic World Studies courses focus on the academic study of the Islamic World. In this program Islamic civilization is viewed as a meta-culture, which grew and was sustained by an Arab core plus the accretion of knowledge from the diverse cultures that embraced it. Islamic World Studies will ground students in a study of Islam as a worldview/civilization by first engaging in an exploration of the primary texts, history, and cultural traditions and then examinations of specific communities.

A major in Islamic World Studies prepares students for graduate study and for careers in foreign policy, public policy, diplomatic corps, social services, consultation, and education.

Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Describe and discuss cultural manifestation of Islam in at least three global regions including the authoritative centers in Arabic speaking countries with emphasis on cultural adaptations, modifications and innovations.
- Articulate the historical and contemporary tensions around pluralism, authority (public and private) in domestic and societal life, relationships with other religious communities.
- Produce effective written essays that compare and contrast Islam in regions where it is the dominate religion and where it is a minority religion.
- Write on the major events in Islamic history.
- Use the major texts and research tools in Islamic studies.
- Articulate the central beliefs and practices of the religion of Islam across the branches and in the schools of legal thought.
College Core Requirements

Study in the Major Field

The student’s course of study in the College consists of three parts: Liberal Studies, the major field, and electives. Together these three parts contribute to the liberal education of the student which is the common purpose of all study in the College. By “liberal education” the College understands not only a deep and thorough knowledge of a particular area of study but a knowledge of the diverse areas of study represented by criticism, history, the arts, the behavioral and social sciences, philosophy, religious studies, the natural science, and mathematics.

The major field program generally is built upon a set of core courses and a specialized “concentration.” The number of courses required for a major varies by department. Most students go beyond the minimum requirements, electing additional courses which both broaden and deepen their understanding of their chosen discipline.

Because no academic major program is built in isolation, students are required to pursue a number of electives of the student’s choice. The inherent flexibility of this curriculum demands that the student consult an academic advisor at each stage in the total program and at least once prior to each registration.

Students will be prompted to visit the College Office for their official graduation check early in their senior year.

Declaration of Major, Minor and Concentration

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor in the major field department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

Students must declare or change majors, minors, and concentrations, via Campus Connection. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the the Office for Academic Advising Support.

The Modern Language Requirement (MLR)

All students will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language (i.e., a language other than English) equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. This Modern Language Requirement (MLR) may be demonstrated by:

- placing into 104 or above on the DePaul language placement exam
- completing the last course or earning AP/IB credit for the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language (e.g. 103 for DePaul language classes)
- completing a college course or earning AP/IB credit for a college course beyond the first-year level in any language (e.g. 104 or above for DePaul language classes)
- completing the final course of a four-year sequence of the same modern language in high school*
- completing a proctored exam by BYU and passing the exam (see the Department of Modern Languages website for registration details)
- completing a proctored Written Proficiency Test (WPT) by Language Testing International (LTI) and achieving a score of Beginner High or above (see the Department of Modern Languages website for registration details)

* Students are strongly encouraged to take the DePaul language placement exam even if they have met the MLR via study of a language in high school. This will ensure continuation of language study at the proper level.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College will abide by this MLR in place on the effective date of the ICT, regardless of when they first matriculated at DePaul.

Students who have met the MLR and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" (MLO) of the Liberal Studies Program (see “Special Programs”).

External Credit and Residency

A student who has been admitted to the College begins residency within the college as of the first day of classes of the term in which the student is registered. Students in residence, whether attending on a full-time or part-time basis, may not take courses away from DePaul University without the written permission of the college. Permission must be obtained in advance of registration to avoid loss of credit or residency in the college; see the LAS website for more information.

  - ARB 103 BASIC ARABIC III
  - Any other advisor approved course

Students majoring in Islamic World Studies (BA) are restricted from earning this minor.
Italian (BA)

From ancient Rome to the European Union, Italy has always been at the core of the humanist tradition and the heart of world affairs. A degree in Italian offers a broad-based humanities education with crucial skills in reading, writing, and critical thinking useful for any number of pursuits after college. DePaul’s Italian program gives students the opportunity to attain advanced language proficiency while studying all aspects of Italian literature and culture. Our majors have gone on to career paths in teaching, government, and business both in the US and abroad. Others have enrolled in prestigious graduate programs in language, literature, and law.

Faculty members in the Italian section at DePaul have interests and expertise in many different facets of Italian language and culture. Topics of our regular course offerings include:

- Advanced Italian
- Business and Commercial Italian
- Culture and Geography
- Food and Wine
- History and Politics
- Language and Linguistics
- Literature
- Translation

We also offer a concentration in Italian education for students interested in teaching. Many of our advanced Italian students choose to double major in Italian and another discipline such as art, music, international studies, or political science.

The DePaul Italian program includes a study abroad option at Italiaidea, our school in Rome, which allows students to grow linguistically and experience Italian culture first-hand. DePaul students in Rome live in apartments, often with other international students, or with an Italian host family. Students will also be able to spend a semester or year in Milan through DePaul's partnership with Università Cattolica. Home to one of the largest Italian-American communities in the US, Chicago also offers a dazzling array of resources—the Italian Cultural Institute, museums, galleries, film centers, restaurants and cafés—that give students the opportunity to immerse themselves in Italian language and culture right here in the city.

The Japanese language minor prepares students to speak and read with a basic proficiency in one of the world’s most important languages for business.

The minor consists of a total of 5 courses in Japanese language at the 200/300-level.

Students majoring in Japanese Studies (BA) or minoring in Japanese Studies are restricted from earning this minor.

Japanese Studies (BA)

The Japanese Studies program focuses on Japanese language, literature and culture. Because Japanese is a major world language with more than 130 million speakers, having the ability to understand and communicate in Japanese will provide students with international career opportunities.

The Japanese Studies curriculum allows students to take courses from many academic departments, including:

- Art history
- Geography
- History
- International studies
- Political science
- Religious studies

Japanese Studies students are encouraged to participate in one of DePaul's Study Abroad programs in Kyoto, Nagoya or Osaka, in order to grow linguistically and expand their understanding of the Japanese culture.

College Core Requirements

Study in the Major Field

The student’s course of study in the College consists of three parts: Liberal Studies, the major field, and electives. Together these three parts contribute to the liberal education of the student which is the common purpose of all study in the College. By “liberal education” the College understands not only a deep and through knowledge of a particular area of study but a knowledge of the diverse areas of study represented by criticism, history, the arts, the behavioral and social sciences, philosophy, religious studies, the natural science, and mathematics.

The major field program generally is built upon a set of core courses and a specialized “concentration.” The number of courses required for a major varies by department. Most students go beyond the minimum requirements, electing additional courses which both broaden and deepen their understanding of their chosen discipline.

Because no academic major program is built in isolation, students are required to pursue a number of electives of the student’s choice. The inherent flexibility of this curriculum demands that the student consult an academic advisor at each stage in the total program and at least once prior to each registration. Students will be prompted to visit the College Office for their official graduation check early in their senior year.

Declaration of Major, Minor and Concentration

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor in the major field department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

Students must declare or change majors, minors, and concentrations, via Campus Connection. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the the Office for Academic Advising Support.

The Modern Language Requirement (MLR)

All students will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language (i.e., a language other than English) equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. This Modern Language Requirement (MLR) may be demonstrated by:
• placing into 104 or above on the DePaul language placement exam
• completing the last course or earning AP/IB credit for the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language (e.g. 103 for DePaul language classes)
• completing a college course or earning AP/IB credit for a college course beyond the first-year level in any language (e.g. 104 or above for DePaul language classes)
• completing the final course of a four-year sequence of the same modern language in high school*
• completing a proctored exam by BYU and passing the exam (see the Department of Modern Languages website for registration details)
• completing a proctored Written Proficiency Test (WPT) by Language Testing International (LTI) and achieving a score of Beginner High or above (see the Department of Modern Languages website for registration details)

* Students are strongly encouraged to take the DePaul language placement exam even if they have met the MLR via study of a language in high school. This will ensure continuation of language study at the proper level.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College will abide by this MLR in place on the effective date of the ICT, regardless of when they first matriculated at DePaul.

Students who have met the MLR and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the “Modern Language Option” (MLO) of the Liberal Studies Program (see “Special Programs”).

External Credit and Residency

A student who has been admitted to the College begins residency within the college as of the first day of classes of the term in which the student is registered. Students in residence, whether attending on a full-time or part-time basis, may not take courses away from DePaul University without the written permission of the college. Permission must be obtained in advance of registration to avoid loss of credit or residency in the college; see the LAS website for more information.

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab or SWK requirement.

Major Requirements

Course Requirements

- 24-32 credit hours of 200/300 level courses in Japanese Language
- 20-28 credit hours of Allied Courses from at least three different departments

Please consult the current approved Japanese Studies Allied Course List. Students who begin their study of Japanese at DePaul with JPN 202 or higher may substitute a 300-level Japanese elective course for any of the required 200-level courses.

Jazz Studies (BM)

The Bachelor of Music in Jazz Studies degree prepares students for careers as jazz professionals. Drawing upon the resources of the Chicago jazz scene, faculty members are highly celebrated performers, teachers, composers, and arrangers. The program is comprised of applied jazz lessons, jazz ensembles and combos, jazz improvisation, jazz theory and history, arranging and composition, and pedagogy.

  - MUS 231 AURAL TRAINING VI
- Group Piano Sequence
Additional Courses

- MUS 265 MUSICAL TRADITIONS OF AMERICA AND THE WORLD
- MUS 303 BASIC CONDUCTING PRACTICUM
- MUS 304 BASIC CONDUCTING

Applied Music

Students may enroll in a maximum of 4 credits of applied study per quarter, with a maximum of 48 credits total. The requirements for applied study vary by degree program:

- BM in performance, 48 credits
- BM in jazz studies, 30 credits
- BM in composition, 24 credits
- BM in music education, 24 credits
- BM in performing arts management, 24 credits
- BA in music, 16 credits
- BS in sound recording technology, 12 credits

Except performance majors, students may enroll in additional applied credits, which will count towards music electives.

Modern Language Option

If a music student wishes to study a modern language for a three-course sequence (12 credits), one quarter of language study (4 credits) may be used to replace a course requirement in Arts and Literature, Philosophical Inquiry, or Religious Dimensions. The remaining two quarters of language (8 credits) will be applied towards free electives.

Petition to Major

Students are admitted to a specialization on the basis of a petition to major process, which occurs during the spring of the freshman or sophomore year. The petition to major process differs for each specialization, and students should contact the department chairs or area coordinators for more information. Students are not permitted to enroll in classes in the specialization until they have passed their petition to major.

Course Requirements

Students are required to complete the following courses for a specialization in Jazz Studies:

- Essentials of Jazz Sequence
  - JZZ 300 ESSENTIALS OF JAZZ I
  - JZZ 301 ESSENTIALS OF JAZZ II
  - JZZ 302 ESSENTIALS OF JAZZ III

Journalism (BA)

The Bachelor of Arts degree in Journalism prepares graduates for careers as multimedia content producers and video storytellers. The program's team of professional journalists and emphasis on experiential learning enable graduates to write, produce, and post stories that serve citizens with news worth knowing. Production facilities include a South Loop news center, green screen studio, mac labs, high end editing suites, and smart classrooms. Students particularly benefit from DePaul's long partnership with Chicago's professional community.

Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Write, interpret and report the news of the day.
- Understand the business many of them will be entering.
- Understand the role technology, social media and repurposing stories for multimedia platforms are playing in the current and future world of newsgathering and dissemination.
- Understand journalism’s relationship to society, power, politics and the international stage, which is being made smaller through the use of mass media.

College Core Requirements

All majors in the College of Communication (with the exception of Public Relations and Advertising) consist of a total of fourteen courses: a four-course common core plus an additional combination of ten program requirements and electives. The Public Relations and Advertising major consists of a total of fifteen courses: a four-course common core plus an additional combination of eleven program requirements and electives.

Course Requirements

Four core courses are required of all College of Communication students:

- CMN 101 INTRODUCTION TO HUMAN COMMUNICATION
- CMN 102 INTRODUCTION TO MASS COMMUNICATION
- CMN 103 INTERCULTURAL COMMUNICATION
- CMN 104 PUBLIC SPEAKING

Students are encouraged to complete all four prior to taking additional coursework in the major.

Modern Language Requirement

Students who intend to graduate with a Bachelor of Arts degree in the College of Communication will be required to demonstrate a measure of competence in a modern language, as defined by the college. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in a second year high school course work in a modern language or Latin
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language (must be completed during high school)
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination. (Note that CLEP scores may be used only to meet the language requirement. Credit is not awarded in modern languages on the basis of CLEP scores).

Students with some modern language training should consult with the Modern Language Department about the course with which they should begin. Students with little or no previous work in the language will be required to complete the entire three-course introductory sequence.

Internship Credit

Students in the major may take CMN 394 ADVANCED COMMUNICATION INTERNSHIP and/or CMN 395 COMMUNICATION INTERNSHIP SPECIAL TOPICS (when work relates to the major). In order to take CMN 394 or CMN 395, students must have completed two of the four communication core classes (CMN 101, CMN 102, CMN 103, CMN 104), two courses in the chosen major and have fulfilled internship program eligibility requirements.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

The following Communication graduate programs have been approved as combined degree options:

- Digital Communication and Media Arts (MA)
- Health Communication (MA)
- Journalism (MA)
- Media and Cinema Studies (MA)
- Organizational and Multicultural Communication (MA)
- Public Relations and Advertising (MA)
- Relational Communication (MA)

Deferring Admission

Students can defer their graduate admission for one year. If students do not matriculate after completing their B.A. degrees or within the one year deferral period, the graduate courses taken as undergraduate students will no longer count towards the graduate degree and students must reapply for admission to the graduate program.

Digital Communication and Media Arts (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in their major courses, have 3.0 cumulative GPA, and have successfully completed CMN 101, CMN 102 and CMN 103 are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by May 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, Statement of Purpose (750 words) explaining why the student is seeking admission to the program, writing sample (research paper that demonstrates the applicant's ability to synthesize and analyze scholarly work), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Digital Communication and Media Arts coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take two of the DCMA core courses (CMNS 570 and MCS 575) and one DCMA elective course during their senior year. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Health Communication (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in their major courses, have a 3.0 cumulative GPA, and have successfully completed three 300-level courses in their major are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by May 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, answers to essay questions, writing sample (research paper), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Health Communication coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take the HTHC core courses (HTHC 515, HTHC 516, HTHC 517) during the senior year. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Journalism (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.25 GPA in their major courses and 3.0 cumulative GPA are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by May 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, Statement of Purpose (750 words) explaining why the student is seeking admission to the program, writing sample or project that demonstrates the applicant's ability in journalism, and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Journalism coursework which will fulfill undergraduate Journalism major electives, communication electives and/or open electives. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirements, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Media and Cinema Studies (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in their major courses, have a 3.0 cumulative GPA, and have successfully completed CMN 101, CMN 102 and CMN 103 are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by May 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, Statement of Purpose (750 words) explaining why the student is seeking admission to the program, writing sample (research paper that demonstrates the applicant's ability to synthesize and analyze scholarly work), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Media and Cinema Studies coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take two of the MCS core courses (MCS 501, MCS 502, MCS 504) and one MCS elective during their senior year. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Organizational and Multicultural Communication (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in their major courses, have a 3.0 cumulative GPA, have successfully completed CMN 101, CMN 102 and CMN 103, and have successfully completed three 300-level Communication courses are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by May 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, answers to essay questions, writing sample (research paper), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Communication coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take at least two core courses and a methods requirement during their senior year (examples: CMNS 500, CMNS 501, CMNS 541, CMNS 581 or CMNS 582). Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Public Relations and Advertising (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.25 GPA in their major courses, have 3.0 cumulative GPA, have successfully completed CMN 101, CMN 102 and CMN 103, have successfully completed three 300-level Communication courses, and are currently holding one or more PRAD internships or jobs are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by May 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, answers to essay questions, writing sample (research paper), one letter of recommendation from a PRAD professor, and one letter of recommendation from a supervisor at a PRAD-related internship or job.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Public Relations and Advertising coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take three core courses during their senior year (examples: PRAD 553, PRAD 555, PRAD 575, and PRAD 585). Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Relational Communication (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in their major courses, have 3.0 cumulative GPA, and have successfully completed CMN 101, CMN 102 and CMN 103 are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by May 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, Statement of Purpose (750 words) explaining why the student is seeking admission to the program, writing sample (research paper that demonstrates the applicant's ability to synthesize and analyze scholarly work), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Relational Communication coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take at least two core courses and a methods requirement during their senior year (examples: CMNS 500, RELC 500*, CMNS 581 or CMNS 582). Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

* For BA/MA students who are completing their BA in Relational Communication and seeking an MA in Relational Communication, the core course requirement of RELC 500 – Theories of Relational Communication will be waived. Students waived from having to take RELC 500 will replace the course with an additional graduate RELC elective course (still completing the required total of 48-credit hours).

Journalism (Minor)

The Journalism minor provides an overview of reporting skills and methods. The flexible, hands-on curriculum offers courses that focus on a variety of topics, allowing you to take the courses that are most appealing to you.

Course Requirements

A minor in Journalism consists of a total of 24 credit hours (six courses).

- JOUR 275 INTRODUCTION TO JOURNALISM
- JOUR 278 NEWS REPORTING
- Four courses that begin with JOUR. Any of these four JOUR courses may be replaced with CMN 394 ADVANCED COMMUNICATION INTERNSHIP or CMN 395 COMMUNICATION INTERNSHIP SPECIAL TOPICS, if those internships are journalism-related.
Students majoring in Journalism (BA) are restricted from earning this minor.

Latin American and Latino Studies (BA)

The Latin American and Latino Studies program explores the cultural contributions of Latin Americans to the global community and highlights perspectives and traditions that have developed in the region. It analyzes the multicultural character of the peoples of Latin America by calling attention to the complex interplay among Indigenous, European, Semitic, Arab, Asian, and African societies in the region. It explores the profound linkage that has emerged between Latin America and the United States, particularly through the construction of Latino communities in the U.S.

This interdisciplinary program explores the broad dynamics shaping Latin American and Latino experiences and draws courses and insights from the fields of film and media studies, art and art history, geography, political science, religious studies, sociology, history, anthropology, modern languages, international studies, and philosophy. Students interested in a wide range of work requiring multicultural skills, such as education, law, social work, community organizing, and business, will benefit from course work in this program. The Latin American and Latino Studies program also serves to deepen Latino students' awareness of their cultural heritage.

Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Describe and discuss multiculturalism, particularly of the diverse communities that have emerged in Latin America from the centuries of interactions among a range of indigenous, European, and African societies, and other immigrant and diasporic groups (e.g. Arab, Asian, and Semitic).
- Exhibit critical awareness of the tensions and opportunities inherent in cultural diversity in the Americas.
- Describe and discuss the history of the interactions between Latin America and the United States and explore the experiences of Latin Americans and their descendants within the United States.
- Evaluate the history and dynamics of power imbalances between dominant and subordinate groups in Latin American and between the U.S. and Latin America.
- Critique stereotypes concerning Latin American and Latino populations.
- Apply an ethical framework and exhibit a strong sense of social responsibility within a commitment to community outreach.
- Apply theoretical approaches to practical problems, especially as they relate to issues of social justice in the Americas.
- Identify and explain special cultural and linguistic literacy and the ability to use interdisciplinary concepts and methods.

College Core Requirements

Study in the Major Field

The student's course of study in the College consists of three parts: Liberal Studies, the major field, and electives. Together these three parts contribute to the liberal education of the student which is the common purpose of all study in the College. By “liberal education” the College understands not only a deep and through knowledge of a particular area of study but a knowledge of the diverse areas of study represented by criticism, history, the arts, the behavioral and social sciences, philosophy, religious studies, the natural science, and mathematics.

The major field program generally is built upon a set of core courses and a specialized “concentration.” The number of courses required for a major varies by department. Most students go beyond the minimum requirements, electing additional courses which both broaden and deepen their understanding of their chosen discipline.

Because no academic major program is built in isolation, students are required to pursue a number of electives of the student’s choice. The inherent flexibility of this curriculum demands that the student consult an academic advisor at each stage in the total program and at least once prior to each registration.

Students will be prompted to visit the College Office for their official graduation check early in their senior year.

Declaration of Major, Minor and Concentration

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor in the major field department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

Students must declare or change majors, minors, and concentrations, via Campus Connection. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the Office for Academic Advising Support.

The Modern Language Requirement (MLR)

All students will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language (i.e., a language other than English) equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. This Modern Language Requirement (MLR) may be demonstrated by:

- placing into 104 or above on the DePaul language placement exam
- completing the last course or earning AP/IB credit for the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language (e.g. 103 for DePaul language classes)
- completing a college course or earning AP/IB credit for a college course beyond the first-year level in any language (e.g. 104 or above for DePaul language classes)
- completing the final course of a four-year sequence of the same modern language in high school*
- completing a proctored exam by BYU and passing the exam (see the Department of Modern Languages website for registration details)
- completing a proctored Written Proficiency Test (WPT) by Language Testing International (LTI) and achieving a score of Beginner High or above (see the Department of Modern Languages website for registration details)

* Students are strongly encouraged to take the DePaul language placement exam even if they have met the MLR via study of a language in high school. This will ensure continuation of language study at the proper level.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College will abide by this MLR in place on the effective date of the ICT, regardless of when they first matriculated at DePaul.

Students who have met the MLR and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the “Modern Language Option” (MLO) of the Liberal Studies Program (see “Special Programs”).

External Credit and Residency

A student who has been admitted to the College begins residency within the college as of the first day of classes of the term in which the student is registered. Students in residence, whether attending on a full-time or part-time basis, may not take courses away from DePaul University without the written permission of the college. Permission must be obtained in advance of registration to avoid loss of credit or residency in the college; see the LAS website for more information.

Notes
See an advisor to utilize the modern language option.

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy
Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab or SWK requirement.

Latina/o Studies Concentration

The Latina/o Studies concentration allows students to choose from an array of intellectually challenging, multidisciplinary courses that introduce cutting-edge scholarship on the Latina/o populations of the United States. Our courses familiarize students with the nation's fast-growing, diverse, transnational Latina/o populations, including their histories, ongoing connections to Latin America, cultures, and social conditions. Courses offer students the opportunity to focus on individual Latina/o communities in the country and to engage in comparative analysis of the various Latina/o communities. Students can select courses that concentrate on current socioeconomic and political issues facing Latinos in the U.S., as well as others that capture Latina/o expression in literature, music, and the arts. Some courses in this concentration involve students in collaborative projects with Chicago based Latina/o community organizations, civic programs, and other service learning opportunities.

Course Requirements

- Choose six courses from the following list*:
  - LST 113 LATINO RELIGIOUS EXPERIENCE IN THE UNITED STATES
  - LST 200 FOUNDING MYTHS AND CULTURAL CONQUEST IN LATIN AMERICA
  - LST 300 SPECIAL TOPICS IN LATIN AMERICAN STUDIES: LATINOS IN EDUCATION
  - LST 300 SPECIAL TOPICS IN LATIN AMERICAN STUDIES: LATINA BODIES IN LITERATURE & POLITICS

* Courses from other departments may count towards this concentration; consult your LALSP advisor for more information.
The Latin American and Latino Studies minor will help you explore the cultural contributions of the Latin American community to the global community and the traditions that developed in the region.

Course Requirements

Core Requirements (2 courses / 8 credit hours):

- One course from the following list:
  - LST 200 FOUNDING MYTHS AND CULTURAL CONQUEST IN LATIN AMERICA
  - LST 201 STRUGGLE AND RESISTANCE IN LATIN AMERICA
  - LST 203 MEDIA AND CULTURAL STUDIES ACROSS THE AMERICAS
  - LST 202 CONSTRUCTING LATINO COMMUNITIES

Areas of Concentration (4 courses / 16 credit hours):

- Four elective courses, to be chosen in consultation with a program advisor. Minors are encouraged to take LST 390 SENIOR SEMINAR. Minors are suggested to focus in one of the four Areas of Concentration:
  - Historical Processes and Interpretations of the Americas
  - Contemporary Transformations in the Americas
  - Cultural Studies of the Americas
  - Latina/o Studies

Study Abroad Experience

Students are strongly encouraged to participate in DePaul's quarter abroad program in Merida, Mexico or one of the university's other short-term study abroad programs in Latin America.

Internship Experience

Students are strongly encouraged to include an internship as part of their academic experience. Internships may be arranged with either a Latino community organization, a U.S.-based organization that focuses on Latin America, or, as part of a study abroad experience, with a public service organization in a Latin American country.
Students majoring in Latin American and Latino Studies (BA) are restricted from earning this minor.

Latino Media and Communication (Minor)

The minor in Latino Media and Communication is comprised of six courses. The minor allows students within the college and from other colleges, who have a strong interest in focusing their interest in Latino Studies, to develop them within the communication field. Students opting to pursue a minor in Latino Media and Communication may not pursue a concentration in the same subject area.

Minor Goals

The program educates students to think critically about all aspects of media and communication, with a particular focus on Latino media and Latino communities. Coursework will provide students with the applied skills necessary to create communication strategies which effectively reach the Latino segment of the population, based on an understanding of Latino cultures in the US and grounded in an understanding of its cultural, economic and sociological aspects.

Learning Goals

Students who complete the minor will:

- Develop an understanding of the heterogeneous and rapidly changing Latino communities locally, nationally, and globally.
- Ground their knowledge of intercultural studies within a more extensive and concrete knowledge of a particular (even though diverse), rapidly growing, and increasingly important population within the US—Latino communities.
- Increase their cross-cultural competence (understanding and ability to dialogue across difference, develop cultural sensitivity and awareness) with Latino communities.
- Develop insights into the needs and motivations of Latino populations in the workplace, in community situations, and other sites of engagement, and develop communications tools and strategies to address those needs and motivations.
- Enhance their capacity to communicate with and learn from Latino populations in the workplace, in community situations, and other sites of engagement.
- Recognize the impact of the movement of Latinos across the globe and to develop the skills to critically consume and produce media, public relations, and advertisement representations that communicate to and about Latino communities.
- Both engage and demonstrate their interest in Latino Studies within and across diverse areas of knowledge production in the Communication field.

Course Requirements

- LST 202 CONSTRUCTING LATINO COMMUNITIES
  or INTC 335 LATINO COMMUNICATION, CULTURE, & COMMUNITY
- Five additional courses from:
  - LST 202 CONSTRUCTING LATINO COMMUNITIES
  - PSY 220 LATINA/O PSYCHOLOGY
  - INTC 335 LATINO COMMUNICATION, CULTURE, & COMMUNITY
  - INTC 308 TOPICS IN INTERCULTURAL COMMUNICATION
  - JOUR 377 SPECIAL TOPICS IN JOURNALISM
  - LST 300 SPECIAL TOPICS IN LATIN AMERICAN STUDIES

Leadership Studies (BA)

An accelerated, inter-disciplinary, 2-year degree completion program for adult students, the Leadership Studies major is offered at the Loop and Naperville campuses, requiring only one on-site class a week. The remaining courses are offered online.

This course-based major is for graduates of community colleges with an Associates degree who seek broad interdisciplinary study that includes project management, leadership models, communication, organizational change, ethics, human interaction, conflict management and negotiation, among others.

The major combines courses from the Department of Psychology, the College of Communication, and the School for New Learning, which offers the majority of courses, including a unique series of Adult Learning Seminars. SNL students in the Individualized Focus Area degree program may take many of these courses for competence.

Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Analyze contemporary models and theories of organizational leadership.
- Demonstrate an understanding of the symbiotic relationship between organizational communication, leadership and work culture.
- Interpret statistical data and critique their validity in terms of the questions and hypotheses underlying them.
- Identify and apply effective group dynamics principles, and connect these to patterns to meaning and identity.
- Analyze case studies of organizational change using relevant theoretical models and concepts.
- Articulate the impact of language and discourse on attitudes, action, and identity formation in the professions.
- Understand and articulate central principles of productive organizational development.
Program Requirements

There are 93 quarter hours required for this degree, as follows:

- DCM 322 CAPSTONE PROJECT/PORTFOLIO REVIEW

Electives

Additional elective credit may be required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 quarter hours.
Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, Transgender, Queer Studies (Minor)

The LGBTQ Studies program analyzes sex and sexuality within many different fields of inquiry. A minor in LGBTQ Studies will enable DePaul students to devote significant study to the experiences of people who do not conform to culturally dominant identities of sexuality and gender: lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, queer. Such an endeavor is profoundly interdisciplinary by nature and draws on university resources and faculty expertise in a wide array of disciplines. Students in this minor will have the opportunity to analyze the experiences of LGBTQ people on their own terms, as well as through critical perspectives on sexuality and gender as complex social, cultural, biological, and historical phenomena.

Course Requirements

- LGQ 150 INTRODUCTION TO LESBIAN, GAY, BISEXUAL, TRANSGENDER, QUEER STUDIES
- Five courses from those listed below

The following is a sample of regularly-offered approved electives. This list is not exhaustive; new courses are continually created and approved. Every quarter before registration begins, the Program Director distributes a list of courses being offered the following quarter. Students should contact the Program Director to request the current list. Students may also petition the Director for approval of a course not listed. Many LGBTQ Studies courses are crosslisted and fulfill requirements in other departments and programs, including the Liberal Studies Program. LGBTQ Studies minors are encouraged to take at least one course in a variety of disciplines—film, history, literature, media, performance, philosophy, politics, religion, science, and theory.

Lighting Design (BFA)

The Theatre School’s Bachelor of Fine Arts (BFA) degree in Lighting Design is designed to give students the opportunity to explore and expand their artistic and visual expression and provides them the opportunity to practice their craft. The four-year curriculum in many ways simulates a lighting designer’s professional experience and process. Designers learn to visualize, create and implement their designs by collaborating with directors, dramaturgs, other designers and technicians, and our professional production staff.

  - MIS 366 INTERNET TECHNOLOGIES IN BUSINESS
MIS 350 Business Systems Analysis is to be taken only by MIS minors; MIS 360 Systems Analysis and Design is to be taken only by MIS majors.

Degree Conferral Requirements

All MIS courses and any courses used toward the Management Information Systems minor must be completed with a minimum grade of C- and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.

Management Information Systems (BSB)

The program in Management Information Systems is intended for undergraduate business students who plan to start their career as information systems professionals in either information technology producing industries or with the heavy users of such technologies. If they decide to take a minor in MIS, graduates will be able to function as liaisons representing their department or business function in information systems projects. This program is guided by several curriculum principles:

- Designed to educate management-oriented, technically proficient information systems professionals.
- Focused on requirements engineering and other stages of system life cycle requiring heavy involvement of systems analysts rather than on technical implementation stages.
- Complements a thorough understanding of business operations covered in the core undergraduate business curriculum. This combination of competencies is particularly important for systems analysts and makes this program distinct from programs in computer science.
- Designed according to current technological trends and is flexible to accommodate its adjustment as stipulated by rapidly changing and evolving information technologies.
- Includes sufficient training in technology skills in high demand to make graduates easily employable and immediately productive.

In this program, students will acquire:

- A broad understanding of information technologies and their utilization in private and governmental organizations
- An in-depth understanding of information systems life cycle and the nature of related phases and tasks from initial study through post-implementation support
- A thorough understanding of system requirements elicitation, analysis, documentation, validation, and management
- Ability to work with users and builders of information systems
- An understanding of information systems project management
- Ability to develop prototypes using visual programming technology
- Ability to identify organizational data and to design and manipulate databases
- Ability to integrate technical knowledge and understanding of business operations
- Experience working on team projects

Marketing (BSB)

The ultimate goal of an organization is to satisfy the needs and wants of its customers profitably. The Marketing Department offers a variety of courses designed to develop and sharpen student skills to analyze and solve marketing problems. Successful marketing requires the ability to know how and when to do research, how to analyze markets and behavior, and how to develop products and services that satisfy or even anticipate customers’ needs. The purpose of the undergraduate program in Marketing is to prepare students for successful marketing careers by teaching them the knowledge and skills to identify marketing problems and develop solutions that meet customer needs.

MKT 202 should be taken as early as possible.

Communication Requirement

MKT 376 must be completed by students majoring in Marketing and serves as the Communication requirement in the Business Core.

Concentration Requirements

Students must complete the requirements from one of the following two concentrations: Standard or Sales Leadership.

Multiple Marketing Concentrations

While a student may complete more than one Marketing concentration, at least 50% of the courses used for the completion of a second concentration must be unique to the completion of that concentration.

Open Electives

Open elective credit (16.0 hours) is also required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Degree Conferral Requirements

All Marketing (MKT) courses and any other courses used toward the Marketing major must be completed with a minimum grade of C- and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.
Concentration Requirements

Concentrations, tracks and specializations provide focus to the major. In addition to any college core requirements, liberal studies requirements and major requirements, students are required to choose one of the following:

- Standard
- Sales Leadership

Standard Concentration

The Standard Marketing concentration provides students with the flexibility to tailor their programs to fit a wide array of career interests. Graduates with a marketing major have many career opportunities in the various areas of marketing such as advertising, market research, sales management, or marketing management. The department offers electives that focus in each area. Majors may wish to group their elective courses with a concentration or specific career orientation in mind, although this is not required. A student majoring in Marketing with this concentration must complete the following requirements totaling at least 20.0 hours:

Course Requirements

- One required course:
  - MKT 315 STRATEGIC TOOLS FOR MARKETERS
- Four elective courses to be chosen from:

  - MKT 390 SERVICE MARKETING
  - MKT 393 MARKETING INTERNSHIP
  - MKT 395 INTERACTIVE/INTERNET MARKETING
  - MKT 398 SPECIAL TOPICS (multiple topics may be used)
  - MKT 399 INDEPENDENT STUDY
  - ICS 350 INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS SEMINAR (may be used once)

Communication Requirement

Driehaus students majoring in Marketing must complete MKT 376 for the Communication requirement in the Business Core.

Multiple Marketing Concentrations

While a student may complete more than one Marketing concentration, at least 50% of the courses used for the completion of a second concentration must be unique to the completion of that concentration.
Global Business Perspective

If a MKT course or ICS 350 is shared between Global Business Perspective and the Marketing major, additional hours of Open Elective credit are required.

Junior Year Experiential Learning

Sharing of MKT 393 between Experiential Learning and the Marketing major may be possible; consult with academic advisor.

Degree Conferral Requirements

All Marketing (MKT) courses and any other courses used toward the Marketing major must be completed with a minimum grade of C- and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.

Sales Leadership Concentration

The demand for trained and knowledgeable sales people has never been greater. Sales careers offer independence, ample financial reward, personal growth and opportunities for rapid advancement within the organization. The Sales Leadership Program produces business graduates who can sell by joining traditional classroom education with real-world learning experience. Classes are led by faculty with extensive sales experience and by sales executives from leading corporations. Students experience rigorous classroom learning designed to deliver the knowledge and practical skills they will need to succeed during the first years of their careers including: oral and written communication, selling technique and networking, use of technology in customer strategy and identification, and development of organization leadership in a sales environment.

Successful students will enjoy opportunities to visit companies, take paid internships, and interview with leading companies for entry-level positions. A student majoring in Marketing with this concentration must complete the following requirements totaling at least 20.0 hours:

Course Requirements

- Two required courses:
  - MKT 377 FUNDAMENTALS OF SALES & NETWORKING
  - MKT 383 ADVANCED VALUATIONS FOR BUSINESS
- Three electives to be chosen from:
  - MKT 378 SALES STRATEGY & TECHNOLOGY
  - MKT 380 SCIENCE OF RETAILING

  - MKT 382 PRINCIPLES OF CATEGORY MANAGEMENT
  - MKT 384 CASES IN CATEGORY MANAGEMENT
  - MKT 385 SELLING PROFESSIONAL & COLLEGIATE SPORTS
  - MKT 398 SPECIAL TOPICS (when related)

Category Management Focus

For a specific focus in Category Management, Sales Leadership students should take:

- MKT 380 SCIENCE OF RETAILING
- MKT 382 PRINCIPLES OF CATEGORY MANAGEMENT
- MKT 384 CASES IN CATEGORY MANAGEMENT

Communication Requirement

Driehaus students majoring in Marketing must complete MKT 376 for the Communication requirement in the Business Core.
Multiple Marketing Concentrations

While a student may complete more than one Marketing concentration, at least 50% of the courses used for the completion of a second concentration must be unique to the completion of that concentration.

Degree Conferral Requirements

All Marketing (MKT) courses and any other courses used toward the Marketing major must be completed with a minimum grade of C- and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.

Career Orientations

Advertising and Promotion

Skills that lead to successful careers in Advertising and Promotion include: analysis of market research data; media planning; the creation of persuasive messages; strategic coordination of elements of the marketing communication mix; sales promotion strategies; public relations analysis and tactical management. You may consider the Standard concentration in Marketing to pursue this career path. Marketing elective courses for students interested in a career in advertising and promotion include the following:

- MKT 320 PRINCIPLES OF ADVERTISING
- MKT 321 SOCIAL MEDIA MARKETING
- MKT 395 INTERACTIVE/INTERNET MARKETING

Category Management

Category Management is the practice of managing a group of related products as one category to maximize profitability. Successful companies expect their suppliers to act as partners that will help them grow their businesses, sharing industry expertise and consumer insight. We have partnered with the Category Management Association to develop a unique curriculum that will prepare students for careers in this rapidly growing field and lead to industry certification. You may consider the Sales Leadership concentration in Marketing to pursue this career path. A student interested in category management should take the courses listed below:

- MKT 376 EFFECTIVE BUSINESS COMMUNICATION
- MKT 377 FUNDAMENTALS OF SALES & NETWORKING
- MKT 380 SCIENCE OF RETAILING
- MKT 382 PRINCIPLES OF CATEGORY MANAGEMENT
- MKT 383 ADVANCED VALUATIONS FOR BUSINESS
- MKT 384 CASES IN CATEGORY MANAGEMENT

International Marketing

The international area of marketing offers students the opportunity to examine the economy and business management of many countries in their political, historical, and socio-cultural context. Students who concentrate on international marketing would develop career opportunities in international sales, international product management, or international marketing management. You may consider the Standard concentration in Marketing to pursue this career path. DePaul Marketing students may combine their majors with either a minor in a commercial language through the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, or with selected course work in International Studies. Students interested in international marketing benefit by enrolling in the following Marketing courses:

- MKT 320 PRINCIPLES OF ADVERTISING
- MKT 340 MARKETING ACROSS CULTURES: A CULTURAL PERSPECTIVE ON MULTICULTURAL MARKETS
- MKT 352 NEW PRODUCT DEVELOPMENT
- MKT 360 INTERNATIONAL MARKETING
- MKT 390 SERVICE MARKETING

Market Research

Market research encompasses problem formulation, data gathering, data analysis, and communication of findings. An understanding of statistics, psychology and sociology as related to marketing is desirable. You may consider the Standard concentration in Marketing to pursue this career path. A student interested in market research will benefit from the following courses:

- MKT 305 INTRODUCTION TO MARKETING RESEARCH
- MKT 315 STRATEGIC TOOLS FOR MARKETERS
- MKT 320 PRINCIPLES OF ADVERTISING
- MKT 352 NEW PRODUCT DEVELOPMENT

Marketing Management

Many chief executives of top U.S. companies have a background in marketing. Strong marketing provides a key competitive advantage in a dynamic global economy. The marketing management emphasis is appropriate for students with a general interest in planning, development, and introduction of products and services. You may consider the Standard concentration or the IME program in Marketing to pursue this career path. A student interested in marketing management should take the following courses:

- MKT 315 STRATEGIC TOOLS FOR MARKETERS
- MKT 320 PRINCIPLES OF ADVERTISING
- MKT 352 NEW PRODUCT DEVELOPMENT
- MKT 360 INTERNATIONAL MARKETING

Sales Leadership

The demand for trained and knowledgeable sales people has never been greater. Sales careers offer independence, ample financial reward, personal growth and opportunities for rapid advancement within the organization. In today's economy, there are far more sales positions available, compensation levels are 20-40% higher than other entry level positions and sales positions are more stable in difficult economic times. You may consider the Sales Leadership concentration in Marketing to pursue this career path. A student interested in sales leadership could benefit from taking the following:

- MKT 376 EFFECTIVE BUSINESS COMMUNICATION
- MKT 377 FUNDAMENTALS OF SALES & NETWORKING
- MKT 378 SALES STRATEGY & TECHNOLOGY
- MKT 380 SCIENCE OF RETAILING
- MKT 381 BUILDING FINANCIAL RELATIONSHIPS
- MKT 383 ADVANCED VALUATIONS FOR BUSINESS
- MKT 385 SELLING PROFESSIONAL & COLLEGIATE SPORTS
- MKT 398 SPECIAL TOPICS : Sales for Social Impact

Degree Conferral Requirements

All Marketing (MKT) courses and any courses used toward the Marketing minor must be completed with a minimum grade of C- and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.

Marketing Honors (BSB)

IME, the honors sequence in Marketing, gives a select group of undergraduate students a hands-on opportunity to develop skills in marketing management while interacting with a Chicago area business. The real world focus of IME is an outgrowth of DePaul's strong links to the Chicago business community.

Instead of a series of classes that address a single marketing function, the IME curriculum features courses that address marketing issues in the way that managers are likely to encounter them. The stage is set for life-long learning in the marketing profession.

IME students are selected on a competitive basis. The evaluation is based on an interview, writing sample and performance in previous marketing and other coursework. Classes are limited in size and offered only once per year.

Second Majors and Minors

The addition of a second major or minor may affect the Business Core classes required for a student. Meet with an academic advisor to confirm requirements.

Math Requirements

- A student is expected to complete the business math sequence (MAT 135, MAT 136, and MAT 137) in the first year of study
- MAT 135 and MAT 137 are completed through Liberal Studies requirements
- MAT 135 may be replaced by MAT 150 or MAT 160 or MAT 170
- MAT 136 may be replaced by MAT 151 or MAT 161 or MAT 171
- MAT 135 and MAT 136 may be replaced by the sequence of MAT 147, MAT 148, and MAT 149
- MAT 137 may be replaced by MAT 348 or MAT 351; if done, an additional Scientific Inquiry course must be added to the degree plan

Communication Requirement

Students majoring in Marketing must complete MKT 376 for the Communication requirement.

Grade Minimums for Marketing Major

A minimum grade of C- is required for the following: ACC 101, ACC 102, BLW 201, ECO 105, ECO 106, MAT 135, MAT 136, MAT 137, MKT 301, MKT 310, MKT 376, the course used for Professional Writing, and any MKT course used for Global Business Perspective.

Global Business Perspective

If a MKT course or ICS 350 is shared between Global Business Perspective and the Marketing major, additional hours of Open Elective credit are required.

Liberal Studies Requirements

Honors program requirements can be found in the individual Colleges & Schools section of the University Catalog. Select Academics, followed by Undergraduate, then Honors Program Alternative.

Notes
Courses offered in the student’s primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student’s major and is cross-listed with a course within the student’s major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.
Major Requirements

Major Declaration Requirements

To declare a major in IME Honors Marketing, a student must meet the following requirements:

- Acceptance into the IME Honors program
- Completion of 28.0 hours at DePaul University
- The following courses must be completed with a minimum grade of C- and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher: ACC 101, ACC 102, BLW 201, ECO 105, ECO 106, MAT 135, MAT 136, and MAT 137
- A minimum cumulative DePaul grade point average of 2.500
- A minimum Marketing grade point average of 2.000
- No grades of IN, R, or lower than C- in any Marketing (MKT) course or course used toward the Marketing major
- Completion of MKT 301 and MKT 310 with minimum grades of C-

Course Requirements

In addition to MKT 301 and MKT 310, a student majoring in IME Honors Marketing is required to complete the following courses totaling at least 30.0 hours plus 4.0 hours to be shared with Business Core (34.0 hours total):

- Five required courses:
  - MKT 202 QUANTITATIVE METHODS IN MARKETING (or equivalent; 2.0 hours)
  - MKT 356 MARKETING ANALYSIS AND PLANNING (8.0 hours)
  - MKT 357 MANAGEMENT OF MARKETING (8.0 hours)
  - MKT 358 MARKETING IN A GLOBAL ENVIRONMENT
  - MKT 393 MARKETING INTERNSHIP
- One required course to be taken in Business Core:

  - MKT 395 INTERACTIVE/INTERNET MARKETING
  - MKT 398 SPECIAL TOPICS
  - MKT 399 INDEPENDENT STUDY
  - ICS 350 INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS SEMINAR (may be used once)

MKT 202 should be taken as early as possible.

Communication Requirement

MKT 376 must be completed by students majoring in Marketing and serves as the Communication requirement in the Business Core.

Multiple Marketing Concentrations
While a student may complete more than one Marketing concentration, at least 50% of the courses used for the completion of a second concentration must be unique to the completion of that concentration.

Open Electives

Open elective credit (16.0 hours) is also required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Global Business Perspective

If a MKT course or ICS 350 is shared between Global Business Perspective and the Marketing major, additional hours of Open Elective credit are required.

Junior Year Experiential Learning

Sharing of MKT 393 between Experiential Learning and the Marketing major may be possible; consult with academic advisor.

Degree Conferral Requirements

All Marketing (MKT) courses and any other courses used toward the Marketing major must be completed with a minimum grade of C- and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.

Marketing: Sales Leadership (Minor: Business Students Only)

Driehaus College of Business students who minor in Sales Leadership will strengthen their skills in sales and category management, including interpreting strategic consumer insight to help retailers maximize profitability and create an enjoyable shopping experience.

Declaration Requirements

To declare a minor in Sales Leadership, a Driehaus student must meet the following requirements:

- A minimum cumulative DePaul grade point average of 2.500
- A minimum Marketing grade point average of 2.000
- No grades of IN, R, or lower than C- in any Marketing (MKT) course
- Completion of MKT 301 and MKT 310 with minimum grades of C-

A Sales Leadership Program application must be completed through the Department of Marketing in conjunction with declaration.

Course Requirements

In addition to MKT 301 and MKT 310, a Driehaus student minoring in Sales Leadership is required to complete the following courses totaling at least 16.0 hours:

- One required course to be taken in Business Core:
  - MKT 376 EFFECTIVE BUSINESS COMMUNICATION
- Two required courses:
  - MKT 377 FUNDAMENTALS OF SALES & NETWORKING
  - MKT 383 ADVANCED VALUATIONS FOR BUSINESS
- One elective course to be chosen from:
  - MKT 378 SALES STRATEGY & TECHNOLOGY
  - MKT 380 SCIENCE OF RETAILING

For a specific focus in Category Management, students should take:

- MKT 380 SCIENCE OF RETAILING
- MKT 382 PRINCIPLES OF CATEGORY MANAGEMENT
- MKT 384 CASES IN CATEGORY MANAGEMENT

Communication

Driehaus students minoring in Sales Leadership must complete MKT 376 for the Communication requirement in the Business Core.

Degree Conferral Requirements

All Marketing (MKT) courses and any courses used toward the Marketing minor must be completed with a minimum grade of C- and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.

Marketing: Sales Leadership (Minor)

Available to students outside the Driehaus College of Business, the Sales Leadership minor is for students interested acquiring skills in sales and category management: the interpretation of strategic consumer insight to help retailers maximize profitability and create an enjoyable shopping experience.

Declaration Requirements

To declare a minor in Sales Leadership, a non-Driehaus student must meet the following requirements:

- A minimum cumulative DePaul grade point average of 2.500
- A minimum Marketing grade point average of 2.000
- No grades of IN, R, or lower than C- in any Marketing (MKT) course
- Completion of the following classes with a minimum grade of C- in each:
  - ICS 200 or approved substitute
  - A course in college algebra
  - A course in statistics

A Sales Leadership Program application must be completed through the Department of Marketing in conjunction with declaration.

The requirement for courses in college algebra and statistics may be satisfied through the completion of the LSP 120 and LSP 121 sequence.

Course Requirements

A non-Driehaus student minoring in Sales Leadership is required to complete the following courses totaling at least 30.0 hours:

- Seven required courses:
  - ICS 200 INTRODUCTION TO BUSINESS (or approved substitute)
  - MKT 202 QUANTITATIVE METHODS IN MARKETING (or equivalent; 2.0 hours)
  - MKT 301 PRINCIPLES OF MARKETING
  - MKT 310 CONSUMER BEHAVIOR
  - MKT 376 EFFECTIVE BUSINESS COMMUNICATION

Degree Conferral Requirements

All Marketing (MKT) courses and any other courses used toward the Marketing minor must be completed with a minimum grade of C- and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.

Mathematics and Computer Science (BS)

The BS in Math and Computer Science is a joint degree between the College of Computing and Digital Media and the Department of Mathematics. It provides challenging opportunities to exceptional students with an interest in the highly theoretical nexus of math and computer science. Mathematics is a key element to the theory and practice of computer science and technology:

- Number theory forms the basis for encryption algorithms for messages sent over the Internet.
- Facts from projective geometry and multivariable calculus underlie the computer algorithms that control computer animation.
- Properties of abstract groups are instrumental in correcting transmission errors that occur when information is sent from one computer to another.
- Graph theory and combinatorics are used to create algorithms for Internet search engines and analyze Internet routing protocols.

This program is intended to appeal to academically talented students. It is designed to prepare them for graduate study in various areas of computer science such as theoretical computer science, graphics, data analysis, artificial intelligence, and computational methods and in areas in applied mathematics such as numerical analysis or discrete mathematics. The program is also designed to prepare students to compete for the more theoretically complex jobs found in computer software development.

Students in the program will explore a broad range of fields including:

- Theory of computation
- Computational mathematics
- Artificial intelligence
- Data analysis
- Graphics
- Computer vision
- Research

It is highly recommended that students concentrate on one or two areas for their advanced classes to achieve depth, but they are not required to do so. Faculty advisors are available to assist students in their selection.

Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Apply both abstract and quantitative reasoning to understand the relationships between quantities in problem situations, and to solve problems.
- Construct correct logical arguments and understand and critique the reasoning of others.
- Use relevant mathematical tools to answer questions in the natural, social, and computer sciences, as well as other academic disciplines.
- Identify, formulate, abstract, and solve mathematical problems using tools from a variety of mathematical areas including calculus, linear algebra, geometry, abstract algebra, analysis, number theory, probability, and statistics.
- Communicate mathematical ideas clearly, in oral or written form, by using appropriate mathematical terminology and notation.
- Critically interpret numerical and graphical data and use computer technology appropriately to solve problems and to promote understanding.

College Core Requirements

Modern Language Requirements

Students who intend to graduate with the Bachelor of Arts (B.A.) Degree will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in the fourth-year high school sequence of any language
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Science and Health will abide by the College of Science and Health Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.

B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program. While Bachelor of Science (B.S.) students are not required to demonstrate competency in a modern language, the "Modern Language Option" is available to them for language study at any level.

Major Declaration Requirements

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. After researching College programs, the student should declare a major field by visiting Campus Connection and using the Declarations and Inter-College Transfer tool. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor or staff advisor in the department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.
To change major fields, or to declare a minor or concentration, the student must use the Declarations and Inter-College Transfer tool described above. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the College or an academic advisor in the Office for Academic Advising Support.

Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student’s major and is cross-listed with a course within the student’s major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Summer ‘Semester’ Calculus* (option 5)
- MAT 155 SUMMER CALCULUS I
- MAT 156 SUMMER CALCULUS II

*Note: This Calculus sequence is offered only during the summer, in two 6-credit hour courses.
Students successfully completing MAT 131, 147, 150 or 160 should enroll in MAT 155; students who successfully complete MAT 148, 151, or 161 should in enroll in MAT 156. Students who successfully complete MAT 155 may enroll in either MAT 151 or MAT 156.

- MAT 260 MULTIVARIABLE CALCULUS I
- MAT 262 LINEAR ALGEBRA
- 3 CDM Major Electives
- 3 MAT Major Electives
- 1 CDM or MAT Major Elective

Note: Students may take CSC 243 PYTHON FOR PROGRAMMERS and 1 Additional Major Elective in lieu of CSC
241 INTRODUCTION TO COMPUTER SCIENCE I and CSC 242 INTRODUCTION TO COMPUTER SCIENCE II.

Major Electives

Students must take 7 Major Field electives chosen from the grouped list below. Of these, 3 must be CDM courses and 3 must be MAT courses, and 1 could be either a CDM or MAT course.

Students must earn a grade of C- or higher in all major elective courses.

It is recommended that students concentrate on one or two areas for their advanced classes to achieve depth, but they are not required to do so. Students are strongly encouraged to discuss course selection with an advisor.
Students may wish to arrange with a professor to take an independent study or a research experience (MAT 399 or CSC 399 or IT 300) in order to explore a subject more deeply than is possible in a scheduled course.

Theory of Computation

The courses in the theory area explore the mathematical and logical foundations of computer science.

- MAT 302 COMBINATORICS
- MAT 303 THEORY OF NUMBERS
- MAT 351 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS I
- MAT 310 ABSTRACT ALGEBRA I
- MAT 311 ABSTRACT ALGEBRA II
- MAT 312 ABSTRACT ALGEBRA III
- MAT 335 REAL ANALYSIS I
- MAT 372 LOGIC AND SET THEORY
- CSC 235 PROBLEM SOLVING
- CSC 327 PROBLEM SOLVING FOR CONTESTS
- CSC 333 CRYPTOLOGY
- CSC 344 AUTOMATA THEORY AND FORMAL GRAMMARS
- CSC 347 CONCEPTS OF PROGRAMMING LANGUAGES
- CSC 348 INTRODUCTION TO COMPILER DESIGN
- CSC 358 SYMBOLIC PROGRAMMING
- CSC 387 OPERATIONS RESEARCH I: LINEAR PROGRAMMING or MAT 387 OPERATIONS RESEARCH I: LINEAR PROGRAMMING
- CSC 389 THEORY OF COMPUTATION

Computational Methods
The computational methods area investigates quantitative and computational methods in computer science

- CSC 331 SCIENTIFIC COMPUTING
- MAT 385 NUMERICAL ANALYSIS I
- MAT 386 NUMERICAL ANALYSIS II
- MAT 330 METHODS OF COMPUTATION AND THEORETICAL PHYSICS I
- MAT 331 METHODS OF COMPUTATION AND THEORETICAL PHYSICS II
- MAT 384 MATHEMATICAL MODELING

Artificial Intelligence

For students with an interest in the computational relations between syntax and semantics.

- CSC 380 FOUNDATIONS OF ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE
- CSC 357 EXPERT SYSTEMS
- CSC 358 SYMBOLIC PROGRAMMING

Data Analysis

For students who are interested in statistical and computational analysis of data. Many of the courses in this area require the student to take MAT 351-353.

- CSC 328 DATA ANALYSIS FOR EXPERIMENTERS
- CSC 334 ADVANCED DATA ANALYSIS
  - or MAT 354 MULTIVARIATE STATISTICS
- CSC 367 INTRODUCTION TO DATA MINING
- MAT 261 MULTIVARIABLE CALCULUS II
- MAT 351 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS I
- MAT 352 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS II
- MAT 353 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS III
- MAT 355 STOCHASTIC PROCESSES
- MAT 357 NONPARAMETRIC STATISTICS
- MAT 370 ADVANCED LINEAR ALGEBRA
- MAT 356 APPLIED REGRESSION ANALYSIS
- MAT 358 APPLIED TIME SERIES AND FORECASTING
- MAT 359 SIMULATION MODELS AND MONTE CARLO METHOD

Graphics

The graphics courses are intended for students who want to study the technical and mathematical foundations of computer graphics and animation.

- MAT 337 COMPLEX ANALYSIS
- MAT 261 MULTIVARIABLE CALCULUS II
- MAT 385 NUMERICAL ANALYSIS I
- GPH 211 PERCEPTUAL PRINCIPLES FOR DIGITAL ENVIRONMENTS I
- GPH 212 PERCEPTUAL PRINCIPLES FOR DIGITAL ENVIRONMENTS II
- GPH 325 SURVEY OF COMPUTER GRAPHICS
- GPH 329 COMPUTER GRAPHICS DEVELOPMENT II
- GPH 336 SMOOTH SURFACE MODELING FOR GRAPHICS AND ANIMATION
- GPH 372 PRINCIPLES OF COMPUTER ANIMATION

Computer Vision

Computer vision studies the mathematical and algorithmic underpinnings of image analysis and image processing.

- MAT 261 MULTIVARIABLE CALCULUS II
- MAT 335 REAL ANALYSIS I
- MAT 370 ADVANCED LINEAR ALGEBRA
- MAT 381 FOURIER ANALYSIS AND SPECIAL FUNCTIONS
- MAT 384 MATHEMATICAL MODELING
- CSC 381 INTRODUCTION TO DIGITAL IMAGE PROCESSING
- CSC 382 APPLIED IMAGE ANALYSIS

Research

- CSC 395 RESEARCH COLLOQUIUM
- CSC 399 INDEPENDENT STUDY
Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Degree Requirements

Students in this degree must meet the following requirements:

- Complete a minimum of 192 credit hours (generally 48 courses)
- Earn a grade of C- or higher in WRD 103, WRD 104, and all Major and Minor courses
- Earn a grade of D or higher in all other Liberal Studies and Open Elective courses
- Maintain a cumulative GPA of 2.0 or higher

Mathematical Sciences (BA)

The Department of Mathematical Sciences offers courses in pure and applied mathematics to help students reach a wide variety of intellectual, academic, and career goals.

Many students come to the department to obtain the mathematical background needed to be successful in programs in the natural sciences, computer science, social sciences, and business. Such students may choose to supplement their major in their home department by obtaining a minor in mathematics.

Other students come to the department seeking a program leading to an undergraduate or graduate degree in one of the mathematical sciences. Undergraduate students majoring in mathematical sciences may choose one of seven areas of concentration:

- Pure Mathematics
- Statistics
- Actuarial Science
- Financial Mathematics
- Quantitative Analysis and Operations Research
- Applied and Computational Mathematics
- In consultation with a mathematics faculty advisor, undergraduate students may also create an individualized program of courses leading to a degree in mathematical sciences.

A thesis option is available to mathematics majors who wish to pursue an extended independent project related to a theoretical or applied focus of the program. Students would work under the guidance of a faculty mentor. At least 4 credits must be completed over one or two quarters prior to the thesis submission. Interested students are strongly encouraged to enroll in MAT 390 during their junior year.

Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Apply both abstract and quantitative reasoning to understand the relationships between quantities in problem situations, and to solve problems.
- Construct correct logical arguments and understand and critique the reasoning of others.
- Use relevant mathematical tools to answer questions in the natural, social, and computer sciences, as well as other academic disciplines.
- Identify, formulate, abstract, and solve mathematical problems using tools from a variety of mathematical areas including calculus, linear algebra, geometry, abstract algebra, analysis, number theory, probability, and statistics.
- Communicate mathematical ideas clearly, in oral or written form, by using appropriate mathematical terminology and notation.
- Critically interpret numerical and graphical data and use computer technology appropriately to solve problems and to promote understanding.

College Core Requirements

Modern Language Requirements

Students who intend to graduate with the Bachelor of Arts (B.A.) Degree will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in the fourth-year high school sequence of any language
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Science and Health will abide by the College of Science and Health Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.

B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program. While Bachelor of Science (B.S.) students are not required to demonstrate competency in a modern language, the "Modern Language Option" is available to them for language study at any level.

Major Declaration Requirements

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. After researching College programs, the student should declare a major field by visiting Campus Connection and using the Declarations and Inter-College Transfer tool. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor or staff advisor in the department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

To change major fields, or to declare a minor or concentration, the student must use the Declarations and Inter-College Transfer tool described above. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major... field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the College or an academic advisor in the Office for Academic Advising Support.

Liberal Studies Requirements

Honors program requirements can be found in the individual Colleges & Schools section of the University Catalog. Select Academics, followed by Undergraduate, then Honors Program Alternative.

Notes

Students with a primary major in Mathematics are required to complete the Capstone offered by the Mathematics department. Students double majoring or pursuing dual degrees with the primary major or primary degree in Mathematics are required to complete the Capstone offered by the Mathematics department. Mathematics students in the University Honors Program shall take the University Honors Capstone. They are not expected to take both the Honors Capstone and the primary major or primary degree Capstone.

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

    - MAT 171 CALCULUS II WITH SCIENTIFIC APPLICATIONS
    - MAT 149, MAT 152 OR MAT 162
  - Sequence Five*
    - MAT 155 SUMMER CALCULUS I
MAT 156 SUMMER CALCULUS II

Note: This Calculus sequence is offered only during the summer, in two 6-credit hour courses. Students successfully completing MAT 131, 147, 150 or 160 should enroll in MAT 155; students who successfully complete MAT 148, 151 or 161 should enroll in MAT 156. Student who successfully complete MAT 155 may enroll in either MAT 151 or MAT 156.

- MAT 260 MULTIVARIABLE CALCULUS I
- MAT 261 MULTIVARIABLE CALCULUS II
- MAT 262 LINEAR ALGEBRA
- One of the following options
  - MAT 215 INTRODUCTION TO MATHEMATICAL REASONING
  - Discrete Mathematics Sequence
    - MAT 140 DISCRETE MATHEMATICS I
    - MAT 141 DISCRETE MATHEMATICS II
- CSC 241 INTRODUCTION TO COMPUTER SCIENCE I, or a more advanced course in any programming language.
- MAT 398 SENIOR CAPSTONE SEMINAR (Liberal Studies Program Capstone)

Concentration Requirements

Students must also complete the requirements from one of the following concentrations: Pure Mathematics; Statistics; Actuarial Science; Financial Mathematics; Quantitative Analysis and Operations Research; Applied and Computational Mathematics; or Individualized.

If the student chooses to declare more than one Mathematical Sciences concentration, then the student must complete the requirements for each concentration, and take at least three additional 300-level courses overall. For example, a student earning two concentrations would have taken at least nine 300-level courses, and a student earning three concentrations would have taken at least twelve 300-level courses.

Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

The combined Bachelor's/Master's Degree program offers four options:

- Mathematical Sciences (BA/BS) / Applied Mathematics (MS)
- Mathematical Sciences (BA/BS) / Applied Statistics (MS)
- Mathematical Sciences (BA/BS) / Pure Mathematics (MS)
- Mathematical Sciences (BA) / Secondary Education Mathematical Sciences (MEd)

Students apply to one of these programs in spring of their junior year; interested students should meet with the Graduate Program Director. Students accepted into this program take a maximum of twelve graduate credit hours as three courses in their senior year; these graduate courses apply toward both undergraduate and graduate Mathematical Sciences requirements.

Students must apply for undergraduate degree conferral in anticipation of completing their fourth year of study.

Mathematical Sciences (BA) / Secondary Education Mathematical Sciences (MEd)

This combined degree program of the College of Science and Health and the College of Education was collaboratively developed, and is governed and taught by faculty from these units.

Students may apply to the program during the spring of their junior year. They must enroll in the Junior Year Experiential Learning course, TCH 320, and meet other application criteria; these include completion of at least 16 quarter credit hours at DePaul and a 3.0 GPA. During their senior year, students are required to complete a program capstone course, TCH 390, and three 400-level courses that count toward both their undergraduate and graduate degrees:

- TCH 401 TEACHING AS A PROFESSION IN SECONDARY SCHOOL
- TCH 413 THE NATURE OF MATHEMATICS
- TCH 423 INQUIRY & APPLICATION IN DEVELOPING SECONDARY MATHEMATICS PEDAGOGY

Math Content Area (grades of C or better required for licensure):
The following Math content area requirements are required. These can be taken as part of the major, liberal studies or open elective requirements:

- One of the following five Calculus sequences:
  - MAT 150, MAT 151, MAT 152
  - MAT 147, MAT 148, MAT 149
  - MAT 160, MAT 161, MAT 162
  - MAT 170, MAT 171 and (MAT 149, MAT 152, MAT 162) or
  - MAT 155 SUMMER CALCULUS I, MAT 156 SUMMER CALCULUS II (offered only in the summer)
- MAT 215 INTRODUCTION TO MATHEMATICAL REASONING
  or MAT 140 DISCRETE MATHEMATICS I AND MAT 141 DISCRETE MATHEMATICS II
- MAT 260 MULTIVARIABLE CALCULUS I
- MAT 261 MULTIVARIABLE CALCULUS II
- MAT 262 LINEAR ALGEBRA

Choose one of the following:

- CSC 212 PROGRAMMING IN JAVA II
- CSC 262 PROGRAMMING IN C++ II
- CSC 242 INTRODUCTION TO COMPUTER SCIENCE II

- MAT 310 ABSTRACT ALGEBRA I
- MAT 303 THEORY OF NUMBERS
  or MAT 311 ABSTRACT ALGEBRA II
- MAT 320 GEOMETRY I
- MAT 321 GEOMETRY II
  or MAT 335 REAL ANALYSIS I
- MAT 351 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS I
  or MAT 348 APPLIED STATISTICAL METHODS
- MAT 301 HISTORY OF MATHEMATICS

The Master’s year comprises teacher-preparation coursework that culminates with student teaching during Spring quarter. Upon graduation and the fulfilling of State of Illinois licensure requirements (which may require some additional course work in the student’s major and related fields), students are eligible to be certified to teach Mathematics at the 6th-12th grade levels.

A full description of the Program can be found on the College of Education website in the graduate course catalog. Students interested in the Program should consult with the designated TEACH Program advisor in their home department.

Concentration Requirements

Concentrations, tracks and specializations provide focus to the major. In addition to any college core requirements, liberal studies requirements and major requirements, students are required to choose one of the following:

- Actuarial Science
- Applied and Computational Mathematics
- Financial Mathematics
- Individualized Concentration
- Pure Mathematics
- Quantitative Analysis and Operations Research
- Statistics
Statistics Concentration

Course Requirements

- MAT 326 SAMPLE SURVEY METHODS
- or MAT 328 DESIGN OF EXPERIMENTS
- MAT 341 STATISTICAL METHODS USING SAS
- MAT 351 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS I
- MAT 352 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS II
- MAT 353 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS III
- MAT 356 APPLIED REGRESSION ANALYSIS

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Additional Recommended Courses

- MAT 335 REAL ANALYSIS I
- MAT 336 REAL ANALYSIS II
- MAT 354 MULTIVARIATE STATISTICS
- MAT 355 STOCHASTIC PROCESSES
- MAT 357 NONPARAMETRIC STATISTICS
- MAT 358 APPLIED TIME SERIES AND FORECASTING
- MAT 370 ADVANCED LINEAR ALGEBRA
- MAT 385 NUMERICAL ANALYSIS I
- MAT 386 NUMERICAL ANALYSIS II

Students interested in graduate study in mathematical statistics are encouraged to take the following:

- MAT 335 REAL ANALYSIS I
- MAT 336 REAL ANALYSIS II

Quantitative Analysis and Operations Research Concentration

Course Requirements

- MAT 351 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS I
- MAT 352 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS II
- MAT 353 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS III
- Three courses from the following list
  - MAT 356 APPLIED REGRESSION ANALYSIS
  - MAT 358 APPLIED TIME SERIES AND FORECASTING
  - MAT 387 OPERATIONS RESEARCH I: LINEAR PROGRAMMING
  - MAT 388 OPERATIONS RESEARCH II: OPTIMIZATION THEORY

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Additional Recommended Courses

- ACC 101 INTRODUCTION TO ACCOUNTING I
Pure Mathematics Concentration

Course Requirements

- Three courses to be chosen from the following list:
  - MAT 310 ABSTRACT ALGEBRA I
  - MAT 311 ABSTRACT ALGEBRA II
  - MAT 335 REAL ANALYSIS I
  - MAT 336 REAL ANALYSIS II

- Three additional mathematics courses from the following list
  - MAT 301 HISTORY OF MATHEMATICS
  - MAT 302 COMBINATORICS
  - MAT 303 THEORY OF NUMBERS
  - MAT 304 DIFFERENTIAL EQUATIONS
  - MAT 311 ABSTRACT ALGEBRA II
  - MAT 312 ABSTRACT ALGEBRA III
  - MAT 320 GEOMETRY I

  - MAT 372 LOGIC AND SET THEORY
  - MAT 384 MATHEMATICAL MODELING
  - MAT 385 NUMERICAL ANALYSIS I
  - MAT 386 NUMERICAL ANALYSIS II

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Recommended Course Selections

For students interested in graduate study in mathematics:

- MAT 310 ABSTRACT ALGEBRA I
- MAT 311 ABSTRACT ALGEBRA II
- MAT 312 ABSTRACT ALGEBRA III
- MAT 335 REAL ANALYSIS I
- MAT 336 REAL ANALYSIS II
- MAT 337 COMPLEX ANALYSIS

For students interested in graduate study in economics, finance, or statistics:

- MAT 335 REAL ANALYSIS I
- MAT 336 REAL ANALYSIS II
- MAT 351 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS I
- MAT 352 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS II
- MAT 353 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS III
Individualized Concentration

Course Requirements

Students may consult with a mathematics faculty advisor and the department chair to create an individualized program of study leading to a degree in mathematics. Such a program will normally consist of the Common Core in Mathematics plus six mathematics courses chosen from those included in the other concentrations and approved by the department chair.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Financial Mathematics Concentration

Course Requirements

This concentration is a Mathematics Major that includes the set of courses which constitute the Finance Minor. It includes courses that are relevant to contemporary financial mathematical modeling, along with courses in Finance and their prerequisites.

- MAT 304 DIFFERENTIAL EQUATIONS
  - or MAT 385 NUMERICAL ANALYSIS I
- MAT 351 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS I
- MAT 352 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS II
- MAT 353 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS III
- MAT 355 STOCHASTIC PROCESSES
- MAT 368 MATHEMATICAL FINANCE

Finance Minor Requirements Embedded in the Financial Mathematics Concentration

- ACC 101 INTRODUCTION TO ACCOUNTING I
- ACC 102 INTRODUCTION TO ACCOUNTING II
- ECO 105 PRINCIPLES OF MICROECONOMICS
- ECO 106 PRINCIPLES OF MACROECONOMICS
- FIN 202 QUANTITATIVE REASONING
- FIN 310 INTRODUCTION TO FINANCE
- FIN 311 CORPORATE FINANCE
- FIN 320 MONEY AND BANKING
- FIN 330 INVESTMENTS: THEORY & PRACTICE
- Two electives chosen from the following list:
  - FIN 313 INVESTMENT BANKING
  - FIN 323 COMMERCIAL BANKING
  - FIN 333 FINANCIAL STATEMENTS ANALYSIS
  - FIN 335 PORTFOLIO MANAGEMENT
  - FIN 340 INTERNATIONAL FINANCE
  - FIN 362 RISK MANAGEMENT
  - FIN 363 DERIVATIVES: PRICING & APPLICATIONS
  - FIN 380 CASES IN FINANCIAL DECISION MAKING
  - FIN 393 FINANCE INTERNSHIP
Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Additional Recommended Courses

- MAT 341 STATISTICAL METHODS USING SAS
- MAT 370 ADVANCED LINEAR ALGEBRA
- MAT 358 APPLIED TIME SERIES AND FORECASTING
- MAT 356 APPLIED REGRESSION ANALYSIS

Applied and Computational Mathematics Concentration

The concentration in Applied and Computational Mathematics is intended for any student who enjoys mathematics, problem solving, and applications to solving practical problems in business, government, and science. The concentration is especially intended for students seeking a career as quantitative analysts, computational scientists, and applied mathematicians, and for those thinking of continuing the study of applied or discrete mathematics at the graduate level.

Course Requirements

- CSC 242 INTRODUCTION TO COMPUTER SCIENCE II or another approved computer science course.
- Three courses chosen from the following list:
  - MAT 302 COMBINATORICS
  - MAT 304 DIFFERENTIAL EQUATIONS
  - MAT 384 MATHEMATICAL MODELING
  - MAT 385 NUMERICAL ANALYSIS I
- Two additional courses chosen from among the above and the following list:
  - MAT 335 REAL ANALYSIS I
  - MAT 351 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS I
  - MAT 352 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS II
  - MAT 370 ADVANCED LINEAR ALGEBRA
  - MAT 381 FOURIER ANALYSIS AND SPECIAL FUNCTIONS
  - MAT 386 NUMERICAL ANALYSIS II
- One additional course chosen from among the above and the following list:
  - MAT 303 THEORY OF NUMBERS
  - MAT 310 ABSTRACT ALGEBRA I
  - MAT 311 ABSTRACT ALGEBRA II
  - MAT 330 METHODS OF COMPUTATION AND THEORETICAL PHYSICS I
  - MAT 331 METHODS OF COMPUTATION AND THEORETICAL PHYSICS II
  - MAT 336 REAL ANALYSIS II
  - MAT 337 COMPLEX ANALYSIS
  - MAT 340 TOPOLOGY
  - MAT 353 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS III
  - MAT 355 STOCHASTIC PROCESSES
  - MAT 387 OPERATIONS RESEARCH I: LINEAR PROGRAMMING
  - MAT 388 OPERATIONS RESEARCH II: OPTIMIZATION THEORY

Students interested in graduate study in applied mathematics are encouraged to take MAT 335 REAL ANALYSIS I and MAT 336 REAL ANALYSIS II, MAT 370 ADVANCED LINEAR ALGEBRA, MAT 385 NUMERICAL ANALYSIS I and MAT 386 NUMERICAL ANALYSIS II.

Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Apply both abstract and quantitative reasoning to understand the relationships between quantities in problem situations, and to solve problems.
- Construct correct logical arguments and understand and critique the reasoning of others.
- Use relevant mathematical tools to answer questions in the natural, social, and computer sciences, as well as other academic disciplines.
- Identify, formulate, abstract, and solve mathematical problems using tools from a variety of mathematical areas including calculus, linear algebra, geometry, abstract algebra, analysis, number theory, probability, and statistics.
- Communicate mathematical ideas clearly, in oral or written form, by using appropriate mathematical terminology and notation.
- Critically interpret numerical and graphical data and use computer technology appropriately to solve problems and to promote understanding.

College Core Requirements

Modern Language Requirements

Students who intend to graduate with the Bachelor of Arts Degree will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in the fourth-year high school sequence of any language
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
• achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language
• achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level
  International Baccalaureate (IB) program
• achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Science and Health will abide by the College of Science and Health Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.

B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program. While B.S. students are not required to demonstrate competency in a modern language, the "Modern Language Option" is available to them for language study at any level.

Major Declaration Requirements

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. After researching College programs, the student should declare a major field by visiting Campus Connection and using the Declarations and Inter-College Transfer tool. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor or staff advisor in the department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

To change major fields, or to declare a minor or concentration, the student must use the Declarations and Inter-College Transfer tool described above. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the College or an academic advisor in the Office for Academic Advising Support.

Notes

Students with a primary major in Mathematics are required to complete the Capstone offered by the Mathematics department. Students double majoring or pursuing dual degrees with the primary major or primary degree in Mathematics are required to complete the Capstone offered by the Mathematics department. Mathematics students in the University Honors Program shall take the University Honors Capstone. They are not expected to take both the Honors Capstone and the primary major or primary degree Capstone.

Courses offered in the student’s primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student’s major and is cross-listed with a course within the student’s major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Course Requirements

Common Core

- Choose one of the following three course Calculus sequences:
  - Sequence One
    - MAT 150 CALCULUS I
    - MAT 151 CALCULUS II
    - MAT 152 CALCULUS III
  - Sequence Two
    - MAT 147 CALCULUS WITH INTEGRATED PRECALCULUS I
    - MAT 148 CALCULUS WITH INTEGRATED PRECALCULUS II
    - MAT 149 CALCULUS WITH INTEGRATED PRECALCULUS III
  - Sequence Three
    - MAT 160 CALCULUS FOR MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE MAJORS I
    - MAT 161 CALCULUS FOR MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE MAJORS II
    - MAT 162 CALCULUS FOR MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE MAJORS III
  - Sequence Four
    - MAT 170 CALCULUS I WITH SCIENTIFIC APPLICATIONS
    - MAT 171 CALCULUS II WITH SCIENTIFIC APPLICATIONS
    - MAT 149, MAT 152 or MAT 162
  - Sequence Five
    - MAT 155 SUMMER CALCULUS I
    - MAT 156 SUMMER CALCULUS II
    *Note: This Calculus sequence is offered only during the summer, in two 6-credit hour courses. Students successfully completing MAT 131, 147, 150 or 160 should enroll in MAT 155; students who successfully complete MAT 148, 151 or 161 should enroll in MAT 156. Students who successfully complete MAT 155 may enroll in either MAT 151 or MAT 156.

- MAT 260 MULTIVARIABLE CALCULUS I
- MAT 261 MULTIVARIABLE CALCULUS II
- MAT 262 LINEAR ALGEBRA
- MAT 215 INTRODUCTION TO MATHEMATICAL REASONING
  or MAT 140 DISCRETE MATHEMATICS I and MAT 141 DISCRETE MATHEMATICS II
- CSC 241 INTRODUCTION TO COMPUTER SCIENCE I or a more advanced course in any programming language.
- MAT 398 SENIOR CAPSTONE SEMINAR (Liberal Studies Program Capstone)

Students must earn at least 16 quarter hours as four courses from the following:

- Natural sciences and/or
- Computer sciences and/or:
  - CSC 224 JAVA FOR PROGRAMMERS
  - CSC 233 CODES AND CIPHERS
  - CSC 231 BASIC COMPUTATION FOR BIOLOGY
  - CSC 235 PROBLEM SOLVING
  - CSC 241 INTRODUCTION TO COMPUTER SCIENCE I and above, except CSC 298 and CSC 399.

- Game Development and/or:
  - GAM 244 GAME DEVELOPMENT I
  - GAM 245 GAME DEVELOPMENT II
  - GAM 350 PHYSICS FOR GAME DEVELOPERS
  - GAM 353 TOOL PROGRAMMING FOR GAME DEVELOPMENT
  - GAM 368 AUGMENTED REALITY GAME DESIGN AND DEVELOPMENT through GAM 391 GAME PERFORMANCE OPTIMIZATION, except CSC 382
  - GAM 394 - GAM 398 courses may only be accepted with advanced approval from the chair

- Information Technology and/or:
  - IT 223 DATA ANALYSIS
  - IT 278 COMMUNITY-BASED TECHNOLOGY PROJECTS
  - IT 231 WEB DEVELOPMENT I through IT 240 INTRODUCTION TO DATABASES
  - IT 263 APPLIED NETWORKS AND SECURITY
  - IT 313 ADVANCED APPLICATION DEVELOPMENT through IT 373 SYSTEM CONCEPTS
Concentration Requirements

Students must also complete the requirements from one of the following concentrations: Pure Mathematics; Statistics; Actuarial Science; Financial Mathematics; Quantitative Analysis and Operations Research; Applied and Computational Mathematics; or Individualized.

If the student chooses to declare more than one Mathematical Sciences concentration, then the student must complete the requirements for each concentration, and take at least three additional 300-level courses overall. For example, a student earning two concentrations would have taken at least nine 300-level courses, and a student earning three concentrations would have taken at least twelve 300-level courses.

Statistics Concentration

Concentration Requirements

- MAT 341 STATISTICAL METHODS USING SAS
- MAT 351 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS I
- MAT 352 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS II
- MAT 353 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS III
- MAT 356 APPLIED REGRESSION ANALYSIS
- MAT 326 SAMPLE SURVEY METHODS
  or MAT 328 DESIGN OF EXPERIMENTS

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Additional Recommended Courses

- MAT 335 REAL ANALYSIS I
- MAT 336 REAL ANALYSIS II
- MAT 354 MULTIVARIATE STATISTICS
- MAT 355 STOCHASTIC PROCESSES
Students interested in graduate study in mathematical statistics are encouraged to take the following:

- MAT 335 REAL ANALYSIS I
- MAT 336 REAL ANALYSIS II

Quantitative Analysis and Operations Research Concentration

Course Requirements

- MAT 351 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS I
- MAT 352 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS II
- MAT 353 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS III
- Three courses from the following list:
  - MAT 356 APPLIED REGRESSION ANALYSIS
  - MAT 358 APPLIED TIME SERIES AND FORECASTING
  - MAT 387 OPERATIONS RESEARCH I: LINEAR PROGRAMMING
  - MAT 388 OPERATIONS RESEARCH II: OPTIMIZATION THEORY

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Additional Recommended Courses

- ACC 101 INTRODUCTION TO ACCOUNTING I
- ACC 102 INTRODUCTION TO ACCOUNTING II
- ECO 105 PRINCIPLES OF MICROECONOMICS
- ECO 106 PRINCIPLES OF MACROECONOMICS
- FIN 310 INTRODUCTION TO FINANCE
- FIN 330 INVESTMENTS: THEORY & PRACTICE
- FIN 335 PORTFOLIO MANAGEMENT

Pure Mathematics Concentration

Concentration Requirements

- Three courses to be chosen from the following list:
  - MAT 310 ABSTRACT ALGEBRA I
  - MAT 311 ABSTRACT ALGEBRA II
  - MAT 335 REAL ANALYSIS I
  - MAT 336 REAL ANALYSIS II
- Three additional mathematics courses from the following list:
  - MAT 301 HISTORY OF MATHEMATICS
  - MAT 302 COMBINATORICS
Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Recommended Mathematics Courses:

- For students interested in graduate study in mathematics:
  - MAT 310 ABSTRACT ALGEBRA I
  - MAT 311 ABSTRACT ALGEBRA II
  - MAT 312 ABSTRACT ALGEBRA III
  - MAT 335 REAL ANALYSIS I
  - MAT 336 REAL ANALYSIS II
  - MAT 337 COMPLEX ANALYSIS

- For students interested in graduate study in economics, finance, or statistics:
  - MAT 335 REAL ANALYSIS I
  - MAT 336 REAL ANALYSIS II
  - MAT 351 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS I
  - MAT 352 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS II
  - MAT 353 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS III

Individualized Concentration

Course Requirements

Students may consult with a mathematics faculty advisor and the department chair to create an individualized program of study leading to a degree in mathematics. Such a program will normally consist of the Common Core in Mathematics plus six mathematics courses chosen from those included in the other concentrations and approved by the department chair.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.
Financial Mathematics Concentration

Concentration Requirements

This concentration is a Mathematics Major that includes the set of courses which constitute the Finance Minor. It includes courses that are relevant to contemporary financial mathematical modeling, along with courses in Finance and their prerequisites.

- MAT 351 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS I
- MAT 352 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS II
- MAT 353 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS III
- MAT 355 STOCHASTIC PROCESSES
- MAT 368 MATHEMATICAL FINANCE
- MAT 304 DIFFERENTIAL EQUATIONS
  or MAT 385 NUMERICAL ANALYSIS I

Finance Minor Requirements Embedded in the Financial Mathematics Concentration

- ACC 101 INTRODUCTION TO ACCOUNTING I
- ACC 102 INTRODUCTION TO ACCOUNTING II
- ECO 105 PRINCIPLES OF MICROECONOMICS
- ECO 106 PRINCIPLES OF MACROECONOMICS
- FIN 202 QUANTITATIVE REASONING
- FIN 310 INTRODUCTION TO FINANCE
- FIN 311 CORPORATE FINANCE
- FIN 320 MONEY AND BANKING
- FIN 330 INVESTMENTS: THEORY & PRACTICE
- Two electives chosen from the following list:
  - FIN 313 INVESTMENT BANKING
  - FIN 323 COMMERCIAL BANKING
  - FIN 333 FINANCIAL STATEMENTS ANALYSIS
  - FIN 335 PORTFOLIO MANAGEMENT
  - FIN 340 INTERNATIONAL FINANCE
  - FIN 362 RISK MANAGEMENT
  - FIN 363 DERIVATIVES: PRICING & APPLICATIONS
  - FIN 380 CASES IN FINANCIAL DECISION MAKING
  - FIN 393 FINANCE INTERNSHIP
  - FIN 395 INVESTMENT SEMINAR
  - FIN 398 SPECIAL TOPICS
  - FIN 399 INDEPENDENT STUDY

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Additional Recommended Courses

- MAT 341 STATISTICAL METHODS USING SAS
- MAT 356 APPLIED REGRESSION ANALYSIS
- MAT 358 APPLIED TIME SERIES AND FORECASTING
- MAT 370 ADVANCED LINEAR ALGEBRA
Applied and Computational Mathematics Concentration

The concentration in Applied and Computational Mathematics is intended for any student who enjoys mathematics, problem solving, and applications to solving practical problems in business, government, and science. The concentration is especially intended for students seeking a career as quantitative analysts, computational scientists, and applied mathematicians, and for those thinking of continuing the study of applied or discrete mathematics at the graduate level.

Course Requirements

- CSC 242 INTRODUCTION TO COMPUTER SCIENCE II or another approved computer science course.
- Three courses chosen from the following list:
  - MAT 302 COMBINATORICS
  - MAT 304 DIFFERENTIAL EQUATIONS
  - MAT 384 MATHEMATICAL MODELING
  - MAT 385 NUMERICAL ANALYSIS I
- Two additional courses chosen from among the above and the following list:
  - MAT 335 REAL ANALYSIS I
  - MAT 351 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS I
  - MAT 352 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS II
  - MAT 370 ADVANCED LINEAR ALGEBRA
  - MAT 381 FOURIER ANALYSIS AND SPECIAL FUNCTIONS
  - MAT 386 NUMERICAL ANALYSIS II
- One additional course chosen from among the above and the following list:
  - MAT 303 THEORY OF NUMBERS
  - MAT 310 ABSTRACT ALGEBRA I
  - MAT 311 ABSTRACT ALGEBRA II
  - MAT 330 METHODS OF COMPUTATION AND THEORETICAL PHYSICS I
  - MAT 331 METHODS OF COMPUTATION AND THEORETICAL PHYSICS II
  - MAT 336 REAL ANALYSIS II
  - MAT 337 COMPLEX ANALYSIS
  - MAT 340 TOPOLOGY
  - MAT 353 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS III
  - MAT 355 STOCHASTIC PROCESSES
  - MAT 387 OPERATIONS RESEARCH I: LINEAR PROGRAMMING
  - MAT 388 OPERATIONS RESEARCH II: OPTIMIZATION THEORY

Students interested in graduate study in applied mathematics are encouraged to take MAT 335 and MAT 336, MAT 370, MAT 385 and MAT 386.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Actuarial Science Concentration

Concentration Requirements

- MAT 351 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS I
- MAT 352 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS II
- MAT 353 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS III
- MAT 361 ACTUARIAL SCIENCE I
- MAT 362 ACTUARIAL SCIENCE II
- MAT 363 ACTUARIAL SCIENCE III

Open Electives
Recommended Mathematics Courses

- MAT 341 STATISTICAL METHODS USING SAS
- MAT 356 APPLIED REGRESSION ANALYSIS
- MAT 358 APPLIED TIME SERIES AND FORECASTING
- MAT 355 STOCHASTIC PROCESSES
- MAT 359 SIMULATION MODELS AND MONTE CARLO METHOD
- MAT 364 STOCHASTIC RISK MODELS
- MAT 367 CREDIBILITY THEORY
- MAT 368 MATHEMATICAL FINANCE

Additional Recommended Courses

- ACC 101 INTRODUCTION TO ACCOUNTING I
- ECO 105 PRINCIPLES OF MICROECONOMICS
- ECO 106 PRINCIPLES OF MACROECONOMICS
- FIN 310 INTRODUCTION TO FINANCE
- FIN 311 CORPORATE FINANCE
- FIN 320 MONEY AND BANKING
- FIN 330 INVESTMENTS: THEORY & PRACTICE
- FIN 335 PORTFOLIO MANAGEMENT
- FIN 362 RISK MANAGEMENT
- FIN 363 DERIVATIVES: PRICING & APPLICATIONS

Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

The combined Bachelor's/Master's Degree program offers four options:

- Mathematical Sciences (BS) / Applied Mathematics (MS)
- Mathematical Sciences (BS) / Applied Statistics (MS)
- Mathematical Sciences (BS) / Pure Mathematics (MS)
- Mathematical Sciences (BS) / Secondary Education Mathematical Sciences (MEd)

Students apply to one of these programs in spring of their junior year; interested students should meet with the Graduate Program Director of the program. Students accepted into this program take a maximum of twelve graduate credit hours as three courses in their senior year; these graduate courses apply toward both undergraduate and graduate Mathematical Sciences requirements.

Students must apply for undergraduate degree conferral in anticipation of completing their fourth year of study.

Mathematical Sciences (BS)/ Secondary Education Mathematical Sciences (MEd)

This combined degree program of the College of Science and Health and the College of Education was collaboratively developed, and is governed and taught by faculty from these units.

Students may apply to the Program during the spring of their junior year. They must enroll in the Junior Year Experiential Learning course, TCH 320, and meet other application criteria; these include completion of at least 16 quarter credit hours at DePaul and a 3.0 GPA. During their senior year, students are required to complete a Program capstone course, TCH 390, and three 400-level courses that count toward both their undergraduate and graduate degrees:

- TCH 401 TEACHING AS A PROFESSION IN SECONDARY SCHOOL
Math Content Area (grades of C or better required for licensure)

The following Math content area requirements are required. These can be taken as part of the major, liberal studies or open elective requirements:

- Choose one of the following five Calculus sequences:
  - MAT 150, MAT 151, MAT 152
  - MAT 147, MAT 148, MAT 149
  - MAT 155*, MAT 156*
  - MAT 160, MAT 161, MAT 162
  - MAT 170, MAT 171 and (MAT 149, MAT 152, MAT 162)

  *Note: This calculus sequence is offered only during the summer, in two 6-credit hour courses. Students successfully completing MAT 131, 147, 150, OR 160 should enroll in MAT 155; students who successfully complete MAT 148, 151, OR 161 should enroll in MAT 156. Students who successfully complete MAT 155 may enroll in either MAT 151 OR MAT 156.

- MAT 215 INTRODUCTION TO MATHEMATICAL REASONING
  - MAT 140 DISCRETE MATHEMATICS I and MAT 141 DISCRETE MATHEMATICS II
- MAT 260 MULTIVARIABLE CALCULUS I
- MAT 261 MULTIVARIABLE CALCULUS II
- MAT 262 LINEAR ALGEBRA

- Choose one of the following:
  - CSC 212 PROGRAMMING IN JAVA II
  - CSC 262 PROGRAMMING IN C++ II
  - CSC 242 INTRODUCTION TO COMPUTER SCIENCE II
  - MAT 310 ABSTRACT ALGEBRA I
  - MAT 303 THEORY OF NUMBERS
  - MAT 311 ABSTRACT ALGEBRA II
  - MAT 320 GEOMETRY I
  - MAT 321 GEOMETRY II
  - MAT 335 REAL ANALYSIS I
  - MAT 351 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS I
  - MAT 348 APPLIED STATISTICAL METHODS
  - MAT 301 HISTORY OF MATHEMATICS

The Master's year comprises teacher-preparation coursework that culminates with student teaching during the Spring quarter. Upon graduation and the fulfilling of State of Illinois licensure requirements (which may require some additional coursework in the student's major and related fields), students are eligible to be certified licensed to teach Mathematics at the 6th-12th grade levels.

A full description of the Program can be found on the College of Education website in the graduate course catalog. Students interested in the Program should consult with the designated TEACH Program advisor in their home department.

Mathematics (Minor)

A minor in Mathematics can be developed to complement a major program in any major, with a focus on pure and applied mathematical theory.

Course Requirements

- Choose one of the following three-course Calculus sequences:
  - Sequence One
    - MAT 150 CALCULUS I
    - MAT 151 CALCULUS II
    - MAT 152 CALCULUS III
  - Sequence Two
    - MAT 147 CALCULUS WITH INTEGRATED PRECALCULUS I
Sequence Three
- MAT 160 CALCULUS FOR MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE MAJORS I
- MAT 161 CALCULUS FOR MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE MAJORS II
- MAT 162 CALCULUS FOR MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE MAJORS III

Sequence Four
- MAT 170 CALCULUS I WITH SCIENTIFIC APPLICATIONS
- MAT 171 CALCULUS II WITH SCIENTIFIC APPLICATIONS
- MAT 172 CALCULUS III WITH DIFFERENTIAL EQUATION

Sequence Five *
- MAT 155 SUMMER CALCULUS I
- MAT 156 SUMMER CALCULUS II

*Note: This Calculus sequence is offered only during the summer, in two 6-credit hour courses. Students successfully completing MAT 131, 147, 150 or 160 should enroll in MAT 155; students who successfully complete MAT 148, 151 or 161 should enroll in MAT 156. Students who successfully complete MAT 155 may enroll in either MAT 151 or MAT 156.

Choose one of the following options:
- MAT 215 INTRODUCTION TO MATHEMATICAL REASONING
- Discrete Mathematics Sequence:
  - MAT 140 DISCRETE MATHEMATICS I and
  - MAT 141 DISCRETE MATHEMATICS II
- Two additional mathematics courses chosen from the 200 or 300-level courses which are admissible for credit as part of the mathematics common core or as part of one of the concentrations in mathematics.

Business students who have an exceptionally strong background in calculus, including calculus of trig functions, may be permitted by the chair to substitute MAT 135 BUSINESS CALCULUS I and MAT 136 BUSINESS CALCULUS II for MAT 150 CALCULUS I

Students cannot earn a minor in the same academic program as their major.

---

Mathematics and Computer Science (BS)

The BS in Mathematics and Computer Science is designed to prepare students to compete for the more intellectually demanding jobs in software development or for graduate study in various areas of computer science and applied mathematics such as theoretical computer science, graphics, data analysis, artificial intelligence, and computational methods.

- 3 CDM Major Electives
- 3 MAT Major Electives
- 1 CDM or MAT Major Elective

Note: Students may take CSC 243 PYTHON FOR PROGRAMMERS and 1 Additional Major Elective in lieu of CSC 241 and CSC 242.

Major Electives

Students must take 7 Major Field electives chosen from the grouped list below. Of these, 3 must be CDM courses and 3 must be MAT courses, and 1 could be either a CDM or MAT course.

Students must earn a grade of C- or higher in all major elective courses.

It is recommended that students concentrate on one or two areas for their advanced classes to achieve depth, but they are not required to do so. Students are strongly encouraged to discuss course selection with an advisor. Students may wish to arrange with a professor to take an independent study or a research experience (MAT 399 or CSC 399 or IT 300) in order to explore a subject more deeply than is possible in a scheduled course.

Theory of Computation

The courses in the theory area explore the mathematical and logical foundations of computer science.

- MAT 302 COMBINATORICS
- MAT 303 THEORY OF NUMBERS
- MAT 351 PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS I
- MAT 310 ABSTRACT ALGEBRA I
- MAT 311 ABSTRACT ALGEBRA II
- MAT 312 ABSTRACT ALGEBRA III
- MAT 335 REAL ANALYSIS I
- MAT 372 LOGIC AND SET THEORY

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Degree Requirements

Students in this degree must meet the following requirements:

- Complete a minimum of 192 credit hours (generally 48 courses)
- Earn a grade of C- or higher in WRD 103, WRD 104, and all Major and Minor courses
- Earn a grade of D or higher in all other Liberal Studies and Open Elective courses
- Maintain a cumulative GPA of 2.0 or higher

Sample Schedule

Although students are free to take course requirements in any order they choose, provided they have mastered the course-specific prerequisites, it is strongly recommended that students follow these year-by-year suggestions, especially regarding the first-year major courses.

First Year

- CSC 300 DATA STRUCTURES IN JAVA I
- One of the following sequences:
  - Option 1:
    - CSC 241 INTRODUCTION TO COMPUTER SCIENCE I
    - CSC 242 INTRODUCTION TO COMPUTER SCIENCE II
  - Option 2:
    - CSC 243 PYTHON FOR PROGRAMMERS
    - 1 Major Elective
- 6 Liberal Studies

In addition, students must complete one of the following three-course sequences:

- Calculus Sequence (option 1)
  - MAT 147 CALCULUS WITH INTEGRATED PRECALCULUS I
  - MAT 148 CALCULUS WITH INTEGRATED PRECALCULUS II
  - MAT 149 CALCULUS WITH INTEGRATED PRECALCULUS III
- Calculus Sequence (option 2)
  - MAT 150 CALCULUS I
  - MAT 151 CALCULUS II
  - MAT 152 CALCULUS III
- Calculus for Mathematics and Science Majors Sequence (option 3)
  - MAT 160 CALCULUS FOR MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE MAJORS I
  - MAT 161 CALCULUS FOR MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE MAJORS II
  - MAT 162 CALCULUS FOR MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE MAJORS III
- Calculus with Scientific Applications Sequence (option 4)
  - MAT 170 CALCULUS I WITH SCIENTIFIC APPLICATIONS
  - MAT 171 CALCULUS II WITH SCIENTIFIC APPLICATIONS
  - MAT 149 CALCULUS WITH INTEGRATED PRECALCULUS III
  - MAT 152 CALCULUS III
  - MAT 162 CALCULUS FOR MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE MAJORS III

Second Year

- CSC 301 DATA STRUCTURES IN JAVA II
- CSC 373 COMPUTER SYSTEMS I
Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs. Students who meet the admission requirements below may choose to apply to a combined degree program. Interested students should consult their faculty advisor regarding the application procedure. This program allows students to combine many CDM bachelor's degrees with a CDM master's degree following the structure outlined below.

Admission Criteria

- Minimum of 44 quarter hours earned
- Minimum of 12 quarter hours earned at DePaul
- GPA of 3.3 or higher in courses taken at DePaul
- Endorsement of faculty advisor

In order to apply for the combined degree program, your faculty advisor must send an e-mail recommendation to the CDM Academic Success Center. The recommendation should include your full name, student ID number, and the bachelor's and master's degrees you wish to combine.

Bachelor of Arts in Computing students who are enrolled via the School for New Learning are eligible for this program. Interested students who meet the admission criteria for a combined degree should contact Kenn Skorupa at SNL for more information

Program Structure

Students in the combined degree program take a maximum of three graduate level courses that count toward both their bachelor's and master's degree requirements. Students may enroll in graduate level coursework in the junior and senior year only. Students in the combined degree program will receive the bachelor's degree after meeting all graduation requirements including the minimum credit hours required for graduation.

To earn the master's degree, the student must earn as many additional graduate credit hours as needed to reach... the minimum number of graduate credit hours required in that master's degree.

Only CDM courses can be taken as part of this program. Advanced programs (e.g., JD/MS, MFA, and PhD) are not eligible for the combined degree program.

Maintaining Good Standing

Cumulative GPA and course grades will be reviewed after each Autumn, Winter, and Spring Quarter.

The student and faculty advisor will be notified when the student's cumulative GPA falls below 3.3 or when the students receives less than a C- in graduate level course.

If a student's cumulative GPA falls below 3.3, the student must earn a term GPA of 3.3 or above in the following quarter to stay in good standing. If the student does not achieve a 3.3 term GPA, then the student will be dismissed from the combined program and resume the traditional B.A./B.S./B.F.A.

If dismissed from the combined degree program after graduate courses have been passed, the graduate courses may only apply to the undergraduate degree. Should the student later be admitted to a graduate program, graduate courses applied to the undergraduate degree may not apply to the graduate program and may not be repeated if they are required in the declared graduate curriculum. Other graduate courses may be substituted in this case.

Designing a Course of Study

It is extremely important that the student and faculty advisor work together on a course of study immediately upon admission to the Combined Degree Program.

This course of study should include the graduate courses to be taken and the undergraduate courses that are replaced by the graduate courses. Failure to put together a solid plan can lead to extra coursework and a lengthening of the Combined Degree program.

It is advisable for the student and the faculty advisor to enter the proposed plan of study in the student communication record on the CDM intranet so it is available to the student and CDM faculty and staff.

Registering for Master's Degree Courses

Combined degree students must meet regularly with their faculty advisors. The faculty advisor will initiate the registration process for all graduate level courses taken during the undergraduate career.

Bachelor's Degree to Master's Degree Transition

In order to be fully admitted to the designated master's program, the student must meet all admission requirements for that program. When preparing to complete the undergraduate portion of the combined degree, students must submit the application for degree conferral for the undergraduate degree by the application deadline. At this time, the students should contact the CDM Academic Success Center about the procedure required to be formally admitted to the declared graduate program.

Media and Cinema Studies (BA)

The College of Communication, located at the Loop Campus, offers a variety of courses leading to a Bachelor of Arts degree in Media and Cinema Studies. The BA in Media and Cinema Studies strategically combines faculty expertise, cutting-edge facilities, and a variety of course offerings within Communication, the School of Cinema and Interactive Media (CIM) (e.g., Digital Cinema), and other University units to provide students with the critical frameworks, creative opportunities, and technological expertise to become socially responsible leaders in the growing and converging areas of media studies. The major combines a rich course selection in four areas of study: film, radio, TV, and new media. Coursework combines theory and critical analysis with production courses taught at both the Lincoln Park (e.g., radio) and Loop campuses (e.g., television/video and cinema studies).
Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Analyze media texts for their formal and representational meanings, and/or for audience reception practices.
- Examine media representations and access across registers of nation, citizenship, class, religion, labor, gender, diasporas, race, migration and ethnicity.
- Explain the potential relationships between media, social movements, and local, national, and/or global cultures.
- Interpret media cultures within the contexts of technology, economics, and/or industry.
- Critique self-produced media for stylistic choices and the semiotic power thereof.

College Core Requirements

All majors in the College of Communication (with the exception of Public Relations and Advertising) consist of a total of fourteen courses: a four-course common core plus an additional combination of ten program requirements and electives. The Public Relations and Advertising major consists of a total of fifteen courses: a four-course common core plus an additional combination of eleven program requirements and electives.

Course Requirements

Four core courses are required of all College of Communication students:

- CMN 101 INTRODUCTION TO HUMAN COMMUNICATION
- CMN 102 INTRODUCTION TO MASS COMMUNICATION
- CMN 103 INTERCULTURAL COMMUNICATION
- CMN 104 PUBLIC SPEAKING

Students are encouraged to complete all four prior to taking additional coursework in the major.

Modern Language Requirement

Students who intend to graduate with a Bachelor of Arts degree in the College of Communication will be required to demonstrate a measure of competence in a modern language, as defined by the college. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in a second year high school course work in a modern language or Latin
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language (must be completed during high school)
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination. (Note that CLEP scores may be used only to meet the language requirement. Credit is not awarded in modern languages on the basis of CLEP scores).

Students with some modern language training should consult with the Modern Language Department about the course with which they should begin. Students with little or no previous work in the language will be required to complete the entire three-course introductory sequence.

Liberal Studies Requirements

Honors program requirements can be found in the individual Colleges & Schools section of the University Catalog. Select Academics, followed by Undergraduate, then Honors Program Alternative.

First Year Program

Chicago Quarter

- LSP 110 DISCOVER CHICAGO
  or LSP 111 EXPLORE CHICAGO

Focal Point

- LSP 112 FOCAL POINT SEMINAR

Writing

- WRD 103 COMPOSITION AND RHETORIC I *
- WRD 104 COMPOSITION AND RHETORIC II *

Quantitative Reasoning & Technological Literacy

- LSP 120 QUANTITATIVE REASONING & TECHNOLOGICAL LITERACY I
- LSP 121 QUANTITATIVE REASONING AND TECHNOLOGICAL LITERACY II
  (Note: See information below.)

Sophomore Year

Multiculturalism in the US

- LSP 200 SEMINAR ON MULTICULTURALISM IN THE UNITED STATES

Junior Year

Experiential Learning

- Required

Senior Year

Capstone

- CMN 396 CAPSTONE IN COMMUNICATION *

Learning Domains

Arts and Literature (AL)

- 2 Courses Required
Philosophical Inquiry (PI)
- 2 Courses Required

Scientific Inquiry (SI)
- 3 Courses Required
  [1 SWK Course, 1 Lab Course, and 1 Additional Course]

Self, Society and the Modern World (SSMW)
- 2 Courses Required

Religious Dimensions (RD)
- 2 Courses Required

Understanding the Past (UP)
- 2 Courses Required

* Students must earn a C- or better in this course.

Note
Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the J YEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy
Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab or SWK requirement.

  ANI 105 INTRO TO VISUAL DESIGN
  ART 328 DOCUMENTARY PHOTOGRAPHY
- Three additional electives from any College of Communication course or from the Digital Cinema offerings listed above, provided that the DC classes in question have not already been taken under a MCS course number.

Internships

Students in the major may take CMN 394 ADVANCED COMMUNICATION INTERNSHIP and/or CMN 395 COMMUNICATION INTERNSHIP SPECIAL TOPICS (when work relates to the major). In order to take CMN 394 or CMN 395, students must have completed two of the four communication core classes (CMN 101, CMN 102, CMN 103, CMN 104), two courses in the chosen major and have fulfilled internship program eligibility requirements.

Open Electives
Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

The following Communication graduate programs have been approved as combined degree options:

- Digital Communication and Media Arts (MA)
- Health Communication (MA)
- Journalism (MA)
- Media and Cinema Studies (MA)
- Organizational and Multicultural Communication (MA)
- Public Relations and Advertising (MA)
- Relational Communication (MA)

Deferring Admission

Students can defer their graduate admission for one year. If students do not matriculate after completing their B.A. degrees or within the one year deferral period, the graduate courses taken as undergraduate students will no longer count towards the graduate degree and students must reapply for admission to the graduate program.

Digital Communication and Media Arts (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in their major courses, have 3.0 cumulative GPA, and have successfully completed CMN 101, CMN 102 and CMN 103 are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by May 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, Statement of Purpose (750 words) explaining why the student is seeking admission to the program, writing sample (research paper that demonstrates the applicant's ability to synthesize and analyze scholarly work), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Digital Communication and Media Arts coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take two of the DCMA core courses (CMNS 570 and MCS 575) and one DCMA elective course during the senior year. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Health Communication (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in their major courses, have a 3.0 cumulative GPA, and have successfully completed three 300-level courses in their major are eligible to apply to the program.

Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by May 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, answers to essay questions, writing sample (research paper), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Health Communication coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take the HTHC core courses (HTHC 515, HTHC 516, HTHC 517) during the senior year. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Journalism (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.25 GPA in their major courses and 3.0 cumulative GPA are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by May 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, Statement of Purpose (750 words) explaining why the student is seeking admission to the program, writing sample or project that demonstrates the applicant's ability in journalism, and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Journalism coursework which will fulfill undergraduate Journalism major electives, communication electives and/or open electives. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirements, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Media and Cinema Studies (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in their major courses, have 3.0 cumulative GPA, and have successfully completed CMN 101, CMN 102 and CMN 103 are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by May 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, Statement of Purpose (750 words) explaining why the student is seeking admission to the program, writing sample (research paper that demonstrates the applicant's ability to synthesize and analyze scholarly work), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Media and Cinema Studies coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take two of the MCS core courses (MCS 501, MCS 502, MCS 504) and one MCS elective during their senior year. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Organizational and Multicultural Communication (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in their major courses, have 3.0 cumulative GPA, have successfully completed CMN 101, CMN 102 and CMN 103, and have successfully completed three 300-level Communication courses are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by May 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, answers to essay questions, writing sample (research paper), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Communication coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take at least two core courses and a methods requirement during their senior year (examples: CMNS 500, CMNS 501, CMNS 541, CMNS 581 or CMNS 582). Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Public Relations and Advertising (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.25 GPA in their major courses, have 3.0 cumulative GPA, have successfully completed CMN 101, CMN 102 and CMN 103, have successfully completed three 300-level Communication courses, and are currently holding one or more PRAD internships or jobs are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by May 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, answers to essay questions, writing sample (research paper), one letter of recommendation from a PRAD professor, and one letter of recommendation from a supervisor at a PRAD-related internship or job.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Public Relations and Advertising coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take three core courses during their senior year (examples: PRAD 553, PRAD 555, PRAD 575, and PRAD 585). Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Relational Communication (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in their major courses, have 3.0 cumulative GPA, and have successfully completed CMN 101, CMN 102 and CMN 103 are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by May 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, Statement of Purpose (750 words) explaining why the student is seeking admission to the program, writing sample (research paper that demonstrates the applicant's ability to synthesize and analyze scholarly work), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Relational Communication coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take at least two core courses and a methods requirement during their senior year (examples: CMNS 500, RELC 500*, CMNS 581 or CMNS 582). Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

* For BA/MA students who are completing their BA in Relational Communication and seeking an MA in Relational Communication, the core course requirement of RELC 500 – Theories of Relational Communication will be waived. Students waived from having to take RELC 500 will replace the course with an additional graduate RELC elective course (still completing the required total of 48-credit hours).

Media and Cinema Studies (Minor)

The Media and Cinema Studies minor combines courses from film, television, radio and new media. You will gain a historical and critical understanding of the media industry with the option to focus on one type of media.

Course Requirements

- MCS 271 MEDIA AND CULTURAL STUDIES
- MCS 273 STORYTELLING & STYLE IN CINEMA
- Three History/Criticism Courses from the following:
  - MCS 207 HISTORY OF CINEMA I, 1890-1945
  - MCS 208 HISTORY OF CINEMA II, 1945-1975
  - MCS 209 HISTORY OF CINEMA III, 1975-PRESENT

  - CMN 395 COMMUNICATION INTERNSHIP SPECIAL TOPICS
  - INTC 309 INTERNATIONAL/GLOBAL COMMUNICATION
  - Prior course credit for CMN 272 – Concepts in Media Design; or CMN 347 – Mass Media Criticism can still count as History/Criticism electives for any of the above-mentioned areas.

- One Production course from the following:
  - MCS 339 RADIO BROADCASTING
  - MCS 356 TOPICS IN DOCUMENTARY PRODUCTION
  - MCS 357 TOPICS IN TELEVISION PRODUCTION
  - MCS 373 AUDIO DOCUMENTARY
Middle Grades Education (BS)

The Bachelor of Science program in Middle Grades Education prepares teachers for eligibility for a teaching license and two IL endorsements in grades 5-8 (i.e., Math & Science; Language Arts and Social Science).

The mission of the DePaul University College of Education’s Middle Grades Teacher Education Program is to prepare educators who have passion for, understanding of, and commitment to working with young adolescents. We prepare educators who foster equitable, intellectually rich, socially just, and compassionate learning environments for diverse middle level youth. To accomplish this goal, our program is designed to cultivate in teacher candidates the pedagogical skills, subject area understandings, and social conscience necessary to enact thoughtful teaching practice. We aim to prepare critical, creative educators who continually reflect on and inquire into their practices in order to further their own and their students’ learning. Our teacher candidates develop a broad understanding of the contextual factors that impact the teaching, learning and growth of middle grade learners, including the ways in which society shapes our views of middle grades learners and the social, emotional, cognitive, spiritual, and physical dimensions of healthy adolescence. Through the integration of course work and field experiences, candidates learn about and apply interdisciplinary theories and practices that enable them to promote the intellectual curiosity, personal and academic excellence, and social and self-awareness of diverse middle level youth.

Students entering the program must be able and willing to devote themselves to a program requiring a minimum of 100-110 hours of daytime field experiences in schools. These school-based clinical hours are completed in conjunction with methodology courses that require students to spend daytime hours in schools. In addition, the student must spend a minimum of 10 weeks in full-time student teaching.

Please make sure you consult the Liberal Studies Requirements, Major Requirements, and College Core Requirements for full degree requirements.

Licensure

Illinois Professional Educator License with endorsement in Middle Grades Education (grades 5 - 8), an Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) approved program.
College Core Requirements

Dispositions

The academic programs within the College of Education have set forth these dispositions as educational and professional expectations for all students. Students should be aware that failing to abide by DePaul University or College of Education policies including, under certain circumstances, these dispositions, could result in adverse consequences for the student, including removal from his or her program, the College of Education, or the University.

The following dispositions apply to Early Childhood Education, Elementary Education, Physical Education, Secondary Education, and World Language Education majors only:

- Reflects on progress and identifies strengths and weaknesses, including evaluating strategies for success, finding alternatives for inappropriate strategies, and modifying future practices

- Maintains appropriate interpersonal and professional boundaries
- Accepts personal responsibility for one's behavior
- Expresses feelings and opinions effectively and appropriately
- Upholds confidentiality
Skill Building Courses

Before taking any math or English courses, students must take the DePaul placement tests to determine if skill level is at the college level. If placement indicates skill level in these courses, the courses become part of degree requirements. Consult with your advisor regarding placement test results and any required classes.

Advanced Standing

Students are conditionally admitted to the College of Education. There are additional requirements to reach Advanced Standing in your program in the College of Education. Requirements must be met to progress in the major and take courses in the Advanced Standing category.

Advanced Standing requirements are:

- Maintain a DePaul undergraduate 2.5 GPA
- Pass the Illinois Test of Academic Proficiency (TAP)
- Submit a petition for advanced standing form

Students should attempt to complete the Advanced Standing requirements soon after beginning the program. There is no time limit to meet these criteria; however, students will only be able to take pre-education courses until requirements have been met. Students can also take liberal studies or content area courses before or after meeting Advanced Standing requirements.

Modern Language Competence Requirement

Students pursuing a Bachelor of Arts degree in the College of Education will be required to demonstrate a measure of competence in a modern language, as defined by the college. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing two years of a language sequence in high school
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

Please note: The Modern Language Competence Requirement is not required for students in the Early Childhood Education: SNL Joint Program (BAECE) program.

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Education will abide by the COE Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.

B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the “Modern Language Option” of the Liberal Studies Program. While B.S. students are not required to demonstrate competency in a modern language, the “Modern Language Option” is available to them for language study at any level.

Licensure Tests

All individuals licensed by the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) are required to complete licensure tests specific to their teaching license.

Field Experiences

Each student seeking licensure from the College of Education/Professional Education Unit must complete supervised field experiences in appropriate settings in conjunction with education courses. The field experiences must include a variety of grade levels, multicultural experiences, and a minimum of 10 hours in special education settings. All field experiences must be completed prior to final approval for student teaching. Field experience hours should be entered by the student into the FEDS system when completing courses with field experience requirements.

Endorsements
An endorsement is a subject area that you can qualify to teach full time, in addition to your main licensure area. Endorsements are issued at three levels: primary, middle school, and high school.

The Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) issues endorsements in various subject areas. To view the full list and requirements, visit the ISBE website.

Qualifying for an endorsement at the middle school level requires 18 semester hours (27 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area and complete SCU 339. Some areas (like math) have specifically required courses or require additional hours. Courses must have a grade of C or better to qualify for endorsements and must be earned credit listed on a college transcript as earned credit.

Consult with your advisor regarding endorsements. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following middle school areas: Arabic, art, bilingual education, biological science, Chinese, ESL, French, general science, German, Italian, Japanese, language arts, math, physical science, social science, Spanish, and special education.

In general, endorsement requirements for the primary level are identical to the middle school requirements except that they do not require SCU 339. There are a limited number of areas available at the primary level.

Qualifying for most endorsements at the high school level requires 24 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area* and passing the relevant content area test. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following high school areas: art, Arabic, Chinese, English, French, German, Italian, Japanese, math, Russian, science, social science, Spanish, and special education.

* Exceptions to the basic requirements for high school level endorsements include the subject areas of foreign language, science, and social science.

 For science and social science, 32 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in the broad area of either science or social science, and 12 semester hours in the specific endorsement designation area, plus the content area test are required. To qualify for additional science and social science designations, individuals applying after February 1, 2012 need both the content test and 12 semester hours in the additional designation area.

Special Education majors do not qualify for middle school endorsements.

Student Teaching Requirements

Student Teaching is the culminating clinical experience in the student's program. All students in teacher preparation programs must meet the following requirements before applying for student teaching:

Academic Requirements:

- Completion of all Liberal Studies, Pre-Education, Advanced Standing and concentration/content area courses
- Overall cumulative G.P.A. of 2.50 or better
- Cumulative GPA of 2.75 or better in all education courses
- Meet all other program requirements (e.g., modern language and residency requirements)
- Meet designated program standards
- Pass the required Illinois licensure content area test

Clinical Requirements:

- Completion of all required field experiences
- Three satisfactory evaluations in field experiences
- Three satisfactory faculty recommendations
- Attendance at mandatory meeting for student teaching
- Application for student teaching, resume, transcripts, and writing sample (check deadlines)
- Review and approval by Student Teaching Committee of the College of Education

Student Teaching Timeline and Deadlines:

- Attend a Mandatory Meeting approximately 1 year prior to expected quarter of student teaching.
- Submit application for student teaching after attending Mandatory Meeting, approximately 1 year prior to student teaching.
- Academic requirements are due one quarter before expected quarter of student teaching.
- Clinical requirements are completed as course requirements. Field experience hours are entered by the student as coursework is completed.

Online Faculty Evaluations are entered by the instructor of relevant courses. All data must be entered in the Field Experience Documentation System (FEDS) due one month prior to student teaching.

Individual child care agencies and public and private school districts may have additional requirements (application, training, background check, etc.).

Degree Conferral and Graduation

The awarding of a degree is not automatic. You must submit an application to be considered for the degree. DePaul awards and posts degrees at the end of each regular academic term (autumn, winter, spring, summer I and summer II).

It is your responsibility to initiate the degree conferral application process by submitting an online application. Submitting an application means you intend to finish your degree requirements by the end of the term for which you have applied.

Undergraduate students must be approved for student teaching and complete student teaching and capstone to be cleared for the degree. Student must submit graduation application for the quarter that matches the quarter you are student teaching.

After you submit the application, you cannot register for any term after the one selected in the application.

Application deadlines are as follows:
- Fall Quarter - October 1st
- Winter Quarter - January 15th
- Spring Quarter - February 1st
- Summer Quarter - July 15th

To apply for degree conferral, log on to Campus Connection. Select STUDENT CENTER, then MY ACADEMICS. On screen instructions will take you through the application process.

Provided that all requirements and financial obligations are met, degrees are posted 30 days after the official end of the term. Official dates are listed on the Academic Calendar.

DePaul holds one commencement ceremony each year in June. If you intend to participate, you must first apply for degree conferral for the current academic year and then submit a cap and gown order. Honors are not announced at the ceremony for undergraduates completing their final courses in spring quarter because a final GPA is not available at the time of the ceremony.

Additional information about degree conferral and graduation can be found on the College of Education website at: http://education.depaul.edu/.

Licensure

Requirements for licensure include completion of full bachelor's degree program, all licensure tests (including OPI for world language majors), and awarding of bachelor's degree. A bachelor's degree is required to qualify for licensure and must be awarded before applying for the license.

Individuals must submit an application directly to the Illinois State Board of Education after completion of requirements and after DePaul has submitted notification to ISBE. Application requirements include application form, application fee, official transcripts, and registration fee.

All individuals must meet ISBE requirements in place at the time of application for the license. Requirements are subject to change per the discretion of ISBE. All coursework and requirements pertaining to licensure requirements must be completed before DePaul University can recommend an individual for the license.

Individuals seeking additional endorsements after applying for the licensure must contact ISBE directly for an evaluation request.

All coursework and requirements must be completed before DePaul University can recommend an individual for the license.
Liberal Studies Requirements

Honors program requirements can be found in the individual Colleges & Schools section of the University Catalog. Select Academics, followed by Undergraduate, then Honors Program Alternative.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab or SWK requirement.

Major Requirements

Course Requirements

First Content Area: 24 hours required, grade of C or better required

A content area is a single area of study in language arts, math, science, or social science (cannot include coursework in Education).

- Six content courses:
  - 100, 200, 300 level language arts, math, science, or social science course 1
  - 100, 200, 300 level language arts, math, science, or social science course 2
  - 100, 200, 300 level language arts, math, science, or social science course 3
  - 200-300 level language arts, math, science, or social science course 4
  - 200-300 level language arts, math, science, or social science course 5
  - 200-300 level language arts, math, science, or social science course 6

Note that individuals can receive a reduction of 1 course in this area based on courses taken in the learning domains. This applies only to language arts, math, or social science. Talk to your advisor about applying the reduction.

Second Content Area: 24 hours required, grade of C or better required

A content area is a single area of study in language arts, math, science, or social science. The second content area must be a different area than the one chosen as the primary content area (cannot include coursework in Education).
Six content courses:
- 100, 200, 300 level language arts, math, science, or social science course 1
- 100, 200, 300 level language arts, math, science, or social science course 2
- 100, 200, 300 level language arts, math, science, or social science course 3
- 200-300 level language arts, math, science, or social science course 4
- 200-300 level language arts, math, science, or social science course 5
- 200-300 level language arts, math, science, or social science course 6

Pre-Education Core (Junior Standing): 30 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required
- SCU 207 SOCIAL AND HISTORICAL ISSUES IN EDUCATION
- MGE 300 INTRODUCTION TO MIDDLE GRADES EDUCATION
- MGE 311 SUPERVISED FIELD EXPERIENCE (1qh)
- SCU 335 YOUNG ADOLESCENT DEVELOPMENT IN CONTEXT
- MGE 301 LITERACY IN THE MIDDLE GRADES CONTENT AREAS I
- MGE 331 SUPERVISED FIELD EXPERIENCE (1qh)
- BBE 350 ENGLISH LANGUAGE LEARNERS IN THE MIDDLE GRADES
- MGE 321 THE WHOLE CHILD: CONCEPTIONS OF HEALTHY YOUNG ADOLESCENCE
- LSI 387 FOUNDATIONS OF LITERACY AND SPECIAL EDUCATION FOR THE MIDDLE GRADES

Advanced Standing Education Courses (Senior Standing): 22 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required
- MGE 341 CURRICULAR LITERACY IN THE MIDDLE GRADES CONTENT AREAS II
- CSL 377 SOCIAL EMOTIONAL LEARNING IN THE MIDDLE GRADES
- MGE 351 ASSESSMENT PRACTICES IN THE MIDDLE GRADES
- MGE 361 SUPERVISED FIELD EXPERIENCE (1qh)
- Choose two of the following (based on content concentration):
  - MGE 371 THE TEACHING OF MATHEMATICS IN THE MIDDLE GRADES
  - MGE 372 THE TEACHING OF LANGUAGE ARTS IN THE MIDDLE GRADES
  - MGE 373 THE TEACHING OF SOCIAL STUDIES IN THE MIDDLE GRADES
  - MGE 374 THE TEACHING OF SCIENCE IN THE MIDDLE GRADES
- MGE 381 SUPERVISED FIELD EXPERIENCE (1qh)

Student Teaching

Student Teaching: 10 quarter hours required, grade of B- or better required
Registration in student teaching requires completion of all requirements and procedures in the college core section. EDU 95 indicates to the Illinois State Board of Education that all field experience hours are complete. All students also take MGE 391, Student Teaching Seminar with student teaching (listed in the Liberal Studies section).
- MGE 390 STUDENT TEACHING (10 credit hours)
- EDU 95 CLINICAL EXPERIENCE WITH CHILDREN AND YOUTH (non-credit, non-tuition, PA grade required)

Licensure Tests
All individuals licensed by the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) are required to complete licensure tests specific to their teaching license. Middle Grades Education majors must complete the following tests:
- Basic Skills (test #096) or TAP (test #300, or #400) - assesses knowledge of reading comprehension, language arts, and math. Test is required to qualify for Advanced Standing.
- Content Area Test: Two tests are required before Student Teaching (deadlines apply). Test details will be forthcoming.
- Assessment of Professional Teaching (APT) – assesses knowledge of teaching planning, delivery, assessment, professionalism, and technology. Test is required to be certified; recommended that it be taken before Student Teaching.
- EdTPA - assessment conducted during the student teaching experience including video clips of instruction, lesson plans, student work samples, analysis of student learning and reflective commentaries. Students will submit an electronic portfolio to an outside agency for independent evaluation and a fee will be imposed by that agency as part of the assessment.
Music (BA)

The Bachelor of Arts in Music degree is intended for students who wish to combine the study of music with liberal arts and sciences. In addition to music courses, the program is comprised of a broad range of liberal studies courses, along with a year of modern language. Students also take advanced courses in music, developing research skills, which culminate in a final project or paper. The Bachelor of Arts in Music degree prepares students for a variety of careers related to music.

Learning Outcomes

Core Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Perform with an acceptable tone quality, pitch and rhythmic accuracy, dynamic control, articulation, and expressiveness.
- Participate in a musical ensemble, with appropriate technique and musicality.
- Identify and analyze the elements of music in a given piece, including an understanding of its compositional processes, aesthetic properties, and artistic, social, and historical context.
- Identify significant composers and works in the Western music tradition, and trace the evolution of musical styles through the Medieval, Renaissance, Baroque, Classical, Romantic, and Contemporary periods, as well as in jazz and select world music cultures.
- Hear, notate, analyze, and perform music through aural skills, sight-singing, and keyboard skills.
- Demonstrate basic conducting knowledge and skills for both instrumental and vocal settings.
- Develop an expanded global awareness and cultural understanding through musical study.
- Describe basic information about health and safety within the contexts of practice, performing, teaching, and listening; topics will include hearing, vocal, and musculoskeletal health and injury prevention.

Program Specific Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Make interdisciplinary connections between a broad range of fields in the Liberal Arts and Sciences and the field of music.
- Develop intercultural knowledge, including study of a modern language.
- Link theory to practice, through an experience learning opportunity.
- Demonstrate advanced understanding of Western Musical theory and analysis.
- Demonstrate familiarity with the methodology of ethnomusicology, musicology, and/or music history.
  - Apply ideas from these fields to understand music and performance within specific cultures and historical time periods.
- Apply research skills appropriate to the field of music, including knowledge of physical and digital resources.
- Write and talk about music in ways appropriate for non-specialist and specialist audiences.
- Complete a Capstone project that explores a topic of the student's choice which combines both a specialization in music with the perspective of at least one field outside of music.
  - Conduct original research and writing and present the project in a public form to the School of Music community.
Music Core Requirements

Course Requirements

All students in the School of Music are required to enroll in the following music courses:

Musicianship (36 credits)

- Musicianship Sequence
  - MUS 110 MUSICIANSHIP I
  - MUS 120 MUSICIANSHIP II
  - MUS 130 MUSICIANSHIP III
  - MUS 210 MUSICIANSHIP IV
  - MUS 220 MUSICIANSHIP V

  - MUS 123 GROUP PIANO II
  - MUS 133 GROUP PIANO III
  - MUS 213 GROUP PIANO IV
  - MUS 223 GROUP PIANO V
  - MUS 233 GROUP PIANO VI

Additional Courses

- MUS 265 MUSICAL TRADITIONS OF AMERICA AND THE WORLD
- MUS 303 BASIC CONDUCTING PRACTICUM
- MUS 304 BASIC CONDUCTING

Applied Music

Students may enroll in a maximum of 4 credits of applied study per quarter, with a maximum of 48 credits total. The requirements for applied study vary by degree program:

- BM in performance, 48 credits
- BM in jazz studies, 30 credits
- BM in composition, 24 credits
- BM in music education, 24 credits
- BM in performing arts management, 24 credits
- BA in music, 16 credits
- BS in sound recording technology, 12 credits

Except performance majors, students may enroll in additional applied credits, which will count towards music electives.

Modern Language Option

If a music student wishes to study a modern language for a three-course sequence (12 credits), one quarter of language study (4 credits) may be used to replace a course requirement in Arts and Literature, Philosophical Inquiry, or Religious Dimensions. The remaining two quarters of language (8 credits) will be applied towards free electives.
Liberal Studies Requirements

Petition to Major

Students are admitted to a specialization on the basis of a petition to major process, which occurs during the spring of the freshmen or sophomore year. The petition to major process differs for each specialization, and students should contact the department chairs or area coordinators for more information. Students are not permitted to enroll in classes in the specialization until they have passed their petition to major.

Course Requirements

- Music Theory (1 course chosen from MUS or COM 300-level or above; 4 credits)
- Any 300 level (or above) Musicianship course beyond the musicianship sequence (Music History, Musicology, Ethnomusicology; 4 credits)
- Experiential Learning Requirement (4 credits)
- Senior Year Capstone in Music (4 credits)

- Any Ensemble (3 credits in the 3rd or 4th year)
- Music Electives (9 credits)
- Non-Music Electives (12 credits)
- Free Electives (4 credits)
Music Education (BM)

The Bachelor of Music in music education degree prepares students to teach K-12 instrumental and vocal music. The program is comprised of a broad range of courses emphasizing both the theory and practice of music education, taught by a faculty of distinguished music educators. Throughout the junior year, students have the opportunity to refine their skills and knowledge through a partnership with a Chicago Public School. During the senior year, students work with master teachers throughout the Chicagoland area while student teaching. Upon graduation, students are eligible for Illinois music teacher certification.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab or SWK requirement.

Major Requirements

Petition to Major

Students are admitted to a specialization on the basis of a petition to major process, which occurs during the spring of the freshman or sophomore year. The petition to major process differs for each specialization, and students should contact the department chairs or area coordinators for more information. Students are not permitted to enroll in classes in the specialization until they have passed their petition to major.

Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Describe each local area network and wide area network technology commonly used in the marketplace and describe advantages and disadvantages to each and choose appropriate technologies in a case study based on business objectives.
- Write clear definitions of ARP, ICMP, DNS, RIP, OSPF and BGP and illustrate their use in protocol diagrams.
- Walk through a working example of a network system and show how all devices are used to provide data services.
- Cable together a set of devices (servers, cables, switches and routers), test connections, configure IP addressing and packet forwarding using appropriate commands in Windows, MacOS, Linux and Cisco IOS operating systems.
- Describe 802.11 CSMA/CA access methods, addressing, operational modes and encryption methods.
- Discuss the worldwide transition from IPv4 to IPv6 technologies and key aspects of the IPv6 protocol, including address format, neighbor discovery, basic routing and security.

Notes

* Students must earn a C- or better in this course.

Students must take one of the following ethics courses: CSC 208 (PI), IT 228 (PI), PHL 248/MGT 248 (PI) or REL 228/MGT 228 (RD)

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student’s major and is cross-listed with a course within the student’s major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

  - Major Electives can be chosen from any 300-level TDC or CNS courses. Students must earn a grade of C- or higher in all major elective courses.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Degree Requirements

Students in this degree must meet the following requirements:

- Complete a minimum of 192 credit hours (generally 48 courses)
- Earn a grade of C- or higher in WRD 103, WRD 104, and all Major and Minor courses
- Earn a grade of D or higher in all other Liberal Studies and Open Elective courses
- Maintain a cumulative GPA of 2.0 or higher
Sample Schedule

Although students are free to take course requirements in any order they choose, provided they have mastered the course-specific prerequisites, it is strongly recommended that students follow these year-by-year suggestions, especially regarding the first-year major courses.

Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs. Students who meet the admission requirements below may choose to apply to a combined degree program. Interested students should consult their faculty advisor regarding the application procedure. This program allows students to combine many CDM bachelor's degrees with a CDM master's degree following the structure outlined below.
Admission Criteria

- Minimum of 44 quarter hours earned
- Minimum of 12 quarter hours earned at DePaul
- GPA of 3.3 or higher in courses taken at DePaul
- Endorsement of faculty advisor

In order to apply for the combined degree program, your faculty advisor must send an e-mail recommendation to the CDM Academic Success Center. The recommendation should include your full name, student ID number, and the bachelor's and master's degrees you wish to combine.

Bachelor of Arts in Computing students who are enrolled via the School for New Learning are eligible for this program. Interested students who meet the admission criteria for a combined degree should contact Kenn Skorupa at SNL for more information.

Program Structure

Students in the combined degree program take a maximum of three graduate level courses that count toward both their bachelor's and master's degree requirements. Students may enroll in graduate level coursework in the junior and senior year only. Students in the combined degree program will receive the bachelor's degree after meeting all graduation requirements including the minimum credit hours required for graduation.

To earn the master's degree, the student must earn as many additional graduate credit hours as needed to reach the minimum number of graduate credit hours required in that master's degree.

Only CDM courses can be taken as part of this program. Advanced programs (e.g., JD/MS, MFA, and PhD) are not eligible for the combined degree program.

Maintaining Good Standing

Cumulative GPA and course grades will be reviewed after each Autumn, Winter, and Spring Quarter.

The student and faculty advisor will be notified when the student's cumulative GPA falls below 3.3 or when the students receives less than a C- in graduate level course.

If a student's cumulative GPA falls below 3.3, the student must earn a term GPA of 3.3 or above in the following quarter to stay in good standing. If the student does not achieve a 3.3 term GPA, then the student will be dismissed from the combined program and resume the traditional B.A./B.S./B.F.A.

If dismissed from the combined degree program after graduate courses have been passed, the graduate courses may only apply to the undergraduate degree. Should the student later be admitted to a graduate program, graduate courses applied to the undergraduate degree may not apply to the graduate program and may not be repeated if they are required in the declared graduate curriculum. Other graduate courses may be substituted in this case.

Designing a Course of Study

It is extremely important that the student and faculty advisor work together on a course of study immediately upon admission to the Combined Degree Program.

This course of study should include the graduate courses to be taken and the undergraduate courses that are replaced by the graduate courses. Failure to put together a solid plan can lead to extra coursework and a lengthening of the Combined Degree program.

It is advisable for the student and the faculty advisor to enter the proposed plan of study in the student communication record on the CDM intranet so it is available to the student and CDM faculty and staff.

Registering for Master's Degree Courses

Combined degree students must meet regularly with their faculty advisors. The faculty advisor will initiate the registration process for all graduate level courses taken during the undergraduate career.

Bachelor's Degree to Master's Degree Transition

In order to be fully admitted to the designated master's program, the student must meet all admission requirements for that program. When preparing to complete the undergraduate portion of the combined degree, students must submit the application for degree conferment for the undergraduate degree by the application deadline. At this time, the students should contact the CDM Academic Success Center about the procedure required to be formally admitted to the declared graduate program.
Network Technologies (Minor)

The Network Technology minor gives students a foundation in the theory and practice of designing, deploying and managing both wired and wireless network technologies.

Course Requirements

- IT 263 APPLIED NETWORKS AND SECURITY
- TDC 311 COMPUTERS IN TELECOMMUNICATIONS SYSTEMS
- TDC 362 PRINCIPLES OF DATA COMMUNICATIONS
- TDC 363 INTRODUCTION TO LOCAL AREA NETWORKS
- TDC 365 NETWORK INTERCONNECTION TECHNOLOGIES
- TDC 372 DIGITAL ACCESS SERVICES

Students majoring in Network Technology (BS) are restricted from earning this minor.

Non-Profit Hospitality Leadership (Minor: Business Students Only)

Food and overnight accommodations are often part of a social service network offered by a community. Examples include soup kitchens, shelters for battered women and children, support centers for the homeless, disaster relief efforts, etc. The purpose of this minor is to help students in the Driehaus College of Business who are planning a career in the non-profit sector to acquire the necessary knowledge to operate hospitality venues in a safe, clean and financially viable manner.

Declaration Requirements

To declare a minor in Non-Profit Hospitality Leadership, a Driehaus student must meet the following requirements:

- A minimum cumulative DePaul grade point average of 2.000
- A minimum Hospitality Leadership grade point average of 2.000
- No grades of IN, R, or lower than C- in any Hospitality Leadership (HSP) course
- Completion of HSP 100 or HSP 201 with a minimum grade of C- in each

Course Requirements

A Driehaus student minoring in Non-Profit Hospitality Leadership is required to complete the following courses totaling at least 20.0 hours:

- HSP 201 INTERNATIONAL HOSPITALITY SERVICE & EXPERIENCE MANAGEMENT (2.0 hours)
- HSP 203 HOSPITALITY LEADERSHIP FORUM I (2.0 hours)
- HSP 207 HOSPITALITY LAW, ETHICS & RISK
- HSP 331 FOODSERVICE PURCHASING
- HSP 339 NON-PROFIT FOODSERVICE MANAGEMENT
- HSP 349 NON-PROFIT ACCOMMODATION, SAFETY & SECURITY
All Hospitality Leadership (HSP) courses and any other courses used toward the minor must be completed with a minimum grade of C- (or PA where specified) and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.

Non-Profit Hospitality Leadership (Minor)

Available to students outside of the Driehaus College of Business, the minor in Non-Profit Hospitality Leadership is to help non-profit service providers acquire the necessary knowledge to operate hospitality venues in a safe, clean and financially viable manner. Food and overnight accommodations are often part of a social service network offered by a community, and examples include soup kitchens, shelters for battered women and children, support centers for the homeless, disaster relief efforts, etc.

Declaration Requirements

To declare a minor in Non-Profit Hospitality Leadership, a non-Driehaus student must meet the following requirements:

- A minimum cumulative DePaul grade point average of 2.000
- A minimum Hospitality Leadership grade point average of 2.000
- No grades of IN, R, or lower than C- in any Hospitality Leadership (HSP) course
- Completion of HSP 100 or HSP 201 with a minimum grade of C-

Course Requirements

A non-Driehaus student minoring in Non-Profit Hospitality Leadership is required to complete the following courses totaling at least 20.0 hours

- HSP 201 INTERNATIONAL HOSPITALITY SERVICE & EXPERIENCE MANAGEMENT (2.0 hours)
- HSP 203 HOSPITALITY LEADERSHIP FORUM I (2.0 hours)
- HSP 207 HOSPITALITY LAW, ETHICS & RISK
- HSP 331 FOODSERVICE PURCHASING
- HSP 339 NON-PROFIT FOODSERVICE MANAGEMENT
- HSP 349 NON-PROFIT ACCOMMODATION, SAFETY & SECURITY

Degree Conferral Requirements

All Hospitality Leadership (HSP) courses and any other courses used toward the minor must be completed with a minimum grade of C- (or PA where specified) and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.

Nursing RN to MS (BS)

The RN to MS curriculum provides for seamless progression for the Registered Nurse with an associate degree in nursing (ADN) to the master's degree (MS) in nursing, whether or not the student also holds a BA/BS in another field. Along the way, all students will earn the Bachelor of Science (BS) degree in nursing; in anticipation of earning the BS, students must apply for degree conferral. However the focus of the program is on the attainment of the MS degree.

The RN to MS program will be offered online except for the clinical requirements. Students will be required to complete clinical nursing experiences, which will be undertaken in their home communities with appropriate local

The bachelor’s component of the program, leading to the BS in nursing, fulfills professional nursing standards for baccalaureate education in nursing, provides for immediate career mobility, and provides an accelerated path to the master’s degree. The master’s component of the program prepares practicing nurses to meet the core expectations of a master’s education in nursing and to assume the role of a nurse educator or nurse administrator. The student will earn a certificate either in Health Professions Education or in Health Administration from Rosalind Franklin University of Medicine and Science (RFUMS) and the MS in Nursing from DePaul University.

The Bachelor’s portion of the curriculum builds on the strong theoretical and skills preparation in both nursing and general education that the associate degree prepared RN has completed. Note that, in general, 2 semester hours transfers as 3 quarter hours.

Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Apply nursing concepts, theories, and research to a family-centered and community-based practice of professional nursing care and case management.
- Explore the philosophies of professional nursing in the context of its history and its evolution as a discipline.
- Demonstrate appreciation for the diversity and harmony of each unitary human being in mutual process with the environment.
- Contribute to excellence in health promotion and disease prevention through evidence-based professional practice, ethical care management, and effective patient teaching.
- Assume responsibility for a collaborative role within the health team and the profession for safe, effective and affordable health care with individuals and families.
- Demonstrate independence and personal accountability for self-directed personal and professional development as a registered nurse.
- Use professional codes and standards as a basis for professional nursing practice and service to a multicultural society.
- Use information technology in professional nursing practice.

Liberal Studies Requirements

These requirements take into account liberal studies coursework completed as part of the basic Associate Degree/Diploma Nursing program. The requirements outlined below are beyond the associate degree work and are required for the DePaul degree.

Notes
Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students... double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Transfer Credit

This program builds on the strong theoretical and skills preparation in both nursing and general education that the associate degree prepared RN has completed. The learning outcomes achieved at the associate degree level are validated by the National Council Licensure Examination – Registered Nurse (NCLEX-RN), a nationally standardized exam considered to be a highly valid and reliable test of basic competence. Students will receive at a minimum 91 quarter hours of transfer credit for the associate degree. Students who have earned more than 91 quarter hours of transfer credit will receive credit based on the transferrable coursework successfully completed. Please note that some liberal studies credit has been accounted for as part of the nursing program 91 transferrable hours. Only courses in excess of the required nursing program - and still within the restriction on the maximum number of allowable transfer credit hours - can be considered to fulfill the remaining requirements. In addition, students must meet the DePaul residency requirement. View the Undergraduate Student Handbook to learn of the restriction on the maximum number of allowable transfer credit hours and how to meet the residency requirement.

Professional Nursing Portfolio Credit

Because continuous learning occurs in the life of a working nurse, the professional nursing portfolio assessment process awards credit for specialty certifications, research, continuing education, and other intellectually demanding activities done by professional nurses. The portfolio will be reviewed by the RN to MS program director and the Admissions, Progression, and Retention Committee upon admission to the program. A student may earn up to 33 quarter hours of credit through the portfolio which is closed at the end of the first quarter of the program.

A current curriculum vitae and a statement of professional goals and accomplishments must be submitted with the portfolio request. All supporting documentation must be included at the time of portfolio submission. Up to 33 quarter hours may be awarded. If fewer than 33 quarter hours are earned through portfolio credit, additional hours will be required to meet the minimum 192 credit hour requirement for the BS degree.

Organizational Communication (BA)

The B.A. in Organizational Communication explores effective and participatory communication across organizational contexts. Students are encouraged to identify and explain theoretical frameworks operative in organizational and group communication; apply multiple theoretical perspectives to a variety of organizational and group contexts and events; express ideas and information competently in written or oral form with clarity and organization; appraise similarities and differences among multicultural and global communication contexts and events; formulate appropriate communicative messages for group and organizational effectiveness.

The curriculum is both deep and broad, enabling students to gain practical expertise in their area of interest while gaining a working knowledge of related areas. The curriculum focuses on ethical practice and the convergence of traditional and new media, preparing students for professional practice in an evolving marketplace. Students learn to express themselves well in oral and written communications, to think critically about communication events all around them, to develop skills valuable in the workplace, and to communicate effectively in a diverse world.

Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Identify and explain theoretical frameworks operative in organizational and group communication.
- Apply multiple theoretical perspectives to a variety of organizational and group contexts and events.
- Express ideas and information competently in written or oral form with clarity and organization.
- Appraise similarities and differences among multicultural and global communication contexts and events.
- Formulate appropriate communicative messages for group and organizational effectiveness.
College Core Requirements

All majors in the College of Communication (with the exception of Public Relations and Advertising) consist of a total of fourteen courses: a four-course common core plus an additional combination of ten program requirements and electives. The Public Relations and Advertising major consists of a total of fifteen courses: a four-course common core plus an additional combination of eleven program requirements and electives.

Course Requirements

Four core courses are required of all College of Communication students:

- CMN 101 INTRODUCTION TO HUMAN COMMUNICATION
- CMN 102 INTRODUCTION TO MASS COMMUNICATION
- CMN 103 INTERCULTURAL COMMUNICATION
- CMN 104 PUBLIC SPEAKING

Students are encouraged to complete all four prior to taking additional coursework in the major.

Modern Language Requirement

Students who intend to graduate with a Bachelor of Arts degree in the College of Communication will be required to demonstrate a measure of competence in a modern language, as defined by the college. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in a second year high school course work in a modern language or Latin
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language (must be completed during high school)
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination. (Note that CLEP scores may be used only to meet the language requirement. Credit is not awarded in modern languages on the basis of CLEP scores).

Students with some modern language training should consult with the Modern Language Department about the course with which they should begin. Students with little or no previous work in the language will be required to complete the entire three-course introductory sequence.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab or SWK requirement.

Major Requirements

Course Requirements

All Organizational Communication majors are required to take the following courses in addition to the core courses:

- ORGC 251 ORGANIZATIONAL COMMUNICATION
- ORGC 201 BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL COMMUNICATION
- Six courses from the list of offerings below.
  - CMN 394 ADVANCED COMMUNICATION INTERNSHIP
  - CMN 395 COMMUNICATION INTERNSHIP SPECIAL TOPICS
  - CMNS 291 RESEARCH METHODS
  - CMNS 306 TOPICS IN PRESENTATION
  - CMNS 315 HEALTH COMMUNICATION
  - CMNS 327 RESEARCHING RELATIONSHIPS

  - ORGC 393 ORGANIZATIONAL COMMUNICATION PRACTICUM
  - PRAD 255 PUBLIC RELATIONS
  - PRAD 334 ADVERTISING AND PUBLIC RELATIONS ETHICS
- Any two College of Communication courses as electives
Internship Credit

Students in the major may take CMN 394 ADVANCED COMMUNICATION INTERNSHIP and/or CMN 395 COMMUNICATION INTERNSHIP SPECIAL TOPICS (when work relates to the major). In order to take CMN 394 or CMN 395, students must have completed two of the four communication core classes (CMN 101, CMN 102, CMN 103, CMN 104), two courses in the chosen major and have fulfilled internship program eligibility requirements.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

The following Communication graduate programs have been approved as combined degree options:

- Digital Communication and Media Arts (MA)
- Health Communication (MA)
- Journalism (MA)
- Media and Cinema Studies (MA)
- Organizational and Multicultural Communication (MA)
- Public Relations and Advertising (MA)
- Relational Communication (MA)

Deferring Admission

Students can defer their graduate admission for one year. If students do not matriculate after completing their B.A. degrees or within the one year deferral period, the graduate courses taken as undergraduate students will no longer count towards the graduate degree and students must reapply for admission to the graduate program.

Digital Communication and Media Arts (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in their major courses, have 3.0 cumulative GPA, and have successfully completed CMN 101, CMN 102 and CMN 103 are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by May 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, Statement of Purpose (750 words) explaining why the student is seeking admission to the program, writing sample (research paper that demonstrates the applicant's ability to synthesize and analyze scholarly work), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Digital Communication and Media Arts coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take two of the DCMA core courses (CMNS 570 and MCS 575) and one DCMA elective course during their senior year. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Health Communication (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in their major courses, have a 3.0 cumulative GPA, and have successfully completed three 300-level courses in their major are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by May 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, answers to essay questions, writing sample (research paper), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Health Communication coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take the HTHC core courses (HTHC 515, HTHC 516, HTHC 517) during the senior year. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Journalism (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.25 GPA in their major courses and 3.0 cumulative GPA are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by May 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, Statement of Purpose (750 words) explaining why the student is seeking admission to the program, writing sample or project that demonstrates the applicant's ability in journalism, and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Journalism coursework which will fulfill undergraduate Journalism major electives, communication electives and/or open electives. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirements, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Media and Cinema Studies (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in their major courses, have 3.0 cumulative GPA, and have successfully completed CMN 101, CMN 102 and CMN 103 are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by May 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, Statement of Purpose (750 words) explaining why the student is seeking admission to the program, writing sample (research paper that demonstrates the applicant's ability to synthesize and analyze scholarly work), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Media and Cinema Studies coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take two of the MCS core courses (MCS 501, MCS 502, MCS 504) and one MCS elective during their senior year. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Organizational and Multicultural Communication (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in their major courses, have 3.0 cumulative GPA, have successfully completed CMN 101, CMN 102 and CMN 103, and have successfully completed three 300-level Communication courses are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by May 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, answers to essay questions, writing sample (research paper), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Communication coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take at least two core courses and a methods requirement during their senior year (examples: CMNS 500, CMNS 501, CMNS 541, CMNS 581 or CMNS 582). Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Public Relations and Advertising (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.25 GPA in their major courses, have 3.0 cumulative GPA, have successfully completed CMN 101, CMN 102 and CMN 103, have successfully completed three 300-level Communication courses, and are currently holding one or more PRAD internships or jobs are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by May 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, answers to essay questions, writing sample (research paper), one letter of recommendation from a PRAD professor, and one letter of recommendation from a supervisor at a PRAD-related internship or job.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Public Relations and Advertising coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take three core courses during their senior year (examples: PRAD 553, PRAD 555, PRAD 575, and PRAD 585). Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Relational Communication (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in their major courses, have 3.0 cumulative GPA, and have successfully completed CMN 101, CMN 102 and CMN 103 are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by May 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, Statement of Purpose (750 words) explaining why the student is seeking admission to the program, writing sample (research paper that demonstrates the applicant's ability to synthesize and analyze scholarly work), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Relational Communication coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take at least two core courses and a methods requirement during their senior year (examples: CMNS 500, RELC 500*, CMNS 581 or CMNS 582). Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

* For BA/MA students who are completing their BA in Relational Communication and seeking an MA in Relational Communication, the core course requirement of RELC 500 – Theories of Relational Communication will be waived. Students waived from having to take RELC 500 will replace the course with an additional graduate RELC elective course (still completing the required total of 48-credit hours).

Organizational Communication (Minor)

After the completion of the course work in this minor program, students should be able to:

- Identify and explain theoretical frameworks operative in organizational and group communication
- Apply multiple theoretical perspectives to a variety of organizational and group contexts and events
- Express ideas and information competently in written or oral form with clarity and organization

Course Requirements

A minor in Organizational Communication requires students to complete a total of 24 credit hours (six courses). To complete the minor, students must take:

- ORGC 251 ORGANIZATIONAL COMMUNICATION
- ORGC 201 BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL COMMUNICATION or CMN 104 PUBLIC SPEAKING
- Four additional courses from the following electives:
  - ORGC 212 SMALL GROUP COMMUNICATION

Students majoring in Peace, Justice and Conflict Studies (B.A.) are restricted from earning this minor.
Peace, Justice and Conflict Studies (BA)

The Peace, Justice and Conflict Studies Program offers students a B.A. major curriculum that helps them reflect on the origins and causes of conflict, violence, and social injustice as well as the wide spectrum of conflict intervention, from armed conflict, through governmental and organizational peacebuilding, to local and interpersonal conflict resolution. The Program also introduces students to strategies for resolving interpersonal, communal and international conflicts peacefully, as well as tactics that promote the common good in a way that addresses the structural origins of violence. The Peace, Justice and Conflict Studies Program addresses the need for a critical examination of the origins and root causes of violence and conflict. The Program includes frank debate about the efficacy of nonviolent in comparison with violent approaches to social change. The inclusion of conflict theory and intervention as part of this program is a distinctive aspect of this program; the arena of conflict resolution offers many potential career options. The Program emphasizes hands-on, experiential components in the introductory course, the final seminar/internship and the workshops which emphasize skill training.

Students and faculty in Peace, Justice and Conflict Studies question what constitutes a just society and world, what peace and peacebuilding can accomplish in a world full of conflict, and how attitudes toward social justice, violence, and peace reflect and reveal American and other cultures' values, beliefs, prejudices, assumptions, and perceptions.

Students are expected to gain competency in dealing with situations of conflict and injustice by mastering the theoretical and intellectual frameworks related to peacebuilding, human rights advocacy, and justice development, by learning to interpret and analyze real life situations in their complexity, by understanding how to build strategies for negotiation, consensus-building, advocacy, partnership development, and other intervention tools, and by understanding various research methodologies and the use of media and creative outlets.

Students majoring in many social science, humanities, and other interdisciplinary programs will find it beneficial to double major or minor in Peace, Justice and Conflict Studies. Students can also pursue a cross-college double major, such as with Journalism or Intercultural Communication in the College of Communication. Students who pursue the major are well prepared for graduate work in the humanities or social sciences, and specifically in peace, justice, or conflict studies, as well as for professional training in law, public service, or business.

Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Analyze the origins of conflict and violence at the international and global levels, between nations and large-scale global organizations.
- Assess the underlying values of different approaches to international and global conflict, such as human rights, deterrence, security, social welfare.
- Evaluate the strengths and weaknesses of several approaches to peacemaking and conflict resolution at the national and global level.
- Understand the theories of justice and its basic forms, such as social, distributive, and restorative, as they relate to conflict resolution.
- Assess them in relation to real circumstances of structural violence and social change.
- Recognize and evaluate strategies that work toward social change and a just world, through redressing injustices and violations of human rights.
- Identify and practice effective skills for resolving conflicts over injustice and for promoting change, for example, skills using negotiated and consensual approaches.
- Examine theories concerning conflict and conflict resolution between individuals and social groups.
College Core Requirements

Study in the Major Field

The student’s course of study in the College consists of three parts: Liberal Studies, the major field, and electives. Together these three parts contribute to the liberal education of the student which is the common purpose of all study in the College. By "liberal education" the College understands not only a deep and thorough knowledge of a particular area of study but a knowledge of the diverse areas of study represented by criticism, history, the arts, the behavioral and social sciences, philosophy, religious studies, the natural science, and mathematics.

The major field program generally is built upon a set of core courses and a specialized “concentration.” The number of courses required for a major varies by department. Most students go beyond the minimum requirements, electing additional courses which both broaden and deepen their understanding of their chosen discipline.

Because no academic major program is built in isolation, students are required to pursue a number of electives of the student’s choice. The inherent flexibility of this curriculum demands that the student consult an academic advisor at each stage in the total program and at least once prior to each registration.

Students will be prompted to visit the College Office for their official graduation check early in their senior year.

Declaration of Major, Minor and Concentration

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor in the major field department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

Students must declare or change majors, minors, and concentrations, via Campus Connection. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the Office for Academic Advising Support.

The Modern Language Requirement (MLR)

All students will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language (i.e., a language other than English) equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. This Modern Language Requirement (MLR) may be demonstrated by:

- placing into 104 or above on the DePaul language placement exam
- completing the last course or earning AP/IB credit for the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language (e.g. 103 for DePaul language classes)
- completing a college course or earning AP/IB credit for a college course beyond the first-year level in any language (e.g. 104 or above for DePaul language classes)
- completing the final course of a four-year sequence of the same modern language in high school*
- completing a proctored exam by BYU and passing the exam (see the Department of Modern Languages website for registration details)
- completing a proctored Written Proficiency Test (WPT) by Language Testing International (LTI) and achieving a score of Beginner High or above (see the Department of Modern Languages website for registration details)

* Students are strongly encouraged to take the DePaul language placement exam even if they have met the MLR via study of a language in high school. This will ensure continuation of language study at the proper level.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College will abide by this MLR in place on the effective date of the ICT, regardless of when they first matriculated at DePaul.
Students who have met the MLR and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" (MLO) of the Liberal Studies Program (see "Special Programs").

External Credit and Residency

A student who has been admitted to the College begins residency within the college as of the first day of classes of the term in which the student is registered. Students in residence, whether attending on a full-time or part-time basis, may not take courses away from DePaul University without the written permission of the college. Permission must be obtained in advance of registration to avoid loss of credit or residency in the college; see the LAS website for more information.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student’s major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab or SWK requirement.

Major Requirements

Course Requirements

To attain a Bachelor of Arts in Peace, Justice and Conflict Studies, students will be required to complete successfully a 192 credit hour program, with a minimum of 48 required credit hours in the Peace, Justice and Conflict Studies program:
The four-course sequence PAX 210-212-214-218 forms the foundation of the program and should be completed in the first or second year of study. They do not need to be done in sequence. An internship, PAX 392, offered once a year in the fall, should be completed prior to taking PAX 350. If possible, students should take the internship prior to senior year. Seniors should plan to take the capstone, PAX 350, offered once a year. Two PAX 250 workshops (2 credit hours each) can be completed at any time, ideally prior to senior year.

Senior Capstone

PAX 350 is usually offered in winter quarter. Students doing study abroad during winter quarter of their senior year must do the capstone in their junior year.

Program Approved Electives

Courses cross-listed with any listed below are accepted as PAX electives. Check with the PJC Director for topics courses approved as PAX electives each quarter or to approve a course not on this list.

Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

Peace, Justice & Conflict Studies (BA)/ Journalism (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.25 GPA in their major courses and 3.0 cumulative GPA are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by May 1 (priority deadline): BA/MA Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, Statement of Purpose (750 words) explaining why the student is seeking admission to the program, writing sample or project that demonstrates the applicant's ability in journalism, and two letters of recommendation from professors in the History department.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Journalism coursework, including JOUR 518; these credit hours will apply to both the undergraduate and graduate degrees. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Students can defer their graduate admission for one year. If students do not matriculate after completing their BA degrees or within the one year deferral period, the graduate courses taken as undergraduate students will no longer count towards the graduate degree and students must reapply for admission to the graduate program. See further information on the Combined Bachelor's/Master's Degree Program in the Undergraduate Student Handbook.

Performance Studies (Minor)

The Performance Studies minor provides an overview of the historical importance of performance for social, cultural and personal expression. Students will gain a critical understanding of performance across a range of disciplines.

Course Requirements

The Performance Studies Minor requires students to complete a total of 24 credit hours (six courses).

- INTC 230 PERFORMANCE: COMMUNICATION, CREATIVITY, AND THE BODY
- Five courses from the following:
  - INTC 206 COMMUNICATING MULTICULTURAL IDENTITIES
  - INTC 308 TOPICS IN INTERCULTURAL COMMUNICATION
  - INTC 329 PERFORMANCE OF GENDER & SEXUALITY
Performing Arts Management (BM)

A Bachelor of Music in Performing Arts Management (PAM) prepares students for careers in the multidimensional industries of not-for-profit arts administration and commercial music business. Incorporating a minor in Business Administration from the Driehaus College of Business, this program provides students with a broad understanding of the performing arts industry, insight into the theories and principles associated with arts management, focus on the complexities of the music industry, and a proficiency in the practical application of necessary business skills.

  • MUS 233 GROUP PIANO VI
Additional Courses

- MUS 265 MUSICAL TRADITIONS OF AMERICA AND THE WORLD
- MUS 303 BASIC CONDUCTING PRACTICUM
- MUS 304 BASIC CONDUCTING

Applied Music

Students may enroll in a maximum of 4 credits of applied study per quarter, with a maximum of 48 credits total. The requirements for applied study vary by degree program:

- BM in performance, 48 credits
- BM in jazz studies, 30 credits
- BM in composition, 24 credits
- BM in music education, 24 credits
- BM in performing arts management, 24 credits
- BA in music, 16 credits
- BS in sound recording technology, 12 credits

Except performance majors, students may enroll in additional applied credits, which will count towards music electives.

Modern Language Option

If a music student wishes to study a modern language for a three-course sequence (12 credits), one quarter of language study (4 credits) may be used to replace a course requirement in Arts and Literature, Philosophical Inquiry, or Religious Dimensions. The remaining two quarters of language (8 credits) will be applied towards free electives.

* Students must earn a C- or better in this course.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student’s major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab or SWK requirement.
Petition to Major

Students are admitted to a specialization on the basis of a petition to major process, which occurs during the spring of the freshmen or sophomore year. The petition to major process differs for each specialization, and students should contact the department chairs or area coordinators for more information. Students are not permitted to enroll in specialization classes until they have passed their petition to major.

Liberal Studies Learning Domain Specifications

Performing arts management majors enroll in the following courses within the learning domains:

- MAT 135 BUSINESS CALCULUS I
- ECO 105 PRINCIPLES OF MICROECONOMICS

Philosophy (BA)

The Department of Philosophy serves the needs of the student who seeks an understanding of philosophical issues for personal enrichment, the student who desires a more fundamental appreciation of philosophy in support of law, medicine, business, and various academic disciplines, and the student who wishes to continue the study of philosophy at the graduate level.

Through its courses and programs, the department acquaints students with various philosophical systems and with basic problems posed by diverse thinkers. Courses have been designed to highlight both the humanistic and technical features of philosophy.

The department also recognizes the important need for skills and training. Its courses in logic and analysis have been designed to help students become more perceptive in their experiences and more critical in their thinking.

Further, the department is aware that, in our age of rapid change, society often tends to neglect the meaning and worth of the person. Courses are therefore offered that investigate and emphasize the dignity of the person.
By helping students understand the nature and grounds of ethical judgments, these courses aim to promote an appreciation and ordering of human values.

The department has designed all of its course offerings with the aim of both ensuring that our Liberal Studies courses remain responsive to the needs of the student who does not plan to specialize in philosophy and offering the student who chooses to major or minor in philosophy a rich and diverse curriculum.

The department is particularly proud of its "Philosophy Circle," an undergraduate philosophy club which provides a forum for the exchange of ideas between faculty and students.

Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Critically discuss philosophical issues (via well-grounded arguments) and questions from the perspectives of multiple methods, traditions, and historical contexts.
- Evaluate philosophical issues, questions, and problems critically and analytically.
- Write and articulate a well-ordered essay presenting philosophical positions in a way that addresses philosophical issues and questions.
- Formulate and evaluate their own understanding of a diverse range of philosophical problems, in both writing and discussion.
- Integrate a critical understanding of central philosophical ideas from the history of philosophy, broadly construed to include more than the Western tradition.

College Core Requirements

Study in the Major Field

The student's course of study in the College consists of three parts: Liberal Studies, the major field, and electives. Together these three parts contribute to the liberal education of the student which is the common purpose of all study in the College. By "liberal education" the College understands not only a deep and thorough knowledge of a particular area of study but a knowledge of the diverse areas of study represented by criticism, history, the arts, the behavioral and social sciences, philosophy, religious studies, the natural science, and mathematics.

The major field program generally is built upon a set of core courses and a specialized “concentration.” The number of courses required for a major varies by department. Most students go beyond the minimum requirements, electing additional courses which both broaden and deepen their understanding of their chosen discipline.

Because no academic major program is built in isolation, students are required to pursue a number of electives of the student's choice. The inherent flexibility of this curriculum demands that the student consult an academic advisor at each stage in the total program and at least once prior to each registration.

Students will be prompted to visit the College Office for their official graduation check early in their senior year.

Declaration of Major, Minor and Concentration

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor in the major field department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

Students must declare or change majors, minors, and concentrations, via Campus Connection. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the Office for Academic Advising Support.

The Modern Language Requirement (MLR)

All students will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language (i.e., a language other than English) equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. This Modern Language Requirement (MLR) may be demonstrated by:

- placing into 104 or above on the DePaul language placement exam
- completing the last course or earning AP/IB credit for the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language (e.g. 103 for DePaul language classes)
- completing a college course or earning AP/IB credit for a college course beyond the first-year level in any language (e.g. 104 or above for DePaul language classes)
- completing the final course of a four-year sequence of the same modern language in high school*
- completing a proctored exam by BYU and passing the exam (see the Department of Modern Languages website for registration details)
- completing a proctored Written Proficiency Test (WPT) by Language Testing International (LTI) and achieving a score of Beginner High or above (see the Department of Modern Languages website for registration details)

* Students are strongly encouraged to take the DePaul language placement exam even if they have met the MLR via study of a language in high school. This will ensure continuation of language study at the proper level.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College will abide by this MLR in place on the effective date of the ICT, regardless of when they first matriculated at DePaul.

Students who have met the MLR and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" (MLO) of the Liberal Studies Program (see “Special Programs”).

External Credit and Residency

A student who has been admitted to the College begins residency within the college as of the first day of classes of the term in which the student is registered. Students in residence, whether attending on a full-time or part-time basis, may not take courses away from DePaul University without the written permission of the college. Permission must be obtained in advance of registration to avoid loss of credit or residency in the college; see the LAS website for more information.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.
In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Extra Curricular Activities
The regular program of courses is supplemented by philosophical symposia, departmental colloquia, and mini-courses featuring prominent philosophers. Each student is expected to consult with his or her departmental advisor on course selection. With departmental permission, a senior may take one course selected from the graduate offerings in philosophy. He or she may take this course on a pass/fail basis. Certain courses in other departments are acceptable equivalents for philosophy credit. Seniors who have a superior record in philosophy may petition to do a Senior Thesis. (Please note that PHL 100 or HON 105 is the prerequisite for all 300-level philosophy courses; it is also the prerequisite for all 200 level cognitive skills courses as well as the 200 level history sequence.)

Philosophy (Minor)
The minor program is designed to complement the majors of other departments. It is designed also for those who, while not wishing to specialize in philosophy, nonetheless seek to pursue enduring questions, appraise contemporary values, and critically discuss topics of general human concern. (If you wish to use this program as an academic minor, check with your Department for permission and with the Department of Philosophy for sample programs.)

Course Requirements

Value Studies/ Cognitive Skills
- One PHL 200 Level Course

Philosophy Electives
- Two PHL 300 Level Courses

With permission a student may take PHL 391 SENIOR CAPSTONE SEMINAR for Philosophy Majors as part of his or her minor.

Transfer credit may be recognized. (*Please note that PHL 100 and HON 105 is the prerequisite for all 300-level philosophy courses; it is also the prerequisite for all 200 level cognitive skills courses as well as the 200 level history sequence.)

Students majoring in Philosophy (BA) are restricted from earning this minor.

Photography (Minor)

The minor in photography is a concentrated program of study that lets the student design her/his approach to the photographic arts. It takes the processes of optical and mechanical reproduction as its starting points and emphasizes the role(s) of photography historically through culture. A total of six courses are required for a photography minor.

Course Requirements

- Choose any two Photography courses from the following list:
  - ART 101 DIGITAL TOOLS FOR VISUAL THINKERS
  - ART 105 TWO-DIMENSIONAL FOUNDATIONS
  - ART 114 FOUR DIMENSIONAL FOUNDATIONS
  - ART 200 ART & ARTISTS IN CONTEMPORARY CULTURE
  - ART 118 THINKING PHOTOGRAPHY

- Choose any four Photography courses from the following list:
  - ART 224 BEGINNING DIGITAL PHOTOGRAPHY
  - ART 225 BEGINNING PHOTOGRAPHY
  - ART 226 VIDEO ART
  - ART 289 EXPERIMENTAL VIDEO ART
  - ART 292 COMMUNITY VIDEO PRODUCTION
  - ART 383 SERVICE LEARNING IN THE ARTS INTERNSHIP
  - ART 321 INTERMEDIATE DIGITAL PHOTOGRAPHY
  - ART 323 INTERMEDIATE PHOTOGRAPHY
  - ART 325 ADVANCED PHOTOGRAPHY PROJECTS
  - ART 328 DOCUMENTARY PHOTOGRAPHY
  - ART 329 ADVANCED DIGITAL PHOTOGRAPHY
  - ART 332 TOPICS IN PHOTOGRAPHIC PRACTICE
  - ART 395 SPECIAL TOPICS IN STUDIO PRACTICE
  - HAA 265 HISTORY OF PHOTOGRAPHY

Students majoring in Art, Media, and Design (B.A.) or minoring in Studio Art or Graphic Art are restricted from earning this minor.
Physical Education (BSPE)

The Physical Education (P.E.) program will prepare you to pursue a career in teaching Physical Education.

Students entering the program must be able and willing to devote themselves to a program requiring a minimum of 110 hours of daytime field experiences in schools. These school-based clinical hours are completed in conjunction with methodology courses that require students to spend a half-day each week in a school. In addition, the student must spend a minimum of 10 weeks in full-time student teaching.

The program includes five distinctive features: 1) Becoming a teacher is viewed as a developmental process continuing at least through the first year of teaching; 2) Multiculturalism is infused throughout the curriculum; 3) Field experiences are an integral part of the curriculum; 4) Students are exposed to a variety of educational theories; 5) The program includes a research component as a basis for further professional development.

The program in K-12 education prepares students to teach children in a variety of urban and suburban educational settings, including public and private elementary and high schools. Students follow a general pattern of study for middle school and high school levels. In all cases, appropriate field experience plays an integral role. The program combines theoretical principles of education and field work with the student's choice of major. Graduates earn the Bachelor of Science degree and are qualified for K-12 school licensure.

Students should meet early and regularly with their advisor to design and monitor their program of study.

Please make sure you consult the Liberal Studies Requirements, Major Requirements, Concentration Requirements, and College Core Requirements for full degree requirements.

Licensure

Illinois Professional Educator License with endorsement in Physical Education (kindergarten-grade 12), an Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) approved program.

- Use the knowledge related to first aid and CPR to respond appropriately to emergency situations in a school environment.
- Implement appropriate assessment and instruction that supports students with disabilities in mainstream/inclusive settings.
- Learn about and use technology as appropriate for the discipline.
- Understand and use technology to enhance his/her teaching.
- Know a broad range of literacy techniques and strategies for every aspect of communication develop each student's ability to read, write, speak and listen to his or her potential within the demands of the discipline.
- Model effective reading, writing, speaking, and listening skills during both direct and indirect instructional activities.
- Provide a variety of instructional strategies, constructive feedback, criticism, and improvement strategies to help students improve oral and written language skills.
- Demonstrate behaviors that are consistent with the belief that all students can become physically educated individuals.
- Participate in activities that enhance collaboration and lead to professional growth and development.
- Demonstrate behaviors that are consistent with the professional ethics of highly qualified teachers.
- Communicate in ways that convey respect and sensitivity.
College Core Requirements

Dispositions

The academic programs within the College of Education have set forth these dispositions as educational and professional expectations for all students. Students should be aware that failing to abide by DePaul University or College of Education policies including, under certain circumstances, these dispositions, could result in adverse consequences for the student, including removal from his or her program, the College of Education, or the University.

The following dispositions apply to Early Childhood Education, Elementary Education, Physical Education, Secondary Education, and World Language Education majors only:

- Reflects on progress and identifies strengths and weaknesses, including evaluating strategies for success, finding alternatives for inappropriate strategies, and modifying future practices
- Is receptive to faculty feedback and acts meaningfully and professionally upon suggestions
- Values critical thinking, including engaging theoretical and philosophical frameworks and shows evidence of critical thinking through discussion and writing (e.g., journals, response to prompts)
- Understands the importance of and is committed to communicating clearly orally and in writing both in traditional and in new and emerging digital formats
- Values and is committed to continually developing strong content area knowledge and/or knowledge of the professional field, including pedagogical content knowledge
- Takes initiative, uses imagination and creativity, and seeks out information using a variety of human and material resources and technology to inform his or her teaching
- Is aware of the role of classroom environment and uses management procedures that reflect respect and care for learners and concern for their emotional and physical well being
- Takes the time and effort needed to understand how students learn, including discovering their interests and experiences and determining how to shape teaching acts (using technology as appropriate) that engage learners meaningfully and actively
- Values and is committed to using assessment to evaluate and ensure the continuous intellectual, social, emotional, and physical development of the learner
- Respects and considers cultural contexts in order to determine how to be responsive to learners and to proactively promote all students' learning
- Values and is responsive to diverse learners' academic, emotional, and social needs through teaching acts (including careful instructional planning, implementation, and differentiation) and through everyday interactions with students
- Is committed to collaboration with colleagues, families, and communities in order to promote all students' learning and development
- Recognizes and fulfills professional responsibilities and habits of conduct (e.g., dress, language, preparedness, attendance, punctuality, etc.)
- Demonstrates collegiality, honesty, good judgment, courtesy, respect, and diplomacy
- Balances self-confidence and assertiveness with respect for others' perspectives
- Respects the requirements, expectations, and procedures of both the College of Education and of our field partners and appreciates the issues of trust, fairness, and professionalism involved

The following dispositions apply to Special Education majors only:

- Is receptive to faculty feedback and acts meaningfully and professionally upon suggestions
- Reflects on his or her own progress, identifies strengths and weaknesses, and evaluates strategies for success and professional growth
- Takes initiative
- Is open to new ideas and engagement in learning
- Respects diversity and cultural contexts to determine how to be responsive to learners and to proactively promote all students' learning
- Expresses positive attitudes toward individuals with disabilities and a willingness to advocate on their behalf
- Is committed to collaboration with colleagues, families, and communities in order to promote all students' learning and development
- Demonstrates professional ethical and legal behavior as defined by the respective codes of ethics and laws
- Demonstrates consistent professional behavior across all academic settings
- Maintains appropriate interpersonal and professional boundaries
- Accepts personal responsibility for one's behavior
- Expresses feelings and opinions effectively and appropriately
- Upholds confidentiality

Skill Building Courses

Before taking any math or English courses, students must take the DePaul placement tests to determine if skill level is at the college level. If placement indicates skill level in these courses, the courses become part of degree requirements. Consult with your advisor regarding placement test results and any required classes.

Advanced Standing

Students are conditionally admitted to the College of Education. There are additional requirements to reach Advanced Standing in your program in the College of Education. Requirements must be met to progress in the major and take courses in the Advanced Standing category.

Advanced Standing requirements are:

- Maintain a DePaul undergraduate 2.5 GPA
- Pass the Illinois Test of Academic Proficiency (TAP)
- Submit a petition for advanced standing form

Students should attempt to complete the Advanced Standing requirements soon after beginning the program. There is no time limit to meet these criteria; however, students will only be able to take pre-education courses until requirements have been met. Students can also take liberal studies or content area courses before or after meeting Advanced Standing requirements.

Modern Language Competence Requirement

Students pursuing a Bachelor of Arts degree in the College of Education will be required to demonstrate a measure of competence in a modern language, as defined by the college. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing two years of a language sequence in high school
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

Please note: The Modern Language Competence Requirement is not required for students in the Early Childhood Education: SNL Joint Program (BAECE) program.

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Education will abide by the COE Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.

B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program. While B.S. students are not required to demonstrate competency in a modern language, the "Modern Language Option" is available to them for language study at any level.

Licensure Tests

All individuals licensed by the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) are required to complete licensure tests specific to their teaching license.

Field Experiences

Each student seeking licensure from the College of Education/Professional Education Unit must complete supervised field experiences in appropriate settings in conjunction with education courses. The field experiences must include a variety of grade levels, multicultural experiences, and a minimum of 10 hours in special education settings. All field experiences must be completed prior to final approval for student teaching. Field experience hours should be entered by the student into the FEDS system when completing courses with field experience requirements.

Endorsements

An endorsement is a subject area that you can qualify to teach full time, in addition to your main licensure area. Endorsements are issued at three levels: primary, middle school, and high school.
The Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) issues endorsements in various subject areas. To view the full list and requirements, visit the ISBE website.

Qualifying for an endorsement at the middle school level requires 18 semester hours (27 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area and complete SCU 339. Some areas (like math) have specifically required courses or require additional hours. Courses must have a grade of C or better to qualify for endorsements and must be earned credit listed on a college transcript as earned credit.

Consult with your advisor regarding endorsements. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following middle school areas: Arabic, art, bilingual education, biological science, Chinese, ESL, French, general science, German, Italian, Japanese, language arts, math, physical science, social science, Spanish, and special education.

In general, endorsement requirements for the primary level are identical to the middle school requirements except that they do not require SCU 339. There are a limited number of areas available at the primary level.

Qualifying for most endorsements at the high school level requires 24 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area* and passing the relevant content area test. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following high school areas: art, Arabic, Chinese, English, French, German, Italian, Japanese, math, Russian, science, social science, Spanish, and special education.

* Exceptions to the basic requirements for high school level endorsements include the subject areas of foreign language, science, and social science.

 For science and social science, 32 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in the broad area of either science or social science, and 12 semester hours in the specific endorsement designation area, plus the content area test are required. To qualify for additional science and social science designations, individuals applying after February 1, 2012 need both the content test and 12 semester hours in the additional designation area.

Special Education majors do not qualify for middle school endorsements.

 Student Teaching Requirements

Student Teaching is the culminating clinical experience in the student's program. All students in teacher preparation programs must meet the following requirements before applying for student teaching:

 Academic Requirements:

* Completion of all Liberal Studies, Pre-Education, Advanced Standing and concentration/content area courses
* Overall cumulative G.P.A. of 2.50 or better
* Cumulative GPA. of 2.75 or better in all education courses
* Meet all other program requirements (e.g., modern language and residency requirements)
* Meet designated program standards
* Pass the required Illinois licensure content area test

 Clinical Requirements:

* Completion of all required field experiences
* Three satisfactory evaluations in field experiences
* Three satisfactory faculty recommendations
* Attendance at mandatory meeting for student teaching
* Application for student teaching, resume, transcripts, and writing sample (check deadlines)
* Review and approval by Student Teaching Committee of the College of Education

 Student Teaching Timeline and Deadlines:

* Attend a Mandatory Meeting approximately 1 year prior to expected quarter of student teaching.
* Submit application for student teaching after attending Mandatory Meeting, approximately 1 year prior to student teaching.
* Academic requirements are due one quarter before expected quarter of student teaching.
* Clinical requirements are completed as course requirements. Field experience hours are entered by the student as coursework is completed.

Online Faculty Evaluations are entered by the instructor of relevant courses. All data must be entered in the Field Experience Documentation System (FEDS) due one month prior to student teaching.

Individual child care agencies and public and private school districts may have additional requirements (application, training, background check, etc.).
Degree Conferral and Graduation

The awarding of a degree is not automatic. You must submit an application to be considered for the degree. DePaul awards and posts degrees at the end of each regular academic term (autumn, winter, spring, summer I and summer II).

It is your responsibility to initiate the degree conferral application process by submitting an online application. Submitting an application means you intend to finish your degree requirements by the end of the term for which you have applied.

Undergraduate students must be approved for student teaching and complete student teaching and capstone to be cleared for the degree. Student must submit graduation application for the quarter that matches the quarter you are student teaching.

After you submit the application, you cannot register for any term after the one selected in the application.

Application deadlines are as follows:
Fall Quarter - October 1st
Winter Quarter - January 15th
Spring Quarter - February 1st
Summer Quarter - July 15th

To apply for degree conferral, log on to Campus Connection. Select STUDENT CENTER, then MY ACADEMICS. On screen instructions will take you through the application process.

Provided that all requirements and financial obligations are met, degrees are posted 30 days after the official end of the term. Official dates are listed on the Academic Calendar.

DePaul holds one commencement ceremony each year in June. If you intend to participate, you must first apply for degree conferral for the current academic year and then submit a cap and gown order. Honors are not announced at the ceremony for undergraduates completing their final courses in spring quarter because a final GPA is not available at the time of the ceremony.

Additional information about degree conferral and graduation can be found on the College of Education website at: http://education.depaul.edu/.

Licensure

Requirements for licensure include completion of full bachelor's degree program, all licensure tests (including OPI for world language majors), and awarding of bachelor's degree. A bachelor's degree is required to qualify for licensure and must be awarded before applying for the license.

Individuals must submit an application directly to the Illinois State Board of Education after completion of requirements and after DePaul has submitted notification to ISBE. Application requirements include application form, application fee, official transcripts, and registration fee.

All individuals must meet ISBE requirements in place at the time of application for the license. Requirements are subject to change per the discretion of ISBE. All coursework and requirements pertaining to licensure requirements must be completed before DePaul University can recommend an individual for the license.

Individuals seeking additional endorsements after applying for the licensure must contact ISBE directly for an evaluation request. All coursework and requirements must be completed before DePaul University can recommend an individual for the license.
Liberal Studies Requirements

Honors program requirements can be found in the individual Colleges & Schools section of the University Catalog. Select Academics, followed by Undergraduate, then Honors Program Alternative.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab or SWK requirement.

Major Requirements

Course Requirements

Biology Foundations: 8 quarter hours required

- BIO 201 HUMAN ANATOMY
- BIO 202 HUMAN PHYSIOLOGY

Pre-Education Core: 8 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

- SCU 207 SOCIAL AND HISTORICAL ISSUES IN EDUCATION
- SCU 336 ADOLESCENT AND ADULT GROWTH AND DEVELOPMENT
  or SCU 337 HUMAN GROWTH AND DEVELOPMENT

Pre-Education Activity Core: 6 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

- PE 121 SWIMMING (2 quarter hours)
- PE 151 GYMNASTICS (2 quarter hours)
- PE 213 FOLK-SOCIAL DANCE (2 quarter hours)
Pre-Education Activity Electives: 8 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

Choose four of the following:

- PE 181 FLAG FOOTBALL (2 quarter hours)
- PE 182 VOLLEYBALL (2 quarter hours)
- PE 183 SOCCER (2 quarter hours)
- PE 185 SOFTBALL (2 quarter hours)
- PE 186 TRACK AND FIELD (2 quarter hours)
- PE 187 BASKETBALL (2 quarter hours)
- PE 276 TENNIS (2 quarter hours)
- PE 277 GOLF (2 quarter hours)

Physical Education Core: 18 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

- PE 311 MOTOR DEVELOPMENT THROUGHOUT THE LIFE SPAN
- PE 206 PERSONAL AND COMMUNITY HEALTH
- PE 302 FIRST AID: RESPONDING TO EMERGENCIES (2 quarter hours)
- PE 303 ATHLETIC INJURIES
- PE 341 HISTORICAL AND PHILOSOPHICAL FOUNDATIONS OF PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Advanced Standing Education Courses: 36 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

- PE 317 PHYSICAL EDUCATION AND CLASSROOM MANAGEMENT IN THE ELEMENTARY SCHOOL
- PE 325 LANGUAGE AND LITERACY IN THE PHYSICAL EDUCATION SETTING
- PE 372 METHODS AND MATERIALS FOR PHYSICAL EDUC CURRICULUM/INSTRUCTION-SECONDARY SCHL
- PE 346 ORGANIZATION/ADMINISTRATION OF PHYSICAL EDUCATION, SPORTS & FITNESS PROGRAMS
- PE 351 KINESIOLOGY
- PE 352 PHYSIOLOGY OF EXERCISE
- PE 360 EDUCATIONAL PSYCHOLOGY AND MEASUREMENT OF LEARNING
- PE 374 ADAPTED PHYSICAL EDUCATION
- PE 390 PSYCHO-SOCIAL ASPECTS OF EXERCISE AND SPORT

Open Electives: 18 quarter hours are required

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours. The following cannot be used to fulfill an open elective: WRD 98, MAT 94, and MAT 95.

Student Teaching: 12 quarter hours required, grade of B- or better required

Registration in student teaching requires completion of all requirements and procedures above. EDU 95 indicates to the Illinois State Board of Education that all field experience hours are complete. All students also take PE 387 during the spring of the senior year (listed in the Liberal Studies section).

- PE 378 PHYSICAL EDUCATION STUDENT TEACHING IN ELEMENTARY EDUCATION (6 quarter hours)
- PE 379 PHYSICAL EDUCATION STUDENT TEACHING IN SECONDARY EDUCATION (6 quarter hours)
- EDU 95 CLINICAL EXPERIENCE WITH CHILDREN AND YOUTH (non-credit, non-tuition, PA grade required

Licensure Tests

All individuals licensed by the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) are required to complete licensure tests specific to their teaching license. Physical Education majors must complete the following tests:

- Test of Academic Proficiency (TAP) (test #400) - assesses knowledge of reading comprehension, language arts, writing, and math. Test is required to qualify for Advanced Standing. *Check with your advisor about qualifying for a waiver with acceptable ACT or SAT test scores.
- Physical Education Content Area Test (test #144) - assesses knowledge of health-related physical fitness, movement and skill acquisition, the role of physical education in promoting development, and the physical education program in schools. Test is required before Student Teaching (deadlines apply).
- Assessment of Professional Teaching (APT) – assesses knowledge of teaching planning, delivery, assessment, professionalism, and technology. Test is required to be licensed; recommended to be taken before Student Teaching.
• EdTPA - assessment conducted during the student teaching experience including video clips of instruction, lesson plans, student work samples, analysis of student learning and reflective commentaries. Students will submit an electronic portfolio to an outside agency for independent evaluation and a fee will be imposed by that agency as part of the assessment.

Field Experiences

Each student seeking licensure from the College of Education / Professional Education Unit must complete supervised field experiences in appropriate settings in conjunction with education courses. The field experiences must include a variety of grade levels, multicultural experiences, and a minimum of 10 hours in special education settings. All field experiences must be completed prior to final approval for student teaching. Field experience hours should be entered by the student into the FEDS system when completing courses with field experience requirements. For details on requirements, expectations, documentation, & courses in your program that require hours, visit the College of Education website.

Physical Education (Minor)

The Physical Education minor is designed for students interested in adding teaching skills in physical education to their major course of study.

Course Requirements

Theory

• PE 302 FIRST AID: RESPONDING TO EMERGENCIES
• PE 317 PHYSICAL EDUCATION AND CLASSROOM MANAGEMENT IN THE ELEMENTARY SCHOOL
• PE 341 HISTORICAL AND PHILOSOPHICAL FOUNDATIONS OF PHYSICAL EDUCATION
• PE 346 ORGANIZATION/ADMINISTRATION OF PHYSICAL EDUCATION, SPORTS & FITNESS PROGRAMS

Activity

• PE 311 MOTOR DEVELOPMENT THROUGHOUT THE LIFE SPAN
• PE 121 SWIMMING
• PE 151 GYMNASTICS
• Two courses from the following list:
  • PE 181 FLAG FOOTBALL
  • PE 182 VOLLEYBALL
  • PE 183 SOCCER
  • PE 185 SOFTBALL
  • PE 186 TRACK AND FIELD
  • PE 187 BASKETBALL

Note: Students in DePaul's College of Education program in Physical Education cannot select the PE minor.
Physics (BS)

The Department of Physics offers courses and concentrations designed to teach students about the fundamental processes that govern our universe. Students interested in majoring in physics can choose from several concentrations.

The Standard Physics concentration provides a curriculum that highlights the core areas of theoretical and experimental physics. The Computational Physics concentration provides a curriculum that emphasizes the use of computer simulations as a tool to visualize and understand natural phenomena.

In both concentrations student participation in faculty research is an important component of the program that prepares students for independent work in graduate school or industry. Each concentration also prepares students for graduate study, either in physics or in applied sciences such as optics, photonics, scientific computing, engineering, or computer science.

For students interested in engineering, the Physics Department offers a concentration in Engineering Physics. In this concentration, students take courses in physics at DePaul and engineering courses at another university, leading to degrees in both Physics and Engineering. Through a joint program with the Illinois Institute of Technology, students can complete a five-year dual-degree program while remaining full-time DePaul students.

Additionally, students who are interested in engineering but who are not interested in the dual degree program will have the scientific basis to complete an engineering program at another institution after the first two years of the physics major curriculum at DePaul.

For students who wish to apply a physics degree to a career outside of physics, the Department of Physics offers a concentration called Interdisciplinary Physics. This concentration combines a major in physics with a minor in a second field of the student's choosing.

Student participation in faculty research is an important component of the Physics program at all levels. Participation in research can be pursued either through independent study during the academic year or full-time during the summer quarter. Such experience is excellent preparation for independent work in graduate school or industry.

Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Develop simple mathematical models to describe collected data or observations.
  - Frame arguments to support or discredit the hypothesized model, given a pairing of data set and hypothetical model.
- Apply general principles, such as conservation of energy and momentum, to complex systems that require the use of more than one branch of physics.
- Give oral presentations of problem solutions or research projects that combine formal mathematical material with computer generated graphics and verbal explanations in a manner that makes the topic accessible to their peers.
- Write lab reports that effectively integrate text, data analysis, and graphics into a document that adequately explains the procedures and supports the stated conclusions.
- Chart out and successfully execute the solution to complex problems that require a multi-step process to solve.
- Choose and utilize appropriate formal mathematical techniques in solving problems in physics.
  - Guess appropriate trial solutions when solving initial value problems
  - Effectively use the separation of variables technique when solving boundary value problems.
• Use software packages such as Matlab or Mathematica to solve and visualize more advanced problems in physics. Specifically, they should be able to use two and three-dimensional graphics routines, produce simple animations, and use basic numerical algorithms to solve ordinary differential equations or estimate definite integrals.
• Execute basic laboratory techniques and estimate the precision of the resulting measurements using the appropriate data analysis techniques.
  ■ Measure voltages and currents in a circuit by choosing the appropriate measurement instrument, connections to the circuit, and instrument settings.
  ■ Fit measured data to an appropriate theoretical model, and quantitatively characterize the errors in the data points and goodness of fit to the model.
• Differentiate between science and pseudo-science and frame supporting arguments for their conclusions about a particular example.
  ■ The supporting arguments should include text, analysis, and graphics as appropriate.
• Produce written or oral critiques of articles, films, or political debates related to issues where science impacts society.
  ■ Identify the viewpoint of the writer or speaker and discuss to what extent this viewpoint may limit the range of information presented by the writer or speaker.
• Defend a particular viewpoint or provide an accessible summary of existing viewpoints for the general public of scientific issues that have environmental, social, or ethical implications.
• Master key laboratory techniques utilized in their projects.
• Master key mathematical and numerical techniques utilized in their projects.
• Work independently on a research problem.
• Develop experimental techniques and numerical algorithms for their projects with limited guidance.
  ■ Troubleshoot these algorithms when problems arise.
• Produce a written thesis that effectively integrates formal mathematical analysis, graphics, and text into a document that is accessible to their peers.
  ■ The document should introduce the topic, set the context, and explain the significance of the work as well as describe the particulars of the project.
• Give an oral presentation that explains and summarizes the major aspects of their research project to an audience of peers. The presentation should make effective use of computer graphics, text, and verbal explanations and be well organized.

College Core Requirements

Modern Language Requirements

Students who intend to graduate with the Bachelor of Arts (B.A.) Degree will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

• completing the last course in the fourth-year high school sequence of any language
• completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
• completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
• achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
• achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
• achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language
• achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
• achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Science and Health will abide by the College of Science and Health Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.

B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the “Modern Language Option” of the Liberal Studies Program. While Bachelor of Science (B.S.) students are not required to demonstrate competency in a modern language, the "Modern Language Option" is available to them for language study at any level.

Major Declaration Requirements

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. After researching College programs, the student should declare a major field by visiting Campus Connection and using the Declarations and Inter-College Transfer tool. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor or staff advisor in the department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

To change major fields, or to declare a minor or concentration, the student must use the Declarations and Inter-College Transfer tool described above. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the College or an academic advisor in the Office for Academic Advising Support.

Notes

Students with a primary major in Physics are required to complete the Capstone offered by the Physics department. Students double majoring or pursuing dual degrees with the primary major or primary degree in Physics are required to complete the Capstone offered by the Physics department. Physics students in the University Honors Program shall take the University Honors Capstone. They are not expected to take both the Honors Capstone and the primary major or primary degree Capstone.

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Sequencing of Coursework

Students interested in majoring in physics, applied computational physics, or pre-engineering should enroll in PHY 170 UNIVERSITY PHYSICS I and MAT 160 CALCULUS FOR MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE MAJORS I in the Autumn quarter of their first year, provided they are adequately prepared in mathematics.

The sequences of PHY 170, PHY 171, and PHY 172 and MAT 160, MAT 161, and MAT 162 are prerequisites to PHY 270, PHY 300 and PHY 301, and PHY 370, which should be taken in the sophomore year together with MAT 260 and MAT 261.

It is recommended that students interested in the standard concentration or pre-engineering also take the chemistry sequence (CHE 130 GENERAL CHEMISTRY I and CHE 131 GENERAL CHEMISTRY I LABORATORY, CHE 132 GENERAL CHEMISTRY II and CHE 133 GENERAL CHEMISTRY LABORATORY II, CHE 134 GENERAL CHEMISTRY III and CHE 135 GENERAL CHEMISTRY LABORATORY III) their first year. Because of the predominance of physics, mathematics, and chemistry sequences in the freshman and sophomore years, it is crucial that Physics and Pre-Engineering majors be advised by faculty in the Physics Department as they enter DePaul.

Concentration Requirements

Students must also complete the requirements from one of the following concentrations: Standard, Computational, Engineering, or Interdisciplinary Physics. Students are limited to only declaring one concentration.
Concentration Requirements

Concentrations, tracks and specializations provide focus to the major. In addition to any college core requirements, liberal studies requirements and major requirements, students are required to choose one of the following:
- Standard
- Computational Physics
- Engineering Physics
- Interdisciplinary Physics

Standard Concentration

Course Requirements

- Four courses chosen from the following list:
  - PHY 310 MECHANICS I
  - PHY 311 MECHANICS II
  - PHY 320 ELECTRICITY AND MAGNETISM I
  - PHY 321 ELECTRICITY AND MAGNETISM II
  - PHY 360 QUANTUM MECHANICS I
  - PHY 361 QUANTUM MECHANICS II
  - PHY 370 ELECTRONICS
  - PHY 380 EXPERIMENTAL PHYSICS I
  - PHY 390 APPLIED COMPUTATIONAL PHYSICS LABORATORY
- Four additional Physics courses, at least two at the 300 level, as approved by a departmental advisor
- MAT 261 MULTIVARIABLE CALCULUS II
- A one year-long sequence of courses in the sciences, mathematics, or computer science, chosen from the following sequences:
  - Biology Sequence
    - BIO 191 GENERAL BIOLOGY I FOR SCIENCE MAJORS
    - BIO 192 GENERAL BIOLOGY II FOR SCIENCE MAJORS
    - BIO 193 GENERAL BIOLOGY III FOR SCIENCE MAJORS
  - Chemistry Sequence
    - CHE 130 GENERAL CHEMISTRY I /CHE 131 GENERAL CHEMISTRY I LABORATORY
    - CHE 132 GENERAL CHEMISTRY II /CHE 133 GENERAL CHEMISTRY LABORATORY II
    - CHE 134 GENERAL CHEMISTRY III /CHE 135 GENERAL CHEMISTRY LABORATORY III
  - Environmental Science Sequence
    - BIO 215 ECOLOGY
    - ENV 216 EARTH SYSTEM SCIENCE
    - ENV 217 HUMAN IMPACTS ON THE ENVIRONMENT
  - Mathematics Sequence
    - Three 300-level sequenced courses as approved by departmental advisor
  - Computer Science Sequence
    - Three 300-level CDM courses as approved by departmental advisor

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.
Computational Physics Concentration

Course Requirements

- PHY 310 MECHANICS I
- PHY 320 ELECTRICITY AND MAGNETISM I
- PHY 360 QUANTUM MECHANICS I
- PHY 342 COMPUTATIONAL PHYSICS
- PHY 390 APPLIED COMPUTATIONAL PHYSICS LABORATORY
- Three additional physics courses, at least one at the 300 level, as approved by a departmental advisor
- MAT 261 MULTIVARIABLE CALCULUS II
- One of the following two course sequences:
  - Programming in C/C++ I–II Sequence
    - CSC 261 PROGRAMMING IN C++ I
    - CSC 262 PROGRAMMING IN C++ II
  - Programming in Java I–II Sequence
    - CSC 211 PROGRAMMING IN JAVA I
    - CSC 212 PROGRAMMING IN JAVA II
- Three 300-level CDM courses as approved by departmental advisor

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Engineering Physics Concentration

DePaul University offers a joint program with the Illinois Institute of Technology (IIT) in physics and engineering. This program allows students to enroll in courses at IIT while remaining full-time DePaul students. Students will receive a degree in Physics from DePaul University and a degree in Mechanical, Aerospace, Electrical, or Computer Engineering from IIT upon completion of the five-year program.

Students can also choose a four-year joint program with another institution that leads to a degree only from DePaul or can choose to complete their engineering requirements at another university. Students interested in Engineering Physics or the joint program should promptly consult with a Physics Department advisor for information about scheduling, requirements, and admission to the joint program.

Course Requirements

- PHY 370 ELECTRONICS
  or PHY 340 THERMAL PHYSICS
- One of the following two course sequences (Electrical Engineering Students should take PHY 320 and PHY 321):
  - Electromagnetism Sequence
    - PHY 320 ELECTRICITY AND MAGNETISM I
    - PHY 321 ELECTRICITY AND MAGNETISM II
  - Quantum Mechanics Sequence
    - PHY 360 QUANTUM MECHANICS I
    - PHY 361 QUANTUM MECHANICS II
- Two additional physics courses at the 300 or 400 level as approved by advisor

Mathematics

- MAT 261 MULTIVARIABLE CALCULUS II

Computer Science
- CSC 261 PROGRAMMING IN C++

Chemistry

- CHE 130 GENERAL CHEMISTRY I /CHE 131 GENERAL CHEMISTRY I LABORATORY
- CHE 132 GENERAL CHEMISTRY II /CHE 133 GENERAL CHEMISTRY LABORATORY II

Engineering

- Approved twenty quarter hours at 300/400 level from an accredited Mechanical, Aerospace, Aeronautical, Computer, or Electrical Engineering program.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Interdisciplinary Physics Concentration

Intended for students that wish to apply their scientific training in a career outside of physics, this concentration allows students to combine a core physics curriculum with a minor from another field. Possible minors include Journalism or Technical Writing for students interested in a career in science writing, Economics for students interested in business, or Biological Sciences for students interested in biophysics.

Course Requirements

Physics

- Six physics courses, at least three at the 300 level, as approved by a departmental advisor.
- Six courses which constitute a minor in a different discipline, as approved by a departmental advisor.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

Physics (BS)/Secondary Education Physics (MEd)

This combined degree program of the College of Science and Health and the College of Education was collaboratively developed, and is governed and taught by faculty from these units.

Students may apply to the Program during the spring of their junior year. They must enroll in the Junior Year Experiential Learning course, TCH 320 and meet other application criteria; these include completion of at least 16 quarter credit hours at DePaul and a 3.0 GPA. During their senior year, students are required to complete a Program capstone course, TCH 390, and three 400-level courses that count toward both their undergraduate and graduate degrees:

- TCH 401 TEACHING AS A PROFESSION IN SECONDARY SCHOOL
Physics Content Area (grades of C or better required for licensure):
The following physics content area requirements are required. These can be taken as part of the major, liberal studies or open elective requirements:

- PHY 170 UNIVERSITY PHYSICS I
- PHY 171 UNIVERSITY PHYSICS II
- PHY 172 UNIVERSITY PHYSICS III
- PHY 270 UNIVERSITY PHYSICS IV
- PHY 300 METHODS OF COMPUTATIONAL AND THEORETICAL PHYSICS I
- PHY 301 METHODS OF COMPUTATIONAL AND THEORETICAL PHYSICS II
- PHY 310 MECHANICS I
- Physics Elective (chosen in consultation with Physics faculty content advisor)
- MAT 160 CALCULUS FOR MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE MAJORS I
- MAT 161 CALCULUS FOR MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE MAJORS II
- MAT 162 CALCULUS FOR MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE MAJORS III
- MAT 260 MULTIVARIABLE CALCULUS I
- MAT 261 MULTIVARIABLE CALCULUS II
- CHE 130 CHEMISTRY I / CHE 131 CHEMISTRY LABORATORY I
- CHE 132 CHEMISTRY II / CHE 133 CHEMISTRY LABORATORY II
- CHE 134 CHEMISTRY III / CHE 135 CHEMISTRY LABORATORY III

The Master's year comprises teacher-preparation coursework that culminates with student teaching during Spring quarter. Upon graduation and the fulfilling of State of Illinois Certification Licensure requirements (which may require some additional course work in the student's major and related fields), students are eligible to be licensed to teach Physics at the 6th-12th grade levels.

A full description of the Program can be found on the College of Education website in the graduate course catalog. Students interested in the Program should consult with the designated TEACH Program advisor in their home department.

Physics (Minor)

The Physics minor curriculum focuses on scientific investigation, laboratory experience and research opportunities to give you hands-on experience in the field of physics.

Course Requirements

- Complete one of the following two course sequences:
  - Sequence One
    - PHY 150 GENERAL PHYSICS I
    - PHY 151 GENERAL PHYSICS II
    - PHY 152 GENERAL PHYSICS III
  - Sequence Two
    - PHY 170 UNIVERSITY PHYSICS I
    - PHY 171 UNIVERSITY PHYSICS II
    - PHY 172 UNIVERSITY PHYSICS III
- Three additional physics courses

Students cannot earn a minor in the same academic program as their major.
Playwriting (BFA)

The Theatre School's Bachelor of Fine Arts (BFA) degree in Playwriting focuses on helping students explore and identify their voice and unique process of working as a writer in a variety of circumstances. The four-year curriculum provides students with the primary tools of dramatic writing and the space and opportunity to use them through a variety of classroom and workshop production experiences.

Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Demonstrate and apply:
  - General knowledge of theatre history, dramatic literature covering a broad range of historical periods, cultures, and styles, and major theatre artists on both a national and international level.
  - The principles and vocabulary of performance, directing, design, and a thorough grounding in the theory of their particular area of specialization.
- Write with competency in a variety of writing styles from casual to formal.
- Fully engage with knowledge through the ability to access, analyze, and evaluate information and ideas from multiple sources in order to identify underlying arguments and assumptions and to formulate conclusions.
- Utilize existing knowledge to generate and synthesize ideas in original, creative, and imaginative ways.
- Articulate the process of transforming the written text into the theatrical event.
- Design, develop, and execute a noteworthy intellectual and/or creative project.
- Develop a profound understanding of the role of the artist in society.
- Develop an understanding of the cultural and sociopolitical context of theatre from the perspective of both historical and contemporary practice.
- Develop strong self-discipline, self-motivation, and an ability to work independently.
- Work collaboratively and effectively within a group process and with creative artists from all theatrical disciplines.
- Understand the interrelationship of what it means to be human and what it means to be a theatre artist.
- Evaluate ethical issues with respect to theatrical analysis, concept, and practice.
- Contribute artistically to communities through socially responsible engagement and leadership.
- Develop an understanding of and a respect for a multiplicity of cultural and artistic perspectives that may be different from their own.
- Understand the availability and/or scarcity of global resources for a sustainable future.
- Set goals for future work that are the result of rigorous self-appraisal and reflection.
- Articulate their skills and knowledge as they represent themselves to external audiences.
- Work both independently and collaboratively.
- Use technology to create, communicate, and synthesize their ideas.

Notes

Courses offered in the student’s primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student’s major and is cross-listed with a course within the student’s major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab or SWK requirement.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Political Science (BA)

Political Science is the study of the organization and behavior of people, groups, and institutions which make up our government and the larger political system. The program is designed to introduce students to questions, perspectives, and arguments about the political forces that shape their lives. As such, the program has value for Liberal Studies students as well as for those who may choose the discipline as a major field of study. Students find the substance and the methods of the discipline useful in the legal, business, civic, communications, governmental, and academic professions, as well as any endeavors that draw them into public service.

Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Define and discuss core concepts within the field of political science, including but not limited to: power, democracy, representation, authoritarianism, freedom and equality.
  - Describe the key features of the American political system.
  - Compare American institutions to other forms of government found in different countries and regions of the world.
- Analyze a given political issue from a multiplicity of perspectives.
  - Identify, analyze, evaluate, and draw upon a variety of theoretical perspectives to explain particular political phenomenon.
  - Collect, organize, and apply various forms of information to assess statements or hypotheses about political questions.
- Compose clear and well organized explanations of political phenomenon and support these explanations with evidence.
- Explain and evaluate a sophisticated conception of justice, Identify and describe situations in which justice concerns arise, and take an informed position about the meaning or demands of justice.
- Recognize and describe the importance of values to political attitudes and behavior, and be able to identify and explain their own.
  - Communicate reflections about one's own normative assumptions about politics, society, and other peoples.
- Identify and explain:
  - The key elements of the inter-state system.
  - The nature of globalization.
  - The dynamics of a particular country or region of the world.

College Core Requirements

Study in the Major Field

The student's course of study in the College consists of three parts: Liberal Studies, the major field, and electives. Together these three parts contribute to the liberal education of the student which is the common purpose of all study in the College. By "liberal education" the College understands not only a deep and thorough knowledge of a particular area of study but a knowledge of the diverse areas of study represented by criticism, history, the arts, the behavioral and social sciences, philosophy, religious studies, the natural science, and mathematics.

The major field program generally is built upon a set of core courses and a specialized “concentration.” The number of courses required for a major varies by department. Most students go beyond the minimum requirements, electing additional courses which both broaden and deepen their understanding of their chosen discipline.

Because no academic major program is built in isolation, students are required to pursue a number of electives of the student's choice. The inherent flexibility of this curriculum demands that the student consult an academic advisor at each stage in the total program and at least once prior to each registration. Students will be prompted to visit the College Office for their official graduation check early in their senior year.

Declaration of Major, Minor and Concentration

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor in the major field department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

Students must declare or change majors, minors, and concentrations, via Campus Connection. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the Office for Academic Advising Support.
The Modern Language Requirement (MLR)

All students will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language (i.e., a language other than English) equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. This Modern Language Requirement (MLR) may be demonstrated by:

- placing into 104 or above on the DePaul language placement exam
- completing the last course or earning AP/IB credit for the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language (e.g. 103 for DePaul language classes)
- completing a college course or earning AP/IB credit for a college course beyond the first-year level in any language (e.g. 104 or above for DePaul language classes)
- completing the final course of a four-year sequence of the same modern language in high school*
- completing a proctored exam by BYU and passing the exam (see the Department of Modern Languages website for registration details)
- completing a proctored Written Proficiency Test (WPT) by Language Testing International (LTI) and achieving a score of Beginner High or above (see the Department of Modern Languages website for registration details)

* Students are strongly encouraged to take the DePaul language placement exam even if they have met the MLR via study of a language in high school. This will ensure continuation of language study at the proper level.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College will abide by this MLR in place on the effective date of the ICT, regardless of when they first matriculated at DePaul.

Students who have met the MLR and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" (MLO) of the Liberal Studies Program (see “Special Programs”).

External Credit and Residency

A student who has been admitted to the College begins residency within the college as of the first day of classes of the term in which the student is registered. Students in residence, whether attending on a full-time or part-time basis, may not take courses away from DePaul University without the written permission of the college. Permission must be obtained in advance of registration to avoid loss of credit or residency in the college; see the LAS website for more information.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

The Political Science (B.A.) offers two options:

- Political Science (B.A.)/Journalism (M.A.)
- Political Science (B.A.)/Secondary Education Social Sciences (M.Ed.)

Political Science (BA)/ Journalism (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.25 grade point average (GPA) in their major courses and 3.0 cumulative GPA are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by May 1:

- B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application
- Official undergraduate transcript
- Statement of purpose (750 words) explaining why the student is seeking admission to the program
- A writing sample or project that demonstrates the applicant's journalism ability
- Two letters of recommendation from professors in the Political Science Department

Students are encouraged to complete PSC 315 and PSC 321 during their junior or senior year. Also in their senior year, students shall complete twelve graduate credit hours of journalism coursework which will fulfill undergraduate open electives. Students admitted to the program must earn a grade of B or better in each of these three graduate courses. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Students can defer their graduate admission for one year. If students do not matriculate after completing their B.A. degrees, or within the one year deferral period, the graduate courses taken as undergraduate students will no longer count towards the graduate degree and students must re-apply for admission to the graduate program in Journalism.

Political Science (BA)/ Secondary Education Social Science (MEd)

The TEACH Program combines a Liberal Arts and Social Sciences (LAS) undergraduate Social Science major (Anthropology, Economics, Geography, History, Political Science, or Sociology) or a Science and Health (Psychology) major with a graduate level College of Education (COE) Master's in Education Program. Students graduate with a B.A. or B.S. in their disciplinary major and a M.Ed. in Education with State of Illinois Secondary Social Science licensure.

Students may apply to the Program during the spring of their junior year. They must enroll in the Junior Year Experiential Learning course, TCH 320, and meet other application criteria; these include completion of at least 16 quarter credit hours at DePaul and a 3.0 GPA. During their senior year, students are required to complete a Program capstone course, TCH 390, and three 400-level courses that count toward both their undergraduate and graduate degrees:

- TCH 401 TEACHING AS A PROFESSION IN SECONDARY SCHOOL
- TCH 412 THE NATURE OF HISTORY AND THE SOCIAL SCIENCES
- TCH 422 INQUIRY & APPLICATION IN DEVELOPING SECONDARY HISTORY AND SOCIAL SCIENCES PEDAGOGY

Social Science Content Area (grades of C or better required for licensure):

The following Social Science content area requirements are required. These can be taken as part of the major, liberal studies or open elective requirements:

- HST 298 INTRODUCTION TO HISTORICAL SOURCES AND METHODS
- HST 299 CRAFT OF HISTORY
- 3 United States History courses
- 2 Non- United States History courses
- 6 from the political science major
- Additional licensure requirements: (one course in each area required)
  - Geography (GEO 101 recommended)
  - Economics (ECO 101 recommended)
  - Psychology (PSY 105 recommended)
A full description of the Program can be found on the College of Education website in the graduate course catalog. Students interested in the Program should consult with the designated TEACH Program advisor in their home department.

Professional Writing (Minor)

The Minor in Professional Writing, offered by the Department of Writing, Rhetoric, & Discourse (WRD), is available to any student in the university. The department understands the term professional writing to refer broadly to the kinds of literate activities taken up by well-educated individuals whose work is creative, intellectually challenging, and ethically grounded. Core courses in the program are designed to prepare students as effective writers for any context in which writing is a key competency. Because nearly all professional writing today takes place in digital environments, digital writing is central to the program core and an element of many electives.

The breadth of choices within the Professional Writing minor makes it an excellent complement to any major and a fine choice for students pursuing graduate school in any discipline, including law. The Professional Writing Minor allows a wide range of choices: you may take courses in which your own writing—in various genres and contexts—is the focus, or you may study theories of language, rhetoric (how to make effective choices as writers), and discourse (the way writing structures human activity) to develop an understanding of the role of the individual writer within communities of writers.

The program comprises two required core courses and sixteen hours of electives, which may be chosen from among all of the department’s undergraduate offerings numbered 203 and above.

Course Requirements

- WRD 201 DIGITAL WRITING
- WRD 206 PROFESSIONAL WRITING
- Sixteen additional credit hours from WRD courses numbered 203 or above

Students majoring in Writing, Rhetoric and Discourse (B.A.) are restricted from earning this minor.

Psychological Research Methods (Minor)

The Psychological Research Methods minor allows students to obtain basic training in statistics and research methods, which can be useful in careers or graduate programs that might have a research or data analysis component.

This minor is only for non-psychology majors and a maximum of one psychology minor may be earned by a student.

Students cannot earn a minor in the same academic program as their major.
Six psychology courses are required, including:

- PSY 105 INTRODUCTORY PSYCHOLOGY I
- PSY 106 INTRODUCTORY PSYCHOLOGY II
- PSY 240 STATISTICS I
- At least one from the approved list:
  - PSY 241 RESEARCH METHODS I
  - PSY 242 RESEARCH METHODS II
  - PSY 340 STATISTICS II
  - PSY 343 INTRODUCTION TO PSYCHOLOGICAL MEASUREMENT
- Any two additional psychology courses. It is recommended that they be from the above list, but it is not required.

Psychology (BA)

The goal of the Department of Psychology is to provide students with an understanding of the methods and content of scientific and applied psychology.

The primary means of attaining our mission is classroom instruction. We offer courses across a wide range of disciplines within psychology; some of our courses also include laboratories that focus on experimental and statistical work. Some of these courses are beginning to be offered as fully online and as hybrid courses (partially online and partially in the classroom). Further learning opportunities are made available through field work, the Honors Program, Experiential Learning, Independent Study, and Internships. Our Internship Program consists of supervised work placements for which students earn academic credit; potential sites include human service organizations as well as community and industrial settings.

Bachelor of Arts Psychology majors must select one of the six B.A. concentrations: Standard, Human Development, Human Services, Industrial/Organizational, Community, or Comprehensive Evening Program. Students are limited to only declaring one concentration.

There is an option to complete the BA in Psychology online, with no face-to-face classes on DePaul Campuses (see “Special Programs” for prerequisites). Students who qualify and wish to pursue the BA in Psychology online may complete either the Standard or Human Development concentrations.

After completing any of the concentrations, a psychology major should be able to understand key concepts, principles, and overarching themes in psychology, read and understand behavioral science data, design and conduct rudimentary psychological research studies, and apply research findings to everyday situations. These skills are applicable to a wide variety of occupations and professions. Psychology as a major provides excellent opportunities for students planning to go to graduate or professional school. Psychology as a minor provides a flexible complement to other majors.

Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Describe key concepts, principles, themes, and applications across a variety of content domains in psychology.
- Use scientific reasoning and critical thinking to interpret psychological phenomena.
- Design, conduct, and interpret basic psychological research, accounting for sociocultural factors (where relevant).
- Apply ethical standards to evaluate psychological science and practice.
- Write a paper applying a cogent scientific argument that includes:
  - Presenting information using a scientific approach
  - Discussing psychological concepts
  - Explaining the ideas of others
  - Expressing their own ideas with clarity.
- Work effectively in groups and exhibit teamwork skills.
- Identify meaningful professional career choices and post-graduation plans prior to graduation.

College Core Requirements

Modern Language Requirements

Students who intend to graduate with the Bachelor of Arts (B.A.) Degree will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in the fourth-year high school sequence of any language
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Science and Health will abide by the College of Science and Health Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.

B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program. While Bachelor of Science (B.S.) students are not required to demonstrate competency in a modern language, the "Modern Language Option" is available to them for language study at any level.

Major Declaration Requirements

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. After researching College programs, the student should declare a major field by visiting Campus Connection and using the Declarations and Inter-College Transfer tool. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor or staff advisor in the department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

To change major fields, or to declare a minor or concentration, the student must use the Declarations and Inter-College Transfer tool described above. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the College or an academic advisor in the Office for Academic Advising Support.

Liberal Studies Requirements

Honors program requirements can be found in the individual Colleges & Schools section of the University Catalog. Select Academics, followed by Undergraduate, then Honors Program Alternative.

Notes

Students with a primary major in Psychology are required to complete the Capstone offered by the Psychology department. Students double majoring or pursuing dual degrees with the primary major or primary degree in Psychology are required to complete the Capstone offered by the Psychology department. Psychology students in the University Honors Program shall take the University Honors Capstone. They are not expected to take both the Honors Capstone and the primary major or primary degree Capstone.

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab or SWK requirement.

Major Requirements

The program consists of the common core plus eight additional courses in a concentration area. Bachelor of Arts students are required to take fourteen general electives which may be psychology and/or other department courses. Students may choose to complete a minor or double-major. Bachelor of Arts students must fulfill the Modern Language requirement.

Common Core

- PSY 105 INTRODUCTORY PSYCHOLOGY I
- PSY 106 INTRODUCTORY PSYCHOLOGY II
- PSY 240 STATISTICS I
- PSY 241 RESEARCH METHODS I
- PSY 242 RESEARCH METHODS II
- PSY 361 HISTORY AND SYSTEMS OF PSYCHOLOGY (Liberal Studies Program Capstone*)
University Honors students are not required to complete the capstone in PSY, however it is recommended as a psychology elective for them.

Upon faculty approval psychology majors may register for the following psychology course PSY 390 INDEPENDENT RESEARCH IN PSYCHOLOGY, PSY 396 HONORS IN PSYCHOLOGY, PSY 397 EXPERIENTIAL LEARNING/PSYCHOLOGY RESEARCH, PSY 398 TUTORING AND MENTORING IN PSYCHOLOGY, and PSY 399 INDEPENDENT STUDY.

PSY 105 and PSY 106 are not sequential, i.e., one is not a prerequisite for the other. They may be taken in either order.

For the research sequence, PSY 240 STATISTICS I must be taken first; PSY 241 and PSY 242 may be taken in either order. A special note: PSY 340 STATISTICS II, an elective course, may be taken immediately after the completion of PSY 240 STATISTICS I.

Concentration Requirements

Students must complete the requirements from one of the following concentrations: Standard; Human Development; Human Services; Industrial/Organizational; Community; or Comprehensive Evening Program. Students are limited to only declaring one concentration.

Concentration Requirements

Concentrations, tracks and specializations provide focus to the major. In addition to any college core requirements, liberal studies requirements and major requirements, students are required to choose one of the following:

- Community
- Comprehensive Evening Program
- Human Development
- Human Services
- Industrial/Organizational Psychology
- Standard

Standard Concentration

Course Requirements

- One course from the following list:
  - PSY 340 STATISTICS II
  - PSY 342 RESEARCH METHODS III
  - PSY 343 INTRODUCTION TO PSYCHOLOGICAL MEASUREMENT
- PSY 347 SOCIAL PSYCHOLOGY
- PSY 351 THEORIES OF PERSONALITY
- or PSY 360 THEORIES OF LEARNING AND COGNITION
- PSY 377 PHYSIOLOGICAL PSYCHOLOGY
- Four additional Psychology courses. Psychology courses must be numbered PSY 317 PSYCHOLOGY OF INTERPERSONAL RELATIONSHIP and above to count toward major field.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.
Industrial/ Organizational Psychology Concentration

Course Requirements

- PSY 380 INDUSTRIAL AND ORGANIZATIONAL PSYCHOLOGY
- Two courses from the following list:
  - PSY 355 GROUPS AND ORGANIZATIONS
  - PSY 381 PERSONNEL PSYCHOLOGY
  - PSY 382 ORGANIZATIONAL BEHAVIOR
  - PSY 385 TRAINING AND DEVELOPMENT IN ORGANIZATIONS
  - PSY 388 TOPICAL SEMINAR IN INDUSTRIAL - ORGANIZATIONAL PSYCHOLOGY
- PSY 343 INTRODUCTION TO PSYCHOLOGICAL MEASUREMENT
  or PSY 340 STATISTICS II
- Four additional Psychology courses. Psychology courses must be numbered PSY 317 PSYCHOLOGY OF INTERPERSONAL RELATIONSHIP and above to count toward major field.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Human Services Concentration

Course Requirements

- PSY 333 CHILD PSYCHOLOGY
- PSY 347 SOCIAL PSYCHOLOGY
- PSY 353 ABNORMAL PSYCHOLOGY
- PSY 357 APPLIED PSYCHOLOGY I (winter quarter/junior year)
- PSY 358 APPLIED PSYCHOLOGY II (spring quarter/junior year)
- PSY 395 FIELD WORK/INTERNSHIP , taken three times in the student’s senior year

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Human Development Concentration

Course Requirements

- PSY 333 CHILD PSYCHOLOGY
- PSY 334 ADOLESCENT PSYCHOLOGY
• PSY 347 SOCIAL PSYCHOLOGY

• Five additional Psychology courses. Psychology courses must be numbered PSY 317 PSYCHOLOGY OF INTERPERSONAL RELATIONSHIP and above to count toward major field.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Comprehensive Evening Program

Course Requirements

• Two courses from the following list:
  o PSY 355 GROUPS AND ORGANIZATIONS
  o PSY 380 INDUSTRIAL AND ORGANIZATIONAL PSYCHOLOGY
  o PSY 381 PERSONNEL PSYCHOLOGY
  o PSY 382 ORGANIZATIONAL BEHAVIOR
  o PSY 385 TRAINING AND DEVELOPMENT IN ORGANIZATIONS

• Two courses from the following list:
  o PSY 302 PERSONAL ADJUSTMENT AND MENTAL HEALTH
  o PSY 351 THEORIES OF PERSONALITY
  o PSY 353 ABNORMAL PSYCHOLOGY

• Two courses from the following list:
  o PSY 303 HUMAN DEVELOPMENT
  o PSY 347 SOCIAL PSYCHOLOGY
  o PSY 360 THEORIES OF LEARNING AND COGNITION

• Two electives from the remaining above courses

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Community Concentration

Course Requirements

• PSY 354 COMMUNITY PSYCHOLOGY (take prior to PSY 356)
• PSY 356 PRINCIPLES OF FIELD RESEARCH AND ACTION (spring/junior year)
• PSY 359 FIELD WORK IN COMMUNITY RESEARCH AND ACTION (taken twice: autumn/senior year and winter/senior year)

• There are general areas that community psychology covers: social bases of behavior, social justice, diversity, human development, and public policy. We encourage you to keep these in mind when selecting the final four electives. Make sure to reach out to your advisor as soon as possible to help you plan your curriculum.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.
Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

The Psychology (BA) offers two options:

- Psychology (BA) Industrial and Organizational concentration only/ Psychology (MS) Industrial and Organizational
- Psychology (BA)/Secondary Education Social Science (MEd)

Psychology (BA) Industrial and Organizational concentration/ Psychology (MS) Industrial and Organizational

This program was designed and approved by DePaul University in the late 1980's as a way to give qualified DePaul undergraduates the opportunity to earn both a B.A. and an M.S. degree in the field of Industrial and Organizational Psychology. Students who are not pursuing an undergraduate degree at DePaul are not eligible to apply for this program. The program leads to a terminal M.S. degree, and should not be seen as an intermediate step towards a doctoral degree. Students who are interested in pursuing a Ph.D. should speak to their advisor regarding the best way to prepare for such a program.

The Combined Program requires completion of 39 classes (156 credit hours) by the end of the junior year. Note that this is three classes above the typical 36 that a student would earn by taking four classes per quarter. The undergraduate component of this program is:

- All Liberal Studies or Honors Program requirements
- Five Psychology core courses:
  - PSY 105 INTRODUCTORY PSYCHOLOGY I
  - PSY 106 INTRODUCTORY PSYCHOLOGY II
  - PSY 240 STATISTICS I
  - PSY 241 RESEARCH METHODS I
  - PSY 242 RESEARCH METHODS II
- PSY 380 INDUSTRIAL AND ORGANIZATIONAL PSYCHOLOGY
- PSY 340 STATISTICS II
  or PSY 343 INTRODUCTION TO PSYCHOLOGICAL MEASUREMENT
- Three additional Psychology electives. Some strongly recommended classes are:
  - PSY 347 SOCIAL PSYCHOLOGY
  - PSY 351 THEORIES OF PERSONALITY
  - PSY 360 THEORIES OF LEARNING AND COGNITION
  - PSY 340 STATISTICS II
    or PSY 343 INTRODUCTION TO PSYCHOLOGICAL MEASUREMENT (whichever was not taken above)
- General electives to reach a total of 156 credits

Students should work with the I/O Program Director beginning as early as possible, ideally no later than the sophomore year. Applications for the graduate portion of the program are due by June 1 of the junior year. At that time, the student should have completed the undergraduate component with a grade point average of no less than 3.20, although a stronger GPA would be preferred. Application forms can be obtained from the I/O Program Director, and it must be submitted to the I/O Program Director together with the student's unofficial DePaul transcript, statement of goals, and General Graduate Record Examination (GRE) scores. Applications will be evaluated by the I/O Admissions Committee and the student will be informed of the decision, usually by mid-June of the same year.

Students accepted into the graduate portion of the program take three courses per quarter during Year 4 and another three courses per quarter during Year 5. The Year 5 requirement of nine classes cannot be reduced by taking additional classes during Year 4, and given the demands of graduate-level coursework, students are strongly discouraged from attempting to take more than three classes at a time. The nine Year 4 classes carry 36 credit hours, which add to the 156 already earned to produce 192 credit hours, which meets the minimum requirement for degree conferral of the B.A. degree. The M.S. requires at least another 36 credits of graduate coursework earned following conferral of the B.A. The 18 graduate classes taken in Years 4 and 5 are:
The M.S. degree also requires the student to complete a Master’s Thesis. This is a project that allows the student to focus on a particular area of interest within the I/O field. There are three options available for the M.S. thesis:

1. An empirical research project, involving the collection and analysis of data and the writing of the thesis paper in APA style.
2. A library research paper, where the student reviews work already done on a topic and writes a paper describing and summarizing that work and making recommendations for theory, research, or practice.
3. An applied thesis, based on work the student is doing at an internship site.

In addition to these three options, students must also enroll in 4 credit hours of PSY 597 MASTER’S THESIS RESEARCH.

Whichever option is chosen, the student will create a thesis committee consisting of a chair, who must be a DePaul I/O faculty member, and a reader, who must be a faculty member of DePaul's Psychology Department and who must hold a Ph.D. That committee must approve the thesis proposal, and the proposal may also need to be approved by the Institutional Review Board before work may begin.

Students in the Combined Program are not required to have a minor area of graduate study. However, the minors listed for the MA/PhD program are also available to Combined Program students, should they choose to select one.

Students in this program may apply a maximum of twelve graduate credit hours as three courses in their senior year toward both the undergraduate and graduate Psychology requirements. The required application for degree conferral for the MS is separate from the required application for degree conferral for the BA.

Students must apply for undergraduate degree conferral in anticipation of completing their fourth year of study.

Psychology (BA)/Secondary Education Social Science (MEd)

The TEACH Program combines a Science and Health major (Psychology) or Liberal Arts and Social Sciences (LAS) undergraduate Social Science major (Anthropology, Economics, Geography, History, Political Science, or Sociology) with a graduate level College of Education (COE) Master’s in Education Program. Students graduate with a BA or BS in their disciplinary major and a MEd in Education with State of Illinois Secondary Social Science licensure.

Students may apply to the Program during the spring of their junior year. They must enroll in the Junior Year Experiential Learning course, TCH 320, and meet other application criteria; these include completion of at least 16 quarter credit hours at DePaul and a 3.0 GPA. During their senior year, students are required to complete a Program capstone course, TCH 390, and three 400-level courses that count toward both their undergraduate and graduate degrees:

- TCH 401 TEACHING AS A PROFESSION IN SECONDARY SCHOOL
- TCH 412 THE NATURE OF HISTORY AND THE SOCIAL SCIENCES
- TCH 422 INQUIRY & APPLICATION IN DEVELOPING SECONDARY HISTORY AND SOCIAL SCIENCES PEDAGOGY

Social Science Content Area (grades of C or better required for licensure):

The following Social Science content area requirements are required. These can be taken as part of the major, liberal studies or open elective requirements:

- HST 298 INTRODUCTION TO HISTORICAL SOURCES AND METHODS
- HST 299 CRAFT OF HISTORY
3 United States History courses
2 Non-United States History courses
6 from the psychology major
Additional licensure requirements: (one course in each area required)
  - Geography (GEO 101 recommended)
  - Economics (ECO 101 recommended)
  - Political Science (PSC 120 recommended)
  - Sociology (SOC 101 recommended)
  - Anthropology (ANT 102 recommended)

The Master's year comprises teacher-preparation coursework that culminates with student teaching during Spring quarter. Upon graduation and the fulfilling of State of Illinois licensure requirements (which may require some additional course work in the student's major and related fields), students are eligible to be licensed to teach Social Sciences at the 6th-12th grade levels.

A full description of the Program can be found on the College of Education website in the graduate course catalog. Students interested in the Program should consult with the designated TEACH Program advisor in their home department.

Psychology (BS)

The goal of the Department of Psychology is to provide students with an understanding of the methods and content of scientific and applied psychology.

The primary means of attaining our mission is classroom instruction. We offer courses across a wide range of disciplines within psychology; some of our courses also include laboratories that focus on experimental and statistical work. Some of these courses are beginning to be offered as fully online and as hybrid courses (partially online and partially in the classroom). Further learning opportunities are made available through field work, the Honors Program, Experiential Learning, Independent Study, and Internships. Our Internship Program consists of supervised work placements for which students earn academic credit; potential sites include human service organizations as well as community and industrial settings.

Bachelor of Science Psychology majors must select one of the two Bachelor of Science concentrations: General Bachelor of Science or Cognitive Neuroscience. Students are limited to only declaring one concentration.

After completing any of the concentrations, a psychology major should understand key concepts, principles, and overarching themes in psychology and be able to read and understand behavioral science data, design and conduct rudimentary psychological research studies, and apply research findings to everyday situations. These skills are applicable to a wide variety of occupations and professions. Psychology as a major provides excellent opportunities for students planning to go to graduate or professional school. Psychology as a minor provides a flexible complement to other majors.

Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Describe key concepts, principles, themes, and applications across a variety of content domains in psychology.
• Use scientific reasoning and critical thinking to interpret psychological phenomena.
• Design, conduct, and interpret, basic psychological research, accounting for sociocultural factors (where relevant).
• Apply ethical standards to evaluate psychological science and practice.
• Write a paper applying a cogent scientific argument that includes:
  ▪ Presenting information using a scientific approach
  ▪ Discussing psychological concepts
  ▪ Explaining the ideas of others
  ▪ Expressing their own ideas with clarity.
• Work effectively in groups and exhibit teamwork skills.
• Identify meaningful professional career choices and post-graduation plans prior to graduation.

• achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Science and Health will abide by the College of Science and Health Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.

B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program. While Bachelor of Science (B.S.) students are not required to demonstrate competency in a modern language, the "Modern Language Option" is available to them for language study at any level.

- PSY 361 HISTORY AND SYSTEMS OF PSYCHOLOGY (Liberal Studies Program Capstone*)

*University Honors students are not required to complete the capstone in PSY, however it is recommended as an open elective for them.

PSY 105 and PSY 106 are not sequential, i.e., one is not a prerequisite for the other. They may be taken in either order. For the research sequence, PSY 240 STATISTICS I must be taken first; PSY 241 RESEARCH METHODS I and PSY 242 RESEARCH METHODS II may be taken in either order. A special note: PSY 340 STATISTICS II, an elective course, may be taken immediately after the completion of PSY 240 STATISTICS I.
Concentration Requirements

Students must complete the requirements for one of the following two concentrations: General or Cognitive Neuroscience. Students are limited to only declaring one concentration.

Concentration Requirements

Concentrations, tracks and specializations provide focus to the major. In addition to any college core requirements, liberal studies requirements and major requirements, students are required to choose one of the following:

- General
- Cognitive Neuroscience

General Concentration

Course Requirements

Psychology

- PSY 340 STATISTICS II (this course may be taken immediately after the completion of PSY 240 STATISTICS I)
- PSY 342 RESEARCH METHODS III
- PSY 343 INTRODUCTION TO PSYCHOLOGICAL MEASUREMENT
- PSY 360 THEORIES OF LEARNING AND COGNITION
- PSY 377 PHYSIOLOGICAL PSYCHOLOGY
- Three additional major-level psychology courses numbered PSY 317 PSYCHOLOGY OF INTERPERSONAL RELATIONSHIP and above
- Twenty quarter hours in major-level biology and/or mathematics are required. This requirement is to be developed in consultation with the departmental advisor.
- Nine general (open) electives

Note: An exceptional student who has completed the required courses in Psychological Science may, upon consent of his advisor and the chair, be admitted in the senior year to certain 400-level courses described in the Graduate Catalog for Psychology. Any 400-level courses will only apply toward the B.S. degree.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

The student is urged to devote some general elective hours to courses in disciplines other than his/her major.

Note: MAT 130 PRECALCULUS is a prerequisite for major level BIO and MAT courses.

In addition, all psychology majors are encouraged to engage in individual research projects with the supervision of faculty. Upon faculty approval psychology majors may register for the following psychology courses: PSY 390 INDEPENDENT RESEARCH IN PSYCHOLOGY, PSY 396 HONORS IN PSYCHOLOGY, PSY 397 EXPERIENTIAL LEARNING/PSYCHOLOGY RESEARCH, PSY 398 TUTORING AND MENTORING IN PSYCHOLOGY, and PSY 399 INDEPENDENT STUDY.

- BIO 192 GENERAL BIOLOGY II FOR SCIENCE MAJORS
- BIO 193 GENERAL BIOLOGY III FOR SCIENCE MAJORS (required for higher level BIO).
- Three additional major level BIO courses chosen in consultation with faculty advisor.
- Eight general (open) electives

* PSY 377 is a prerequisite to some BIO courses so it is recommended that this course be taken after the completion of the PSY core. MAT 130 is a prerequisite for BIO 191.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Combined Bachelor’s/ Master’s Degree

The combined Bachelor’s/Master’s degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

  - Anthropology (ANT 102 recommended)

The Master's year comprises teacher-preparation coursework that culminates with student teaching during Spring quarter. Upon graduation and the fulfilling of State of Illinois licensure requirements (which may require some additional coursework in the student's major and related fields), students are eligible to be licensed to teach Social Sciences at the 6th-12th grade levels.

A full description of the Program can be found on the College of Education website in the graduate course catalog. Students interested in the Program should consult with the designated TEACH Program advisor in their home department.

Public Health Studies (Minor)

As a Public Health Studies minor students will take a series of interdisciplinary courses that provide a strong foundation in the core competences of the science and practice of public (population-based) health.

Course Requirements

- HLTH 201 INTRODUCTION TO HEALTH SCIENCE
- HLTH 202 HEALTH RESEARCH LITERACY
- HLTH 210 INTRODUCTION TO PUBLIC HEALTH
- Choose three from the following list. Please note: At least one from the list must be a HLTH course.
  - HLTH 229 ETHICS FOR HEALTH SCIENCES
  - HLTH 230 FUNDAMENTALS OF HEALTH EDUCATION
  - HLTH 236 GAY MEN'S HEALTH MATTERS
  - HLTH 250 HEALTH CARE POLICY IN THE UNITED STATES
  - HLTH 310 FUNDAMENTALS OF EPIDEMIOLOGY
  - HLTH 329 MEDICAL HUMANITIES
  - HLTH 330 HEALTH LEADERSHIP
  - HLTH 380 TOPICS IN HEALTH SCIENCES
  - SOC 221 INTRODUCTION TO THE U.S HEALTH CARE SYSTEM
  - SOC 351 HEALTH DISPARITIES
  - SOC 365 HEALTH AND GLOBALIZATION
  - CMNS 315 HEALTH COMMUNICATION
  - ANT 272 INTRODUCTION TO MEDICAL ANTHROPOLOGY

Students cannot earn a minor in the same academic program as their major.
Public Law and Political Thought (Minor)

This minor provides the non-major with an introduction to the study of law and its foundation in political thought.

Course Requirements

- PSC 260 LAW AND THE POLITICAL SYSTEM
  - One course from the following list:
    - PSC 261 FIRST AMENDMENT RIGHTS
    - PSC 262 RIGHTS OF DEFENDANTS
    - PSC 263 EQUAL PROTECTION OF THE LAWS
  - Two courses from the following list:
    - PSC 230 CLASSICAL POLITICAL THOUGHT
    - PSC 231 MODERN POLITICAL THOUGHT
    - PSC 232 LIBERALISM, CONSERVATISM, AND DEMOCRACY
    - PSC 233 POLITICAL IDEAS AND IDEOLOGIES

  - PSC 364 COMPARATIVE PROTECTION OF INDIVIDUAL RIGHTS
  - PSC 365 VOTING RIGHTS AND THE LAW
  - PSC 366 NATIONAL SECURITY AND THE U.S. CONSTITUTION
  - PSC 367 IMMIGRATION LAW
  - PSC 368 RIGHTS-BASED SOCIAL MOVEMENTS
  - PSC 369 ADVANCED TOPICS IN PUBLIC LAW

PSC 120 THE AMERICAN POLITICAL SYSTEM, is recommended, in addition to the above courses, for students who lack a background in American politics.

Students majoring in Political Science (B.A.) or minoring in American Politics or International Politics are restricted from earning this minor.

Public Policy (BA)

Public Policy Studies is a discipline that explores the role and impact of decision-making by governments. The discipline includes knowledge of both process and substance of a particular policy area. Thus, a student in public policy must have both generalist and specialist skills to apply to a particular public problem. In terms of political process, the study of public policy examines questions of how public policy is formulated, implemented, and evaluated over time. It also explores notions of agenda-setting and framing of issues that lead to a problem... gaining the attention of the government. Public policy specialists and analysts are hired by all levels of government. During the past several years in addition to the government sector, the nonprofit and private sectors have sought public policy analysts for employment. Therefore, the curriculum prepares students for being public policy specialists in both the private and nonprofit sectors in addition to the public sector. The curriculum also is tailored to prepare students who would like to continue their education in graduate programs or law schools. The faculty members of the department work closely with students to place them in internships, and when possible, employment positions.

The Public Policy Studies Department (PPS) offers an undergraduate degree (B.A.) that allows majors the option to pursue concentrated work in the areas of Environmental or Urban Studies. Students take a common core of courses dealing with public policy theories, processes, methods of public policy analysis, and important environmental and urban policy issues. In addition, a data analysis course is required that the student selects from a list of approved courses. Microeconomics or statistics is strongly encouraged.

Beyond the core curriculum, students choose either the Environmental Studies or Urban Studies track, selecting from a group of courses within these specializations. A capstone course reconvenes the students at the end of their curriculum to study a public policy problem in-depth under the direction of a public policy professor. The capstone changes approximately every three years, to reflect a current issue on the public policy agenda.

The department is in the process of making a number of changes to the curriculum that will make it more exciting, more flexible for students, and responsive to suggestions from students. Until these innovative changes are established, the current curriculum shall be followed.

Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Identify the historical and interdisciplinary aspects of public policy.
  - Differentiate public policy problems from interdisciplinary integrative solution.
  - Recognize the complexities and dynamics of contemporary societies within the context of making policy.
- Describe how significant contextual factors such as race, gender, religion, culture, ideology, economics and politics affect policy making.
  - Describe from multiple perspectives the potential social, economic, political, and environmental consequences of such policy.
- Identify and explain the professional ethics of policy analysts and problems through a socially responsible framework.
  - Evaluate and critique decision-making processes from an ethical perspective that is relevant to changing environments resulting from technology, globalization, and other forces.
- Perform quantitative, analytical, and methodological skills to distinguish fact from fiction in issues of public policy.
  - Critique the arguments of others through identifying and organizing the constituent parts of complex ideas.
- Explain data collection methods and forms of data analysis.
  - Manipulate, compare, and critique quantitative and qualitative data to identify potential policy outcomes and impacts across multiple contexts.
- Write and speak on policy issues for purpose of drafting proposals, constructing persuasive arguments for making policy decisions, and generating potential solutions to given problems.
- Use and present graphic materials to both lay and professional audiences.
- Generate potential solutions to given problems, recognizing potential resource constraints, relevant political institutions, policy consequences, and other facts associated with these potential solutions.
College Core Requirements

Study in the Major Field

The student's course of study in the College consists of three parts: Liberal Studies, the major field, and electives. Together these three parts contribute to the liberal education of the student which is the common purpose of all study in the College. By "liberal education" the College understands not only a deep and thorough knowledge of a particular area of study but a knowledge of the diverse areas of study represented by criticism, history, the arts, the behavioral and social sciences, philosophy, religious studies, the natural science, and mathematics.

The major field program generally is built upon a set of core courses and a specialized "concentration." The number of courses required for a major varies by department. Most students go beyond the minimum requirements, electing additional courses which both broaden and deepen their understanding of their chosen discipline.

Because no academic major program is built in isolation, students are required to pursue a number of electives of the student's choice. The inherent flexibility of this curriculum demands that the student consult an academic advisor at each stage in the total program and at least once prior to each registration. Students will be prompted to visit the College Office for their official graduation check early in their senior year.

Declaration of Major, Minor and Concentration

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor in the major field department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

Students must declare or change majors, minors, and concentrations, via Campus Connection. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the Office for Academic Advising Support.

The Modern Language Requirement (MLR)

All students will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language (i.e., a language other than English) equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. This Modern Language Requirement (MLR) may be demonstrated by:

- placing into 104 or above on the DePaul language placement exam
- completing the last course or earning AP/IB credit for the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language (e.g. 103 for DePaul language classes)
- completing a college course or earning AP/IB credit for a college course beyond the first-year level in any language (e.g. 104 or above for DePaul language classes)
- completing the final course of a four-year sequence of the same modern language in high school*
- completing a proctored exam by BYU and passing the exam (see the Department of Modern Languages website for registration details)
- completing a proctored Written Proficiency Test (WPT) by Language Testing International (LTI) and achieving a score of Beginner High or above (see the Department of Modern Languages website for registration details)

* Students are strongly encouraged to take the DePaul language placement exam even if they have met the MLR via study of a language in high school. This will ensure continuation of language study at the proper level.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College will abide by this MLR in place on the effective date of the ICT, regardless of when they first matriculated at DePaul.

Students who have met the MLR and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" (MLO) of the Liberal Studies Program (see "Special Programs").

External Credit and Residency

A student who has been admitted to the College begins residency within the college as of the first day of classes of the term in which the student is registered. Students in residence, whether attending on a full-time or part-time basis, may not take courses away from DePaul University without the written permission of the college. Permission must be obtained in advance of registration to avoid loss of credit or residency in the college; see the LAS website for more information.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab or SWK requirement.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Public Policy Studies (Minor)

The Public Policy minor is designed to help you learn the foundations of basic policy theory and research methods, as well as how to develop and analyze public policies and understand how they integrate with your major course of study.

Course Requirements

- PPS 201 PUBLIC POLICY AND URBAN ISSUES or PPS 202 PUBLIC POLICY AND ENVIRONMENTAL ISSUES
- PPS 206 QUANTITATIVE PUBLIC POLICY ANALYSIS
- Four additional courses from the list of courses approved for PPS which must be at the 300-level and cannot include the capstone course.

Students must meet with the PPS Department chairperson to complete a curriculum guide for completion of the minor.

Students majoring in Public Policy Studies (BA) are restricted from earning this minor.
Public Relations and Advertising (BA)

The College of Communication offers a variety of courses leading to a Bachelor of Arts degree in Public Relations and Advertising. The program examines theories and practices in the related fields of public relations and advertising, and considers advertising and public relations processes, products and effects from cultural, ethical, organizational, historical, creative and methodological perspectives. Students in Public Relations and Advertising studies learn to think critically and analytically, to develop ideas clearly, and to speak and write effectively. Within the broad context of human communication and the liberal arts, students explore the relationship of public relations and advertising activities to other aspects of human endeavor. Graduates are prepared for entry level positions within the public and private sectors, or for continuing their education in academic or professional graduate programs.

Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Identify, explain and apply conceptual and historical foundations of public communication disciplines as they relate to information and persuasion theories, concepts and models.
- Construct and analyze audience research and environmental scanning.
- Apply measurement and evaluation techniques to products, projects and programs.
- Develop and demonstrate strategic plans and planning methods, issues management techniques, and message development practices in a variety of settings and applications.
- Classify and analyze the elements of ethical decision making to hypothetical and real world settings.
- Articulate the ethical, legal and social responsibilities of public communications professionals.
- Demonstrate facility with writing, speaking and production of media materials to inform, persuade and problem solve.

College Core Requirements

All majors in the College of Communication (with the exception of Public Relations and Advertising) consist of a total of fourteen courses: a four-course common core plus an additional combination of ten program requirements and electives. The Public Relations and Advertising major consists of a total of fifteen courses: a four-course common core plus an additional combination of eleven program requirements and electives.

Course Requirements

Four core courses are required of all College of Communication students:

- CMN 101 INTRODUCTION TO HUMAN COMMUNICATION
- CMN 102 INTRODUCTION TO MASS COMMUNICATION
- CMN 103 INTERCULTURAL COMMUNICATION
- CMN 104 PUBLIC SPEAKING
Students are encouraged to complete all four prior to taking additional coursework in the major.

Modern Language Requirement

Students who intend to graduate with a Bachelor of Arts degree in the College of Communication will be required to demonstrate a measure of competence in a modern language, as defined by the college. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in a second year high school course work in a modern language or Latin
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language (must be completed during high school)
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination. (Note that CLEP scores may be used only to meet the language requirement. Credit is not awarded in modern languages on the basis of CLEP scores).

Students with some modern language training should consult with the Modern Language Department about the course with which they should begin. Students with little or no previous work in the language will be required to complete the entire three-course introductory sequence.

Internship Credit

Students in the major may take CMN 394 ADVANCED COMMUNICATION INTERNSHIP and/or CMN 395 COMMUNICATION INTERNSHIP SPECIAL TOPICS (when work relates to the major). In order to take CMN 394 or CMN 395, students must have completed two of the four communication core classes (CMN 101, CMN 102, CMN 103, CMN 104), two courses in the chosen major and have fulfilled internship program eligibility.
Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.

Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

The following Communication graduate programs have been approved as combined degree options:

- Digital Communication and Media Arts (MA)
- Health Communication (MA)
- Journalism (MA)
- Media and Cinema Studies (MA)
- Organizational and Multicultural Communication (MA)
- Public Relations and Advertising (MA)
- Relational Communication (MA)

Deferring Admission

Students can defer their graduate admission for one year. If students do not matriculate after completing their B.A. degrees or within the one year deferral period, the graduate courses taken as undergraduate students will no longer count towards the graduate degree and students must reapply for admission to the graduate program.

Digital Communication and Media Arts (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in their major courses, have 3.0 cumulative GPA, and have successfully completed CMN 101, CMN 102 and CMN 103 are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by May 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, Statement of Purpose (750 words) explaining why the student is seeking admission to the program, writing sample (research paper that demonstrates the applicant's ability to synthesize and analyze scholarly work), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Digital Communication and Media Arts coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take two of the DCMA core courses (CMNS 570 and MCS 575) and one DCMA elective course during their senior year. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Health Communication (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in their major courses, have a 3.0 cumulative GPA, and have successfully completed three 300-level courses in their major are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by May 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, answers to essay questions, writing sample (research paper), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Health Communication coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take the HTHC core courses (HTHC 515, HTHC 516, HTHC 517) during the senior year. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.
Journalism (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.25 GPA in their major courses and 3.0 cumulative GPA are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by May 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, Statement of Purpose (750 words) explaining why the student is seeking admission to the program, writing sample or project that demonstrates the applicant's ability in journalism, and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Journalism coursework which will fulfill undergraduate Journalism major electives, communication electives and/or open electives. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirements, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Media and Cinema Studies (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in their major courses, have 3.0 cumulative GPA, and have successfully completed CMN 101, CMN 102 and CMN 103 are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by May 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, Statement of Purpose (750 words) explaining why the student is seeking admission to the program, writing sample (research paper that demonstrates the applicant's ability to synthesize and analyze scholarly work), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Media and Cinema Studies coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take two of the MCS core courses (MCS 501, MCS 502, MCS 504) and one MCS elective during their senior year. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Organizational and Multicultural Communication (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in their major courses, have 3.0 cumulative GPA, have successfully completed CMN 101, CMN 102 and CMN 103, and have successfully completed three 300-level Communication courses are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by May 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, answers to essay questions, writing sample (research paper), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Communication coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take at least two core courses and a methods requirement during their senior year (examples: CMNS 500, CMNS 501, CMNS 541, CMNS 581 or CMNS 582). Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Public Relations and Advertising (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.25 GPA in their major courses, have 3.0 cumulative GPA, have successfully completed CMN 101, CMN 102 and CMN 103, have successfully completed three 300-level Communication courses, and are currently holding one or more PRAD internships or jobs are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by May 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, answers to essay questions, writing sample (research paper), one letter of recommendation from a PRAD professor, and one letter of recommendation from a supervisor at a PRAD-related internship or job.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Public Relations and Advertising coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take three core courses during their senior year (examples: PRAD 553, PRAD 555, PRAD 575, and PRAD 585). Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.
Relational Communication (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in their major courses, have 3.0 cumulative GPA, and have successfully completed CMN 101, CMN 102 and CMN 103 are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by May 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, Statement of Purpose (750 words) explaining why the student is seeking admission to the program, writing sample (research paper that demonstrates the applicant's ability to synthesize and analyze scholarly work), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Relational Communication coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take at least two core courses and a methods requirement during their senior year (examples: CMNS 500, RELC 500*, CMNS 581 or CMNS 582). Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

* For BA/MA students who are completing their BA in Relational Communication and seeking an MA in Relational Communication, the core course requirement of RELC 500 – Theories of Relational Communication will be waived. Students waived from having to take RELC 500 will replace the course with an additional graduate RELC elective course (still completing the required total of 48-credit hours).

Real Estate (BSB)

The undergraduate division of the Department of Real Estate provides a curriculum which enables all students in the Driehaus College of Business to work and excel in the real estate community at the local and national levels, and to adapt to future changes in the industry. It provides a strong foundation for students with career goals in real estate as the demand for qualified professionals in all areas of the industry continues to escalate with changing economic factors that drive the real estate market. Competence in real estate today, and the future, requires an understanding of a wide variety of professional disciplines and their interactions. As a result, the program reaches across academic boundaries of departments and colleges to provide a truly interdisciplinary degree housed within the college. The DePaul real estate major requires finance and real estate law courses, and provides choices in economics, architecture history, public service management, geography, sociology, history and anthropology.

Students who complete the program will:

- Develop a comprehensive body of knowledge that will strengthen financial and analytical skills, including risk analysis, portfolio construction and management, cash flow analysis, and investment strategy
- Understand the organizational structure of financial institutions and the impact of capital markets on real estate
- Understand the basic laws and regulations governing land use and real estate decisions
- Be able to clearly articulate a site development strategy to all parties and agencies
- Understand the historical development of real estate and its impact on present and future development patterns
- Understand how architectural and urban history provide insights into real estate analysis and valuation

Employment opportunities exist everywhere across the spectrum: ownership, brokerage, appraisal, design, insurance, inspection, leasing, management, and construction are a few. Property sectors include office, industrial, multi-family, retail, and hospitality and entertainment. Expanding the definition of real estate to consider the financial services side of real estate yields an additional list of career opportunities (mortgage lenders, mortgage brokers, underwriters, services, researchers, and others). The Real Estate Center assists students in finding employment in many of these diverse areas and industries in the associated supporting professions.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.
Major Requirements

Declaration Requirements

To declare a major in Real Estate, a student must meet the following requirements:

- Completion of 28.0 hours at DePaul University
- The following courses must be completed with a minimum grade of C- and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher: ACC 101, ACC 102, BLW 201, ECO 105, ECO 106, MAT 135, MAT 136, and MAT 137

- HST 240 HISTORY OF CHICAGO
- HST 254 AMERICAN URBAN HISTORY
Real Estate (Minor)

Available to students in the Driehaus College of Business and non-business programs at DePaul, a minor in Real Estate provides students with a general understanding of the real estate business and in-depth exploration of a specific topic in real estate, such as law, policy, valuation, investment, or finance.

Declaration Requirements

To declare a minor in Real Estate, a student must meet the following requirements:

- A minimum cumulative DePaul grade point average of 2.000
- A minimum Real Estate grade point average of 2.000
- No grade of IN, R, M or lower than C- in any Real Estate (RE) course or course used toward the Real Estate minor
- Completion of RE 350 with a minimum grade of C-

Course Requirements

A student minoring in Real Estate is required to complete Real Estate courses totaling at least 16.0 hours:

- One required course:
  - RE 350 REAL ESTATE ANALYSIS
- Three elective courses to be chosen from:
  - RE 300 REAL ESTATE LAW
  - RE 320 URBAN PLANNING AND PUBLIC POLICY

  - RE 352 REAL ESTATE FINANCE
  - RE 353 REAL ESTATE INVESTMENT
  - RE 354 REAL ESTATE VALUATION
  - RE 398 SPECIAL TOPICS (multiple topics may be used)

The department enforces all course prerequisites, without exception.

Students are encouraged to seek an internship with a Chicago-area business during the summer preceding either their junior or senior year, but the Real Estate minor does not offer or accept a for-credit internship course.

Degree Conferral Requirements

All Real Estate (RE) courses and any courses used toward the Real Estate minor must be completed with a minimum grade of C- and with a combined GPA of 2.000 or higher.

Relational Communication (BA)

The B.A. in Relational Communication provides students with a research-based understanding of communication in close relationships. The program, through a blend of theory and practice, helps students identify, analyze and meet the challenges of communicating effectively among individuals in both personal and professional relationships. Students will acquire the knowledge and skills necessary to initiate, develop, and maintain relationships. Students will also learn how to accomplish a wide range of interpersonal goals such as persuasion, conflict resolution, and establishing trust, just to name a few.

The curriculum is both deep and broad, enabling students to gain practical expertise in their area of interest while gaining a working knowledge of related areas. Students learn to express themselves well in oral and written communications, to think critically about communication events all around them, to develop skills valuable in the workplace, and to communicate effectively in a diverse world.
Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Comprehend and summarize the functions that communication serves in interpersonal relationships.
- Analyze and evaluate how communication processes influence relational development, maintenance, and deterioration.
- Identify the types of communication problems that people encounter in interpersonal relationships and devise strategies to deal with those problems effectively.
- Analyze the role that emotions play in relationships and devise skills for expressing emotions with others.

This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab or SWK requirement.
Major Requirements

Course Requirements

Relational Communication majors must complete the four core courses required of all College of Communication students. In addition, they must take one required course and choose seven classes from among the Relational Communication course offerings. Relational Communication majors must also take any two electives within the College of Communication. All Relational Communication majors must complete a total of 14 classes, or 56 credit hours.

- RELC 211 INTERPERSONAL COMMUNICATION
- An additional seven courses from the list of offerings below.
  - CMN 394 ADVANCED COMMUNICATION INTERNSHIP
  - CMN 395 COMMUNICATION INTERNSHIP SPECIAL TOPICS
  - CMNS 291 RESEARCH METHODS
  - CMNS 315 HEALTH COMMUNICATION
  - CMNS 327 RESEARCHING RELATIONSHIPS
  - CMNS 360 RELATIONAL, GROUP, AND ORGANIZATIONAL THEORY
  - INTC 329 PERFORMANCE OF GENDER & SEXUALITY
  - INTC 361 GENDER AND COMMUNICATION
  - ORGC 201 BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL COMMUNICATION
  - ORGC 212 SMALL GROUP COMMUNICATION
  - ORGC 354 EMPLOYMENT INTERVIEWING
  - ORGC 355 CONFLICT MANAGEMENT
  - ORGC 356 COMMUNICATION CONSULTING
  - ORGC 358 LEADERSHIP AND TEAM BUILDING

  - RELC 329 PERSUASION
  - RELC 340 COMMUNICATING & DATING
  - CMNS 392 INDEPENDENT STUDY
  - RELC 393 RELATIONAL COMMUNICATION PRACTICUM

- Two electives from any College of Communication offerings.

Internship Credit

Students in the major may take CMN 394 ADVANCED COMMUNICATION INTERNSHIP and/or CMN 395 COMMUNICATION INTERNSHIP SPECIAL TOPICS (when work relates to the major). In order to take CMN 394 or CMN 395, students must have completed two of the four communication core classes (CMN 101, CMN 102, CMN 103, CMN 104), two courses in the chosen major and have fulfilled internship program eligibility requirements.

Open Electives

Open elective credit also is required to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 192 hours.
College Core Requirements

All majors in the College of Communication (with the exception of Public Relations and Advertising) consist of a total of fourteen courses: a four-course common core plus an additional combination of ten program requirements and electives. The Public Relations and Advertising major consists of a total of fifteen courses: a four-course common core plus an additional combination of eleven program requirements and electives.

Course Requirements

Four core courses are required of all College of Communication students:

- CMN 101 INTRODUCTION TO HUMAN COMMUNICATION
- CMN 102 INTRODUCTION TO MASS COMMUNICATION
- CMN 103 INTERCULTURAL COMMUNICATION
- CMN 104 PUBLIC SPEAKING

Students are encouraged to complete all four prior to taking additional coursework in the major.

Modern Language Requirement

Students who intend to graduate with a Bachelor of Arts degree in the College of Communication will be required to demonstrate a measure of competence in a modern language, as defined by the college. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in a second year high school course work in a modern language or Latin
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language (must be completed during high school)
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination. (Note that CLEP scores may be used only to meet the language requirement. Credit is not awarded in modern languages on the basis of CLEP scores).

Students with some modern language training should consult with the Modern Language Department about the course with which they should begin. Students with little or no previous work in the language will be required to complete the entire three-course introductory sequence.

Combined Bachelor's/ Master's Degree

The combined Bachelor's/Master's degree programs allow students to complete 12 graduate credit hours while still undergraduates. These three graduate level courses will count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

The following Communication graduate programs have been approved as combined degree options:

- Digital Communication and Media Arts (MA)
- Health Communication (MA)
- Journalism (MA)
- Media and Cinema Studies (MA)
- Organizational and Multicultural Communication (MA)
- Public Relations and Advertising (MA)
- Relational Communication (MA)

Deferring Admission
Students can defer their graduate admission for one year. If students do not matriculate after completing their B.A. degrees or within the one year deferral period, the graduate courses taken as undergraduate students will no longer count towards the graduate degree and students must reapply for admission to the graduate program.

Digital Communication and Media Arts (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in their major courses, have 3.0 cumulative GPA, and have successfully completed CMN 101, CMN 102 and CMN 103 are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by May 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, Statement of Purpose (750 words) explaining why the student is seeking admission to the program, writing sample (research paper that demonstrates the applicant's ability to synthesize and analyze scholarly work), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Digital Communication and Media Arts coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take two of the DCMA core courses (CMNS 570 and MCS 575) and one DCMA elective course during their senior year. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Health Communication (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in their major courses, have a 3.0 cumulative GPA, and have successfully completed three 300-level courses in their major are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by May 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, answers to essay questions, writing sample (research paper), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Health Communication coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take the HTHC core courses (HTHC 515, HTHC 516, HTHC 517) during the senior year. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Journalism (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.25 GPA in their major courses and 3.0 cumulative GPA are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by May 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, Statement of Purpose (750 words) explaining why the student is seeking admission to the program, writing sample or project that demonstrates the applicant's ability in journalism, and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Journalism coursework which will fulfill undergraduate Journalism major electives, communication electives and/or open electives. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirements, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Media and Cinema Studies (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in their major courses, have 3.0 cumulative GPA, and have successfully completed CMN 101, CMN 102 and CMN 103 are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by May 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, Statement of Purpose (750 words) explaining why the student is seeking admission to the program, writing sample (research paper that demonstrates the applicant's ability to synthesize and analyze scholarly work), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Media and Cinema Studies coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take two of the MCS core courses (MCS 501, MCS 502, MCS 504) and one MCS elective during their senior year. Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.
Organizational and Multicultural Communication (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in their major courses, have 3.0 cumulative GPA, have successfully completed CMN 101, CMN 102 and CMN 103, and have successfully completed three 300-level Communication courses are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by May 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, answers to essay questions, writing sample (research paper), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Communication coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take at least two core courses and a methods requirement during their senior year (examples: CMNS 500, CMNS 501, CMNS 541, CMNS 581 or CMNS 582). Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Public Relations and Advertising (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.25 GPA in their major courses, have 3.0 cumulative GPA, have successfully completed CMN 101, CMN 102 and CMN 103, have successfully completed three 300-level Communication courses, and are currently holding one or more PRAD internships or jobs are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by May 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, answers to essay questions, writing sample (research paper), one letter of recommendation from a PRAD professor, and one letter of recommendation from a supervisor at a PRAD-related internship or job.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Public Relations and Advertising coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take three core courses during their senior year (examples: PRAD 553, PRAD 555, PRAD 575, and PRAD 585). Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

Relational Communication (MA)

Students with junior status who have earned a 3.5 GPA in their major courses, have 3.0 cumulative GPA, and have successfully completed CMN 101, CMN 102 and CMN 103 are eligible to apply to the program. Applicants must submit the following to the Graduate Admission office by May 1 (priority deadline): B.A./M.A. Combined Degree Program Application, official undergraduate transcript, Statement of Purpose (750 words) explaining why the student is seeking admission to the program, writing sample (research paper that demonstrates the applicant's ability to synthesize and analyze scholarly work), and two letters of recommendation from professors in the College of Communication.

During their senior year students complete 12 graduate credit hours of Relational Communication coursework which will fulfill undergraduate communication electives and/or open electives. Students are strongly encouraged to take at least two core courses and a methods requirement during their senior year (examples: CMNS 500, RELC 500*, CMNS 581 or CMNS 582). Students admitted to the program must earn a B or better in each of the three graduate courses they take as a senior. If a student fails to meet the GPA requirement, they will not be allowed to continue as a graduate student in the program.

* For BA/MA students who are completing their BA in Relational Communication and seeking an MA in Relational Communication, the core course requirement of RELC 500 – Theories of Relational Communication will be waived. Students waived from having to take RELC 500 will replace the course with an additional graduate RELC elective course (still completing the required total of 48-credit hours).
Relational Communication (Minor)

The relational minor helps students acquire the knowledge and skills necessary to manage relationships in both personal and professional contexts.

Course Requirements

To complete the minor in Relational Communication, students must take:

- RELC 211 INTERPERSONAL COMMUNICATION
- Five additional courses from the following:
  - CMNS 327 RESEARCHING RELATIONSHIPS
  - ORGC 201 BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL COMMUNICATION
  - ORGC 212 SMALL GROUP COMMUNICATION

  - RELC 340 COMMUNICATING & DATING

Religion: Specialized (Minor)

The Specialized minor in Religion is for students who wish to create a minor focused on a specific aspect of religious studies to complement his or her personal, major or career interests. These may include politics, culture, social systems and specific religious practices.

A student, in consultation with a departmental advisor, proposes a focused concentration of six Religious Studies courses that complement the student’s personal, major or career interests.

Students majoring in Religious Studies (BA) or minoring in Religious Studies, Women, Religion and Spirituality or Cultural Studies in Religion are restricted from earning this minor.

Religious Studies (BA)

The Department of Religious Studies offers DePaul students the opportunity to engage in the academic study of religion. The study of religion includes not only the traditional areas of sacred texts, myths, rituals, mystical experiences and doctrines, but also the ways in which political, social and economic forces shape these phenomena for religious communities. Drawing on a host of academic disciplines, religious studies challenges students to encounter the traditions of the world in all their rich diversity. Given the complexity of the subject matter, members of the department draw upon several other academic disciplines -- anthropology, art history, biblical studies, economics, environmental studies, ethics, gender studies, history, linguistics, literature and literary criticism, political science, philosophy, psychology, sociology, and theology -- as they do their work.

Beyond work with texts, students may also study religion through the media of film and video, music, the visual and dramatic arts, and the internet. The department emphasizes comprehensive learning in writing, synthetic and analytic thinking, and oral communication skills. Students can go beyond their course work with further learning opportunities, such as the senior thesis, independent study, study abroad and internships, and service learning, both locally and internationally.

A religious studies major or minor is positioned to pursue a wide variety of careers. A bridge between the specialist's perspectives on religion and a wider world that is often in need of these perspectives, religious studies majors have worked in the fields of law, social work, regional and international business, governmental and non-governmental service, secondary school teaching, and service in religious communities. A religious studies major is also well-prepared for further studies in graduate programs leading to careers in academia.

The Department encourages students in all major concentrations and minors to engage various questions related to the study of religion, such as (but not limited to):

- What is religion?
- How do religious communities come into being and define themselves?
- How do religious communities form worldviews, doctrines, and practices, and how does the study of religion help us to understand their change over time?
- How do sacred texts come into being, and what do they communicate to us?
- How does religion shape culture, and how does the wider culture define religion?
- What is the role of religion in the contemporary world?
- How do religion or religious sensibilities help us to relate (or hinder us from relating) to each other?
- How can an informed student of religion evaluate the rival claims to truth and moral rightness of different religious and secular ideologies?
- How do religious traditions and texts treat issues of sexuality and gender, race and class?
- How have religious traditions interacted with each other in the past, and how do they continue to do so today?

- Identify, describe and discuss some significant elements of religion—such as myth and narrative, symbol, ritual, law and doctrine, ethics, experience, and systems of cosmic, social and individual order—as they are manifested in particular traditions and cultures, past or present.
- Critically compare religious traditions, experiences, and practices across culture, time, ethnicity, race or gender.
- Analyze and reflect on the meaning of religious beliefs and practices, and apply to religious phenomena various theories, methodological perspectives, and experiential approaches to religious studies.
- Examine the moral dimensions of religion and culture through specific examples.
- Read and critically interpret religious texts.
- Explain and discuss the historical context of one or more religions.
- Evaluate the relationship between religion and other elements of culture and society regarding such issues as the connection between religion and power, the role of religious movements as forces of personal and social transformation and social justice, and the role of religion in social integration.
- Identify, apply and research resources from online, library, bibliographic resources and/or field methods in religious studies in a research paper.
- Support and defend in writing an integrated vision of the field of Religious Studies expressed in a focus on the student's area(s) of interest.
College Core Requirements

Study in the Major Field

The student’s course of study in the College consists of three parts: Liberal Studies, the major field, and electives. Together these three parts contribute to the liberal education of the student which is the common purpose of all study in the College. By “liberal education” the College understands not only a deep and thorough knowledge of a particular area of study but a knowledge of the diverse areas of study represented by criticism, history, the arts, the behavioral and social sciences, philosophy, religious studies, the natural science, and mathematics.

The major field program generally is built upon a set of core courses and a specialized “concentration.” The number of courses required for a major varies by department. Most students go beyond the minimum requirements, electing additional courses which both broaden and deepen their understanding of their chosen discipline.

Because no academic major program is built in isolation, students are required to pursue a number of electives of the student’s choice. The inherent flexibility of this curriculum demands that the student consult an academic advisor at each stage in the total program and at least once prior to each registration.

Students will be prompted to visit the College Office for their official graduation check early in their senior year.

Declaration of Major, Minor and Concentration

All students in the College are required to declare a major field prior to beginning their junior year. The student will then be assigned a faculty advisor in the major field department or program and should make an appointment to see that advisor at his or her earliest convenience.

Students must declare or change majors, minors, and concentrations, via Campus Connection. However, for the purpose of exploring the possibility of changing a major field, the student should consult an academic advisor in the the Office for Academic Advising Support.

The Modern Language Requirement (MLR)

All students will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language (i.e., a language other than English) equivalent to the proficiency attained from one year of college-level language study. This Modern Language Requirement (MLR) may be demonstrated by:

- placing into 104 or above on the DePaul language placement exam
- completing the last course or earning AP/IB credit for the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language (e.g. 103 for DePaul language classes)
- completing a college course or earning AP/IB credit for a college course beyond the first-year level in any language (e.g. 104 or above for DePaul language classes)
- completing the final course of a four-year sequence of the same modern language in high school*
- completing a proctored exam by BYU and passing the exam (see the Department of Modern Languages website for registration details)
- completing a proctored Written Proficiency Test (WPT) by Language Testing International (LTI) and achieving a score of Beginner High or above (see the Department of Modern Languages website for registration details)

* Students are strongly encouraged to take the DePaul language placement exam even if they have met the MLR via study of a language in high school. This will ensure continuation of language study at the proper level.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College will abide by this MLR in place on the effective date of the ICT, regardless of when they first matriculated at DePaul.

Students who have met the MLR and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the “Modern Language Option” (MLO) of the Liberal Studies Program (see “Special Programs”).

External Credit and Residency

A student who has been admitted to the College begins residency within the college as of the first day of classes of the term in which the student is registered. Students in residence, whether attending on a full-time or part-time basis, may not take courses away from DePaul University without the written permission of the college. Permission must be obtained in advance of registration to avoid loss of credit or residency in the college; see the LAS website for more information.
Liberal Studies Requirements

Honors program requirements can be found in the individual Colleges & Schools section of the University Catalog. Select Academics, followed by Undergraduate, then Honors Program Alternative.

Self, Society and the Modern World (SSMW)
- 3 Courses Required

Religious Dimensions (RD)
- Not Required

Understanding the Past (UP)
- 2 Courses Required

* Students must earn a C- or better in this course.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab or SWK requirement.

Major Requirements

Course Requirements

All Religious Studies Majors must take the following Core courses:

Scene Design (BFA)

The Theatre School's Bachelor of Fine Art (BFA) degree in Scenic Design is designed to give students the opportunity to explore and expand their artistic and visual expression and provides them the opportunity to practice their craft. The four-year curriculum in many ways simulates a scenic designer's professional experience and process. Designers learn to visualize and create the physical world of plays by collaborating with directors, dramaturgs, other designers and technicians and our professional scene shop staff who build the sets they design.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab or SWK requirement.

Secondary Education (BA/BS)

The Secondary Education Major for double majors provides students the opportunity to complete a primary major in Secondary Education and a secondary major in the disciplinary area for which students will be licensed (Art, Design & Media, Biology, Chemistry, English, Environmental Science, History, Mathematics, or Physics). As double majors, students are required to complete both majors and to fulfill all state licensure requirements to be licensed to teach.

The double major is designed to provide future Secondary Education teachers with a Secondary Education degree and a disciplinary area degree that reflects disciplinary area expertise. Like the Secondary Education major with disciplinary content courses attached to the major (e.g., Secondary Education Biology, Secondary Education English, et cetera), the Secondary Education Major for double majors draws on the expertise of faculty in the COE’s Secondary Education Program and Educational Policy Studies and Research Department to immerse students into essential issues and themes of education and theories and practices of teaching and learning. Such issues as educational inequality, politics of schooling, identity politics, social justice, identity development inside and beyond formal school settings, historical, cognitive, sociocultural, and sociopolitical nature of human development and society are integrated with issues of pedagogical content knowledge, critical pedagogy, constructivist teaching practices, theories of teaching and learning, curriculum development, and professional practice. Ensuring that students understand all these issues is integral to the Program design and delivery and to the preparation of teachers.
The measure of the academic quality of the Program relies on clearly articulated features of exemplary teacher-education programs. These include:

- a "common, clear vision of good teaching that permeates all coursework and clinical experiences...";
- a "well-defined standard of professional practice and performance...";
- a "strong core curriculum taught in the context of practice" and including understanding of human development and learning, social and cultural contexts, curriculum assessment, and subject-matter pedagogy;
- an "extended clinical experience" that supports ideas presented in coursework;
- an "extensive use of case methods, teacher research, performance assessments, and portfolio evaluation...";
- "explicit strategies" to help students confront their own beliefs and assumptions about learning and students and to learn about the experiences of diverse people; and
- "strong relationships, common knowledge, and shared beliefs among school- and university-based faculty."

Students who are interested in the Secondary Education Major for double majors should contact their academic advisor. The Secondary Education Major must be selected as the primary major to ensure that licensure requirements attached to the Liberal Studies Program are completed. Disciplinary major requirements are determined by the academic department in which the major is housed.

Licensure

Illinois Professional Educator License with an endorsement in the specified disciplinary area:

- Secondary Education Science-Biology (grades 6-12), an Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) approved program.
- Secondary Education Science-Chemistry (grades 6-12), an Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) approved program.
- Secondary Education English Language Arts (grades 6-12), an Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) approved program.

The total number of hours for the degree are determined by the concentration/discipline area chosen for the double major.

Learning Outcomes

Core Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Demonstrate interpretive, normative, critical understanding of educational phenomenon and/or praxis through the use of the humanities, social sciences and psychological sciences within the disciplinary foundations of education (anthropology of education, history of education, philosophy of education, psychology of education and sociology of education).
Demonstrate understanding of the human transformative dimensions of educational phenomenon and/or praxis at the level of the self and/or the social.

Understand the dynamic nature of identity development and maintain the role of individual agency in bringing about personal and social transformation.

Understand the multiple subjectivities and social relations of race, ethnicity, class, gender, and sexuality as they define a range of lived experiences and understand pedagogy as a project aimed at helping to realize the greatest range of possibilities for all youth irrespective of differences.

College Core Requirements

Demonstrates consistent professional behavior across all academic settings
Maintains appropriate interpersonal and professional boundaries
Accepts personal responsibility for one's behavior
Expresses feelings and opinions effectively and appropriately
Upholds confidentiality

Skill Building Courses

Before taking any math or English courses, students must take the DePaul placement tests to determine if skill level is at the college level. If placement indicates skill level in these courses, the courses become part of degree requirements. Consult with your advisor regarding placement test results and any required classes.

Advanced Standing

Students are conditionally admitted to the College of Education. There are additional requirements to reach Advanced Standing in your program in the College of Education. Requirements must be met to progress in the major and take courses in the Advanced Standing category.

Advanced Standing requirements are:

- Maintain a DePaul undergraduate 2.5 GPA
- Pass the Illinois Test of Academic Proficiency (TAP)
- Submit a petition for advanced standing form

Students should attempt to complete the Advanced Standing requirements soon after beginning the program. There is no time limit to meet these criteria; however, students will only be able to take pre-education courses until requirements have been met. Students can also take liberal studies or content area courses before or after meeting Advanced Standing requirements.

Modern Language Competence Requirement

Students pursuing a Bachelor of Arts degree in the College of Education will be required to demonstrate a measure of competence in a modern language, as defined by the college. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing two years of a language sequence in high school
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

Please note: The Modern Language Competence Requirement is not required for students in the Early Childhood Education: SNL Joint Program (BAECE) program.

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Education will abide by the COE Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.

B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program. While B.S. students are not required to demonstrate competency in a modern language, the "Modern Language Option" is available to them for language study at any level.

Licensure Tests

All individuals licensed by the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) are required to complete licensure tests specific to their teaching license.
Field Experiences

Each student seeking licensure from the College of Education/Professional Education Unit must complete supervised field experiences in appropriate settings in conjunction with education courses. The field experiences must include a variety of grade levels, multicultural experiences, and a minimum of 10 hours in special education settings. All field experiences must be completed prior to final approval for student teaching. Field experience hours should be entered by the student into the FEDS system when completing courses with field experience requirements.

Endorsements

An endorsement is a subject area that you can qualify to teach full time, in addition to your main licensure area. Endorsements are issued at three levels: primary, middle school, and high school.

The Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) issues endorsements in various subject areas. To view the full list and requirements, visit the ISBE website.

Qualifying for an endorsement at the middle school level requires 18 semester hours (27 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area and complete SCU 339. Some areas (like math) have specifically required courses or require additional hours. Courses must have a grade of C or better to qualify for endorsements and must be earned credit listed on a college transcript as earned credit.

Consult with your advisor regarding endorsements. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following middle school areas: Arabic, art, bilingual education, biological science, Chinese, ESL, French, general science, German, Italian, Japanese, language arts, math, physical science, social science, Spanish, and special education.

In general, endorsement requirements for the primary level are identical to the middle school requirements except that they do not require SCU 339. There are a limited number of areas available at the primary level.

Qualifying for most endorsements at the high school level requires 24 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area* and passing the relevant content area test. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following high school areas: art, Arabic, Chinese, English, French, German, Italian, Japanese, math, Russian, science, social science, Spanish, and special education.

* Exceptions to the basic requirements for high school level endorsements include the subject areas of foreign language, science, and social science.

 For science and social science, 32 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in the broad area of either science or social science, and 12 semester hours in the specific endorsement designation area, plus the content area test are required. To qualify for additional science and social science designations, individuals applying after February 1, 2012 need both the content test and 12 semester hours in the additional designation area.

Special Education majors do not qualify for middle school endorsements.

Student Teaching Requirements

Student Teaching is the culminating clinical experience in the student's program. All students in teacher preparation programs must meet the following requirements before applying for student teaching:

Academic Requirements:

- Completion of all Liberal Studies, Pre-Education, Advanced Standing and concentration/content area courses
- Overall cumulative G.P.A. of 2.50 or better
- Cumulative GPA. of 2.75 or better in all education courses
- Meet all other program requirements (e.g., modern language and residency requirements)
- Meet designated program standards
- Pass the required Illinois licensure content area test

Clinical Requirements:

- Completion of all required field experiences
- Three satisfactory evaluations in field experiences
- Three satisfactory faculty recommendations
- Attendance at mandatory meeting for student teaching
- Application for student teaching, resume, transcripts, and writing sample (check deadlines)
- Review and approval by Student Teaching Committee of the College of Education
Student Teaching Timeline and Deadlines:

- Attend a Mandatory Meeting approximately 1 year prior to expected quarter of student teaching.
- Submit application for student teaching after attending Mandatory Meeting, approximately 1 year prior to student teaching.
- Academic requirements are due one quarter before expected quarter of student teaching.
- Clinical requirements are completed as course requirements. Field experience hours are entered by the student as coursework is completed.

Online Faculty Evaluations are entered by the instructor of relevant courses. All data must be entered in the Field Experience Documentation System (FEDS) due one month prior to student teaching.

Individual child care agencies and public and private school districts may have additional requirements (application, training, background check, etc.).

Degree Conferral and Graduation

The awarding of a degree is not automatic. You must submit an application to be considered for the degree. DePaul awards and posts degrees at the end of each regular academic term (autumn, winter, spring, summer I and summer II).

It is your responsibility to initiate the degree conferral application process by submitting an online application. Submitting an application means you intend to finish your degree requirements by the end of the term for which you have applied.

Undergraduate students must be approved for student teaching and complete student teaching and capstone to be cleared for the degree. Student must submit graduation application for the quarter that matches the quarter you are student teaching.

After you submit the application, you cannot register for any term after the one selected in the application.

Application deadlines are as follows:
- Fall Quarter - October 1st
- Winter Quarter - January 15th
- Spring Quarter - February 1st
- Summer Quarter - July 15th

To apply for degree conferral, log on to Campus Connection. Select STUDENT CENTER, then MY ACADEMICS. On screen instructions will take you through the application process.

Provided that all requirements and financial obligations are met, degrees are posted 30 days after the official end of the term. Official dates are listed on the Academic Calendar.

DePaul holds one commencement ceremony each year in June. If you intend to participate, you must first apply for degree conferral for the current academic year and then submit a cap and gown order. Honors are not announced at the ceremony for undergraduates completing their final courses in spring quarter because a final GPA is not available at the time of the ceremony.

Additional information about degree conferral and graduation can be found on the College of Education website at: http://education.depaul.edu/.

Licensure

Requirements for licensure include completion of full bachelor’s degree program, all licensure tests (including OPI for world language majors), and awarding of bachelor’s degree. A bachelor’s degree is required to qualify for licensure and must be awarded before applying for the license.

Individuals must submit an application directly to the Illinois State Board of Education after completion of requirements and after DePaul has submitted notification to ISBE. Application requirements include application form, application fee, official transcripts, and registration fee.

All individuals must meet ISBE requirements in place at the time of application for the license. Requirements are subject to change per the discretion of ISBE. All coursework and requirements pertaining to licensure requirements must be completed before DePaul University can recommend an individual for the license.

Individuals seeking additional endorsements after applying for the licensure must contact ISBE directly for an evaluation request.
All coursework and requirements must be completed before DePaul University can recommend an individual for the license.

Liberal Studies Requirements

Honors program requirements can be found in the individual Colleges & Schools section of the University Catalog. Select Academics, followed by Undergraduate, then Honors Program Alternative.

Senior Year

Capstone

- SEC 387 CAPSTONE SEMINAR IN SECONDARY EDUCATION *
  (Note: This must be taken with student teaching)

Learning Domains

Arts and Literature (AL)

- 3 courses required for students whose second major is Biological Sciences, Chemistry, Environmental Science, History or Physics
- 2 courses required for students whose second major is Mathematical Sciences
• 1 course required for students whose second major is Art Media and Design (cannot be an ART or HAA course) or English (cannot be an ENG course)

Philosophical Inquiry (PI)

• 2 Courses Required
  - LSE 380 PHILOSOPHICAL ISSUES IN EDUCATION
  - 1 Additional Course
    (Note: PHL 100 recommended)

Scientific Inquiry (SI)

• 3 courses for students whose second major is Art Media and Design, English, History, Mathematical Sciences:
  - 1 Science as a Way of Knowing Course
  - 1 Lab Course
  - 1 Additional Course

[Note: At least one course must be from Biological Sciences and one from Chemistry, Environmental Science, Geography or Physics.]

• 1 course required for students whose second major is Biological Sciences (cannot be a BIO course), Chemistry (must be a BIO course), Environmental Science (must be STEM 230) or Physics (must be a BIO course)

Self, Society and the Modern World (SSMW)

• 3 courses required for students whose second major is Art Media and Design, Biological Sciences, Chemistry, English, Environmental Science, Physics. Note: PSC 120 THE AMERICAN POLITICAL SYSTEM must be one of these classes
• 2 courses required for students whose second major is History, Mathematical Sciences. Note: PSC 120 THE AMERICAN POLITICAL SYSTEM must be one of these classes

Religious Dimensions (RD)

• 2 Courses Required

Understanding the Past (UP)

• 2 courses required for students whose second major is Art Media and Design, Biological Sciences, Chemistry, English, Environmental Science, Mathematical Sciences, Physics. Note one must be United States history.
• 1 course required for students whose second major is History. Must be United States history

* Students must earn a C- or better in this course.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student’s major and is cross-listed with a course within the student’s major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.
Major Requirements

Course Requirements

Pre-Education Introductory Courses: 12 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

- SCU 207 SOCIAL AND HISTORICAL ISSUES IN EDUCATION   (4 credit hours)
- SEC 364 METHODS: CURRICULUM AND INSTRUCTION IN SECONDARY SCHOOLS   (4 credit hours)
- SCU 336 ADOLESCENT AND ADULT GROWTH AND DEVELOPMENT
  or SCU 337 HUMAN GROWTH AND DEVELOPMENT   (4 credit hours)

Advanced Standing Education Courses: 20 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

- LSI 346 STRATEGIES FOR MAINSTREAMING AND INCLUSION   (4 credit hours)
- SEC 325 LITERACY IN THE CONTENT AREAS   (4 credit hours)
- SCU 351 DOING CRITICAL PRACTITIONER RESEARCH IN EDUCATION   (Taken in conjunction with SEC 381/SEC 382/SEC 383/SEC 385) (4 credit hours)
- SEC 395 ASSESSMENT ISSUES IN SECONDARY EDUCATION   (4 credit hours)
- BBE 301 TEACHING ADOLESCENT ENGLISH LANGUAGE LEARNERS AND DIALECT SPEAKERS ACROSS THE CURRICULUM (4 credit hours)

Concentrations

The proposed major in Secondary Education concentration requirements reflect the disciplinary area content-specific courses that are part of Secondary Education—[Disciplinary Area] majors.

Concentration Areas: 16 quarter hours required, grade C or better required

Biology/ Chemistry/ Environmental Science/ Physics

- SEC 314 THE NATURE OF SCIENCE   (4 credit hours)
- SEC 324 INQUIRY & APPLICATION IN DEVELOPING SECONDARY SCIENCE PEDAGOGY   (4 credit hours)
- SEC 374 TEACHING THE SCIENCES IN THE HIGH SCHOOL   (4 credit hours)
- SEC 385 TEACHING THE SCIENCES IN THE HIGH SCHOOL   (4 credit hours)

English

- SEC 311 THE NATURE OF ENGLISH   (4 credit hours)
- SEC 321 INQUIRY & APPLICATION IN DEVELOPING SECONDARY ENGLISH PEDAGOGY   (4 credit hours)
- SEC 371 TEACHING ENGLISH IN THE HIGH SCHOOL   (4 credit hours)
- SEC 381 TEACHING ENGLISH IN THE HIGH SCHOOL   (4 credit hours)

History/ Social Sciences

- SEC 312 THE NATURE OF HISTORY AND THE SOCIAL SCIENCES   (4 credit hours)
- SEC 322 INQUIRY & APPLICATION IN DEVELOPING SECONDARY HISTORY AND SOCIAL SCIENCES PEDAGOGY   (4 credit hours)
- SEC 372 TEACHING HISTORY AND THE SOCIAL SCIENCES IN THE HIGH SCHOOL   (4 credit hours)
- SEC 382 TEACHING HISTORY AND THE SOCIAL SCIENCES IN THE HIGH SCHOOL   (4 credit hours)

Mathematics

- SEC 313 THE NATURE OF MATHEMATICS   (4 credit hours)
- SEC 323 INQUIRY & APPLICATION IN DEVELOPING SECONDARY MATHEMATICS PEDAGOGY   (4 credit hours)
Visual Arts

- SEC 365 ART AND PEDAGOGY (4 credit hours)
- SEC 366 TEACHER AS ARTIST (4 credit hours)
- EDUCATION ELECTIVE (approval of advisor required) (4 credit hours)
- EDUCATION ELECTIVE (approval of advisor required) (4 credit hours)

Discipline Area Major

Open electives that fill out the credit hour requirements for a degree in the proposed Secondary Education major can be/should be used to complete coursework toward the disciplinary area major. The following table identifies the number of open electives required/necessary for each concentration (disciplinary area) within the Secondary Education major based on current disciplinary area major requirements. These hours equal the credit hours required for each identified disciplinary area major:

- Biology = 100 credit hours
- Chemistry:
  - BA = 68 credit hours
  - BS = 92 credit hours
- English = 56 credit hours
- Environmental Science:
  - BA = 66 credit hours
  - BS = 96 credit hours
- History = 60
- Mathematics:
  - BA/BS = 60-64 credit hours
- Physics = 88-96 credit hours
- Visual Arts = 76 credit hours

These credit hour requirements are subject to revision based on disciplinary area major coursework revisions.

Open Electives

Depending on the disciplinary area major, additional open elective credit may be required to reach the minimum number of hours for an undergraduate degree.

Student Teaching

Student Teaching: 10 quarter hours required, grade of B- or better required

Registration in student teaching requires completion of all requirements and procedures in the college core section. EDU 95 indicates to the Illinois State Board of Education that all field experience hours are complete. All students also take SEC 387, Capstone Seminar with student teaching (listed in the Liberal Studies section).

- SEC 390 SECONDARY STUDENT TEACHING (10 credit hours)
- EDU 95 CLINICAL EXPERIENCE WITH CHILDREN AND YOUTH (non-credit, non-tuition, PA grade required)

Licensure Test

All individuals licensed by the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) are required to complete licensure tests specific to their teaching license. Secondary Education Major for double major students must complete the following tests:

- Test of Academic Proficiency (TAP) (test #400) - assesses knowledge of reading comprehension, language arts, writing, and math. Test is required to qualify for Advanced Standing. *Check with your advisor about qualifying for a waiver with acceptable ACT or SAT test scores.
- Content Area Test for the disciplinary area for which the student will be licensed – assesses knowledge of both disciplinary content. Test is required before Student Teaching (deadlines apply)
- Assessment of Professional Teaching (APT) – assesses knowledge of teaching planning, delivery, assessment, professionalism, and technology. Test is required to be licensed; recommended to be taken before Student Teaching.
- EdTPA - assessment conducted during the student teaching experience including video clips of instruction,
Secondary Education Biology (BS)

The Bachelor of Science program in Secondary Education Biology prepares students to teach 6th through 12th grade in a variety of urban and suburban education settings, including public and private middle schools and high schools.

Students learn educational theories and effective teaching practices, participate in field experiences, which require observation and participation in teaching activities at multiple schools, and student teaching. Students should meet early and regularly with their advisor to design and monitor their program of study.

The program combines theoretical principles of education and field work with the student's choice of major. Students follow a general pattern of study for middle school and high school levels. In all cases, appropriate field experience plays an integral role.

Students entering the program must be able and willing to devote themselves to a program requiring a minimum of 100 hours of daytime field experiences in schools. These school-based clinical hours are completed in conjunction with methodology courses that require students to spend a half-day each week in a school. In addition, the student must spend a minimum of 11 weeks in full-time student teaching.

Please make sure you consult the Liberal Studies Requirements, Major Requirements, and College Core Requirements for full degree requirements.

NOTE: Secondary Education students now have the option to double major in Secondary Education and Biological Sciences. With the double major, students will graduate with a Bachelor of Science degree with a major in Secondary Education and a major in Biological Sciences. Students should declare Secondary Education as their primary major (see Secondary Education BA/BS for degree requirements) and Biological Sciences (see Biological Sciences BS for degree requirements) as their secondary major. If you have already begun the Secondary Education Biology major and want to switch to the Secondary Education Major and Biological Sciences double major, you should contact your academic advisor because the double major may require additional coursework. Students who pursue the Bachelor of Science degree with a major in Secondary Education Biology do not have the option to double major in Biological Sciences.

Licensure

Illinois Professional Educator License with endorsement in Secondary Education Science-Biology (grades 6-12), an Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) approved program.

Learning Outcomes

Core Outcomes

Students will be able to:
• Demonstrate interpretive, normative, critical understanding of educational phenomenon and/or praxis through the use of the humanities, social sciences and psychological sciences within the disciplinary foundations of education (anthropology of education, history of education, philosophy of education, psychology of education and sociology of education).
• Demonstrate understanding of the human transformative dimensions of educational phenomenon and/or praxis at the level of the self and/or the social.
• Understand the dynamic nature of identity development and maintain the role of individual agency in bringing about personal and social transformation.
• Understand the multiple subjectivities and social relations of race, ethnicity, class, gender, and sexuality as they define a range of lived experiences and understand pedagogy as a project aimed at helping to realize the greatest range of possibilities for all youth irrespective of differences.

Program Specific Outcomes

Students will be able to:

• Structure and interpret the central concepts and principles understood through:
  ■ Biology including molecular and cellular sciences, organisms and ecosystems.
  ■ Chemistry and physics, including matter, energy, force and motion.
  ■ Earth/space science; including the earth and the universe.
• Demonstrate in-depth knowledge of the concepts and principles understood through the science discipline of specialization (biology, chemistry, environmental science, physics).
• Understand the major unifying concepts of all sciences (systems, order, and organization; evidence, models, and explanation; constancy, change, and measurement; evolution and equilibrium; form and function).
  ■ Relate these concepts to other disciplines, particularly mathematics and the social sciences.
• Define the values, beliefs and assumptions inherent to the creation of scientific knowledge within the scientific community.
  ■ Contrast science to other ways of knowing.
  ■ Understand the characteristics distinguishing basic science, applied science, and technology.
  ■ Understand the processes and conventions of science as a professional activity.
  ■ Understand the standards defining acceptable evidence and scientific explanation.
• Engage students effectively in science inquiry (e.g., questioning and formulating solvable problems; reflecting on, and constructing, knowledge from data; collaborating and exchanging information while seeking solutions; and developing concepts and relationships from empirical experience).
  ■ Facilitate understanding of the role inquiry plays in the development of scientific knowledge.
• Relate science to the daily lives and interests of students and to a larger framework of human endeavor and understanding (e.g., relationships among systems of human endeavor including science and technology; relationships among scientific, technological, personal, social and cultural values; and the relevance and importance of science to the personal lives of students).
• Understand the concepts, principles, and practices of technological design.
• Understand how children learn and develop, and provide learning opportunities that support their intellectual, social and personal development.
• Understand how students differ in their approaches to learning and create instructional opportunities that are adapted to diverse learners.
• Use an understanding of individual and group motivation and behavior to create a learning environment that encourages positive social interaction, active engagement in learning, and self-motivation.
• Plan instruction based upon knowledge of subject matter, students, the community, and curriculum goals.
• Create a community of diverse student learners who can construct meaning from science experiences and possess a disposition for further inquiry and learning.
  ○ Apply appropriate pedagogical skills to science teaching.
    Use knowledge of effective verbal, nonverbal, and media communication techniques to foster inquiry, collaboration, and engagement in the classroom.
• Develop and apply a coherent, focused science curriculum (an extended framework of goals, plans, materials, and resources for instruction and the instructional context, both in and out of school, within which pedagogy is embedded) that is consistent with state and national standards for science education and appropriate for addressing the needs, abilities and interests of students.
• Relate science teaching and learning to the needs and values of the community; and use human and institutional resources in the community (i.e., social and community support network and involvement of people and institutions from the community) to advance the education of their students in science.
• Use a variety of contemporary assessment strategies to evaluate the intellectual, social, and personal development of the learner in all aspects of science (e.g., alignment of goals, instruction and outcomes; measurement and evaluation of student learning in a variety of dimensions and the use of outcome data to guide and change instruction).
• Design and manage safe and supportive learning environments (e.g., physical spaces within which learning of science occurs; psychological and social environment of the student engaged in learning science; treatment and ethical use of living organisms; and safety in all areas related to science instruction) that reflect high expectations for the success of all students.
• Implement appropriate assessment and instruction that supports students with disabilities in mainstream/inclusive settings.
● Learn about and use technology, as appropriate for the discipline.
● Understand and use technology to enhance his/her teaching.
● Know a broad range of literacy techniques and strategies for every aspect of communication and develop each student's ability to read, write, speak and listen to his or her potential within the demands of the discipline.
● Model effective reading, writing, speaking, and listening skills during both direct and indirect instructional activities.
● Provide a variety of instructional strategies, constructive feedback, criticism, and improvement strategies to help students improve oral and written language skills.
● Understand the process of reading and demonstrate instructional abilities to teach reading in the discipline (math, science, social science & visual arts).
● Undertake independent inquiry and use technology as one tool to assist him or her in the overall inquiry process.
● Foster relationships with school colleagues, parents, and agencies in the larger community to support students' learning and well-being.
● Be a reflective practitioner who continually evaluate the effects of his/her choices and actions on others (students, parents, and other professionals in the learning community) and who actively seeks out opportunities to grow professionally.
● Understand education as a profession, maintain standards of professional conduct, and provide leadership to improve student learning and well-being.

College Core Requirements

Dispositions

The academic programs within the College of Education have set forth these dispositions as educational and professional expectations for all students. Students should be aware that failing to abide by DePaul University or College of Education policies including, under certain circumstances, these dispositions, could result in adverse consequences for the student, including removal from his or her program, the College of Education, or the University.

The following dispositions apply to Early Childhood Education, Elementary Education, Physical Education, Secondary Education, and World Language Education majors only:

● Reflects on progress and identifies strengths and weaknesses, including evaluating strategies for success, finding alternatives for inappropriate strategies, and modifying future practices
● Is receptive to faculty feedback and acts meaningfully and professionally upon suggestions
● Values critical thinking, including engaging theoretical and philosophical frameworks and shows evidence of critical thinking through discussion and writing (e.g., journals, response to prompts)
● Understands the importance of and is committed to communicating clearly orally and in writing both in traditional and in new and emerging digital formats
● Values and is committed to continually developing strong content area knowledge and/or knowledge of the professional field, including pedagogical content knowledge
● Takes initiative, uses imagination and creativity, and seeks out information using a variety of human and material resources and technology to inform his or her teaching
● Is aware of the role of classroom environment and uses management procedures that reflect respect and care for learners and concern for their emotional and physical well being
● Takes the time and effort needed to understand how students learn, including discovering their interests and experiences and determining how to shape teaching acts (using technology as appropriate) that engage learners meaningfully and actively
● Values and is committed to using assessment to evaluate and ensure the continuous intellectual, social, emotional, and physical development of the learner
● Respects and considers cultural contexts in order to determine how to be responsive to learners and to proactively promote all students' learning
● Values and is responsive to diverse learners' academic, emotional, and social needs through teaching acts (including careful instructional planning, implementation, and differentiation) and through everyday interactions with students
● Is committed to collaboration with colleagues, families, and communities in order to promote all students' learning and development
● Recognizes and fulfills professional responsibilities and habits of conduct (e.g., dress, language, preparedness, attendance, punctuality, etc.)
- Demonstrates collegiality, honesty, good judgment, courtesy, respect, and diplomacy
- Balances self-confidence and assertiveness with respect for others' perspectives
- Respects the requirements, expectations, and procedures of both the College of Education and of our field partners and appreciates the issues of trust, fairness, and professionalism involved

The following dispositions apply to Special Education majors only:

- Is receptive to faculty feedback and acts meaningfully and professionally upon suggestions
- Reflects on his or her own progress, identifies strengths and weaknesses, and evaluates strategies for success and professional growth
- Takes initiative
- Is open to new ideas and engagement in learning
- Respects diversity and cultural contexts to determine how to be responsive to learners and to proactively promote all students' learning
- Expresses positive attitudes toward individuals with disabilities and a willingness to advocate on their behalf
- Is committed to collaboration with colleagues, families, and communities in order to promote all students' learning and development
- Demonstrates professional ethical and legal behavior as defined by the respective codes of ethics and laws
- Demonstrates consistent professional behavior across all academic settings
- Maintains appropriate interpersonal and professional boundaries
- Accepts personal responsibility for one's behavior
- Expresses feelings and opinions effectively and appropriately
- Upholds confidentiality

Skill Building Courses

Before taking any math or English courses, students must take the DePaul placement tests to determine if skill level is at the college level. If placement indicates skill level in these courses, the courses become part of degree requirements. Consult with your advisor regarding placement test results and any required classes.

Advanced Standing

Students are conditionally admitted to the College of Education. There are additional requirements to reach Advanced Standing in your program in the College of Education. Requirements must be met to progress in the major and take courses in the Advanced Standing category.

Advanced Standing requirements are:

- Maintain a DePaul undergraduate 2.5 GPA
- Pass the Illinois Test of Academic Proficiency (TAP)
- Submit a petition for advanced standing form

Students should attempt to complete the Advanced Standing requirements soon after beginning the program. There is no time limit to meet these criteria; however, students will only be able to take pre-education courses until requirements have been met. Students can also take liberal studies or content area courses before or after meeting Advanced Standing requirements.

Modern Language Competence Requirement

Students pursuing a Bachelor of Arts degree in the College of Education will be required to demonstrate a measure of competence in a modern language, as defined by the college. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing two years of a language sequence in high school
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

Please note: The Modern Language Competence Requirement is not required for students in the Early Childhood Education: SNL Joint Program (BAECE) program.

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.
Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Education will abide by the COE Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.

B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program. While B.S. students are not required to demonstrate competency in a modern language, the "Modern Language Option" is available to them for language study at any level.

Licensure Tests

All individuals licensed by the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) are required to complete licensure tests specific to their teaching license.

Field Experiences

Each student seeking licensure from the College of Education/Professional Education Unit must complete supervised field experiences in appropriate settings in conjunction with education courses. The field experiences must include a variety of grade levels, multicultural experiences, and a minimum of 10 hours in special education settings. All field experiences must be completed prior to final approval for student teaching. Field experience hours should be entered by the student into the FEDS system when completing courses with field experience requirements.

Endorsements

An endorsement is a subject area that you can qualify to teach full time, in addition to your main licensure area. Endorsements are issued at three levels: primary, middle school, and high school.

The Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) issues endorsements in various subject areas. To view the full list and requirements, visit the ISBE website.

Qualifying for an endorsement at the middle school level requires 18 semester hours (27 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area and complete SCU 339. Some areas (like math) have specifically required courses or require additional hours. Courses must have a grade of C or better to qualify for endorsements and must be earned credit listed on a college transcript as earned credit.

Consult with your advisor regarding endorsements. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following middle school areas: Arabic, art, bilingual education, biological science, Chinese, ESL, French, general science, German, Italian, Japanese, language arts, math, physical science, social science, Spanish, and special education.

In general, endorsement requirements for the primary level are identical to the middle school requirements except that they do not require SCU 339. There are a limited number of areas available at the primary level.

Qualifying for most endorsements at the high school level requires 24 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area* and passing the relevant content area test. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following high school areas: art, Arabic, Chinese, English, French, German, Italian, Japanese, math, Russian, science, social science, Spanish, and special education.

* Exceptions to the basic requirements for high school level endorsements include the subject areas of foreign language, science, and social science.

 For science and social science, 32 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in the broad area of either science or social science, and 12 semester hours in the specific endorsement designation area, plus the content area test are required. To qualify for additional science and social science designations, individuals applying after February 1, 2012 need both the content test and 12 semester hours in the additional designation area.

Special Education majors do not qualify for middle school endorsements.

Student Teaching Requirements

Student Teaching is the culminating clinical experience in the student's program. All students in teacher preparation programs must meet the following requirements before applying for student teaching:

Academic Requirements:

- Completion of all Liberal Studies, Pre-Education, Advanced Standing and concentration/content area courses
- Overall cumulative G.P.A. of 2.50 or better
- Cumulative GPA. of 2.75 or better in all education courses
Meet all other program requirements (e.g., modern language and residency requirements)
Meet designated program standards
Pass the required Illinois licensure content area test

Clinical Requirements:

- Completion of all required field experiences
- Three satisfactory evaluations in field experiences
- Three satisfactory faculty recommendations
- Attendance at mandatory meeting for student teaching
- Application for student teaching, resume, transcripts, and writing sample (check deadlines)
- Review and approval by Student Teaching Committee of the College of Education

Student Teaching Timeline and Deadlines:

- Attend a Mandatory Meeting approximately 1 year prior to expected quarter of student teaching.
- Submit application for student teaching after attending Mandatory Meeting, approximately 1 year prior to student teaching.
- Academic requirements are due one quarter before expected quarter of student teaching.
- Clinical requirements are completed as course requirements. Field experience hours are entered by the student as coursework is completed.

Online Faculty Evaluations are entered by the instructor of relevant courses. All data must be entered in the Field Experience Documentation System (FEDS) due one month prior to student teaching.

Individual child care agencies and public and private school districts may have additional requirements (application, training, background check, etc.).

Degree Conferral and Graduation

The awarding of a degree is not automatic. You must submit an application to be considered for the degree. DePaul awards and posts degrees at the end of each regular academic term (autumn, winter, spring, summer I and summer II).

It is your responsibility to initiate the degree conferral application process by submitting an online application. Submitting an application means you intend to finish your degree requirements by the end of the term for which you have applied.

Undergraduate students must be approved for student teaching and complete student teaching and capstone to be cleared for the degree. Student must submit graduation application for the quarter that matches the quarter you are student teaching.

After you submit the application, you cannot register for any term after the one selected in the application.

Application deadlines are as follows:
Fall Quarter - October 1st
Winter Quarter - January 15th
Spring Quarter - February 1st
Summer Quarter - July 15th

To apply for degree conferral, log on to Campus Connection. Select STUDENT CENTER, then MY ACADEMICS. On screen instructions will take you through the application process.

Provided that all requirements and financial obligations are met, degrees are posted 30 days after the official end of the term. Official dates are listed on the Academic Calendar.

DePaul holds one commencement ceremony each year in June. If you intend to participate, you must first apply for degree conferral for the current academic year and then submit a cap and gown order. Honors are not announced at the ceremony for undergraduates completing their final courses in spring quarter because a final GPA is not available at the time of the ceremony.

Additional information about degree conferral and graduation can be found on the College of Education website at: http://education.depaul.edu/.

Licensure

Requirements for licensure include completion of full bachelor’s degree program, all licensure tests (including OPI for world language majors), and awarding of bachelor’s degree. A bachelor’s degree is required to qualify. for licensure and must be awarded before applying for the license.

Individuals must submit an application directly to the Illinois State Board of Education after completion of requirements and after DePaul has submitted notification to ISBE. Application requirements include application form, application fee, official transcripts, and registration fee.

All individuals must meet ISBE requirements in place at the time of application for the license. Requirements are subject to change per the discretion of ISBE. All coursework and requirements pertaining to licensure requirements must be completed before DePaul University can recommend an individual for the license.

Individuals seeking additional endorsements after applying for the licensure must contact ISBE directly for an evaluation request.

All coursework and requirements must be completed before DePaul University can recommend an individual for the license.

Liberal Studies Requirements

Honors program requirements can be found in the individual Colleges & Schools section of the University Catalog. Select Academics, followed by Undergraduate, then Honors Program Alternative.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab or SWK requirement.
Major Requirements

Course Requirements

Content Area Courses

Biology Core: 28 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

- BIO 191 GENERAL BIOLOGY I FOR SCIENCE MAJORS
- BIO 192 GENERAL BIOLOGY II FOR SCIENCE MAJORS
- BIO 193 GENERAL BIOLOGY III FOR SCIENCE MAJORS
- BIO 215 ECOLOGY
- BIO 250 CELL BIOLOGY
- BIO 260 GENETICS
- BIO 309 PLANT PHYSIOLOGY
- or BIO 310 VERTEBRATE PHYSIOLOGY

Biology Electives: 12 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

Biology electives cannot include courses designated as scientific inquiry. A minimum of 2 lab courses are required.

- BIO elective course
- BIO elective course with lab
- BIO elective course with lab

Mathematics Core: 8 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

- Choose one of the following:
  - MAT 130 PRECALCULUS
  - MAT 147 CALCULUS WITH INTEGRATED PRECALCULUS I
  - MAT 150 CALCULUS I
  - MAT 160 CALCULUS FOR MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE MAJORS I
  - MAT 170 CALCULUS I WITH SCIENTIFIC APPLICATIONS
- Choose one of the following:
  - MAT 131 TRIGONOMETRY
  - MAT 148 CALCULUS WITH INTEGRATED PRECALCULUS II
  - MAT 151 CALCULUS II
  - MAT 161 CALCULUS FOR MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE MAJORS II
  - MAT 171 CALCULUS II WITH SCIENTIFIC APPLICATIONS

General Chemistry Core: 12 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

- CHE 130 GENERAL CHEMISTRY I (3 qh) and CHE 131 GENERAL CHEMISTRY I LABORATORY (1 qh)
- CHE 132 GENERAL CHEMISTRY II (3 qh) and CHE 133 GENERAL CHEMISTRY LABORATORY II (1 qh)
- CHE 134 GENERAL CHEMISTRY III (3 qh) and CHE 135 GENERAL CHEMISTRY LABORATORY III (1 qh)

Organic Chemistry or Physics Series Core: 12 quarter hours required, grade of C- or better required

- CHE 230 ORGANIC CHEMISTRY I and CHE 231 ORGANIC CHEMISTRY LABORATORY I or PHY 150 GENERAL PHYSICS I
- CHE 232 ORGANIC CHEMISTRY II and CHE 233 ORGANIC CHEMISTRY LABORATORY II
  or PHY 151 GENERAL PHYSICS II
- CHE 234 ORGANIC CHEMISTRY III and CHE 235 ORGANIC CHEMISTRY LABORATORY III or PHY 152 GENERAL PHYSICS III

Pre-Education Introductory Courses: 20 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

- SCU 207 SOCIAL AND HISTORICAL ISSUES IN EDUCATION
- SEC 364 METHODS: CURRICULUM AND INSTRUCTION IN SECONDARY SCHOOLS (4 credit hours)
Advanced Standing Education Courses: 28 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

- LSI 346 STRATEGIES FOR MAINSTREAMING AND INCLUSION
- SEC 325 LITERACY IN THE CONTENT AREAS
- SEC 374 TEACHING THE SCIENCES IN THE HIGH SCHOOL 1
- SEC 385 TEACHING THE SCIENCES IN THE HIGH SCHOOL 2
- SCU 351 DOING CRITICAL PRACTITIONER RESEARCH IN EDUCATION (Taken in conjunction with SEC 385)
- SEC 395 ASSESSMENT ISSUES IN SECONDARY EDUCATION
- BBE 301 TEACHING ADOLESCENT ENGLISH LANGUAGE LEARNERS AND DIALECT SPEAKERS ACROSS THE CURRICULUM

Student Teaching: 10 quarter hours required, grade of B- or better required

Registration in student teaching requires completion of all requirements and procedures in the college core section. EDU 95 indicates to the Illinois State Board of Education that all field experience hours are complete. All students also take SEC 387, Capstone Seminar with student teaching (listed in the Liberal Studies section).

- SEC 390 SECONDARY STUDENT TEACHING (10 credit hours)
- EDU 95 CLINICAL EXPERIENCE WITH CHILDREN AND YOUTH (non-credit, non-tuition, PA grade required)

Licensure Tests

All individuals licensed by the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) are required to complete licensure tests specific to their teaching license. Secondary Education Biology majors must complete the following tests:

- Test of Academic Proficiency (TAP) (test #400) - assesses knowledge of reading comprehension, language arts, writing, and math. Test is required to qualify for Advanced Standing. *Check with your advisor about qualifying for a waiver with acceptable ACT or SAT test scores.
- Science: Biology Content Area Test (test #105) – assesses knowledge of both biological science and physical science. Test is required before Student Teaching (deadlines apply)
- Assessment of Professional Teaching (APT) – assesses knowledge of teaching planning, delivery, assessment, professionalism, and technology. Test is required to be licensed; recommended to be taken before Student Teaching.
- EdTPA - assessment conducted during the student teaching experience including video clips of instruction, lesson plans, student work samples, analysis of student learning and reflective commentaries. Students will submit an electronic portfolio to an outside agency for independent evaluation and a fee will be imposed by that agency as part of the assessment.

Secondary Education Chemistry (BS)

The Bachelor of Science program in Secondary Education Chemistry prepares students to teach 6th through 12th grade in a variety of urban and suburban education settings, including public and private middle schools and high schools.

Students learn educational theories and effective teaching practices, participate in field experiences, which require observation and participation in teaching activities at multiple schools, and student teaching. Students should meet early and regularly with their advisor to design and monitor their program of study.
The program combines theoretical principles of education and field work with the student's choice of major. Students follow a general pattern of study for middle school and high school levels. In all cases, appropriate field experience plays an integral role.

Students entering the program must be able and willing to devote themselves to a program requiring a minimum of 100 hours of daytime field experiences in schools. These school-based clinical hours are completed in conjunction with methodology courses that require students to spend a half-day each week in a school. In addition, the student must spend a minimum of 11 weeks in full-time student teaching.

Please make sure you consult the Liberal Studies Requirements, Major Requirements, and College Core Requirements for full degree requirements.

NOTE: Secondary Education students now have the option to double major in Secondary Education and Chemistry. With the double major, students will graduate with a Bachelor of Arts or Bachelor of Science degree with a major in Secondary Education and a major in Chemistry. Students should declare Secondary Education as their primary major (see Secondary Education BA/BS for degree requirements) and Chemistry (see Chemistry BA or Chemistry BS for degree requirements) as their secondary major. If you have already begun the Secondary Education Chemistry major and want to switch to the Secondary Education Major and Chemistry double major, you should contact your academic advisor because the double major may require additional coursework. Students who pursue the Bachelor of Science degree with a major in Secondary Education Chemistry do not have the option to double major in Chemistry.

Licensure

Illinois Professional Educator License with endorsement in Secondary Education Science-Chemistry (grades 6-12), an Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) approved program.

Learning Outcomes

Core Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Demonstrate interpretive, normative, critical understanding of educational phenomenon and/or praxis through the use of the humanities, social sciences and psychological sciences within the disciplinary foundations of education (anthropology of education, history of education, philosophy of education, psychology of education and sociology of education).
- Demonstrate understanding of the human transformative dimensions of educational phenomenon and/or praxis at the level of the self and/or the social.
- Understand the dynamic nature of identity development and maintain the role of individual agency in bringing about personal and social transformation.
- Understand the multiple subjectivities and social relations of race, ethnicity, class, gender, and sexuality as they define a range of lived experiences and understand pedagogy as a project aimed at helping to realize the greatest range of possibilities for all youth irrespective of differences.

Program Specific Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Structure and interpret the central concepts and principles understood through:
  - Biology including molecular and cellular sciences, organisms and ecosystems.
  - Chemistry and physics, including matter, energy, force and motion.
  - Earth/space science; including the earth and the universe.
- Demonstrate in-depth knowledge of the concepts and principles understood through the science discipline of specialization (biology, chemistry, environmental science, physics).
- Understand the major unifying concepts of all sciences (systems, order, and organization; evidence, models, and explanation; constancy, change, and measurement; evolution and equilibrium; form and function.

- Relate these concepts to other disciplines, particularly mathematics and the social sciences.
- Define the values, beliefs and assumptions inherent to the creation of scientific knowledge within the scientific community.
  - Contrast science to other ways of knowing.
  - Understand the characteristics distinguishing basic science, applied science, and technology.
  - Understand the processes and conventions of science as a professional activity.
  - Understand the standards defining acceptable evidence and scientific explanation.
- Engage students effectively in science inquiry (e.g., questioning and formulating solvable problems; reflecting on, and constructing, knowledge from data; collaborating and exchanging information while seeking solutions; and developing concepts and relationships from empirical experience).
  - Facilitate understanding of the role inquiry plays in the development of scientific knowledge.
- Relate science to the daily lives and interests of students and to a larger framework of human endeavor and understanding (e.g., relationships among systems of human endeavor including science and technology; relationships among scientific, technological, personal, social and cultural values; and the relevance and importance of science to the personal lives of students).
- Understand the concepts, principles, and practices of technological design.
- Understand how children learn and develop, and provide learning opportunities that support their intellectual, social and personal development.
- Understand how students differ in their approaches to learning and create instructional opportunities that are adapted to diverse learners.
- Use an understanding of individual and group motivation and behavior to create a learning environment that encourages positive social interaction, active engagement in learning, and self-motivation.
- Plan instruction based upon knowledge of subject matter, students, the community, and curriculum goals.
- Create a community of diverse student learners who can construct meaning from science experiences and possess a disposition for further inquiry and learning.
  - Apply appropriate pedagogical skills to science teaching.
    - Use knowledge of effective verbal, nonverbal, and media communication techniques to foster inquiry, collaboration, and engagement in the classroom.
- Develop and apply a coherent, focused science curriculum (an extended framework of goals, plans, materials, and resources for instruction and the instructional context, both in and out of school, within which pedagogy is embedded) that is consistent with state and national standards for science education and appropriate for addressing the needs, abilities and interests of students.
- Relate science teaching and learning to the needs and values of the community; and use human and institutional resources in the community (i.e., social and community support network and involvement of people and institutions from the community) to advance the education of their students in science.
- Use a variety of contemporary assessment strategies to evaluate the intellectual, social, and personal development of the learner in all aspects of science (e.g., alignment of goals, instruction and outcomes; measurement and evaluation of student learning in a variety of dimensions and the use of outcome data to guide and change instruction).
- Design and manage safe and supportive learning environments (e.g., physical spaces within which learning of science occurs; psychological and social environment of the student engaged in learning science; treatment and ethical use of living organisms; and safety in all areas related to science instruction) that reflect high expectations for the success of all students.
- Implement appropriate assessment and instruction that supports students with disabilities in mainstream/inclusive settings.
- Learn about and use technology, as appropriate for the discipline.
- Understand and use technology to enhance his/her teaching.
- Know a broad range of literacy techniques and strategies for every aspect of communication and develop each student's ability to read, write, speak and listen to his or her potential within the demands of the discipline.
- Model effective reading, writing, speaking, and listening skills during both direct and indirect instructional activities.
- Provide a variety of instructional strategies, constructive feedback, criticism, and improvement strategies to help students improve oral and written language skills.
- Understand the process of reading and demonstrate instructional abilities to teach reading in the discipline (math, science, social science & visual arts).
- Undertake independent inquiry and use technology as one tool to assist him or her in the overall inquiry process.
- Foster relationships with school colleagues, parents, and agencies in the larger community to support students' learning and well-being.
- Be a reflective practitioner who continually evaluate the effects of his/her choices and actions on others (students, parents, and other professionals in the learning community) and who actively seeks out opportunities to grow professionally.
- Understand education as a profession, maintain standards of professional conduct, and provide leadership to improve student learning and well-being.
College Core Requirements

Dispositions

The academic programs within the College of Education have set forth these dispositions as educational and professional expectations for all students. Students should be aware that failing to abide by DePaul University or College of Education policies including, under certain circumstances, these dispositions, could result in adverse consequences for the student, including removal from his or her program, the College of Education, or the University.

The following dispositions apply to Early Childhood Education, Elementary Education, Physical Education, Secondary Education, and World Language Education majors only:

- Reflects on progress and identifies strengths and weaknesses, including evaluating strategies for success, finding alternatives for inappropriate strategies, and modifying future practices
- Is receptive to faculty feedback and acts meaningfully and professionally upon suggestions
- Values critical thinking, including engaging theoretical and philosophical frameworks and shows evidence of critical thinking through discussion and writing (e.g., journals, response to prompts)
- Understands the importance of and is committed to communicating clearly orally and in writing both in traditional and in new and emerging digital formats
- Values and is committed to continually developing strong content area knowledge and/or knowledge of the professional field, including pedagogical content knowledge
- Takes initiative, uses imagination and creativity, and seeks out information using a variety of human and material resources and technology to inform his or her teaching
- Is aware of the role of classroom environment and uses management procedures that reflect respect and care for learners and concern for their emotional and physical well being
- Takes the time and effort needed to understand how students learn, including discovering their interests and experiences and determining how to shape teaching acts (using technology as appropriate) that engage learners meaningfully and actively
- Values and is committed to using assessment to evaluate and ensure the continuous intellectual, social, emotional, and physical development of the learner
- Respects and considers cultural contexts in order to determine how to be responsive to learners and to proactively promote all students' learning
- Values and is responsive to diverse learners' academic, emotional, and social needs through teaching acts (including careful instructional planning, implementation, and differentiation) and through everyday interactions with students
- Is committed to collaboration with colleagues, families, and communities in order to promote all students' learning and development
- Recognizes and fulfills professional responsibilities and habits of conduct (e.g., dress, language, preparedness, attendance, punctuality, etc.)
- Demonstrates collegiality, honesty, good judgment, courtesy, respect, and diplomacy
- Balances self-confidence and assertiveness with respect for others' perspectives
- Respects the requirements, expectations, and procedures of both the College of Education and of our field partners and appreciates the issues of trust, fairness, and professionalism involved

The following dispositions apply to Special Education majors only:

- Is receptive to faculty feedback and acts meaningfully and professionally upon suggestions
- Reflects on his or her own progress, identifies strengths and weaknesses, and evaluates strategies for success and professional growth
- Takes initiative
- Is open to new ideas and engagement in learning
- Respects diversity and cultural contexts to determine how to be responsive to learners and to proactively promote all students' learning
- Expresses positive attitudes toward individuals with disabilities and a willingness to advocate on their behalf
- Is committed to collaboration with colleagues, families, and communities in order to promote all students' learning and development
- Demonstrates professional ethical and legal behavior as defined by the respective codes of ethics and laws
- Demonstrates consistent professional behavior across all academic settings
- Maintains appropriate interpersonal and professional boundaries
- Accepts personal responsibility for one's behavior
- Expresses feelings and opinions effectively and appropriately
- Upholds confidentiality
Skill Building Courses

Before taking any math or English courses, students must take the DePaul placement tests to determine if skill level is at the college level. If placement indicates skill level in these courses, the courses become part of degree requirements. Consult with your advisor regarding placement test results and any required classes.

Advanced Standing

Students are conditionally admitted to the College of Education. There are additional requirements to reach Advanced Standing in your program in the College of Education. Requirements must be met to progress in the major and take courses in the Advanced Standing category.

Advanced Standing requirements are:

- Maintain a DePaul undergraduate 2.5 GPA
- Pass the Illinois Test of Academic Proficiency (TAP)
- Submit a petition for advanced standing form

Students should attempt to complete the Advanced Standing requirements soon after beginning the program. There is no time limit to meet these criteria; however, students will only be able to take pre-education courses until requirements have been met. Students can also take liberal studies or content area courses before or after meeting Advanced Standing requirements.

Modern Language Competence Requirement

Students pursuing a Bachelor of Arts degree in the College of Education will be required to demonstrate a measure of competence in a modern language, as defined by the college. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing two years of a language sequence in high school
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

Please note: The Modern Language Competence Requirement is not required for students in the Early Childhood Education: SNL Joint Program (BAECE) program.

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Education will abide by the COE Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.

B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the “Modern Language Option” of the Liberal Studies Program. While B.S. students are not required to demonstrate competency in a modern language, the “Modern Language Option” is available to them for language study at any level.

Licensure Tests

All individuals licensed by the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) are required to complete licensure tests specific to their teaching license.

Field Experiences

Each student seeking licensure from the College of Education/Professional Education Unit must complete supervised field experiences in appropriate settings in conjunction with education courses. The field experiences must include a variety of grade levels, multicultural experiences, and a minimum of 10 hours in special education settings. All field experiences must be completed prior to final approval for student teaching. Field experience hours should be entered by the student into the FEDS system when completing courses with field experience requirements.

Endorsements
An endorsement is a subject area that you can qualify to teach full time, in addition to your main licensure area. Endorsements are issued at three levels: primary, middle school, and high school.

The Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) issues endorsements in various subject areas. To view the full list and requirements, visit the ISBE website.

Qualifying for an endorsement at the middle school level requires 18 semester hours (27 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area and complete SCU 339. Some areas (like math) have specifically required courses or require additional hours. Courses must have a grade of C or better to qualify for endorsements and must be earned credit listed on a college transcript as earned credit.

Consult with your advisor regarding endorsements. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following middle school areas: Arabic, art, bilingual education, biological science, Chinese, ESL, French, general science, German, Italian, Japanese, language arts, math, physical science, social science, Spanish, and special education.

In general, endorsement requirements for the primary level are identical to the middle school requirements except that they do not require SCU 339. There are a limited number of areas available at the primary level.

Qualifying for most endorsements at the high school level requires 24 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area* and passing the relevant content area test. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following high school areas: art, Arabic, Chinese, English, French, German, Italian, Japanese, math, Russian, science, social science, Spanish, and special education.

* Exceptions to the basic requirements for high school level endorsements include the subject areas of foreign language, science, and social science.

 For science and social science, 32 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in the broad area of either science or social science, and 12 semester hours in the specific endorsement designation area, plus the content area test are required. To qualify for additional science and social science designations, individuals applying after February 1, 2012 need both the content test and 12 semester hours in the additional designation area.

Special Education majors do not qualify for middle school endorsements.

Student Teaching Requirements

Student Teaching is the culminating clinical experience in the student's program. All students in teacher preparation programs must meet the following requirements before applying for student teaching:

Academic Requirements:

- Completion of all Liberal Studies, Pre-Education, Advanced Standing and concentration/content area courses
- Overall cumulative G.P.A. of 2.50 or better
- Cumulative GPA. of 2.75 or better in all education courses
- Meet all other program requirements (e.g., modern language and residency requirements)
- Meet designated program standards
- Pass the required Illinois licensure content area test

Clinical Requirements:

- Completion of all required field experiences
- Three satisfactory evaluations in field experiences
- Three satisfactory faculty recommendations
- Attendance at mandatory meeting for student teaching
- Application for student teaching, resume, transcripts, and writing sample (check deadlines)
- Review and approval by Student Teaching Committee of the College of Education

Student Teaching Timeline and Deadlines:

- Attend a Mandatory Meeting approximately 1 year prior to expected quarter of student teaching.
- Submit application for student teaching after attending Mandatory Meeting, approximately 1 year prior to student teaching.
- Academic requirements are due one quarter before expected quarter of student teaching.
- Clinical requirements are completed as course requirements. Field experience hours are entered by the student as coursework is completed.

Online Faculty Evaluations are entered by the instructor of relevant courses. All data must be entered in the Field Experience Documentation System (FEDS) due one month prior to student teaching.
Individual child care agencies and public and private school districts may have additional requirements (application, training, background check, etc.).

Degree Conferral and Graduation

The awarding of a degree is not automatic. You must submit an application to be considered for the degree. DePaul awards and posts degrees at the end of each regular academic term (autumn, winter, spring, summer I and summer II).

It is your responsibility to initiate the degree conferral application process by submitting an online application. Submitting an application means you intend to finish your degree requirements by the end of the term for which you have applied.

Undergraduate students must be approved for student teaching and complete student teaching and capstone to be cleared for the degree. Student must submit graduation application for the quarter that matches the quarter you are student teaching.

After you submit the application, you cannot register for any term after the one selected in the application.

Application deadlines are as follows:
- Fall Quarter - October 1st
- Winter Quarter - January 15th
- Spring Quarter - February 1st
- Summer Quarter - July 15th

To apply for degree conferral, log on to Campus Connection. Select STUDENT CENTER, then MY ACADEMICS. On screen instructions will take you through the application process.

Provided that all requirements and financial obligations are met, degrees are posted 30 days after the official end of the term. Official dates are listed on the Academic Calendar.

DePaul holds one commencement ceremony each year in June. If you intend to participate, you must first apply for degree conferral for the current academic year and then submit a cap and gown order. Honors are not announced at the ceremony for undergraduates completing their final courses in spring quarter because a final GPA is not available at the time of the ceremony.

Additional information about degree conferral and graduation can be found on the College of Education website at: http://education.depaul.edu/.

Licensure

Requirements for licensure include completion of full bachelor's degree program, all licensure tests (including OPI for world language majors), and awarding of bachelor's degree. A bachelor's degree is required to qualify for licensure and must be awarded before applying for the license.

Individuals must submit an application directly to the Illinois State Board of Education after completion of requirements and after DePaul has submitted notification to ISBE. Application requirements include application form, application fee, official transcripts, and registration fee.

All individuals must meet ISBE requirements in place at the time of application for the license. Requirements are subject to change per the discretion of ISBE. All coursework and requirements pertaining to licensure requirements must be completed before DePaul University can recommend an individual for the license.

Individuals seeking additional endorsements after applying for the licensure must contact ISBE directly for an evaluation request.

All coursework and requirements must be completed before DePaul University can recommend an individual for the license.

Content Area Courses

Chemistry Core: 40 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

- CHE 130 GENERAL CHEMISTRY I and CHE 131 GENERAL CHEMISTRY I LABORATORY
- CHE 132 GENERAL CHEMISTRY II and CHE 133 GENERAL CHEMISTRY LABORATORY II
- CHE 134 GENERAL CHEMISTRY III and CHE 135 GENERAL CHEMISTRY LABORATORY III
- CHE 230 ORGANIC CHEMISTRY I and CHE 231 ORGANIC CHEMISTRY LABORATORY I
- CHE 232 ORGANIC CHEMISTRY II and CHE 233 ORGANIC CHEMISTRY LABORATORY II
- CHE 202 APPLIED PROBABILITY AND STATISTICS
- CHE 204 ANALYTICAL CHEMISTRY and CHE 205 ANALYTICAL CHEMISTRY LABORATORY
- CHE 302 QUANTUM CHEMISTRY and CHE 303 EXPERIMENTAL PHYSICAL CHEMISTRY I
- CHE 304 THERMOCHEMISTRY and CHE 305 EXPERIMENTAL PHYSICAL CHEMISTRY II
- CHE 340 BIOCHEMISTRY I and CHE 341 EXPERIMENTAL BIOCHEMISTRY I
- CHE 394 SEMINAR

Mathematics Core: 12 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

- Choose one of the following:
  - MAT 147 CALCULUS WITH INTEGRATED PRECALCULUS I
  - MAT 150 CALCULUS I
  - MAT 160 CALCULUS FOR MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE MAJORS I
  - MAT 170 CALCULUS I WITH SCIENTIFIC APPLICATIONS
- Choose one of the following:
  - MAT 148 CALCULUS WITH INTEGRATED PRECALCULUS II
  - MAT 151 CALCULUS II
  - MAT 161 CALCULUS FOR MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE MAJORS II
  - MAT 171 CALCULUS II WITH SCIENTIFIC APPLICATIONS
- Choose one of the following:
Physics Core: 12 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

- PHY 170 UNIVERSITY PHYSICS I

- PHY 172 UNIVERSITY PHYSICS III

Pre-Education Introductory Courses: 20 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

- SCU 207 SOCIAL AND HISTORICAL ISSUES IN EDUCATION
- SEC 364 METHODS: CURRICULUM AND INSTRUCTION IN SECONDARY SCHOOLS (4 credit hours)
- SEC 314 THE NATURE OF SCIENCE
- SEC 324 INQUIRY & APPLICATION IN DEVELOPING SECONDARY SCIENCE PEDAGOGY
- SCU 336 ADOLESCENT AND ADULT GROWTH AND DEVELOPMENT
  or SCU 337 HUMAN GROWTH AND DEVELOPMENT

Advanced Standing Education Courses: 28 quarter hours required, grade of C or better required

- LSI 346 STRATEGIES FOR MAINSTREAMING AND INCLUSION
- SEC 325 LITERACY IN THE CONTENT AREAS
- SEC 374 TEACHING THE SCIENCES IN THE HIGH SCHOOL 1
- SEC 385 TEACHING THE SCIENCES IN THE HIGH SCHOOL 2
- SCU 351 DOING CRITICAL PRACTITIONER RESEARCH IN EDUCATION  (Taken in conjunction with SEC 385)
- BBE 301 TEACHING ADOLESCENT ENGLISH LANGUAGE LEARNERS AND DIALECT SPEAKERS ACROSS THE CURRICULUM
- SEC 395 ASSESSMENT ISSUES IN SECONDARY EDUCATION

Student Teaching: 10 quarter hours required, grade of B- or better required

Registration in student teaching requires completion of all requirements and procedures above. EDU 95 indicates to the Illinois State Board of Education that all field experience hours are complete. All students also take SEC 387, Capstone Seminar with student teaching (listed in the Liberal Studies section).

- SEC 390 SECONDARY STUDENT TEACHING (10 credit hours)
- EDU 95 CLINICAL EXPERIENCE WITH CHILDREN AND YOUTH (non-credit, non-tuition, PA grade required)

Licensure Tests

All individuals licensed by the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) are required to complete licensure tests specific to their teaching license. Secondary Education Chemistry majors must complete the following tests:

- Test of Academic Proficiency (test #400) - assesses knowledge of reading comprehension, language arts, writing, and math. Test is required to qualify for Advanced Standing. *Check with your advisor about qualifying for a waiver with acceptable ACT or SAT test scores.
- Science: Chemistry Content Area Test (test #106) – assesses knowledge of both geological and chemical science. Test is required before Student Teaching (deadlines apply)
- Assessment of Professional Teaching (APT) – assesses knowledge of teaching planning, delivery, assessment, professionalism, and technology. Test is required to be licensed; recommended to be taken before Student Teaching.
- EdTPA - assessment conducted during the student teaching experience including video clips of instruction, lesson plans, student work samples, analysis of student learning and reflective commentaries. Students will submit an electronic portfolio to an outside agency for independent evaluation and a fee will be imposed by that agency as part of the assessment.
Secondary Education English (BA)

The Bachelor of Arts program in Secondary Education English prepares students to teach 6th through 12th grade in a variety of urban and suburban education settings, including public and private middle schools and high schools.

Students learn educational theories and effective teaching practices, participate in field experiences, which require observation and participation in teaching activities at multiple schools, and student teaching. Students should meet early and regularly with their advisor to design and monitor their program of study.

The program combines theoretical principles of education and field work with the student's choice of major. Students follow a general pattern of study for middle school and high school levels. In all cases, appropriate field experience plays an integral role.

Students entering the program must be able and willing to devote themselves to a program requiring a minimum of 100 hours of daytime field experiences in schools. These school-based clinical hours are completed in conjunction with methodology courses that require students to spend a half-day each week in a school. In addition, the student must spend a minimum of 11 weeks in full-time student teaching.

Please make sure you consult the Liberal Studies Requirements, Major Requirements, and College Core Requirements for full degree requirements.

NOTE: Secondary Education students now have the option to double major in Secondary Education and English. With the double major, students will graduate with a Bachelor of Arts degree with a major in Secondary Education and a major in English. Students should declare Secondary Education as their primary major (see Secondary Education BA/BS for degree requirements) and English (see English BA for degree requirements) as their secondary major. If you have already begun the Secondary Education English major and want to switch to the Secondary Education Major and English double major, you should contact your academic advisor because the double major may require additional coursework. Students who pursue the Bachelor of Arts degree with a major in Secondary Education English do not have the option to double major in English.

Licensure

Illinois Professional Educator License with endorsement in Secondary Education English Language Arts (grades 6-12), an Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) approved program.

  - The range and influence of print and nonprint media and technology in contemporary culture.
- Demonstrate knowledge of an extensive range of literature.
- Demonstrate knowledge of research theory and findings in English language arts.
- Adopt and strengthen professional attitudes needed by English language arts teachers.
- Understand:
  - How children learn and develop, and provide learning opportunities that support their intellectual, social and personal development.
  - How students differ in their approaches to learning and create instructional opportunities that are adapted to diverse learners.
  - Individual and group motivation and behavior to create a learning environment that encourages positive social interaction, active engagement in learning, and self-motivation.
- Plan instruction based upon knowledge of subject matter, students, the community, and curriculum goals.
- Use a variety of instructional skills and strategies to encourage students' development of critical thinking, problem solving, and performance skills in the social sciences.
- Understand and use formal and informal assessment strategies to evaluate and ensure the continuous intellectual, social and physical development of the learner.
- Implement appropriate assessment and instruction that supports students with disabilities in mainstream/inclusive settings.
- Learn about and use technology, as appropriate to the discipline.
- Understand and use technology to enhance his/her teaching.
- Undertake independent inquiry and use technology as one tool to assist him or her in the overall inquiry process.
- Foster relationships with school colleagues, parents, and agencies in the larger community to support students' learning and well-being.
- Be a reflective practitioner who continually evaluates the effects of his/her choices and actions on others (students, parents, and other professionals in the learning community) and who actively seek out opportunities to grow professionally.
- Understand education as a profession, maintain standards of professional conduct, and provide leadership to improve student learning and well-being.

College Core Requirements

Dispositions

The academic programs within the College of Education have set forth these dispositions as educational and professional expectations for all students. Students should be aware that failing to abide by DePaul University or College of Education policies including, under certain circumstances, these dispositions, could result in adverse consequences for the student, including removal from his or her program, the College of Education, or the University.

The following dispositions apply to Early Childhood Education, Elementary Education, Physical Education, Secondary Education, and World Language Education majors only:

- Reflects on progress and identifies strengths and weaknesses, including evaluating strategies for success, finding alternatives for inappropriate strategies, and modifying future practices
- Is receptive to faculty feedback and acts meaningfully and professionally upon suggestions
Values critical thinking, including engaging theoretical and philosophical frameworks and shows evidence of critical thinking through discussion and writing (e.g., journals, response to prompts)
Understands the importance of and is committed to communicating clearly orally and in writing both in traditional and in new and emerging digital formats
Values and is committed to continually developing strong content area knowledge and/or knowledge of the professional field, including pedagogical content knowledge
Takes initiative, uses imagination and creativity, and seeks out information using a variety of human and material resources and technology to inform his or her teaching
Is aware of the role of classroom environment and uses management procedures that reflect respect and care for learners and concern for their emotional and physical well being
Takes the time and effort needed to understand how students learn, including discovering their interests and experiences and determining how to shape teaching acts (using technology as appropriate) that engage learners meaningfully and actively
Values and is committed to using assessment to evaluate and ensure the continuous intellectual, social, emotional, and physical development of the learner
Respects and considers cultural contexts in order to determine how to be responsive to learners and to proactively promote all students' learning
Values and is responsive to diverse learners' academic, emotional, and social needs through teaching acts (including careful instructional planning, implementation, and differentiation) and through everyday interactions with students
Is committed to collaboration with colleagues, families, and communities in order to promote all students' learning and development
Recognizes and fulfills professional responsibilities and habits of conduct (e.g., dress, language, preparedness, attendance, punctuality, etc.)
Demonstrates collegiality, honesty, good judgment, courtesy, respect, and diplomacy
Balances self-confidence and assertiveness with respect for others' perspectives
Respects the requirements, expectations, and procedures of both the College of Education and of our field partners and appreciates the issues of trust, fairness, and professionalism involved

The following dispositions apply to Special Education majors only:
- Is receptive to faculty feedback and acts meaningfully and professionally upon suggestions
- Reflects on his or her own progress, identifies strengths and weaknesses, and evaluates strategies for success and professional growth
- Takes initiative
- Is open to new ideas and engagement in learning
- Respects diversity and cultural contexts to determine how to be responsive to learners and to proactively promote all students’ learning
- Expresses positive attitudes toward individuals with disabilities and a willingness to advocate on their behalf
- Is committed to collaboration with colleagues, families, and communities in order to promote all students' learning and development
- Demonstrates professional ethical and legal behavior as defined by the respective codes of ethics and laws
- Demonstrates consistent professional behavior across all academic settings
- Maintains appropriate interpersonal and professional boundaries
- Accepts personal responsibility for one's behavior
- Expresses feelings and opinions effectively and appropriately
- Upholds confidentiality

Skill Building Courses

Before taking any math or English courses, students must take the DePaul placement tests to determine if skill level is at the college level. If placement indicates skill level in these courses, the courses become part of degree requirements. Consult with your advisor regarding placement test results and any required classes.

Advanced Standing

Students are conditionally admitted to the College of Education. There are additional requirements to reach Advanced Standing in your program in the College of Education. Requirements must be met to progress in the major and take courses in the Advanced Standing category.

Advanced Standing requirements are:
- Maintain a DePaul undergraduate 2.5 GPA
- Pass the Illinois Test of Academic Proficiency (TAP)
- Submit a petition for advanced standing form

Students should attempt to complete the Advanced Standing requirements soon after beginning the program. There is no time limit to meet these criteria; however, students will only be able to take pre-education courses until requirements have been met. Students can also take liberal studies or content area courses before or after meeting Advanced Standing requirements.
Modern Language Competence Requirement

Students pursuing a Bachelor of Arts degree in the College of Education will be required to demonstrate a measure of competence in a modern language, as defined by the college. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing two years of a language sequence in high school
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

Please note: The Modern Language Competence Requirement is not required for students in the Early Childhood Education: SNL Joint Program (BAECE) program.

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Education will abide by the COE Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.

B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the "Modern Language Option" of the Liberal Studies Program. While B.S. students are not required to demonstrate competency in a modern language, the "Modern Language Option" is available to them for language study at any level.

Licensure Tests

All individuals licensed by the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) are required to complete licensure tests specific to their teaching license.

Field Experiences

Each student seeking licensure from the College of Education/Professional Education Unit must complete supervised field experiences in appropriate settings in conjunction with education courses. The field experiences must include a variety of grade levels, multicultural experiences, and a minimum of 10 hours in special education settings. All field experiences must be completed prior to final approval for student teaching. Field experience hours should be entered by the student into the FEDS system when completing courses with field experience requirements.

Endorsements

An endorsement is a subject area that you can qualify to teach full time, in addition to your main licensure area. Endorsements are issued at three levels: primary, middle school, and high school.

The Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) issues endorsements in various subject areas. To view the full list and requirements, visit the ISBE website.

Qualifying for an endorsement at the middle school level requires 18 semester hours (27 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area and complete SCU 339. Some areas (like math) have specifically required courses or require additional hours. Courses must have a grade of C or better to qualify for endorsements and must be earned credit listed on a college transcript as earned credit.

Consult with your advisor regarding endorsements. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following middle school areas: Arabic, art, bilingual education, biological science, Chinese, ESL, French, general science, German, Italian, Japanese, language arts, math, physical science, social science, Spanish, and special education.

In general, endorsement requirements for the primary level are identical to the middle school requirements except that they do not require SCU 339. There are a limited number of areas available at the primary level.

Qualifying for most endorsements at the high school level requires 24 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area* and passing the relevant content area test. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following high school areas: art, Arabic, Chinese, English, French, German, Italian, Japanese, math, Russian, science, social science, Spanish, and special education.

* Exceptions to the basic requirements for high school level endorsements include the subject areas of foreign language, science, and social science.

 For science and social science, 32 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in the broad area of either science or social science, and 12 semester hours in the specific endorsement designation area, plus the content area test are required. To qualify for additional science and social science designations, individuals applying after February 1, 2012 need both the content test and 12 semester hours in the additional designation area.

Special Education majors do not qualify for middle school endorsements.

Student Teaching Requirements

Student Teaching is the culminating clinical experience in the student’s program. All students in teacher preparation programs must meet the following requirements before applying for student teaching:

Academic Requirements:
- Completion of all Liberal Studies, Pre-Education, Advanced Standing and concentration/content area courses
- Overall cumulative G.P.A. of 2.50 or better
- Cumulative GPA. of 2.75 or better in all education courses
- Meet all other program requirements (e.g., modern language and residency requirements)
- Meet designated program standards
- Pass the required Illinois licensure content area test

Clinical Requirements:
- Completion of all required field experiences
- Three satisfactory evaluations in field experiences
- Three satisfactory faculty recommendations
- Attendance at mandatory meeting for student teaching
- Application for student teaching, resume, transcripts, and writing sample (check deadlines)
- Review and approval by Student Teaching Committee of the College of Education

Student Teaching Timeline and Deadlines:
- Attend a Mandatory Meeting approximately 1 year prior to expected quarter of student teaching.
- Submit application for student teaching after attending Mandatory Meeting, approximately 1 year prior to student teaching.
- Academic requirements are due one quarter before expected quarter of student teaching.
- Clinical requirements are completed as course requirements. Field experience hours are entered by the student as coursework is completed.

Online Faculty Evaluations are entered by the instructor of relevant courses. All data must be entered in the Field Experience Documentation System (FEDS) due one month prior to student teaching.

Individual child care agencies and public and private school districts may have additional requirements (application, training, background check, etc.).

Degree Conferral and Graduation

The awarding of a degree is not automatic. You must submit an application to be considered for the degree. DePaul awards and posts degrees at the end of each regular academic term (autumn, winter, spring, summer I and summer II).

It is your responsibility to initiate the degree conferral application process by submitting an online application. Submitting an application means you intend to finish your degree requirements by the end of the term for which you have applied.

Undergraduate students must be approved for student teaching and complete student teaching and capstone to be cleared for the degree. Student must submit graduation application for the quarter that matches the quarter you are student teaching.

After you submit the application, you cannot register for any term after the one selected in the application.

Application deadlines are as follows:
To apply for degree conferral, log on to Campus Connection. Select STUDENT CENTER, then MY ACADEMICS. On screen instructions will take you through the application process.

Provided that all requirements and financial obligations are met, degrees are posted 30 days after the official end of the term. Official dates are listed on the Academic Calendar.

DePaul holds one commencement ceremony each year in June. If you intend to participate, you must first apply for degree conferral for the current academic year and then submit a cap and gown order. Honors are not announced at the ceremony for undergraduates completing their final courses in spring quarter because a final GPA is not available at the time of the ceremony.

Additional information about degree conferral and graduation can be found on the College of Education website at: http://education.depaul.edu/.

Licensure

Requirements for licensure include completion of full bachelor's degree program, all licensure tests (including OPI for world language majors), and awarding of bachelor's degree. A bachelor's degree is required to qualify for licensure and must be awarded before applying for the license.

Individuals must submit an application directly to the Illinois State Board of Education after completion of requirements and after DePaul has submitted notification to ISBE. Application requirements include application form, application fee, official transcripts, and registration fee.

All individuals must meet ISBE requirements in place at the time of application for the license. Requirements are subject to change per the discretion of ISBE. All coursework and requirements pertaining to licensure requirements must be completed before DePaul University can recommend an individual for the license.

Individuals seeking additional endorsements after applying for the licensure must contact ISBE directly for an evaluation request.

All coursework and requirements must be completed before DePaul University can recommend an individual for the license.

Notes
Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student’s major and is cross-listed with a course within the student’s major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab or SWK requirement.

- Demonstrate interpretive, normative, critical understanding of educational phenomenon and/or praxis through the use of the humanities, social sciences and psychological sciences within the disciplinary foundations of education (anthropology of education, history of education, philosophy of education, psychology of education and sociology of education).
- Demonstrate understanding of the human transformative dimensions of educational phenomenon and/or praxis at the level of the self and/or the social.
- Understand the dynamic nature of identity development and maintain the role of individual agency in bringing about personal and social transformation.
- Understand the multiple subjectivities and social relations of race, ethnicity, class, gender, and sexuality as they define a range of lived experiences and understand pedagogy as a project aimed at helping to realize the greatest range of possibilities for all youth irrespective of differences.

Program Specific Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Structure and interpret the central concepts and principles understood through:
  - Biology including molecular and cellular sciences, organisms and ecosystems.
  - Chemistry and physics, including matter, energy, force and motion.
  - Earth/space science; including the earth and the universe.

- Demonstrate in-depth knowledge of the concepts and principles understood through the science discipline of specialization (biology, chemistry, environmental science, physics).

- Understand the major unifying concepts of all sciences (systems, order, and organization; evidence, models, and explanation; constancy, change, and measurement; evolution and equilibrium; form and function).
  - Relate these concepts to other disciplines, particularly mathematics and the social sciences.

- Define the values, beliefs and assumptions inherent to the creation of scientific knowledge within the scientific community.
  - Contrast science to other ways of knowing.
  - Understand the processes and conventions of science as a professional activity.
  - Understand the standards defining acceptable evidence and scientific explanation.

- Engage students effectively in science inquiry (e.g., questioning and formulating solvable problems; reflecting on, and constructing, knowledge from data; collaborating and exchanging information while seeking solutions; and developing concepts and relationships from empirical experience).
  - Facilitate understanding of the role inquiry plays in the development of scientific knowledge.

- Relate science to the daily lives and interests of students and to a larger framework of human endeavor and understanding (e.g., relationships among systems of human endeavor including science and technology; relationships among scientific, technological, personal, social and cultural values; and the relevance and importance of science to the personal lives of students).

- Understand the concepts, principles, and practices of technological design.

- Understand how children learn and develop, and provide learning opportunities that support their intellectual, social and personal development.

- Understand how students differ in their approaches to learning and create instructional opportunities that are adapted to diverse learners.

- Use an understanding of individual and group motivation and behavior to create a learning environment that encourages positive social interaction, active engagement in learning, and self-motivation.

- Plan instruction based upon knowledge of subject matter, students, the community, and curriculum goals.

- Create a community of diverse student learners who can construct meaning from science experiences and possess a disposition for further inquiry and learning.
  - Apply appropriate pedagogical skills to science teaching.
    - Use knowledge of effective verbal, nonverbal, and media communication techniques to foster inquiry, collaboration, and engagement in the classroom.

- Develop and apply a coherent, focused science curriculum (an extended framework of goals, plans, materials, and resources for instruction and the instructional context, both in and out of school, within which pedagogy is embedded) that is consistent with state and national standards for science education and appropriate for addressing the needs, abilities and interests of students.

- Relate science teaching and learning to the needs and values of the community; and use human and institutional resources in the community (i.e., social and community support network and involvement of people and institutions from the community) to advance the education of their students in science.

- Use a variety of contemporary assessment strategies to evaluate the intellectual, social, and personal development of the learner in all aspects of science (e.g., alignment of goals, instruction and outcomes; measurement and evaluation of student learning in a variety of dimensions and the use of outcome data to guide and change instruction).

- Design and manage safe and supportive learning environments (e.g., physical spaces within which learning of science occurs; psychological and social environment of the student engaged in learning science; treatment and ethical use of living organisms; and safety in all areas related to science instruction) that reflect high expectations for the success of all students.

- Implement appropriate assessment and instruction that supports students with disabilities in mainstream/inclusive settings.

- Learn about and use technology, as appropriate for the discipline.

- Understand and use technology to enhance his/her teaching.

- Know a broad range of literacy techniques and strategies for every aspect of communication and develop each student's ability to read, write, speak and listen to his or her potential within the demands of the discipline.

- Model effective reading, writing, speaking, and listening skills during both direct and indirect instructional activities.

- Provide a variety of instructional strategies, constructive feedback, criticism, and improvement strategies to help students improve oral and written language skills.
• Understand the process of reading and demonstrate instructional abilities to teach reading in the discipline (math, science, social science & visual arts).

• Undertake independent inquiry and use technology as one tool to assist him or her in the overall inquiry process.

• Foster relationships with school colleagues, parents, and agencies in the larger community to support students' learning and well-being.

• Be a reflective practitioner who continually evaluate the effects of his/her choices and actions on others (students, parents, and other professionals in the learning community) and who actively seeks out opportunities to grow professionally.

• Understand education as a profession, maintain standards of professional conduct, and provide leadership to improve student learning and well-being.

College Core Requirements

Dispositions

The academic programs within the College of Education have set forth these dispositions as educational and professional expectations for all students. Students should be aware that failing to abide by DePaul University or College of Education policies including, under certain circumstances, these dispositions, could result in adverse consequences for the student, including removal from his or her program, the College of Education, or the University.

The following dispositions apply to Early Childhood Education, Elementary Education, Physical Education, Secondary Education, and World Language Education majors only:

• Reflects on progress and identifies strengths and weaknesses, including evaluating strategies for success, finding alternatives for inappropriate strategies, and modifying future practices

• Is receptive to faculty feedback and acts meaningfully and professionally upon suggestions

• Values critical thinking, including engaging theoretical and philosophical frameworks and shows evidence of critical thinking through discussion and writing (e.g., journals, response to prompts)

• Understands the importance of and is committed to communicating clearly orally and in writing both in traditional and in new and emerging digital formats

• Values and is committed to continually developing strong content area knowledge and/or knowledge of the professional field, including pedagogical content knowledge

• Takes initiative, uses imagination and creativity, and seeks out information using a variety of human and material resources and technology to inform his or her teaching

• Is aware of the role of classroom environment and uses management procedures that reflect respect and care for learners and concern for their emotional and physical well being

• Takes the time and effort needed to understand how students learn, including discovering their interests and experiences and determining how to shape teaching acts (using technology as appropriate) that engage learners meaningfully and actively

• Values and is committed to using assessment to evaluate and ensure the continuous intellectual, social, emotional, and physical development of the learner

• Respects and considers cultural contexts in order to determine how to be responsive to learners and to proactively promote all students' learning

• Values and is responsive to diverse learners' academic, emotional, and social needs through teaching acts (including careful instructional planning, implementation, and differentiation) and through everyday interactions with students

• Is committed to collaboration with colleagues, families, and communities in order to promote all students' learning and development

• Recognizes and fulfills professional responsibilities and habits of conduct (e.g., dress, language, preparedness, attendance, punctuality, etc.)

• Demonstrates collegiality, honesty, good judgment, courtesy, respect, and diplomacy

• Balances self-confidence and assertiveness with respect for others' perspectives

• Respects the requirements, expectations, and procedures of both the College of Education and of our field partners and appreciates the issues of trust, fairness, and professionalism involved

The following dispositions apply to Special Education majors only:

• Is receptive to faculty feedback and acts meaningfully and professionally upon suggestions

• Reflects on his or her own progress, identifies strengths and weaknesses, and evaluates strategies for success and professional growth
Takes initiative
Is open to new ideas and engagement in learning
Respects diversity and cultural contexts to determine how to be responsive to learners and to proactively promote all students' learning
Expresses positive attitudes toward individuals with disabilities and a willingness to advocate on their behalf
Is committed to collaboration with colleagues, families, and communities in order to promote all students' learning and development
Demonstrates professional ethical and legal behavior as defined by the respective codes of ethics and laws
Demonstrates consistent professional behavior across all academic settings
Maintains appropriate interpersonal and professional boundaries
Accepts personal responsibility for one's behavior
Expresses feelings and opinions effectively and appropriately
Upholds confidentiality

Skill Building Courses

Before taking any math or English courses, students must take the DePaul placement tests to determine if skill level is at the college level. If placement indicates skill level in these courses, the courses become part of degree requirements. Consult with your advisor regarding placement test results and any required classes.

Advanced Standing

Students are conditionally admitted to the College of Education. There are additional requirements to reach Advanced Standing in your program in the College of Education. Requirements must be met to progress in the major and take courses in the Advanced Standing category.

Advanced Standing requirements are:

- Maintain a DePaul undergraduate 2.5 GPA
- Pass the Illinois Test of Academic Proficiency (TAP)
- Submit a petition for advanced standing form

Students should attempt to complete the Advanced Standing requirements soon after beginning the program. There is no time limit to meet these criteria; however, students will only be able to take pre-education courses until requirements have been met. Students can also take liberal studies or content area courses before or after meeting Advanced Standing requirements.

Modern Language Competence Requirement

Students pursuing a Bachelor of Arts degree in the College of Education will be required to demonstrate a measure of competence in a modern language, as defined by the college. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing two years of a language sequence in high school
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
- completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

Please note: The Modern Language Competence Requirement is not required for students in the Early Childhood Education: SNL Joint Program (BAECE) program.

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Education will abide by the COE Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.

B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the “Modern Language Option” of the Liberal Studies Program. While B.S. students are not required to demonstrate competency in a modern language, the "Modern Language Option" is available to them for language study at any level.

Licensure Tests
All individuals licensed by the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) are required to complete licensure tests specific to their teaching license.

Field Experiences

Each student seeking licensure from the College of Education/Professional Education Unit must complete supervised field experiences in appropriate settings in conjunction with education courses. The field experiences must include a variety of grade levels, multicultural experiences, and a minimum of 10 hours in special education settings. All field experiences must be completed prior to final approval for student teaching. Field experience hours should be entered by the student into the FEDS system when completing courses with field experience requirements.

Endorsements

An endorsement is a subject area that you can qualify to teach full time, in addition to your main licensure area. Endorsements are issued at three levels: primary, middle school, and high school.

The Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) issues endorsements in various subject areas. To view the full list and requirements, visit the ISBE website.

Qualifying for an endorsement at the middle school level requires 18 semester hours (27 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area and complete SCU 339. Some areas (like math) have specifically required courses or require additional hours. Courses must have a grade of C or better to qualify for endorsements and must be earned credit listed on a college transcript as earned credit.

Consult with your advisor regarding endorsements. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following middle school areas: Arabic, art, bilingual education, biological science, Chinese, ESL, French, general science, German, Italian, Japanese, language arts, math, physical science, social science, Spanish, and special education.

In general, endorsement requirements for the primary level are identical to the middle school requirements except that they do not require SCU 339. There are a limited number of areas available at the primary level.

Qualifying for most endorsements at the high school level requires 24 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area* and passing the relevant content area test. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following high school areas: art, Arabic, Chinese, English, French, German, Italian, Japanese, math, Russian, science, social science, Spanish, and special education.

* Exceptions to the basic requirements for high school level endorsements include the subject areas of foreign language, science, and social science.

 For science and social science, 32 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in the broad area of either science or social science, and 12 semester hours in the specific endorsement designation area, plus the content area test are required. To qualify for additional science and social science designations, individuals applying after February 1, 2012 need both the content test and 12 semester hours in the additional designation area.

Special Education majors do not qualify for middle school endorsements.

Student Teaching Requirements

Student Teaching is the culminating clinical experience in the student's program. All students in teacher preparation programs must meet the following requirements before applying for student teaching:

Academic Requirements:

- Completion of all Liberal Studies, Pre-Education, Advanced Standing and concentration/content area courses
- Overall cumulative G.P.A. of 2.50 or better
- Cumulative GPA. of 2.75 or better in all education courses
- Meet all other program requirements (e.g., modern language and residency requirements)
- Meet designated program standards
- Pass the required Illinois licensure content area test

Clinical Requirements:

- Completion of all required field experiences
- Three satisfactory evaluations in field experiences
- Three satisfactory faculty recommendations
- Attendance at mandatory meeting for student teaching
• Application for student teaching, resume, transcripts, and writing sample (check deadlines)
• Review and approval by Student Teaching Committee of the College of Education

Student Teaching Timeline and Deadlines:

• Attend a Mandatory Meeting approximately 1 year prior to expected quarter of student teaching.
• Submit application for student teaching after attending Mandatory Meeting, approximately 1 year prior to student teaching.
• Academic requirements are due one quarter before expected quarter of student teaching.
• Clinical requirements are completed as course requirements. Field experience hours are entered by the student as coursework is completed.

Online Faculty Evaluations are entered by the instructor of relevant courses. All data must be entered in the Field Experience Documentation System (FEDS) due one month prior to student teaching.

Individual child care agencies and public and private school districts may have additional requirements (application, training, background check, etc.).

Degree Conferral and Graduation

The awarding of a degree is not automatic. You must submit an application to be considered for the degree. DePaul awards and posts degrees at the end of each regular academic term (autumn, winter, spring, summer I and summer II).

It is your responsibility to initiate the degree conferral application process by submitting an online application. Submitting an application means you intend to finish your degree requirements by the end of the term for which you have applied.

Undergraduate students must be approved for student teaching and complete student teaching and capstone to be cleared for the degree. Student must submit graduation application for the quarter that matches the quarter you are student teaching.

After you submit the application, you cannot register for any term after the one selected in the application.

Application deadlines are as follows:
Fall Quarter - October 1st
Winter Quarter - January 15th
Spring Quarter - February 1st
Summer Quarter - July 15th

To apply for degree conferral, log on to Campus Connection. Select STUDENT CENTER, then MY ACADEMICS. On screen instructions will take you through the application process.

Provided that all requirements and financial obligations are met, degrees are posted 30 days after the official end of the term. Official dates are listed on the Academic Calendar.

DePaul holds one commencement ceremony each year in June. If you intend to participate, you must first apply for degree conferral for the current academic year and then submit a cap and gown order. Honors are not announced at the ceremony for undergraduates completing their final courses in spring quarter because a final GPA is not available at the time of the ceremony.

Additional information about degree conferral and graduation can be found on the College of Education website at: http://education.depaul.edu/.

Licensure

Requirements for licensure include completion of full bachelor's degree program, all licensure tests (including OPI for world language majors), and awarding of bachelor's degree. A bachelor's degree is required to qualify for licensure and must be awarded before applying for the license.

Individuals must submit an application directly to the Illinois State Board of Education after completion of requirements and after DePaul has submitted notification to ISBE. Application requirements include application form, application fee, official transcripts, and registration fee.

All individuals must meet ISBE requirements in place at the time of application for the license. Requirements are subject to change per the discretion of ISBE. All coursework and requirements pertaining to licensure requirements must be completed before DePaul University can recommend an individual for the license.
Individuals seeking additional endorsements after applying for the licensure must contact ISBE directly for an evaluation request.

All coursework and requirements must be completed before DePaul University can recommend an individual for the license.

Liberal Studies Requirements

Honors program requirements can be found in the individual Colleges & Schools section of the University Catalog. Select Academics, followed by Undergraduate, then Honors Program Alternative.

Notes

Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the student's major and is cross-listed with a course within the student's major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.

Student Teaching: 10 quarter hours required, grade of B- or better required

Registration in student teaching requires completion of all requirements and procedures indicated in the college core section. EDU 95 indicates to the Illinois State Board of Education that all field experience hours are complete. All students also take SEC 387, Capstone Seminar with student teaching (listed in the Liberal Studies section).

- SEC 390 SECONDARY STUDENT TEACHING (10 credit hours)
- EDU 95 CLINICAL EXPERIENCE WITH CHILDREN AND YOUTH (non-credit, non-tuition, PA grade required)
Licensure Tests

All individuals licensed by the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) are required to complete licensure tests specific to their teaching license. Secondary Education Environmental Science majors must complete the following tests:

- Test of Academic Proficiency (TAP) (test #400) - assesses knowledge of reading comprehension, language arts, writing, and math. Test is required to qualify for Advanced Standing. Check with your advisor about qualifying for a waiver with acceptable ACT or SAT test scores.
- Science: Environmental Science Content Area Test (test #112) – assesses knowledge of life science, physical science, and the living environment. Test is required before Student Teaching (deadlines apply).
- Assessment of Professional Teaching (APT) – assesses knowledge of teaching planning, delivery, assessment, professionalism, and technology. Test is required to be licensed; recommended to be taken before Student Teaching.
- EdTPA - assessment conducted during the student teaching experience including video clips of instruction, lesson plans, student work samples, analysis of student learning and reflective commentaries. Students will submit an electronic portfolio to an outside agency for independent evaluation and a fee will be imposed by that agency as part of the assessment.

Secondary Education History (BA)

The Bachelor of Arts program in Secondary Education History prepares students to teach 6th through 12th grade in a variety of urban and suburban education settings, including public and private middle schools and high schools.

Students learn educational theories and effective teaching practices, participate in field experiences, which require observation and participation in teaching activities at multiple schools, and student teaching. Students should meet early and regularly with their advisor to design and monitor their program of study.

The program combines theoretical principles of education and field work with the student's choice of major. Students follow a general pattern of study for middle school and high school levels. In all cases, appropriate field experience plays an integral role.

Students entering the program must be able and willing to devote themselves to a program requiring a minimum of 100 hours of daytime field experiences in schools. These school-based clinical hours are completed in conjunction with methodology courses that require students to spend a half-day each week in a school. In addition, the student must spend a minimum of 11 weeks in full-time student teaching.

Please make sure you consult the Liberal Studies Requirements, Major Requirements, and College Core Requirements for full degree requirements.

NOTE: Secondary Education students now have the option to double major in Secondary Education and History. With the double major, students will graduate with a Bachelor of Arts degree with a major in Secondary Education and a major in History. Students should declare Secondary Education as their primary major (see Secondary Education BA/BS for degree requirements) and History (see History BA for degree requirements) as their secondary major. If you have already begun the Secondary Education History major and want to switch to the Secondary Education Major and History double major, you should contact your academic advisor because the double major may require additional coursework. Students who pursue the Bachelor of Arts degree with a major in Secondary Education History do not have the option to double major in History.

Licensure

Illinois Professional Educator License with endorsement in Secondary Education Social Science-History (grades 6-12), an Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) approved program.

Program Specific Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Demonstrate the knowledge, capabilities, and dispositions to organize and provide instruction at the appropriate school level for the study of:
  - Culture and cultural diversity.
  - Time, continuity, and change, including Illinois history.
  - People, places, and environment, including Illinois geography.
  - Individual development and identity.
  - Individuals, groups, and institutions.
  - Power, authority and governance, including Illinois government.
  - Production, distribution, and consumption, including Illinois economics.
  - Science, technology and society.
  - Global connections.
  - Civic ideals and practices, including Illinois civics.
  - The major (history or geography) including Illinois history or geography.
- Understand:
  - How children learn and develop, and provide learning opportunities that support their intellectual, social and personal development.
  - How students differ in their approaches to learning and create instructional opportunities that are adapted to diverse learners.
  - Individual and group motivation and behavior to create a learning environment that encourages positive social interaction, active engagement in learning, and self-motivation.
- Plan instruction based upon knowledge of subject matter, students, the community, and curriculum goals.
- Use a variety of instructional skills and strategies to encourage students’ development of critical thinking, problem solving, and performance skills in the social sciences.
- Use knowledge of effective verbal, nonverbal, and media communication techniques to foster inquiry, collaboration, and engagement in the classroom.
- Understand and use formal and informal assessment strategies to evaluate and ensure the continuous intellectual, social and physical development of the learner.
- Implement appropriate assessment and instruction that supports students with disabilities in mainstream/inclusive settings.
- Learn about and to use technology, as appropriate to the discipline.
- Understand and use technology to enhance his/her teaching.

Skill Building Courses

Before taking any math or English courses, students must take the DePaul placement tests to determine if skill level is at the college level. If placement indicates skill level in these courses, the courses become part of degree requirements. Consult with your advisor regarding placement test results and any required classes.

Advanced Standing

Students are conditionally admitted to the College of Education. There are additional requirements to reach Advanced Standing in your program in the College of Education. Requirements must be met to progress in the major and take courses in the Advanced Standing category.

Advanced Standing requirements are:

• Maintain a DePaul undergraduate 2.5 GPA
• Pass the Illinois Test of Academic Proficiency (TAP)
• Submit a petition for advanced standing form

Students should attempt to complete the Advanced Standing requirements soon after beginning the program. There is no time limit to meet these criteria; however, students will only be able to take pre-education courses until requirements have been met. Students can also take liberal studies or content area courses before or after meeting Advanced Standing requirements.

Modern Language Competence Requirement

Students pursuing a Bachelor of Arts degree in the College of Education will be required to demonstrate a measure of competence in a modern language, as defined by the college. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

• completing two years of a language sequence in high school
• completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language
• completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
• achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
• achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
• achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language
• achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
• achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination

Please note: The Modern Language Competence Requirement is not required for students in the Early Childhood Education: SNL Joint Program (BAECE) program.

For further information regarding satisfactory scores and possible credit from the DePaul placement, AP, CLEP, or IB examinations, please contact Student Records.

Students who complete an Inter-College Transfer (ICT) to the College of Education will abide by the COE Modern Language Requirement in place on the effective date of the ICT.

B.A. students who meet College requirements and wish to pursue further work in the language may elect the “Modern Language Option” of the Liberal Studies Program. While B.S. students are not required to demonstrate competency in a modern language, the “Modern Language Option” is available to them for language study at any level.

Licensure Tests

All individuals licensed by the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) are required to complete licensure tests specific to their teaching license.

Field Experiences

Each student seeking licensure from the College of Education/Professional Education Unit must complete supervised field experiences in appropriate settings in conjunction with education courses. The field experiences must include a variety of grade levels, multicultural experiences, and a minimum of 10 hours in special education settings. All field experiences must be completed prior to final approval for student teaching. Field experience hours should be entered by the student into the FEDS system when completing courses with field experience requirements.

Endorsements

An endorsement is a subject area that you can qualify to teach full time, in addition to your main licensure area. Endorsements are issued at three levels: primary, middle school, and high school.

The Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) issues endorsements in various subject areas. To view the full list and requirements, visit the ISBE website.

Qualifying for an endorsement at the middle school level requires 18 semester hours (27 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area and complete SCU 339. Some areas (like math) have specifically required courses or require additional hours. Courses must have a grade of C or better to qualify for endorsements and must be earned credit listed on a college transcript as earned credit.

Consult with your advisor regarding endorsements. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following middle school areas: Arabic, art, bilingual education, biological science, Chinese, ESL, French, general science, German, Italian, Japanese, language arts, math, physical science, social science, Spanish, and special education.

In general, endorsement requirements for the primary level are identical to the middle school requirements except that they do not require SCU 339. There are a limited number of areas available at the primary level.

Qualifying for most endorsements at the high school level requires 24 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in a teachable subject area* and passing the relevant content area test. DePaul will only recommend individuals for endorsements in the following high school areas: art, Arabic, Chinese, English, French, German, Italian, Japanese, math, Russian, science, social science, Spanish, and special education.

* Exceptions to the basic requirements for high school level endorsements include the subject areas of foreign language, science, and social science.

 For science and social science, 32 semester hours (48 quarter hours) in the broad area of either science or social science, and 12 semester hours in the specific endorsement designation area, plus the content area test are required. To qualify for additional science and social science designations, individuals applying after February 1, 2012 need both the content test and 12 semester hours in the additional designation area.

Special Education majors do not qualify for middle school endorsements.

Student Teaching Requirements

Student Teaching is the culminating clinical experience in the student's program. All students in teacher preparation programs must meet the following requirements before applying for student teaching:

Academic Requirements:

- Completion of all Liberal Studies, Pre-Education, Advanced Standing and concentration/content area courses
- Overall cumulative G.P.A. of 2.50 or better
- Cumulative GPA of 2.75 or better in all education courses
- Meet all other program requirements (e.g., modern language and residency requirements)
- Meet designated program standards
- Pass the required Illinois licensure content area test

Clinical Requirements:

- Completion of all required field experiences
- Three satisfactory evaluations in field experiences
- Three satisfactory faculty recommendations
- Attendance at mandatory meeting for student teaching
- Application for student teaching, resume, transcripts, and writing sample (check deadlines)
Review and approval by Student Teaching Committee of the College of Education

Student Teaching Timeline and Deadlines:

- Attend a Mandatory Meeting approximately 1 year prior to expected quarter of student teaching.
- Submit application for student teaching after attending Mandatory Meeting, approximately 1 year prior to student teaching.
- Academic requirements are due one quarter before expected quarter of student teaching.
- Clinical requirements are completed as course requirements. Field experience hours are entered by the student as coursework is completed.

Online Faculty Evaluations are entered by the instructor of relevant courses. All data must be entered in the Field Experience Documentation System (FEDS) due one month prior to student teaching.

Individual child care agencies and public and private school districts may have additional requirements (application, training, background check, etc.).

Degree Conferral and Graduation

The awarding of a degree is not automatic. You must submit an application to be considered for the degree. DePaul awards and posts degrees at the end of each regular academic term (autumn, winter, spring, summer I and summer II).

It is your responsibility to initiate the degree conferral application process by submitting an online application. Submitting an application means you intend to finish your degree requirements by the end of the term for which you have applied.

Undergraduate students must be approved for student teaching and complete student teaching and capstone to be cleared for the degree. Student must submit graduation application for the quarter that matches the quarter you are student teaching.

After you submit the application, you cannot register for any term after the one selected in the application.

Application deadlines are as follows:
- Fall Quarter - October 1st
- Winter Quarter - January 15th
- Spring Quarter - February 1st
- Summer Quarter - July 15th

To apply for degree conferral, log on to Campus Connection. Select STUDENT CENTER, then MY ACADEMICS. On screen instructions will take you through the application process.

Provided that all requirements and financial obligations are met, degrees are posted 30 days after the official end of the term. Official dates are listed on the Academic Calendar.

DePaul holds one commencement ceremony each year in June. If you intend to participate, you must first apply for degree conferral for the current academic year and then submit a cap and gown order. Honors are not announced at the ceremony for undergraduates completing their final courses in spring quarter because a final GPA is not available at the time of the ceremony.

Additional information about degree conferral and graduation can be found on the College of Education website at: http://education.depaul.edu/.

Licensure

Requirements for licensure include completion of full bachelor's degree program, all licensure tests (including OPI for world language majors), and awarding of bachelor's degree. A bachelor's degree is required to qualify for licensure and must be awarded before applying for the license.

Individuals must submit an application directly to the Illinois State Board of Education after completion of requirements and after DePaul has submitted notification to ISBE. Application requirements include application form, application fee, official transcripts, and registration fee.

All individuals must meet ISBE requirements in place at the time of application for the license. Requirements are subject to change per the discretion of ISBE. All coursework and requirements pertaining to licensure requirements must be completed before DePaul University can recommend an individual for the license.

Individuals seeking additional endorsements after applying for the licensure must contact ISBE directly for an evaluation request.
All coursework and requirements must be completed before DePaul University can recommend an individual for the license.

Liberal Studies Requirements

Honors program requirements can be found in the individual Colleges & Schools section of the University Catalog. Select Academics, followed by Undergraduate, then Honors Program Alternative.
